U.N. Group Says Spain 'Potential Menace' To International Peace

URGES ACTION TO FORCE END OF FRANCO RULE

Finds Activities of Regime Might Easily Become Threat to Security

New York, June 1—(AP)—The United Nations subcommittee on Spain today declared that the Franco regime was a "potential menace to international peace" and recommended a world-wide diplomatic break NIGHT unless the Falangist Government is ousted by September.

The subcommittee, which has had the question under investigation for the past month, said that the Franco Government was not "at present a threat to peace," but added that its activities were such that they might easily become a threat.

It recommended that the Security Council transfer the case to the 51-nation General Assembly, which meets in New York September 3, with a suggestion that the Assembly call upon all members of the United Nations to sever relations with Spain unless the Franco regime "is withdrawn."

The report also recommended that the Security Council endorse the March 4 anti-Franco declaration of the United States, Great Britain and France, which called upon the Spanish people to oust Generalissimo Francisco Franco by peaceful means and set up a "caretaker" government to rule until free elections could be held.

The next meeting of the Security Council is scheduled for 3 P. M. (Eastern Daylight Time) June 6.

Unanimous Report

The five members of the subcommittee were unanimous in their approval of the report except for reservations by Poland and Brazil.

Poland took exception to the finding that Franco was not at present a threat to peace and that the Security Council, as a result, had no jurisdiction to direct, in this case, severance of diplomatic relations. The case was raised originally by Polish Delegate Oscar Lange.

Brazilian Delegate Pedro Leao Velloso reserved his position on the recommendation that the case be referred to the General Assembly with recommendations that the Assembly call on its member nations for a break with Franco.

The report declared in its conclusions:

"Although the activities of the Franco regime do not at present constitute an existing threat to the peace within the meaning of Article 39 of the charter and therefore the Security Council has no jurisdiction to direct or to authorize enforcemen of measures under Article 40 or 42 (sanctions), nevertheless such activities do constitute a situation which is a potential menace to international peace and security and which therefore is a situation likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security within the meaning of Article 34 of the charter."

Favors Council Action

Then after recommending that the case be deferred to the General Assembly, the sub-committee proposed that the United Nations invite Spain to become a member of the organization when and if Franco is ousted and all other suggested conditions of freedom are met satisfactorily.

These conditions included release of political prisoners, return of exiled Spaniards, freedom of political assembly and free public election.

General findings of the subcommittee included the following:

1. The "Franco regime is a Fascist regime."

2. During the war Franco "gave substantial aid to the enemy powers."

3. Franco "conspired" with Hitler and Mussolini to wage war on the Allies.

4. Franco has in some cases refused "to co-operate in removing the vestiges of Fascism and Nazism in Europe" since the war.

5. The Falangist regime continues "persecution of political opponents."

6. "The number of men under arms is far larger than might be expected in any peace-loving and non-aggressive country."

The report made no mention of charges by Poland and the Spanish government-in-exile that Franco was engaged in atomic research with the aid of German scientists.

"It is plain," the sub-committee reported, "that Franco Spain might easily become a ready instrument of aggressive warfare. The fact that there are two rival Spanish governments in existence is in itself a potential danger to the peace inasmuch as there is always the possibility of civil strife and the possibility of intervention by other countries.

"The strategic situation and resources of Spain, coupled with the declared unfitness of Franco Spain for membership in the United Nations, means that at the present time the United Nations system of security will be dangerously incomplete."

The subcommittee's report has been circulated among the eleven members of the Security Council and will be taken up at the Council's next meeting. Since five of the Council members, including Poland, were represented on the subcommittee it was regarded as unlikely that the report would meet much opposition.

Republicans Pleased

Another indication that the recommendations would meet the approval of the anti-Franco delegates was seen in the favorable reaction voiced in Spanish Republican circles, where the report was hailed as highly satisfactory.

The subcommittee, which had been meeting almost daily since it was created April 29, based its recommendations on information presented by Russia, Great Britain, the United States, Brazil, Belgium, France and the Spanish Government in exile.

There was no indication when the Security Council would take up the controversial Iranian question, which still remained on its agenda.

Passing Spain Issue To Assembly Is Seen

New York, June 1 (AP)—A delegate to the United Nations Security Council said today that a subcommittee investigating charges that Franco Spain threatens world peace has expressed moral condemnation of the regime and recommended that the Council pass the question to the United Nation's highest body, the General Assembly.

The delegate, who declined to permit use of his name, said the report, prepared after a month of deliberations, summed up the evidence and offered these two recommendations:

1. That the Security Council refer the question to the 51-nation General Assembly for further action.

2. That the Security Council indorse the three-power declaration of last March which condemned the Franco Government, expressed hope that it would be removed by peaceful means, and termed the problem an internal one. Signers of the March declaration were the United States, Great Britain and France.

Poland's Demand

The subcommittee was named after Dr. Oscar Lange, Polish delegate, demanded a world-wide break of relations with the Franco Government on the contention that the Falangist regime was a threat to international peace and security. Members of the committee were Australia, China, Poland, Brazil and France.

If the Council approves the recommendation, the question would come before the Assembly at its September meeting here.

The Assembly could act under Article 11 of the Charter, which says it may discuss any questions relating to the maintenance of international peace and security brought before it "by any member of the United Nations or by the Security Council."

Discussion Next Week

The full report will be made public later today and will probably go before the Security Council the middle of next week.

The subcommittee received voluminous evidence and documents, including a flat statement from the British Government that it did not consider the Franco regime a threat to world peace.

Only one witness, Jose Giral, premier of the exiled Spanish Republican Government, was heard directly. The first reaction today from Spanish Republican circles indicated that the exiled officials were highly pleased that the question might go before United Nation's largest body.

The 55,000 pages of captured German and Italian documents presented to the subcommittee on Spain by the United States on microfilm just before the deadline were brushed aside by the subcommittee as unassayed supplementary evidence. They will be screened and translated by the Secretariat and placed in the Council's archives for any further reference.

Siam Asks Membership

Meanwhile, Siam has made formal application for membership in the United Nations in a letter accompanying detailed charges of territorial aggression, armed attack, looting and arbitrary arrest of Siamese nationals by French troops from Indo-China.

The detailed charges—expanding accusations made earlier in the week—were laid before the United Nations by the Siamese Washington legation and declared that Siam had adhered to a policy of non-resistance to the alleged French attacks.

The letter of application for membership from the Siamese Foreign Minister, which was made public by the United Nations secretariant last night along with the charges against the French, said the wartime Japanese satellite kingdom and the Siamese people "are ready to assume the full responsibility in carrying out the obligations as set forth in the United Nations charters."

No Comment From Lie

Siam's documents asking admission to the United Nations and denouncing alleged French aggression along the Mekong River were circulated among United Nations delegations without comment or recommendation by Secretary General Trygve Lie.

Text of Report on Franco Investigation by the Security Council Subcommittee

Following is the report on the Franco Government of Spain by a United Nations Security Council subcommittee, made up of representatives of Australia, Brazil, China, France and Poland, as released yesterday:

(1) The report is agreed to by all members of the subcommittee, subject to two reservations, which appear at the end of the report. The report is divided into the following parts:

I. Introduction.
II. The Relevant Facts.
III. Franco Spain and the United Nations.
IV. The Jurisdiction of the Security Council and Its Power to Take Action Under Chapter VII of the Charter.
V. Other Measures Available to the United Nations.
VI. Conclusions and Recommendations to the Security Council.

I. Introduction

(2) The subcommittee's examination of the facts of the case has been based mainly upon documents received from members of the United Nations in response to a request to members of the United Nations to supply all relevant information and also in response to inquiries on specific questions. A public announcement was made that the committee would welcome information from any sources and it was in response to this general invitation that an extensive submission was also made by the Spanish Republican Government. The subcommittee approached its task with an earnest endeavor, first, to ascertain the relevant facts and then to apply the laws of the Charter to the facts as ascertained.

(3) There can be no question that the situation in Spain is of international concern. That fact is sufficiently evidenced by the resolution of the first General Assembly in London, the resolution of the Security Council and the joint declaration of the United States, United Kingdom and France dated 4 March, 1946.

(4) It is also plain that the facts established by the evidence before the committee are by no means of essentially local or domestic concern to Spain. What is imputed to the Franco regime is that it is threatening the maintenance of international peace and security and that it is causing international friction. The allegations against the Franco regime involve matters which travel far beyond domestic jurisdiction and which concern the maintenance of international peace and security and the smooth and efficient working of the United Nations as the instrument mainly responsible for performing this duty.

(5) The facts ascertained by the committee cover an extremely wide field. They are set out in a separate document, to be forwarded to the Security Council as a supplementary memorandum. On the closing day of the subcommittee's work, a great number of additional papers from German archives and having a possible relationship to the Spanish question were received from the United States Government. The subcommittee has given general consideration to this evidence. The detailed examination of the papers is proceeding rapidly, and if any additional matter relevant to the subcommittee's work is disclosed, it will be made the subject of a special supplementary report to the Security Council. All the facts before the subcommittee were sought for and furnished under the following nine headings:

(a) The origin, nature, structure and general conduct of the Franco regime, the extent to which the institutions and policies of this regime are compatible with the principles of the Charter of the United Nations and the extent to which they could obstruct the completion of the United Nations' security system.

(b) The attitude of the Franco regime, during the recent war, to the Axis powers and the Allied powers.

(c) The extent to which the Franco regime continues to harbor German assets, enterprises and personnel, Nazi agents, organizations and war criminals and to tolerate their contact with Nazi and Fascist organizations outside of Spain.

(d) The numerical strength of the armed forces of the Franco regime, including police and security forces, in relation to the population and resources of Spain; the strategic aims and other activities and purposes of these forces.

(e) Production of uranium and war materials; military, naval and aeronautical installations; research on methods of war and mass destruction; atomic research; fortifications erected by the Franco regime and the strategic disposition of his armed forces; and other preparations for war by the Franco regime.

(f) Persecution of Republicans and other political opponents, execution, imprisonment and police supervision of large numbers of the Spanish people.

(g) Detention by the Franco regime of nationals of other countries.

(h) Pro-Fascist activity of the Falange party and other Franco organizations outside of Spain.

(i) The reactions which have already resulted, in the relations between Spain and other countries, from the existence and policies of the Franco regime.

II. The Relevant Facts

(6) On the material placed before it, the subcommittee has come to the following conclusions:

(a) In origin, nature, structure and general conduct, the Franco regime is a Fascist regime patterned on and established largely as a result of aid received from Hitler's Nazi Germany and Mussolini's Fascist Italy.

(b) During the long struggle of the United Nations against Hitler and Mussolini, Franco, despite continued Allied protest, gave very substantial aid to the enemy powers. First, for example, from 1941 to 1945 the Blue Infantry Division, the Spanish Legion of Volunteers and the Salvadore Air Squadron fought against Soviet Russia on the Eastern front. Second, in the summer of 1940 Spain seized Tangier in breach of international statute and as a result of Spain maintaining a large army in Spanish Morocco large numbers of Allied troops were immobilized in North Africa.

(c) Incontrovertible documentary evidence establishes that Franco was a guilty party with Hitler and Mussolini in the conspiracy to wage war against those countries which eventually in the course of the World War became banded together as the United Nations. It was part of the conspiracy that Franco's full belligerency should be postponed until a time to be mutually agreed upon.

In a message to Mussolini on 16 Aug., 1940, Franco wrote:

"Since the beginning of the present conflict, it has been our intention to make the greatest efforts in our preparation in order to enter the war at a favorable opportunity * * *.

"Spain in addition to the contribution which she made to the establishment of the New Order * * * offers another in preparing herself to take her place in the struggle against the common enemies * * *.

"I at the same time assure you of our unconditional support for your expansion and your future." (Document 2 in "The Spanish Government and the Axis: Documents", United States Department of State Publication 2,483).

Move on Gibraltar Plotted

In a message to Hitler on 22 Sept., 1940, Franco wrote:

"I am likewise of the opinion that the first act in our attack must consist in the occupation of Gibraltar * * *.

"For our part we have been preparing the operation in secret for a long time * * *.

"I reply with the assurance of my unchangeable and sincere adherence to you personally, to the German people, and to the cause for which you fight. I hope, in defense of this cause, to be able to renew the old bonds of comradeship between our armies * * *." (1,810 Document 5).

In a further message to Hitler on 26 Feb., 1941, Franco wrote: "* * * I stand ready at your side, entirely and decidedly at your disposal, united in a common historical destiny * * *." (1,810 Document 13).

(e) Correspondence exchanged between Franco and Hitler and Mussolini showed that they considered the war did not commence in 1939 but at the time of the outbreak of the Franco revolution in Spain and that the aid given by Mussolini and Hitler in Spain was part of the general plan of Fascist aggression against the democratic powers.

(f) The correspondence between Hitler, Franco and Mussolini, together with other captured German documents, constitutes evidence against Franco of the same kind as has been submitted at the Nuremberg trials of war criminals to substantiate the charges of "crimes against peace, namely, planning, preparation, initiation or waging of a war of aggression or war in violation of international treaties, agreements, or assurances or participation in a common plan or conspiracy for the accomplishment of any of the foregoing."

Territory Held to Be Aim

A primary objective of the conspiracy for Franco was territorial aggression; for example, a memorandum by the German Ambassador in Madrid dated 8 Aug., 1940 and headed "Operation: Gibraltar" cites as one of the conditions laid down by the Spanish Government for entry into the war "Fulfilment of a set of national territorial demands, Gibraltar, French Morocco, that part of Algeria colonized and predominantly inhabited by Spaniards (Oran) and, further, the enlargement of Rio de Oro and of the colonies in the Gulf of Guinea."

(g) Since the war the Franco regime has failed, and in some cases refused, to cooperate in removing the vestiges of fascism and nazism in Europe. Both the United States and the United Kingdom Governments have stated their dissatisfaction with the Spanish attitude regarding the expulsion of obnoxious Germans from Spanish territory and with the lack of cooperation in other matters. The Belgian Government has complained of the refusal of Franco to hand over the Belgian quisling traitor [Léon] Degrelle.

(7) There is also extensive evidence, chiefly from underground sources but which is considered by the subcommittee to be authentic and credible even if not susceptible of proof in all its details, indicating that the Franco regime continues to practice those methods of persecution of political opponents and police supervision over its people which are characteristic of Fascist regimes and which are inconsistent with the principles of the United Nations concerning the respect for human rights and for the fundamental freedoms.

Military Power Analyzed

(8) The subcommittee gave close attention to evidence regarding the military strength and plans of Franco Spain, the production of war materials in Spain and, in general, the preparations for war on the part of Franco Spain. Various estimates were obtained of the strength of the naval, military and air forces and of the para-military organizations in the country and regarding the building of fortifications.

The number of men under arms is far larger than might be expected in any peace-loving and non-aggressive country. Further, the activities on the French frontier seemed to indicate the possibility of expectation of conflict by Franco Spain. However, it must be remembered that it is the very essence of military dictatorships to maintain large armies for the purpose of suppressing internal opposition.

(9) The subcommittee examined the circumstances of the recent closing of the Franco-Spanish frontier. While there is no clear evidence that the closing of the frontier was the result of any immediate threat of military action as between France and Spain, it is plain that a state of tension was thereby brought into existence and international friction accentuated. In reply to a question addressed to it by the Secretary General, at the request of the subcommittee, the French Government furnished the following information in relation to the closing of the frontier:

"The decision of the French Government to close the Franco-Spanish frontier was taken following hostilities in Europe, in the relations of France and the Franco Government, the maintenance of which, after the collapse of the totalitarian regime, appears to be a challenge to the victorious democracies.

"The sentiments of justified mistrust which the methods and political tendencies of the dictatorial Spanish regime evoked in French public opinion were still more accentuated at the end of 1945 by the revelations concerning Franco's collusion with the Axis powers. In a note of 12 Dec., 1945 addressed to London and Washington, the French Government suggested that the British and American Governments should study the most appropriate measures to hasten the end of the present regime in Spain, which had been implicitly condemned by the Allies at Potsdam on 2 Aug., 1945.

"For this purpose, France suggested a joint rupture of relations with Franco, being of the opinion that the democratic nations should continue to give him the support which the maintenance of diplomatic and commercial relations actually gave him. It was in the same spirit that on 17 Jan., 1946 the National Constituent Assembly invited the Provisional Government of the Republic, by a motion adopted with an imposing majority, to prepare to break off relations with the Spanish Government.

"While the French diplomatic action did not have the reception which might have been expected, the Franco authorities accentuated the repressive measures against the Republicans inside Spain. They caused one of them, Cristino Garcia, to be executed, a man in whose fate French public opinion took a very great interest on account of the active part which he had played in France during the battles for the liberation.

French Closed Frontier

"Coming after other repressive measures which had given rise to indignation, this act was the occasion for the Consituent Assembly, on 24 Jan., 1946, to renew the motion which it has previously voted. It was in these circumstances that the Government of the Republic decided on 26 Feb., pending the adoption of concerted measures with the Allies, to close the frontier with effect as from 1 March, 1946."

(10) Such evidence as was available regarding the training and equipment of the Spanish Army and the existing state of its armaments would not justify a finding that Spain was at the present time preparing for an act of agression.

(11) Nevertheless, having regard to the proved conspiracies of Franco with Hitler and Mussolini, the maintenance in Spain of large forces and the other evidence before us, it is plain that Franco Spain might again become a ready instrument of aggressive warfare. The fact that there are two rival Spanish Governments in existence is in itself a potential danger to the peace inasmuch as there is always the possibility of civil strife and the possibility of intervention by other countries. The strategic situation and resources of Spain, coupled with the declared unfitness of Franco Spain for membership in the United Nations, means that at the prestime the United Nations system of security will be dangerously incomplete.

III. Franco Spain and the United Nations.

(12). The existence of the Franco regime has already led to international action of great significance. At the United Nations Conference on International Organization at San Francisco, a resolution was agreed to unanimously to the effect that while the Franco regime remained in power Spain could not be admitted to the United Nations, and the debate which preceded the adoption of this resolution makes it clear that the nations there assembled were largely influenced by the wartime record of the Franco regime and by its Fascist policies and methods.

The San Francisco decision was followed by the Potsdam Declaration of 2 Aug. 1945, and by the general resolution agreed to by the first General Assembly of the United Nations in London on 13 Feb., 1946, Furthermore, three of the members of the United Nations, France, the United Kingdom and the United States of America, who are also permanent members of the Security Council, made a declaration on 4 March, 1946, that so long as General Franco continued in control of Spain the Spanish people could not anticipate full and cordial association with those nations of the world which had by common effort brought defeat to German nazism and Italian fascism, and they expressed the hope for the peaceful withdrawal of Franco, the abolition of the Falange and the establishment of an interim or caretaking Government under which the Spanish people might have an opportunity freely to determine the type of Government they wished to have and to choose their leaders. The resolution of the Security Council agreed to on 29 April referred to the "unanimous moral condemnation of the Franco regime in the Security Council."

(13) Certain members of the United Nations, acting individually, have broken off diplomatic relations with the Franco regime or have not entered into relations with it since its accession to power. At the present time eighteen members of the United Nations have no diplomatic relations with the Franco Government, eighteen members have diplomatic relations of one kind or another. Seven nations have recognized the Spanish Republican Government. The Legislatures of seven other members of the United Nations have requested their Governments to sever diplomatic relations with the Franco Government.

(14) It is also to be noted that independent action has been taken by different nations at different times against the Franco regime.

On several occasions certain of the United Nations protested to the Franco Government against executions of political opponents. On 4 March, 1946, France closed the French-Spanish frontier in the circumstances already referred to. On 11 April, 1946, Poland brought the situation in Spain to the attention of the Security Council, and the Polish request that the Council recommend severance of diplomatic relations with the Franco regime was supported by three other members of the Council: namely, France, Mexico and the U.S.S.R.

(15) The facts set out in Paragraphs 12 to 14 inclusive constitute additional evidence showing that the activities of the Franco regime have been and still are a source of international friction.

IV. The Jurisdiction of the Security Council and Its Power to Take Action Under Chapter VII of the Charter.

(16) The first crucial point to be considered is whether the situation in Spain is of such a kind as to justify direct executive action by the Security Council itself under Chapter VII, which deals with various types of enforcement action, which members are obligated to take at the direction of the Security Council.

(17) The originating complaint to the Security Council by Poland was aimed at placing the Spanish question on the agenda of the Council and Articles 34 and 35 alone were mentioned. But the resolution subsequently placed before the Security Council by Poland suggested action based upon the enforcement powers conferred upon the Security Council under Articles 39 and 41 of the Charter. Both these articles are in Chapter VII.

(18) The draft Polish resolution before the Security Council asserted that the existence and activities of the Franco regime "have led to international friction and endanger international peace and security." But these are not the conditions which must be satisfied before the Security Council has jurisdiction under Articles 39 and 41 to decide to call members of the United Nations to apply the enforcement measures set out in Articles 41 and 42. Before direct action under Article 41 or 42 can be ordered, the Charter requires that the Security Council must determine under Article 39 the existence of a threat to the peace or a breach of the peace, or an act of aggression.

(19) In the first place the question is whether the evidence justifies a positive and affirmative finding under Article 39.

(20) The juridical meaning of Article 39 is that the Security Council has to measure the situation as at the moment of the proposed action on its part, it being the clear intention of the Charter that the Security Council should only direct enforcement measures, which include the actual waging of war, provided it is affirmatively satisfied that a threat to the peace, or a breach of the peace, or an act of aggression has actually come into existence.

(21) A very sharp instrument has been entrusted to the Security Council by the United Nations under Chapter VII of the Charter and the Security Council must be careful that this instrument is not blunted nor used in any way which would strain the intentions of the Charter or which would not be applicable in all similar cases.

(22) In the opinion of the subcommittee, the Security Council cannot on the present evidence make the determination required by Article 39. No breach of the peace has yet occurred. No act of aggression has been proved. No threat to the peace has been established. Therefore, none of the series of enforcement measures set out in Articles 41 and 42 can at the present time be directed by the Security Council.

V. Other Measures Available to the United Nations.

(23) Nevertheless, in the opinion of the subcommittee, the matters brought before the Security Council in relation to Franco Spain are of so serious a nature that the Security Council, in discharging its primary responsibility for the maintenance of international peace and security, should not allow them to pass from its notice simply because it is unable to take the direct enforcement measures proposed in the draft Polish resolution.

(24) Chapter VI of the Charter empowers the Security Council to examine "any situation which might lead to international friction" in order to determine whether the continuation of the situation is "likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security." In the opinion of the subcommittee, the Spanish situation is one which has already led to international friction. The investigation has convinced the subcommittee not only that international friction has occurred but that it is almost bound to recur.

(25) In this connection, the declaration on Spain by France, the United Kingdom and the United States of America, on 4 March, 1946, is of great importance. That declaration says explicitly:

(a) So long as Franco continues in control of Spain, the Spanish people cannot anticipate full and cordial association with those nations of the world which have, by common effort, brought defeat to German nazism and Italian fascism;

(b) The present regime has taken repressive measures against the orderly efforts of the Spanish people to organize and give expression to their political aspirations, and

(c) There should be a peaceful withdrawal of Franco, the abolition of the Falange and the establishment of an interim or caretaking government under which the Spanish people may have an opportunity freely to determine the type of government they wish to have and to choose their leaders.

Potential Danger Declared

(26) In the declaration of 4 March these three Governments say that so long as Franco continues in control the Spanish people cannot anticipate full and cordial association with the United Nations. When they express a hope that Spain will not again be subject to the bitterness of civil strife, when they foreshadow the withdrawal of Franco and the abolition of the Falange, and when they suggest that an interim democratic government will receive the recognition of all freedom-loving peoples, they are indicating the possibility of a new policy of the United Nations in relation to Spain which, by implication, condemns the present regime as a potential danger to the maintenance by the United Nations of international peace and security.

(27) The subcommittee finds that the present situation in Spain, though not an existing threat within the meaning of Article 39, is a situation the continuance of which is in fact likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security. The situation in Spain thus falls to be dealt with by the Security Council under Chapter VI of the Charter, which covers measures of peaceful settlement and adjustment.

(28) The Security Council is empowered under Article 36 to recommend appropriate procedures or methods of adjustment of such a situation. It is not vested with executive authority, as in the case of Chapter VII, but it is under the duty of devising methods of adjustment adequate to meet the given situation.

(29) Moreover, while the Security Council exercises a primary duty in regard to the maintenance of international peace and security, the General Assembly is also vested by the Charter with power to deal with such situations. The General Assembly has power under Article 14 to make recommendations as to the pacific adjustment of any situation and it is only when the Security Council is actually handling a situation itself that the General Assembly cannot exercise this power. Furthermore, the General Assembly's powers of recommendation under Article 10 cover all matters within the scope of the Charter, including the purposes of the Charter set out in Article 1 (2), which is to take appropriate measures to strengthen universal peace.

VI. Conclusions and Recommendations to the Security Council

(30) The conclusions to which the subcommittee has come are as follows:

(a) Although the activities of the Franco regime do not at present constitute an existing threat to the peace within the meaning of Article 39 of the Charter and therefore the Security Council has no jurisdiction to direct or to authorize enforcement measures under Article 40 or 42, nevertheless such activities do constitute a situation which is a potential menace to international peace and security and which therefore is a situation "likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security" within the meaning of Article 34 of the Charter.

(b) The Security Council is therefore empowered by Article 36 (1) to recommend appropriate procedures or methods of adjustment in order to improve the situation mentioned in (a) above.

Recommendations to Council

(31) The final question is what action should be recommended by the subcommittee to the Security Council. After considering carefully what would be effective and appropriate measures to meet the particular case and having regard to the important powers of the General Assembly under Article 10 of the Charter, the subcommittee recommends as follows:

(a) The endorsement by the Security Council of the principles contained in the declaration by the Governments of the United Kingdom, the United States and France, dated 4 March, 1946.

(b) The transmitting by the Security Council to the General Assembly of the evidence and reports of this subcommittee, together with the recommendation that unless the Franco regime is withdrawn and the other conditions of political freedom set out in the declaration are, in the opinion of the General Assembly, fully satisfied, a resolution be passed by the General Assembly recommending that diplomatic relations with the Franco regime be terminated forthwith by each member of the United Nations.

(c) The taking of appropriate steps by the Secretary General to communicate these recommendations to all members of the United Nations and all others concerned.

(32) In the event of the General Assembly being satisfied that all the conditions set out in the declaration of 4 March, 1946, have been complied with, including the withdrawal of the Franco regime, political amnesty, return of exiled Spaniards, freedom of political assembly and association and free public elections, the subcommittee suggests that it would be appropriate for the Organization to consider favorably an application by a freely elected Spanish Government for membership in the United Nations.

Reservations.

Reservation No. 1 (Brazil)

The Brazilian representative reserved his position, as a matter of principle, regarding the recommendation contained in item (b) paragraph 31 of this report.

Reservation No. 2 (Poland)

The Polish representative believes that paragraphs 20-23 of the subcommittee's report contain implicitly a legal doctrine concerning the powers and duties of the Security Council under Article 39 of the Charter. This doctrine is reflected in the conclusions reached in paragraphs 27 and 30 (a) of the report. While accepting the analysis of facts and the recommendations of the subcommittee, he reserves his opinion as to the legal doctrine mentioned.

The functions of the Security Council are preventive as well as repressive. The Security Council is free within the purposes and principles of the Organization to determine whether a situation is a threat to the peace in the sense of Article 39. The Charter does not demand that such a situation, in order to be recognized as a threat to the peace, be an immediate danger of a breach of peace or act of agression within the next few days, weeks or even months. Potential as well as imminent dangers can be construed as a threat to the peace in the sense of Article 39. To affirm otherwise would mean that no actions by the Security Council are possible in situations like that of Mussolini before the imminent invasion of Abyssinia or that of Hitler before the first bombs were dropped on Polish cities. Unless threats to the peace are taken care of by the Security Council at an early stage while they still are potential and easy to remove, the United Nations may find themselves in face of situations beyond their power to control.

The enumeration in Article 41 of steps such as interruption of postal, telegraphic and radio communication and the severance of diplomatic relations indicates clearly that potential threats to the peace are also covered by Article 39. If only imminent threats to the peace were envisaged in Article 39, measures short of economic and military sanctions would be meaningless.

For the reasons indicated, the Polish representative cannot agree with the statement that the activities of the Franco regime do not represent a threat to the peace within the meaning of Article 39 of the Charter and that the Security Council has no jurisdiction to direct, in this case, severance of diplomatic relations. While he supports the recommendations of the subcommittee, he does so without prejudice to the rights of the Security Council.

Agency To Resettle The Homeless Asked

London, June 1 (AP)—The United Nations special committee on refugees today formally recommended establishment of an international agency to aid and resettle up to 3,000,000 homeless persons in Europe and Asia.

The committee's report was so shot with disagreements, however, that officials said it probably would have to be argued all over again by the Economic and Social Council.

The report opens with a statement that "political factors underlying the problem made unanimous decisions impossible."

The main conflict was over whether refugees who refuse to go home for political reasons should get international help.

Fourteen members of the committee insisted that these people should be aided. The six eastern states led by Russia voted the other way. (ADD)

U.S. 'Reactionaries' Accused Of Backing Bloc

London, June 1 (AP)—The Moscow radio asserted today that "reactionaries" in the United States are attempting to force America into a British-American military alliance "in preparation for a third world war."

From this angle," the broadcast said, "progressive circles in the United States criticize (Secretary of State James F.) Byrnes's plan . . . for control over Germany."

An article in the British liberal weekly New Statesman and Nation on the other hand said Great Britain had recently adopted a policy of moving away from the growing diplomatic controversy between the United States and Russia.

Foreign Office sources said Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin would reply to Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's statement regarding a British-American bloc, but added that Bevin would let Byrnes and Molotov do most of the contesting among themselves.

To Form Czech Government

London, June 1 (AP)—A British dispatch from Prague said today that President Eduard Benes has asked Klement Gootwald, Communist leader, to form a new Czechoslovak government. The Communists emerged as the strongest single party in the general election last Sunday.

More Kurd Fighting Reported

LONDON, June 1 (AP).—A Reuter's dispatch reported that the Tehran newspaper "Kaihan" carried accounts tonight of renewed fighting between Kurdish forces and Iranian government troops in the Kurdish section of Iran.

Wedding Delayed By Ocean Phone

London, June 1 (AP)—Dark-haired Doreen Davies stod in the crowded kitchen of a friend's house in North London tonight and was married by trans-Atlantic telephone to a former GI, Jack Murrell, at Fort Worth, Texas.

The 15-minute ceremony—at one pound ($4) a minute—was performed by a minister at the Texas end of the line with Doreen's father serving as proxy for the bridegroom here in London.

The wedding, a half hour late in starting because of connection difficulties was completed without hitch.

When it was over, the bride cried into the phone: "Jack, darling, I'm so excited! I'll be seeing you soon."

A machinist in a London factory, the 20-year-old bride was at work when the trans-Atlantic operator notified her of the coming call. Too excited to work or eat, she went out and bought a wedding ring.

British War Sacrifices Recalled By Churchill

Woodford, England, June 1 (AP)—Winston Churchill told a victory celebration here today that during the war "Britiain made an effort, sustained a burden and offered sacrifices which were not surpassed and, if may be, were not equaled by any similar community in the world.

"There are nations more numerous than ours," he declared, "there are states which are more powerful than we, but there is no country except our own which, in resistance to vile, wicked aggression, remained unbroken in their arms and in the battle of the nations of the whole world during the whole long months of war."

REDS BIG ISSUE IN FRENCH VOTE

U. S. Loan May Have Cost Communists Seats.

R. WILSON

Paris, June 1 (A. P.).—A clear indication of the strength of the post-war Communist trend in France is expected to emerge from tomorrow's empire-wide elections to choose a new Constituent Assembly.

Two major factors put the Communists squarely in the election spotlight:

1. The American loan, which some observers believe may have cost the Communists seats and benefited the Socialists, whose leader, Leon Blum, negotiated the credits, announced this week in Washington.

2. The bitter pre-election campaign which the Socialists have waged against the Communists, charging that the Communists were an undemocratically organized party which follows Soviet policy too closely.

To Draft Constitution.

An estimated 20,000,000 French citizens will vote to choose 586 members of the new Constituent Assembly from more than 3,000 candidates. The Assembly will sit for a maximum of seven months to draw up a new constitution.

A constitution drafted by the previous Assembly, providing for a powerful unicameral legislative system of government, was defeated in a referendum on May 5 by more than a million votes, providing the French Left with its first major setback since the liberation. While rebuffed at the ballot box, however, the Communists received a vote only slightly less than they got in last October's election, when they emerged as France's largest single party, with 25 per cent of the vote.

Candidates for the new Assembly include Gen. Henri Giraud, one-time rival of Gen. Charles de Gaulle; Felix Gouin, Provisional President; Georges Bidault, Foreign Minister; and pre-war Premiers Edouard Herriot, Paul Reynaud and Edouard Daladier.

The 31-year-old woman, who has been requested as a witness by the German attorney defending Bormann in absentia at the Nuernberg war crimes trials, said she last saw her employer when they both fled from Hitler's air-raid shelter about 2 A. M. [illegible] last year, just before Berlin fell.

NIGHT

Red Cross Doughnut Epoch In Europe About Over

D. MOST

Paris, June 1 (AP)—The era of the American doughnut is just about over in liberated Europe.

The Red Cross, which estimates it has served 450 million doughnuts along wtih 200 million cups o. coffee since the invasion, is closing up its hospitality activities.

The Columbia Club in Paris closed at midnight last night as United States service men grumbled, and the eight remaining Red Cross outposts in Le Havre, in Reims and in Namur, Belgium, were slated to close in the next two weeks.

Red Cross services such as for GI brides, parcel wrapping and civilian relief will continue, but the doughnuts and coffee epoch is just about ended.

Dorothy Villiger, the Columbia Club director, said that 22,000 soldiers a week had used the Paris club's facilities in the four months up to the closing hour last night—from its swimming pool and activity clubs to its sight-seeing busses.

Escaped G. I. Finds 'Hot Seat' in Movie

Paris, June 1 (A. P.).—Pvt. Matthew Spence of Baltimore, Md., twice-escaped prisoner who was serving a ten-year sentence for robbery, was back in confinement today after he accidentally sat on the lap of a Criminal Investigation Department agent in a darkened Paris theater Thursday night.

The picture showing was: "You Can't Get Away With Murder."

Martin Bormann's Blonde Secretary Convinced Deputy Fuehrer Is Dead

C.G. Smith

Hamburg, Germany, June 1—(AP)—Martin Bormann's blonde private secretary said today she was convinced of his death because the Deputy Fuehrer was "too stupid to have remained in hiding successfully for so long."

Bormann, missing since the fall of Berlin, "was a brutal man of violent temper and rude manners," Miss Else Krueger declared in an interview. "He was helpless when left on his own."

"Bormann went with a few of his staff officers in the one remaining armored car, while I was in a group on foot with another secretary, a cook, and two other women," Miss Krueger said.

"We ran across the Wilhelmsplatz through a real inferno of flames and managed to get down into the underground railway station. We made our way through the tunnels to the outskirts of the city.

"I met SS Gruppenfuehrer Rattenhuber on the way. He was a member of Bormann's escape party and told me their Panzer car had been hit while they were crossing the Freidrichstrasse Bridge over the Spree. He said he last saw Bormann lying face downwards on the bridge, either dead or severely wounded.

"I feel pretty certain that Bormann was killed and the Russians picked up his body without realizing who he was. He was not wearing any insignia of rank, and could easily have been mistaken for an ordinary SS trooper. There were innumerable bodies lying about in the streets.

"If he did get away, he would have been caught by now. He wasn't clever enough to last so long."

Tall, blue-eyed, with a great shock of honey-colored hair, Miss Krueger enjoyed Hitler's admiration because he believed she corresponded to his Nordic racial theories. She lives now in a modest, one-room apartment in Hamburg, working as a clerk. She is not bothered by British authorities because she never was a member of the Nazi party.

She said Hitler and Eva Braun, whom he married in his Reichschancellory, had killed themselves, but admitted "we did not see the bodies."

"But we knew they had been carried upstairs and burned," she said. "Marshal Zhukov was the first outsider to hear the news. Wehrmacht General Krebs left the bunker, traveled to Zhukov's headquarters in an armored car flying a white flag, and asked him to permit the survivors of the bunker to depart unmolested.

"We did not expect he would ever come back, but about 3 P. M. he suddenly returned and said Zhukov had received him courteously, given him a sumptuous lunch, but, of course, had turned down the request for safe conduct."

Miss Krueger said "Eva Braun was a completely uncultured person, with no interest or understanding of world affairs, art, music, or anything like that. She was first introduced to Hitler about 1930 when she was 18 and she lived with him even before he came to power in 1933. I am absolutely certain she never had a child.

Joseph Goebbels, she said, "was always acting. During the last days in the bunker, he suddenly started telling us how difficult it was to say which of the two sides in the war was right."

She said Heinrich Himmler "was always friendly and I would never have believed he was responsible for the terrible things of the SS and Gestapo."

10,000 CHILDREN NAZIS STOLE FOUND

Language Teams Of UNRRA Locate Them In Germany

D. DOANE

Arolsen, Germany, June 1 (AP)—Ten thousand children whom the Nazis kidnapped in conquered lands and tried to rear for future German cannon fodder have been found by the UNRRA in Germany, it was announced today.

An unrelenting search continues for thousands more children believed lured from their native lands by the Nazi pied pipers and injected into the life stream of the so-called "master race."

They are hidden in German institutions and private homes, where their real identity still is guarded by their captors. It took a mass detective operation to discover them.

6 Language Teams At Work

Headquarters of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration said the search began last January and that six multilingual UNRRA teams now are at work.

As fast as the kidnapped children are found, they are brought to UNRRA child centers, where trained specialists nurse them back to mental and physical health before restoring them to home and family, if possible.

New details of the notorious Lidice massacre were brought to light by the UNRRA investigation. Although all the adult males in the little Czech village were murdered and the women thrown into concentration camps, the town's 97 children were scattered in German homes and institutions, according to stories told by nine of the children who have been located.

Diabolic Nazi Plan

The stories of the recovered children make plain the diabolical purpose of the systematic mass abduction. The Nazis planned to use the childhen to bolster their own manpower and at the same time reduce the manpower potential of neighboring countries.

The Nazis even screened their youthful captives carefully to find those of intellectual or physical superiority who could be trained for special uses. Many were sent to schools training future SS troopers.

Inferior children, or those who refused to absorb Nazi training, were used in medical experiments—human pin cushions for Nazi doctors who injected them with untried drugs which often killed them or left them mental or physical wrecks.

Germans Are Cunning

The difficulty of finding these lost children is complicated by the cunning with which they have been Germanized and induced to forget or deny that they ever were anything but German.

Many were placed in childless German homes at such early ages that they came to believe the Germans were their real parents or grew to love them and resisted identification efforts.

Older children were drilled to conceal their origin—and sometimes were sent to experimental stations if they revealed the secret.

Birth and police records, concentration camp documents, rumors and suspicions provide the initial clues to the children's whereabouts.

But language often proves the decisive evidence. UNRRA linguists try to discover if children suspected of foreign nationality can speak, or recognize languages other than German.

In one case a child spoke such good German and gave such logical answers that UNRRA interviewers were about to concede he was a German. Then one last question brought the defiant answer, "Nein, nein, nista." That "nista" was Serbian, and he proved to be a Yugoslavian Serb.

Some German foster parents poison the minds of their youthful charges against their real parents, often telling them the parents were criminals or deserted them, so that the children won't want to go back.

SAUCKEL DEFENSE ENDS

German Labor Leader Viewed as Uninformed on Abuses

NUREMBERG, Germany, June 1 (AP)—The defense of Fritz Sauckel against war crimes charges concluded today with the testimony of three German civil service employes that Hitler's war labor boss never received information concerning the mistreatment of foreign workers.

The International Military Tribunal then adjourned for the weekend.

Max Timm, Hubert Hildebrandt and Walter Stothfang—subordinates in Sauckel's labor administration, said a few isolated cases of a minor nature were reported to their office, but that they were unaware until after German capitulation of the mass murders and torture of hundreds of thousands of imported workers.

The tribunal on Monday will take up the defense of Col. Gen. Gustav Jodl, Chief of Staff of the German Army.

Ordered 8 GI's Shot, Malmedy SS Man Says

Dachau, Germany, June 1 (AP)—A former SS major said in a statement introduced at the Malmedy massacre trial today that he had ordered his men to shoot eight unarmed American prisoners in the Battle of the Bulge, but chided them afterward for stealing rings from the bodies.

The major, Gustav Knittel, explained that he feared looting of the dead might bring bad luck. Knittel is one of the 74 defendants on trial.

The statement, presented by the prosecution, said he decided to kill the prisoners because his unit was cut off on all sides and he had been "moved spiritually" by the death of his bravest noncommissioned officer.

Civilian Massacres Told

Mme. Regina Gregoire, of Stavelot, Belgium, said she was among eight women, fifteen children and two men driven out of a cellar and accused of shooting at German soldiers. When the Belgians denied the charge, she testified, the Germans opened fire with pistols and killed nineteen of the group.

Jean Elias, a former member of the Belgian resistance movement, told of finding the bodies of thirteen of his neighbors, ranging in age from 1 to 82 years, who had been killed by SS troops.

Vlassov Vanishes In Reds' Hands

R. OIRKAGAN

Frankfurt, June 1 (AP)—United States Army intelligence officers said today that Lieut. Gen. Andrei A. Vlassov, termed Russia's No. 1 native-born war criminal, was secretly handed over to the Red Army a year ago and that his fate is a mystery to the Western Allies.

Releasing hitherto confidential information, the Americans said the once-honored former Soviet army commander was reported to have been turned over to the Russians by Czechoslovak authorities after he was taken prisoner in Prague May 5, 1945.

Interested In His Fate

"It would be interesting to know what happened to him afterward and what his status is," these officers said.

Since Vlassov's capture, thousands of his saber-wielding Cossacks, whom he led against the Red Army he once served, have been sent back to their homeland to face Soviet justice.

Speculation as to Vlassov's whereabouts has circulated since his disappearance at the war's end. Only last week, French reports said he and a woman friend had been picked up "trying to leave" the United States occupation zone.

No Word Since Last Summer

The last reports to the United States Army from its agents were in midsummer last year.

These said that Vlassov, who commanded the Red Army on the Smolensk front to 1941 and who switched to the Nazi cause when he was captured, and an infantry regiment of pro-German cossacks moved into Prague on May 5, 1945, under an agreement to surrender.

The United States intelligence report said Vlassov and some of his men, believed to number about 1,200, were turned over to the Russians on their arrival a few days later.

Gone When Yanks Entered

"By the time our units came into Prague, Vlassov had disappeared and we never have been able to find out what happened to him," American officers said.

Since the first of the year, American authorities have turned over to Russia three carloads of Vlassov's men, captured by United States forces. When the first transfer of these prisoners was made, under provisions of the Yalta agreement, 11 Russians killed themselves and 21 others attempted suicide rather than undergo repatriation.

Wac Driver Killed in Germany

HEIDELBERG, Germany, June 1 (AP).—United States Army authorities announced tonight that one Wac corporal was killed and another seriously injured when their jeep plunged off a bridge near here May 27. Elizabeth G. Smith, of Bridgeport, Pa., the driver, was killed instantly. Jean A. Mauger, of Milwaukee, was removed to a Heidelberg Army hospital.

Pope Warns Italian, French Voters

J. Reknight

Vatican City, June 1 (AP)—Pope Pius XII in a world broadcast on the eve of critical Italian and French elections, declared today that the voters would choose between "the champions or the wreckers of Christian civilization" and urged church followers to reject the spirit of "state absolutism."

Reviewing the prospects for peace a year after the war's end, the Pontiff said "the first sure and decisive step toward a just peace has not been taken" and warned that present international instability might lead to "a violent explosion."

"How premature, not to say illusory, appears today the hope that all men of responsibility, without exception, in view of the lessons taught them in the bloody school of war would show themselves really animated by a deep horror of all ideas of despotism, of every attempt at forcible domination of other peoples," the Pontiff said.

Christianity Or Materialism

The Pope said the issue in the French and Italian elections tomorrow was whether the two nations would "continue to rest on the firm rock of Christianity" or would "choose to entrust their lot for the future to the unfeeling omnipotence of a materialistic state without any ideal beyond this world—without religion and without God."

"The one or the other of these two possibilities will come to be according as the names victorious at the polling booths will be those of the champions or the wreckers of Christian civilization," he said. "The answer is in the electors' hands. Theirs is the responsibility—and how serious it is!

"On the one side there is the spirit of domination—of domination of state absolutism which claims for itself all the controls of the political, social and economic machine of which men—living beings made to God's likeness and sharers by adoption in God's own life—would be only the soulless wheels.

"Prepared To Resist"

"On its side the Church rises, serene and calm, but resolute and prepared to resist any attack. She, as a good, tender, charitable mother, certainly does not seek a fight, but because she is a mother by the sole moral force of her love, she is firmer, more indomitable, more immovable than all material forces when there is a question of defending the dignity, the integrity,, the life, the honor, the liberty, the eternal welfare of her children."

Not once in his twenty-minute address did the Pope mention communism by name. The Communists are strong contenders in both the Italian and French elections.

The Pontiff spoke in response to the greeting of 21 members of the Sacred College of Cardinals on the occasion of his name day, the feast of St. Eugenio.

Refers To Plebiscite

The passages in his address referring to the two elections were included under the subtitle "The Delicate Mission of the Church."

He referred to the plebiscite in which Italy's 28,000,000 voters tomorrow will decide upon the future of the monarchy and select a new constituent assembly, and to the important French election to choose a constituent assembly which will attempt to draw the constitution for the Fourth French Republic.

The Pontiff told his followers there was no reason why they should become frightened or dejected, because "you are many, many more than the appearances seem to indicate, even though others, by their bravado and arrogance, aim to create a false impression of the strength of their ranks."

"Stronger Than Adversaries"

"You are strong, and stronger than your adversaries," he told his followers, "because your intimate convictions (it is they that count the most) are true, sincere, substantial, founded on eternal principles and not on false ideas, on erroneous systems, on fallacious maxims, on monetary impressions or opportunism. God is with you."

The Pope expressed the belief that the strong should demonstrate their abandonment of imperialistic and domineering spirit through "an upright and equitable attitude toward the weak."

He added that "as long as a more or less veiled threat of recources to violence or to political or economic pressure smothers the voice of right, one must admit frankly that the first sure and decisive step toward a just peace has not yet been taken."

Not Surprised

"How then can we be surprised if the lack of security and the precarious and uncertain situation lays a heavy burden on peoples' spirits, if a general sense of uneasiness, of discontent of dicouragement poisons the air, clips the wings of every noble purpose, clogs all good will and suffocates the spirit of generosity and dedication necessary for real reconstruction?

"Can we be surprised if that very instability and uncertainty which is disturbing international relations as well as the internal order of individual nations poisons the struggles between parties and the conflict of opposing interests, increases their bitterness and stirs up passions even to the extent of preparing and provoking their violent explosion in an uncertain future?"

A year ago, he said the people "hailed the advent of a peace, which, although still insufficient to satisfy their legitimate aspirations, might suffice at least to create tolerable living conditions."

Long Road To Peace

"A year has passed," he continued, "Today it is but too clear that we were right, alas, in allowing our word to betray the uneasiness which weighed on our Father's heart, the anxiety which threw a shadow over our joy from the cessation of hostilities. To a true and genuine peace we insisted upon on the occasion of this same feast, the road will be long and arduous—too long for the pent-up aspirations of mankind starving for order and calm.

"Since then there have been multiplied efforts, discussions, exchanges of views, even direct contacts between the statesmen in whose hands lie the destinies of the world. But not seldom one gathers the impression that true peace, peace such as answers to the needs and the yearnings of the human and Christian conscience, rather than coming closer, is moving away; rather than gaining strength and consistence as a trust-inspiring reality, is tending to fade away and vanish."

No Firm Step Taken For True Peace In Year, Says Pope

F. Kuttner

Vatican City, June 1 (AP)—Pope Pius XII said in a world broadcast today that the path to "true peace" seemed farther away now than at the end of hostilities a year ago, and that "the first resolute step toward the attainment of true peace has not yet been taken."

Speaking from his private library, the Pontiff said that all responsible men, instructed in the bloody school of war, did not yet show themselves to be "truly against despotism and domination of other nations with force."

Cites Tomorrow's Elections

Observing that two countries, Italy and France, would hold elections tomorrow, the Pope asserted:

"What will be decided is whether these Latin sisters will continue the Christian way of life or choose a materialistic state—without religion and without God."

The decision, he added, would depend upon "the names of the candidates elected."

The pontiff declared that the present lack of security in the world, which he said arose from "disturbing international relations," can "exasperate passions to the point of preparing and provoking in a dark tomorrow a violent explosion." The way to peace, he said, "is long and arduous."

Says Church Bars Despotism

The Pope spoke on the occasion of his name day—the Feast of St. Eugenio—a few minutes after he had received the greetings of 21 members of the Sacred College of Cardinals.

The Pontiff, speaking of "the delicate mission of the church," struck out on the eve of a crucial Italian election against "subversive and atheistic elements" which he said sought to assume the leadership of the people.

"The grave duty always resting on the church to arouse the consciences of all to inculcate rectitude, moderation and respect for truth and law becomes particularly hard and distasteful in times of agitation and crisis," he said.

It has become double important for the church to "illumine the track," the Pope said, when "subversive and atheistic elements seek to take the leadership of the deluded masses as if they were a silly flock, hiding from them under false appearances the objectives, specially in the moral and religious sphere, toward which they are leading them."

Hits "Erroneous Systems"

The Pontiff begged the people of the church to remember their strength and to remember that "your intimate convictions—it is they that count the most—are true, sincere, substantial, founded on eternal principles and not on false ideas, on erroneous systems, on fallacious maxims, on monetary impressions or opportunism."

The pontiff told the faithful not to be afraid.

"You are more numerous than your adversaries," he said.

Speaking of the church, the Pope said it had come out of the storm "with renewed youth" and recalled Leo XIII's description of the church as the "defender of the people against despotism and of the individual rights of citizens."

Deplores Domination

"The church is serene and calm," the pontiff declared, "and it does not seek battle." He added, however that it is "firmer and more indomitable and more steadfast than all material forces."

The Pope recalled the world's hopes for peace a year ago when arms were laid down, but said today those hopes appeared "premature, if not illusory."

The Pontiff said it appeared, that all responsible men, instructed in the school of war did not yet show themselves "to be truly against despotism and domination of other nations with force."

Warns Of New Explosion

His Holiness warned that the present lack of security "by disturbing international relations can exasperate passions to the point of preparing and provoking in a dark tomorrow a violent explosion."

The Pope said the church's task is doubly important and urgent "when the forces of upheaval and atheism are being employed to lead deluded masses."

It is all the more necessary, he said, that the church should illuminate the way and clear the rocks and whirlpools that lurk in wait for the ship of state.

Opposes Imperialism

The Pope said that the sincere abandonment of the spirit of imperialism and domination was manifested in the attitude of the strong toward the weak, but that as long as "the more or less veiled menaces of recourse to violence or political and economic pressure oppress the voice of law, it must be recognized that the first resolute step towards attainment of true peace has not yet been taken."

The work of reconstruction, the Pontiff said, will not be accomplished successfully if it is not based upon law, order and liberty.

Accuses Clergymen.

London, June 1 (A. P.).—The Communist party newspaper Pravda accused Roman Catholic clergymen today of threatening spiritual damnation to church members who voted for left-wing parties in Italian elections Sunday, according to the Moscow radio.

A Tass dispatch broadcast by Moscow radio said that, upon Vatican orders, "the huge army of Catholic preachers, consisting of fifty-two archbishops, 229 bishops, tens of thousands of priests and over 500,000 monks and nuns was mobilized to conduct election propaganda in an effort to 'catch' votes for the reactionary royalist forces united in a single anti-democratic camp."

"The clergy is unscupulous in its desire to intimidate and disorientate the faithful," the broadcast said. "Many bishops are publishing propaganda articles in the press threatening Catholics who vote for left-wing parties with torture in the next world."

Pope's Address to Cardinals

ROME, June 1 (AP)—The text of Pope Pius' broadcast in response to greetings from the College of Cardinals today:

Once more the feast of the Holy Pontiff Eugene I, son like ourselves of the Eternal City, gives us, venerable brethren, the joy of being in your midst, intimately united with you, our most immediate and assiduous collaborators.

Our holy patron has enjoyed for nearly thirteen centuries in the glory of the Lord the recompense of his virtues and good works and for us who bear here below the burden of the Supreme Apostolic Ministry it is a deep consolation to feel that we are aided and sustained by his powerful patronage.

It is likewise a great comfort to us in the midst of such grave circumstances and such exacting duties to know that we have the support of your tireless cooperation and unalterable fidelity. They have been testified to us afresh by your venerable dean, whose fresh vigor belies his years, with all his customary nobility of expression and delicacy of thought.

THE INSTABILITY AND UNCERTAINTY OF THE PRESENT HOUR

Our thoughts bring us back to a year ago. All over Europe the arms had at last been laid down, the whirlwind of war was quieted and a sense of relief flooded all hearts. After such long and piercing anxiety they hailed the advent of peace, of a peace which, although still insufficient to satisfy their legitimate aspirations, might suffice at least to create tolerable living conditions.

A year has passed. Today it is but too clear that we were right, alas, in allowing our word to betray the uneasiness which weighed on our father's heart, the anxiety which threw a shadow over our joy from the cessation of hostilities. To a true and genuine peace we insisted on the occasion of this same feast, the road will be long and arduous, too long for the pent-up aspirations of mankind, starving for order and calm.

Since then there have been multiplied efforts, discussions, exchanges of views, even direct contacts between the statesmen in whose hands lie the destinies of the world, but not seldom one gathers the impression that true peace, peace such as answers to the needs and the yearnings of the human and Christian conscience, rather than coming closer, is moving away, rather than gaining strength and consistence as a trust-inspiring reality, it tends almost to fade away and vanish.

The more the cards heap up on the international conference tables, the greater become the difficulties and hindrances to the achievement of solutions that are morally justifiable. How premature, not to say illusory, appears today the hope that all men of responsibility without exception in view of the lessons taught them in the bloody school of war would show themselves really animated by a deep horror of all ideas of despotism, of every attempt at the forcible domination of other peoples.

It is by an upright and equitable attitude toward the weak that the strong show a sincere abandonment of an imperialistic, domineering spirit and a genuine adherence to the principles of justice, but as long as a more or less veiled threat of recourse to violence or to political or economic pressure smothers the voice of right, one must admit frankly that the first sure and decisive step toward a just peace has not yet been taken.

How, then, can we be surprised if the lack of security and the precarious and uncertain situation lays a heavy burden on people's spirits, if a general sense of uneasiness, of discontent, of discouragement poisons the air, clips the wings of every noble purpose, clogs all good-will and suffocates the spirit of generosity and dedication necessary for real reconstruction?

Can we be surprised if that very instability and uncertainty which is disturbing international relations as well as the internal order of individual nations poisons the struggles between parties and the conflict of opposing interests increases their bitterness and stirs up passions even to the extent of preparing and provoking their violent explosion in an uncertain future?

THE DELICATE MISSION OF THE CHURCH

The grave duty always resting on the church to arouse the consciences of all to inculcate rectitude, moderation and respect for truth and law becomes particularly hard and distasteful in times of agitation and crisis. But for that very reason it becomes doubly important and imperative when in fact the tide of earthly competitions and rivalries takes on the menacing aspect of a swelling tempest, when in the heat of the fight ephemeral alliances dictated solely by economic and political interests threaten to destroy the sense of true Christian brotherhood, when subversive and atheistic elements seek to take the leadership of the deluded masses as if they were a silly flock, hiding from them under false appearances the objectives, especially in the moral and religious sphere, toward which they are leading them, it becomes all the more necessary that the church irradiate from its high beacon the light of Christ to illumine the track and point out with precision the bounds beyond which to the right and to the left hidden rocks and whirlpools are ready to cleave and swallow down the ship.

Undoubtedly the bitter experiences of the war, the delusions of the post-war period and the prevision of a future so poor in hopes confront the church in the discharge of its work with an evergrowing multitude of men whose strength has been exhausted by misfortune and whose vigor and energy have been undermined.

EXHORTATION TO CONFIDENCE AND COURAGE

There is no reason, however, why we should allow ourselves to become frightened or dejected or fail to take a comprehensive view of the entire situation. Therefore we shall never tire of telling our children, and as many as agree with them, to have confidence, do not become downhearted, you are many, many more than the appearances seem to indicate, even though others by their bravado and arrogance aim to create a false impression of the strength of their ranks. You are strong, and stronger than your adversaries, because your intimate convictions (it is they that count the most) are true, sincere, substantial, founded on eternal principles, and not on false ideas, on erroneous systems, on fallacious maxims, on monetary impressions or opportunism. God is with you.

In profound humility, but at the same time with the greatest gratitude to God, we can well insist on the protection God has never ceased to exercise in defense of his church in order to bring it victoriously through the squalls of recent years, especially those of the war years, and that over the whole surface of the globe. We have under our eyes the reports which reach us from the entire world, and despite all the opposition, all the defects which could and did appear, we may make this affirmation. The church as a whole stands united and sound, within and without, wherever because of deliberate and systematic persecutions or as a result of the cruel wartime destruction it was deprived of every visible support and despoiled of its legitimate possessions, it saw the spirit of union increase among the faithful and their zeal grow more ardent.

And if not everywhere, at least in the majority of cases it came out of the trial with a renewed, youthful vigor.

One might say that, in the light of the terrible happenings of the past few years, which called up before the mind the picture of the last judgment, the children of the church, no less in mission countries than in countries long Catholic, experienced almost sensibly the truth of their faith and the unchallengeable worth of Christian thought. And as to what concerns works of charity, courage and heroism to the shedding of blood for the faith, we do not hesitate to say that the church of today can well stand comparison with that of the past.

And hence it is a point of capital importance in this hour that Catholics and all who admit and adore a personal God and observe His decalogue do not permit themselves to be frightened by anything in the world, but rather that they appreciate their proper strength.

THE CHURCH IS THE CHAMPION AND GUARDIAN OF TRUE LIBERTY

Let them therefore realize how much they and they alone can really and efficaciously contribute to the work of reconstruction, and that it will never reach a happy conclusion if it is not based on right, on order and liberty—on liberty, we wish to emphasize, to reach out to what is true and good, liberty such as will be in harmony with the well being of every people in particular and of the whole great family of peoples. Such liberty the church has ever proclaimed, guarded and defended.

Over sixty years ago our great predecessor, Leo XIII, called on the evidence of history to show the church's incessant solicitude to protect the peoples against the despotism of princes careless of the common good, to defend municipalities and families against unjust interference on the part of the State and to uphold the dignity of the human person and the rights of every citizen (cf., Enc Immortale Dei, Nov. 19, 1885, Leonis XIII, Acta Vol. 5, Page 42).

Have not these assertions received a new and convincing confirmation in the past few decades?

Tomorrow the citizens of two great nations [Italy and France] go in compact array to the polling booths. What is really at issue? It is to be decided if the one and the other of these two nations, of these two sister nations of Latin culture, of more than a millenary of Christian civilization, will continue to rest on the firm rock of Christianity, on the acknowledgement of a personal god, on belief in the spiritual dignity and the eternal destiny of man, or, if, instead, they will choose to entrust their lot for the future to the unfeeling omnipotence of a materialistic state without any ideal beyond this world, without religion and without God.

The one or the other of these two possibilities will come to be according as the names victorious at the polling-booths will be those of the champions or the wreckers of Christian civilization. The answer is in the electors' hands. Theirs is the high responsibility, and how serious it is.

On the one side there is the spirit of domination, of domination of state absolutism, which claims for itself all the controls of the political, social and economic machine, of which men—living beings made to God's likeness and sharers by adoption in God's own life—would be only the soulless wheels. On its side the church rises serene and calm but resolute and prepared to resist any attack. She, as a good, tender, charitable mother, certainly does not seek a fight but, because she is a mother, by the sole moral force of her love she is firmer, more indomitable, more immovable than all material forces when there is a question of defending the dignity, the integrity, the life, the honor, the liberty, the eternal welfare of her children.

FOR THE PRISONERS AND EXILES

And now, venerable brethren, after our intimate celebration of this festive recurrence how could we leave you without directing our thoughts to so many other sons of ours whom the war and the post-war period have for many long years deprived of every family joy?

Feast days and domestic anniversaries make them feel only more keenly than on other days the bitterness of exile. We intend to speak of the prisoners of war and of civilian internees, then of those who, having been stripped at times to the last farthing of their meager savings, have been driven from their homes and their native land, and finally of those who, singly or in wandering groups, have not the heart to return to their old homes, no longer such for them in the present circumstances, and who seek anxiously to make a new home for themselves elsewhere.

We spoke about them recently in our last Christmas message and in our address to the diplomatic corps which came to greet us last February. We readily acknowledge that in the past few months notable contingents of prisoners of war have been repatriated. If then today we dwell once more on the hundreds of thousands of men still held prisoner and those unhappy people without fatherland or home, it is because we feel ourselves driven to it by the innumerable petitions imploring our intervention and because such a situation calls imperiously for a speedy and efficacious remedy.

These multiple and insistent appeals on behalf of the prisoners of war come to us from people of every social condition. There are mothers who yearn to have again their sons, so far off. There are wives who can no longer support the burden of family needs weighing on their own weak powers now at length worn out. There are sons who vainly await the encouraging smile and practical aid of a father who will mold and prepare them for the hard requirements of life. Groups of townspeople and public authorities demand the return of their youth, the best forces with which to begin and carry on the work of reconstruction in their own countries. And with that work is bound up the general restoration of the society of the nations.

Among the prisoners, some very young were conscripted en masse just before the end of the war and without ever having handled a rifle find themselves thrown into concentration camps. Of the others, far more numerous, not a few away for a whole seven years from their fatherland have already passed possibly five or six of them languishing in captivity or dragging out a miserable life in labor squads. We are not unaware that the cold texts of international law do not oblige the victor to free his prisoners till after the conclusion of peace, but the daily aggravating spiritual and moral needs of the prisoners themselves and of their relatives and the sacred rights of matrimony and of the family cry to heaven more loudly and more strongly than all the juridical texts and demand that an end be put to this regime of prisoner of war and concentration camps.

If, however, one or another of the victor states for economic reasons judges it could not dispense with the manual labor of these workers, they would do well to consider if such an advantage could not be equally or better secured by substituting for them free men of the same country as the prisoners on just and humane terms of discipline and work.

Nor are we unaware of another difficulty often brought forward to justify the painful delays in repatriation: namely, the scarcity of transport and the imperative necessity of other shipments. Still we cannot but express the hope that humane feeling and political wisdom, which urge everyone to be deeply interested in these men's return home, may take precedence over other considerations and interests, however legitimate, and may point out opportune expedients such as will provide both for the restoration to their homes of prisoners detained overseas and for the exigencies of post-war traffic.

As to the other two categories who have been exiled or otherwise obliged to live far from their fatherland, sometimes in territories with a population already superior to what their agriculture and industry could support in normal times, there should be a question of providing for the settling of these poor people overseas; and we are quite confident that the states and continents capable of receiving them will not fail to open their doors to them, and so perform a work of great Christian charity.

FOR THE FEAST OF THE SACRED HEART

On this first day of the month dedicated in a special way to devotion to the most sacred heart of Jesus we feel even more keenly than usually an immense sorrow at the sight of human society more than ever withdrawn from Christ and at the same time an inexpressible compassion at the spectacle of the unprecedented calamities with which it is afflicted because of its apostasy.

For that reason we feel urged to raise our voice once more to recall to our children of the Catholic world the warning the Divine Saviour has never ceased to stress down the ages in his revelations to the privileged soul he deigned to choose as his messenger: Disarm God's punitive justice by a crusade of expiation the world over, oppose to the band of those who blaspheme the name of God and transgress his law a world league of all those who give him due honor and offer his offended majesty the tribute of homage, sacrifice and reparation which so many others deny him.

It is therefore our ardent desire and our express purpose that the month which begins today and will close this year with the celebration of the solemn Feast of the Sacred Heart of Jesus may be in its entirety a devout and fervent preparation for that feast, above all by giving practical effect to that great mission of expiation and reparation through acts of piety, charity and penance.

We trust that the zeal of our most venerable brethren in the episcopate of priests and religious members of Catholic Action and, especially of the young, will draw the hearts of the faithful of the universal church a confiteor of humility, repentance and trustful recourse to the divine mercy with such sincerity, ardor and intensity of spirit to compel, so to speak, Him who is bountiful to forgive (Is. 55, 7) to fulfill in favor of the new alliance the promise already made by the mouth of the prophet to the people of Israel: Revertere aversatrix Israel, ait Dominus, et non avertam faciem meam a vobis, quia sanctus ego sum, dicit Dominus et non irascar in perpetuum. (Jer. 3, 12). (Return, O rebellious Israel, saith the Lord, and I will not turn away my face from you; for I am holy, saith the Lord, and I will not be angry forever.)

With the hope deep in our heart that this confession and profession of the entire world presented to the Father in heaven, by the heart of Jesus, which is a propitiation for our sins and our peace and our reconciliation (Lit. of the Sacred Heart of Jesus), may placate His justice and draw down on the whole human family an abundance of His grace, we bestow on you, venerable brethren, on as many as are yours in the Lord and on all those who are one with you in communion of thought and feeling our apostolic benediction.

Italians Vote On King Today

Rome, June 1 (AP)—Clashes between monarchists and republicans broke out in Milan today on the eve of Italy's plebiscite on whether to keep the Royal House of Savoy or to start back on the road from fascism and defeat under a republic.

The Italian news agency Ansa said that King Umberto II, whose fate will be decided at the polls tomorrow, was forced to leave the Milan cathedral through an underground [illegible] demonstrators broke through a police cordon as he appeared at the cathedral door.

Clashes In Squares Reported

Clashes had been going on in the huge Duomo Square while the King visited the cathedral, and in the Royal Palace Square while Alfred Cardinal Schuster, Archbishop of Milan, paid Umberto "a visit of homage," Ansa reported.

The dispatch did not say whether the demonstrators at the cathedral who broke through the cordon were hostile. Umberto left shortly afterward for Venice to complete his "campaign tour." "He will return to Rome probably to cast a vote himself tomorrow," a royalist spokesman said.

In addition to deciding the issue of monarchy versus republic, the voters, with the women outnumbering the men, will elect delegates to a constituent assembly which will write the political, social and economic principles of the new Italian state.

28,000,000 Eligible To Vote

Approximately 15,000,000 women and 13,000,000 men are eligible to participate in the balloting—the first free expression of national opinion since Benito Mussolini imposed his dictatorship a generation ago.

The Ministry of the Interior said the official verdict on monarchy or republic would not be known until after June 7, with the Supreme Court of Decision making the announcement. Returns in the constituent assembly voting probably will be announced earlier.

Even Split Suggested

On the eve of the voting most impartial observers still predicted a republican victory, although conceding that the monarchists appeared to have gained strength since King Umberto assumed the throne after the abdication of his father, Vittorio Emanuele III, on May 9.

On the basis of returns from local elections in March and April, observers also predicted that the 556 constituent seats would be split evenly between the Right and Left, with the Moderate (Catholic) Christian Democrat party again emerging as the nation's strongest political force.

In a last appeal to the nation, King Umberto promised the Italians another chance later to decide the question of monarchy versus republic if they voted this time to leave him on the throne. He said his proposed new plebiscite would be held immediately after the consistuent assembly completed a new constitution and would be "in any form the popular representation might propose."

Palmiro Togliatti, Communist leader, asserted that Umberto's action had violated the election law which Umberto had approved and signed as lieutenant general of the realm, and added that if the monarchy won the plebiscite Umberto "will not assume the throne at all, but must await the decision of the constituent assembly on who shall be the chief of state."

May Choose Any Italian

The law provides that the assembly may choose an Italian as the new king, but most observers believe a monarchial victory would mean a vote of confidence in the House of Savoy, and limit the choice to either the 47-year-old Umberto or to his son, the 8-year-old Crown Prince Vittorio Emanuele, Prince of Naples.

Proportional representation, designed to insure representation to minorities, will be used for the assembly voting. Each voter will mark his ballot secretly in a booth, and return it to the polls clerk who will place it in the ballot box.

Voting will be on state-printed ballots. Voters will place an "x" after monarchy or republic, which will be identified by symbols as well as the words. Voting for delegates to the constituent assembly will be by party symbol alone, with 51 different symbols represented.

ITALIAN KING FLEES MILANESE CROWD

Rome, June 1 (A. P.).—Ansa, the Italian news agency, reported that demonstrators broke through a police cordon as King Humbert II appeared at the door of Milan Cathedral today and forced him to leave through an underground passage. The dispatch said that clashes between Monarchists and Republicans had been going on in the huge Duomo Square while the King visited the cathedral, but did not state whether the demonstrators which broke through the cordon were friendly or hostile.

The fate of the monarchy will be decided in a national plebiscite tomorrow. Humbert left Milan shortly after the demonstration for Venice to complete his "campaign tour."

Ansa said that clashes also occurred on the Royal Palace Square while Cardinal Schuster, Archbishop of Milan, paid the monarch a "visit of homage." No casualties were reported.

In an eleventh hour bid to retain his crown, Humbert announced to Italy's 28,000,000 voters that if they decided tomorrow to leave him on the throne, he would give them another chance soon to vote on the question of the Monarchy versus a Republic. (AP)

DUTY UNENDED, ANDERS SAYS

Polish General Tells His Men March To Freedom Goes On

Rome, June 1 (AP)—Lieu. Gen. Wladyslaw Anders, in an order of the day to his 2d Polish Corps, informed his troops today that while their demobilization was at hand their duty "is not yet finished. Our march to a free and independent Poland goes on."

Anders, bitter foe of communism and target of many attacks from Moscow, told his men who had fought with the Allies against the Germans in Italy that he had reflected deeply before accepting demobilization and the changing of his army into a resettlement corps under 'the heavy decisoin and . . . one-sided determination of the British Government."

"It is not my duty as your commander," he said, "to soften the hard meaning of this decision at a time when Poland has not yet recovered her full independence.

"Poland Was The Price"

"In nearly seven years of our unintrrupted soldier march we were forced to crush not only the enemy's ranks, but also difficult political crises resulting from the international political bargains in which Poland was the price."

Polish hearts, he added, could never forget that they fought under the eyes of the Holy See, "also fighting for its freedom." He said that the "long friendship between the Italian and Polish peoples had been bound tighter by the common struggle."

Polish circles here said transfer of the troops to Britain would begin in about a week and would be completed in about six months.

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin announced May 22 that the 110,000 Polish troops in Italy would be discharged in Britain and allowed to remain as workmen.

8 DIE IN CRASH OF U.S. PLANE NEAR NAPLES

22 Missing, 8 Rescued—Survivor Says He Saw 11 Chutes in Air

Naples, June 1—(AP)—At least eight of 38 persons aboard were killed today when a U. S. Army transport plane from India crashed in flames into the sea near Naples, and 22 of the occupants still were missing early tonight.

(A Salerno dispatch to the Rome newspaper Giornale D'Italia said the known dead totaled 25).

Only eight persons were rescued immediately, American military policemen said.

All 38 persons aboard the plane, flying to the United States, were said to be military personnel.

The bodies of eight were recovered. Italian fishermen sped to the scene as soon as the plane plunged into the Tyrrhenian Sea near Ravello, a scenic spot just south of the big port of Naples.

The plane caught fire in the air and some of the passengers managed to bail out before it crashed, one survivor said.

The Army said the crash occurred when panicky passengers rushed to the tail of the fire-swept plane, throwing it into a steep climb, then stalling it and finally sending it onto a tight spin.

An Army Public Relations Officer said the co-pilot, Lt. Robert J. Keyes, one of the survivors, reported the fire started in the pilot's cockpit, apparently caused by a broken hydraulic line, as the ship neared the Italian coast.

Despite efforts to combat it with extinguishers, the flames spread and the pilots were forced out of the cockpit, putting the plane on the automatic pilot.

As the pilots directed the passengers to don parachutes, the fire spread to the passenger section, causing the panic that resulted in the crash.

The Army listed the survivors as Keyes, Sgt. Edward I. Ignotis, Staff Sgt. Stanley Moore, Pfc. Ralph Parker, Corp. James H. Cordrey, Lt. William D. Flaskamp, Lt. Keith S. Ellis, and Technical Sgt. Robert G. King of Grove City, Pa. The home addresses of all survivors except King were not available.

Pending notification of their families, the names of the victims were withheld.

The names of the victime were withheld pending notification of their families.

Sergeant King said the fire started in the pilot's compartment "and we were all told to abandon ship immediately.

"I hit the water just after the plane crashed. I looked up and saw 11 parachutes in the air. The plane seemed to crumple and sink."

King was unharmed but shaken. He was taken to the American Hospital in Naples.

He said the plane left an airfield near Calcutta yesterday and took off from Cairo early today en route to Rome.

An American patrol boat stationed in Naples found only floating parachutes, mail bags and debris when it arrived at the scene of the crash. The Italian fishermen had already rescued the eight survivors.

Crash Kills 8 On U.S. Plane

The military police said eight bodies were recovered, eight persons were rescued and the other 22 were still missing. All aboard were described as military personnel.

Nine parachutes were observed in the air as the plane hit the sea near Ravello, south of Naples.

PUPPET HEAD OF ROMANIA IS EXECUTED

Marshal Antonescu and Three Aides Shot as War Criminals

Bucharest, June 1—(AP)—Marshal Ion Antonescu, premier of Romania during the Nazi occupation, and three members of his puppet government were executed today as war criminals.

The 61-year-old former premier was executed at Jilava Prison, outside Bucharest, with Mihai Antonescu, his deputy premier and foreign secretary; General Vasiliu, former under-secretary of the interior; and George Alexiani, former governor of Transistria, where Jews were massacred during the war.

The two Antonescues were not related.

Romanian officials announced the executions, which were carried out by a firing squad. Foreign press representatives, except for a Russian photographer, were excluded from the execution on orders of Premier Petru Groza, an official said.

Reporters saw the prisoners marched toward the execution plot. The former premier walked jauntily. The other Antonescu trembled.

Royal commutations saved former Defense Minister Constantine Pantazi, former secret service chief Christescu and Radu Lecca, former commissioner for Jewish affairs, who also had been convicted.

ARRESTS ARE PROTESTED

Rumania's Holding of Americans Called Outrageous

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 1 (AP)—The United States Government protested in a note today against what it called the "outrageous conduct" of the Rumanian Government in arresting three Rumanian employes of the United States Military Mission.

The note demanded that the Government of Premier Petru Groza release the employes immediately and that in the future, when such action is contemplated, the United States authorities be consulted first.

All three employes still are held incommunicado. The best available information is that the arrest of the employes and of many Liberal and Peasant party personalities was connected with what the Government has declared was a plot against it.

It appeared that the Communists were attempting to establish a connection between the alleged plot and the American Mission.

Catholic Bishops Plead for Tiso

Prague, June 1 (A. P.).—A group of Slovak Roman Catholic bishops recommended today that mercy be shown to Dr. Joseph Tiso, war-time President of Slovakia under the Nazis. The bishops said in an open letter to the Slovak National Council that they were convinced Tiso's intentions were good, even though he made some mistakes. The letter added that clemency would strengthen the unity of Slovakia with Bohemia and Moravia, the other major divisions of Czecho-Slovakia. Tiso formerly was a Roman Catholic parish priest. He is in prison awaiting trial on collaboration charges. He was captured by United States Army units.

Russia Reported Cool On Pact With Austria

Rejection of '50-50' Oil Plan Cited as Reason

VIENNA, June 1 (AP).—Johann Boehm, president of the Austrian Trade Council Association, said today the Soviet Union had "cooled off" on the proposition of a trade agreement with Austria after the Austrian government rejected a Russian plan for "fifty-fifty" agreement on the Zistersdorf oil field, now in Russian hands.

An Austrian trade delegation was ready to leave for Moscow last year, Boehm said, when the Russian government proposed formation of a Russian-Austrian company to run the oil fields on a "fifty-fifty" basis, with Austria contributing $27,000,000 and the prospecting rights at Zistersdorf.

"Since the provisional Austrian government was of the view that it could not raise the $27,000,000 in order to join the Soviet-Austrian Oil Company, it declined to sign the offered agreement," Boehm said. "To our regret, there has been a certain degree of ill-feeling on the Russian side since then, which has hindered the closing of a commercial agreement between Austria and Russia."

IRAQI CABINET QUITS

Bagdad, May 30 (Delayed) (A. P.).—The Iraqi Cabinet resigned yesterday after meeting Senate opposition on the administration of domestic affairs. A new government was organized by Arshad al Umary, former Foreign Minister and head of the Iraqi delegation to the San Francisco Conference.

The Cabinet change, effected immediately after Regent Emir Abdul Illah's return from the Cairo conference of Arab rulers, was not expected to alter Iraq's foreign policy.

Political observers attached significance to the failure to include Baba Ali, son of Mullah Mustafa el Barzani, leader of several Kurdish revolts, in the new Cabinet.

NANKING TROOPS ADVANCE IN CHINA

Four Towns Reported Taken In Area South Of Changchun

Peiping, June 1 (AP)—The Chinese Government commander in Manchuria reported today that his troops, cleaning out the broad plains and swamp area south of Changchun, had captured four more towns from the Communists.

Places reported captured were Yentungshan and Tsingyuan, on the railroad running from Mukden to Yunki (Kirin), and Haishihcheng and Hwaiten, in the Sungari reservoir district between Changchun and the Korean border.

The announcement was carried in the Hsin Shen Pao, newspaper of the commander, Gen. Tu Li-ming.

Reports Drives Halted

The Government Minister of Information announced that the Communist offensives in the north China provinces of Hopeh and Shantung, notably a three-way drive on Tsinan, Shantung's capital, had been halted.

At the same time, the Communist new China News Agency accused Government troops of attacking Communist 8th Route Army men in the towns of Hsiangho, Paoti and Ningho, all in the immediate vicinity of Peiping.

The Communist report, broadcast from Yenan, said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's visit to Peiping was "not entirely unconnected with this major attack" within 30 miles east and north of Peiping, seat of the Chinese-American truce headquarters. (AP)

China Troops Gain In Manchuria

Peiping, June 1 (AP)—Gen. Tu Li-ming reported today that Government troops captured several more towns as they expanded their push northeast from Szepingkai.

The vanguard of Tu's Manchurian Corps, moving north from Panshih, reached Yentungshan. Another unit captured Haishihcheng and Hwaiten, 40 miles northeast of Panshih, said Tu's newspaper, Hsin Shen Pao. Tsingyuan, midway between Mukden and Panshih on the Mukden-Harbin railroad, was also reported seized.

Meanwhile, the Ministry of Information said Communist activity in Shantung and Hopeh provinces, including a three-prong drive on Tsinan, had halted.

Through train service on the Shanhaikwan-Mukden railroad was resumed today.

Attack Reported

San Francisco, June 1 (AP)—Chinese Communist headquarters, in an English-language broadcast from Yenan, today reported that two Chinese Government divisions attacked Communist-held towns near Peiping Thursday.

"It is believed that Chiang Kai-shek's return to Peiping on the same day is not entirely unconnected with this major attack on Communist-held areas, despite the (January) truce agreement," said the broadcast, recorded in San Francisco by the Associated Press.

Communist leaders previously charged that Chiang's week-long visit to Mukden was to direct a Government offensive in Manchuria.

"Neutral observers believe that such a major attack, taking place only 30 miles from Peiping, where Sino-American executive (truce) headquarters is located and directed by Kuomintang (Government party) headquarters in the same city is clear proof of the mounting Kuomintang disregard of public opinion for peace," the Communist broadcast added.

It said two Government divisions attacked Hsiangho and Paoti, east of Peiping and Ningho to the north on the Peiping-Mukden railway.

New Cochin-China Republic Is Formed

Saigon, Indo-China, June 1 (AP)—Jean Henri Cedile, French commissioner for Cochin China, announced today the formation of an "independent Cochin-Chinese republic in the Indo-Chinese federation and the French Union."

The first work of the new republic, he said, would be to organize a referendum on the question of joining Viet Nam, the free state of Annamite Nationalists of Hanoi, which was recognized by the French last March as an independent republic within the Indo-Chinese federation and French Union.

Referendum Asked

A part of the agreement reached with the Annamese who had claimed Cochin China, in the extreme southern part of Indo-China, provided that the question be settled at a referendum. Cochin China has been directly administered as a colony by the French for 84 years.

The new president of the council of ministers of Cochin China, Nguyen Van Thinh, a civil doctor, was to address a mass meeting later today outside Saigon Cathedral.

Ho Chi Minh, president of Viet Nam, meanwhile announced that he was accompanying a delegation leaving for Paris today to engage in negotiations with the French Government.

Would Avoid Friction

He urged his followers to avoid incidents and friction with the "French, Chinese and other strangers."

Clashes between Vietnamese soldiers and armed civilians on the one hand and French soldiers on the other have been reported occurring the last three days. An attack by armed Vietnamese against a Chinese detachment also was reported. The Chinese, who occupied Hanoi until the French took over last March, were said to have returned the fire and taken prisoners.

Marine Aircraft Chief Given Chinese Medal

Tientsin, China, June 1 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Louis E. Woods, of Washington, D.C., commanding the 1st Marine Aircraft Wing, today received the Order of the Cloud and Banner with grand cordon, China's highest military decoration.

The award was made on behalf of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek by the Marine commandant, Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey, for Woods's "able direction" of Marine evacuation in North China in the past seven months.

Penang Restored As A Free Port

Pauley Inspecting North Korean Industry

Seoul, June 1 (AP)—Edwin W. Pauley and his United States reparations mission today inspected North Korean industrial plants near the Manchurian border.

Pauley informed his Seoul headquarters that "the mission is following its planned itinerary in North Korea except for two important industrial areas from which it is barred by the Soviets." Russian occupation forces control Korea north of the thirty-eighth parallel.

The mission today inspected a hydro-electric plant with a capacity of 600,000 kilowatts, near Shingishu, across the Yalu River from Antung, Manchuria. It also was to visit paper and lumber mills, rayon, automobile and truck plants, port facilities and smelters.

Yesterday it inspected industrial installations in the Chinnampo area. These included steel plants, mining and drilling machinery foundries, plants for producing machine tools, electrical machinery, ordnance, gunpowder, freight cars, cement, synthetic fiber and processed food and smelters.

Six Killed In Bombay; Emergency Declared

Bombay, June 1 (AP)—The Bombay government declared a "state of emergency" in the center of the city today as the death toll rose to six in a three-day series of clashes between untouchables and caste Hindus. Sixty-three persons had been injured, mostly in stabbings.

Mobile police reinforcements armed with rifles patrolled the 2-square-mile mill area in the center of the city tonight.

The clashes began when "untouchables" threw stones at the funeral procession of a caste Hindu.

India-Burma Theater Ended

New Delhi, June 1 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Vernon Evans departed by plane for the United States today, bringing to an official close the United States war record of the India-Burma theater which he commanded.

New Zealand Blames Baby Deaths On Talcum

Auckland, N.Z., June 1 (AP)—All talcum powder in New Zealand has been withdrawn from sale for laboratory tests, after the New Zealand health department attributed the deaths of five babies to tetanus spores carried in the powder used to dust them.

Trial of Japan's War Leaders Set For Tomorrow

Tojo and 25 Aids to Face Allied Court; Two Others Ruled Too Ill for Trial

TOKYO, June 2 (Sunday) (AP).—Twenty-six of the men who led Japan in her losing gamble to create a mighty empire through intrigue and aggression are scheduled to go on trial before their victorious enemies tomorrow in a proceeding frankly described as a dramatic show destined for a "run" of six to nine months.

The prosecutors, representing eleven Allied nations, plan to place upon the record for the world the whole story of Japan since 1928 and of the parts played by the twenty-six accused men.

The top defendant is Hideki Tojo, the former Premier, who attempted suicide when his country surrendered but whose life was saved by American surgery for the courtroom spectacle opening tomorrow. Three other former Japanese Premiers, a field marshal, three admirals, a dozen generals, various ex-ministers and other officials and a former close adviser to Emperor Hirohito are among the other defendants.

Hirohito, in whose name the disastrous war was waged, is not among the defendants, but he has not been specifically exempted from possible future action.

Two Defendants Ill

A medical board reported last week that two of the original twenty-eight defendants were ill and unable to stand trial. They are Yosuke Matsuoka, former Foreign Minister who signed the pre-war tripartite pact with Germany and Italy, and Shumei Okawa, crack propagandist whose specialty was "Asia for the Asiatics." It was Okawa who was rushed out of the courtroom at the arrangement on May 4 when he twice slapped Tojo's gleaming bald head.

Tojo and the other twenty-seven were indicted formally on April 29 as members of a "criminal militaristic clique" accused of conspiring against the peace of Asia since 1928 and eventually enbroiling Japan in an Axis plot to rule the world. The indictment charged them with three categories of crimes: Crimes against peace, conventional war crimes and crimes against humanity.

Under the first category it specifically accused Japan's leaders of planning "since 1928" a war of aggression against Russia, and eventually starting wars against all the other ten nations represented on the court.

Court's Jurisdiction Questioned

Under the second category it listed such violations of the accepted laws of war as the condoning of rape, pillage and the mistreatment of prisoners.

In the third category came murder—the murder of thousands of Americans at Pearl Harbor and in the Philippines before declaration of war, the wholesale murder of civilians in China and the Philippines during the conquest or occupation of those areas, and the murder of helpless prisoners of war.

The twenty-eight all pleaded innocent when arraigned, and through their counsel challenged the authority of the tribunal appointed by General Douglas MacArthur to try them. Now the defense will try again to win freedom for the remaining twenty-six by pleading that the tribunal lacks jurisdiction to try them and that there is no precedent in international law for such a trial.

The justices, as well as the prosecutors, represent eleven nations that fought and defeated Japan, but mostly, it will be an American show. The Americans on the staff of the chief prosecutor, Joseph B. Keenan, of Rhode Island, outnumber the other Allied representation. Each of the defendants has been supplied with an American attorney in addition to Japanese counsel.

YOSHIDA RECEIVED BY THE EMPEROR

New Japanese Premier Holds Conference With Hirohito

Tokyo, June 1 (AP)—Premier Shigeru Yoshida called at the Imperial Palace today and was received by Emperor Hirohito.

It was Yoshida's first conference with the Emperor since the latter's talk with General MacArthur at the American Embassy yesterday. No statement was issued.

The monthly report of the Bank of Japan meanwhile indicated the re-emergence of inflation as a major difficulty for the Government, despite drastic deflationary measures imposed last February.

The report showed a jump of 8,142,000,000 yen in the bank's note issue during May, to a total of 36,315,000,000—an increase of more than 22 per cent in a single month.

Bank Governor Replaced

Announcement was made of the appointment of Hissato Ichimanda as governor of the bank, to succeed Eikichi Araki, who was ousted in a MacArthur-sponsored purge last April.

Symptomatic of the reconstruction problems faced by the Government was a report by the Transport Ministry that Government-owned electric suburban trains had broken down 3,600 times in the past five months.

At a mass meeting in the Imperial Palace plaza some 2,000 Japanese schoolteachers advocated higher salaries for teachers and participation of trade unions in the purge of militaristic and ultranationalist elements from the school system.

Wide Starvation Among Japs Is Not Expected

F. Lambert

Tokyo, June 1 (AP)—The food problem in Japan is difficult to assess.

There is little if any evidence of actual starvation. There appears to be sufficient food in rural and suburban areas. However, food is a favorite topic in most cities. Tokyo newspapers daily give extensive space to stories which say in effect: "Everybody is hungry."

Short rations are blamed for an increase in disease incident, worker inability to concentrate on tasks, and absenteeism.

Japs' Efforts Fruitless

Japanese officials recognize the problem but their efforts to solve it have been indecisive, fumbling and fruitless.

Memories of the rice riots which swept Japan after World War I lie behind most Japanese thoughts on the food problem, rather than actual want.

Today, Japanese officials claim that Government warehouses are empty. However, the newspaper Asahi reported a raid on a warehouse in which 500 bales of government rice were carried out. Asahi said police forced the looters to return the rice.

U.S. Warehouses Left Alone

There have been no organized moves against United States warehouses.

The Army is not expected to allow the Japanese to reach the desperation point. At Hokkaido recently, when Japanese protested that they were nearly famished, the Army distributed several thousand tons of supplies.

The Army has reserve stocks that could be used if the situation becomes serious.

Authorities say that food is the only factor which could, in the near future, hamper occupation.

MacArthur's Stand

General MacArthur is determined that this will not happen. The Far Eastern Commission recognized this situation when it said that enough food would be sent to Japan so that occupation forces would not be endangered.

Tightening of belts in the next few months probably is a certainty for the Japanese. But starvation? No.

Teachers Mass At Palace

Meanwhile, 2,000 Japanese schoolteachers, massed in the Imperial Palace plaza, today heard speakers suggest changes in the educational system.

Among them was Sanzo Nozaka, Communist leader and Diet member. Speakers advocated salary increases and trade-union participation in purging militaristic and ultra-nationalistic teachers.

The crowd was the first to gather here since MacArthur's edict against violence in demonstrations. The provost marshal's office and Japanese police said there was no trouble.

Japanese Princess Turns Dirt-Farmer

Tokyo, June 1 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito's sister-in-law is getting to be quite a farmer, the newspaper Yomiuri reported today.

"With a neckerchief tied smartly around her head, Princess Chichibu can be seen spending many hours tilling the grounds of Higashiyama detached villa like many a common farmer's wife," Yomiuri said.

War Upon Rats Launched In Tokyo

Tokyo, June 1 (AP)—A kill-the-rat campaign was launched here today.

Teachers and students in all Japanese Government schools were participating in a drive to reduce sources of such diseases as typhoid fever and dysentery.

"Swat the Fly" and "Kill the Mosquito" were other slogans.

Roxas Launches Relief Reforms

Manila, June 1 (AP)—Tackling major problems, famine and internal warfare, the new Philippines administration today inaugurated a major shakeup in the relief and rehabilitation organization and announced that 11,000 Hukbalahap guerrillas had promised to hand in their guns before July 4.

Jose Zulueta, new Secretary of the Interior, said [illegible] arms were surrendered in central Luzon agrarian problem could be settled without further bloodshed.

Fears Food Shortages

President Manuel A. Roxas, holding the first of a promised series of weekly news conferences, said he feared the most serious food shortages would begin in August and would start a national campaign to raise substitutes for rice. Rationing of rice is not contemplated because there is not enough to ration, he said.

Roxas announced he was firing all Philippine Relief and Rehabilitation Administration employés who have been hired since April 1 and intended to replace the present board of directors with a non-political board comparable to the American Red Cross.

The President also issued a warning to all officeholders that he intended to put a stop to the widespread practice of hiring relatives.

ROXAS CERTAIN HUKS WILL QUIT

Says They Will Lay Down Arms Before July 4.

Manila, June 1 (A. P.).—The newly installed Government of Manuel Roxas, preparing for independence of the Philippines, July 4, announced in swift succession today:

Promised surrender before that date of 1,000 Hukbalahaps (People's Army) who have figured in bloody guerrilla warfare in Central Luzon; a drastic shake-up of the Philippine Relief and Rehabilitation, and plans for a campaign to avert a serious food shortage, expected to be felt by August.

Roxas's Secretary of the Interior, Jose Zulueta, said that leaders of the Huks, after a series of conferences, had agreed to give up their arms. Zulueta promised them protection and agreed to replace present Filipino military police now in Central Luzon with eleven companies from the southern islands. Enemies of the Huks also will be required to surrender weapons, Zulueta said.

Had Feared Reprisals.

The Huks, who kept their arms after the war against Japan, hitherto had expressed fears of reprisals by Roxas supporters. The Huks had backed the candidacy of former President Sergio Osmena.

In reorganizing Philippines relief, the Roxas Government discharged all employees hired since April 1; said a non-political board, comparable to the Red Cross, would replace the present board of directors, and issued a warning that new officeholders must cease a widespread practice of hiring relatives in subordinate positions.

Roxas, at his first weekly press conference, said a campaign to grow rice substitutes would be instituted to meet the threatened food shortage. He announced plans for building temporary warehouses to alleviate the present situation of a bay clogged with unloaded shipping.

Roxas also announced the appointment of Dr. Bernabe Africa, former professor of political science at the University of the Philippines, as Commissioner of Foreign Affairs of the interim Government.

Army Editors Ask Pepper To Aid Fight

Manila, June 1 (AP)—Members of the staff of the Daily Pacifican today carried their charges of army censorship of that army newspaper to Senator Pepper (D., Fla.).

The staff, which has asked for a mass transfer in protest against censorship, rushed Pepper that their charges are not a matter for the theater commander, but for Congress. . . . We are confident . . . you will bring quick, effective congressional action."

SOVIET ATTACHE SAW U. S. AS FOE GOUZENKO SAYS

Ex-Code Clerk Testifies Staff Was Told Allies Would Be Enemies

Montreal, June 1—(AP)—Igor Gouzenko, former code clerk in the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa, testified today that the former Soviet military attache told his staff in August, 1945, after the surrender of Japan, that they must prepare to face the United States, Canada and Great Britain as enemies some time in the future.

Gouzenko is the 27-year-old star witness for the prosecution in the trial of Fred Rose, Communist member of Parliament, for alleged conspiracy against Canada in behalf of the Soviet Union.

He quoted Col. Nicolai Zabatin, the attache, as speaking of Canada, Britain and the United States in this way:

"Yesterday they were our Allies. Today they are our neighbors. Tomorrow they will be our enemies."

Colonel Zabotin was recalled by Moscow after the announcement of the espionage investigation. A royal commission investigating the case described him as the leader in Canada of a Moscow-directed network.

Gouzenko testified he had conversations with Soviet agents about the decisions of a secret session of Parliament. He identified several documents which he said he stole from the embassy. One was described as a record of reports sent to Moscow.

Elaborating on testimony he gave at Rose's preliminary hearing in March, Gouzenko said he turned against the Soviet Government because he learned that the Russians were "making preparations to stab the Canadian people in the back" at a time when Canada and Russia were allies and when "the Canadians were helping the Russian people with money."

He said he quit the embassy because he was opposed to "the two-faced policy of the Soviet Government."

In Ottawa, meanwhile, Edward Mazerall, 30, former government research engineer, was sentenced to four years imprisonment on a charge of conspiracy in a Soviet network.

Mazerall was convicted of having given for the use of Russia two radar documents which were secret.

Canadian Is Given 4 Years As Spy

Ottawa, June 1 (AP)—Edward Mazerall, 30, former National Research Council engineer, was sentenced today to four years in prison for conspiring to break the Official Secrets Act of 1939, a charge which arose from inquiry into the Soviet-operated espionage ring in Canada.

Mazerall betrayed no emotion. He was the third to be sentenced among fourteen Canadians detained in connection with the espionage activities. He was convicted May 22 after a ten-day trial.

Radar Documents

Prosecution evidence showed he had given for the use of Russia two radar documents taken from the Canadian research council. The defense contended that Russia could have obtained them herself if she had asked for them officially.

Only one of the original fourteen, Dr. David Shugar, has been discharged from court for lack of sufficient evidence to commit him for trial. He is now working for the Health Department.

Rice Promise To Hoover

Quito, Ecuador, June 1 (AP)—Herbert Hoover, on a fact-finding tour of South America for President Truman, was assured by the Ecuadorian Government last night that this nation would have 600,000 quintals (30,429 tons) of rice to sell in August and September.

The former President also was informed that there was a possibility that Ecuador could export potatoes and coffee. At the same time, he was told, Ecuador needs flour and butter from the United States.

Hoover in a statement yesterday, warned that the projected United States maritime strike would have a "ghastly effect" if food shipments to famine areas were halted.

TRUMAN STATES AMERICA FACES 'GREATEST AGE'

Lauds Small Institutions in Talk After Getting Degree at Washington College

Chestertown, Md., June 1—(AP)—President Truman, relishing the role of a small towner sold on small institutions that produce "big shots" declared today that America "is facing the greatest age in its history."

Its government, greatest in the world's history, he said, never will come under the absolute control of "any one man or any one group of men."

Without establishing any identifications, Mr. Truman added:

"Sometimes they think they have control, but it has never turned out that way and never will."

A division of powers prevents it, the Chief Executive asserted.

Accepts Honorary Degree

As he accepted an honorary degree from little Washington College in this little town on Maryland's eastern shore, the President declared that "this country is great on account of its small educational institutions, more than anything else."

In a homey, chatty talk omitting any reference to big issues, Mr. Truman recalled that he was born and raised in a small town. Home to him, he said, still is a Jackson County, Missouri, farm.

"You know," he said, "I am rather an advocate of small business, and small educational institutions, and small communities.

"I have said time and again that I would much rather see a thousand insurance companies with four million dollars in assets than one insurance company with four billion. I would rather see a hundred steel companies than one U. S. Steel Corporation. I would rather see a thousand banks than one National City Bank."

The Chief Executive had a special word to say on the intimate acquaintance with each of the 24 graduates which the college president, Dr. Gilbert Mead, displayed in his remarks as he handed out diplomas. That individual touch, he said, is something the students need, and "I would like to see the president of Harvard, of Yale, or Columbia or Princeton" have it.

The former vice president talked a bit about vice presidents in business life.

Likes Small Institutions

Small institutions, he said, give two or three men a chance to be "big shots" in their communities.

"When you go to the National City Bank or the U. S. Steel Corporation or the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company," he went on, "you will find one 'big shot' and a hundred or so vice presidents—vice presidents—vice presidents. So many vice presidents that you can't tell how the institution's run."

Garbed in cap and gown, Mr. Truman spoke extemporaneously as a hot sun smiled down on the campus of a school which in the past had honored George Washington and Franklin D. Roosevelt with honorary degrees.

For Mr. Truman, it was the eighth such honor—the fourth in a month.

He motored here from Washington, crossing Chesapeake Bay on a ferry whose passengers craned for a look at him and stretched to hear his casual remarks.

Starts Weekend Cruise

Washington, June 1—(AP)—President Truman boarded the presidential yacht Williamsburg tonight on his return from Chestertown, Md., for a weekend cruise with his family.

White House Press Secretary Charley Ross said the President will spend tonight and tomorrow on the Potomac River and return to the White House tomorrow afternoon at about 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Truman, her daughter Margaret, and other of her relatives were aboard the yacht when the President drove into the Navy Yard at 5:30 P. (E. S. T.).

Ross said the President's sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman of Grandview, Mo., also is making the cruise as are members of the first Lady's family from Independence, Mo.

TRUMAN ASSERTS SENATE HAS HURT HIS LABOR POLICY

Tells Radcliffe His Plan Has Been Vitiated—Receives LL. D.

Chestertown, Md., June 1 (A. P.).—President Truman told Senator Radcliffe (D.-Md.) today that Senate action on his proposed emergency labor control bill had vitiated the legislation. Mr. Truman made his comment in a conversation with Radcliffe as the latter joined other Marylanders in welcoming the President to the Eastern Shore, where he had journeyed by automobile and ferry to receive an honorary degree from Washington College here.

Radcliffe had remarked in greeting the President that the Senate had worked past midnight on the emergency bill for which the President asked Congress last Saturday during the rail strike crisis. The House passed the bill in the form asked by Mr. Truman, but the Senate made major changes, including the deletion of a provision for drafting into the armed forces workers who struck against Government-opeerated facilities.

Parade in Chestertown.

Radcliffe, up for re-election this year, was joined in greeting the President at Sandy Point Ferry by Gov. Herbert O'Conor, his opponent for the Democratic senatorial nomination in the June 24 primary. Senator Tydings (D.-Md.) later joined the party at the college.

The President declared that no single man or single group ever would control this country, and described himself as a small towner who preferred little business to big business, small educational institutions to larger ones. He said that he would rather see 100 steel companies than one United States Steel, a thousand small banks than one National City Bank, and a thousand insurance companies, with four million dollars' worth of assets, than one with four billion dollars.

Small College's Service.

The President said that one thing he liked about Washington College was that it was "a small college in a rural community." Small banks, the President remarked, gave more men a chance to be big shots, adding that in a large bank, you'll find one big shot and a "hundred or so vice-presidents."

Fellow passengers aboard the ferry crossing Chesapeake Bay took a lively interest in the presidential party, which had driven over from Washington during the morning. After he left the ferry, the President drove through crowds lining the streets of Centreville and other towns on the route.

Just outside Chestertown, the President changed to an open car for a parade through the city. He rode with O'Conor, Radcliffe and Representative Dudley Roe (D.-Md), through streets decorated with bunting and flags.

Chestertown, Md., June 1 (AP). Following is the text of President Truman's remarks at Washington College:

Dr. Mead, Colonel Brown, Governor O'Conor, distinguished senators, Congressman Roe, ladies and gentlemen, and this wonderful bevy of graduates—young men and young women—here before me, it is a very great honor to me to be here today.

I can't tell you how much I appreciate it. The honor that is given to me today by this venerable institution—and it is a venerable institution according to our standards in this Western Hemisphere—is one that I'll treasure all the rest of my life.

Likes Rural Atmosphere

This college has a wonderful background and history. I listened to President Mead a while ago as he discussed that background and history. One of the things I like about this college is that it a small college in a rural community.

I was born in a small town. I was raised in a small town. Don't quote me on that in Independence (laughter). I spent the best ten years of my life operating a 540-acre farm in Jackson county, Missouri, and that farm is still home to me.

This is a wonderful institution on account of its connection with the first president of the United States.

Cites Daughter's College

It was my privilege the other night to be present at the graduation of my daughter—at another Washington university in which George Washington was interesetd, and in which he had some measure of helping the founding. In fact, he directed that that institution be founded ni his will.

I understand that he was a trustee of this great institution when he was made President of the United States. A great honor.

Heart Runs To The Soil

My great predecessor whom I succeeded at his death was also an honorary graduate of this great institution and he liked small colleges and small communities and rural communities. He always called himself a farmer. Although he was graduated from Harvard and Columbia in a community that is very large in population, I think his heart ran to the soil. I know that mine does.

I think this country is great on account of its small educational institutions, more than anything else. You know James A. Garfield said that his idea of a college was a bench in a log house with himself on one end of that bench and Mark Hopkins on the other, and his idea on that was that Mark Hopkins was famous as an educator because he was an individual educator.

Hails Individual Touch

In institutions such as this, the teachers and the professors can give individual attention to each member of each class. As you were receiving your diplomas, I listened to Dr. Mead, and he had a special salutatoin for each and every one of you.

Now I would like for the president of Harvard, of Yale, of Columbia or Princeton to have that individual touch that your President had here today. That is what young men and young women need when they are getting an education. They want someone whom they can trust, and they want someone in whom they can have confidence, to whom they can take their problems and have them solved.

Favors Small Institutions

This looks to me as if it is a wonderful class. When the roll was called I thought I was in Jackson county, Missouri, the names are exactly the same.

That is true all over the United States in these small educational institutions. You know, I am rather an advocate of small business, and small educational institutions, and small communities. I have said time and again that I would much rather see a thousand insurance companies with $4,000,000 in assets than one insurance company with four billion. I would rather see a hundred steel companies than one United States Steel Corporation. I would rather see a thousand banks than one National City Bank.

One Big Shot, Many VP's

You know the reason for that? Every one of those small institutions gives some two or three men a chance to be "big shots" in their communities. When you go to the National City Bank or the United States Steel Corporation or the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, you will find one "big shot" and a hundred or so vice presidents—vice presidents—vice presidents. So many vice presidents that you can't tell how the institutions run.

I believe that an institution such as this will contribute more in the long run to the welfare of this great nation of ours than any other thing that is in this country at this time.

Hails Future Citizens

You know I am an optimist so far as the United States of America is concerned. I think it is the greatest country that the sun has ever shown upon, and I think it is facing the greatest age in its history. And I think that is due to the fact that the country is going to be in the hands of you young people here before me today who are going to carry on in the tradition of the great man who was as true as when he became President of the United States, the man who helped to institute the greatest Governmen tin the history of the world—a Government, as I have said time and again, which has a diffusion of powers and which prevents any one man or any one group of men from gaining absolute control. Sometimes they think they have control, but it has never turned out that way—and it never will.

Now I can't tell you how very much I appreciate the honor which you have conferred upon me. I can't tell you how much I appreciate it, but from the bottom of my heart I thank you.

Atom Energy Controls Are Voted By Senate

Legislation Covering Domestic Setup Sent to House—Designed to Fit in With Any International Control Agreement That May Be Reached Later

Washington, June 1—(AP)—Told that the next war may last only minutes, the Senate passed and sent to the House today domestic atomic energy legislation geared to mesh smoothly with any international control agreement.

With a minimum of debate and a scanty attendance, the Senate gave its approval to a bi-partisan sponsored measure to establish a Government monopoly over the production and utilization of fissionable, or explosive, materials such as the [illegible] and plutonium which go into [illegible] bombs.

Approval came on a voice vote.

Before the Senate gave its approval, it wrote into the bill an amendment by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) to bar the filing of claims on public land by persons or groups who were active in the Government's wartime development of atomic energy.

O'Mahoney said the effect would be to deny advantage to those who had "inside information" and used it to take up ore claims.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) told his colleagues that the domestic legislation, setting up a control commission of five members with broad powers, soon must be supplemented by an international agreement through the United Nations.

Unless that is done, the Michigan Senator said the world is liable to experience "the kind of war which lasts minutes instead of months, in which the first casualty list will be the last."

It is his hope, Vandenberg continued, that the nations of the world will be able to agree to prevent the use of atomic power for destructive purposes. Such a pact is being considered now by a United Nations atomic committee on which Bernard M. Baruch represents the United States.

Say Mines Protected

Western Senators raised questions about the effects of the drastic controls of mining but Chairman McMahon (D-Conn.) of a special committee which wrote the bill and Senator Millikin (R-Colo.), a member, gave assurance that the industry had been protected as far as possible.

McMahon told the Senate that rigid domestic controls such as the bill proposes are needed because this country can't afford to "permit any Tom, Dick or Harry to play ball with the stuff annihilation is made of." He said he thought the special, bi-partisan committee had drafted a "commonsense" answer to this problem.

The bill provides for a five-member civilian control commission appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate. The chairman would receive $17,500 a year and other members $15,000.

A military laison committee appointed by the Secretaries of War and Navy would be empowered to protest to the President any commission action it believes it urges on national security. In addition the President would name a board of civilian advisers and Congress would name 18 members, nine from each house, to check the work of the commission.

The House Military Committee has approved a bill giving the Army a large measure of control, but the rules committee in that branch has held the bill up.

Would Foster Research

The Control Commision would foster resarch through contracts, loans and grants to private agencies as well as through its own program. McMahon told his colleagues that while some restrictions would be placed on this field, "we have left our scientists free to think and free to produce."

Under the bill the Government would carry out the production of fissionable, or explosive, material. Private ownership of this material or the facilities to produce it would be banned, but the Government could make contracts for private management of its plants.

Private mining and production of the source ores from which the fissionable material is obtained would be permitted under licenses issued by the commission. The Government would have first right to purchase the source ores.

The commission would produce atomic weapons, under conditions laid down by the President. Military research, however, would be carried on by the Army and Navy, as well as by private individuals.

Before the commission issued a license for the use of atomic power devices for peaceful purposes, it would be required to report to Congress its estimate of the likely effects of such devices on social, political, economic and international conditions. No license could be issued until 90 days after such a report was made to Congress.

The bill provides that any conflicting provisions in it will be superceded by the terms of any international agreement for control of atomic energy.

Vandenberg quoted Baruch as telling him, before confirmation by the Senate, that any United Nations agreement on international control must come back to the Senate for confirmation.

McMahon told the Senate the Special Senate Committee planned to confer with Baruch next week on his plans.

The domestic measure provides drastic penalties up to $20,000 fines and 20 years in prison for violations of the strict secrecy regulations that may be laid down by the commission.

The bill would ban the issuance of patents in the field of explosive material or atomic weapons but a patent compensation board would make awards to inventors.

Atomic Control Bill Is Passed By Senate

Washington, June 1 (AP)—Atomic energy control legislation giving the Government complete authority over the terrific new power source passed the Senate today and was sent to the House.

The bill, drafted by a special Senate committee after months of hearings and study, was approved by a voice vote.

Dealing only with domestic phases of the intricate control problem, the measure nevertheless was drawn to key in with future international agreements over use of the power unleased by nuclear fission.

House Bill Pending

The House has not acted on the control problem. Its Military Committee approved a measure giving the Army a major voice in control, but that bill has been wedged for months in the Rules Committee while the House leadership awaited Senate action.

Senator McMahon (D., Conn.), chairman of the special Senate Atomic Energy Committee, called his bill up unexpectedly today without advance notice. A few hours later the Senate approved it.

Commission Provided

The Senate bill would set up a control commission whose five members would be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

Members would receive $15,000 a year; the chairman, $17,500. They would serve full time—a provision which would bar military men who sought to maintain their connection with the Army.

The commission would function through a $15,000-a-year general manager.

DEMANDS ROMANIA FIX ELECTION DATE

Washington, June 1 (A. P.).—The United States reached behind eastern Europe's "iron curtain" today to register a sharp protest with the Soviet-controled Romanian Government for its alleged curbing of political freedoms. The State Department charged that the Bucharest regime was circumventing commitments it had made on political liberty.

The note, made public last night, contained demands that Romania fix a date for free elections and take measures to protect the opposition parties competing. Paralleling a British protest on the same points, the note asserted that American representatives had investigated or witnessed enough incidents "to establish beyond any doubt that political violence is on the increase."

It also charged that Government censorship was impeding the flow of news from the United States, that the Government was monopolizing broadcasting facilities and that there were increasing instances of organized bands breaking up meetings of parties opposed to the present regime.

Romanian Election Law.

Romania has published the draft of a new election law, the Moscow radio declared today. In a broadcast picked up in New York by NBC, Moscow quoted the Romanian Minister of Justice as saying that the new law will radically change the entire election system and give all citizens reaching the age of 19 the right to vote. The new law also provides a single Chamber of Parliament.

The Romanian Prime Minister, Dr. Petru Groza, announced that elections in that country will be held either late in August or early next September, the British radio said in a broadcast which also was recorded here by NBC.

British Economic Moves In Greece Being Checked

Washington, June 1—(AP)—The State Department said today that the American Embassy in Athens has been asked for the full facts on published reports there that the British are trying to establish a kind of moncpoly control over Greek economy.

It was learned that Carl Rankin, charge d'affaires at Athens, had been advised that if Britain is trying to revive its wartime government commercial corporation and apply it to Greece, the United States would be strongly opposed to such a move.

American policy calls for minimizing trade restrictions and spreading trade among many countries.

FOES OF LOAN TO AIR VIEWS

House Group To Hear Fish On British Aid

Washington, June 1 (AP)—The opposition will begin Monday the presentation of its case against the proposed $3,750,000,000 British loan.

Jesse Jones, former Commerce Secretary, ex-president of the Houston (Texas) Chronicle, will appear Tuesday before the House Banking Committee. The group will hear Hamilton Fish, former member of Congress from New York, on Monday.

The committee probably will vote late next week on the legislation ratifying the transaction. The bill then will move to the House floor, where administration leaders claim enough votes to pass it. The Senate already has approved the legislation.

Attacked In Editorial

Jones was invited to present his views to the committee after he published an editorial under his signature titled: "Subsidizing the British Empire." The editorial said:

"I do not think the proposed British loan of $3,750,000,000 now before Congress should be made and do not believe that any good will come to the American people, or, for that matter, to the economy of the world, from making it in its present form."

He described the proposed loan as "unbusinesslike" and suggested an alternative plan whereby Britain might obtain a loan by posting certain collateral.

Among Its Supporters

Owen J. Roberts, retired justice of the Supreme Court, completed the case for the proponents yesterday, declaring the loan is needed to "get the shackles off international trade" and as an aid to world peace.

Others who have appeared before the committee to support the loan include Fred M. Vinson, Treasury Secretary; Will Clayton, Assistant State Secretary; Marriner S. Eccles, head of the Federal Reserve System; William M. Martin, president of the Export-Import Bank; W. Randolph Burgess, New York, and W. L. Hemingway, St. Louis, representing the American Bankers Association, and Eugene Meyer, editor and publisher of the Washington Post.

Austin Says U. S. Has Fallen From Leadership Heights

Washington, June 1—(AP)—Senator Austin (R-Vt.) said today that "by our ineptitude and surrender to fatigue" the United States had fallen from heights of world leadership.

Speaking at commencement exercises of the School of Advanced International Studies, the Senator called for a specific military and economic program to strengthen the hands of the nation's peace negotiators. His proposals ranged from draft act renewal without "emasculating amendments" and universal military training to reduction of trade barriers.

Referring to these factors as "Peace force," Austin said that their lack had "been felt by our negotiators and delegates in London, and New York and Paris."

As an example, he said that American failure to maintain adequate armed forces had led Russia to believe the United States would fail to fulfill its occupation commitments and United Nations obligations, thereby increasing Moscow's isolationist trend.

"What consternation must Russia have felt on witnessing her greatest ally bowing in subservience to an isolationist minority?" he asked, referrnig to Congress' failure to renew the draft act without "emasculating amednments".

Move to Boost Pay in Services Gains in Senate

Gurney Favors 30% Rise as Compromise Figure; Army Enlistments Slump

WASHINGTON, (AP).—A sharp increase in service men's pay to encourage volunteers gathered powereful bi-partisan support in the Senate today. It was a reaction to demands from supporters of draft extension for a peace-time military force strong enough to uphold this nation's international commitments.

Legislation coupling pay proposals and extension of the draft on a modified basis comes up for Senate consideration Monday. A plan to take it up today was dropped.

How high the Senate would agree to bost the pay of those in the armed forces remained uncertain. Senator Chan Gurney, Republican, of South Dakoa, said he would advocate increases ranging up to 30 per cent for enlisted men, at cost of $474,000,000 a year.

This would "split the difference" between a $632,000,000 measure passed by the House, with increases up to 50 per cent for a private, and recommendation of the Senate Military Affairs Committee which would cost $275,000,000.

War Department officials reported today that the first week after Congress exempted 'teenagers from the draft produced the lowest number of volunteers for any week since the Army started its recruiting campaign last fall.

A total of 10,398 signed up for the seven days ended May 21, compared with 11,043 the previous week.

Selective Service advocates have contended that existence of the draft was a spur to recruiting.

Senator Gurney said that he had been informed by military chiefs that the rate of volunteer enlistments has been falling off about 20,000 monthly. He said that, "as an optimistic estimate," the most that could be expected for the last half of the year would be 30,000 volunteers monthly.

He said 39,000 would be required monthly to meet minimum needs, leaving the forces to obtain 9,000 monthly through re-enlistments or Selective Service. And the draft expires June 30 unless renewed.

A move to depend solely upon volunteers was expected to run into tough opposition from both the Democrats and Republicans who are concerned with rapid demobilization and its impact upon this country's position in international affairs.

Senator Warren R. Austin, Republican, of Vermont, a member of both the Senate Foreign Relations and Military Affairs Committees, said that this country's "lack of a peace force" handicapped United States delegates and negotiators in London, New York and Paris.

He said in an interview that "representations without apparent power to make them good have little persuasiveness."

DEVERS NOTES PROGRAM FOR ARMY RESERVE

Training Plan Is Designed To Keep Corps Abreast Of Developments

Chicago, June 1 (AP)—An intensified training program designed to keep the nation's postwar organized reserve corps abreast of technical developments was outlined tonight by Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commanding general of the Army Ground Forces.

Under the plan now before the War Department general staff, he said, the organized reserve corps will be a component part of the Army. He added that initial organization was expected to get under way by the first of July.

Three Classes Of Units

In a speech before the national convention of the Reserve Officers Association, General Devers gave this outline of the plan:

Three classes of both combat and service-type reserve units will be activated. Class A units, of both service and combat type, will be organized with full complement of officers and enlisted men. Class B units will have officers and an enlisted cadre, while Class C will be made up of officers only.

The Class A service units will be affiliated with industrial, commercial and public-utility organizations.

To Be Assigned To Armies

The reserve units will be assigned to armies and come directly under army commanders for administration, training and supply. Each army headquarters will organize a military-district subheadquarters in each state to supervise activities of the civilian components in that state.

All classes of units will take home training in periods of two hours at a time. The units also will take field training for fifteen days a year at selected training areas.

Equipment will be issued for home training in accordance with the unit's ability to store, guard and maintain such arms. Individual clothing also will be issued.

New ROTC Program

General Devers said the new ROTC program, which requires only certain legislation before being put into effect, includes these innovations:

Extension of the summer camp period to eight weeks, increased allowances for senior ROTC students, modified "flight pay" for advanced air ROTC students and the use of civilian faculty members as instructors in some courses.

Army Recruits Shepherd Dogs

Washington, June 1 (AP)—The Army today started out to recruit German shepherd dogs to fill the depleted ranks of the wartime K-9 Corps.

An undisclosed number will be purchased, the War Department announced, to take the place of war dogs which were loaned to the Army by their owners and have been demobilized.

Animals of many breeds saw war service, but for the postwar K-9 Corps the Army decided to concentrate on the German shepherds which did "outstanding work" as messengers, scouts and sentry dogs.

For healthy and fearless shepherds between 1 and 3½ years old, weighing between 70 and 90 pounds, the Quartermaster Corps is willing to pay up to $150.

To assist in the recruiting campaign and supervise a breeding program to assure a steady future flow of dogs of the type required, an army dog association has been formed, with Reginald M. Cleveland, of Eatontown, N.J., as chairman.

WAGNER CALLS FOR DECISION ON OPA BILL

Asks Senate Banking Committee To Take Action By Tuesday

Washington, June 1 (AP)—Chairman Wagner (D., N.Y.) today called for a final Banking Committee decision Tuesday on remaining points at issue in the price-control extension bill.

At the same time, he said an attempt would be made to void the committee's decision—reached a week ago—removing price controls from meat, poultry and dairy products July 1. A two-vote switch would be required to overturn the decision. Since it was made, the committee has lost one of its members, Carter Glass, of Virginia, whose proxy Wagner held.

The chairman said he was "very hopeful" that the committee can be persuaded to backtrack. OPA officials, with whom Wagner works closely, contend that food prices would skyrocket if meat and dairy products were taken off the ceiling chart.

Conference Tomorrow

Although the committee recessed from today until Tuesday, a group of members, including representatives of both parties, have arranged to confer with OPA officials Monday on the knotty question of price margins.

The House voted to give every producer, processor and dealer, including retailers, cost plus "a reasonable profit." OPA officials called the provision a death wallop.

Several alternate plans have been discussed by the Senate committee. One would allow manufacturers to add to their proven 1941 price the weighted average unit cost increase in their industry. Republicans, who originated that proposal, also are backing another which would bid OPA to maintain historic discounts and markups for wholesalers and retailers.

Seeks To Abolish OPA

The Senate committee has approved a full year's extension of OPA past June 30. The House voted only a nine months' extension. The Senate group, however, has voted to end subsidies May 1, 1947, and allow only $1,100,000,000 for them over the ten months. The senators also voted to give the Secretary of Agriculture the power to decide what agricultural products shall be kept under price control.

Meanwhile, Senator Willis (R., Ind.) announced in a Senate speech that he would press legislation to abolish the Office of Price Control altogether, effective June 30. He said the Agriculture Department could be given control over foodstuffs, with rents and building material prices handled by the National Housing Administration.

SENATE GROUP TO INVESTIGATE FOOD BUNGLING

Murray Asserts Handling of Famine Program Hits Small Business

Washington, June 1—(AP)—Chairman Murray (D.-Mont.), asserted today that the Senate Small Business Committee "firmly believed that the famine relief program abroad "should be carried out so as not to result in unnecessary disruption of American business of unnecessary injury to American workers."

His statment was issued as he disclosed that the committee would open Monday a series of hearings on charges that small food processors and their employes had suffered "extreme hardship because of alleged bungling and mismanagement" of the program.

Lot-Price Rise Looms as Chief Bar to Housing

Wyatt Cites 400-City Study Showing Increases Up to 300% in Cost of Plots

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP).—Wilson W. Wyatt, housing expediter, says inflated prices of home sites threaten to become the biggest barrier to low-cost housing for veterans and other prospective home buyers.

Prices of lots and residential acreage have increased even faster than the prices of houses. This is not limited to a few big, overcrowded cities. Some small cities report a greater increase than the large cities.

A survey of more than four hundred cities by the National Housing Agency indicates that from September, 1945, to February, 1946, the price of lots went up an average of 23.3 per cent. In the six years from 1940 to 1946 the average price advance was 61.8 per cent. A lot which sold for $800 in 1940 brought about $1,288 last winter.

Lot Prices Up 300 Per Cent

In some small cities prices for lots and acreage soared 300 per cent during the war—for example, from $800 to $2,400. One-half of the cities reporting in the N. H. A. survey indicated lot and land prices had advanced 50 per cent or more.

Prices of existing houses which sold for less than $6,000 in 1940 increased an average of 65 per cent by 1946. Prices in the $6,000-$12,000 class rose 57 per cent. Most communities reported that the rate of increase was turning upward sharply early this year. This is not the whole story.

The veterans emergency housing law recently enacted by Congress aims particularly at reasonably low construction costs for the 2,700,000 houses to be started by private industry in 1946 and 1947.

The law authorizes $400,000,000 in government subsidies to spur the production of building materials. Subsidies also will be paid to encourage production of new types of materials which may bring ordinary costs down.

The law also provides price ceilings on new houses and a guaranty by the government of a market for low-cost prefabricated houses.

The maximum ceiling on new homes is $10,000 for a single-family dwelling and $80 a month for a rental unit.

War Department surveys show that most veterans feel the top price they can afford for a house is $6,000 and the top rent is $50. Therefore, N. H. A. plans to channel more and more building materials into moderate and low-cost housing. This will be done by granting priorities for that type of housing.

Veterans have buying and rental priority on all houses built under the emergency program. Five days after the builder starts constructing a house he must place a sign on the premises stating the price of the house and the fact that veterans have priority in buying it.

The sign must be kept up for thirty days after construction is completed if the house then isn't sold to a veteran, it may be bought by a non-veteran.

AUTO OUTPUT DOWN TO 800,000 FOR 1946

Five-Month Figure for 1941 2,102,500—Industry Beset by Labor Stoppages

DETROIT, June 1 (AP)—In the five months just ended the country's automobile plants assembled approximately 800,000 passenger cars and trucks. In the like period of 1941, last full pre-war year of civilian production, the factories turned out 2,102,500 units.

These figures tell the story of the industry's vain effort to get back into high output to meet the largest accumulation of unfilled orders in its history. They tell also why few of the thousands of persons seeking new automobiles will be able to get them this year.

Through many months since the industry turned from war to peacetime activities it has been plagued by shortages of parts and materials due to labor difficulties at its supply sources. The industry's "Big Three" of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler alone report more than 200 work stoppages still current among their suppliers.

A recent tabulation by the trade publication Automobile News disclosed that Chrysler Corporation is leading the industry in production volume, while General Motors, whose plants were strike-bound until April, is only slightly behind Ford.

Ford, which started production last July, has suffered more than half a dozen shutdowns due to parts and materials shortages and is now closed indefinitely for the same reason.

The Automotive News figures show Chrysler's output from Jan. 1 to May 25 was 233,414 cars and trucks; in the like period of 1941 it totaled 580,734. Ford production is placed at 187,068 vehicles against 474,857 in the comparable months of 1941, while General Motors is shown to have assembled 152,516 compared with 1,100,192.

Trade experts still are trying accurately to appraise the backed-up demand for new cars. They know there are many duplications in the thousands of orders thus far placed with retailers; in some instances would-be buyers have sought cars from as many as three and four dealers, hoping at least one might be able to make reasonably early delivery.

There has been some speculation, too, over the possibility that a considerable number of intending buyers, discouraged at the long delay in delivery, might shift their orders to specify 1947 models.

Message Sent Truman

The congress also sent a message to President Truman, asserting that Negro citizens "find the present conditions intolerable" and terming the U.N. appeal "a historical moment in the life of the nation."

An eight-page documented brief, compiled by Dr. Herbert Apetheker, a member of the American Historical Society, was introduced in support of the contention that Negroes in the United States are oppressed.

The congress petitioned under Article 71 of the United Nations Charter, which permits minorities to seek assistance in "prevention of discrimination on ground of race."

"Brutal System" Charged

Dr. Apetheker charged, in his documents, that 13,000,000 Negroes in the United States are restricted to "second-class citizenship, and subjugated to a brutal system of oppression and discrimination based upon the inhuman unscientific Fascist theory of 'racism'."

He declared that "the Negro people, for themselves and for the benefit of all other inhabitants of America, demand full freedom and absolute equality. Nothing short of this will satisfy them. When one is enslaved, all are in chains."

The congress acted unanimously after its executive board approved the petition to the United Nations.

"2d-Class Citizens"

He declared that "the Negro people, for themselves and for the benefit of all other inhabitants of America, demand full freedom and absolute equality. Nothing short of this will satisfy them. When one is enslaved, all are in chains."

Signed by Dr. Max Yergan, president of the congress, the petition asked the United Nations:

1. To make such studies as it may deem necesasry of "political, economic and social discrimination" against Negroes.

2. To make such recommendations and take such other actions as it may deem proper with respect to the facts stated, to the end that "higher standards" in the field of human rights may be achieved in the United States and "discrimination and other abuses" on the grounds of race and color may be "checked and eliminated."

3. To take such other and further steps as may seem just and proper to end the oppression of the American Negro.

Robeson Hits Truman Policies

Meanwhile, outspoken condemnation of President Truman's labor and foreign policies was voiced by Negro Singer Paul Robeson and other speakers at the Negro freedom rally sponsored last night by the congress.

Delegates to the congress' tenth-anniversary convention heard Robeson, in a radio address, say: "Our Government is no longer the friend of labor and the Negro people, as during the days of the great Roosevelt. It is decidedly not an instrument through which the will of the American people can be achieved."

Addes, Davis Present

Also appearing on the speakers' platform last night under a banner carrying the convention's slogan, "A Death Blow to Jim Crow," were George Addes, secretary-treasurer of the CIO United Auto Workers, and Benjamin Davis, Jr., Negro member of the New York City Council.

Addes told the delegates the UAW was launching "a new all-out effort to secure General Motors' signature to a national agreement banning Jim Crow practices in all General Motors plants."

Named Army Ordnance Chief

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP).—Major General Everett S. Hughes, veteran of two world wars, became army chie fof ordnance today succeeding Lieutenant General Levin H. Campbell jr. General Hughes has been acting chief since February, when he returned from Europe after serving as inspector general of American forces and earlier as deputy commander for the North African Theater.

U.S. April Employment Hits Peacetime Peak

Washington, June 1 (AP)—Employment in April reached a new peacetime peak for that month, but the United States Employment Service predicted today the coal and rail strikes will have retarding effects "in months to come."

The April peak was 54,550,000 employed persons, slightly above any prewar figures for April but still under wartime levels, Robert C. Goodwin, USES director, said in a statement.

"Eight months after the end of the war, the labor market had weathered the transition from war to peace," Goodwin said, calling demobilization four fifths complete.

ANIMALS OFF TO BIKINI

San Francisco, June 1 (A. P.).—A cargo of animals faintly resembling that of Noah's Ark sailed today aboard the Navy transport Burleson for a rendezvous with destiny at Bikini Atoll.

The ship carried about 4,000 white rats, 200 goats from the region of Houston, Tex.; 200 pigs from Sacramento, Cal.; an odd assortment of disease germs and insects, a few guinea pigs and a few mice. The animals will experience the effects of the atomic bomb in "operation crossroads."

Like Noah's charges, they will ride out a catastrophe — this time a man-made one — which may affect the future of the whole world. Their keepers expect many to survive the fury of the splintered atoms and live to a ripe old age in the luxury of Government laboratories.

The day before the first blast at Bikini, they will be placed in strategic positions aboard twenty - two of the seventy - seven target ships. As soon as it is safe for humans to board the ships after the first bombing, the animals will be returned to the Burleson and examined by doctors and biological scientists seeking answers to thousands of questions about the effects of atom blasts on living things.

peace insurance is financing a research program which will keep this nation ahead of all others in war methods.

"Hope To Be Prepared"

He described the coming atom bomb experiments at Bikini as a laboratory test needed to gather information—and not a contest between the Navy and the Air Forces.

"We hope the United Nations organization keeps us out of war," he said. "If not, we hope to be prepared for the next one."

The "Peaks of Progress" observance is held annually to choose the eight outstanding developments of the year. The return of peace topped this year's peaks, followed by atomic developments.

Baptists Plan To Hold Congress In Denmark

Atlanta, June 1 (AP)—The next World Congress of Baptists will be held at Copenhagen, Denmark, July 29-August 3, 1947, Dr. Louie D. Newton, chairman of the administrative committee of the Baptist World Alliance, announced today.

The meeting, first since the Atlanta session in 1939, was originally scheduled for Rangoon, Burma, in 1944, but was canceled because of the war.

Dr. Newton said the decision to meet in Denmark was made at a committee meeting in Washington last week, which also saw the appointment of Dr. W. O. Lewis, general secretary of the alliance, as administrator for Baptist relief activities in Europe. Dr. Newton said the new administrator would establish offices either in Berlin or Paris.

below at the right angle for dropping a depth bomb. The Columbia announcement said that in the critical days after the invasion of Normandy, part of the German U-boat fleet in the Mediterranean remained bottled up because no boat could pass Gibraltar.

The finger was called MAD operator, from its right name which is magnetic airborne detector. It works on the same general principle as the land mine detector, the ship's cable that protected against German magnetic sea mines and the detectors miners use in prospecting.

Instrument Very Sensitive

But this MAD operator is far more sensitive. It reads magnetic disturbances smaller and more complicated than other magnetic instruments. When the scientists were developing the detector, they could not wear steel-rimmed spectacls because these rims caused magnetic interference. The same was true of shoe nails, watches and pocket knives. Sometimes the research men had to search their clothing for odd bits of metal.

The earth itself interfered with early developments. The work had to be started in one of the spots which for some reason not understood are magnetically quiet. Quonset Point, R.I., is one such place, and the work started there early in 1941. Later it moved to La-Guardia Field, and to Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island, N.Y.

LeMay Calls Pittsburgh Our Next 'Pearl Harbor'

Pittsburgh, June 1 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, former commanding general of the 21st Bomber Command which A-bombed Japan, warned bluntly today that the nation could expect the next war to start by bombs dropping on its Pittsburgh industrial vitals rather than on a military installation such as Pearl Harbor.

At a "Peaks of Progress" breakfast held by a Pittsburgh department store, the General said:

"Pittsburgh is the center of our vital area—if that is destroyed, we're through."

B-29 Called Obsolescent

Much of the nation's steel and soft coal come from the highly industrialized valleys of the Pittsburgh area.

LeMay classified the famed B-29 as "obsolescent" and declared that 10,000-mile range heavy bombers put this nation in peril from any country capable of waging a first-class war.

LeMay, now assistant chief of the air staff for research and development, said our cheapest form of Negroes Ask U.N. For Help For 'Relief From Oppression'

Detroit, June 1 (AP)—In a demand for "full freedom and absolute equality," the National Negro Congress today petitioned the United Nations to bring "relief from oppresion" to 13,000,000 members of the race in the United States.

The highlight of the congress' tenth anniversary convention was a letter to Secretary General Trygve Lie, of the U.N., requesting action under Article 71, of the Charter.

The article permits minorities to ask assistance to prevent discrimination [illegible] race."

[illegible] Statement Issued

In New York, a spokesman for Lie issued the following statement:

"No such communication has yet come to Mr. Lie's attention. If such a communication is received it will, of course, be acknowledged and studied to determine what consideration, if any, the United Nations may appropriately give to it under provisions of the Charter."

The petition to the U.N. read in part:

"It is with profound regret that we, a section of the Negro people, having failed to bring relief from oppresion through constitutional appeal, find ourselves forced to bring this vital issue which we have sought for almost a century since emancipation to solve within the boundary of our country—to the attention of this historic body."

Negro Group Asks U.N. To Halt 'Racism' In U.S.

Detroit, June 1 (AP)—The National Negro Congress today asked the United Nations to intervene to halt "oppression" of 13,000,000 American Negroes.

In a letter to Trygve Lie, Secretary General of the United Nations, the 1,000 delegates expressed "profound regret that we, a section of the Negro people, having failed to bring relief from oppression through constitutional appeal, find ourselves forced to bring this vital issue—which we have sought for almost a century since emancipation to solve within the boundary of our country—to the attention of this historic body."

In a companion message to President Truman, the congress termed its United Nations appeal "a historical moment in the life of the nation."

Army Planes Reporting Setting 13 Speed Marks

Washington, June 1 (AP)—Army planes have broken thirteen international speed records within recent weeks, Army Air Forces headquarters reported today in announcing a forthcoming disclosure of aerial developments at Wright Field, Ohio.

Details were withheld for a "national press conference" there June 3-5. Attempts will be made Monday, first day of the conference, to break four additional records.

Some 150 writers, officials said, have been invited to the Wright Field meeting, which was arranged to demonstrate advances in jet and rocket propulsion among other postwar developments in military aircraft.

Magnetic Finger Disclosed As New American War Secret

New York, June 1 (AP)—A new war secret, a magnetic finger on airplanes, that pointed unerringly at submarines beneath the water, and that sealed Gibraltar's straits to U-boat passage, was disclosed today by Columbia University.

The finger is a magnetic detector, small enough to be attached to the extreme tail end of a plane or trailed from the end of a cable. In practice it was trailed from a cable to free it from the magnetic influences of the plane. It picks up and points to the magnetic disturbance of a steel ship.

Part Of Fleet Bottled Up

This finger begins pointing in a wide cone above a submarine. The plane then circles until the magnetic device says the submarine is

The announcement was made by Dr. George B. Pegram, dean of Columbia's graduate faculties. The work was co-operative, by Columbia's airborne instruments laboratory, Navy Bureau of Aeronautics and Ordnance, Bell Telephone Laboratories, Gulf Research and Development Company, National Defense Research Committee, and the Office of Scientific Research and Defense.

At Washington, W. E. Wrather, director of the Geological Survey, said the magnetic finger had been used in aerial hunts for new iron and petroleum producing areas, and was "100 times as fast as ground surveys," and more accurate.

Used By Geological Survey

He asserted the finger had been used for two years by the Geological Survey and more than 40,000 square miles had been covered, from northern Alaska to the Gulf of Mexico.

Whether the device will locate sunken ships and buried treasure is not known, but if the water is not deep it ought to show the same indications for a ship full of gold as a submarine full of torpedoes, Capt. F. S. Withington, officer in charge of the navy ordnance laboratory, said.

BIKINI TEST 'A BOONDOGGLE'

Such Is View Of Dr. Louis Ridenour, M.I.T. Physicist

New York, June 1 (AP)—Operation Crossroads, the atomic bomb test scheduled for next month at Bikini atoll in the Pacific, was described tonight as "a gigantic boondoggle" by Dr. Louis Ridenour, physicist of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"I believe that if one set out to arrange conditions so that as little of value as possible could be accomplished by exploding an atomic bomb, he could scarcely do better than will be done this July at Bikini," declared Dr. Ridenour in a broadcast address.

Explains "Best" Way

"It will be hard for the newspapers to restrain themselves if these predictions prove to be anywhere near the truth, from running banner headlines which scream 'Navy Survives Atom Bomb'," Dr. Ridenour asserted.

"This conclusion is entirely misleading: for not only would an enemy use an atomic bomb against ships by means of a deep-water explosion, but also it is dubious whether an enemy would use an atomic bomb against ships at all.

The physicist declared that "all scientists are in agreement that the best way to use an atomic bomb against ships is to set it off at a very considerable depth in open sea" but pointed out that this type of test had been postponed until 1947.

He added that his "guess" was that between one and three ships might be sunk by the air burst of the atomic bomb planned for July, and that slightly greater damage might be caused by the surface burst planned for later in the summer.

"Could Kill Up To 100,000"

"If he could drop such a bomb on a city, this enemy could destroy a square mile or so and kill up to 100,000 people; to use such a weapon on a few ships and a few thousand men seems wasteful in the extreme."

The scientist suggested that more could be accomplished by exploding one bomb in view of millions of people who could "see for themselves the majesty and the terror of the explosion" and by testing a second bomb's effects against buildings constructed on occidental lines.

New London Bases Part of 16th Fleet In 'Operation Zipper'

New York, June 1—(AP)—The 16th Fleet, largest in the Navy, is quietly being buttoned up in "operation zipper" at eight Atlantic and Gulf ports, but the 1,000 vessels can put to sea in an emergency in a maximum of 30 days, District Naval Headquarters said today.

Among the ports and ships to be laid up in them are: New London, Conn.—54 submarines and several smaller vessels. New York—three battle cruisers and three large carriers. Boston—19 escort carriers and six smaller craft.

Ranging from modern battlewagons to tugs, the ships are being inactivated through use of cleaning materials, paint and preservatives, and nested with only skeleton crews or caretakers.

The vessels originally cost $5,557,700,000, the Navy said, and they can be kept in a battle-poised status for an estimated $3,812,600 a year exclusive of salaries of the 1,155 officers and 13,441 men who will look after them. The Navy estimates the inactivation process will preserve each vessel at least 20 years with a minimum of upkeep and overhaul.

Murray said the committe had receiver reports of "unbelievable situations" allegedly caused "by gross incompetence on the part of the Department of Agriculture and other Federal agencies." He added:

"It is further claimed that such situations have resulted from a fundamental lack of knowledge on the part of administrative officials of the very rudiments of food and food processing problems."

Murray said that a "preliminary examination of the problem showed an amazing number of Federal agencies, each dealing with the food programs of this and foreign countries." Among them he listed the State Department, Office of Defense Transportation, War Shipping Administration, the War, Navy and Agriculture Departments.

He said that the committee would call as witnesses Agriculture Secretary Clinton P. Anderson, Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson, Assistant Secretary of State William L. Clayton, Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace, UNRRA Direstor General Fiorello La Guardia, and Chester Bowles, Director of the Office of Economic Stabilization.

PARIS, JUNE 1-(AP)-MAJOR DECISIONS AFFECTING THE FUTURE OF FRANCE WILL BE MADE IN TOMORROW'S EMPIRE-WIDE ELECTIONS TO CHOOSE A NEW CONSTITUTION-WRITING CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY, WITH THE RESULTS EXPECTED TO PROVIDE A DEFINITE SHOWDOWN BETWEEN THE COMMUNISTS AND THE SOCIALISTS.

FORMER PREMIER LEON BLUM, WHOSE SOCIALIST PARTY IN A BETTER PRE-ELECTION CAMPAIGN CHARGED THE COMMUNISTS WITH FOLLOWING SOVIET POLICY TOO CLOSELY, DECLARED THAT THE ELECTION HAS IMPLICATIONS EVEN BEYOND THE FRENCH EMPIRE'S BORDERS.

BLUM, JUST RETURNED FROM HIS SUCCESSFUL LOAN MISSION TO AMERICA, TOLD THE NATION IN A RADIO ADDRESS THAT "EUROPE AND THE WORLD ARE LOOKING FOR THEIR CONSTITUTION, LIKE FRANCE."

HE SAID THAT A "WRONG DECISION" BY THE VOTERS COULD RENDER FRANCE'S POSITION DIFFICULT AT THE NEXT SESSION OF THE FOREIGN MINISTERS' CONFERENCE, AND FACILITATE "THE DIVISION OF EUROPE AND THE WORLD INTO ANTAGONISTIC BLOCS--A DIVISION WHICH WOULD HAVE REPERCUSSIONS ON THE INTERIOR OF EACH COUNTRY."

BLUM DID NOT SPECIFY THAT "A WRONG DECISION" WOULD BE A COMMUNISTY VICTORY.

POPE PIUS XII, IN A BROADCAST, NOTED THAT BOTH ITALY AND FRANCE WOULD HOLD ELECTIONS TOMORROW AND SAID THE DECISION WOULD BE WHETHER "TO CONTINUE THE CHRISTIAN WAY OF LIFE OR CHOOSE A MATERIALISTIC STATE--WITHOUT RELIGION AND WITHOUT GOD."

APPROXIMATELY 20,000,000 VOTERS WILL GO TO THE POLLS THROUGHOUT THE EMPIRE, EXCEPT IN INDOCHINA AND REUNION ISLAND, TO CHOOSE FROM MORE THAN 3,000 CANDIDATES FOR THE 586 ASSEMBLY SEATS. INDOCHINA IS REGARDED AS TOO UNSETTLED TO VOTE, AND REUNION ISLAND'S VOTE WAS POSTPONED UNTIL JUNE 16 FOLLOWING THE SLAYING OF AN MRP CANDIDATE WHILE MAKING A CAMPAIGN SPEECH IN THE INDIAN OCEAN COLONY EAST OF MADAGASCAR.

THE PREVIOUS ASSEMBLY DRAFTED A CONSTITUTION PROVIDING FOR A POWERFUL UNICAMERAL LEGISLATIVE SYSTEM, ONLY TO HAVE IT DEFEATED IN A REFERENDUM ON MAY 5. IT WAS THE FIRST MAJOR SETBACK FOR THE FRENCH LEFT SINCE THE LIBERATION.

THE HOLDINGS IN THE OLD ASSEMBLY WERE: COMMUNISTS 151, WITH AFFILIATES 159; MRP, 150, SOCIALISTS 139, WITH AFFILIATES 146; REPUBLICAN RALLY (RADICAL SOCIALISTS) 25, WITH AFFILIATES 60; PRL, 37, WITH AFFILIATES 64.

A155

INSPIRED BY BLUM'S SUCCESS IN NEGOTIATING THE AMERICAN LOAN, THE SOCIALISTS HAVE HAMMERED HARD AT THE COMMUNISTS, CHARGING THAT "THE FRENCH COMMUNIST PARTY BASES ITS POLICY ON THE POLITICS OF SOVIET RUSSIA, EVEN WHEN THESE ARE IN OPPOSITION, OR IN CONTRADICTION WITH THE EVIDENT INTERESTS OF THE FRENCH WORKING CLASS."

THE COMMUNISTS, FRANCE'S LARGEST SINGLE PARTY, SUPPORTED BY 25 PERCENT OF THE VOTE LAST OCTOBER, HAVE COUNTERATTACKED WITH THE SUPPORT OF A VAST TRADE UNION CAMPAIGN FOR UNFREEZING SALARIES AND BOOSTING THEM SUBSTANTIALLY. SOME OBSERVERS FEEL THIS CARRIES THE THREAT OF POSSIBLE LARGE-SCALE STRIKES AFTER THE ELECTIONS.

REGROUPING OF CENTRIST STRENGTH IS EXPECTED TO LEAD TO ITS INCLUSION IN THE NEW GOVERNMENT, PROVIDING SUBSTANTIAL SUPPORT FOR ADVOCATES OF A TWO-HOUSE LEGISLATURE, A STRONGER EXECUTIVE AND INDEPENDENCE OF THE JUDICIARY. THIS STAND IS FAVORED BY THE MRP, REPUBLICAN RALLY AND PRL, WHO WANT A LESS REVOLUTIONARY CONSTITUTION.

THE SOCIALISTS HAVE EXPRESSED WILLINGNESS TO MAKE SUBSTANTIAL CONCESSIONS ON ALL THREE POINTS. ONLY THE COMMUNISTS HAVE REMAINED ADAMANT FOR A SINGLE, ALL-POWERFUL LEGISLATURE.

Paris, June 1--(AP)--A high ranking American diplomat said today that the United States was definitely opposed to internationalizing the city of Trieste, a proposal [redacted] which was expected to come before the next foreign ministers' council [redacted].

American officials, who were asked about reports that Britain and Russia had been negotiating on establishing the important Adriatic Sea community as another international city like pre-war Danzig, said they did not know such a decision actually was being proposed.

American objections to this internationalization, the official said,

Deputy foreign ministers, preparing for the next ministers' council, decided today to work double shifts through the next two weeks to complete their reports. Beginning Monday they will hold two sessions daily to review disputed points in the proposed treaties with Italy, the Balkan nations and Finland, beginning with war criminals and pre-war bilateral treaties.

ALL WERE VOLUNTARY REPATRIATES, BUT SOME WERE A LITTLE UNCERTAIN ABOUT THEIR FUTURE IN THE FAR EAST. ALL COULD SPEAK JAPANESE, WERE GENERALLY WELL DRESSED AND WHILE WAITING TO BOARD THEFORMER UNITED STATES TROOP SHIP, STOOD IMPASSIVELY.

THE FEELING AMONG MOST OF THE OLDER PERSONSWAS THAT THEY HAD FAMILIES IN JAPAN AND WISHED TO RETURN TO SPEND THE REST OF THEIR LIVES THERE.

ABOARD THE MT.MCKINLEY SUNDAY, JUNE 2-(AP)-THIS COMMAND SHIP OF THE TASK FORCE FOR "OPERATION CROSSROADS" ANCHORED TODAY IN THE MIDST OF THE MIGHTY ATOM BOMB FLEET IN BIKINI LAGOON.

APPROXIMATELY 160 TARGET AND SUPPORT SHIPS SALUTED THE MT. MCKINLEY AS THE SHIP MANEUVERED SLOWLY INTO AN ANCHORAGE POSITION TWO MILES OFF BIKINI, IN THE MARSHALLS.

ALL TARGET SHIPS FOR THE ATOM BOMB TEST, SCHEDULED FOR JULY 1 OR SHORTLY THEREAFTER, ARE ON HAND EXCEPT THE GERMAN CRUISER PRINZ EUGEN, THE BATTLESHIP NEW YORK AND TWO LSTS.

VICE ADM.W.H.P.BLANDY, TASK FORCE CHIEF, SAID A TOTAL OF 92 TARGET VESSELS WOULD BE USED WITH 25 VESSELS IN THE FIRST ARRAY, PLUS 12 SMALL LANDING CRAFT. ALL FIVE BATTLESHIPS, INCLUDING THE JAPANESE BATTLESHIP NAGATO WILL BE USED IN THE FIRST ARRAY AS W AS BOTH CARRIERS AND ALL EIGHT SUBMARINES.

EVEN THOUGH IT PREVIOUSLY HAD BEEN ANNOUNCED THAT THE TARGET SHIPS WOULD BE ARRAYED IN CLOSER POSITION THAN IN A ROUTINE ANCHORAGE, THOSE ABOARD THE MCKINLEY WERE AMAZED AT THE TIGHT CONCENTRATION OF THE FLEET.

AT THE AIMING POINT IS THE RUDDY RED BATTLESHIP NEVADA WHICH SAILORS HAVE DUBBED "SCARLET FEVER." NOT FAR FROM HER IS THE RUSTY AND BATTERED NAGATO, OFFERING SHARP CONTRAST WITH THE SHIPSHAPE AMERICAN TARGET VESSELS.

WASHINGTON, JUNE 1-(AP)-THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN WERE REPORTED TONIGHT TO BE DISCUSSING WHEN AND UNDER WHAT CIRCUMSTANCES THEY SHOULD ABANDON THE WARTIME BLACK LIST OF FIRMS, PRINCIPALLY IN LATIN AMERICAN AND EUROPEAN NEUTRAL COUNTRIES, ACCUSED OF HAVING AIDED THE AXIS DURING THE WAR.

OFFICIALS FAMILIAR WITH THE DISCUSSIONS INDICATED THAT DECISIONS MIGHT BE REACHED FAIRLY SOON, BUT THAT NO DATE HAD YET BEEN FIXED.

SEVERAL THOUSAND FIRMS IN SOUTH AMERICA, TURKEY, SWEDEN, SWITZERLAND, SPAIN AND OTHER NATIONS WHICH WERE NEUTRAL DURING MOST OR ALL OF THE WAR REMAIN ON THE AMERICAN LIST. THE TOTAL HAS BEEN CONSIDERABLY REDUCED FROM ITS PEAK AT THE TIME THE WAR ENDED.

THE AMERICAN AND BRITISH LISTS, WHILE DEVELOPED SEPARATELY, HAVE ALWAYS BEEN CLOSELY COORDINATED AND IN THE MAIN COVERED THE SAME COMPANIES.

THE EFFECT OF LISTING A FIRM HAS BEEN TO DENY IT PRIVILEGES OF TRADING IN THE UNITED STATES OR WITH AMERICAN CONCERNS ABROAD UNDER THE "TRADING WITH THE ENEMY ACT" ADMINISTERED BY THE TREASURY. SEVERE PENALTIES ARE PROVIDED FOR AMERICAN COMPANIES WHICH COULD BE FOUND GUILTY OF DEALING WITH BLACK LISTED FIRMS.

JUN 3 1946

ONE USE OF THE BLACK LIST SINCE THE WAR ENDED HAS BEEN TO PREVENT AMERICAN CONCERNS FROM TRADING WITH COMPANIES WHICH PROFITED BY AXIS CONNECTIONS DURING THE WAR AND WHICH MAY BE HOLDERS OF AXIS ASSETS IN EUROPEAN WARTIME NEUTRAL COUNTRIES.

(ADVANCE) WASHINGTON, JUNE 1-(AP)-F.H.LAGUARDIA, UNRRA DIRECTOR GENERAL, SAID TODAY THAT FLOODS, HEAVY RAINS AND THE RAILROAD STRIKE HAVE CUT GRAIN EXPORTS TO SUCH AN EXTENT THAT SEVERAL NATIONS DEPENDENT ON UNRRA ASSISTANCE FACE ACUTE SHORTAGES DURING JUNE.

"DURING THE PAST WEEK WE SENT 79,991 TONS OF BREAD CEREALS WHICH BROUGHT THE TOTAL UP TO 243,400 TONS FOR THE FIRST 27 DAYS OF THE MONTH. IN ORDER TO MEET THE AMOUNT NEEDED TO FILL THE COMBINED FOOD BOARD'S ALLOCATION TO UNRRA OF 490,000 TONS FOR MAY, WE WOULD HAVE HAD TO SHIP NEARLY ONE QUARTER MILLION TONS IN THE LAST FOUR DAYS OF THE MONTH," THE UNRRA STATEMENT SAID.

LAGUARDIA SAID THE CONSEQUENCES WILL BE "PARTICULARLY SEVERE" IN GREECE WHERE THE PEOPLE ARE EATING UP THEIR GRAIN STOCKPILES IN ORDER TO EXIST. HE ADDED THAT THEY WILL BE ALMOST AS BAD IN ITALY, THAT A DIET OF ONLY 700 CALORIES A DAY WILL BE AVAILABLE FOR AUSTRIA FOR JUNE, AND THAT POLAND INDICATES A CONTINUED "CRITICAL NEED" OF AID UNTIL JANUARY, 1947.

(350) EUROPEAN ELECTIONS
BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, JUNE 1-(AP)-AMERICAN OFFICIALS ARE KEEPING CLOSE WATCH THIS WEEK-END ON BALLOTING IN FRANCE AND ITALY FOR EVIDENCE OF TRENDS WHICH MAY SHAPE THE HISTORY OF EUROPE FOR MANY YEARS.

PERHAPS FIRST IN THE MINDS OF STATE DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS AND FOREIGN DIPLOMATS HERE IS THE QUESTION OF WHAT STRENGTH THE COMMUNISTS WILL SHOW. THAT, TAKEN IN CONJUNCTION WITH THE DEGREE OF ACCEPTANCE OF RUSSIAN POLICIES IN EASTERN EUROPE, MAY BE A DETERMINING FACTOR IN THE DIRECTION OF FUTURE RUSSIAN-AMERICAN RELATIONS.

THAT IS BECAUSE AMERICAN DIPLOMATIC AUTHORITIES APPEAR UNCONVINCED THAT RUSSIA'S PLANS FOR SPREADING HER INFLUENCE IN EUROPE BY THE USE OF TROOPS COMBINED WITH POLITICAL PRESSURE IN THE EAST, AND THROUGH COMMUNIST PARTY ACTIVITIES IN THE WEST, IS NOT WORKING OUT AS WELL AS MOSCOW HAD HOPED. THEY ALSO APPEAR TO BE OF THE OPINION THAT A MODIFICATION OF THESE POLICIES MIGHT PROVIDE A WAY TOWARD FRIENDLIER RUSSIAN-AMERICAN AGREEMENT ON THE PROBLEMS OF EUROPE.

THE VOTING IN FRANCE IS PERHAPS CRITICAL IN THIS RESPECT. IT EVIDENTLY WAS NO ACCIDENT THAT WASHINGTON OFFICIALS FINALLY GOT THROUGH A $1,400,000,000 LOAN AND CREDIT FOR THE FRENCH IN TIME FOR A PRE-ELECTION ANNOUNCEMENT EARLY LAST WEEK.

THE EVIDENT AMERICAN HOPE IS THAT THE COMMUNISTS WILL NOT SHOW EXTRAORDINARY STRENGTH NOR YET LOSE SO HEAVILY AS TO ENDANGER THEIR POSITION IN THE LEFTIST COALITION GOVERNMENT.

GOVERNMENT EXPERTS ON FRANCE SAY THAT THE COMMUNISTS ARE NOW SO STRONG IN THE POLITICAL LIFE IN THE COUNTRY THAT NO GOVERNMENT COULD LONG FUNCTION IN OPPOSITION TO THEM. AND AMERICAN POLICY, AUTHORITATIVE INFORMANTS SAY, CALLS FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF A STRONG FRANCE POLITICALLY STABLE WITH TRADITIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONCEPTS.

WHILE THE ISSUES IN FRANCE, REVOLVING AROUND CHOICE OF MEMBERS FOR THE NATIONAL LEGISLATURE, WERE FAIRLY CLEARLY DRAWN ON POLITICAL LINES, THE BROAD IMPLICATIONS OF THE VOTING IN ITALY ON A REFERENDUM ON THE MONARCHY WERE PERHAPS NOT QUITE SO CLEAR. COMMUNISTS IN ITALY HAVE BEEN VERY ACTIVE AGAINST THE MONARCHICAL INSTITUTION BUT THE ISSUE IS BY NO MEANS EXCLUSIVELY A COMMUNIST ONE.

IN EASTERN EUROPE THE SITUATION IS MUCH MORE OBSCURE BUT REPORTS COMING OUT OF POLAND, AMONG OTHER COUNTRIES, TELL OF ORGANIZED UNDERGROUND ACTIVITIES AGAINST THE RUSSIAN-SUPPORTED CENTRAL GOVERNMENT.

DRAFT (300)

WASHINGTON, JUNE 1-(AP)-PROMPT EXTENSION OF THE DRAFT TO STRENGTHEN THE HAND OF THE UNITED STATES IN INTERNATIONAL NEGOTIATIONS WAS DEMANDED TODAY BY SENATOR AUSTIN (R-VT) AS THE SENATE PLUNGED INTO A VOLUNTEER-VERSUS-CONSCRIPTION DEBATE OVER THE FUTURE OF THE ARMED FORCES.

HIS ARGUMENTS PINNED TIGHTLY TO THE CONTENTION THAT THIS COUNTRY "MUST REGAIN THE PRESTIGE LOST SINCE VICTORY," THE VERMONT LEGISLATOR SAID IN AN INTERVIEW THAT THE "LACK OF A PEACE FORCE" HAS BEEN HANDICAPPING THE UNITED STATES IN POST WAR DEALINGS WITH OTHER MAJOR POWERS.

A MEMBER OF BOTH THE SENATE MILITARY AND FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEES, AUSTIN TARTLY DECLARED THAT "PEOPLE WHO HAVE SUFFERED MILITARY AGGRESSION X X X HAVE LITTLE FAITH IN PROMISES WITHOUT WORKS. REPRESENTATIONS WITHOUT APPARENT POWER TO MAKE THEM GOOD HAVE LITTLE PERSUASIVENESS."

AUSTIN'S VIEWS WERE ADVANCED WITH THE VIRTUAL CERTAINTY THAT EFFORTS WILL BE MADE ON THE SENATE FLOOR TO SCRAP THE SELECTIVE SERVICE MACHINERY COMPLETELY, OR TO ACCEPT A HOUSE-APPROVED MORATORIUM ON THE DRAFT UNTIL OCTOBER.

AGAINST BOTH PROPOSALS HAVE BEEN TRAINED THE HEAVY GUNS OF THE ARMED FORCES, BACKED UP BY SECRETARY OF STATE BYRNES WHO HAS EXPRESSED DEEP CONCERN IN PRIVATE OVER DEMOBILIZATION BELOW THE LEVEL NECESSARY TO MAINTAIN PRESENT MILITARY COMMITTMENTS.

THE HOUSE MEASURE, IN ADDITION TO IMPOSING THE MORATORIUM I ON INDUCTIONS, WOULD EXTEND THE LIFE OF SELECTIVE SERVICE NINE MONTHS FROM ITS PRESENT JUNE 30 EXPIRATION DATE, BAR INDUCTION OF TEEN AGERS AND FATHERS, AND GRANT SERVICE MEN AND WOMEN PAY BOOSTS RANGING FROM TEN TO 50 PERCENT.

AS RESHAPED BY THE SENATE MILITARY COMMITTEE, THE BILL WOULD:

1. LIMIT THE COMBINED STRENGTH OF THE ARMY, NAVY AND MARINE CORPS TO 1,736,000 BY JULY 1, 1947.
2. CONTINUE THE LIFE OF SELECTIVE SERVICE UNTIL MAY 15, 1947.
3. PROVIDE FOR AUTOMATIC DISCHARGE AFTER OCTOBER 1 OF THOSE WITH 18 MONTHS SERVICE.
4. RETAIN THE HOUSE-ACCEPTED NO-FATHERS CLAUSE, AND PROVIDE FOR DISCHARGE AFTER AUGUST 1 UPON REQUEST OF FATHERS ALREADY IN SERVICE.

THE COMMITTEE LEFT THE PAY INCREASE QUESTION TO SEPARATE LEGISLATION.

CHAIRMAN THOMAS (D-UTAH) SAID HE WOULD ATTEMPT TO OBTAIN SENATE APPROVAL OF THE COMMITTEE'S DRAFT EXTENDER MEASURE WITHOUT CHANGE, AND THEN TRY TO IRON OUT DIFFERENCES WITH THE HOUSE IN A JOINT CONFERENCE COMMITTEE.

Red Party in France Suffers Setback In Voting for Assembly

COMMUNISTS TRAIL MODERATE MRP AS ELECTION IS CLOSE

Popular Republicans Gain 160 Seats, Reds Win 145.

R. WILSON

DEGAULLE MAY GET BID

Socialists Make Poor Showing Despite Blum's Popularity.

PARIS, Monday, June 3—(AP) French leftists suffered a sharp setback yesterday in the national elections for a new constituent assembly, with the centrist Popular Republican Movement (MRP) ousting the Communists as the nation's most powerful single party, returns for all of continental France showed today.

Unofficial figures issued by the Interior ministry showed the MRP won 160 seats in the assembly of the 522 allotted to continental France.

Unofficial Returns

The Interior ministry's figures for continental France and Corsica showed the Communists took 145 seats, the Socialists 115, the rightist Liberal Republicans (PRL) 59 and the Republican Rally (radical socialists) 43. The MRP won no seats in the Corsica voting.

The defeat was the second suffered by the Communists within a month. In the referendum of May 5, French voters defeated a proposed national constitution supported by the Communists.

The MRP victory touched off unconfirmed rumors at the Interior ministry that the MRP—one of whose leaders is Foreign Minister Georges Bidault—might ask Gen. deGaulle, former interim president, to return to politics as its candidate to head the new provisional government.

The MRP's unofficial total of 160 seats surpassed the Communist hold on the previous constituent assembly. At last October's election, the Communists gained 159 seats on the basis of the vote of the entire French electorate, including the colonies.

Socialists Far Behind

The Socialists lost heavily despite popularity gained by their leader, Leon Blum, as the result of his recent negotiation of a loan from the United States. The party's pre-election campaign was high-lighted by a violent anti-Communist drive.

The MRP, the Communists and the Socialists formed a three-party coalition which governed France before today's elections, and it was indicated the same bloc probably would continue to rule the nation.

Other representation in the assembly on the basis of last October's elections was: MRP, 150 members; Socialists and affiliates, 146; Republican Rally and affiliates, 60; and the PRL and affiliates, 64.

Reds Falter in Paris

Final unofficial returns from the six districts of Paris and its suburbs, compared with the national election results of last October, showed the following number of deputies elected by the competing parties:

Communists, 18—(22 in October).
MRP, 12—(17 in October).
Socialists, 11—(12 in October).
PRL, 7—(none in October).
Republican Rally, 3—(none in October).

The returns indicated that President Felix Gouin's entire cabinet would retain seats in the assembly. Gouin, the Socialist leader, was reelected, as was Georges Bidault, MRP leader and French foreign minister.

The voting provided the surprise defeat of two of Gen. DeGaulle's former ministers — Rene Pleven, former finance minister, and Jacques Soustelle, former minister of information.

Gen Giraud Elected

Gen. Henri Giraud, one-time rival of Gen. DeGaulle in North Africa, was elected a deputy.

Maurice Thorez, secretary-general of the French Communist party was reelected to the constituent assembly by a Parisian consituency, while pre-war Premier Edouard Daladier, defeated last October, was elected by voters in his district in the south of France.

Other successful candidates included former Premier Edouard Herriot, Radical-Socialist leader; Pierre Mendes-France, France's financial expert at the Bretton Woods monetary conference; former Premier Paul Reynaud, and Michael Clemenceau, son of the World War I leader.

Under France's complicated system of proportional representation, which calls for voting by lists and the allocation of extra seats on the basis of majority vote in individual departments, the popular vote is not reflected evenly in the number of elected deputies until the completion of final computations.

However, with one-third of France's estimated 20,000,000 votes tabulated, the unofficial popular count showed the Communists held a slight lead.

The popular vote count from the unofficial tabulations was:

Communists	2,729,377
MRP	2,725,176
Socialists	2,167,636
Republican Rally	1,337,481
PRL	854,748

ITALY REPORTS HEAVY VOTING

Women Go To Polls For First Time; Monarchy At Stake

J. McKNIGHT

Rome, June 2 (AP)—Italians in great numbers, among them nuns and priests, flocked to the polls today to register their decision between a monarchy and a republic.

Women, voting for the first time in this first free nation-wide election since the advent of Mussolini, turned out in large numbers.

Catholic priests and nuns, heeding instructions from the Vatican to vote, also were out en masse, bearing in mind the words of Pope Pius yesterday that this election, like the one in France today, meant a choice "between the champions and wreckers of Christian civilization." A Vatican communiqué this afternoon excluded members of the curia—cardinals resident in Rome—from voting.

Vote Heavy Everywhere

Everywhere voting was heavy, and in virtually all Italy it was quiet, as Italians cast their ballots for or against King Umberto and for members of a national assembly to frame Italy's new constitution. There was no indication of the trend.

Queen Maria José, consort of King Umberto II, cast her vote today in the Italian national elections but confined her ballot to her choice for constituent assembly delegates. She refused to register her vote on the monarchy-republic question.

As the Queen entered a polling place near the royal palace she was cheered by a small group standing there.

Umberto had not voted up to 6 P.M.

Polls Close Today

However, like other residents of towns and cities of more than 500 population, he had until noon tomorrow, the hour when the polls close.

The Ministry of the Interior prepared to guard vigilantly the secrecy of the ballot count. No trustworthy information on the result could be expected until the official announcement of the outcome of the plebiscite—and that announcement was not expected until some time after June 7.

Umberto appealed to Italy's 28,000,000 eligible voters at the last minute to let him keep his crown, promising a new plebiscite immediately after the 556-member constitutent assembly has completed its draft of a constitution.

Eleven Parties In Field

Eleven parties have nation-wide tickets in the field for the constituent assembly. Of these the principal parties are those represented in the six-party coalition government of Premier Alcide de Gasperi, head of the powerful Christian Democratic party. His government also includes the Socialists, the Communists, the Liberals, the Labor Democrats and the Action party.

Late this afternoon the Ministry of the Interior said all 89 of the provinces reported good order at the polls. Only in Rome, where late opening of some polling places provoked impatient voters to protest, was any real trouble reported. There, flying squads of Caribinieri quickly quieted the crowds.

The only gatherings in Rome were the long lines before the polling booths.

Bomb Tossed In Milan

Tanks and truckloads of soldiers patrolled the city, but they seemed oddly out of place in the prevailing quiet.

In big industrial Milan, traditionally a Leftist stronghold and reputed center of republican strength, a single disorder was reported. A bomb tossed early this morning at the building where a Socialist, a Communist and an independent newspaper are printed did minor damage and injured four workmen. The bomb tossers fired several shots and vanished.

In Naples, where heavy reserves of police armed with automatic weapons were massed because of rumors of impending demonstrations, all was quiet.

Conspicuously absent from Rome's streets were Allied soldiers, usually numerous over the week end. But reports of some officers that men were being confined to barracks over the election week end, to avert incidents, were denied by high-ranking authorities.

The calmness was credited to a number of factors, not the least of which was the cooling-off period between Thursday's final rallies and the opening of the polls.

Government Warning

Stern warnings had been issued by the Government that it would not hesitate to use force to keep order.

De Gasperi himself voted during the morning.

Vice Premier Pietro Nenni, leader of the Socialists, voted in Rome soon after the opening of the polls. Minister of Justice Palmiro Togliatti, Communist chief, went to nearby Frascati to vote.

Propagandists were busy right up to the time of the opening of the polls. In the small hours of the morning youths armed with buckets of paint and brushes busily daubed signs on the sidewalks and buildings. Pamphlets were littered all over the streets.

Palazzo Venezia, from whose balcony Mussolini once spoke, was covered with posters bearing the words "Democracy," "Liberty," and "Down with Dictatorships."

SOVIET SCORES NEW U.S. MOVE

Reparations Action Is Called Violation Of Agreeme

London, June 2 (AP)—The Soviet Government newspaper Izvestia said today the United States embargo on shipments of industrial reparations to Russia was "open violation and unilateral renunciation" of the Berlin decisions to destroy the Reich's military and economic power.

Izvestia, quoted in a Tass dispatch broadcast by the Moscow radio, said the American decision was taken "on the obviously artificial pretext that it was necessary to regard Germany as an economic whole."

[Lieut. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, deputy American military governor in Germany, told reporters May 26 that the Uinted States would make no further reparations deliveries from its zone in Germany until the Potsdam protocol to administer the country as an economic whole is put into effect by the occupying powers.]

Comments On Breakdown

Commenting on the breakdown in discussions of the Allied control commission in Berlin last Tuesday over investigation of German disarmament, Izvestia said a proposal offered by the United States "would plainly sidetrack" the inquiry.

[The United States proposed a four-power commission to investigate all fields of disarmament, including economic, in all four zones of Germany.]

An investigation of economic and industrial facilities would be a means of "diverting attention from . . . the real state of disarmament of the German armed forces in the western occupation zones," Izestia declared.

Atomic Bomb Said To Weigh 4 Tons

London, Monday, June 3 (AP)—The London Daily Express said today that the atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima "weighed four tons and was so long that only a Superfortress could carry it."

The newspaper's front-page story carried under the headline "New Details on America's Atomic Bombs" listed the source only as "from Washington."

Reports that the atomic bomb was as small a as golf ball were circulated by United States officials as a security measure, the article said, adding that all attempts to reduce the bomb's weight below four tons have failed.

"This means, say the Washington reports, that long-range rockets carrying atomic bombs will not be possible for at least ten years," the article asserted. "A 100-ton rocket would be needed to carry a four-ton warhead a worthwhile distance."

The story said the bomb "now had been improved by replacing a uranium explosive with plutonium."

STARS AND STRIPES ENDS ROME EDITION

ROME, June 2. — (AP) The Rome edition of Stars and Stripes —last of 13 in the Mediterranean theater of operations—today ended more than three and a half years of eventful publication.

A special 24-page final edition recalled some of the scenes and history-making events since the paper first went to press on Dec. 9, 1942, in Algiers. It moved with the advancing American forces to Sicily, Naples and Rome.

Today's last edition included pictures of the generals who led the Italian campaign, and recalled "Willie and Joe," the dog-eared G. I. cartoon characters that won a Pulitzer prize for their youthful creator, Bill Mauldin.

It also recalled Ernie Pyle and the mud of Africa and Italy that inspired many a "pup tent" poet to verse.

ROME, June 2 (AP)—A Moscow report that the Russian Ambassador had demanded the punishment of the American military policeman who struck a Russian diplomatic courier at the Ciampino airport last week was without confirmation in Allied quarters today.

Lieut. Gen. Sir William D. Morgan, the Allies' commander, said: "I have not heard of it." The American deputy commander, Lieut. Gen. John C. H. Lee, was not available for comment.

SEARCH PRESSED FOR CRASH VICTIMS

NAPLES, June 2—(AP) Deep sea divers will join the search tomorrow for 22 missing persons who were aboard the U. S. Army transport plane which crashed near here yesterday while en route to America from India with returning U. S. military personnel.

Eight bodies were recovered from the sea after the crash. Only eight persons were rescued of the total of 38 military personnel known to have been aboard the four-engined plane.

Air transportation corps spokesmen said no high ranking officials from the China-Burma-India theater were aboard.

A survivor said the plane caught fire in the air and that some of the passengers managed to bail out before it crashed. Army officials said the crash occurred when passengers rushed to the tail of the fire-swept plane, throwing it into a steep climb and then causing it to stall and go into a tail spin.

Reds Reported Cutting Forces To 4,500,000

6 Million Revealed Under Arms Now, and 10 Million Released in Ten Months

DeLUCE

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, June 2.—A high Allied military source said today that Russia has 6,000,000 men under arms at present but is preparing to reduce her forces to a long-range level of 4,500,000.

Soviet leadership, the source added, has released more than 10,000,000 troops from military service the last ten months. The top age of conscripted classes was trimmed by twenty-six years—from fifty-five to twenty-nine—even though the Russian government was at odds with Western powers over many international questions.

The Red Army at present has a strength of 4,500,000, while an additional 1,500,000 are in the air force, navy and N. K. V. D. (internal police), the source declared, adding that the Red Army, on a long-term basis, is expected to have a standing strength of 3,000,000, excluding reservists.

The highest priority in Russia at present is not being given to armaments or key heavy industries but to atomic development, he said, and the scientific knowledge and technical resources of the Soviet Union have been placed under tremendous pressure in an attempt to catch up with the United States - Canada - Britain atomic combine.

Allied emissaries in Moscow do not doubt that Russian scientists know the essentials of atomic-bomb manufacture, the high source added. They do not expect, however, that Soviet plants will be making a finished product before 1948 or later.

The Red Army, although drastically pared down in the last year, is rated as the most powerful ground force in the world. It can expand quicker than Western armies in an emergency. It has offered special inducements to veteran non-commissioned officers to re-enlist, and thereby is assured the basic co-ordination of the army despite large-scale demobilization.

The Soviet high command has separated strategic planning from purely command functions. Marshal Alexander M. Vasilevsky, the top of the professional military hierarchy, heads the planning. Marshal Alexei Antonov is responsible for the combined command of the three services. Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov is in direct command of the army.

No 'Marshals' Clique'

There is no sign of a "marshals' clique" in the upper crust of the Communist party. Between army and non-army men, as such, there is no split, but divergencies are wide between civilian "nationalists" and "co-operationists."

Maxim M. Litvinov and Ivan Maisky, versed for years in Western diplomacy, were the most vocal "co-operationists," pleading last year after the Potsdam Conference for more confidence in relations with Washington, if not with London. Their voices have been muffled. The "nationalists" are led by Foreign Minister Viacheslav M. Molotov.

Anti-British propaganda is open in Russia. Anti-American propaganda is neither so sharp nor so continuous, but the vast outpouring of friendship that Americans felt when Moscow celebrated V-E Day a year ago has largely disappeared.

The Russians now produce what they call the "villis"—the jeep. They make the biggest tank in the world—the Super-Stalin, with a 131-millimeter gun. The explosive crack of jet-propelled planes taking off can be heard outside the guarded area of Moscow's principal airport.

Lieutenant General Bedell Smith's appointment as American Ambassador contained military implications that were not lost on the Soviet government to which he was accredited.

The first impression he created was considered favorable. When he handed his credentials to Nikolai Shvernik, chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet (president of the Soviet Union) Smith eloquently declared that America had no hostile intentions toward her war-time ally and wanted to do everything possible to remove suspicion from their relations.

Only one Soviet general officer, however, attended the formal reception at the American Embassy on the United States Army Day. All leading Soviet military figures had been invited. The highest-ranking American officers in Moscow later on were absent at the May Day parade in Red Square.

If Russia moves aggressively it is expected to be chiefly in the direction of the Persian Gulf, the informant said. There lie the biggest spoils in oil and strategic position. There the British and Americans seem as yet to have formulated no policy of common action. On the flank are Germany, the Balkans and Turkey, and the flank is very sensitive.

It is within the possibilities of power politics for Russia, if cool and patient enough, to reach the Persian Gulf without an armed clash, the source said.

WIFE IS CRITICAL OF FRATERNIZATION

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 2, —(AP) An "American wife" in Germany hurled feminine invective today at U. S. Army officers who take German girls in public.

In a sharp letter to "B-Bag," the mail column of Stars and Stripes, the wife complained:

"If some of the officers who fraternize could only know how we abhor 'rubbing shoulders' with their 'shack jobs' in our local night clubs, they might confine them to their shacks."

She added that some of the officers she was criticizing were probably "not too particular in the states, either" about those with whom they went prior to donning uniforms.

"But please, fellas," she wrote, "have a little respect for your American women and your uniform. Things can't be that bad."

Although the letter was published over the signature "An American Wife," Stars and Stripes requires that the full name and address be given to the editor confidentially before a name is deleted.

In recent months, Army clubs have dropped practically all restrictions on women guests, provided they are escorted by Americans.

With the gradual influx of American families in garrison areas in Germany, observers have expected inter-American social friction over fraternization.

A similar "B-Bag" complaint by an Allied girl against German women staying overnight in the headquarters compound at Frankfurt a few weeks ago started a furore. The high command then took action to compel women visitors to leave the compound before midnight.

TWO MORE GIRLS SHOT IN U. S. GERMAN ZONE

FRANKFORT ON THE MAIN, Germany, June 2 (AP)—A 19-year-old German girl was found shot to death in the quarters of a United States lieutenant at Litzingen on May 30, the United States Provost Marshal's office announced today.

The announcement, identifying the girl as Jagerug Portenreuther of Munich, said she had spent the night at the Litzengen airbase with Second Lieut. Robert Hawk, whose home address was not disclosed. The announcement said she had accompanied him from Munich last April. Lieutenant Hawk was about to be redeployed to the United States.

It was the third time within a month that a young German girl had been found dead in the billet of an American officer about to be redeployed. The other cases were reported at Nuremberg and Kassel.

The girl was fatally wounded by a bullet from a .45 calibre pistol, the standard Army calibre, the announcement said. It did not disclose how the shooting occurred. The Army's criminal investigation is in charge of the case.

Other officers in Lieutenant Hawk's quarters told reporters that the girl had shot herself while Lieutenant Hawk was away. They said Lieutenant Hawk was not in custody.

FRAULEIN WITH GI KILLED BY BULLET

NUERNBERG, Germany, June 2 —(AP) The U. S. Army provost marshal here said tonight an American Negro soldier had admitted accidentally shooting to death a 18-year-old German girl as they lay in bed in the girl's Nuernberg apartment. Her body was found in the apartment last night.

The provost marshal identified the soldier as Pfc. Arthur Lee Cannell, 21, of Ponyville, Miss.

Cannell told questioners that as he reached for his jacket, which was near the bed, a pistol in a jacket pocket was discharged accidentally and the bullet struck the girl, identified as Elizabeth Keller, in the left cheek.

The provost marshal said Cannell was questioned because he was known to be an associate of the girl, and that he would be held for further investigation.

SPAIN INDIFFERENT TO REPORT BY U. N

MADRID, June 2. — (AP) Madrid morning newspapers today displayed prominently stories on the United Nations Security council's sub-committee report in Spain and said editorially the report and any action by the council would be received with "total indifference" in Spain.

(The report, completed Friday night, described the regime of Generalissimo Francisco Franco as a potential threat to world peace and recommended that the U.N. General Assembly ask member nations to sever diplomatic relations with Spain if Franco were not ousted by September.)

Arriba, Franco's Falange party organ, today said that the "multitudes" which have shouted fidelity to Franco recently could answer the Security council sub-committee. The paper added that if these voices were "too tumultuous for the protocol comic session of the United Nations Assembly," a recent declaration by the Spanish government had asserted it would "not accept the slightest interference from the outside in its private affairs."

ABC, newspaper known for its monarchist tendencies, said it did not know what action the Security council would take, adding that "whatever it may be will be received in Spain with total indifference."

Ya, Catholic organ, said it was not certain whether the council would adopt the sub-committee report (at next Thursday's session) but that "whether it does or not inspires the same indifference."

Delegates Are Pleased By Committee Report

New York, June 2 (AP)—A generally favorable reaction was registered among delegates to the United Nations Security Council today to the recommendations of a subcommittee for a world-wide break of diplomatic relations with Spain unless the Franco régime is "withdrawn" by September.

It appeared, however, that there would be varying opposition to several of the subcommittee's conclusions.

Some of the delegates admitted they were surprised that the five-man group went so far as to propose that the General Assembly be asked to call for a universal diplomatic quarantine of Franco Spain, a step which the Council itself previously had hesitated to take.

Council Meets Thursday

This was the main proposal in the subcommittee's report which was circulated among the delegates yesterday, after the group had completed a month's investigation of Poland's charges that Generalissimo Franco was a threat to world peace.

The Council will meet Thursday to act on the recommendations.

Whether there would be any opposition strong enough to result in major changes of the committee's proposals could not be determined immediately, since some of the delegates still were studying the report and consulting with their governments.

It was pointed out that the report already had the support of the five nations who were represented on the subcommittee—France, China, Australia, Poland and Brazil—which would make it extremely difficult for any of the other six delegates on the Council to get enough votes for a major change.

Little Change Anticipated

The Brazilian delegate, Pedro Leao Velloso, who served as a member of the subcommittee during its inquiry, expressed belief that no serious modifications would be made.

Velloso, after taking exception to the main recommendation of the subcommittee, informed Chairman Herbert V. Evatt, of Australia, today that he had withdrawn his opposition, making the report unanimous except for a reservation by Poland on another point.

A spokesman for the United States delegation said that the official American position on the specific proposals in the report had not yet been determined.

The big question mark was Russia's attitude. No immediate reaction from the Soviet delegate, Andrei A. Gromyko, was available, but delegates expected him to oppose some of the points of the report on the basis of his previous position.

Concern About Veto

The chief concern was whether Gromyko would press his opposition to the point of invoking the veto. Under the United Nations Charter seven votes are necessary for approval of the report, including the votes of all the permanent members of the Council—Russia, Great Britain, the United States, France and China.

A negative vote by Russia would automatically kill the subcommittee's recommendations. It was pointed out, however, that Gromyko might do as he did when the subcommittee was created April 29—express his opposition by abstaining from voting.

Two Points Noted

The points most likely to be opposed by Russia, if Gromyko sticks to his earlier position, are:

1. The finding that the Security Council has no jurisdiction to direct severance of diplomatic relations with Spain because the Franco régime is only "a potential threat to international peace" and not an acutal threat.

2. The recommendation that the case be referred to the General Assembly for action.

Gromyko has contended that Franco is a definite threat to world peace now and that immediate action should be taken by the Security Council itself for a break of relations with the Falangist régime. For that reason, he is expected to support the contention which Poland advanced in the subcommittee that the Security Council has authority to act in the case.

Anti-Red Armenian Fete Is Forbidden in Greece

Russian Ambassador Disapproves Celebration

ATHENS, June 2 (AP). — The Greek government last night banned a meeting planned here, to celebrate Armenian independence day, by Armenian nationalists opposing the present union of Armenia with the U. S. S. R. The meeting was forbidden after Admiral Constantine Rodianov, Soviet Ambassador to Greece, called to see Premier Constantin Tsaldaris.

A high government official said Rodianov expressed disapproval of the proposed meeting and suggested that it be banned. Hundreds of invitations already had been issued.

It is estimated that 30,000 Armenians live in Greece. Armenia, which was part of Russia under the Czars, was independent from 1918 to 1920, when it was joined with the U. S. S. R. as one of the Soviet republics.

CLASHES ON GREEK BORDER

Communist Bands Are Dispersed Near Yugoslav Frontier

ATHENS, Greece, June 2 (AP)—Greek gendarmerie and National Guard units were reported today to have dispersed four outlawed bands of Communists operating in the Florina - Edessa - Kastoria triangle near the Yugoslav border.

Seventeen former members of the Left-Wing Elas were said to have been arrested yesterday. Accounts received in Athens said mopping-up operations were being carried out following continued violence in the district which one Allied military observer has described as "Greece's next trouble spot."

Several hundred outlawed Elas members, reported hiding out in the mountains of southern Yugoslavia were said to have been making forays across the Greek border.

Yugoslavs Bar U. S. Major for 'Interference'

Say He Tried to Foil Arrest of Government Foe at Memorial Day Service

BELGRADE, June 2 (AP).—An American Embassy official said today that Major Richard Coombs, of the United States Army, had been declared "persona non grata" by the Yugoslav government because he attempted to intervene upon the arrest of a Yugoslav who made anti-government remarks at an American Memorial Day service Thursday. Harold Shantz, Embassy Charge d'Affaires, announced the Yugoslav government's action.

Coombs, a graves registration officer assigned to Belgrade, left here Friday on a wedding trip to Italy, and embassy sources said the Yugoslav action was tantamount to forbidding him to return to Yugoslavia.

George Nikolic, the Yugoslav arrested, was detained after an American Memorial Day ceremony at the graves of American soldiers at Belgrade.

The newspaper "Borba" commented that anonymous sources sought to stage a demonstration against the Yugoslav government during the American service. Nikolic, the paper said, "in a loud voice and in a vulgar way, cussed out the present regime of Yugoslavia."

The newspaper said Coombs, "in a very rude and unlawful form, tried to intervene for Nikolic, but the Yugoslav authorities, in a polite manner, refused the intervention." It said: "at that moment, Major Coombs, shouting all the spectators with his sarcastic tone, shouted: 'this is liberty for you, Tito! Heil Hitler!'"

"Borba" also said that American Army chaplain William R. S. Donaghy, of Lowell, Mass., had "misused the hospitality of Yugoslavia" by reading to the Memorial Day crowd a letter from an unnamed Yugoslav woman. The newspaper said that the woman's charge that the "people do not have the means of showing their gratefulness to the fallen aviators is without basis."

Russian Commentator Attacks Byrnes Stand

Moscow, June 2 (AP)—A Soviet newspaper commentator accused James F. Byrnes, United States Secretary of State, today of attempting to widen United Nations General Assembly powers beyond the limits of its Charter.

The commentator, Prof. E. Korovin, writing in the trade-union newspaper Trud, said Byrnes's proposal to place disputed peace treaties before the Assembly would mean nothing more than "a veiled return" to a proposal of former President Herbert Hoover which would authorize the United Nations to "reconsider burdensome and unacceptable treaties."

Referring to Hoover as "one of the reactionary figures in the United States," the commentator said his proposal could be interpreted to include Soviet treaties with the Allies and other countries.

Molotov's Views Repeated

Echoing Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov's remarks in Pravda last week, the writer concluded:

"Attempts to use the peace conference or the United Nations for aims of moral pressure, 'psychological attack,' threats and intimidation of the Soviet Union, are prematurely doomed to failure."

The Soviet Government newspaper Izvestia devoting only 240 words of a Tass News Agency dispatch to Byrnes's press conference of last week in which he replied to Molotov's charges, gave over almost half a page of its international review to comment on the press conference.

"The head of the State Department," this article said, "tried to show the correctness of the position occupied by the American delegation at Paris on questions remaining unsettled. It is characteristic, however, that all that was said by Byrnes added no new facts to what already was known.

Decision Called Unfulfilled

"It is known to all that the decisions of the Berlin conference on working out a reparations plan during a period of six months—that is, to February, 1946—were not only unfulfilled on time, but in general nothing was accomplished."

The article said Byrnes attempted to use irony to refute Molotov's claim of the existence of an anti-Soviet British-American bloc at the Paris Foreign Ministers' conference and added:

"But how does he explain the fact of the unexpected change in the American position regarding the Italian colonies, as well as a series of other steps of the American and English diplomats, if such a bloc is to be denied?"

Morgenthau Broadcast Quoted

Izvestia gave prominent display to a dispatch quoting the broadcast of former Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., in which he accused President Truman of renouncing the policies of President Roosevelt.

The magazine New Times commented on the world tour of Herbert Hoover and declared that measures so far taken have not relieved world hunger.

"Many-worded assurances were made, pompous resolutions were adopted and an international organization with huge apparatus was formed," the magazine said, "but neither resolutions nor promises nor world trip up to now has fed the hungering."

The same article touched upon the withholding of American credit to Poland and said this was part of a "strategy of hunger."

The United States State Department gave many reasons for holding up the credit, but, New Times declared, the real reason was given by the New York newspaper PM, which was quoted as saying that the United States was "using loans for exerting imperialistic pressure."

[The United States suspended a $90,000,000 credit to Poland on the grounds that the Polish Government censored outgoing news dispatches and withheld from the Polish people the political-freedom pledges that were made by Poland as a condition to obtaining the credit.]

Service Opens At Warsaw

Warsaw, June 2 (AP)—The United States information service began operations at the United States Embassy today under the direction of Dr. S. Harrison Thompson, of Boulder, Col., and Gene van Deek, of Oak Park, Illinois.

RUSSIA FILES PROTEST ON ACTIONS OF M. P.

MOSCOW, June 2. — (AP) A Tass dispatch from Rome today said the Soviet ambassador to Italy had filed a protest with the Allied Mediterranean theater commander on the striking of a Russian diplomatic courier by an American military policeman near Rome on May 29 and "demanded punishment of the guilty."

(A statement issued last Wednesday by U. S. military authorities at Ciampino airport, where the incident occurred, said the Russian courier had boarded a plane without identifying himself and was struck when he resisted efforts of a military policeman to remove him from the plane. The statement also said the M.P. subsequently struck a civilian bystander, later identified as a Russian embassy official, whose action the M.P. interpreted as defiance of orders. The commanding officer at the airport was reported considering whether disciplinary action should be taken against the M.P.)

The Tass dispatch said that M. A. Kos Ylev, Soviet ambassador to Rome, in his protest to the Allied commander described the action of the U. S. military police as "hooligan conduct."

ARGENTINA REQUESTS FRIENDLY TIE WITH REDS

MOSCOW, June 2.—(AP) Pravda, Communist party organ, said today that the Argentine government had requested the establishment of diplomatic relations with Russia "during the current year" and had "met with a favorable reply from the side of the U.S.S.R."

The Pravda article, written by the paper's foreign observer, stated that the move to establish diplomatic relations between the two countries started "long ago" and cited comments in the Argentine press on the recent arrival of a Soviet trade mission in Buenos Aires.

Soviet Magazine Terms Musk Ox Trek 'Military'

Points Out Nearness of Area to Europe and Asia

MOSCOW, June 2 (AP)—"The New Times," Soviet magazine on international affairs, commenting today on "Operation Musk Ox," the recent Canadian military Arctic expedition, declared: "A running look at the map will show that the district through which the route of the experition lay presents itself as an uninhabited Arctic space, where only seldom are met small villages, factories, fur works and the cabins of Indians and Eskimos." The publication added: "The participants of Expedition Musk Ox were aroused not so much over the security of this region as over its extreme suitability, from a military standpoint, in its nearness to northern districts of Europe and Asia."

Arabs Told to Get Ready

JERUSALEM, June 2 (AP).—Jamal Effendi Husseini, chairman of the Palestine Arab Higher Committee, told an Arab party rally today to be ready "to defend the country with your blood."

"Before us stand 80,000 members of the Haganah (Jewish defense organization) ready to smash us," Husseini said. "Are you prepared against this danger—have you trained your sons and daughters?"

A group estimated at 3,000 persons heard Husseini and half a dozen other Arab speakers. Each mention of the name of the exiled Mufti of Jerusalem (the Haj Amin el-Husseini,), was cheered.

GANDHI IS DISPLEASED BY TROOPS IN INDIA

BOMBAY, June 2—(AP) Mohandas K. Gandhi said today the presence of British troops in India would put a "damper on the constituent assembly" called to draft an independence program.

"We must cease to be spoon-fed," he wrote in his weekly journal "Harijan."

Gandhi criticized Great Britain's delay in organizing an interim government, but attributed the failure "to our weakness, whatever the causes be, and not to the cussedness of the British government or people."

"British troops, it is declared, are to remain during the interim period for preservation of internal peace and against external aggression," Gandhi wrote. "Their retention for such use will be a damper on the constituent assembly."

NEW MARSHALL PLAN REPORTED

H. MILKS

Joint Regimes In Manchurian Cities Believed Proposed

Nanking, June 2 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall was reported today to have proposed a new compromise armistice in Manchuria, but well-placed Chinese quarters said that while it was "workable," the prospects of longtime peace were slim.

The Marshall plan was said to provide abandonment of the Central Chinese Government's drive to capture Harbin and Tsitsihar on condition that the Chinese Communists evacuate those cities and turn them over to administrators pending choice of new local officials representing both factions.

The Government Central News Agency, however, reported National troops still were advancing steadily northward from Changchun, and word reaching Peiping was that they had crossed the little Sungari River 70 miles south of Harbin and expected to reach the North Manchurian metropolis "in a few days."

Three-Point Plan Reported

Marshall's headquarters declined comment on the peace-plan report.

The Nationalist newspaper Ta Kang Pao said the main points of the special American envoy's proposal were:

1. Both National and Communist forces to remain in their present positions.

2. Communists to evacuate Harbin and Tsitsihar, but National troops to refrain from occupying them.

3. Central Government "takeover" officials to administer the two cities temporarily until local governments with a National majority and a Communist minority could be established.

Harbin Regarded As Key

As usually reliable Chinese source said this report was accurate, and described Marshall as "determined to persuade Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek not to take Harbin by force."

This source added that if the Government insists on capturing Harbin "there can be only one result—full-scale civil war."

Marshall has warned both sides, this informant said, that if the fighting in Manchuria is not halted, the conflict is certain to spread into the rest of China.

The informant emphasized there was no certainty that either the Generalissimo or the Communists would accept the Marshall plan, and expressed the belief that chances of a permanent peace settlement were "very small."

Return Of Chiang Awaited

All political factions here were inclined to mark time pending the return of Chiang from North China.

In Peiping, Tom Masterson, Associated Press correspondent, reported the Generalissimo and Madame Chiang, who arrived there Thursday after a seven-day stay in Manchuria, were preparing to fly to Nanking Monday.

Masterson said Chiang addressed a Sunday gathering of high military and administrative officials of the Government party at Hwai Jen Tang Hall behind closed doors. American and Chinese newsmen who came to report the speech were compelled to leave the hall, he said.

Saturday night the Generalissimo was host at the opera to American personnel stationed in Peiping. Otherwise he made no public appearances.

Military Movements

PEIPING, June 2 (AP)—The military situation as pictured in dispatches from Changchun and the Manchurian front is as follows:

Govrehment troops advancing toward Harbin corssed the Sungari River at Taolaichao, seventy miles from Harbin. The military newspaper Hsin Sheng Pao, reporting national troops operating on the north bank of the river, said their crossing had been delayed by a damaged bridge and that they expected to be in Harbin within a few day.s

Hsin Sheng Pao said national troops attacking from Panshin, sout heast of Changchun, captured three trains loaded with Communist war material, including seventy planes and four Japanese armored cars.

The Government Central News Agency reported that Anshan, important steel center south of Mukden, had been recaptured from the Communists and that the ousted Red troops were retreating into mountainous terrain east of Pienshan. The Central News also claimed the seizure of Tangkangtze, eight miles south of Anshan, by National troops.

Gen. Cheng-Tung-Juo confirmed the capture of Kirin in the Government push toward Tunghwa, former Manchurian headquarters of Communist Gen. Lin Piao.

TRIBUNAL REFUSES TO DROP CHARGES AGAINST JAPANESE

Petition Is Rejected by Allied Justices Without Discussion.

DEFENSE WINS DELAY

LANDSTERS

Counsel Gains Extra Ten Days Granted to Prepare Cases.

TOKYO, June 2—(AP) The International War Crimes Tribunal today summarily declined to dismiss Allied charges against 26 major Japanese war-crimes suspects, but agreed to a 10-day continuance to enable defense counsel to prepare their cases.

The court will meet again tomorrow, however, to hear a 15,000-word opening statement by Chief Prosecutor Joseph B. Keenan.

Acts Without Discussion

With out even the customary discussion in chambers, the court rejected a new petition to dismiss the 55-count Allied indictment against wartime Premier Hideki Tojo and other statesmen-militarists. Franklin E. Warren, Tucumcari, N. M., defense conusel representing Gen. Kenji Doihara, Japanese "Lawrence of Manchuria," presented the petition without argument.

Chief Justice Sir William Webb, declaring tnat "we do not care to hear from" Prosecutor Keenan, immediately announced denial of the motion.

The court also heard but did not decide on petitions asking dismissal of indictments against two other defendants barred from the courtroom by ill health—former Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka and propagandist Shumei Okawa. Keenan opposed dismissal.

Will Decide Later

Justice Webb announced that decisions would be given later on motions to strike their names from the proceedings.

The crimes of which the other 26 prisoners stand accused cover the whole span of Japanese aggression in the Far East, from the beginnings of Manchurian expansion in 1928 to the surrender in 1945.

Ten of the 11 Allied justices were on the bench as the trial opened in the brilliantly lighted courtroom of the former Japanese War ministry building. A seat is reserved for the Philippines justice, as yet unappointed.

Two huge motion picture screens were on the wall behind the prisoners' box.

Follow Arguments Closely

Prisoners Follow Arguments

Four white-helmeted military police stood behind the defendants, with Lieut. Col. Aubrey Kenworthy, Omaha, Neb., acting as court provost marshal.

The prisoners showed much interest in the arguments. Some studied papers, and Namoru Shigemitsu, former Foreign Minister, who signed the Japanese surrender document aboard the U.S.S. Missouri, followed the court discussions with a pencil in hand.

As at the arraignment, Gen. Seishiro Itagaki, 1941-45 Japanese army commander in Korea, kept his eyes closed—possibly because of the glaring lights.

Because the evidence against ex-Premier Tojo and his 25 co-defendants is so voluminous and covers such a broad stretch of Far Eastern history, attorneys have predicted that the trial might run the rest of this year.

RUMOR OF PLOT IN TOKYO DENIED

TOKYO, Monday, June 3—(AP) Brig. Gen. C. S. Ferrin, Tokyo provost marshal, today denied a broadcast report that Japanese diehards had plotted to assassinate General MacArthur last week.

"It's news to me," Ferrin declared in commenting on a report broadcast by Larry Tighe, American Broadcasting company correspondent here.

Ferrin, in charge of security forces in the Tokyo area, said he "certainly would know about it" if, as reported, 100 extra Japanese police, a detachment of American soldiers and military police were detailed along the route from MacArthur's residence to headquarters.

Col. H. T. Creswell, headquarters counter-intelligence chief, likewise said there was no basis for the report. He said he had received a "very thin, very nebulous report of talk around somewhere" of an asserted assassination plot, but that it was "almost too indistinct to trace."

An investigation was ordered, Creswell added, and the report "disappeared into a complete cloud—it evaporated."

The counter-intelligence officer said the report was not connected with the alleged May day plot to kill MacArthur.

Starvation Deaths Rising Near Tokyo, Army Says

By The Associated Press.

TOKYO, Monday, June 3—Intelligence reports indicate "an increasing number" of Japanese are dying in the Tokyo area from starvation and malnutrition, United States Army officers said today. [There had been no previous reports of deaths by starvation.]

They said 267 bodies were found on streets here during April. Japanese police reported 1,291 deaths from malnutrition in the Tokyo area since November.

War Left New Guinea Natives 'Rich'

SYDNEY—(AP) New Guineans, who accumulated more U. S. dollars and Australian pounds during the war than they can spend in years, are not anxious to go back to peacetime work of copra production on plantations in New Guinea and Papua.

Col. J. Keith Murray, civil administrator of the provisional government of Papua-New Guinea, said there was not nearly enough cotton goods, knives, axes, butter, meat and trade goods to meet the natives' demands.

The Australian government's new native labor ordinances give plantation laborers a wage of $2.50 a month. Formerly they received 82 cents, Col. Murray states.

ATOM BOMB FLEET JOINED BY FLAGSHIP

Mt. McKinley Anchors Amid About 160 Ships At Bikini

Aboard the Mt. McKinley, June 2 (AP)—This command ship of the task force for "operation crossroads" anchored today in the midst of the mighty atom bomb fleet in Bikini Lagoon.

Approximately 160 target and support ships saluted the Mt. McKinley as the ship maneuvered slowly into an anchorage position 2 miles off Bikini, in the Marshalls.

All target ships for the atom bomb test, scheduled for July 1 or shortly thereafter, are on hand except the German cruiser Prinz Eugen, the battleship New York and two LST's.

92 Vessels To Be Used

Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, task force chief, said a total of 92 target vessels would be used, with 25 vessels in the first array, plus twelve small landing craft. All five battleships, including the Japanese battleship Nagato, will be used in the first array as well as both carriers and all eight submarines.

Even though it previously had been announced that the target ships would be arrayed in closer position than in a routine anchorage, those aboard the McKinley were amazed at the tight concentration of the fleet.

U.S. Ship Called "Scarlet Fever"

At the aiming point is the red battleship Nevada, which sailors have dubbed "scarlet fever." Not far from her is the rusty and battered Nagato, offering sharp contrast with the shipshape American target vessels.

The high command will begin a series of conferences tomorrow with group and ship commanders, then will inspect all island facilities, including instruments, target and laboratory ships.

ROXAS TO REORGANIZE REGIME IN PHILIPPINES

MANILA, Monday, June 3 (AP)—Manuel A. Roxas, new President of the Philippines, demanded broad Executive authority today for a sweeping reorganization and streamlining of all Government offices and bureaus.

The request was made in a 15,000-word "State of the Nation" message to a joint session of Congress in which he proposed a three-pronged offensive against "inflation, lawlessness and economic inaction."

In addition to authority to revamp the whole Government structure, Mr. Roxas called for higher taxes, increased rights and responsibilities for organized labor, wage, price and rent control "with real teeth," and establishment of a national rehabilitation authority with power to direct reconstruction and economic revival.

Mr. Roxas also disclosed that he had asked the United States for a rehabilitation loan of 500,000,000 pesos in addition to a previously announced request for a loan of 800,000,000 pesos to cover expected Government revenue deficits in the next five years.

Immediate establishment of a strong, centralized budget bureau to pass on all public expenditures was advocated. Mr. Roxas asked for a mobile, highly-trained army, plus an expanded State police force for national defense and maintenance of law and order.

Mr. Roxas read nearly all of the lengthy document, excluding only technical tables and data. The message, one of the most comprehensive and drastic ever presented a Philippines Congress, was immediately compared here with reform messages in the opening years of the late President Roosevelt's New Deal.

SENATOR CHARGES DRAFT 'BUNGLING'

George Favors Volunteer System But May Back Bill

Washington, June 2 (AP)—Senator George (D., Ga.) today said the Army and Navy "bungled" by attempting to maintain both the draft and voluntary recruitment.

Nevertheless, the Georgian, one of the Senate's most influential members, asserted he may go along with Administration sentiment for extension of the draft, including teen-agers, until May 15 of next year.

Thus he sided with a bipartisan move toward a program that would combine draft extension with generous pay raises for enlisted men and officers to encourage voluntary recruitment.

George said he was certain "all the men needed by the armed forces could be raised through the traditional American volunteer system."

Senate Approval Forecast

Majority Leader Barkley (D., Ky.) and Senator Hill (D., Ala.) joined with Senator Gurney (R., S.D.) in predicting Senate approval of the draft extension bill together with generous pay increases. Gurney said he would like to see enlisted men boosted 30 per cent.

Through an unsual lineup within the Senate Military Committee, Gurney will act as floor leader for the draft bill in the Senate Monday. Chairman Elbert Thomas (D., Utah), who originally opposed peacetime conscription, expected to be away from the Senate.

At present selective service is operating under a stop-gap extension from last May 14 until July 1, by which the House forced the Senate to exempt 18 and 19 years olds from induction, or allow selective service to expire.

Mistake, Says George

There were indications that several senators, including Wherry (R., Neb.), Republican whip, and Revercomb (R., W.Va.), would oppose any extension beyond the end of this month.

Senator George said the armed forces made a mistake in trying to "hold on to the draft after V-J day."

He said conscription and the volunteer system "just don't mix," and as long as military officials have conscription they cannot make "an honest try of the volunteer plan."

Once the voluntary system is reinstated, George said, he is confident that anything reasonable asked by the Army and Navy in the way of pay increase or other allowances would be granted by Congress.

OPA WILL FACE FINAL TESTS IN SENATE GROUP

Extension Plan Comes Up Before Banking Committee Tomorrow

Washington, June 2 (AP)—OPA came up against final tests this week in the Senate Banking Committee which shortly must report its version of price-control extension legislation.

With the power of the pricing agency on a shaky basis in Congress, a union protest was heard against allowing prices to increase on the heels of increased wages.

President Walter P. Reuther, of the CIO-United Auto Workers, in a radio speech from Detroit last night, cited recent automobile price hikes allowed by OPA after pay increases had been negotiated. He said that trend led toward "economic disaster."

Must Stop Price Rises

"Organized labor," Reuther said, "must challenge and must stop this scheme to use every increase in the incomes of workers as an excuse for higher prices to the consumer."

Reuther did not blame OPA too much, he said, for "we know how big industries have pressured OPA both directly and through its political agents in Congress."

The Banking Committee, already having taken heavy cuts at the price-control bill, will have it up again Tuesday. Chairman Wagner (D., N.Y.) said he hopes to get all controverted points decided at that time. Several other members said they do not believe that will be possible.

For Modified Price Control

The legislation as it stands in the Senate calls for extension of modified price control for a year past June 30, when it will otherwise expire. The House passed a nine months' extension in such form that Administration officials said it weakened the fight on inflation.

The Senate itself is slated to act on the legislation after the draft-extension measure is out of the way. Some members think OPA will find the going even rougher in the Senate than in the committee.

Wagner said an attempt will be made Tuesday to overturn the committee's action in ordering price controls off meat and dairy products June 30. Senator Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) said he sees no chance of such a reversal.

Plans To End Subsidies

The Senate committee proposes to end subsidies (except on copper, lead, zinc and rubber) May 1, 1947, allowing $1,100,000,000 for them in the meantime. OPA asked $1,700,000,000 for food subsidies alone, and the right to pay them a full twelve months.

Further changes probably are in store for the measure this week.

HOUSE SPLIT SEEN ON ATOMIC ENERGY

McMahon's Bill Passed by Senate Differs from War Dept. Measure.

WASHINGTON, June 2. — (AP) House members were squaring away today for a fight over whether atomic energy development should be controlled by civilians or the military.

The controversy developed anew as a result of Senate passage Saturday of a bill which rests major control in a civilian commission of five full-time members. The full time service provision is the one that puts most emphasis on civilian control, since army men could hardly meet it and retain their full military status.

Some members of the House Military committee said they will oppose this legislation and seek favorable action instead on a measure backed by the War department.

The latter bill, approved months ago by the military group, would create a commission of nine part-time members, to be advised by representatives of the armed forces.

House Democratic Whip Sparkman of Alabama declared, however, that he will oppose such action.

Sparkman told a reporter he will fight for House acceptance of the Senate legislation.

RANKIN DEFENDS HIS GI AID

He Replies to Veterans' League on Insurance Bill

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—The Veterans League of America asserted today that Chairman Rankin of the House Veterans Committee had "sold down the river" the men of World War II, and Mr. Rankin retorted that the attack was "part of a political scheme" to beat him for re-election.

The league's statement, issued through its chairman, Brig. Gen. Herbert C. Holridge, retired, declared that Mr. Rankin had "emasculated legislation aimed at bringing the life insurance for World War II vets in line with the coverage for men who served in World War I."

Mr. Rankin told a reporter his committee had reported an insurance bill "to correct as many evils as possible" in the present law, and that the bill had the support of the American Legion, the Disabled American Veterans and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Mr. Rankin added he expected it to pass tomorrow without dissent.

Mr. Rankin said that the bill went beyond provisions sought by the Administration and that the Legion, DAV and VFW were highly pleased with it.

PEOPLES' PEACE NEED EMPHASIZED

Vandenberg Warns Against 'Big Powers' Corporation

Detroit, June 2 (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.), calling for a "peoples' peace," tonight warned against any attitude in world peace efforts which would limit peacemaking to a "closed corporation of big powers."

The Senator said the Paris Conference of Foreign Ministers was a success in so far as it established an American foreign policy "which invites all our partners in the war to have a proper voice in making our common peace."

Vandenberg, speaking from Washington in a broadcast interview on a Detroit hookup, addressed an "earnest appeal" to Soviet Russia to exercise "wisdom and tolerance" in the negotiation of peace treaties.

Wants No "Monopoly"

"It is the American position," Vandenberg said, "that the Big Powers are not entitled to monopolize this business of making peace.

"True, we have a major responsibility. But there are 21 nations which participated on our side in the war. . . . We welcomed them to the battle line. We should welcome them to the peace table."

The United States, Vandenberg said, will insist on having the "advice and counsel" of the 21 nations. He expressed concern over what he called Russia's opposition to the proposal of James F. Byrnes, Secretary of State, for a general conference of nations until "all fundamental matters" had been agreed on by the Foreign Ministers.

"Of Increasing Concern"

Vandenberg added: "Thus it (Russia) exercised a veto—a veto, by the way, which is becoming of increasing concern in connection with all our peace machinery."

The Michigan Senator, adviser to the American delegation to the Foreign Ministers Conference, said "the best we could do" was to postpone a decision on a general conference until the Ministers reassemble in Paris.

"I would like," he said, "to make an earnest appeal to the Soviets in this connection.

Rights May Become Wrongs

"In their attitudes they are entirely within their rights, under the rules of the game as previously established by Big Power agreements. But it is the lesson of history that 'rights' may become 'wrongs' unless exercised with wisdom and tolerance rather than with naked power."

Vandenberg said a "mutually equitable answer" must be found "if unity in the making and the keeping of a permanent peace with justice shall continue to prevail.

"If humanly possible," he said, "we must avoid the unhappy and inconclusive alternative of separate treaties of peace."

Will Back Policy

Vandenberg said he would support the present American foreign policy "under any administration." He said the policy guarantees "maximum protection" against future Axis aggression.

Also, he said, the American policy "spurns expansionism as a plague upon tomorrow's peace and security" and seeks to end "inconclusive armistice regimes which are postponing peace beyond all limits of reason and safety."

Vandenberg took to task the critics, at home and abroad, of his proposal for an extension of the Allies' "war partnership" into the days of peace. He said this would both assure earliest possible return home of American troops and prove America's good faith in the effort to stamp out any future Axis aggression.

their own experience they have first-hand knowledge of the terrible alternative."

"They will preach democra because they have risked their lives to defend it," he said. "They will help sustain their country as a great exponent of the democratic method—a nation powerful but tolerant, firm in the right, but patient, in its dealings with others.

"War is not only destructive, it is sterile of positive result."

"Carping Critics" Of Army

Noting a "recurring tendency to ignore the Army's achievements and to overemphasize alleged faults and weaknesses," Eisenh wer came to the defense of the wartime officers, some of whom were targets of the "GI gripe" board which investigated relations between officers and enlisted men.

"The carping critic would seemingly have us believe that we lost the war," he said. "Particularly does the critic aim his shafts at the officer—he would like to give a feeling of guilt to the 800,000 Americans who led our armies to victory. . . .

"I will go to my grave proud of the fact that I could serve with you, as an officer of the Army, in the most desperate crisis of our national history."

Trained Reserve Urged By Fleet Admiral King

Oxford, Ohio, June 2 (AP)—Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, back at his alma mater today, declared in a speech at the Miami University commencement, the cost of establishing a trained reserve through universal military training "will be negligible when compared with what our unpreparedness has cost us in this war."

"I believe that every man and woman is obligated to assist in the maintenance of our national security," he said. "The primary purpose of a year of universal military training is not to militarize the nation for purposes of making war offensively, but to provide additional defensive security—the better to provide for the common defense."

Asserting that many persons think of peacetime as a "do-nothing state of affairs," the Admiral paraphrased the expression of waging war and said:

"Why should we not wage peace? Why should we not make as much effort to win the peace as we do to win the war? Why should there not be militant peace and not for a few weeks, or a few months, or a few years, but always?"

He expressed belief Americans expect a lasting world peace to be gained through the operations of the United Nations, but added:

"However, in this world of realism, we must keep ourselves prepared to support, by realistic methods, if necessary, our idealistic hopes and efforts looking toward enduring peace throughout the world."

Braden Warns Against 'Deals' With Dictators

Tells Graduating Class at Albright of Threat to U. S. Future Security

READING, Pa., June 2 (AP). — Spruille Braden, Assistant Secretary of State, attacked today those who, he said, advocate that the United States make "deals" with foreign dictatorships and asserted such a course would "endanger our future security."

Mr. Braden told the graduating class of Albright College here in a commencement address that "today's appeasement entails a stupendously higher price tomorrow."

He did not identify the advocates of deal-making and appeasement to whom he referred.

Speaking at a moment when General Carlos Von Der Becke, retired Argentine Army chief of staff, is in Miami on his way to Washington on a mystery-shrouded mission, Mr. Braden declared:

"There are those who even yet, after the cruel lessons of the conflict from which our sons are not all returned, advocate that our government make 'deals' with foreign dictatorships, with the enemies of freedom, on the basis of expediency.

"Such a course would strengthen those forces and eventually weaken our own salutary influence by betraying the principles for which our genuine friends, liberty-loving peoples, everywhere look to us.

"Such a course would endanger our future security. It is infinitely wiser for this nation—for every nation—to renounce momentary advantages, alluring though they be, rather than for the sake of them to sacrifice its reputation and its influence."

Mr. Braden asserted that the United States cannot expect the respect of others "if we compromise our principles by making 'deals' with those who threaten the security in which we and the other peace-loving nations enjoy our freedom."

"The only possible foundation for satisfactory international relations," he continued, "is a combination of self-respect and mutual respect and respect for obligation as was so concisely enunciated by President Roosevelt in his original proclamation of the good neighbor policy. This is the golden rule applied to international relations."

Mr. Braden referred to statements by Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and Senator Arthur H. Vanderberg, Republican, of Michigan, a delegate to the Paris peace conference, in which they declared themselves against compromising on principle and appeasement, asserting that "This is authoritative, bipartisan United States policy."

Mr. Braden, who has often attacked Argentina on grounds of not fulfilling her international obligations, asserted that if a nation fails to live up to its pledges, it must eventually find "to its sorrow that its credit and its influence in the world have suffered a diminution which makes it far more difficult for it to protect its own interests."

United States influence abroad, he said, depends upon the "common faith among other peoples" that this country actively believes principles of freedoms and that it means what it says."

Predictions Of War 'Vicious,' Eisenhower Tells Officers

Chicago, June 2 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told the Reserve Officers' Association today that predictions of a future war are "vicious."

"Veterans will work and sweat and sacrifice to prevent the recurrence of such a tragedy," he said.

At the same time the army chief of staff advised that until the United Nations can guarantee international peace this country must stay in a position to guard its own security.

"We need a deeper realization by all our people that the continuing peace of the world depends in large measure on the strength of the United States and its ability to carry out its international commitments," he said.

Support Seen For U.N.

Eisenhower predicted that the wartime army officers who have returned to civil life "will provide sturdy support for the concept of the United Nations, because from

INACTIVE WARSHIPS PLACED BY NAVY IN EAST COAST PORTS

NEW YORK, June 2—(AP)—The 16th fleet, largest in the Navy, is quietly being buttoned up in "Operation Zipper" at eight Atlantic and Gulf ports, but the 1,000 vessels can put to sea in an emergency in a maximum of 30 days, district naval headquarters said today.

Ranging from modern battlewagons to tugs, the ships are being inactivated through use of cleaning materials, paint and preseratives, and nested in eight groups with only skeleton crews or caretakers.

Cost Five Billions

The vessels originally cost $5,557,700,000, the Navy said, and they can be kept in a battle-poised status for an estimated $3,812,600 a year exclusive of salaries of the 1,155 officers and 13,441 men who will look after them.

Together with the ships of the 19th fleet, which includes vessels to be placed on inactive status in west coast ports, the 16th fleet comprises two-thirds of the naval might which thundered against the Axis nations.

The Navy estimates the inactivation process will preserve each vessel at least 20 years with a minimum of upkeep and overhaul. Ships left in commission with skeleton crews can return to active status in 10 days, a spokesman said, while it would require 30 days for those out of commission and tended only by caretakers.

Complete Task in September

So far 219 ships have been completely laid up and 475 are in various stages of inactivation. An additional 330 are scheduled to come under the 16th fleet jurisdiction, with the whole process expected to be completed by next Sept. 1.

The eight ports and the ships to be laid up in each are:

Boston—19 escort carriers and six smaller craft.

New London, Conn.—54 submarines and several smaller vessels.

New York—Three battle cruisers and three large carriers.

Philadelphia—47 ships including three battleships, nine heavy cruisers, 10 light cruisers and five light carriers.

Norfolk, Va.—Two battleships, two large carriers, 10 escort carriers, 22 attack transports and smaller vessels.

Charleston, S. C.—109 destroyers.

Green Cove Springs, Fla.—551 ships including destroyer escorts, destroyer transports, patrol craft and amphibious craft.

Orange, Tex.—138 ships including auxiliaries, tugs and landing craft.

PLANES ON PATROL SPOT HURRICANES POINTED FOR U. S.

WASHINGTON, June 2—(AP) The Army and Navy are ready to tie a warning bell to any hurricane that may roar out of the Caribbean.

Two flights of planes, equipped with the newest apparatus to chart the course of a storm and give long advance warning of its probable path, have just been shifted to operating fields in Florida for the purpose, the services said today.

Beginning this month, hurricanes may be expected at any time until December.

Use Radar

Army planes, operating mostly from Morrison field, West Palm Beach, will use radar for the first time to locate the center of storms without actually undertaking to fly into them. The Navy, which has transferred six long range weather aircraft to Miami, said they are outfitted with improved radar apparatus.

Pooling their efforts, the Army, Navy and Weather Bureau have been able since 1944 to give warnings up to 48 hours before hurricanes struck in full force.

Hitherto they have had to operate behind a veil of wartime secrecy, but the advance notice to lash down anything that might blow away and send ships and aircraft to shelter has minimized damage all the way up the Atlantic coast.

This year as before several daily flights are scheduled over the West Indies and far into the Atlantic, the area where hurricanes are born. Some Army trips extend to Albrook field, in the Panama Canal Zone.

Under instructions to the weather fliers, no hurricane must form without full observation and reports. When winds approach the hurricane intensity of 75 miles an hour as they swirl around the slower moving center, the fliers circumnavigate the storm in counter-clockwise direction and flash back data on air pressures and wind velocities to the weather station at Miami. Last year 13 hurricanes were thus plotted.

Planes Shifted

For the storm season, the Army Air forces shifted flight "A" of the 53rd VLR (very long range) reconnaissance weather squadron to Morrison field from McChord field, Tacoma, Wash., with Capt. William G. Grisham, of Trinidad, Colo., in command. It has four converted B-25 bombers and four B-17 Flying Fortresses. Schedules call for two patrol flights daily, beginning early this month.

Maj. Sidney C. Bruce, Durango, Colo., of the Army Air Forces air weather service, who commanded the squadron last year, said early in the hurricane season the planes fly mostly east of the Antilles, then shift to the middle Caribbean and the gulf, and late in the fall follow the storms back to the Antilles. Cooperating are plans of flight "B" of the same squadron, based in Bermuda.

Fly at 10,000 Feet

Observations are made every 100 miles, at 10,000 feet altitude and at the sea surface. Currently instruments are being perfected to be released by parachute and flash their data automatically to Miami.

"It is practically impossible for a hurricane to strike unexpectedly now as did the storm which hit New York and New England in 1938, Bruce said.

The Army's hurricane operation is part of an effort to keep tab on the weather on a global scale. A squadron of B-24 converted bombers reports on typhoons in the Pacific.

The Navy has six PB-4-Y2 "Privateers," the naval version of the Army's B-24 Liberators, ready to go to Miami. This weather squadron No. 3 moves to Guantanamo, Cuba, or to Norfolk, Va., as storm conditions direct, and the planes, like those of the Army, each carry an aerological officer in addition to the crew.

ARMY SEARCH FOR TREASURE PLANE FUTILE

U.S. Transport Lost Off Africa's Gold Coast Six Months Ago

Washington, June 2 (AP)—The Army wrote "unsolved" today on one of the war's big air force mysteries—what happened to a treasure-laden transport plane and seventeen occupants that disappeared six months ago without a trace off Africa's Gold Coast.

The plane vanished December 4, 1945, as completely as if it had evaporated. It was on a routine 700-mile flight carrying an undisclosed amount of gold and silver from its home field near Monrovia, Liberia, to Accra, British West Africa.

Within twelve hours a search was started by air and by sea and it eventually covered 112,500 square miles without turning up so much as a burned matchstick.

Jungle Can Hide Scars

Experts have decided the pilot, Lieut. Oliver K. Morton, of Wichita, Kan., may have flown about twenty miles to sea to avoid a storm and the plane may have crashed without leaving any floating wreckage.

Or it may have plunged into the jungle of the Gold Coast. Junglewise army men say the dense foliage may have closed over the wreckage so quickly not even a scar showed twelve hours after the crash.

They say there is little possibility of anyone surviving to be the "Dr. Livingston" of the air age because natives of this region are famous for their inability to keep a secret from the weird jungle grapevine.

Those Aboard

The air forces are abandoning the search because they are withdrawing from Liberia.

With Lieutenant Morton were navigators Lieut. Harrison Squires, whose address appeared in the one file available today as Grecenta, Cal., and Second Lieutenant David E. O'Callighan, of Philadelphia, six crewmen and eight passengers.

Germans Develop New False Limbs

Their Techniques Will Aid Wounded Americans

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP).—German scientists have contributed ideas and techniques which promise to improve the lot of Americans who lost arms or legs in the war, the War Department said today.

A group named by the National Research Council reported to Robert Patterson, Secretary of War, after visiting Europe that information of "significant value" was obtained on improvements in cineplastic surgery to control artificial hands and fingers, and on two developments in the design of artificial legs.

Cineplastic surgery, it was explained, consists of surgical treatment to establish "muscle motors." Eyelet tunnels are made in the muscles of arm stumps and lined with normal skin. Motions of an artificial hand can be controlled by cables connected to ivory pegs passed through the tunnels.

The research group found that Dr. Max Lebsche, in Munich, had made improvements in the operation, substantially increasing both the power which can be exerted, and the amount of motion possible.

With the improvements in artificial arms now in process and expected from a research program of the Army and the Veterans Administration, "the hope is that this new cineplastic surgery can be employed to make a marked increase in the range of things amputees can do with their man-made arms," the War Department said.

Also in Germany the research group, which is headed by Dr. Paul E. Klopsteg, found widespread use of artificial legs with "suction sockets" for amputees with legs gone above the knee. The type of socket permits dispensing with cumbersome harness.

Another German development was a device for hydraulic control of the knee joint, enabling the amputee to climb stairs or walk with greater assurance over rough or slippery ground.

DUST FROM BIKINI TO DRIFT OVER U. S.

NEW YORK, June 2—(AP) Evidence of a thin, invisible haze of radioactive particles expected to drift over the United States a day or two after the atomic bomb is exploded at Bikini atoll in July will be sought with scientific detectors at Emory university, Atlanta, 6,000 miles from the Navy test site.

There is no danger in this haze. It will drift eastward from Bikini in the stratosphere, 60,000 feet or more above the earth, and the only question is whether it even will be detectable. In the upper stratosphere, the air travels eastward very rapidly, its direction impelled by the earth's rotation.

Great volcanic eruptions nearly always shoot up a similar invisible haze to circle the world. In case of the Krakatoa eruption, the haze was enough to affect the weather for for two years. The atomic bomb explosion releases less than a millionth of the energy in the Krakatoa blowup.

A few radioactive particles from the stratosphere should drop to earth as the bomb haze sweeps eastward. The rays are expected to be less than those from the luminous dial of a wrist watch, and with even less effect on human beings or animals.

At Emory, Dr. Robert T. Lagemann, who was one of the atomic bomb men at Columbia university, is measuring daily the natural radioactive rays of the earth in the Atlanta region. Stone mountain, near Atlanta, is an especially good source of these rays because of the small amounts of uranium it contains. These ordinary rays are harmless.

Unless the natural earth rays are known precisely in advance, it will not be possible to detect the increase that might come from the Bikini explosion. Dr. Lagemann is using a Geiger counter, an electrical instrument sensitive to radioactive rays.

About 250,000 U.S. War Dead To Be Brought Back Home

Indianapolis, June 2 (AP)—The bodies of nearly a quarter of a million service men and women killed in World War II will be returned to the United States for burial with military honors in their home soil, Mancel Talcott, chairman of the American Legion Grave Registration program, announced today.

This will be 80 per cent of those buried in foreign lands, Talcott said.

National headquarters of the Legion here will become the nerve center for the vast project of "evacuation and return of the honored dead," and the Legion's 14,640 posts will provide honor guards when the bodies arrive at their final destinations.

Plans Begun Early In War

The program has been developed over a period of several years—since shortly after Pearl Harbor—and will reach into every crossroads community.

Talcott, who developed the registration of graves of veterans in this country in 1921, has evolved a system whereby the body of every returned veteran will be received by a guard of honor.

Talcott, former Waukegan (Ill.) mayor, said Legion headquarters would receive information on the time each body will arrive in this country, the route of its journey to its home city and the time of arrival.

This information will be forwarded to the next of kin and to the nearest Legion post. The post will co-operate with the family and will, if the family desires, provide a chaplain, pallbearers, a firing squad and a drum and bugle corps for the burial.

After the bodies arrive in this country they will be sent to home towns in Pullmans—not freight or flat cars—and will have escorts.

National Legion headquarters will serve as a liaison agency between the Government and the next of kin.

In 386 Military Cemeteries

Talcott said 241,000 bodies were buried in 356 established United States military cemeteries overseas and 18,358 in isolated places. Many of them will be returned to this country sometime after the first of the year in "white funeral" fleets.

The Government will return only the bodies requested by the next of kin. Latest reports show there are more than 19,000 Army, Navy, Marine and Coast Guard personnel still listed as missing.

After World War I the bodies of 46,000 of 78,000 men buried overseas were returned at the request of relatives. Legion officials estimate that the return of 80 per cent of those now buried in foreign lands would be requested. A total of 328,000 men and women died in World War II.

About $200,000,000

Talcott said the Government has estimated the cost of the project at $195,000,000 to $215,000,000, which would make an average cost of more than $700 for the return of a body. The Government is providing 250,000 identical, hermetically sealed caskets for the evacuation.

Talcott will give a report on the Legion's part in the program at a session of the executive committee here Thursday.

He said the Government has nearly completed the removal of all American bodies from German soil to Allied territory. He also said the Government was covering every foot of ground of every battle field in an effort to find other bodies of persons listed as missing, but which may be buried in unmarked graves.

BEVIN TO EXPLAIN BRITISH POSITION ON FOREIGN POLICY

R. Wheeler

LONDON, June 3—(AP) Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin will go before the House of Commons tomorrow with a full statement on British foreign policy expected to embody a conciliatory tone toward the Soviet Union and an exposition of Britain's stand on the future of Germ

NIGHT

Bevin, opening two days of debate on foreign affairs, will be the last of the four-power foreign ministers to report publicly on the results of the Paris conference. His address has already been submitted in preview form to the cabinet.

Speculation tonight was that his address would embody proposals for mending British-Russian relations, rather than prolong the acidulous international debate which has continued since Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov accused Britain and the United States of waging an offensive against Russia during the Paris conference. However, Bevin was not expected to make any retreat from basic British policy.

The British foreign secretary also was expected to outline a plan for a future federation of Germanic states, designed to bridge the difficulties of administration over which Russia is at loggerheads with the British and Americans. A foreign office spokesman guardedly observed that it was significant that the idea for the first time appeared to be finding favor in the press of the United States.

It is known that the federation plan has been urged upon Bevin by some continental statesmen, notably the Dutch, who are disturbed at the uncertain administration of Germany and pessimistic over the future. Some continental leaders are said to have told Bevin--and possibly the Americans as well—that present Allied policy is betraying democracy in Germany for the second time in a generation.

These leaders are said to maintain that Russian political and economic influence has progressed in eastern Germany to a point where a unification of Germany would be equivalent to sovietization. (ADD)

ATTLEE URGES FULL FREEDOM OF NEWS

London, June 3 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Clement Attlee called today for "the fullest flow of information between peoples of all nations," because "no true interest of the ordinary people of the world has ever been hampered by letting the truth be known."

Nearly 100 newspaper executives, attending the first Empire Press Conference since 1935, heard Attlee re-emphasize the paramount importance of freedom of the press as "A freedom which belongs not to the press but to the public whose agents in this matter the newspapers are." Though the newspapers' appetite for facts may embarrass politicians occasionally, the Prime Minister said, "so long as you stick to facts we have no complaint."

British Warships Evalued By Jane's

London, June 3 (AP)—The new edition of the authoritative annual Jane's Fighting Ships said today Britain has only ten serviceable battleships, of which only half are fit for full service in the fleet.

The Admiralty said the five now in full service are the King George V, the Duke of York, Anson, Howe and Vanguard.

Four Called "Too Slow"

The forty-eighth edition of the annual said the Queen Elizabeth, Valiant, Nelson and Rodney "are too slow and the Renown is too lightly armored for modern requirements."

It said also that four new battleships were abandoned in construction, the Warspite is slated for the scrap heap and four others have been relegated to harbor duties.

"A considerable percentage of aircraft carrier building has been canceled," said the annual, "and the need for more carriers cannot be too highly stressed."

New Plans For Ships

Battleships mounted with guns that fire atomic shells and armed with atomic torpedoes were seen by Jane's as possible answers to those who doubt the future usefulness of surface ships with the advent of atomic weapons.

"Moreover, so long as the bulk of the world's essential commerce has to be transported by sea, merchant vessels will require to be protected against every form of sea attack, arguing a corresponding tenure of life for the man-of-war," the annual said.

Yugoslavia Said To Have Ordered New Mobilization

London, Tuesday, June 4 (AP). The Rome correspondent of the London Daily Mail said today that reports reaching the Italian capital through "reliable sources" state that Belgrade newspapers have published an announcement of a general mobilization in Yugoslavia.

"Meanwhile, it is reported that Zone A in Venezia Giulia, which is occupied by Allied, as distinct from Yugoslav, troops has been declared in a state of emergency," the Daily Mail's story said.

The dispatch quoted the newspaper Giornal d Ella Serra as saying that the Allies undertook a big arms roundup today in anticipation of a possible coup by Premier Marshal Tito.

[A United Nations information service dispatch received in Rome from Trieste today said the first United States warships to berth in Trieste harbor since the city's liberation from the Germans arrived there Saturday. They were the destroyers Power and Small.]

The Daily Mail's dispatch added that it was "not clear" yet what really is happening in Yugoslavia" because very little news is coming out. (ADD)

Soviet Scores U. S. Labor Bills

Says Recent Legislation Shows Tendency to Classify Strikers With Criminals.

London, June 3 (A. P.).—Moscow Radio commentator Philip Baratov said today that recent United States labor legislation showed a "tendency to put strikers on a par with criminals of the last centry."

Baratov, whose English language broadcast was recorded in London, said that President Truman's request for power to conscript striking workmen carried the United States back to the days when "United States criminals were punished by conscription into the Navy."

Present labor legislation—both the Case bill and the Truman bill — "signifies a turning away from Roosevelt's program and methods and the complete abolition of the gains which the working class of the United States has secured in the past ten or fifteen years," Baratov said.

"Under Presidents Coolidge and Hoover," Baratov said, "any conflict in industry always put the the United States on the side of the industrialists." He added that "President Roosevelt endeavored to act more justly."

"It was said about Roosevelt that he transferred the virtual headquarters of the United States Government from Wall Street to the White House. Today it turns out that the Government has as good as returned to Wall Street," he said.

Baratov said these events have international significance because "organized workers represent a barrier against a new world war, which the most reactionary imperialist circles are preparing."

"The encroachment of reaction on the rights of working people is a plot against world peace," he said.

[In Washington, Commodore Dudley W. Knox, deputy director of United States naval history, commented:

["The Navy has always been a volunteer service. We never conscripted anybody until this war—and then certainly not criminals."]

U.S., Britain Get Right To Use Azores Bases

London, June 3 (AP)—The British Foreign Office said tonight Portugal has granted the United States and Britain the right to use Azores air bases eighteen months to maintain lines of communication with occupation armies in Germany and Japan.

The bases, used by the Allies in the Battle of the Atlantic, have been returned to Portugal.

British Against Atom Censorship

LONDON, June 3 (AP)—The House of Commons Atomic Energy Committee reported tonight it was agreed on the introduction of an amendment that would eliminate from a proposed Government bill any official censorship of nuclear information. A controversial clause in the Government bill would have prohibited disclosure of data on atomic equipment "without consent" of the Minister of Information.

LONDON, June 3 (AP)—Statements by British officers that General Mihailovitch aided all the Allies have been forwarded to the Yugoslav Government with the request they be considered at the Chetnik leader's State trial, Hector McNeil, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, told the House of Commons today.

Decision Likely Soon On Cotton Exchange

London, June 3 (AP)—H. A. Marquand, secretary of the Overseas Trade Department, told the House of Commons today that the Government's decision whether to reopen the war-closed Liverpool Cotton Exchange could be "expected before very long."

Opposition members of the House of Commons urged the Government to act to prevent the loss of British Cotton Exchange trade, citing the reopening of the Bremen Cotton Market and increased activity on other exchanges.

Marquand said the Government had the subject "under consideration" and was discussing it with members of the Liverpool Cotton Association.

G. I. Bride Has Trouble Making Up Her Mind to Take That Airliner to United States.

LDN.

Southampton, June 3 (A. P.). — Margaret Garrett, bride of former Sgt. John Garrett of Orlando, Fla., climbed hesitantly up the steps into an airliner bound for America yesterday, dabbed a tear from her cheek and announced "I'm coming back as soon as possible."

Mrs. Garrett had a hard time makin gup her mind. Last February she got as far as the Tideworth Camp for G. I. brides, then ran home a day before she was due to sail.

Yesterday she changed her mind three times. First she decided to go. A few minutes before the takeoff she balked and announced she was staying behind. Finally she decided to embark when air lines officials told her she would have to pay the fare even if she canceled the flight.

Another G. I. bride, Nora Barr, planned to fly to America, even if she has to make the trip strapped to a bed.

Nora's husband, Sgt. Edgar W. Barr of Peoria, Ill., cashed his savings to fly from the United States to her bedside in Norwich Hospital where she's suffering from a spinal disease. She plans to accompany him on his return to Chanute Field, Ill., if his commanding officer, Col. W. Scott, can find accommodation for them at the Army air base.

VETO MAY UPSET U. N. SUGGESTION TO ATTACK FRANCO

F. Carpenter

NEW YORK, June 3 — (AP) The possibility that one of the big powers might veto the Security council sub-committee's recommendation

No Hint of Stand

The other three of the five v..to : tions—Britain, United States and Russia — have not tipped their hands.

However, an examination of the past declarations of their delegates indicates that the proposal might be too strong to suit Britain and the United States but not strong enough for Soviet Russia.

Britain and the United States have made known their distaste for the Madrid government but have advocated a peaceful overthrow of Franco.

JUN 4 1946

NIGHT

Russia took the position that Spain has been proved a menace to world peace, that the United Nations should take positive action now against Franco.

Month of Study

The sub-committee spent a month digging through thousands of words on Franco Spain. It decided unanimously to recommend to the Security council that it ask the General Assembly to call for a diplomatic break by the United Nations with Franco if he still is in power in September, when the General Assembly meets in New York.

Dr. Oscar Lange, Polish delegate, brought up the case against Spain in the council by charging Franco is a threat to world peace.

At that time Lange demanded the council call upon all nations maintaining diplomatic relations with Franco to sever such relations immediately.

Lange said today he was content to go along with the report of the sub-committee, of which he was a member, and put the case up to the General Assembly on the basis that action by the assembly now may carry more weight than council action.

Lange said he did not know the opinions of the six members of the council not on the sub-committee but he said a veto by Russia, Britain or the United States could kill the committee's proposal. (ADD)

Attempt To Modify Spain Report Seen

D. Hutchison

New York, June 3 (AP)—Evidence increased today that efforts would be made in the United Nations Security Council to modify some of the conclusions of a subcommittee report recommending steps for an eventual world-wide diplomatic break with Franco Spain.

The spokesman for one delegation went so far as to predict that the subcommittee report would not be approved without some modifications. He declined to say, however, what changes he expected.

DAY

The report, which was circulated Saturday after the subcommittee had completed a month's investigation of Poland's charges that the Franco regime threatens world peace, will come before the Council Thursday for action.

Refer To Assembly

The main recommendation was that the Spanish case be referred to the 51-nation General Assembly with a request that the Assembly call for a universal break with Generalissimo Francisco Franco if he is still in power in September.

This proposal has the support of five members of the Council—France, China, Australia, Poland and Brazil—and possibly others. In view of the previous positions taken by the United States, Great Britain and Russia, however, it would not be surprising if one or more of the Big Three suggested modifications.

Although none of the Big Three has commented for publication on the subcommittee's report, all of them are expected to support the exception which Poland took to the committee's finding that the Security Council itself had no authority to direct a break with Franco, because the Franco Government was only "a potential threat" to peace and not an actual threat.

Question Of Veto

Informed quarters said neither the United States nor Britain were likely to resort to the veto, even though they did not approve all the points in the report, but there was no indication what Russia's attitude would be.

Under terms of the Charter, seven votes—including the unanimous support of the five permanent members of the Council—are necessary for approval of questions of "substance" such as the committee's report. (ADD)

Communists Still Retain Strong Position in France

R. Wilson

PARIS, June 3—(AP) The Socialist party, despite its losses in yesterday's election, appeared today to have retained its strong position in the direction of France's provisional government.

While the moderate Popular Republican Movement (MRP) ousted the Communists as France's largest single party, the basic factor dominating French postwar politics remained: That no single party is large enough in itself to command a majority in the assembly, and thus a coalition government is the only formula.

NIGHT

There seemed little likelihood that the Communists would enter any government headed by the MRP.

Need Red Support

At the same time political observers said the MRP would be courting disaster if it attempted to form a government without the Communists, who, with their heavy popular vote, could create a serious disturbance throughout the nation, as they indicated in their recent support of trade union demands for 25 per cent wage increases.

In former crises under Gen. Charles de Gaulle and Socialist President Felix Gouin, the Socialists had refused to consider a two-party government which would have excluded either the Communists or the MRP.

Thus, while the moderate MRP replaced the Communists as France's strongest single party, any impasse between the Communists and the MRP can, observers believe, only be settled in the future, as in the past, through the balancing vote of the Socialists in the assembly.

The results in contests for 29 of the 586 seats at stake in the election still are to be decided—some in runoff elections next Sunday—but these could not afect the overall picture. On the basis of 522 continental seats and some colonial contests, this was the standing of the three major French parties:

MRP: 162 seats; Communists: 149 seats; Socialists: 125 seats.

The rightist Republican Rally (radical Socialists) won 40 seats at this counting, and the rightist Republican Liberty party (PRL), 63. Independents won 18.

The Communists, while losing seats in the assembly will make a new attempt to frame the Fourth Republic's constitution, raised their popular vote by a total of 300,000 since last October's election. The Communist total was 5,145,325. The total vote for the MRP was 5,589,213, a gain of about 650,000. The Socialists had a popular vote of 4,187,767, a loss of about 300,000.

Bidault is Candidate

The MRP was expected to use its newly won position to advance Foreign Minister Georges Bidault as a candidate for the provisional presidency, replacing Socialist Felix Gouin.

The Chamber of Deputies is expected to elect a new provisional president on June 14.

There were reports that the MRP might invite Gen. deGaulle to return as head of a new provisional government, but there was no confirmation whatsoever for these reports, and most observers felt that Bidault would be the man the MRP would advance.

FRENCH VOTERS HAND SETBACK TO COMMUNISTS

Assembly Election Shows M. R. P. as Strongest Party in Nation.

J. Long

Paris, June 3 (AP.)—French Communists received their second setback within a month today as returns from yesterday's election for a new Constituent Assembly showed that the middle-of-the-road Popular Republican Movement (MRP) had become the nation's strongest political party.

Paris, June 3 (AP)—French Communists received their second setback within a month today as returns from yesterday's election for a new constituent assembly showed that the middle-of-the-road Popular Republican Movement (MRP) had become the nation's strongest political party.

DAY

Socialists took an even sharper defeat than the Communists, as the political pendulum swung away from the Left, continuing the trend of May 5, when a Communist-Socialist constitution was rejected.

Although returns still had not been received from the colonies, which hold 60-odd seats, the MRP was assured of at least ten more seats than it held in the last Assembly and at least one more seat than the Communists previously held, the Ministry of the Interior said.

Latest Standings

Complete but unofficial returns from France and Corsica, as announced by the ministry, showed:

MRP 160 seats, compared with 150 in the last Assembly.

Communists, 145, compared with 159.

Socialists, 115, compared with 146.

Republican Liberals, 59, compared with 64.

Republican Rally (Radical-Socialist), 43, compared with 60.

Judging from returns in the last two elections, the general trend will not be affected by returns from the colonies.

Popular-Vote Totals

The MRP victory also was shown in the popular vote from France and Corsica, which gave it a lead of approximately 360,000 over the Communists.

The popular vote in yesterday's elections and last October was:

MRP—5,491,180; October, 4,842,371.

Communists—5,136,334; October, 4,817,603.

Socialists—4,165,813; October, 4,495,402.

The popular vote showed that the Communists, although they gained in total vote, were not able to match the gain of the MRP. Of the three parties, the Socialists alone lost in popular strength.

Maurice Schumann, one of the MRP leaders, said in L'Aube that his party might demand the presidency of the Government.

Georges Bidault, present Foreign Minister, is the leader of MRP.

De Gaulle Rumors Heard

Even before the final tabulation, rumors said the MRP might invite Gen. Charles de Gaulle to return as head of the new provisional government. These reports were without any confirmation, however.

Many observers expected the MRP to offer its regular leader, Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, as the new provisional president.

Since no party emerged with a clear-cut majority, France will be governed again by a coalition—which may prove more difficult than ever to form. The present coalition includes Communists, Socialists and the MRP.

JUN 4 1946

NIGHT

Eleventh-Hour Factors

Political observers said that factors with an eleventh-hour influence in France, sitll a battleground between the ideologies of Communism and western democracy, were:

1. The fact that the recent Foreign Ministers Conference here ended in sharp disagreement between Russia and the west.

2. The United States loan to France, negotiated by Socialist party leader Leon Blum.

3. An open break between Communist and Socialist parties within the last month.

4. A radio address by Pope Pius XII Saturday declaring the election, like the one in Italy yesterday, offered a choice between the "Christian way of life" and the "materialistic state."

Among successful candidates were Maurice Thorez, secretary general of the French Communist party; Edouard Daladier, prewar Premier; former Premier Edouard Herriot, Radical-Socialist leader; Pierre Mendes-France, financial expert; former Premier Paul Reynaud, "and" Michael Clemenceau, son of the World War I leader.

HITLER DOUBT ON ARMY TOLD

Jodl Cites Like Stand On Navy With Belief In Air Forces

T. Berry

Nuernberg, June 3 (AP) — Adolf Hitler to the end of the war doubted the loyality of his Army and Navy and considered the air force the only genuinely Nazi branch of his armed forces, Col. Gen. Gustav Jodl told the international military tribunal today.

"Hitler always said 'I have a reactionary Army, a Christian and sometimes puerile navy and a National Socialist Air Force,'" the former chief of the German general staff and military adviser to the Führer testified at the opening of his defense.

30.24 — 3111

5,000 Meetings With Hitler

Jodl admitted he held more than 5,000 conferences or meetings with Hitler over a twelve-year period, but said that, despite this close association, Hitler never fully trusted him nor any other professional soldiers. He said Hitler forbade their discussing any political reactions to military moves.

The Führer kept his general operating in a sort of vacuum, Jodl testified, because of a personal tendency toward secrecy "to an extent I have only begun to realize since this trial started."

Jodl testified that many times he attempted to dissuade Hitler in certain actions, but at times "it was impossible" even to talk to the Führer. Jodl's own personal objections, the former army chief said, prevented Hitler from repudiating the Geneva conventions in 1944 as Germany's answer to Allied bombings.

"No Anti-Semitic Feelings"

Jodl said he reported to Hitler the shootings of American prisoners at Malmedy during the German winter counteroffensive into Belgium in 1944-45 and similar atrocities by German soldiers in Croatia, but he said Hitler refused to punish the perpetrators.

Jodl, who signed the German surrender document, said that he feared for Germany's future ever since the day Hitler became Reichschancellor. The 56-year-old general contended that at all times he simply performed his duty as a soldier in the German Army. He said he never had anti-Semitic feelings and that he had no connections with Hitler before the Führer came to power.

Making Biggest Tank.

This informant declared that Russia was preparing to reduce her standing army to a long-range level of 3,000,000, but he pointed out that the Red Army is so constituted that it can expand rapidly in an emergency. It has offered special inducement to veteran non-commissioned officers to re-enlist and has thereby assured the basic co-ordination of the army despite large scale demobilization.

Russian factories, this authority said, now are producing the biggest tank in the world—the Super-Stalin mounting a 131-millimeter gun. They also are producing jet-propelled planes and a Soviet version of the jeep.

The highest priority in Russia at the moment, however, he declared, is being given not to armament production but to atomic development.

Allied emissaries in Moscow do not doubt, he said, that Russian scientists know the essentials of atom bomb manufacture, but they doubt that Soviet plants will be making a finished product before 1948 or later.

Only Did Duty, Jodl Defense

Nuernberg, Germany, June 3 (AP). Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, who signed the German surrender as chief of the army staff, told the war crimes tribunal today he was fearful of the future of the Reich on the day Adolf Hitler became Chancellor. He said he never quite got over his apprehension.

As a southern German, he said, he was interested in a democratic regime for Germany. He said he never had anti-semitic feelings and had no dealings with Hitler before he assumed power.

U. S. THIRD ARMY TO BE BROKEN UP LATE THIS SUMMER

FRANKFURT, June 3—(AP) The spectacular U. S. Third Army, last of the six American armies in Europe on V-E day, will be deactivated this summer, and American occupation duties will be left to a constabulary now numbering 38,000 men, high staff officers revealed unofficially today.

These officers said the exact date has not yet been set for the deactivation of the Army which smashed its way under the Late Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., from Normandy's beaches to the heart of Germany.

Official spokesmen for Gen. Joseph T. McNarney's European theater headquarters refused to talk about deactivation plans, stating they were "confidential." They admitted that "several plans" were being discussed, but said they would not take place before July 1.

American forces in Europe now number 319,000 men, compared with about 250,000 British troops in the British occupation zone and an unknown number of Soviet soldiers in the Russian zone.

The deactivation of the Third Army will leave the American sector controlled by the constabulary, which will be expanded; several reserve units, military government authorities and a number of tactical units attached to theater headquarters.

Plans for the American occupation police force call for swift-striking armored units in the constabulary and an on-call occupation air force of fighters and bombers.

The constabulary at present is equipped with light armored vehicles and jeeps. When the troops are deactivated this occupation police force will be expanded beyond its present size, but its ultimate strength still is being studied, officers said.

The Third Army now is commanded by Lt. Gen. Geoffrey Keyes.

U. S. TO BREAK UP THIRD ARMY SOON

Frankfurt, June 3 (A. P.).—High staff officers said unofficially today that the United States Third Army, the only remaining major tactical force in the American zone of Germany, would be deactivated this summer. Occupation duties would be left to the United State Constabulary which now numbers 38,000 men.

The Third Army, formerly led by the late Gen. George Patton, is the last of five United States armies which were in Europe the day Germany surrendered. Officers said the exact date of its deactivation had not been set, but that it would be after July 1. Lieut.-Gen. Geoffrey Keyes now is commander. They said, however, that deactivation of the Third Army likely would come more rapidly than otherwise should Congress fail to prolong the draft bill within the next twenty-seven days.

The present strength of American forces in the European Theater is approximately 319,000 men.

FRAULEIN'S DEATH IS RULED SUICIDE

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 3—(AP) The U. S. Army today pronounced a suicide the death of a 19-year-old German girl in a young American lieutenant's quarters at Kitzingen last week.

Criminal investigation agents said Ingebord Porter-Reuter of Munich left a farewell note addressed to Lt. Robert W. Howk, Carnegie, Pa., before shooting herself in despondency over Howk's scheduled redeployment home. The report said: "The girl was fully clothed when found, had not been drinking and had not slept with Lt. Howk the previous night."

The provost marshal's office announced yesterday that the dead girl was Jagerug Portenreuther, that the lieutenant in question was Robert Howk, and that the girl had spent the night with the lieutenant. All the names and the incident were at variance with the official criminal investigation report of today.

Four G[illegible] have died in soldiers' quarters during the past month. One death was accidental. Three others killed themselves because their friends were about to return to the United States.

Brig. Gen. George S. Eyster, U. S. Army public relations chief, today answered press criticism of fraternization between American soldiers and German girls. With criticism centered on Nuernberg officer clubs, Eyster inspected recreation facilities of the city and said:

"Insofar as the tone or the atmosphere of the American club in particular is concerned, I would not hesitate to be present with my wife and daughter at any time."

The Army newspaper, Stars and Stripes, published a letter yesterday by an "American soldier's wife" criticizing the American club for permitting Americans to bring their German girl friends there.

Kilian, Former Lichfield Head, Refuses To Talk

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 3 (AP)—Col. James A. Kilian, former commander of the United States Army's Lichfield (England) detention camp, refused to testify in the cruelty trials today on the grounds that he was awaiting trial and that his appearance might "jeopardize" his defense.

"I heard the prisoner holler, so I stuck my head out of my bunk and looked on," Expello asserted. "I saw Ennis hit the prisoner three times."

Three witnesses in Cubage's trial told of beatings and other punishment given Lichfield prisoners. None identified Cubage as having a personal part. The prosecutor said he would show that Cubage supervised and enforced disciplinary measures.

2 More German Girls' Deaths Involve American Soldiers

Frankfurt, June 3 (AP)—The deaths of two German girls in circumstances involving American soldiers was disclosed over the week end by United States Army authorities.

The United States Army Provost Marshal's office here announced that one of the girls had been found shot to death in the quarters of an American lieutenant at Litzingen on May 30.

Second Incident

Fellow officers of the lieutenant, identified by the provost as Robert Hawk (no home address given), said the girl had shot herself during Hawk's absence because she was in love with him and he was about to be redeployed to the United States.

In Nuernberg, the Provost Marshal's office said an American Negro soldier had admitted accidentally shooting to death a 19-year-old German girl as they lay in bed in her apartment.

The Provost Marshal identified the soldier as Pfc. Arthur Lee Cannell, 21, of Ponyville, Miss.

The soldier was quoted as saying that a pistol in his jacket, which was hanging near the bed, had been discharged accidentally when he reached for the jacket.

Fourth Case In A Month

The provost said Cannell was being held for further investigation.

The two incidents brought to four the number of German girls who have met death within a month in circumstances in which American soldiers have been involved.

The Highland Park (Ill.) man is the ranking officer among the fourteen defendants accused of mistreating American soldier prisoners at the Lichfield guardhouse. The court-martial deferred until tomorrow a decision on Kilian's right to silence.

Earlier, six witnesses in three different trials told stories of soldier prisoners at Lichfield being beaten with clubs, rifle butts and fists. One asserted his jaw was broken.

They testified in the trials of Lieut. Leonard W. Ennis, of Peekskill, N.Y.; Lieut. Granville Cubage, of Oklahoma City, and Pfc. William B. Norris, of Mulga, Ala. All are on trial befort courts-martial on charges of abuse to prisoners at Lichfield.

Private Fred Moore, a Negro of New Haven, Conn., asserted that Norris helped beat eight prisoners.

They Knew What To Answer

"We were called into the latrine one by one," Moore said. "As I walked in, I was surprised by a blown on the face, followed by several more. Norris seemed intoxicated by the way he was swinging wild. I suffered a jaw fracture."

He said he and another prisoner had to mop up the blood after the beating and that Norris asked him a "test" question: "What happened to your faces?"

"We had been in Lichfield quite a while, so we said we'd fallen," Moore testified.

Lieutenant Is Accused

Thomas Ryan, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., a prisoner serving a court-martial sentence, testified he was beaten several times, once by Norris.

Tech. 4/g Thomas Capello, of Chicago, testified he saw Ennis strike a prisoner with a club.

One of the thirteen witnesses who refused last week to testify in another trial was called today in Norris's case and again remained uncommunicative. The witness was Otto C. Holt of Gilman, Ill., who is serving a court-martial sentence.

"I was identified as a defendant instead of a witness in a newspaper picture and I think that's reason enough," he said.

When the court threatened him with military punishment for refusing to answer questions, Holt said:

"I've got ten to twenty years so I don't think six months would hurt me much."

6 Million Under Arms in Russia

Long-range Plan Calls for Further Cut—Atomic Development Given Top Priority.

Nuernberg, June 3 (A. P.).—Although Russia has released more than 10,000,000 men from military service in the last ten months, it still has approximately 6,000,000 under arms at the present time, according to the best information available to Allied military authorities.

One high Allied military informant estimated that the Red Army—which he described as the most powerful ground force in the world—now has a strength of about 4,500,000 men, while the air force, navy and NKVD (internal police) total 1,500,000.

The 56-year-old Bavarian, dressed in the traditional red-striped general staff trousers and a green tunic, opened his fight for his life with the contention that he was a professional soldier and at all times simply did his duty.

MILAN VOTE BACKS REPUBLIC IN ITALY

Early Returns from Other Cities Favor End of Monarchy

Rome, June 3 (AP)—First returns from Milan, Italy's largest industrial city, showed tonight that 76,364 persons had voted for an Italian republic and 33,709 chose retention of the monarchy in yesterday's national plebiscite.

The unofficial returns were from 137 voting districts. Early returns from 578 Milan districts in the national elections for membership in the Constituent Assembly put the Socialist party in the lead with 156,125 popular votes.

The Christian Democrats received 120,789 votes in Milan and the Communists 111,453.

Partial returns from Turin showed 32 per cent of the counted vote was for the Christian Democrats and 22 per cent for the Socialists.

Reggio Reports

In Reggio Emilia, nineteen districts favored the republic over the monarchy by a vote of 6,911 to 2,283. Sixty-three districts in the same city gave the Communists a substantial lead in the Assembly voting with a total of 15,618, compared with 7,986 for the Christian Democrats and 7,911 for the Socialists.

In Como, 40 districts gave the republic 9,318 votes and the monarchy 7,300.

The important port of Livorno (Leghorn), in early returns gave 70 per cent of its votes to the republic. In 38 of Livorno's 97 districts, the Communists received 11,049 votes, the Christian Democrats, 4,331 and the Socialists, 4,034.

Umberto Casts Ballot

No other returns were announced from the nation-wide count of votes which started this noon. It was expected that no official announcement of results would be made before June 7.

Among those who cast ballots today prior to the noon poll-closing was a reigning monarch whose throne was at stake in the plebiscite.

In an action believed without historical precedent, 42-year-old King Umberto II provided an epitaph to the concept of the divine rights of kings by participating in the nation-wide plebiscite on whether the exiled House of Savoy or a republican government should rule Italy.

Umberto appeared at the polling place in the fashionable Parioli section of Rome 45 minutes before the polls closed and cast two ballots—one in the plebiscite and one in the election of a constituent assembly which will draw up Italy's new constitution. A royal household spokesman said the King may not have marked his ballots.

No Major Disorders

Fully as significant as the monarch's appearance, however, was the fact that up to an hour or two before the polls closed today, this nation of 45,000,000 people had yet to report its first election disorder of any consequence.

Remarking on this, Premier Alcide de Gasperi, head of the powerful Christian Democratic party, pointed out that there were 28,000,000 voters registered in the 31 regions to choose among 52 different parties, 11 of which presented nation-wide tickets, then added:

"It is proof that if we leaders energetically demand order, the people will follow us. The Italian people have voted with more order than in 1919, giving magnificent proof that Italy is ready to govern itself."

Both Sides Predict Victory

Official sources estimated that some 70 per cent of the country's voters cast their ballots, and there still were lines before most polling places in Rome as the noon closing hour approached.

Both Republicans and Royalists predicted victory. Republican leader Randolfo Pacciardi claimed the Republicans polled 60 to 65 per cent of the vote, although conceding that the last-minute Royalist campaign had cut down Republican strength somewhat.

At the same time a highly placed monarchist estimated that Umberto would be upheld by at least 60 per cent of the voters, "if the balloting was regular." He said several instances of irregularity at the polls had been reported.

National Unity Seen

The Italian press, which took part violently in the campaign, joined in expressions of exultation over the lack of disorders in this first free nation-wide election since the rise of fascism. A headline in the afternoon newspaper Independent summed up the comment of several newspapers of varying political affiliations by stating that "whatever the outcome, there is national concord and unity."

The last-minute arrival of the monarch, who ascended the throne only a month ago upon the abdication of his father, Vittorio Emanuele, was the chief development in the second day of voting.

Tall, smiling Umberto arrived with a minimum of police precautions, cast his ballots and then retired to his Villa Savoy in suburban Rome to await the outcome.

Established Big Plebiscite

The House of Savoy's action in yielding to postwar clamor for a plebiscite recalled the plebiscites of 1860 and 1870 in the Italian states by virtue of which the Savoys came from Piedmont and Sardinia to govern a united Italy.

Umberto's Minister to the Royal Household, Falcone Lucifero, said there was "reason to believe" the King left his own ballots blank, but the King's appearance at the polls was a logical result of his own decree which called for a full popular vote on the referendum.

Regarding the new Constituent Assembly, the possibility was widely discussed here that the constitution it will write will be submitted to the people in another referendum before it becomes effective.

Meanwhile, the Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, replying to the Moscow radio's criticism of Pope Pius XII's address Saturday as "propagandistic activity against the Left," asserted that the church's fight for "the liberty of human beings, justice protected in law, and the struggle against materialism in thought and life, was of yesterday, today and tomorrow."

Lines Still Long Near Close Of Italy's Polls

Rome, June 3 (AP)—Both Republicans and Royalists predicted victory by comfortable margins today as Italy completed a plebiscite to determine whether it is to be a monarchy or republic.

The official result will not be announced until after June 7, but some unofficial returns on the referendum and the concurrent Constituent Assembly elections are expected soon after the polls close at noon today.

"We polled 60 to 65 per cent of the vote," said Randolfo Pacciardi, Republican leader, concerning the referendum. However, he conceded that the House of Savoy's home-stretch campaign had cut down Republican chances for a more sweeping victory.

Monarchist's View

A highly placed monarchist estimated that King Umberto would be retained by at least 60 per cent of the vote "if the balloting was regular." He declared that several irregularities at the polls had already been reported.

While the issue of monarchy versus republic overshadowed voting for the Assembly, observers regarded the latter as equally important, since the outcome would indicate the extent of Italy's political swing to right or left.

King's Ballots Blank?

King Umberto voted about 45 minutes before the polls closed. A small crowd cheered him as he entered and left the polling place. He was accompanied by Falcone Lucifero, Minister of the Royal Household and his campaign manager.

Lucifero said he had "reason to believe" the King turned in blank ballots on both the referendum and the assembly election. The King, he said, was "above every passion and absolutely objective."

65 P.C. Believed Voting

There still were long lines of voters at many Rome polling places in midmorning today, and election officials were instructed to keep the booths open until all those in line had voted.

Italian news agency dispatches estimated late last night that 65 to 70 per cent of the country's 28,000,000 voters turned out yesterday.

Only one election death was reported and that was accidental. A voter waiting in line near Viterbo was killed when the firearm of a policeman with whom he was talking went off. Eight persons were hurt when a platform collapsed under a group of voters at Venasca.

Some Tyroleans Abstain

A dispatch from Trento in the lower Tyrol said that members of the South Tyrol People's party, which seeks the return of the region to Austria, abstained from voting on orders of party leaders.

Umberto's chances were believed by observers to have been strengthened by an eleventh-hour promise of a new plebiscite immediately after the constituent assembly has drafted a constitution.

Part for Newspaper Men In U. N. Agenda Is Urged

Federation of Journalists Opens Copenhagen Sessions

COPENHAGEN, June 3 (AP).—Archibald Kenyon, president of the International Federation of Journalists, said today that newspaper men should be asked to participate in embodying freedom of the press in the United Nations agenda.

Speaking at the opening session of the federation's first postwar meeting, Kenyon told news men from twenty nations that for the United Nations to discuss freedom of the press "without men of the press participating would be playing 'Hamlet' without the Prince of Denmark."

"We demand freedom—we accept responsibility," said Kenyon, an assistant editor of "The Yorkshire (England) Post."

CrownPrince Frederick of Denmark officially opened the congress. Thorkil Kristensen, Danish Minister of Finance, expressed the hope that "all obstacles to free exercise of the responsible tasks of journalists may be removed."

It is understood here that Fotitch, who resigned his ambassador's post in July, 1944, and refused to recognize Marshal Tito (Premier Josip Broz) as the head of the Yugoslav government, is still in the United States, where he has been active in efforts to bring about international intervention in the trial of Mihailovitch.

Of the twenty-four defendants, ten are known to be outside Yugoslavia, several in America, and they will be tried in absentia.

Mufti Backs Arab Policy

Exiled Palestine Leader Urges Stand Against Zionism

JERUSALEM, June 3 (AP).—The exiled Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin El-Husseini, appealed today in a message from Paris for the people of the Arab world to "stand firm" in opposition to Zionism. Jamal El-Husseini, his nephew and head of the Arab Higher Committee, made public the message, in which Haj Amin said Palestine is the "first line of defense of the Arab world, and if we give way, then danger faces other Arab countries directly."

Jamal said the message did not mention any possible intention of the Mufti to return to the Eastern Mediterranean. The British still do not permit the return of Haj Amin, who escaped to Lebanon in 1937 at the height of Arab-Jewish disorders.

Will Retreat No Farther, Say China Reds

Nanking, June 3 (AP)—Communist spokesman Lu Ting-yi announced tonight the capture of four Government-held Manchurian cities and intimated that his party's forces would retreat no farther in the increasingly critical Manchurian civil war.

Tu said that the cities were captured when the Government 184th Division collapsed in Eastern Manchuria and surrendered en masse.

Simultaneously, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek returned to Nanking, where in an effort to bolster the fading hopes for peace General Marshall was reported to have advanced a new peace proposal.

Anchan Situation Confused

The four cities which Lu said the Communists had occupied were listed as Anshan, Haicheng, Tashihkiao and Yingkow, Chingchow).

30.24 — 3113

Anshan, a steel center on the Changchun railway between Mukden and Port Arthur, had been reported recaptured by the Communists on May 26. The Government's Central News Agency reported yesterday that the Reds had been routed from the town. Lu's report left the exact situation at Anshan confused.

The spokesman's intimation that Yenan forces would retreat no farther in the face of the advancing Nationalist armies was given in reply to a question as to whether his party would defend Harbin.

Little Hope For Peace

Marshall's new plan, a reliable Chinese source said, called for abandonment of the Government army advance on Communist-held Harbin and Tsitsihar, Communist evacuation of the two cities and maintenance of the status quo of all Government and Communist forces.

Temporary administrative officials for the two evacuated Manchurian cities would be named pending the setting up of permanent Government-Communist administrations.

Marshall was reported to have warned both sides that the fighting must be stopped quickly or the entire nation will be engulfed.

A Communist spokesman, Lu Ting-yi, claimed the capture of four cities and a 40-mile stretch of the Changchun railway by Red forces in southern Manchuria and the surrender en masse of a whole Government division.

Cities Named

He identified the cities as Anshan, Haicheng, Tashihkiao and Yingkow (Chingchow) and said they fell into Communist hands when the Government's 184th Division collapsed and laid down its arms.

Anshan, important steel center south of Mukden, previously had been reported captured by the Communists May 26. The Government Central news agency said Sunday that Red forces had been routed from the town. Lu's new claim left the exact situation confused.

Asked if the Communists intended to defend Harbin, Lu replied that Government forces had not yet reached that north Manchurian city, and added:

"Retreat has its limits."

Retreat Has Been Policy

He explained that the Communists heretofore had been following the policy, laid down by their headquarters in Yenan, of never attacking and of retreating in the face of attack. Those days, he intimated, were over.

A Communist New China news agency broadcast from Yenan, meanwhile, accused the United States of transporting more Central Government divisions from south China to Manchuria. It added that "the United States has also decided to transport the Kuomintang (Government) 53d Army" from Indo China to Manchuria, "which dovetails with Chiang Kai-shek's plan for a nation-wide civil war."

[The Communist agency said that in Chinese eyes this "American policy of transporting Kuomintang troops to civil-war fronts constitutes not only active co-operation with, but even fanning the fire of Chiang Kai-shek's civil-war hostilities."]

Marshall, Chou Confer

General Marshall, whose peace-promoting efforts in Nanking were not relaxed during the Generalissimo's absence, conferred for six hours yesterday with Chou En-lai. No statement was issued, and a close-mouthed secretary divulged only that the two men had "discussed the situation."

The special American envoy was reported Sunday to have proposed a new compromise in Manchuria, involving abandonment of the Government's drive to capture Harbin and Tsitsihar on condition that the Communists turn them over to administrative officials. Marshall's headquarters refused to comment on this report.

He was captured after the surrender, however, and convicted last March in the Kiangsu provincial court at Soochow.

Chiang, Back From Manchuria, Plans Parley With Marshall

Nanking, Tuesday, June 4 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, who must choose between peace and civil war for his strife-torn nation, scheduled an important conference today with General Marshall, special United States envoy to China.

Chiang and Marshall were expected to spend most of the day going over the Manchurian situation, which has changed materially since the Generalissimo left May 23 to visit Mukden and Changchun, Manchurian capital retaken from Chinese Communist forces. Chiang returned here last night.

Expected Two Days

Informed sources said conferences of Chiang, Marshall and Gen. Chou En-lai, chief Communist negotiator, were expected to occupy at least two days. Only when the conferences have ended will the committee of three, which formally drafts agreements connected with the civil conflict, resume its meetings.

The prospects of a peaceful settlement were clouded, however, by new Communist claims of military successes and a renewal of Communist charges that the United States was backing Chiang's plans for "enlarging civil-war operations in Manchuria."

JAPAN'S WAR TRIAL OPENS

U.S. Prosecutor Calls It Part Of Battle To Save World

Tokyo, Tuesday, June (AP). Prosecution of Japan's top militarists as war criminals "will be no ordinary trial," but part of a battle "[illegible] entire world from de[illegible]," the Allied chief prosecutor, Joseph B. Keenan, told the international tribunal today.

The 52-year-old former chief of the United States Department's criminal division began his 55-page opening statement as the 26 defendants, heavily guarded, followed a concurrent translation.

The court ordered hospital confinement but refused to dismiss charges against two others, Yosuke Matsuoka and Shumei Okawa, both too ill to be present.

Purpose To Prevent War

"This may well be one of the important trials of history," Keenan told the ten Allied justices. "Our broad aim is orderly administration of justice; our specific purpose, prevention of . . . aggressive war."

The threat of destruction of the civilized world, he asserted, comes from "the deliberate, planned efforts of individuals . . . and members of groups who seem willing to bring the world to a premature end in their mad ambition for domination."

Such were the men in the prisoners' dock, sitting quietly in the glare of photographers' floodlights, he suggested—each with a share of responsibility for pillage and murder charged as part of Japan's eighteen-year program of aggression and war.

"They declared war upon civilization," he declared, by murdering or subjugating millions of persons, by annihilating children and aged, by obliterating whole communities, by treating signed agreements among nations as "mere words—bits of paper."

Prosecution of such men—"murderers, pirates, plunderers"—he asserted, has "nothing whatsoever to do with . . . vengeance or retaliation . . . if there is no justification for the punishment of individuals who have already brought civilization to the brink of disaster, then justice itself is a mockery."

The accused have contended, he added, that "there is no power on earth duly authorized to try them."

Has Been A Crime, He Says

Keenan also argued that a war of aggression "is and has been" a crime under established international law.

"To reach this conclusion," he explained, "we must establish two things: First, that there is international law covering the subject, and second, that it is a crime under that law. Establishment of these two things is, we believe, among the important questions before this tribunal.

"For the first time in history a military tribunal sitting in Nuernberg and this military tribunal for the Far East are being asked by civilized nations of the world to recognize and state by judicial decision these two principles as an integral part of international law."

Defense Resignation Hinted

There was a possibility that the court might be faced with the resignation of the chief of the war crimes defense section, Navy Captain Beverly M. Coleman, and his six associates. Informed sources reported Monday that they had decided to resign because they were dissatisfied with the rules for procedure and other phases of the trial.

Coleman and his associates, said an anonymous court attaché, felt that the trial to date had not been conducted with "fairness."

A ten-day recess, granted the defense yesterday on its plea for additional time in which to prepare its case, will start Wednesday. During the interval Keenan plans to return to the United States to attend to personal business. He has been in Japan for six months.

Tojo's Defense May Resign

Tokyo, June 3 (AP)—Informed sources reported today that the chief of the War Crimes Defense Section, Naval Capt. Beverly M. Coleman, and six associates have decided to resign because of their dissatisfaction with the conduct of the trial of ex-Premier Tojo and 25 other Japanese they were appointed to defend.

Another source also disclosed that Coleman was scratched by glass splinters Saturday when an unidentified Japanese threw a rock at the windshield of his sedan near the guarded gates of the War Ministry Building, site of the war-crimes trial. No explanation for the attack was given.

Comment Aired

A court attache, who asked that his name not be disclosed, said the American defense staff—mostly civilians—felt the trial to date had not been conducted with "fairness." In today's opening of the trial the defense protested that it had insufficient time to prepare its case and needed from two weeks to three months to prepare adequately the defense of the various defendants; the court granted a ten-day extension.

Several defense attorneys in private conversations have expressed disagreement with what they called loose rules of evidence, which they said disregard the Anglo-Saxon tradition to provide legal safeguards to a defendant.

Slow Translations Cited

The defense also has objected repeatedly to the tribunal's order preventing immediate translation into Japanese of all phases of the proceedings. A newly arrived American defense counsel said he was astounded to learn that one document presented to the court ten days before had not yet been translated into Japanese.

The court dismissed, quickly and bluntly, the defense motion to dismiss charges against the defendants. Chief Justice Sir William Webb brushed aside a prosecution reply with the comment, "We do not care to hear from you, Mr. Chief Prosecutor," and immediately announced the rejection of the motion.

dictatorial power of Japanese men over their wives and giving women legal equality in marital matters will be presented to the next Diet session, Social-Democratic party leaders disclosed today.

The published details of the measure which would wipe away inequalities which General MacArthur long ago declared must end.

Under the proposal, Japanese women would have the right to enter marriage on an equal legal footing with men.

Would Change Divorce Setup

The bill would eliminate the present divorce system whereby the man can shed his wife by the mere formality of removing her name from his family register. Women now canont sue for alimony and seldom seek divorce on their own initiative.

The old family system in which the man's word is absolute law, a holdover from feudal days, would be affected by the proposal.

The present system of the oldest son succeeding to the family wealth would be eliminated and younger children and the widow would be permitted to join in inheritances.

The measure would eliminate the differences between illegitimate children and those born legitimately or of a man's concubines. The Social-Democrats did not explain whether this meant legalizing illegitimate children.

The legislation would establish a family court to handle domestic problems and advise. Japanese women still know little about such things as suits for nonsupport.

Some Imported Food Distributed In Japan

Tokyo, June 3 (AP)—With intelligence reports indicating an increasing number of Japanese dying in the Tokyo area from starvation, Supreme Headquarters today took steps to prevent waste of imported foods.

The Japanese Government was directed to release as part of the staple food ration a "very small precentage" of imported food which is in danger of spoiling.

A bumper crop of sweet potatoes was forecast by an official of the Agricultural and Forestry Ministry who predicted that the new harvest would yield 1,600,000,000 kan (one kan equals about eight pounds.)

Emergency Edict Planned

Kyodo news agency also reported that the Government plans to issue an emergency food declaration in an effort to tide over the crisis.

In another step to ease the food situation, Supreme Headquarters authorized the Japanese Government to issue 3,900,000,000 yen ($260,000,000) worth of food certificates to be sold to banks to finance the purchase of rice and other staple items.

In turn the Government is buying crops from farmers at higher than ceiling prices but selling to consumers at ceiling value, with the difference made up in the annual budget.

267 Die In Streets

United States Army officers said 267 starvation victims were found dead in Tokyo's streets during April. Japanese police reported 1,291 deaths from malnutrition in the Tokyo area since November.

In a new attempt to break up the ancient family financial monopolies of Japan, Allied headquarters ordered the freezing of 500,000,000 yen ($33,333,334) of ten more of the nation's leading financial families.

All hold some interest in the four-family monopoly concerns (Zaibatsu), whose assets had already been frozen.

Must Submit Budgets

Henceforth, the families named will have to submit budgets for headquarter's approval before making expenditures; they will not be permitted expenditures beyond direct living requirements or taxes.

J. M. Henderson, chief of the anti-trust and cartels division, said evidence showed that the families were trying to maintain financial control of Japan by investments from personal assets in nonrestricted lines of business.

One of Japan's two vacancies in the House of Representatives was filled yesterday in a byelection in near-by Fukui province.

Newspapers unofficially reported the election of Dr. Yoshio Domori, Social Democrat. The only remaining vacancy in Tokyo's second district, will also be filled in a by-election.

The current division of the 465 House seats is:

Liberals, 103 seats; Progressives, 97; Social Democrats, 96; Co-Operative Democrats, 36; Communists, 5, and the other 88 independents.

1-Year Stay In Japan

Yokohama, June 3 (AP)—All military occupational personnel who bring their dependents to Japan must agree to remain in their overseas station at least a year after their dependents arrive, 8th Army headquarters announced today.

Roxas Asks Power To End Disorder

Manila, June 3 (AP)—President Manuel Roxas asked the Philippines Congress today for authority to recognize and streamline all Government offices and bureaus and proposed an offensive against "inflation, lawlessness and economic inaction," financed largely by American loans.

The new President, reading a 15,000-word state-of-the-nation message to a joint session of Congress, disclosed he had asked the United States for a rehabilitation loan of 500,000,000 pesos ($250,000,000). The United States already had been asked for a loan of 800,000,000 pesos to cover expected Government deficits of the next five years.

Offers Drastic Program

Roxas's message, one of the most comprehensive and drastic ever presented a Philippines Congress, also called for higher taxes, new rights and responsibilities for organized labor, strong wage, price and rent control, and an army of 12,000 plus an expanded state police force. In addition, Roxas asked establishment of a budget bureau.

Vice President Elpidio Quirino announced, meanwhile, that the budget for the fiscal year 1946-47 totals 250,000,000 pesos. A loan now being negotiated with the United States was expected to provide 193,000,000 pesos of the total.

Wave Of Kidnappings

New outbreaks of fighting in central Luzon between Hukbalahaps (armed peasants) and military police were reported, despite efforts of the Roxas Government to halt the clashes. Pampanga province authorities reported that the "confessions" of six peasant extremists had solved the kidnap slayings of eighteen wealthy landlords of the area. (ADD)

"That can only be done if the Government takes possession of all supplies," said Hoover, who is on a food fact-finding tour of the Latin-American nations.

1942 Auto Sells For $3,500 In Brazil

Rio de Janeiro, June 3 (AP)—Federal authorities Have dispatched new instructions to all state governments, insisting on strict enforcement of measures established to prevent speculation in the sale and resale of new automobiles.

Used cars are being transferred at prices such as $3,500 for a 1942 Oldsmobile (with 12,000 miles as advertised in newspapers) and new cars therefore are attracting premiums well above ceiling prices determined by the Government.

Four Japanese Youths Admit Brazilian Killing

Rio de Janeiro, June 3 (AP)—Four Japanese youths surrendered to police in Sao Paulo state last night, asserting they had killed a Japanese army colonel "because he offended the honor of the empire."

It was a fresh outbreak of Japanese terrorists against their countrymen who acknowledge that Japan has been defeated in the war.

COMMUNIST CHIEF IS HELD IN CANADA

TORONTO, June 3—(AP) A. D. Adamson of the Canadian Immigration Service said today that William Z. Foster, chairman of the Communist party in the United States, had been arrested for illegal entry into Canada and had been ordered to leave the dominion by tonight.

Foster, Adamson said, was arrested early Sunday, but was released later in the day under $500 bond on his promise to leave. He appeared before a one-man immigration board at Don jail.

After his release from jail, Foster addressed the national convention of the Labor-Progressive party. Police said he entered Canada at Fort Erie, Ont., traveling there from New York.

Immigration officers and Royal Canadian Mounted Police detained Foster on a stop order issued against him several years ago when he was barred from entry to Canada.

SAYS REDS CALLED FOR URANIUM TIP

Montreal, June 3 (A. P.).—Igor Gouzenko, former cipher clerk at the Russian embassy at Ottawa, testified today at the conspiracy trial of Fred Rose, Communist Member of the Canadian Parliament, that Russia sought detailed information on the "progress on uranium" in July, 1945.

Gouzenko, on the witness stand for the fourth day, said the request was made in a message to "Grant," identified as Col. Nikolai Zabotin, former Soviet military attache in Canada, from "the director," the cover name for the "Chief of First Intelligence Headquarters, Moscow." Gouzenko said the message, allegedly taken by him from the Russian embassy, asked "Grant" to work out and wire meeting and password for Alex and our man in London." "Alex" was identified by the witness as Dr. Alan Nunn May, the British physicist who was last month sentenced to ten years' imprisonment for revealing atomic secrets.

May was one of the scientists sent to Canada by Britain to assist in atomic research. Gouzenko said the message asked that an effort be made to obtain information on uranium research before "Alex's" departure for London.

Atomless A-Bomb To Drop In One Test

Aboard Flagship Mount McKinley, Bikini Atoll, June 3 (AP)—An "atom bomb" minus the nuclear explosive will be dropped on the atom-test target ship Nevada in a dress rehearsal June 25, joint task force officers announced today.

It was assumed that the facsimile bomb would contain some kind of explosive to mark the point of detonation. Previous practice drops have been made at painted targets on islands of the atoll with concrete "pumpkins" having ballistic features similar to those of the true bomb.

Even if cloud conditions June 25 prevent actual release of the bomb from a high-flying B-29, all other phases of the rehearsal will be carried out.

Rear Admiral William H. P. Blandy, commander of the joint task force, told his staff that all phases of scientific preparations for the test itself were on schedule. He went ashore at Bikini Island today to inspect installations.

Bikini authorities, meanwhile, confined to the brig two enlisted men—charged with lighting fires in the atoll brush.

STETTINIUS QUITS AS U. N. DELEGATE

Winant Mentioned as Successor to High-Ranking Diplomatic Post.

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP) Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., quit definitely today as United States representative to the United Nations, a job which some said he had come to regard as an "errand boy's."

President Truman said last week, when Stettinius' intention was reported, that he hoped to induce the latter to stay. But Stettinius pressed his resignation at the White House today and the President announced its acceptance, at Stettinius' "earnest insistence."

Effective Immediately

No date was fixed, but it apparently takes effect immediately. The State department said that Herschel Johnson, a career diplomat who is deputy U. S. representative, would fill the U.N. seat until a successor was named.

John G. Winant, wartime ambassador to Britain and now U. S. representative on the U.N. Economic and Social council, was among those mentioned for the place in unofficial speculation. The post carries the rank of ambassador and a salary of $20,000 a year plus expense allowances.

Returns to Private Life

Stettinius gave no reason for his resignation except to say that when he entered government service he expected to remain only as long as he was needed during the war. Now that the U.N. is "a going concern," he added, he felt he could rightfully ask Mr. Truman to accept his resignation.

Stettinius Meets Truman and Byrnes

Washington, June 3 (A. P.).—Edward R. Stettinius Jr., who has submitted his resignation as United States delegate on the United Nations Security Council, conferred for fifteen minutes today with President Truman and Secretary of States Byrnes. Upon leaving the White House, he told reporters that anything about his plans would have to come from Truman who has said he wants Stettinius to stay on the job.

Asked about reports that he might seek the Senate vacancy left by the death of Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, Stettinius replied: "I am not a candidate for any political office."

SOVIET ENVOY SEES TRUMAN

And Pledges for Improved Relations Are Given.

Washington, June 3 (A. P.).—President Truman and Soviet Ambassador Novikov exchanged pledges today to work toward improvement of relations between the United States and Russia.

Novikov visited the White House to present his credentials as Soviet Ambassador, succeeding Andrei A. Gromyko, who has been named permanent Soviet representative on the United Nations Security Council.

Mr. Truman and Novikov used almost identical language to express their hopes for continued improvement of relations between the two nations. The statements were released by the State Department.

"Conscious of the responsibilities placed upon me, I shall make every effort to promote the development and strengthening of political, economic and cultural relations between our countries," said Novikov, in presenting his letters of credence.

"I am happy to assure you that this Government will continue to strive to improve and strengthen political, economic and cultural relations between our countries," replied the President.

Truman Promises Aid.

Mr. Truman added that this country would give prompt and sympathetic consideration to any Soviet proposals for achieving this goal, and he asked similar consideration for American suggestions to that end.

The President said that the success of the Allied war effort proved "the value and effectiveness of co-operation between our nations in a common cause."

While emphasizing that post-war problems will require great patience and forebearance, Mr. Truman said that he was convinced that "with mutual goodwill, perserverance and a common purpose, a satisfactory solution to all our problems can be reached." He added that Americans are particularly conscious of the special importance that Soviet-American relations have for the cause of peace and security and the furtherance of the United Nations Charter principles.

Novikov was accompanied on his White House visit by Secretary of State Byrnes.

BRITISH LOAN HELD AS FOIL TO COMMUNISM

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Head Presents Viewpoint of Group to House.

WORLD TRADE TRANSCENDENT

Jackson Says It Is Our Interest to Check, Not Aid Trend Toward Socialism.

Washington, June 3 (A. P.).—The United States Chamber of Commerce told Congress today that the proposed $3,750,000,000 British loan sets up "a bulwark against the spread of Communism."

In a statement filed by its president, William K. Jackson, before the House Banking Committee, the chamber said:

"Our dollars cannot be used to finance domestic socialistic experiments within the United Kingdom. They are needed and usable only for external obligations. . . .

"If the credit serves to strengthen the British Government, by the same token it provides a bulwark against the spread of Communism from the European continent. Balancing the British form of Socialism against Communism, there is no question as to where our sympathies should lie."

Summing up "the American business viewpoint," the Chamber said:

"We believe that an expansion of world trade on a multilateral, non-discriminatory basis is of such transcendent importance as to outweigh these particular objections having to do with fiscal and monetary policy, terms of the agreement, increased imports, and benefits to a government which favors socialism in preference to free enterprise."

Part of World Program.

Further on the subject of socialism, the statement declared:

"The terms of the agreement with respect to a removal of restrictions which retard a multilateral expansion of international trade are in fact a reversal of trends under a controlled economy. The commitment for multilateral trade and freely convertible currencies should check rather than aid some of the world tendencies toward socialism."

"Approval of the financial agreement," the Chamber concluded, "is an essential part of the world program in which our Government with the support of business, labor, farm and other groups, should participate.

"We believe that it will be in our interest to strengthen the United Kingdom, our ally of long standing. The advantages accruing from the financial agreement and related trade understandings should give us greater prosperity, enhance the economic welfare of the world, and make the nations less fertile ground for the seeds of war."

Calls for Loan's Defeat.

Representative Buffett (R.-Neb.) called on Congress today to defeat the proposed loan, declaring that approval might "blast the last dikes" that protected "our solvency."

"Passage of this scheme now would have two immeasurably dangerous consequences," he told the House.

"First, it would constitute a foolhardy strain on the confidence of the American people in the management of the United States Treasury. Secondly, and most important, it would destroy all effective restraint on spending schemes at home."

Buffett asserted that the loan "could easily bring on another general war, because of the shot-in-the-arm which it would give to an out of date but still pugnacious British imperialism."

the argument about repayment is "superficial." The real issue, he said, is the effect of the loan on the spread of communism.

"This issue is perhaps the greatest to come before this country in a generation," he told the committee.

C. Of C. Backs Loan To Britain

Washington, June 3 (AP)—The $3,750,000,000 British loan was opposed by Hamilton Fish today as financing for "Laski's social revolution in England" and supported by the United States Chamber of Commerce as "a bulwark" against communism.

The former Republican congressman from New York and the business organization laid their views before the House Banking Committee.

The chamber, appealing for ratification of the credit, declared a strong Britain would mean "a bulwark against the spread of communism from the European Continent."

"Balancing the British form of socialism against communism," William K. Jackson, Chamber of Commerce president, declared, "there is no question as to where our sympathies should lie." Taking the position that the choice is not actually presented, he said the loan should "check rather than aid some of the world tendencies toward socialism."

Opening the loan opposition's case, Fish took this view:

"We rush in to become an international Santa Claus and distribute billions of our people's money without their consent, to Britain and Soviet Russia, to promote socialism and communism, and to increase cut-throat competition for our own export trade in South America, Europe and the Far East.

"Are we to finance Laski's social revolution in England?" he asked.

"Superficial," Wolcott Says

Fish described the proposed loan as "a fraud on the American people," declaring it never would be repaid and amounted to "taxation without representation." He said 80 to 90 per cent of the people are against the loan.

Thereupon, Representative Wolcott, of Michigan, senior Banking Committee Republican, declared

House Leaders Back Civilian Atom Rule

Washington, June 3 (AP)—House leaders today threw their support behind a Senate bill setting up a five-man civilian commission to control atomic energy.

Speaker Rayburn (Texas) indicated that an attempt might be made later in the week to have the House accept the Senate's measure as a substitute for a separate bill written by the House Military Committee.

That move would keep the Senate bill from going to the House committee, despite the announced intention of Chariman May (D., Ky.) to hold committee hearings.

Truman Backs Senate Bill

Rayburn said after a visit to the White House that President Truman favors the Senate proposal over the House measure.

The House Military Committee is on record in favor of giving the Army a controlling voice.

Chairman May (D., Ky.) said earlier today that he expects the bill passed Saturday by the Senate to be referred to his committee.

Predicts Army Men On Board

"The committee may decide to substitute some of the Senate provisions for our own bill," May said, "but I believe it will insist on giving the military representation on the commission instead of leaving it entirely to the professors.

"It is a matter of whether we want to let the War Department, which has always been our defense agency, handle this new power or turn it over to the professors. Personally, I'm for the War Department."

Sparkman's Stand

Representative Sparkman (Alabama), Democratic whip and a military committee member, said he favors House acceptance of the Senate bill as quickly as possible. Sparkman, who led the fight against the committee measure, indicated that he would take the initiative in the House itself to substitute the Senate measure for his own committee's proposal.

As for details other than the makeup of the control commission, there is little substantial difference between the two bills. Both provide for strict controls over ownership of and experiments with the materials used in the release of atomic energy.

Although civilians would control atomic energy under the Senate bill, provision is made for a military liaison committee to consult with the civilian commission, with the President having the final word in any military matters on which the two groups fail to agree.

VANDENBERG URGES STRONG U. S. ARMY

Opens Draft Debate with Warning on Future Military Needs.

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP) Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) cautioned today against reducing the Army's potential strength to a "very dangerous minimum" upon the hope of concluding peace pacts in some European countries this summer.

Against the background of his experiences at the recent Paris council of foreign ministers, he voiced his comment as the Senate opened debate on extension of the wartime draft for another year.

Vandenberg, soon to return to Paris as an advisor in an effort to work out preliminary peace terms, observed that the Army's plan to fix its strength at 1,072,000 men by July 1, 1947, seemed to be based on the possibility some troops could be relieved of occupation assignments in Europe.

He inquired whether failure to work out agreements on Austria and Italy would require an upward revision of Army manpower figures, drawing from Senator Gurney (R-SD) the terse reply:

"It certainly would."

"Then," said Vandenberg, "I say that these figures represent not only a minimum but a very dangerous minimum."

MID-PACIFIC POST GOES TO GEN. HULL

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP) Lt. Gen. John E. Hull was assigned today as commanding general of the U. S. Army forces in the middle Pacific with headquarters in Hawaii. He will assume his new command July 1.

General Hull, who has been assistant chief of staff here, succeeds Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., who relinquished his command last March.

Replacing Hull on the general staff will be Maj. Gen. Lauris Norstead, at present assistant chief of staff of the Army Air Forces, and chief of staff of the 20th Air Force.

Hull, a native of Greenfield, Ohio, also will be commanding general of the Hawaiian department.

SENATE BODY FAVORS WAR POWER RENEWAL

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee today approved, 8 to 3, a nine months' extension of the second War Powers Act, which gives the Government authority to ration scarce materials.

Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, of Wyoming, said John W. Snyder, Reconversion Director, and John D. Small, Civilian Production Administrator, had asked for a year's extension beyond the expiration date of June 30, but the committee decided to stick by the March 31, 1947, deadline the House previously had approved.

The House bill, adopted without change by the Senate group, ends on June 30 the Government's wartime authority to seize private property.

The bill also eliminates from the existing act a section granting free postage for members of the armed forces.

ARRIVES IN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, June 3 — (AP) Gen. Carlos von Der Becke, retired chief of staff of the Argentine army, arrived here by air today from Miami, the last leg of a flight from Buenos Aires. It was learned unofficially that he is scheduled to confer Wednesday afternoon with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, U. S. chief of staff.

Bill Voted to Aid War Prisoners

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP)—Retroactive promotions and subsistence pay for all Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard personnel held prisoners during the war would be permitted under a bill passed today by the House and sent to the President.

Chinese Pirates Raid Stranded Liberty Ship

Washington, June 3 (AP)—The stranded American Liberty ship Chief Joseph was attacked recently by 60 Chinese pirates on the north China coast, the Navy said tonight.

An American destroyer from Tsingtao went to the rescue after the pirates had been beaten off in a first attack, the Navy added.

The ship, which has since been refloated, had gone aground at Shitau Bay, and a navy tug was attempting to pull her off when the attack occurred.

SENATE FIRES PUNS AT NAVY HEN HOUSE

Investigates Case Concerning San Juan Air Station

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Senators heard today that the Navy had spent $800 to keep 100 chickens at the San Juan air station to provide free eggs for senior officers.

"That's not chicken feed," remarked Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.).

"Nor a poultry amount," punned Senator Mead (D., N.Y.).

The story of what the Navy called the "Sabana Seca Project" but which Mead termed the fowl project" was given to the Senate War Investigating Committee by Rear Admiral Paul E. Foster, assistant naval inspector general.

Their Feathers Ruffled

Foster testified that Vice Admiral Robert C. Giffen, "without proper authority," had built himself a house with the help of navy labor, had had his men whip together $1,540 worth of furniture, and spent $800 to equip a chicken farm and stock it with hens and roosters from Florida. The chicken money was charged to "Aviation, Navy," Foster said.

Giffen and other officers have been reprimanded.

But what got the committee's feathers up is the fact that an indictment for embezzlement of government property has been lodged against John M. Curley, a former civilian employé at the naval station, who furnished the committee with the tip which led to the inquiry. He is charged with using approximately $150 worth of government wood and labor for furniture for his home.

Dog House Included

Mead and Ferguson served notice that they intend to find out why he is being prosecuted when officers at the station drew only reprimands.

Foster's report to the committee said that one officer had approximately $2,500 worth of furniture built, including two pine and cypress bars worth $70, a Hollywood-style day bedstead, and a dog-house worth $9.60.

ROTH 'ALLEGED TO BE FELLOW TRAVELER'

Ex-Navy Officer's Commission Topic Before House Committee

Washington, June 3 (AP)—A navy officer testified today that Andrew Roth, a former naval intelligence officer charged last spring with possessing secret Government papers, had been "alleged to be a fellow traveler" when he received his commission.

The officer, Capt. J. W. Whitfield, assistant chief of naval intelligence, told a House Judiciary subcommittee that as a result the Navy "accepted Lieutenant Roth's commission with some reluctance."

The commission went through, Whitfield added, because the United States and Russia were allies in the war and because Roth had special skills, such as a knowledge of Japanese.

Charges Dropped

Roth was among six persons accused in the Spring of 1945 of removing or having in their possession certain secret Government documents. Charges against Roth, now a reserve officer, were dropped early this year.

Among the other defendants, Philip J. Jaffe, editor of Amerasia magazine, and Emmanuel Sigurd Larsen, a State Department employé, were fined $2,500 and $500, respectively. No indictments were returned against the other three.

Whitfield, who said records showed "several thousand" naval officers serving during the war "were fellow travelers or Communists," made his statement as the committee began an investigation of the case and the disposition of charges against the defendants.

Calls For Stricter Laws

He also told the committee there is urgent need for a stiffening of America's espionage laws.

He said the interdepartmental intelligence committee, composed of representatives of various Government departments, including the FBI, has agreed that the death penalty for certain espionage violations should apply in peacetime as well as in war.

Another witness, Henry E. Thomas, assistant security officer for the State Department, told the committee that the State Department has no record of the number of confidential papers which were removed during the war.

His description of security regulations in effect in the State Department during the war—regulations which he said have now been corrected—brought from Representative Chelf (D., Ky.) the remark:

"You practically had no security system up to March, 1945. It was possible for someone to take out a wagonload of documents."

Attends 1-Hour Parley With President

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, predicted today quick Senate passage of legislation providing for a year's extension of selective service and drafting of 'teen-agers.

Barkley talked to reporters at the White House after he and Senator McKellar, House Speaker Rayburn and House Democratic Leader McCormack, of Massachusetts, conferred for an hour with President Truman on the draft bill, OPA extension and other legislative matters.

The Senate began consideration of the draft bill today and Barkley expressed confidence that it would be brought to a vote within two or three days.

No "Holiday" Provision

In reply to a question, Barkley said he did not think that the Senate would approve any holiday for the draft such as the House extension measure proposes. The Senate Military Committee's bill, which Barkley described as a "very good" one, makes no provision for a holiday.

Senator Gurney (R., S.D.) told the Senate that failure to conclude European peace treaties this summer would increase the manpower demands of the armed forces.

Uuring a year's extension of selective service, he said the best way to get an all-volunteer army is to continue the draft and increase soldier pay.

Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) noted that the potential army strength of 1,072,000 men fixed for July 1, 1947, seemed to be based in part on the possibility that American troops can be withdrawn from some European countries with the signing of peace treaties.

"Very Dangerous Minimum"

Vandenberg, who returns to Paris this month as an adviser at the Foreign Ministers Conference to discuss preliminary treaty terms, asked if the failure to work out agreements on Austria and Italy would require an upward revision of army manpower figures.

"It certainly would," Guney replied.

"Then I say that these figures represent not only a minimum but a very dangerous minimum," Vandenberg declared.

Gurney lashed out at House action on the draft.

He said a year's extension of the full draft authority with a pay raise might bring in enough volunteers to make it possible to let selective service die next May 15.

"Like A Life Preserver"

"At this stage of our history the Selective Service Act is like a life preserver on a ship sailing uncharted seas," Gurney asserted. "We may not need it. But if we do, we shall need it desperately. We can't afford to take the chance of throwing it overboard because some think the sea looks smooth today.

"To restrict the age limits as was done in the House is to punch holes in the life preserver, to tip its cover and then hope it will keep us afloat."

George Charges "Bungling"

While Gurney predicted speedy approval of the Military Committee's bill, opponents prepared amendments to whittle down the draft powers.

They were spurred by an assertion by Senator George (D., Ga.) that the Army and Navy "have bungled the whole program" by their insistence on retaining the draft.

Senator Wherry, of Nebraska, the Republican whip, said he and others would join with Senator Revercomb (R., W.Va.) in an effort to halt all inductions July 1, when the temporary extension of selective service expires. The House forced abandonment of teen-age inductions in the temporary extender.

Gurney Says Delayed Peace Will Increase Army Needs.

Washington, June 3 (A. P.).—Senator Gurney (R.-S. D.) told the Senate today that failure to conclude European peace treaties this summer will increase the man power demands of the armed forces. Urging a year's extension of Selective Service, the South Dakota Senator told his colleagues that the best way to get an all-volunteer army is to continue the draft and increase soldier pay.

Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) noted that the potential Army strength of 1,072,000 men fixed for July 1, 1947, seemed to be based in part on the possibility that American troops can be withdrawn from some European countries with the signing of peace treaties. Vandenberg, who returns to Paris this month as an adviser at the Foreign Ministers' conference to discuss preliminary treaty terms, asked if the failure to work out agreements on Austria and Italy would require an upward revision of Army man power figures.

Dangerously Low Minimum.

"It certainly would," Gurney replied. "Then I say that these figures represent not only a minimum, but a very dangerous minimum," the Michigan Senator declared.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, predicted today quick Senate pasage of legislation providing for a year's extension of Selective Servic and the drafting of 'teen-agers. Barkley talked to reporters at the White House after he and Senator McKellar, Speaker Rayburn of the House and House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts, had conferred for an hour with President Truman on the draft bill, OPA extension and other legislative matters.

The Senate began consideration of the draft bill today and Barkley expressed confidence that it would be brought to a vote within two or three days. In reply to a question, Barkley said that he did not think the Senate would approve any holiday for the draft such as the House extension measure proposes. The Senate Military Committee's bill, which Barkley described as a very good one, makes no provision for a holiday.

HOUSE VOTES REVISION OF SERVICE INSURANCE

WASHINGTON, June 3 (AP)—A measure revising the service men's life insurance laws to correct existing inequities and provide more uniformity in administration was passed today by the House and sent to the Senate.

Major provisions of the measure as explained by members of the House World War Veterans Committee:

1. Permission for lump-sum payments to beneficiaries.
2. Permission for the insured to designate anyone as a beneficiary.
3. Payments at the rate of $5 monthly for each $1,000 of insurance after six months of permanent disability, without impairing the face value of the policy.
4. Retroactive coverage for service men who applied for insurance and were rejected and who subsequently were retained in active service and were disabled or killed.
5. An increase of $5,000 (from $5,000 to $10,000) in the amount of free insurance given a man totally disabled or held prisoner at any time during his service.
6. A similar increase in free insurance for those who died in active service between Oct. 8, 1940, and April 20, 1942.

Service Bill Goes To Truman

Army P-80 Speeds 462 M.P.H., Setting 1,000-Kilometer Record

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, Ohio, June 3.—The Army Air Forces, which have been cracking speed records like peanuts, sent a jet-propelled P-80 fighter zooming to a new 1,000-kilometer speed mark of 462 miles an hour today.

Lieutenant Henry Johnson, of the Army's Wright Field here, piloted the plane over a 621.369-mile round-trip course between Dayton and St. Louis in 1 hour 20 minutes 31 seconds.

The new mark supersedes by twenty-two miles an hour a mark set May 19 by Lieutenant J. J. Hancock, of Wichita, Kan.

The pre-war international record was 325.713 miles an hour, set Dec. 9, 1937, in Italy. The national top speed for the distance was 305.926 miles an hour, set Sept. 15, 1939, by Jacqueline Cochran.

Even as Lieutenant Johnson relaxed from his record-breaking ride, a B-29 four-engine bomber was circling over Wright Field, gaining altitude for a try at the 2,000-kilometer record set by a B-29 less than one month ago.

When the B-29 hit 35,000 feet, it straightened out for the two round-trip flights between Dayton and St. Louis. Its pilot was Captain James M. Little, of Wright Field.

A third record attempt was in the making by a North American A-26 attack bomber, Lieutenant Colonel Thomas P. Gerrity, of Wright Field, awaited better weather before taking off to run the same course of 1,000 kilometers with a 1,000-kilogram payload.

The mark now is held by Lieutenant Edward Grabowski, of New York, who chalked up a 369-mile-an-hour record May 17 in another B-29. The pre-war record is 325.713 miles an hour, set by Furio Nilot, of Italy, Dec. 9, 1937.

Lieutenant Colonel Keith S. Wilson, of Wright Field, earlier today set a new world speed record for helicopters over a twenty-kilometer (twelve and one-half mile) course. He averaged 110 miles an hour in an R-5A Sikorsky. The former record was 76.151 miles an hour, set June 26, 1937, by Ewald Rholfs, of Germany.

The A. A. F. has set a score of world records in the last six weeks, General Carl Spaatz, A. A. F. commander, disclosed at the opening of a three-day national press tour at Air Materiel Command headquarters at Wright Field.

Twelve records were made within a three-day period from May 17 to 19.

SENATE GROUP GIVEN NOTICE BY MILLERS

Agriculture Department Reported Ready To Lend Wheat To Plants

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Ninety-eight per cent of flour mills in the United States will be closed by tomorrow, the Millers National Federation has notified the Senate Small Business Committee.

T. J. McBreen, chief economist to the committee, told of the notification today at a hearing on difficulties developing for small businesses as a result of diversion of wheat to relief purposes.

Prepared To Lend Wheat

Earlier, Clinton P. Anderson, Secretary of Agriculture, testified his department was prepared to lend wheat to mills "to assure flour supplies in areas where there is a definite bread shortage."

The department said a mill qualifying for such a loan of wheat could get only enough to bring its supply up to half of its June allotment for domestic sale.

Under department orders designed to make more grain available for famine areas abroad, domestic mills are allowed in June to distribute only 75 per cent as much flour as the monthly average of 1945.

For Export Only

Buffalo, June 3 (AP)—Grinding of flour for domestic consumption virtually has come to an end in Buffalo, the largest milling center in the world, executives of milling firms said tonight.

Production of flour for export is the only thing that keeps the mills operating, they said, adding that most mills have used up practically all of the wheat they have that can be made into flour for domestic consumption.

A complete shutdown of some mills in Buffalo in the next 101 days appeared certain unless wheat is obtained from the Commodity Credit Corporation, said milling executives.

Local grain men said they did not know how much grain they could obtain under the Agriculture Department's program to lend wheat to mills.

Running At Reasonable Rate

Harry C. Lautensack, president of the eastern division of General Mills, Inc., which operates in Buffalo the Washburn Crosby Mill, the nation's largest flour mill, said in a statement:

"The Washburn-Crosby Mill still is operating at a reasonable rate on domestic and export commitments. We hope to continue to do so as long as supplies of wheat are available."

Lautensack said the Washburn-Crosby Mill was a "little better situated" than other mills, because it closed for repairs from May 19 to May 27 which "permitted us to extend our inventories."

"Scraping Bottom Of Bin"

A spokesman for Pillsbury's Buffalo mill, the city's second largest, said "We are scraping the bottom of the bin" on wheat that can be made into domestic flour.

An executive of International Milling Company's Buffalo mill, third largest in the city, said that with in two weeks mills in Buffalo would be in a "desperate situation" because of lack of wh

Says He'd Be Ruined

Late Friday, May 31, at a special meeting, directors decided to raise the ceilings on these old contracts and to permit trading for purposes other than liquidation.

Buckley, suing as an individual member of the exchange, alleged this action would cause him and other members of the board "irreparable damage" and he personally would be "ruined."

Market observers estimated between $5,500,000 and $7,000,000 were involved in the advance in ceilings.

Judge Suggests Redress

Judge Shaw, in refusing to enjoin the exchange from operating, said "apparently this man is short," meaning in market parlance that he is under contract to deliver grain which as yet he has not purchased. Under the new ceiling he would lose heavily in buying grain to fulfill his contracts.

"Just because one man is short," the Court said, "is no reason for suspending operation of the world's largest grain market.

"His redress for damages, if any are suffered, is in a lawsuit."

Buckley summoned Federal Judge William H Holly from his home to the United States Courthouse this morning two hours before the usual court opening hour of 10 A.M. The Board of Trade normally opens at 9.30 A.M.

Opening Changed To 11.30

The trader asked that the board be halted from trading temporarily because under the new regulations he would lose heavily while an injunction suit was in the normal process of passing through legal channels.

Judge Holly issued the temporary restraining order from his chambers and the case was assigned to Judge Shaw for hearing at 10 A.M. The order stilled the big bell in the La Salle street pit room at the opening hour. When Judge Shaw's ruling was made known the board set 11.30 A.M. for today's opening of trading.

Grain Futures Trading Blocked For 2 Hours

Chicago, June 3 (AP)—A broker's unsuccessful attempt to upset certain Chicago Board of Trade regulations held up grain futures trading in the world's biggest grain exchange for two hours today.

Robert Buckley, of the Charles W. Buckley Company, a Chicago commission house, was denied an injunction by Federal Judge Elwyn R. Shaw. However, he had obtained a temporary restraining order which delayed the start of trading.

The regulations, which Buckley asked the court to enjoin the board from enforcing, concerned ceilings on old grain contracts.

Damage Suit Suggested

Judge Shaw ruled that Buckley could seek relief through a damage suit rather than by tying up grain operations.

The suit was based on board actions following an increase in ceiling prices of grain by the Government.

On May 11 all ceiling ... raised. The Board of Trade directors decided that trading in futures then outstanding would be permitted for liquidation purposes only, and that the old ceilings would prevail on these contracts.

Decline Reported In Exports Of Meat

Washington, June 3 (AP)—The Census Bureau today reported the value of meat products exported under the UNRRA program dropped to $6,000,000 in March from $52,000,000 in January and $18,000,000 in February.

Total UNRRA exports rose to $107,000,000 in March from $91,000,000 in February, however, as increased exports of other commodities offset the decline in meat shipments.

Biggest increases in UNRRA exports went to Italy and Poland, which registered gains of $11,000,000 and $10,000,000, respectively. China and Russia also received $4,000,000 and $3,000,000 more, respectively, in March.

COURT BACKS RENT REFUNDS

Rules Landlords Liable For Excess Over OPA Ceiling

Washington, June 3 (AP)—The Supreme Court today ruled a landlord may be required to refund to tenants amounts collected in excess of OPA rent ceilings.

Justice Murphy delivered the court's 4-3 decision. Justice Rutledge wrote a dissent in which Justices Reed and Frankfurter joined.

Lower Federal courts refused to rule on OPA contentions that refunds were due from the Warner Holding Company, owner of eight apartment buildings in Minneapolis. They contended they lacked authority to order restitution of amounts already paid so the point was appealed.

The majority opinion directed the United States District Court to reconsider its refusal to rule. It told the District Court to consider conflicting claims and counter claims between tenants and landlord as to the amounts due.

Justice Rutledge in his dissent said that OPA regulations give an overcharged tenant a remedy in court to collect damages and a penalty for a limited time only. Thereafter, Justice Rutledge said, the exclusive right to settle belongs to the administrator of OPA and what he recovers goes into the Federal Treasury, not to the overcharged tenant.

The dissent did not define the time limit.

LAND, INFLATION MAY BE BIGGEST HOUSING BARRIER

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP) Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt says inflated prices of home sites threaten to become the biggest barrier to low-cost housing for veterans and other prospective home buyers.

Prices of lots and residential acreage have increased even faster than the prices of houses. This is not limited to a few big, overcrowded cities. Some small cities report a greater increase than the large cities.

A survey of more than 400 cities by the National Housing Agency (NHA) indicates that from September, 1945, to February, 1946, the prices of lots went up an average of 23.3 per cent. In the six years from 1940 to 1946, the average price advance was 61.8 per cent. A lot which sold for $800 in 1940 brought about $1,288 last winter.

In some small cities prices for lots and acreage soared more than 200 per cent during the war—for example, from $800 to $2,400. About one-half of the cities reporting in the NHA survey indicated lot and raw land prices had advanced 50 per cent and more.

Prices of existing houses which sold for less than $6,000 in 1940 increased an average of 65 per cent by 1946. The prices of $6,000 to $12,000 houses rose 57 per cent. Most communities reported that the rate of increase was turning sharply upward early this year. But that's not the whole story.

The Veterans Emergency Housing law recently enacted by Congress aims particularly at reasonably low construction costs for the 2,700,000 houses to be started by private industry in 1946 and 1947.

The law authorizes $400,000,000 in government subsidies to spur the production of building materials. Subsidies also will be paid to encourage production of new types of materials which may bring ordinary costs down.

The law also provides price ceilings on new houses and a guarantee by the government of a market for low-cost prefabricated houses.

Wyatt asked Congress for ceilings on lots and on existing houses but the new law doesn't provide them.

Wyatt contends that while inflation in existing house prices might be tempered when the veterans program gets going in volume, the resulting demand for a place to build new houses could force land prices to "extraordinary levels."

Wyatt says the Federal government will have to get a lot of help from local communities on the housing site problem. He suggests that one way is for local committees to see that a good portion of the new housing goes into cities themselves instead of their suburbs. He points out that in 22 cities ranging in population from 50,000 to Chicago's 4,000,000 the average per cent of total city area vacant is 44.7.

Air Corps Tests Given Motormen

San Francisco, June 3 (AP)—Tests developed by the Air Corps for selecting pilots may save lives on city streets.

The Public Utilities Commission of San Francisco has selected 143 regular municipal railway motormen as "guinea pigs" to ascertain if the tests of such standards as vision, space judgment and reaction speed show a ratio to their accident records.

If so, all new applicants for jobs will undergo the tests, and all present motormen will be tested eventually. Those with glaring defects will be given training to overcome them.

The system already has shown good results on bus drivers, said John E. Curley, director of the Accident Prevention Bureau.

A Taft Impression: 'To Err Is Truman'

Philadelphia, June 3 (AP)—"To err is Truman," Mrs. Robert A. Taft, wife of the Republican senator from Ohio, declared today as she described the Democratic party as "a freak of nature . . . with a Communist front, a reactionary rear . . . and a 'know nothing' middle."

"But I'm not blue about the whole situation," Mrs. Taft told the annual meeting of the Republican Women of Pennsylvania. "When a government makes a mess of things in this country, we still have recourse to throw it out.

"You've all heard that to err is Truman, I'm sure," Mrs. Taft said after describing the President as "pitiful, really pitiful."

"I suppose," she added, in referring to President Truman's associates, "there are some able men in Missouri; but, if there are, they are still out there.

"We need a new broom in Washington and a Republican Congress to wield it."

EISENHOWER CALLS WAR TALK VICIOUS

Chicago, June 3 (A. P.).—Talk of "how, where and why the next war will be fought" is branded as vicious by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. Addressing the national convention of the Reserve Officers' Association yesterday, he asserted:

"Such talk is more than foolish; it is vicious. Men acquainted with the battlefield will not be found among the number that glibly talk of another war. Veterans will work and sweat and sacrifice to prevent the recurrence of such a tragedy."

The Army Chief of Staff advised that until the United Nations can guarantee international peace this country must stay in a position to guard its own security.

University To Operate Willow Run Airbase

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 3 (AP)—The University of Michigan today received from the War Assets Administration a license to operate Willow Run, one of the world's largest airports, as a base for aeronautical research and education and a public airway terminal.

Capital Airlines-P.C.A., formerly the Pennsylvania Central Air Lines, at the same time signed a contract with the university to use Willow Run's facilities as an airport and overhaul base. University officials indicated other airlines may sign later.

Operating expenses of the port will be borne by Capital Airlines-P.C.A. and other air transport companies that may use it.

Edison Official Argues For Atom Secret Release

New York, June 3 (AP)—A plea that the Government entrust the development of "the beneficent processes of atomic energy" to business organizations was placed today before the annual meeting of the Edison Electric Institute.

Dr. J. C. Parker, vice president of the Consolidated Edison Company of New York, declared:

"There is a serious question as to the desirability of a government by its own act, restricting to a small group of individuals knowledge which might benefit all the people and which for its fullest application requires the collaboration of all who can effectively contribute their experience and their resources.

"It is conceivable that energy safely may be derived from nonfissionable materials . . . and that the degree of automatic safeguard of such a process can be supplemented by simple and effective controls."

LONDON, JUNE 3-(AP)-THE MOSCOW RADIO QUOTED THE COMMUNIST PARTY NEWSPAPER PRAVDA TODAY AS SAYING UNITED STATES REPRESENTATIVES IN KOREA WERE "DRAGGING" INTO THE KOREAN GOVERNMENT "REACTIONARY LEADERS WHO ARE OPENLY AGAINST THE SOVIET UNION AND ARE HAMPERING KOREA'S DEMOCRATIC DEVELOPMENT.

"THESE THINGS HAVE NOTHING IN COMMON EITHER WITH DEMOCRACY, THE MOSCOW DECISION OR KOREA'S NATIONAL INTERESTS," THE ARTICLE SAID. "THE SOVIET UNION IS DEEPLY CONCERNED THAT KOREA SHOULD BECOME AN INDEPENDENT, DEMOCRATIC STATE; THAT IMPERIALIST FORCES ARE UNABLE TO UTILIZE KOREA AGAIN AS A BASE AND A BRIDGEHEAD FOR AN ATTACK ON THE SOVIET UNION."

OTHER MOSCOW BROADCASTS TODAY ASSAILED PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S DOMESTIC LABOR POLICIES AND CRITICIZED THE AMERICAN DECISION HALTING INDUSTRIAL REPARATIONS SHIPMENTS FROM THE U.S.OCCUPATION ZONE IN GERMANY UNTIL A FOUR-POWER DECISION IS REACHED UPON ADMINISTERING GERMANY AS AN ECONOMIC UNIT, AS PROVIDED IN THE POTSDAM AGREEMENT.

COMMENTATOR PHILIP BARATOV ATTACHED INTERNATIONAL SIGNIFICANCE TO PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S LABOR POLICIES ON GROUNDS THAT "THE ENCROACHMENT OF REACTION ON THE RIGHTS OF THE WORKING PEOPLE IS A PLOT AGAINST WORLD PEACE."

BARATOV SAID RECENT EVENTS IN THE UNITED STATES WERE SIGNIFICANT BECAUSE "ORGANIZED WORKERS REPRESENT A BARRIER AGAINST A NEW WORLD WAR WHICH THE MOST REACTIONARY IMPERIALIST CIRCLES ARE PREPARING."

BARATOV ASSAILED RECENT AMERICAN LABOR LEGISLATION AS EXHIBITING A "TENDENCY TO PUT STRIKERS ON A PAR WITH CRIMINALS OF THE LAST CENTURY

ANOTHER COMMENTATOR CRITICIZED THE DECISION ANNOUNCED BY LT.GEN. LUCIUS D.CLAY, DEPUTY AMERICAN MILITARY GOVERNOR, THE REPARATIONS SHIMENTS AS "A CRUDE AND FLAGRANT VIOLATION OF THE DECISIONS OF THE ALLIES PREVIOUSLY ADOPTED WITH RESPECT TO GERMANY."

LORD STANSGATE IS HEAD OF THE BRITISH TREATY DELEGATION IN CAIRO. A GOVERNMENT SPOKESMAN SAID FOREIGN SECRETARY ERNEST BEVIN MAY GO TO CAIRO FOR FORMAL SIGNATURE OF THE REVISED TREATY, BUT WOULD NOT TAKE PART IN THE TALKS.

ONE PARLIAMENTARY SOURCE EXPRESSED THE BELIEF THAT THE ODDS AGAINST RATIONING WERE TWO TO ONE. ONE OF THE MAJOR OBJECTIONS WAS SAID TO BE THAT RATIONING MIGHT LEAD TO HEAVIER CONSUMPTION AND WASTE OF BREAD RATHER THAN TO CONSERVATION.

HOWEVER, DETAILED PLANS FOR A RATIONING SYSTEM ARE BEING WORKED OUT AND A FINAL DECISION IS EXPECTED LATE THIS MONTH.

IN THE EVENT THE SYSTEM IS ADOPTED, THE BASIC RATION IS EXPECTED TO BE EIGHT OUNCES DAILY--PROBABLY MORE THAN THE AVERAGE PERSON NORMALLY CONSUMES, AND HEAVY MANUAL WORKERS COULD BE EXPECTED TO BE ALLOTTED 12 OUNCES DAILY.

BEVIN WILL OPEN A TWO-DAY FOREIGN AFFAIRS DEBATE IN PARLIAMENT TOMORROW WITH HIS NEW SUGGESTIONS FOR PEACE-MAKING. HE PREPARED HIS SPEECH DURING A WEEK'S SECLUSION IN A SEASIDE COTTAGE.

THE DAILY MAIL SAID BEVIN WOULD "TRY TO ADVANCE CONSTRUCTIVE PROPOSALS FOR THE SOLUTION OF THE PRESENT IMPASSE IN EUROPEAN DIPLOMACY" IN ADVANCE OF THE RENEWAL OF THE PARIS CONFERENCE ON JUNE 15.

BEVIN, THE MAIL SAID, "IS EXPECTED TO GO AS FAR AS--OR EVEN FARTHER THAN--HE HAS BEFORE IN SEEKING A FRESH UNDERSTANDING WITH MARSHAL STALIN AND MR. MOLOTOV."

"NONE OF THE CRITICS OF SOVIET POLICY CAN SUGGEST ANY SUBSTITUTE FOR THE METHOD OF COOPERATION BY THE GREAT POWERS, SUPPORTED AT THE PARIS CONFERENCE BY THE SOVIET DELEGATION, EXCEPT A COURSE LEADING TOWARD THE LIQUIDATION OF SUCH COOPERATION."

THIS BROADCASTER ASSERTED THAT THE NEW SESSION OF THE FOREIGN MINISTERS' CONFERENCE, SET FOR JUNE 15, WOULD BE A TEST "WHETHER THE COLLABORATION OF THE GREAT POWERS TESTED BY THE EXPERIENCE OF THE WORLD WAR WILL STAY, OR THE TENDENCIES LEADING TOWARD THE SPLITTING OF THE WORLD INTO HOSTILE BLOCS TOWARD A NEW ARMAMENT RACE WILL COME OUT ON TOP." PROF. E. KOROVIN, WRITING IN THE TRADE UNION NEWSPAPER TRUD, ASSERTED THAT BYRNES WAS ATTEMPTING TO WIDEN THE POWERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS GENERALY ASSEMBLY BEYOND THE LIMITS OF ITS CHARTER.

BYRNES' PROPOSAL TO PLACE DISPUTED PEACE TREATIES BEFORE THE UNITED NATIONS WOULD BE NOTHING MORE THAN "A VEILED RETURN" TO A PROPOSAL BY HOOVER, KOROVIN SAID. HE DESCRIBED HOOVER AS "ONE OF THE REACTIONARY FIGURES IN THE UNITED STATES."

THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT NEWSPAPER IZVESTIA, COMMENTING ON A PRESS CONFERENCE HELD BY BYRNES LAST WEEK IN WHICH HE REPLIED TO CHARGES MADE BY SOVIET FOREIGN MINISTER V.M. MOLOTOV, SAID:

WAR TRIALS

TOKYO, JUNE 3-(AP)-THE INTERNATIONAL TRIALS OF JAPAN'S ACCUSED WAR-MAKERS OPENED TODAY WITH THE TRIBUNAL BLOCKING THEIR LAST-MINUTE EFFORTS TO ESCAPE PROSECUTION--BUT THE 26 PRISONERS WERE ALLOWED 10 DAYS MORE IN WHICH TO PREPARE THEIR DEFENSE.

THE COURT, MEETING IN A GLARE OF FLOODLIGHTS IN THE GRIM WAR MINISTRY BUILDING WHERE MANY OF THE DEFENDANTS ARE ACCUSED OF PLOTTING JAPAN'S DISASTROUS PLUNGE INTO AGGRESSIVE WAR, WILL BE RECONVENED AT 9:30 A.M. TOMORROW (7:30 P.M. TODAY, EST) TO HEAR THE PROSECUTION'S OPENING STATEMENT. √(INSERT)

THE 10 BLACK-ROBED ALLIED JUSTICES MAY ALSO ANNOUNCE AT THAT TIME THEIR DECISION ON TWO OTHER DEFENSE MOTIONS HEARD IN TODAY'S LONG SESSION: WHETHER TO DISMISS THE CASES AGAINST TWO ADDITIONAL DEFENDANTS ABSENT BECAUSE OF ILLNESS; AND WHETHER TO ACCEPT AS FACTS CERTAIN HISTORIC EVENTS AROUND WHICH PART OF THE PROSECUTION'S CASE IS TO BE BUILT.

NAVY CAPT.BEVERLY M.COLEMAN, WASHINGTON, D.C., CHIEF OF THE AMERICAN DEFENSE SECTION, TOLD THE TRIBUNAL THAT JAPANESE AND NEWLY-ARRIVED AMERICAN COUNSEL NEEDED TWO WEEKS TO THREE MONTHS TO PREPARE ADEQUATELY FOR THE TRIAL. THE PROSECUTION, THE DEFENSE NOTED, HAS HAD SIX MONTHS "AND HUNDREDS OF ASSISTANTS, INVESTIGA AND EXPERTS."

THE COURT STUDIED THE PLEA

DEFENSE NOTED, HAS HAD SIX MONTHS "AND HUNDREDS OF ASSISTANTS, INVESTIGATORS AND EXPERTS."

THE COURT STUDIED THE PLEA FOR SOME TIME BEFORE ALLOWING 10 DAYS.

IT DISMISSED QUICKLY AND BLUNTLY, HOWEVER, THE DEFENSE MOTION TO DISMISS CHARGES AGAINST THE DEFENDANTS. CHIEF JUSTICE SIR WILLIAM WEBB BRUSHED ASIDE A PROSECUTION REPLY WITH THE COMMENT "WE DO NOT CARE TO HEAR FROM YOU, MR. CHIEF PROSECUTOR," AND IMMEDIATELY ANNOUNCED THE REJECTION OF THE MOTION.

IT EVIDENTLY WAS THE LAST CHANCE OF THE PRISONERS TO ESCAPE TRIAL, COURT OFFICIALS OBSERVED; THE COURT EARLIER HAD REJECTED DEFENSE CHALLENGES OF THE TRIBUNAL'S JURISDICTION AND OF THE LEGAL SCOPE OF THE INDICTMENTS.

DEFENSE ATTORNEY MAJ.BEN BLAKENEY, OKLAHOMA CITY, ALSO WAS CUT SHORT BY THE CHIEF JUSTICE WHEN HE URGED THE COURT TO GIVE REASONS IN ITS FINDINGS OF FACTS THROUGHOUT THE CASES. SNAPPED WEBB: "WE MUST BE TRUSTED" TO BE FAIR; AND HE ADDED, "THIS MOTION IS ALMOST CONTEMPTUOUS."

A DECISION WILL BE ANNOUNCED "LATER," THE CHIEF JUSTICE SAID, ON A PLEA TO DROP CHARGES AGAINST FORMER FOREIGN MINISTER YOSUKE MATSUOKA AND PROPAGANDA LEADER SHUMEI OKAWA, ABSENT TODAY BECAUSE OF PHYSICAL AND MENTAL ILLNESS, RESPECTIVELY.

A14FX

THE COURT ALSO RESERVED DECISION ON THE PROSECUTION PROPOSAL THAT CERTAIN HISTORIC EVENTS AND DOCUMENTS BE ACCEPTED AS FACTS WITHOUT DETAILED PROOF. ICHIRO KIYOSE, NO. 1 JAPANESE DEFENSE ATTORNEY, ATTACKED THE PROPOSAL VIGOROUSLY AND SAID MANY SUCH "FACTS" SET UP BY THE PROSECUTION WERE ERRONEOUS. KIYOSE DENIED, FOR INSTANCE, THAT MANCHUKUO WAS ESTABLISHED MARCH 9, 1931, AS THE PROSECUTION STATED.

MOST OF THE PRISONERS, GUARDED BY FOUR WHITE-HELMETED MILITARY POLICE, FOLLOWED THE ARGUMENTS WITH INTEREST.

ONE SEAT ON THE BENCH REMAINED VACANT; A PHILIPPINES JUSTICE HAS NOT YET BEEN APPOINTED.

RUSSIA HOLDS KEY TO PEACE:

BEVIN

BEVIN APPEALS TO RUSSIANS TO WORK FOR PEACE

G. Williams

LONDON, June 4. — (AP) Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin declared today that permanent peace in Europe can be assured "only if Russia enters freely into the European settlement," and told the Russians:

"If you value peace above all, do not miss this opportunity. It may never come again."

"If we don't want to have total war we must have total peace," Bevin asserted.

Replies to Molotov

Replying to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, Bevin said a "great obstacle to peace" were the Soviet ideas that the Russian method alone represented democracy, and that Russia can have security "only when every other country in the world has adopted the Soviet system."

Bevin [illegible] Commons debate on foreign policy, implored the United States to disregard Soviet rebuffs and continue seeking a four-power, 25-year pact to insure German demilitarization. He urged Russia to accept this proposal as "giving the greatest possible hope for the removal of misunderstanding and the creation of confidence."

NIGHT

Meantime, he said, Britain would continue trying to extend her 20-year friendship pact with the Soviet Union to 50 years.

Bevin said he always regarded as tragic the fact that Russia did not take part in making the peace after World War I, and added:

"On the other hand, the United States fought in the last war, took part in the peacemaking, and then withdrew into isolation."

Takes up Disputes

Bevin denied any attempt on the part of the United States and Britain to dictate to Russia. Replying to Molotov's charge that a British-American bloc existed at the Paris foreign ministers conference, Bevin took up the European settlement disputes one after another.

Concerning Germany, he called for federal control of the nation as a whole.

Of Trieste he said "the only attempt at compromise over this problem was made by Britain and the United States. There was no move at all on the part of the Soviet to meet that compromise. I cannot bring myself to hand over Trieste to Yugoslavia. Trieste must be an international port and not an international pawn in the game of politics."

On the Balkan question, he said Britain "has met with obstacles everywhere in trying to reach trade agreements with Romania, Hungary and other countries." He said Britain would not allow its representatives to do anything to hinder proper relations between the Soviet Union and these countries, "but we do ask reciprocation."

On reparations he commented on the Soviet claim that Italy would be able to pay reparations demanded by Russia if Britain and America would withdraw their troops. He said if Italy were called upon to pay, her ability to export and earn foreign exchange would be correspondingly reduced and the assistance she would require from abroad would be increased.

Calls For Peace With Austria

Concerning the Danube, he called for prompt writing of the peace with Austria and opening of Balkan river traffic, adding that "nothing will give greater confidence for peace" at the next foreign ministers meeting this month than if the Soviet Union were "ready and willing to settle the Austrian problem together with the Italian problem and that of the Danube basin."

The Danube deadlock, he said, has paralyzed through traffic on what should be one of the main arteries between central and southern Europe.

"I must confess," he said, "I do not feel happy, because of some policy of some kind which we do not understand, that whole areas of Europe should go hungry because we won't agree to do the sensible thing and move the grain and food freely over these great arteries. Let us fight that out on any basis, but not on the bellies of the people."

He said that if the foreign ministers failed to agree at their next conference this month on Europe's treaties, he would insist upon submitting the disputed treaties to a peace conference of the 21 nations involved. This suggestion was made to the last session by U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes.

BEVIN WARNS RUSSIA PEACE MAY BE LOST

JUN 5 1946

Bluntly Advises Soviet Not to Miss It, for It May Never Come Again.

STANDS FIRM FOR BYRNES PLAN

Says if Big Four Ministers Fail to Agree at June 15 Session He'll Insist on 21-Nation Talk.

G. Williams

London, June 4 (A. P.).—Foreign Secretary Bevin addressed a blunt warning appeal to Russia today that "if you value peace above all, do not miss it. It may never come again."

Opening a two-days' full-dress debate on foreign policy in the House of Commons, he declared that permanent peace in Europe can be guaranteed "only if Russia enters freely into the European settlement." He also appealed to the United States to remain undaunted by the Russians' rejection of Secretary of State Byrnes's proposal at the recent Paris conference for a twenty-five-year treaty to keep Germany and Japan disarmed, declaring: "The rest of us in Europe, at least, not only welcome this proposal, but look upon it as giving the greatest possible hope for the removal of misunderstanding and the creation of confidence. It was a matter of profound regret to witness the way it was received by the Soviet representatives.

"If I can make one great appeal to the United States," he continued, "it is this: Do not be daunted by the first refusal, due, in my view, to unjustified suspicion."

Cites Obstacle to Peace.

Bevin expressed regret that "all through Russian speeches and writings" runs the "idea that the Russian methods alone represent democracy and that certain other systems are either Fascist or crypto-Fascist," and this attitude, he continued, "is one of the greatset obstacles to peace."

Calling upon Russia to accept Byrnes's proposal for a twenty-five-year four-Power watch over Germany, Bevin said: "I should have thought a four-Power pact carried out with vigor and honesty between us would create a situation far more secure than harnessing a few satellite states as a buttress against aggression."

Bevin also declared that if the Big Four Foreign Ministers do not agree on peace treaties at their June 15 meeting in Paris, he will insist on submitting the treaties to a conference of all twenty-one of the nations involved.

"We cannot go on in a state of war forever," he said, and went on to declare it an intolerable situation to say to the other countries who fought actively in the war that "you must go on in a state of war forever because we four gentlemen cannot agree."

To Pursue Path of Amity.

Bevin said he had always regarded as a tragedy the fact that Russia did not participate in the making of Europe's peace after the first world war.

"On the other hand, the United States fought in the last war, took part in the peace making and then withdrew into isolation," he remarked.

Bevin referred to his previous disclosure that he had offered to recommend an extension of the twenty-year Anglo-Russian friendship treaty to fifty years and said: "I regret that this was not taken more seriously at the time. But I am confident it will come. While I am Foreign Secretary, notwithstanding the rebuff, I shall pursue it."

Replies to Molotov.

Referring to the recent speech in which the Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov asserted that an Anglo-American bloc was opposing the Russians, Bevin declared: "I rather resent Mr. Molotov's attitude that when you put up proposals that he does not agree to, he seems to imply that you are dictating. We are dictating to nobody, but we do ask that there shall be an examination of our point of view when we put it forward on rational and reasonable grounds."

Bevin said that Russian diplomats appear to have the idea that the security of Russia can only be maintained when every country in the world adopts the Soviet system. "This is one of their greatest handicaps and a great obstacle to peace," he said.

"I can speak for the workers of Great Britain and the British Commonwealth when I say we do not believe the Soviet system would represent the interest of the workers as well as this system of democratic parliament of ours."

Total Peace or Total War.

A moment later, Bevin said: "There are many matters connected with the Soviet attitude toward the British Commonwealth and the empire which at least show a sense of realism."

"I think, for instance, that the Soviet Government, and indeed the United States as well, does really recognize the tremendous importance to the peace of the world of the maintenance of our position in the Middle East, provided that ultimately there is developed a regional organization which fits into the United Nations security system," Bevin continued. "The basic aim of his Majesty's Government is to make the United Nations Organization work effectively."

Bevin then cautioned the House: "If we do not want to have total war, we must have total peace. All international questions which arise must be dealt with in relation to this new world fabric which will some day —I don't know how soon—draw its direct power from the will of the people."

No Move to Meet Compromise.

Bevin referred to Danube River navigation and the settlement of the nationality of Trieste—both of them stumbling blocks to peace settlements at the recent meeting of the four-Power Foreign Ministers in Paris. "I cannot give way on behalf of the Government in that vital part of Central Europe," he declared. "We must hope for better luck the next time we meet in Paris." That next meeting in Paris has been set for June 15.

Bevin said that the Russian proposal for the Italo-Yugoslav frontier, involving Trieste, would leave no Slovene-speaking people within Italy but would place more than 500,000 Italians in Yugoslavia. "The only attempt at compromise over this problem was made by Britain and the United States," he declared. "There was no move at all on the part of the Soviet to meet that compromise. . . I cannot bring myself to hand over Trieste to Yugoslavia. Trieste must be an international port and not an international pawn in the game of politics.

By Those 'We Fed.'

"I certainly believe," Bevin continued, "that nothing will give greater confidence for peace at our next meeting in Paris than if the Soviet Union came along ready and willing to settle the Austrian problem, together with the Italian problem and that of the Danube Basin."

He said that Britain has met with obstacles everywhere in trying to reach trade agreements with Romania, Hungary and other countries. "We find ourselves denounced from the very mouths we have fed," he said, "and it does not seem to me to be right. We ask in the way of trade and in exchange and fair dealing to be treated as decent citizens and to be allowed to restore relations as they have always existed.

"We will not allow our representatives to do anything to hinder proper relations between the Soviet Union and these countries, but we do ask for reciprocation."

Bevin disputed the Russian argument that if British and American occupation troops were withdrawn from Italy the Italians would then be able to pay the reparations Moscow demands. If Italy were called on to pay reparations, he said, her ability to export and earn foreign exchange would be correspondingly reduced and "the assistance she would require from abroad correspondingly increased."

culture and similar traditions, and the great Slav areas, whose history and development have been very different from our own.

Russia and the Workers

There is, I think rather unfortunately, running through all the speeches and writings of our Soviet friends a theory that they alone represent the workers, that they alone are democratic. Their concept of certain other governments is that they are either fascist or crypto-fascist, or something of that kind.

Bevin's Foreign Affairs Speech in Commons

LONDON, June 4 (AP)—A partial text of Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's foreign affairs speech today in the House of Commons:

The basic aim of His Majesty's government in its approach to foreign policy will be to make the United Nations organization work effectively, and all international questions which arise must now be dealt with in relation to this new world fabric which we are bent on weaving and ultimately making effective, and which will some day—I do not know how soon—draw its power direct from the will of the peoples.

Foreign policy is not a matter now which is limited to a small section of the community. Total war has made every one want to have their say as to their destiny. I would suggest to the House and to the world, and to all public men, that they should constantly remind themselves of this. If we do not want to have total war, we must have total peace.

In the settlement of the last war, Russia was not a party. Personally, I have always felt that that was a tragedy. In this war she has made a tremendous contribution and has emerged from the defeat of 1917. It is an important step forward that she is to take part, because it is only if Russia enters freely into the European settlement that there can be any guaranty of permanent peace on the continent of Europe.

On the other hand, the United States fought in the last war, took part in the peace making and then withdrew into isolation.

Now, everybody in the Western Hemisphere, equally with other parts of the world, is conscious that the whole planet is involved. We have, however—and this is why our task is harder than in 1918—to get agreement between the West, which has a co[illegible]

This leads to the idea that the security of Russia can only be maintained when every country in the world has adopted the Soviet system.

This, I think, is one of their greatest handicaps and a great obstacle to peace.

I can speak for the workers in Great Britain and the British Commonwealth. We don't believe the Soviet system would represent the interests of the workers nearly as much as the system this democratic Parliament has evolved in this country.

I don't deny the right of Russia to pursue her own way of achieving an industrial revolution, but for us in this country, who started our industrial revolution over 150 years ago, to adopt the Russian method would really be retrogressive and not represent progress.

If we are to get real agreement on both sides, we must undertake to develop our political institutions in our own way without attempting to impose one system upon the other. . . .

I indicated to Stalin I would be willing to recommend to the British government that the treaty of friendship should be extended for fifty years.

I regret it was not taken more seriously at the time. I am still confident it will come yet.

For my part, while I am Foreign Secretary, notwithstanding rebuffs, I shall still pursue it.

The Middle East

The Soviet government, and indeed the U. S. A. as well, recognize the tremendous importance to the peace of the world from the maintenance of our position in the Middle East, provided that ultimately there is developed a regional organization which fits into the United Nations security system. That it is the intention of his majesty's government to pursue.

We have not sought to dictate (on the Danube River settlement). What we asked was that we should discuss and settle this problem, and I rather resent Mr. Molotov's attitude. When you put up a proposal he does not agree with, he seems to imply that you are dictating.

We do not dictate to any one, but we ask that there should be an examination of our view when we put it forward on a rational and reasonable basis.

The practical effect of this deadlock has been to paralyze through-traffic on what should be one of the main traffic arteries between central and southern Europe.

I must confess I do not feel happy, because of some policy of some kind which we do not understand, that whole areas of Europe should go hungry because we won't agree to do the sensible thing and move the grain and food freely over these great arteries.

Let us fight that out on any basis, but not on the bellies of the people.

I am driven to ask what the Soviet interest in this (treaty settlements with Danubian states) really is, and what motives they have in refusing to commit themselves to any arrangements such as I have suggested.

Does it mean that Danubian affairs are to be the sole concern of the Danubian states and of Soviet Russia alone?

I cannot, even now, believe that they would wish to maintain their monopolistic view. . . .

The Trieste Question

I cannot give way on behalf of His Majesty's Government to that vital port (Trieste), with all it means to central Europe, being surrendered to the sovereignty (Yugoslavia) now proposed.

I regard it as imperative that Austria should be settled. And so, as it were, with one clean sweep you limit your liabilities in Europe to really Germany itself. It narrows the area of the problems that you are left to settle.

However, the Soviet Union argue that they were not ready to discuss it. I could not understand this—I do not understand it now.

Since then the United States have submitted a draft treaty and in the Foreign Office we have drafted one, and I certainly believe that nothing could give greater confidence at our next meeting in Paris than if the Soviet Union came along, ready and willing to settle the Austrian problem, together with the Italian and the whole of the Danube basin, including the Danube.

We were more than agreeably surprised to receive from the United States a draft treaty for twenty-five years to insure that Germany remained disarmed at the end of the period of occupation.

It was, however, marked "very secret," and it was enjoined upon me not to allow it to leak. Accordingly it was discussed only in a very limited governmental circle. . . .

Having regard to what happened at the end of the last war, I must say that this proposal o the United States government, through Mr. Byrnes, left with me the impression that here, at last, we had something which would give us peace in Europe and allow for normal development over a sufficient period to eradicate the warlike spirit of Nazism.

It was, therefore, a matter of profound regret to witness the way it was received by the Soviet representative.

Inferences and charges about the present disarmament arrangements were made to counter Mr. Byrnes's proposal.

Opportunity For Peace

I believe that if the Soviet Union again studies the draft treaty and realizes what a protection for peace this means, they will come round and not miss this great opportunity.

I say to the Soviet government: If you value peace above all else, do not miss it. It may never happen again.

For France it is vital. She has been invaded three times and smashed twice in seventy years. For Britain, who has been drained of he rresources in two great wars, it is indispensable. For the Soviet Union, which has been invaded so many times, I should have thought that a four-power pact, carried out with vigor and honesty between un, would have created a situation far more secure than the harnessing of a few satellite weak states as buffers between them and a possible future aggressor. But I will not admit failure yet.

We will try again, and if I can make one more appeal to the United States, it is this: Do not be daunted by a first refusal, due, in my view, to an unjustified suspicion. The rest of us in Europe not only welcome it, but look upon it as giving the greatest possible hope for the removal of misunderstanding and the creation of confidence.

It implies on the part of the United Stated the acceptance of obligations and the utilization of what I think is one of her finest qualities—her great idealism, which seems to spring from a great vision of peace, resulting in action of a kind which will, if carried into effect, bring immense relief to millions of toilers throughout Europe. . . .

The German Problem

I could not at the meeting in Paris agree to the separation of any part of Germany without going into the question of Germany's frontiers as a whole and knowing what the new Germany was going to be. . . .

In any final settlement, His Majesty's government, subject to the adjustment of reparations and other obligations that are involved, do favor the transfer of the Saar to the French. But I would prefer that the German problem should be considered as a whole before that final step is taken.

The Potsdam agreement envisages Germany being treated as a whole, while means that the surplus foodstuffs of the East would feed us, and the goods of the West would go to the East, and so on, and that there would be sufficient earnings produced so that Germany would not be a charge on any of the Allies.

His Majesty's government cannot accept a position which involves a budgetary expenditure of £80,000,000 ($320,000,000) a year to subsidize Germany.

We cannot accept the position that the Soviet zone is an exclusive place, while our zone is wide open for inspection and we are subject to accusations for which there is not the slightest justification.

As soon as this principle is settled and there is an honest endeavor to tackle the whole problem, I believe we can make progress on the German situation. . . .

Peace Parley Issue

Another very vexed problem was the proposal to call a conference of the twenty-one nations in event of their (the Big Four) not being able to agree at Paris.

The United States and ourselves came to the conclusion, and it is not ganging up, that we cannot go on in a state of war forever. If we are morally right to say to the rest of the twenty-one nations who were actively engaged in fighting these countries, and who, it is agreed, should be brought in to discuss the treaties: "You must go on in a state of war forever because we four gentlemen cannot agree," really that is an intolerable situation.

The purpose of the four-power meeting was, as I understand it, to facilitate the making of peace and not to obstruct it.

If the four cannot agree, it seems to me a perfectly reasonable and democratic proposal to let daylight into the problem by the rest of the twenty-one nations involved expressing their views.

Mr. Molotov's attitude was that the proposals would end in two conferences. What he meant was two opinions. You cannot move at all if there is a diversity of opinion.

It is difficult for us to accept the rule of one party or one nation. It is an intolerable situation, and we shall never get peace if that goes on.

Finally, to go back, I find that from press reports I am told that we have indulged in a bloc. I gather the interpretation is that we are engaged in some conspiracy for acquiring bases in various parts of the Pacific and the Atlantic areas. From the way it is put to the world these bases would imply a very sinister arrangement about what is a very straightforward affair.

In the course of the war the United States government established a number of bases on a number of islands administered by the governments of the commonwealth for the sole purpose of prosecuting the war against the common enemy and with the willing consent of the government concerned.

The United States actually wanted to know our views about the future status and maintenance. Quite apart from any question of future military value, many of them are important from the poin tof view of civil aviation. We have been discussing the conditions with the United States and the Dominions, and I hope we shall be able to make arrangements which will be to the general interest, and I trust that what I have said will prevent any further suggestions that we are engaged in some sort of conspiracy on this matter.

Cannot Confirm Slav Reports JUN 5 1946 British Say

London, June 4 (AP)—The Foreign Office said today the British Government had no reports from the Trieste area of Italy which in any way supported a London Daily Mail dispatch saying Yugoslavia had decreed a general mobilization.

The spokesman said some increase in tension was expected, but there appeared to be no cause for concern.

The Mail published a report from its Rome correspondent asserting that Belgrade newspapers had published an announcement of general mobilization in Yugoslavia. The Allied occupation zone of Venezia Giulia around Trieste was said by the Mail to have been declared in "a state of emergency."

D[illegible] called

The dispatch, published under a seven-column headline on the Mail front page, said it was "not clear" what actually was happening in Yugoslavia, but added:

"It will be recalled that June 1 was the date set by Yugoslavia as the deadline for the withdrawal of the United States Army Transport Command ground staff from the Belgrade airport.

"These new moves by (Premier Marshal) Tito, who early last week flew to Moscow for talks with Prime Minister Stalin, follow swiftly upon parallel notes of protest by Britain and America to Yugoslavia.

Obstruction Charged

"The notes protested against the obstructive tactics of Yugoslav agents in the Anglo-American zone of Venezia Giulia, the province of which Trieste is the capital.

At the same time, the dispatch said, "it is reported that Zone A in Venezia Giulia, which is occupied by Allied, as distinct from Yugoslav troops, has been declared in a state of emergency."

The newspaper Giornal Della Serra was quoted as saying that the Allies had undertaken a big arms roundup in anticipation of a possible coup by Tito.

The dispatch said Allied military sources gave no confirmation of the reported Yugoslav mobilization, but said "non-military Allied officials consider this might be a very likely step."

NEW JANE'S IN PRINT

London, June 4 (A. P.).—Great Britain has only ten serviceable battleships, of which only five—the King George V, the Duke of York, Anson, Howe and Vanguard—are fit for full service in the fleet, according to the new edition of the authoritative "Jane's Fighting Ships."

The Queen Elizabeth, Valiant, Nelson and Rodney are "too slow and the Renown is too lightly armored for modern requirements," the forty-eighth edition of the publication said.

Jane's also asserted that four battleships had been abandoned in construction, four others had been assigned harbor duties and the Warspite would be scrapped.

Says Britain Will Seize Gas Industry

London, June 4 (A. P.).—Fuel Minister Emanuel Shinwell said today that the Government intends to take over the gas industry "lock stock and barrel."

Nationalization of the fuel and power industry—coal, coke, gas and electricity—was one of the labor party's campaign objectives last summer. Legislation to put the coal and coke industry under punblic ownership already has been introduced but nationalization bills for both the gas and electricity industries still are in the tentative stage.

LIMITS IMPERIAL PREFERENCE CUTS

JUN 5 1946

London, June 4 (A. P.).—Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the council, said today that any reductions in British Imperial trade preferences suggested as part of Anglo-American commercial bargaining will have to be balanced against corresponding cuts in the tariffs of other nations. In addition, he told delegates to the British Imperial Press Conference, the reduction of any one preference will be made only with the consent of the countries which are receiving direct trade advantages from that particular preference.

Free trade policies decided since the war's end have been carried quickly forward to the stage of clear and far-reaching, though necessarily general, proposals on which we can get to work," Morrison declared, and added: "We owe the United States gratitude for their initiative in putting them forward."

During his address Morrison contrasted Britain's skimpy four-page newspapers with America's bulkier journals and suggested that "a little averaging in size . . . would be a good idea." American newspapers are so large, he said, that they are "impossible to read and almost impossible to carry on Sunday."

Spain Seen Needed In The U.N.

L. HAUCK

New York, June 4 (AP)—The exclusion of Franco Spain from the United Nations makes effective control of atomic energy and armaments impossible, the United Nations subcommittee investigating Spain declared today.

It recommended that Spain be considered for membership in the United Nations if Generalissimo Francisco Franco is removed.

The report, which called for General Assembly action against the Falangist regime in its report to the Security Council, made the atomic-armament statement in a supplement stressing a weakness of the United Nations security system.

"Geographically, Spain is a nation of importance with respect to the organization of the security system of the United Nations," the report said.

"The exclusion of the Franco regime from the United Nations would leave Spain outside of any international arrangements relating to the maintenance of international peace and security in that region and render impossible a really effective system of international control of atomic energy and the relating scientific information and raw materials or regulation of armaments, as envisaged by the United Nations."

In commenting on the "gap" in the security lineup, Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, subcommittee chairman and Australian delegate to the Council, said, however, that the subcommittee had found no evidence to support contentions that German scientists were at work on atomic energy within Spain.

World-Wide Break Urged

The report to the Security Council, which meets at 3 P.M. Thursday, recommended that the Assembly be asked to call for world-wide severance of relations with Spain if Franco were still in power at the time of the Assembly's September meeting here.

Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., United States delegate who resigned yesterday, turned over the job to Deputy Herschel Johnson, who will take his seat Thursday. Dr. Evatt also will represent his Government for the first time here at that session.

At a staff meeting relinquishing his position, Stettinius expressed "continued faith and belief in the United Nations." There was a wide speculation over his successor, with John Winant, present delegate to the Economic and Social Council, and Dean Acheson, Under Secretary of State, being mentioned.

U. N. Report Attacked By Spanish Embassy

Washington, June 4 (AP)—The Spanish embassy said today a United Nations subcommittee report assailing the Franco Government was a "travesty of legal procedure" which omitted "all documentary evidence disproving the trumped-up charges against Spain."

The embassy statement said the report was "an obvious intervention in the internal affairs of a country." It asked whether "honest men" could "tolerate the conviction of an accused without giving him a chance to defend himself."

The subcommittee report called the Spanish regime a potential menace to world peace.

The embassy declared that the subcommittee admitted no breach of the peace had occurred, no act of aggression was proved and no threat to peace was established.

"In a report bearing the signature of the Polish delegate to whose country not even the heroic soldiers who fought for their fatherland and for the cause of the United Nations dare return for fear of torture or death," demands upon Spain "can only sound as a hollow mockery, nay, a deliberate insult to the conscience of mankind," the statement added.

Would Balk Atomic Energy.

The exclusion of Spain from the United Nations would make a really effective system of international control of atomic energy impossible, the United Nations sub-committee investigating Spain asserted today.

"Georgraphically, Spain is a nation of importance with respect to the organization of the security system of the United Nations," the sub-committee said in a supplementary memorandum to its report proposing that the General Assembly call upon U. N. members to break diplomatic relations with Franco.

"The exclusion of the Franco regime from the United Nations would leave Spain outside of any international arrangement relating to the maintenance of international peace and security in that region and render impossible a really effective system of international control of atomic energy and the relating scientific information and raw materials for regulation of armaments as envisaged by the United Nations."

Absence Creates Gap.

The supplementary report, disclosed at a news conference by Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, chairman of the sub-committee and Australian delegate to the Security Council, at Hunter College today, recommended that if a freely elected Spanish Government succeeded Franco's regime its application for U. N. membership should be considered favorably.

Spain's absence from the U. N. "creates a gap in the charter," Dr. Evatt said at the conference, adding: "We do not wish to exclude the people of Spain. We want them represented in the United Nations."

The sub-committee, he said, believes that the report will have a "practical effect on the Franco regime."

Evatt made public today a letter to the sub-committee from Alexander Parodi, French delegate to the Security Council, proposing that other members of the United Nations follow the example of France in imposing economic sanctions on Spain to "hasten considerably the development of events in Spain." The committee has not considered this question of declaring economic sanctions against Spain, Evatt said.

The committee's report will be presented to the Security Council on Thursday for consideration before being turned over to the General Assembly in September. At Thursday's meeting, the United States will be represented by a new delegate, Herschel V. Johnson, who accepted the job of chief of United States representatives to the United Nations today from Edward R. Stettinius Jr. The resignation of Stettinius was accepted yesterday by President Truman.

Spain Declares U. N. Report On Franco Is Intervention

JUN 5 1946

Embassy Issues Statement Saying That Committee Violates Atlantic Charter and Oaks Agreement.

Washington, June 4 (AP)—The Franco Government today termed a United Nations sub-committee report on Spain "an obvious intervention in the internal affairs" of that country.

A statement released by the Spanish embassy here said the sub-committee report "is not a report" but a "a yerdict" which violates the principles of the Atlantic charter, the Dumbarton Oaks agreements and the United Nations charter.

The sub-committee recommended to the Security Council on June 1 that it ask the United Nations Assembly to call for a worldwide diplomatic break with Spain if Franco still is in power in September, when the General Assembly meets in New York.

The report called the Falangist regime a potential menace to international peace.

The embassy statement declared that "Spain, who rejects emphatically all interference in matters of her sovereignty, reaffirm its desire for peace and friendship with all nations and all governments of good will."

Calling the subcommittee report a political indictment, the statement said that Spain is accused of being "a cause of international friction" and that "at that rate, innocent nations could always be accused of provoking the attacks of malevolent or greedy oppressors."

Stettinius Role Uncertain In Debate On Franco

New York, June 4 (AP)—Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., left unanswered today the question of whether he will carry on as United States delegate to the United Nations Security Council pending the peace agency's scheduled debate on Franco Spain on Thursday.

Arriving here from Washington last evening a few hours after his resignation had been accepted by President Truman, Stettinius said the question of whether he would attend the meeting Thursday and how long it would take him to wind up his United Nations assignment were matters he still had to work out.

Spokesmen at the United States delegation headquarters expressed belief that Stettinius would see the Franco debate through before stepping out, although the State Department in Washington declared that his resignation would take effect immediately.

No Word On Successor

There was no indication here as to who would succeed the former Secretary of State as the United States representative. Stettinius has been associated with the United Nations organization since its formative stages at Dumbarton Oaks, later attending the San Francisco and London meetings.

The United States will be temporarily represented in the Council by Stettinius's deputy, Herschel V. Johnson, unless a successor is appointed quickly. Johnson has a speaking engagement at Indianapolis Thursday.

A heated discussion is expected among the Big Three powers on the subcommittee's recommendation for a virtual ultimatum calling upon the Spanish people to rid themselves of the Franco regime by September or else find themselves isolated by a collective United Nations rupture of diplomatic relations with Madrid.

Soviet Opposition Seen

The subcommittee's move to delay action until September and its recognition of the General Assembly as the proper source of action appeared certain to meet Soviet opposition.

When the month-long inquiry into Franco's affairs was commissioned by the Council April 29, Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko abstained from voting. He held that any such investigation was superfluous and would serve only to delay action, declaring that Spain already was a proven menace to peace as charged by Poland and that dilatory tactics smacked of insincerity.

Gromyko has frequently argued for the Council's exercise of broadest powers without referring action to the General Assembly.

Both the United States and Britain, still shaping their arguments on the subcommittee report circulated last week end, have opposed a concerted break with Franco and have discounted Polish and Spanish Republican charges that the Madrid Government at present harbors a dangerous war potential.

U.N. GROUP TO CONFER WITH STATE COMMITTEE

NEW YORK, June 4 — (AP) The United Nations Headquarters commission announced tonight it has accepted an invitation from Governor Baldwin of Connecticut to meet shortly in executive session with a committee he has appointed to deal with U.N. matters concerning his state.

The meeting is in line with U.N. plans to set up permanent headquarters somewhere in the Westchester-Fairfield county area along the New York-Connecticut border.

Governor Baldwin suggested on Monday that the commission discuss its plans with his advisory group on the U.N. and with local U.N. committees in Fairfield county.

Communists In France View Vote As Victory

Paris, June 4 (AP)—The Communist newspaper l'Humanite said today the Communist party had won a victory in Sunday's election over an anti-Communist campaign by increasing its popular vote even though it fell out as France's largest single party.

"The Communists with their solid, proved party, repelled the assault of the reactionaries. The Socialists lost. Let us unite, and there will be no more losses like that," the newspaper declared.

Leon Blum, Socialist leader, meanwhile, said the Socialist defeat was the natural but "unjust" result of that party's assumption of major responsibility in the last government.

The Socialists reaped the voters' blame for taking "the most exposed ministers," Blum said.

With returns lacking only from some colonies, the Popular Republican Movement (MRP), or Progressive Catholic party, had 162 seats in the Constituent Assembly, a gain of 12 compared with the voting last October; the Communists had 149, a loss of 10, and the Socialists 127, a loss of 19.

MRP party directors still had made no announcement whether they would ask the presidency for their major leader, Georges Bidault, Foreign Minister.

In a statement the MRP executive committee said that "in the face of the Government tasks necessary to assure the life of France and its economic recovery, the Popular Republican Movement will know how to face the responsibilities with which the confidence of the nation has invested it."

and Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Russia and Belgium.

It would surprise many Government officials, however, if Mr. Truman and Byrnes decided they could spare Acheson from his State Department post. And the appointment of Davies would be certain to arouse opposition in the Senate because of his frequent public defense of Russian foreign policy.

The resignation of Stettinius will bring at least a temporary end to a career in public service which, in most respects, has been as spectacular as the one he abandoned in business when he entered the Government on a full-time basis in 1940. He was a vice president of General Motors Corporation at 31, and chairman of the board of United States Steel Corporation at 37.

Talk Of Choice For U.N. Post Centers On Winant

JUN 5 1946

Washington, June 4 (AP)—President Truman today faced the exacting task of finding a new United States representative to the United Nations.

He once described the post as one of the highest and most important within the gift of the nation, and it was with obvious reluctance that he accepted the resignation of Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., late yesterday.

Truman Ponders Choice

Charles G. Ross, the White House secretary, said today that Mr. Truman is giving much thought to the selection of a successor. Asked at a news conference if he would be named shortly, Ross replied: "I hope so."

If the President and Secretary of State Byrnes had any successor to Stettinius in mind last night, some of their top aides did not know it.

Johnson Will Fill It Temporarily

Herschel Johnson, a career diplomat who has served as deputy to Stettinius, will fill the United Nation seat temporarily.

Another indication that no replacement for Stettinius had been decided on was Mr. Truman's revelation that as late as yesterday morning he had hoped to persuade Stettinius to withdraw his resignation.

Much of the speculation about a successor centered about John G. Winant, former Republican Governor of New Hampshire, who recently completed a six-year assignment as ambassador to Britain. Winant now is United States representative on the United Nations Economic and Social Council.

Blum Explains Party's Defeat

By Wilson

DAY

Paris, June 4 (AP)—The Socialist defeat in Sunday's election was the natural but "unjust" result of the party's assumption of major responsibility in the past Government, Léon Blum said today.

Despite the Socialists' "courage, steadfastness and loyalty," they reaped the voters' blame for taking "the most exposed Ministries," Blum wrote in Le Populaire.

With returns still lacking from some colonies, the standing among the major parties for the 562 seats in the Constituent Assembly was: Popular Republican Movement (MRP), 162, a gain of 12; Communists, 149, a loss of 10; Socialists, 127, a loss of 19, with the losses and gains figured on the October voting.

Vote Percentages

The missing returns would not change perceptibly the percentage of votes garnered by the parties—MRP, 28; Communist, 25.9; Socialists, 21.

Despite their loss of position as France's largest party, the Communists increased their popular-vote total and interpreted the election as a victory for them in the light of the anti-Communist campaign which preceded the voting.

Appeal To Socialists

"The Communists, with their solid proved party, repelled the assault by the reactionaries," said the party organ L'Humanité. "The Socialists lost. Let us unite, and there will be no more losses like that."

The victorious MRP party remained silent on whether it would demand the presidency of the Government for its outstanding leader, Foreign Minister Georges Bidault. The party executive committee confined itself to a statement that, "in the face of Government tasks necessary to assure the life of France and its economic recovery, the Popular Republican Movement will know how to face the responsibilities with which the confidence of the nation has invested it."

French Film Star Sentenced

PARIS, June 4 (AP)—The French film star Chrinne Luchaire, 25-year-old daughter of the executed pro-German editor Jean Luchaire, was sentenced to ten years of national disgrace today on charges of collaborationism.

Closer French-Allied Ties Seen After Vote

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Diplomatic officials said today French election results would strengthen France's political and economic ties with the United States and Britain.

While this country maintained strict official silence, Government officials expressed keen satisfaction privately at the emergence of the middle of the [illegible] MRP as the biggest party in France at the expense of the Communists.

Bidault's Hand "Stronger"

American officials generally have enjoyed cordial relations with Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, head of the MRP. They say, however, that up to now, Bidault has frequently been handicapped because he represented a government in which the Communists, not his own party, were the most powerful element.

With his own party on top, Bidault will now take a stronger stand on most issues, officials believe. They are confident that stand will generally be with the United States and Britain, when important differences with Russia arise.

American officials realize that France will still have a coalition government, with Communists in key positions, during the fresh attempt to write a new constitution. But it is felt that the third-place Socialists may offer frequent support to the MRP.

Closer Economic Rapport

On the economic side, American officials believe the MRP, never as impatient as the Communists and Socialists to nationalize French industries, will promote trade policies more nearly in line with those advocated by this country.

France, like Britain, is pledged to an allout collective attempt to eliminate international trade barriers, as outlined in the American "white paper" on trade. This pledge was part of the economic agreement signed last week under which the United States will extend a credit of nearly $1,400,000,000 to France.

Disagreement Is Noted Among Big 4 Deputies

Paris, June 4 (AP)—American informants said Russia and the Western powers had disagreed today on Balkan issues in the sessions of the deputy foreign ministers who are preparing for the meeting of their chiefs here June 15.

James Dunn, of the United States, again introduced the American proposal for writing a guarantee of freedom of international navigation on the Danube into treaties for Balkan countries, but the Soviet deputy refused to discuss the point, these informants reported.

TELLS HOW HITLER FINANCED HIS WAR

Berlin, June 4 (A. P.).—More than half the cost to Germany of the war Adolf Hitler waged against the world was financed by borrowing from the public treasury, according to Dr. Bruno Gleitze, German financial expert.

In a public lecture reported by the Telegraf, Dr. Gleitze said only 28 per cent of the war expenditures were covered by taxes and only 18 per cent through loans and interest-bearing treasury certificates.

The rest was derived from the following sources:

Thirty-six per cent by floating debts, 7 per cent by loans from posts and railways, and 11 per cent by returns from occupied countries.

When the Nazi regime capitulated, Dr. Gleitze said, the admitted indebtedness of the Reich was 406,000,000,000 reichmarks, or some thirty times what it had been before the Nazis seized power.

Meanwhile money in circulation—all of it on paper—had increased from 5,700,000,000 reichmarks in 1933 to 65,000,000,000 in 1945.

NEW SOVIET MARSHAL

Berlin, June 4 (A. P.).—Gen. Vassili D. Sokolovsky, Soviet commander and military governor in Germany, has been promoted to Marshal of the Soviet Union, it was announced today.

Sokolovsky was appointed to his present post in April, succeeding Marshal Georgi Zhukov, whom he had previously served as chief of staff.

The Moscow Radio, heard in London by the Soviet monitor, also announced that the rank of Marshal of Aviation has been conferred on Col.-Gen. of Aviation Konstantin A. Vershinin.

JODL BLAMES HITLER FOR BRINGING ON WAR

NUREMBERG, Germany, June 4 (AP)—German military men tried unsuccessfully to dissuade Adolf Hitler from fortifying the Rhineland in 1936, Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl testified today at his war crimes trial.

NIGHT

Jodl told the international military tribunal Hitler rejected two appeasement moves proposed by military leaders, even though they had told the Fuehrer that "France could blow us off the face of the earth now."

The former Chief of Staff of the German High Command said the march into the Rhineland had not impressed him as "aggression" at the time and that he had not seen in it any intent for future aggressive warfare.

Jodl, who drew many of the German Army's strategic war plans, insisted there had been no advance scheme for an attack on Austria at the time of the Anschluss. It was improvised with only two days' notice from Hitler, he said.

He testified he had received evidence from captured orders that British Commandos on the Dieppe raid had been taught to tie up prisoners in such a way that they would strangle themselves.

He denied, however, that either he or Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel had issued orders for Commandos to be shot summarily, saying Hitler had put out that order himself.

New Nazi Group Revealed

LUENEBURG, Germany, June 4 (AP)—The British Military Government disclosed today that thirty-five former Hitler Youth leaders—described as members of a new Nazi secret underground movement named Radical Nationalists—had been arraigned on charges of subversive activity. Authorities said the movement was aimed at arousing the population "against the occupation power."

JODL ACCUSES BRITISH

Nuernberg, June 4 (A. P.).—Col.-Gen. Gustav Jodl testified before the International Military Tribunal today that captured orders showed that the British Commandos were taught to truss up prisoners in such a way they strangled themselves.

Claiming that although he had received evidence that the alleged instructions were followed out at Dieppe, neither he nor Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel issued an order for Commandos to be summarily shot. Adolf Hitler put out that order himself, Jodl said, after the generals had stalled for ten days.

GRAIN FOR GERMANY

STUTTGART, Germany, June 4—(AP) American shipments of bread grains to Germany totalled 65,000 tons in the last half of May, Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay told minister-presidents of the U. S. occupation zone today. The deputy American military governor said the United States still was short 11,000 tons in its promised delivery of a total of 100,000 tons of grain for April and May.

Lichfield Court Upholds Kilian

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 4 (AP)—Col. James A. Kilian, of Highland Park, Ill., today won his fight to avoid testifying in the trial of a soldier accused of brutality to prisoners in the United States Army guardhouse at Lichfield, England, which Kilian once commanded.

Kilian, himself awaiting trial on charges of authorizing acts of cruelty, insisted it would embarrass his own defense to answer questions about policies or conditions at Lichfield.

Excused By Defense

The military court upheld his refusal to answer several successive questions, and defense attorneys finally excused him from the witness stand.

Kilian was called to testify in behalf of Pfc. William B. Norris, of Mulga, Ala., a former guard at Lichfield. Norris is charged with beating several prisoners.

"The defense admits that these acts took place," said Norris's attorney, Capt. John Barr, of Urbana, Ill. "But we are trying to show that throughout the 10th Reinforcement Depot at Lichfield everybody was under a strain, working at top speed under pressure to get men out and to the front. We are trying to show that the defendant used common sense in obeying orders given him."

One witness testified yesterday that "beating was a usual procedure with repeaters" at Lichfield, where many soldiers were confined after going absent without leave from units headed for front-line service. (AP)

Slav Royalists' Gun-Running Plot Bared By British

Iserlohn, Germany, June 4 (AP)—British authorities said today that a secret royalist Yugoslav Army has been discovered operating a Europe-wide traffic in arms intended for forces in Yugoslavia opposing Premier Marshal Tito's Government.

The secret channel of supply for the guns and ammunition ran through Germany and Austria to Yugoslavia, the British said.

Forty generals of the Royal Yugoslav Army, whose headquarters was located in a displaced persons camp near Menden, directed the subversive Yugoslav movement, the officials said.

Activities of the movement, the authorities added, now has been stopped in the British occupation zone in Germany, where Yugoslav displaced persons have been dispersed and deprived of their military uniforms.

During the past two weeks frontier control points in the British zone daily had stopped from 10 to 50 Yugoslavs traveling on German roads with arms they planned to get into Yugoslavia, the British said.

FIRST RETURNS FOR REPUBLIC

JUN 5 1946

Early Italian Count Nearly 2 To 1 Against Monarchy

BRIA

Rome, June 4 (AP)—Vice Premier Pietro Nenni, a Socialist, said today that an early, semi-official count of more than 2,350,000 referendum votes showed proponents of a republic in Italy leading two to one over voters favoring retention of the monarchy.

NIGHT

Nenni, who favors a republic, said a semi-official count gave 1,908,851 votes for the republic and 847,351 for the monarchy. He said the count covered returns both from the industrial north, heavily in favor of a republic, and the agricultural south, strong for the monarchy. Returns from the less heavily populated south were lighter, however.

Christian Democrats Ahead

The middle-of-the-road Christian Democratic party rolled up a commanding lead of more than 2,000,000 votes over each of its two nearest rivals—the Communists and Socialists—a tabulation of two thirds of the ballots cast for the Constituent Assembly showed.

The figures on the assembly voting were announced by the Ministry of the Interior which said that no official results on the monarchy-republic referendum would be made before tomorrow.

Race For Second Place

Tabulation of the vote for the Constituent Assembly, the body which will write a new Italian constitution, showed that Premier Alcide de Gasperi's Christian Democrats polled 5,580,000 of 16,650,000 votes cast in 25,000 of 35,000 balloting districts.

The Socialists and Communists were racing each other for second place. The Socialists had received 3,600,000 votes while the Communists had a vote total of 3,400,000.

The Ministry's figures showed the moderate National Democratic Union of former Premier Vittorio Emanuele Orlando was running fourth, followed by the Republican party and the Uomo Qualunque (common man) movement.

Nenni said earlier, however, that the latest unofficial tabulation showed 1,508,851 votes for a republic and 847,851 for the monarchy. The industrial north was reported solidly in favor of a republic and the agricultural south equally strong for the monarchy. The south is less heavily populated than the north.

The Christian Democrats, the party of Premier Alcide de Gasperi, held their strong lead in the Constituent Assembly election on the basis of a count of half the votes.

Top Parties For Republic

The Ministry of Interior said the Christian Democrats polled 3,798,264 votes of the 11,025,199 tabulated, the Socialists 2,708,079 and the Communists 2,551,123. All three parties, plus the Republicans, are committed to establishment of a republic, and this led political experts at the Ministry to deduce that the proposal for a republic was well ahead.

The moderate National Democratic Union of Vittorio Emmanuele Orlando, Italian Premier in the first World War, was running fourth with 495,478. The Republican party had 454,246, and the Rightist "common-man" movement had 432,243. The other votes were scattered among smaller parties.

Rome Votes For King

An unofficial tabulation in Rome and Roman provinces showed 174,857 votes for the monarchy and 169,631 for a republic.

Unofficial partial returns in the plebiscite, reported by the Italian news agency Ansa from Milan, Florence, Reggio Emilia and Livorno, all in northern Italy, gave the republic 384,399 votes, against 155,271 for the monarchy. Naples, in the south, was reported to have cast 80 per cent of its votes for the monarchy.

Socialists Ahead In Milan

First returns showed that the Communists were strong in the cities most seriously damaged by the war and the Socialists were ahead in Milan, Italy's largest industrial city.

In the voting for the Constituent Assembly, seventy-nine Rome districts gave the Christian Democrats 14,696 votes, the Communists 4,602 and the Socialists 4,487.

Republicans Get Good Lead In Italy Vote

G. Brit.

Rome, June 4 (AP)—Forces favoring the establishment of a republic appeared to be building up a commanding lead today as officials completed the tabulation of about one quarter of the votes cast in Italy's two-day elections.

A semi-official tabulation of about ten per cent of the 25,000,000 votes estimated to have been cast showed the republic leading the monarchy almost two to one.

The Ministry of Interior said all reports on the outcome of the monarchy-republic plebiscite were unofficial and that the first official returns would p[illegible]bly not be announced until[illegible]ow.

Nanking Says Chiang Agrees To Battle Truce

Gen. Marshall Plan to Halt Offensive in Manchuria Is Reported Accepted

U. Reports

NANKING, June 5 (Wednesday) (AP).—A high government source said today that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had agreed in a conversation with United States special envoy General George C. Marshall to halt the Central government offensive in Manchuria for ten d[illegible] the way open for peace negotiations with Chinese Communists.

NIGHT

This usually reliable official said that Chiang further agreed to establish a branch office of the Peiping executive (truce) headquarters in Changchun, capital of Manchuria, to open negotiations.

Marshall, who talked five hours yesterday with the generalissimo, was understood to have laid the proposals before General Chou En-lai, chief negotiator for the Communists.

The government official said that Chiang first proposed a day truce, but that Marshall suggested ten days.

Chiang reportedly said he would issue a cease-fire order during this period regardless of what action the Communists take.

Marshall's meetings yesterday with Chiang and Chou had generated no special optimism in this anxious capital. Some Communist sources had expressed doubt as to chances of an early settlement.

Marshall was reported Sunday to have drawn up a compromise proposal for peace in Manchuria, involving abandonment of the government drive to capture Communist-held Harbin and Tsitsihar, on condition that the Communists turn these railway cities over to civilian administrators. The American envoy's headquarters declined to comment on this report, and a Communist source later denied that Marshall's proposal called for Communist evacuation of the two cities.

Dispatches from the Manchurian front disagreed as to whether government forces had crossed the Little Sungari River in their slow northward march toward Harbin. One report had them on the river's north bank, some seventy miles from the north Manchurian city.

The Communist radio at Yenan, meanwhile, accused government forces of renewing their attack on Communist positions in Hopeh Province, North China, in violation of the special cease-fire pact negotiated for that area last month.

While the details of Chiang's talk with Marshall remained secret, the generalissimo's latest public utterance had a general bearing on the problem of internal peace. To members of the Youth Army, soon to be demobilized except for one division, Chiang said last night:

"Unless every citizen respects the social order and observes discipline, unless each has initiative and is co-operative and self-sacrificing, a new China cannot be brought into being and equality cannot be achieved."

More specifically expressed was an opposition view of Chiang's policy toward internal unity and peace.

"The government has no desire for peace," said a high Communist source as Chiang went into his conference with Marshall. "General Marshall personally is exerting himself commendably, but the American government counteracts his every move by sending direct assistance to the (Nationalist) armies which are continuing the civil war in Manchuria."

Chiang, Marshall Plan Long Talk

Nanking, June 4 (AP)—A meeting which might lead to a truce in embattled Manchuria was planned today by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Gen. George C. Marshall, special United States envoy to China.

Chiang, just returned from Manchuria, and Marshall were expected to confer most of the day. Gen. Chou En-lai, the Communist negotiator, was expected to take part in later conferences.

Marshall and Chou conferred six hours yesterday. Some quarters suggested the two had tried to reach an agreement which might be presented to Chiang.

Speech To Youth Army

Chiang last night told the Youth Army, all but one division of which will be demobilized next month:

"Unless every citizen respects the social order and observes discipline; unless each has initiative and is co-operative and self-sacrificing, a new China cannot be brought into being and equality cannot be achieved."

Frontline dispatches to Peiping newspapers meanwhile disagreed as to whether Government forces remained on the south bank of the Little Sungari, or had crossed that river in their slow march toward Communist-held Harbin 70 miles north.

Pauley Back From North Korea

JUN 6 1946

Says He Saw Little on Guarded Tour to Show Russians Have Removed Machinery.

By A. P. Roberts

Seoul, June 4—(A. P.)—United States Reparations Commissioner Edwin W. Pauley returned today from a restricted tour of north Korea to report that he had found little evidence that any machinery had been taken out of the Russian-occupied zone.

"I don't think the United [illegible]tes should waive claim to [illegible]ara-tions until we know definitely the operative condition and [illegible]wner-ship of all industry in north Korea," he said, and went on to assert that Col.-Gen. I. M. Chistiakov, commander of the Soviet forces in north Korea, had denied that the Russians have removed any factory or plant equipment, since high Soviet policy decreed that no machinery would be shipped to Siberia. "Only on two or three occasions did we view anything that would indicate removals had taken place," Pauley added.

On the way in, he said, his mission saw a train loaded with machine tools and heavy copper wire, which "may have been going," however, between points in Korea.

"The others were power substations, where we noticed that electrical and transformer equipment had been taken out, or was packaged, ready for shipment." But this, too could have been for intra-Korean movement, Pauley explained.

Pauley, who estimated that he saw 60 per cent of the largest heavy-industry centers of the northern zone, reported that lack of skilled help was hindering Soviet attempts to revive Korean industry, once managed by Japanese. In some plants, he said, Japanese prisoners of war were used.

The mission's general impression, he continued, was that heavy industry was being prepared for permanent use. He declined to say, however, whether he believed the Russians or Koreans would use it.

Barred from Two Areas.

The mission inspected scores of plants in the Pyongyang, Supong and Wonsan [illegible]t were denied permissio[illegible] visit the Chongjin and H[illegible]am areas of the northeast co[illegible]t. The taking of official pictures was not permitted anywhere, Pauley said, adding that the "Russian-type Communist political theory is the only one expounded" in the northern zone. Pictures of Stalin and Kim Il-sung, Korean chairman of the People's Committee of North Korea, are everywhere, he noted, and Soviet slogans decorate street and factory.

Dr. Syngman Rhee and Kim Koo, Korean leaders in the American occupied southern zone, are attacked as "traitors" in posters calling for their "extermination," Pauley said.

Pauley said that he had hoped to spend fifteen days inspecting Japanese industry, resources and equipment in the northern zone, which had been sealed to foreigners since the Russians moved in, but that the Russians limited his stay to six days and his staff to ten men.

U.S. Now Australia's Best Wool Customer

Canberra, June 4 (AP)—The United States has replaced Britain as Australia's best wool customer.

Britain's purchases in the same period were 694,886 bales, worth £15,316,000 ($50,620,000).

Total Australian wool exports for the nine months were 1,969,836 bales, worth £43,305,000, compared with 1,324,863 bales, worth £35,128,000, in the same period of 1944-45.

Tojo Trial Opens And Recesses For 9 Days

JUN 5 1946

O'HENNESSY

Tokyo, June 4 (AP)—War-starting Hideki Tojo and 25 other deposed Japanese militarists today were branded "assassins" who ruled the "most treacherous and perfidious nation" of all time and who sought to dominate the world.

Chief Prosecutor Joseph B. Keenan made the charges in a 15,000-word opening statement at their war-crime trial before a ten-judge international military tribunal.

Keenan said that ever since 1904, when Japan sprang a surprise attack on Russia at Port Arthur, that the entire world realized such action "is intolerable."

Called "Common Felons"

The American prosecutor described the defendants as "common felons, who deserve, and will receive, the punishment for ages meted out in every land to murderers, brigands, pirates and plunderers."

He said that Pearl Harbor, Hong Kong and Mukden "are all part of one grand pattern, and the vice of it consisted in the exhibition of utter contempt for the lives of blameless and helpless individuals all over the world."

Tojo and the other defendants, sitting in the brightly lighted prisoner's dock, listened intently through headphones to a translation of Keenan's charges.

Recesses For Nine Days

Keenan, noted for flights of oratory, delivered the entire 15,000-word statement in quiet tones. After he finished, court recessed until June 13 to permit defense counsel more time to prepare its case.

He said he would prove Japanese air attacks on the United States and British gunboats Panay and Ladybird, were "evidence of wanton, reckless disregard for life and property and a demonstration to the Chinese people of the power and efficacy of Japanese arms."

He indicated a prosecution plan to place individual blame when he said that during hostilities murder was so widespread that it must be assumed that orders for the killings came from high circles.

Other Statements

He said further:

"It is our contention that the taking of a single life intentionally and without the sanction of law constitutes murder."

Tojo and his codefendants are not penitent and "if set free they would repeat their aggression."

The trials are "a battle of civilization to preserve the entire world from destruction."

"Deliberate planned efforts of these individuals" brought about the Pacific war.

The tribunal's secretariat announced that the court soon would be increased to its full eleven members with the arrival of Delfin Jaranilla, the Philippines' representative.

Tojo Takes Notes

As Tojo busily took notes, Keenan outlined one major premise of the Allied case: That a war of aggression is a crime under international law.

"For the first time in history," he added, "a military tribunal sitting in Nuernberg and this military tribunal for the Far East are being asked by civilized nations . . . to recognize" that aggression "is and has been" criminal.

The accused men, Keenan continued, "ordered and condoned" unlawful slaughter of 1,000,000 persons.

Two Ill, Face Later Trials

Two additional defendants, now ill, will be tried later. The court declined to dismiss charges against ailing former Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka and Shumei Okawa.

Keenan said the prisoners have taken the view that there is no court with authority to try them, but:

"We shall contend that it never was compatible with justice or law to initiate murders. We shall contend that it is no less an offense to plan and initiate destruction of lives of a million people than to initiate murder of a single individual.

"We shall further contend that taking oath to support the laws of a nation (Japan) does not create immunity from punishment."

2,500,000 Japs Missing'

Tokyo, June 4 (AP)—What became of 2,500,000 Japanese supposedly in Russian-occupied territory at the war's end is still a mystery, Allied headquarters said today.

The headquarters intelligence section said that no information had been received from Russian, Chinese or other sources on the Japanese supposed to have been in Manchuria, from which the Russians recently withdrew, or those in territory the Russians still hold.

Japanese figures placed the civilians in Manchuria at around 1,000,000 and the strength of the Japanese Kwantung Army at between 600,000 and 700,000. They listed 607,000 army, navy and civilians in north Korea, Sakhalin and the Kurile Islands, all now occupied by Russia.

Jap Travel Expenses Cut

Tokyo, June 4 (AP)—Allied headquarters today ordered travel expenses for discharged Japanese military personnel reduced to actual expenses, not exceeding 300 yen ($20). The Japanese had been paying travel expenses on a rank basis, ranging from 100 yen for privates to 2,000 yen for top-rank officers.

But When Do We Go Back Home?

Admiral Blandy Finds That's First Thought of Navy Men on Atom Test Expedition.

Bikini, June 4 (A. P.).—Vice Admiral H. P. Blandy, commander of the joint task force for the atom tests, found out quickly today what the enlisted men of his force have on their minds.

In an informal talk with several hundred men, Blandy asked: "Is there anything you want to know about the operation?"

That brought this prompt retort in chorus:

"When do we go home,"

When the admiral asked whether anything was missing in Bikini, he got another fast answer:

"Women!"

Blandy told the men that a special service ribbon had been recommended to the Joint Chiefs of staff for the 42,000 Army, Navy and Air Force personnel taking part in the atomic bomb tests.

Indicative of increasing worry about radioactivity dangers from the atomic bomb blast, all natives have been removed from another island in the Marshalls group. The latest evacuation involved 100 men, women and children from Rongelap, eighty-five miles east of the July 1 bomb test site. The action is a precautionary move, in case the prevailing northeast trade winds should become erratic at high levels and carry the poisonous A-bomb cloud eastward over Rongelap.

The natives are being taken aboard an LST to new homes on Lae, 136 miles to the south. Among those on hand to aid the women and children was a Navy nurse, Lieut. (j. g.) Mary Helen Schenz of North Bellmore, L. I.

JUAN PERON INAUGURATED

JUN 5 1946

New Argentine President Gives International Pledge

Buenos Aires, June 4 (AP)—Juan Domingo Perón was inaugurated today as Argentina's twenty-ninth President.

The 50-year-old army officer took the oath of office before a joint session of the Chamber and Senate, declaring:

"By God and country, I swear faithfully to fill the office of President and if I fail, God and country can judge me."

He then drove through heavily guarded streets to the presidential offices. The retiring President, Edelmiro Farrell, delivered to him the staff of office and the presidential insignia.

Perón was elected for a six-year term with 304 out of a possible 376 electoral votes in the February 24 elections—the largest number ever given a presidential candidate. His opponent was Dr. Jose Tamborine, Democratic Union party candidate.

Just before the election, the United States in a Blue Book charged that Argentine leaders, among them Perón, conspired to aid the Nazis.

Perón, in his inaugural address, called for an end to the passions of the campaign—one of the hottest in Argentine history—and said he felt himself the President of all Argenties—friends and foes alike.

He pledged himself to a basic international policy of "strong, uncompromising defense of our sovereignty and the sincere fulfillment of our international obligations."

Perón, whose inauguration ended a series of military governments which have ruled the nation since the revolution of three years ago, declared Argentina always has fulfilled her international obligations, and "I am not one to break the tradition."

The inauguration of the 50-year-old army officer returned Argentina to a constitutional government. Perón took an oath "faithfully to fill the office of President, and if I fail, God and country can judge me."

He then drove through heavily guarded streets to the presidential office, where retiring President Edelmiro Farrell delivered to him the staff of office and the presidential insignia of a blue and white ribbon. Farrell then left the Casa Rosada and Perón assumed his duties.

Military Rule Ends

Perón's inauguration returned Argentina to a constitutional form of government for the first time since the military revolution three years ago. A series of military governments have ruled since then.

Perón said last night that his foreign policy would entail "jealous and firm support of our sovereignty" and "co-operation on a basis of equality with all the sister nations of the (South American) continent."

He said the revolution, which raised him from a modest post as chief of staff of Argentine mountain troops to the presidency, "must now incorporate itself into normality, making that which yesterday was adventurous and drastic into normal and fruitful permanence."

Majority In Both Houses

Perón, elected for a six-year term, won a record 304 of the 376 electoral votes in the February 24 election. His opponent was Dr. Jose Tamborini, Democratic Union candidate.

The President is supported in the Legislature by 26 of the 30 senators and 109 of the 158 representatives, while 13 of the 14 provincial governors were on his Labor ticket or favorable to his cause. He was vice president under Farrell, but resigned to run for the presidency.

The new vice president is J. Hortensio Quijano, a veteran Radical, who left his party to be Perón's running mate.

Exiled Spanish Premier Predicts Franco's Fall

Mexico City, June 4 (AP)—José Giral, Premier of the Spanish Republican Government-in-exile, predicted at a press conference that Franco would fall and that a new government might be established in Spain before the next meeting of the United Nations next fall.

He gave no details or names but said he was in a position "to assure you that such a movement is under way in Spain."

Asked the character of such a government, he replied "Liberal."

He said that in no case would the present Republican Government dissolve regardless of what government might be formed in Spain.

Sees Need For Republicans

If Franco should disappear, he predicted that "only a truly republican government such as ours would be capable of governing without unleashing another civil war."

For all practical purposes, he said, the exile government will be in France, but he declined to say that the seat of the government, now here, would be there.

The interim President and Chief of Government and most of the Ministers, he explained, have their residence in France, and he himself will leave Sunday for New York, where he will remain ten days before continuing to Paris.

Russians Accused At Canadian Trial

Montreal, June 4 (AP)—Russian officials sought the location of the atomic-bomb plant in the United States and samples of Uranium 235, a key prosecution witness testified today at the trial of Fred Rose, Communist member of the Canadian Parliament.

Rose is charged with conspiring to communicate information to Russia.

The witness, Igor Gouzenko, identified a document which he said revealed the Russians sought to get the information on the American atomic-bomb plant from an agent named "Alex."

The witness identified "Alex" as Dr. Alan Nunn May, now serving a ten-year sentence in Britain for violation of the Official Secrets Act.

Tells of Reds' Secret Radio

Witness at Rose Trial Testifies One Was Built in Embassy at Ottawa.

Montreal, June 4 (A. P.).—A secret radio for communication with Moscow was built on the third floor of the Russian embassy at Ottawa by the embassy doorman, Igor Gouzenko testified today at the conspiracy trial of Fred Rose, the only Communist Member of Parliament, who is accused of conspiracy to communicate information to Russia.

Gouzenko, who quit his post as cipher clerk at the Soviet embassy, told the jury the builder of the radio, named Gusev, was a contact man in the alleged Russian espionage ring as well as a radio engineer.

The witness said that instructions had been received from Moscow to hold the radio secretly in reserve and to use ordinary telegram and other means for communication.

Russ Atom-Data Curiosity Told

JUN 5 1946

Montreal, June 4 (AP)—Evidence indicating that the Soviet military attache in Canada was told last July—the month of the atom-bomb test in New Mexico—how much uranium was produced in North American factories was presented yesterday at the conspiracy trial of Fred Rose, Communist member of Canada's Parliament.

The trial is continuing today.

Documents Introduced

Documents presented by F. Philippe Brais, special prosecutor, and identified by Igor Gouzenko, a former clerk in the Russian Embassy at Ottawa, who said he took the documents from the Embassy last September, stated:

That information about uranium production was given to Col. Nikolai Zabotin by an agent known as "Alex." Gouzenko testified that "Alex" was Dr. Alan Nunn May, a British physicist recently sentenced in London to serve ten years for disclosing atomic secrets.

Defense Objection

Attorneys for Rose, who followed the proceedings closely, objected to the introduction of the documents, by which the prosecution said it was trying to show Russia's hunger in 1945 for in-

Sees Peacetime Use Of Atom in 5 Years

Ottawa, June 4 (A. P.).—The Canadian House of Commons gave first reading yesterday to a bill calling for establishment of a five-man atomic energy control board in Canada, after hearing C. D. Howe, Minister of Supply and Reconstruction, state that within the next five years atomic energy would be applied to peacetime uses.

"The first," he said, "will probably be the direct transference of heat, and once that has been worked out, the application will follow logically, because we are well advanced in using heat under complete control and transferring it to exact forms."

Teen-Age Draft Restored In Senate, 53 to 26, With 28-50% Service Pay Rise

JUN 5 1946

WASHINGTON, June 4—(AP)—The Senate brought a teenage inducting pay-increasing draft bill up to the brink of final action tonight only to halt work abruptly till tomorrow.

Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) explained that all-night hours might be required to dispose of a substitute proposal by Senator Revercomb (R-WVA) to continue Selective Service authority until May 15, 1947 but suspend all inductions until Congress ordered otherwise.

The Senate already had voted 53 to 26 to make all 18 and 19 year olds now temporarily exempted—subject to call and had approved pay hikes for enlisted men when Senator Gurney (R-SD), in charge of the bill, announced that it seemed impossible to get a final vote within a reasonable time.

Protests Delay

Senator Maybank (D-SC) protested vigorously against any delay, forcing a series of quorum calls.

Barkley finally moved to recess the Senate until 11 a. m. (E.S.T.) tomorrow and was sustained on a 45 to 17 roll call vote.

The pay boost proposed by Senators LaFollette (Prog-Wis) and Johnson (D-Colo) was designed to spur voluntary enlistments, would apply only to the lowest four grades of the armed services.

Pay of privates would be boosted from $50 to $75; private first class from $54 to $80; corporals from $66 to $90; and sergeants from $78 to $100. Corresponding increases would be paid to marines and sailors.

These same increases had been voted by the House along with increases ranging from 10 to 20 percent for non-commissioned and for commissioned officers.

Pass Up Officers

The Senate, however, passed up the question of pay raises for commissioned officers and adopted a lower scale of monthly pay boosts for staff, technical and master sergeants and equivalent ranks in other services than approved by the House.

Senator Gurney (R-SD) estimated the cost of the Senate-approved pay scale at $450,000,000, while Johnson placed the figure at $350,000,000.

The Senate Military committee had approved a lesser increase for starting at $65 a month for privates and apprentice seamen and Gurney attempted to amend this to provide increases for officers but the Senate instead accepted the substitute.

The only opposing votes were those of Senators Ball (R-Minn), Hart (R-Conn), Thomas (D-Utah) and Gurney.

On a standing vote, the Senate accepted an amendment by Senator Magnus (D-Wash) which would give special deferments to scientific students in accredited schools. Senator Austin (R-Vt) said there is ample provision in the law for deferring essential scientists.

Eliminate Fathers

The Senate by voice vote also wrote into the bill a prohibition against induction of men with dependent children, including foster or adopted children.

Then the chamber drove on toward a vote on the broader controversy over extending the Selective Service act until May 15, 1947, or depending upon volunteer enlistmens alone.

The decision on the teenagers came when the Senate approved an amendment by Senator Gurney (R-S.D.), who said induction of the youths was necessary if fathers and persons who have served in the armed forces more than 18 months are to be discharged this fall.

If the extension measure itself wins Senate passage, it must return to the House for action. That branch, in voting the draft a nine-month lease on life, decided to exempt the teenagers.

Draft Ends July 1

Meantime Selective Service is operating under a temporary extension until July 1. This stop-gap measure provides that 18 and 19 year old youths shall not be inducted, a stipulation that was inserted on the insistence of a House majority.

During today's debate, Senator Stanfill (R-Ky.) argued against the teenage draft, appealing to his colleagues not to introduce "impressionable youths "to adult life through Army sergeants."

Senator LaFollette (Prog.-Wis.) argued for a return to the volunteer system, saying:

"If ever we are going to get rid of the military hangover of conscription now is the time to cut loose."

He ridiculed any idea that this nation's strength internationally depends upon a "few additional conscripts made up largely of 18 year old boys."

Senator Austin (R-Vt.) argued, on the other hand, for full extension until May 15 of next year, including 18 and 19 year olds.

He said failure to do so would "weaken" this country and amount to "turning its back" upon solemn international commitments.

Senators Agree On Higher Pay In Draft Fight

JUN 5 1946

Washington, June 4 (AP)—The Senate gingerly set itself today for a new try on deciding the future of the draft, but the only advance agreement was that those in the armed forces should get more money.

Senator Gurney (R., S.D.), floor leader for a proposed extension of selective service until May 15, 1947, said that both House and Senate are "certain" to approve a pay-increase proposal.

Senator Wherry (R., Neb.), Republican whip who wants to suspend all inductions, said "a majority of the Senate is agreed upon pay increases."

The Amount Is Lone Issue

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Col.), who wrote the stop-gap extension under which selective service is operating until July 1, said the "only argument on pay is as to the amount."

Johnson added that he was "puzzled" why the Senate, after weeks of planning, suddenly put aside the politically hot draft legislation in midafternoon yesterday under agreement to take it up again today.

"We could have finished the bill," he said. "There is no reason I know why it should not have been finished."

Gurney made a long speech in favor of continuing selective service until May 15 of next year, with draft of 18 and 19 year olds, now excluded from inductions by demands of a House majority.

Vandenberg's Reaction

Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) noted the lack of peace treaties with Austria and Italy and observed that our armed forces in Europe had been cut to a "very dangerous minimum."

Senator Smith (R., N.J.) announced that he favored the extension, including induction of 'teen-agers, even though this would include his own 18-year-old grandson.

Only one Democrat, Maybank (S.C.) joined these three Republicans in support of the extension, and Gurney surprised the Senate by suspending further action until today.

Off the floor, Gurney said he had not intended to try for a vote yesterday either on the extender bill or any of a score of pending amendments.

Wherry Expects Support

Wherry said he expected strong support for a substitute he is pressing jointly with Senator Revercomb (R., W.Va.). It would continue the selective service machinery of registration and classification but all inductions would be suspended after July 1, while service pay would be upped to encourage voluntary enlistments.

"This would keep machinery available for any emergency voted by the Congress," Wherry said. "A pay increase will attract all the volunteers that the Army, Navy and Marines say they need."

The House, which approved a nine-month extension with all inductions suspended for five months and 'teen-agers exempt, at the same time voted a pay increase ranging from 50 per cent for privates in the Army and corresponding low ranks in other services, to 10 per cent of all officers.

TRUMAN TO DECIDE ARMY-NAVY FIGHT OVER UNIFICATION

JUN 5 1946

President Notifies Service Heads of Decision After Lengthy Session.

SECRETARIES SILENT

Patterson and Forrestal Admit Meeting Was 'Very Interesting.'

WASHINGTON, June 4. — (AP) President Truman notified the Army and Navy today that he will resolve the differences between them on unification.

This was reported by White House press secretary Charles G. Ross who said the President had "a very constructive session" with the secretaries of War and Navy and other top officers.

"The points of difference were taken under advisement by the President who will render his decision upon them," Ross told reporters. "He will decide what form of unification will be the policy."

'Interesting Discussion'

The session lasted 90 minutes. Neither War Secretary Patterson nor Navy Secretary Forrestal would comment beyond saying it was a very interesting and full discussion.

Ross told the press later:

"They had what the president described as a 'very constructive' session."

Ross added that all the points of disagreement were "thoroughly discussed by both sides" and were then taken under advisement by the President.

Ross could not be specific as to the form the President's decision might take, nor could he say whether it would go to Congress in the form of a new bill.

Others at Meeting

In addition to the Navy and Army secretaries, those participating in the conference were General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army Chief of Staff; Admiral Chester Nimitz, Chief of Naval Operations; Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, the President's military aide; Admiral William D. Leahy, the President's chief of staff and Capt. Clark Clifford, the President's naval aide.

In response to a question, Ross said that "all of this is moving toward unification."

Later Ross said that after the President "has resolved these points of difference his ideas will be the joint views of the Army and Navy and be presented to Congress in the regular way through appropriate committees as the basis of legislation."

Ross would not predict when this will be accomplished. There was general belief that many of the differences between the armed services have been ironed out during the past several weeks.

The War department has been advocating a single department under which the Army, Navy, and Air force would function as co-equal units.

The Navy is understood to favor retention of the present departmental set-up with an over-all coordinator operating under the president.

Other differences are reported to involve the future status of the Marines and retention by the Navy of control over its land based patrol planes.

U. S. TURNS OVER AZORES AIRPORT TO PORTUGUESE

JUN 5 1946

We Will Have Transit Use of Base for 18 Months, Byrnes Announces.

NO PERMANENT SITE ASKED

Secretary Denies U. S. or Britain Sought Peacetime Bases—British Also Leaving.

Washington, June 4 (A. P.).—The United States has returned to Portugal its strategic wartime airport in the Azores, but is retaining transit use for eighteen months.

This was announced today by Secretary of State Byrnes. His statement said the eighteen months' use provision was made because of the maintenance of lines of communication with American occupation forces in Germany and Japan.

The British Government announced last night that it was returning its Azores base to Portugal with an eighteen months' transit right.

Reports have long been current that the United States and Britain have been seeking peacetime air bases in the Azores. Byrnes denied these reports today, in a news conference.

Byrnes's announcement said:

"Under a wartime agreement made with the Portuguese Government on November 20, 1944, the United States and Portugal constructed at Santa Maria Island in the Azores a modern and complete airport which played an important role during world war II.

"With the expiration of this wartime agreement the airport has been returned to the Portuguese Government for conversion to peacetime uses.

"Meanwhile, however, the United States will be permitted the continued transit use of airports in the Azores for eighteen months to maintain lines of communication with its occupation forces in Germany and Japan."

Cost $10,000,000.

Byrnes told reporters he believes the American investment in the Azores base was about $10,000,000.

Byrnes covered these other points at his news conference.

1. He still hopes that the four occupying Powers in Germany will make an investigation of German demobilization as was proposed at the Foreign Ministers Conference in Paris.

2. The United States is making available 60,000 tons of coal to France for June from American military reserves in Germany. This is to help make up a deficit in French coal supplies. (This had previously been announced by the British as part of a general scheme to bolster French coal supplies.)

3. The United States has submitted proposals to Britain, France and Russia for a peace treaty for Austria in the form of a draft treaty. Byrnes would not disclose details.

4. Byrnes has no information to show that Britain intends to drop its requirement for disarming of belligerent factions in Palestine prior to admittance of 100,000 Jews proposed by an Anglo-American Palestine Commission.

Hawaii Statehood Unlikely in 1946

Washington, June 4 (A. P.).—No congressional action on statehood for Hawaii will be taken this year unless there is a special session of Congress this fall.

The House Territories Committee agreed in a closed-door session today, Chairman Hugh Peterson (D.-Ga.) told reporters, to spend the remainder of the year "perfecting the record" by including with the testimony taken by a subcommittee in Hawaii last winter the communications, resolutions and statements received from all sections of the nation on the Hawaiian statehood question.

There will be no further formal hearings this year, Peterson said, unless a special session of Congress is called this fall. Present plans call for sine adjournment of the Seventy-ninth Congress in July.

WASHINGTON POST PUBLISHER NAMED WORLD BANK HEAD

JUN 5 1946

WASHINGTON, June 4. — (AP) The world bank today elected its first president — Eugene Meyer, publisher-editor of the Washington Post, one-time private banker and first board chairman of the RFC.

A strong advocate of loans to wartorn countries as a key to reconstruction abroad and business expansion at home, Meyer declared in a statement:

"The world is well aware today of the food famine. At the same time we must become equally aware that the world is starving for the products of industry.

"The bank was organized to promote reconstruction and development in both these essential activities."

Stepping at 70 into the role of global banker to cap a distinguished pr[illegible]vate and public career, Meyer promised to "devote my full energies" to the 38 - nation, $7,670,000,000 lending agency.

To Quit as Editor

The United States member of the bank's directorate, Emilio Collado, said he understood Meyer would retain ownership of the Washington Post but not the editorship, and will "not be responsible for its editorial policy." Meyer did not comment on this.

Unanimously, the 12 executive directors of the international bank for reconstruction and development chose Meyer at their morning session. The news quickly leaked, and was formally announced at a news conference held by Collado later.

Subsequently the White House disclosed that President Truman had suggested Meyer's name and was "delighted at the selection."

The bank presidency pays $30,000 a year tax-free, more than any U. S. official receives except Mr. Truman. The same salary goes to Camille Gutt of Belgium, head of the international monetary fund.

Both fund and bank were conceived at Bretton Woods, N. H., in 1944, and organized at the Savannah, Ga., international monetary conference two months ago. The bank's role is to lend funds for the reconstruction of war - shattered economies; the fund is to stabilize world moneys by short-term loans of currency; both are intended to foster world trade.

Election of an American was a foregone conclusion, for the nations tacitly agreed at Savannah that the country contributing most to the bank's multi-billion-dollar assets—and thus taking the biggest risk if there are defaults—should have the top job.

Selection a Surprise

But Meyer's selection was a surprise. Far-ranging speculation has touched on Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, Secretary of the Treasury Vinson, Reserve Board Chairman Marriner Eccles and others, but missed the publisher entirely.

Preparing to take office in a few days, Meyer issued a statement saying he was "honored" by the election and felt "a profound sense of responsibility."

Meyer gave a strong clue to his views on foreign lending last Thursday in testimony favoring the British loan, before the House Banking committee. The whole future economy of America depends on restoration of world trade, he said.

The publisher declared this country's depression of 1919-20 stemmed largely from failure to give financial aid to the recovery of our former allies. He harked back to testimony he gave then and, he said, still applicable:

"Unless we extend credits to them (war-torn foreign countries) they will be unable to buy from us largely until they can restore their exports and sell to us and to others."

Jesse Jones Sees Road to Ruin In British Loan

Fears Exclusive Alliance With Empire; Czechs and Chinese Expect Credits

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP).—Jesse Jones, spearheading the opposition to the $3,750,000,000 British loan agreement, declared today it would carry the United States "along the road toward financial ruin" and put it into an exclusive alliance with the British empire.

"We cannot stay strong if we continue to print dollars and scatter them to the four winds," the former Secretary of Commerce said in a letter to Brent Spence, Democrat, of Kentucky, chairman of the House Banking Committee.

Meanwhile Vladimir Hurban, retiring Czechoslovakian Ambassador, disclosed that his country is seeking a $300,000 loan and he expects it soon. And Wei Tao-ming, the Chinese Ambassador, said virtual agreement has been reached for an extensive American credit to China; it has been reported at $500,000,000.

These two loans would be made by the Export-Import Bank and would not require specific Congressional approval, as does the proposed advance to Britain. The Ambassadors discussed the prospects with reporters at the State Department.

Want Collateral Put Up

Mr. Jones, former head of the huge government lending agencies, wrote that he is willing to help the British "to the extent we can afford to help them," but he feels America should demand that Britain put up collateral as security.

"We have fought two mean wars at the expense of millions of our best men and most of our stores and twice have saved the British Empire," Mr. Jones declared. "Now we are called upon in addition to sacrifices already made, including some $25,000,000,000 of lend-lease labor and materials for which we will get nothing, again to save the empire. . . .

"We must, of course, be friendly to and with the British, but we have already given them enough. If the loan is made as now proposed, it will, in all probability, prove to be another gift. Certainly, in addition, it will be a definite alliance with the British to the exclusion of other countries. That fact cannot be successfully denied."

A considerable portion of the House Banking Committee's loan consideration has been given to a discussion whether it would result in two world economic blocs—Britain and America on one hand and Russia on the other.

Eric Johnston Backs Loan

Supporting the loan, Eric Johnston, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, wrote to Mr. Spence that "the adoption of this agreement by Congress will have a salutary effect upon the whole American economy."

"For generations," he said, "Great Britain has been the principal trading country of the world. Before the recent war, the British people bought one-fifth of all the goods exported in the world. They were the largest single customers for American goods. They bought . . . a variety of products which this nation produced in surplus quantities. We shall need this outlet in the post-war period. . . .

"If Britain, the key nation in world trade and our best customer, can be placed in a position to remove exchange controls, quotas, preferences and other discriminatory practices, this fact will greatly expand world trade. The proposed agreement is the best and most practical means for bringing this about."

Jones's Points Against Loan

Mr. Jones gave these six specific points against the proposed loan:

1. It is unfair to the American people.

2. It is questionable whether the full amount is needed.

3. The deal is "most unbusinesslike."

4. "It sets a bad precedent. It forms an alliance with the British that we are unwilling to form with other countries, notwithstanding our advocacy and participation in the United Nations."

5. It continues to increase the United States debt "when we should be decreasing it. It carries us along the road toward financial ruin. It is a loan without collateral where collateral is available. The loan even if met 100 per cent, which it will not be, will cost the American people many hundreds of millions of dollars."

6. The loan agreement gives no guaranty to the elimination of empire preference trading, "a practice which is to our detriment."

Wants Money Spent in U. S.

"If your committee and the House of Representatives will truly represent the thought and wishes of the great majority of the American people," Mr. Jones wrote, "you will, in my unqualified opinion, amend this bill to require that any money for which security is not given be spent in this country principally for our surplus farm products.

"This will give the British the help they say they need and would be helpful to our farmers and workers even though in the last analysis, the taxpawer will foot the bill."

Atomic Energy Research Job Assigned to G. E.

JUN 5 1946

Company Signs Contract With Army for Operation of Huge Hanford Plant

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 4. — A major step toward putting the atom to work for the benefit of humanity was taken tonight when the War Department announced a contract with the General Electric Company for "an extensive research program" in atomic energy.

Under the contract, G. E. will take over from E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., the operation of the government's $347,000,000 plant at Hanford, Wash., about Sept. 1.

"It was at the urgent request of the government at a time of national emergency," the announcement said, "that the Du Pont company undertook the design, construction and operation of the Hanford works.

"The work was undertaken with the intention expressed to the War Department of retiring from the program as soon after the hostilities as was consistent with the government's plans. This decision was based on the fact that this program, in its peace-time aspects, lies primarily in the field of power generation and only to a limited extent in the chemical field in du Pont has always worked. At the request of the Army the contract for operation of Hanford was extended until Dec. 31, 1946, with a provision that it could be terminated at an earlier date."

A statement by Charles E. Wilson, president of G. E., said the company accepts the responsibility because "it is of termendous importance to our national interest that we maintain and develop still further our country's pre-eminence" in the field of atomic energy, having in mind both its military applications and its tremendous peace-time potentialities lar to that with du Pont in that the fee for all work to be performed is $1. The government will retain control of the plant.

The Hanford works will be operated by a manager with an advisory committee consisting of H. R. Winne, vice-president in charge of engineering policy; Dr. C. G. Suits, vice-president and director of the General Electric Research Laboratory, and Dr. Zay Jeffries, vice-president and general manager of the G. E. chemical department.

Colonel Frederick J. Clarke, area engineer, Hanford Engineer Works, in a statement said that G. E. hopes to retain the present working force, under substantially the same conditions of employment.

Statistics On Diseases

The statistics for diseases were as follows:

Common respiratory diseases, 167 case per 1,00 men a year, compared to 324 in World War I, veneral diseas, 53 to 87; mumps, 4.3 to 56; measles, 3.1 to 24; diarrheal diseases, 21.4 to 22; pneumonias, 10.9 to 19; tuberculosis, 1.1 to 9.4; scarlet fever, 1.2 to 2.1.

The incidence of malaria was much higher in the recent war than in the first World War, the figures showing 18.9, compared to 3.8, in the last war.

New Maryland Center Planned

Surgeon General Kirk, at a news conference held during the exhibit, disclosed proposed plans of his department to establish an "army medical research and graduate training center" at Forest Glen, Md.

He said he envisioned it as a "national research institute" that would give the geenral public, the Veterans Administration and the medical profession—as well as the Army itself—the benefits of army medical research. The program must first be approved by the War Department and by Congress.

Kirk said his department also hopes for the ultimate establishment of a school of "global medicine"—a science born of global warfare as American troops pushed into remote corners of the Arctic and the tropics and encountered little-known maladies.

bill to the floor but has approved several amendments.

Bowles said these proposed changes would:

1. Raise the price of meat 40 or 50 per cent by the first of September.

2. Make the dairy product price increases authorized last week "only a curtain raiser to what lies ahead."

3. Make it impossible to hold rents at present levels.

4. Hike clothing prices ten per cent, adding "more than a billion dollars" a year to the public's apparel bill.

Flour Reduction Foreseen

5. Cut down the amount of flour for bread at home and trim grain shipments for famine relief.

Bowles, who reportedly is planning to resign if legislation now shaping up is finally approved, said he believes the bill the Senate committee will recommend "is flatly and absolutely impossible."

"No honest man would attempt to administer it," he declared.

"If we intend to sell out the public interest in an effort to please the pressure groups, let's be honest about that. Let's eliminate price and rent control once and for all."

"If all the people who say they are for it are here to vote for it, we'll carry that amendment," he asserted.

Chairman Wagner (D., N.Y.) called the Banking Committee together with the announced intention of seeking reversal of its previous decision to take price controls off meat and dairy products July 1.

Proxy Of Glass Lost

Although Wagner said he has reason to believe the previous two-vote margin favoring such action will melt away, Senator Taft (R., Ohio) observed that he knew of no change in the lineup. Since the earlier vote, the Administration has lost the support of a proxy from the late Senator Carter Glass (D., Va.).

With Republicans pushing for still further dilution of the OPA authority, Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) said he hopes President Truman will turn on the steam to save price controls.

Pepper's Declaration

"If Congress passes the bill in the form now before the committee, it would be the same thing as passing a law to cut wages ten per cent," the Florida Senator declared.

Pepper added that if Congress doesn't stand up against "economic pressure groups" he charged are trying to destroy price control, "we can't expect labor not to remonstrate."

1—The new winter wheat crop, which has started coming in in Texas and Oklahoma, is running : per cent above pre-harvest expectations.

2—The Department of Agriculture drafted a plan for dipping into foreign relief wheat stocks to relieve conditions in the most acute bread shortage areas in the country.

Worst We Now

Herman Steen, executive secretary of the Millers National federation, said "this is the worst week the millers will have." Beteen 80 and 90 per cent of the nation's flour mills will shut down because of lack of wheat to grind into flour, he said.

He added, however, that the winter wheat harvest started in the Southwest in mid-May with excellent yields. He predicted the acute shortage would be considerably relieved by mid-to late July as more of the new crop reaches the mills.

The wheat harvest will run into September, moving gradually northward, with the grain being made available to the mills as it is harvested.

However, Steen said he saw no immediate boost in bread output, even if the government's plan for lending foreign-consigned wheat to mills "proves workable."

Red Tape Hinders

He said "government red tape," shipping the grain from elevators to the mills, getting the right "blend" for bread flour and delivering the flour to the bakers, would require a time lag of two or more weeks.

Under the government "loan" plan, a domestic mill qualifying for such wheat could get only enough to bring its supply up to one-half of its June allotment for domestic sale. Under a previous department order, domestic mills this month are allowed to distribute only 75 per cent, as much flour as the monthly average of 1945.

Although the prospect of relief was in sight, scarcely any city was without a bread shortage. With new supplies cut off or reduced to a trickle, sources in the baking industry said, most bakeries have had to dip into their own dwindling flour reserves for their current output.

Bread Gone by Noon

The Food Distributors association of Illinois said bread was "disappearing by noon" in bakeries and stores in Chicago and other Illinois cities.

In Minneapolis-St. Paul, large wholesale bakeries reported they were down to a two weeks reserve of flour stocks, compared with a normal four weeks supply. Smaller retail bakeries said they had a one week supply.

At Kansas City, Jess B. Smith, manager of the Associated Millers of Kansas Wheat, said a "very critical" situation would result in bread flour from June 10 until the new wheat crop is available about July 1.

A spokesman for a large grocery chain in New York said he feared some bakeries would be forced to stop producing bread for a short time because of the flour shortage.

Early morning purchases by housewives depleted supplies.

Threaten to Strike

The Washington, D. C. local of the International Bakers and Confectionery Workers union threatened to strike within 48 hours unless more flour was made available. The union had set a walkout for today in protest against lowered earnings due to curtailed production, but deferred a shutdown at the request of the Senate Small business committee.

The bread supply in northern California groceries has been disappearing by about noon. Flour mills in the area have been operating three days a week. Southern California bakeries will exhaust their flour reserves between June 20 and July 10 unless new supplies are received.

Detroit bakeries reported they were operating at "less than 70 per cent of normal" with only a two weeks flour supply on hand.

Ralph S. Herman, vice president of the General Mills' Eastern division, indicated he anticipated little relief for the flour mills from the government's wheat loan plan. He told a meeting of New York state bakers that "the June situation is critical and there is only a slight ray of hope for July. All pipe lines to the mills are dry and it will take a little time for wheat, after it starts moving, to reach the mills."

Sees Six Weeks Lag

Lawrence H. Miller, president of the New York State Association of Retail Bakers, said in an interview that "we can't expect anything better before six weeks."

Walter Sands, president of the New England Flour Distributors, said that UNRRA purchases of wheat at 30 cents more per bushel than private buyers could pay constitutes a "government sponsored black market" and predicted that "at least 90 per cent" of New England's bakeries will be closed by June 15.

Sands said most warehouses supplying bakeries have been out of flour "for a minimum of two weeks."

Malcolm McCabe, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Retail Groceries and Provision Dealers' association, reported a sharp decline in the rush for bread and reiterated a plea that housewives refrain from hoarding. He said Massachusetts stores have about a 60 per cent normal bread supply.

Big Flour Mills in Buffalo Grind Wheat for Export Only

All Production for Consumption Within United States Will End Soon Unless CCC Allots Some Grain.

Buffalo, June 4 (A. P.).—Flour mills in Buffalo, the world's largest milling-center, continued to grind flour for export today, but production of flour for consumption within the United States was nearing an end, milling executives have declared.

Spokesmen for the mills said that production of flour for export is the only thing that keeps the mills operating here. They asserted that most mills have used up practically all of the available wheat that can be made into flour for domestic consumption.

A complete shutdown of some mills in Buffalo in the next ten days appeared certain, the spokesmen added, unless wheat is obtained from the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Local grain men said they do not know how much grain they could obtain under the Agriculture Department's program to lend wheat to mills. Meanwhile, Lawrence H. Miller of Buffalo, acting president of the New York State Association of Manufacturing Retail Bakers, predicted that all bakeries in the State may soon close one day a week, and possibly two days, because of the lack of flour.

Outlook Not Bright.

"The outlook is not promising," he told the association's fiftieth

GI's Health Better Than In Last War

Washington, June 4 (AP)—The health of American soldiers during the past war was better than during the first World War, figures from the Army Surgeon General's office show.

Statistics on disease incidence for the army up to the first of this year were disclosed yesterday in a preview of an exhibit to be presented to the American Medical Association in San Francisco next month.

Disease, Wound Figures

Figured on a basis of per thousand troop-strength per year, the record shows:

The over-all disease rate was 649 in the World War II, compared with 852 in World War I, and the death rate from disease was 0.62 compare with 41.6.

Battle wounds and injuries took the same toll in each war—112 out of evcry 1,000 combat troops per

Bowles Calls Price Proposals A 'Fraud Against The People'

JUN 5 1946

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Chester Bowles tonight assailed pending Senate price control legislation as a "monstrous thing" which would "be enough to wreck our hopes of stability and full production."

The stabilization director, in a broadcast address, asserted that a price law with amendments which have been approved by the Senate Banking Committee "would be an outright fraud against the people of this country."

Addressing himself particularly to veterans and their families, Bowles said he will urge President Truman "with all the vigor at my command" to veto "in clear and ringing terms" any bill even resembling the previously approved House measure or the Senate committee proposals.

"A Cruel Deception"

"I cannot speak for the President of the United States," Bowles declared, "but it is my personal opinion that passage of such a bill would be a cruel deception."

The Senate Banking Committee has not yet reported a price-control

Thomas To Push Farm Price Move

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Chairman Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.) of the Agriculture Committee claimed 50 Senate votes for his proposal to wipe out price controls on all basic farm commodities.

As the Senate Banking Committee met for the first of its showdown sessions on a bill to extend OPA's life for a year beyond June 30, Thomas said an unofficial canvass by farm organization leaders showed a majority of the Senate against continuing agriculture price controls.

Set To Urge Amendments

Thomas said once the bill is reported out to the floor he will press his amendment to lift the ceilings from cotton, corn, wheat, tobacco, rice, peanuts, livestock, milk, dairy products, poultry and fish.

FLOUR SHORTAGE HAS HIT 'BOTTOM,' MILLERS REPORT

New Wheat Crop Above Expectations; Plan to Dip Foreign Relief Wheat.

CHICAGO, June 4 — (AP) The nation has struck "bottom" in the current domestic flour shortage, the Millers National Federation said today, and a gradual easing of the critical bread shortage may start in two or three weeks.

There were two signs the nation's worst bread famine soon will be [illegible] the same. They were:

annual convention here yesterday. "Some bakeries already are closing one day a week and all may eventually close two days a week, and take one to two weeks' vacation beginning July 1."

Harry C. Lautensack, president of the eastern division of General Mills, Inc., which operates the Washburn-Crosby mill, the nation's largest flour mill, said in a statement:

"The Washburn-Crosby mill still is operating at a reasonable rate on domestic and expert commitments. We hope to continue to do so as long as supplies of wheat are available."

Lautensack added that the Washburn-Crosby mill was a little better situated than other mills because it closed for repairs from May 19 to May 27 which "permitted us to extend our inventories."

A spokesman for Pillsbury's Buffalo mill, the city's second largest, said "we are scraping the bottom of the bin" on wheat that can be made into domestic flour.

An executive of International Milling Company's Buffalo mill, third largest in the city, said that within two weeks mills in Buffalo would be in a desperate situation because of lack of wheat.

The Standard Milling Company said it expects to close its Buffalo mill before the end of this week.

U.S. Fighting Gangs Smuggling Tires

Washington, June 4 (AP)—A high Justice Department official disclosed today that smugglers are attempting to run tires into Mexico from the United States for sale at prices as much as double their cost in this country.

The border patrol and the customs patrol have smashed one ring, seized some members of two others and captured three trucks loaded with new tires and tubes since March 18, this official said. He added:

"The smuggling of automobile and truck tires across the international boundary started with the beginning of tire rationing. But then the tires were slipped from Mexico into El Paso, Texas, and other United States cities. Now, the scarcity and higher prices of tires prevailing in Mex[illegible] have changed the direction of [illegible] smuggling."

Gold Teeth Trip One Man

The official gave this account of how a smuggler's wide grin and three gold teeth resulted in the arrest of a member of one ring and the capture of a truckload of tires and tubes:

Border Patrol Inspectors Marland W. Spicher and Frank O. Cowan were parked in a patrol car along the international boundary near El Paso when they saw a truck approach and disappear behind a feed barn.

The truck soon reappeared and headed for Mexico. The officers gave chase on a narrow, rutted road. When the truck driver looked back, the inspectors—about 50 feet behind—saw a gleam of gold teeth in his mouth.

Anti-Bikini Suit Is Filed

Washington, June 4 (AP)—James J. Regan, Jr., a Philadelphia lawyer, has filed a taxpayer's suit seeking to block the use of naval vessels in the Bikini atom bomb tests, scheduled for about July 1.

Regan, in an action filed in District Court, contends the destruction of navy ships is prohibited by law. Defendants include Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Gen. Carl Spaatz and Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy.

Two Dead in Crash Of Navy Plane

Pensacola, Fla., June 4 (A. P.).—A Navy flying boat which crashed late yesterday on the Bay south of Pensacola carried two officers to their death and resulted in serious injury to a third. Officers at the naval air station here listed the dead as Lieut. Franklin Raymond Chic of Milwaukee, and Lieut. James L. Garafolo of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

British War Bride Comes To U.S. At Last

New York, June 4 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Garrett, 23-year-old British war bride who several times changed her mind about joining her American husband, former Tech. Sergt. John Garrett, of Orlando, Fla., arrived today by plane.

Mrs. Garrett was due to leave England last February but at the last minute decided to remain there. Yesterday, she again decided not to make the trip but changed her mind just before the plane took off.

She said of her husband: "I've [illegible] to find him and decide what we'll do. He didn't want to come to England and I didn't want to come to America."

Mrs. Garrett, who hasn't seen her husband since last July, left by rail for Florida.

SECOND NIGHT LEAD BEVIN (320)
BY GLENN WILLIAMS

LONDON, JUNE 4-(AP)-FOREIGN SECRETARY ERNEST BEVIN DECLARED TODAY THAT RUSSIAN IDEAS OF SECURITY AND DEMOCRACY CONSTITUTED "ONE OF THE GREATEST OBSTACLES TO PEACE," AND SAID PERMANENT PEACE IN EUROPE COULD BE ASSURED "ONLY IF RUSSIA ENTERS FREELY INTO THE EUROPEAN SETTLEMENT."

BEVIN, REVIEWING THE DEADLOCKED PARIS FOREIGN MINISTERS CONFERENCE, URGED THE SOVIET UNION TO RECONSIDER ITS REJECTION OF THE AMERICAN PLAN FOR A FOUR-POWER PACT TO CONTROL GERMAN ARMAMENTS, AND TO GRASP THAT "GREAT OPPORTUNITY" BEFORE IT WAS TOO LATE.

"I SAY TO THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT THAT IF YOU VALUE PEACE ABOVE ALL ELSE, DO NOT MISS IT: IT MAY NEVER COME AGAIN," THE FOREIGN SECRETARY DECLARED IN A SPEECH TO THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

"IF WE DON'T WANT TO HAVE TOTAL WAR WE MUST HAVE TOTAL PEACE," BEVIN ASSERTED.

LOOKING TOWARD A RESUMPTION OF THE FOUR-POWER TALKS JUNE 15, BEVIN SAID HE PROPOSED "TO MAKE ANOTHER EFFORT AT AGREEMENT BEFORE DECIDING ON ANY FINAL ALTERNATIVE COURSE." IF THE TALKS FAILED, HE SAID, HE WOULD INSIST UPON ADOPTION OF THE AMERICAN PROPOSAL TO PLACE THE DISPUTED EUROPEAN TREATIES BEFORE A 21-NATION GENERAL PEACE CONFERENCE.

REPLYING TO SOVIET FOREIGN MINISTER V.M.MOLOTOV, BEVIN DECLARED THAT "ONE OF THE GREATEST OBSTACLES TO PEACE" WAS THE SOVIET IDEA THAT THE RUSSIAN METHOD ALONE REPRESENTED DEMOCRACY, ALONG WITH THE IDEA THAT RUSSIA COULD HAVE SECURITY "ONLY WHEN EVERY OTHER COUNTRY IN THE WORLD HAS ADOPTED THE SOVIET SYSTEM." HE VIGOROUSL DENIED THE EXISTENCE OF ANY BRITISH-AMERICAN BLOC.

BEVIN ALSO PUT FORTH HIS OWN IDEA OF A FEDERATION OF GERMAN STATES, WHICH HE DECLARED WOULD BEST FIT INTO A LONG-RANGE PLAN FOR INTERNATIONAL CONTROL. HE SAID BRITAIN WAS WILLING TO SEE THE SAAR GO TO FRANCE, BUT THAT IT LOOKED UPON THE RUHR VALLEY AS A GREAT POTENTIAL FOR PEACE AND RAISING STANDARDS OF LIVING THROUGHOUT EUROPE. HE SUGGESTED THE RUHR MIGHT BECOME A SEPARATE PROVINCE UNDER INTERNATIONAL CONTROL, TO BE FITTED ULTIMATELY INTO FEDERAL GERMANY.

THE FOREIGN SECRETARY, REFERRING TO THE RUSSIAN ATTITUDE IN THE PARIS CONFERENCE, SAID: "IT IS DIFFICULT FOR US TO ACCEPT THE RULE OF ONE PARTY OR ONE NATION. IT IS AN INTOLERABLE SITUATION AND WE SHALL NEVER GET PEACE IF THAT GOES ON." #

"WE CANNOT GO ON IN A STATE OF WAR FOREVER," BEVIN ASSERTED.

"I DON'T DENY THE RIGHT OF RUSSIA TO PURSUE HER OWN WAY OF ACHIEVING AN INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTION, BUT FOR US IN THIS COUNTRY WHO STARTED OUR INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTION OVER 150 YEARS AGO, TO ADOPT THE RUSSIAN METHOD WOULD REALLY BE RETROGRESSIVE AND NOT REPRESENT PROGRESS.

Damascus, Syria, June 4-(AP)-President Beshara El Khoury of Lebanon will visit Turkey next week in what informants here said would be an effort to smooth the way to draw Turkey into a Middle Eastern bloc of Arab nations.

Delegates from the seven states of the Arab league, representing practically all the Middle East except Turkey, will meet in extraordinary session to discuss Palestine Saturday at Bludan near Damascus.

MAKE THE TRIP TO ANKARA

Beshara El Khoury will visit the Syrian capital offidally on Friday in a visit which will complement that made last march by Former Premier Nuri Es Said Pasha of Iraq, who is believed to have acted as an intermediary for Syria.

Turkish-Syrian relations are believed to have been discussed at the conference of Arab leaders in Egypt last month, sources primarily interested in Arab affairs said. Apparently THE LEBANESE PRESIDENT Beshara el-Khoury will try to further reconciliation of the differences between Turkey and Syria, including the claims to disputed Hatay (Alexandretta.)

The informants said that the "terrifying" aspect of the situation is that the overtures might be taken by Russia as reason enough to deprive the Arab world of its support, if and when such Arab problems as Palestine are placed before the United Nations security council. Russian relations with Turkey have been strained in recent months.

BIKINI, JUNE 4-(AP)-VICE ADM.W.P.BLANDY'S ATOMIC TASK FORCE ALREADY IS SURVEYING THE BIKINI AREA FOR THE THIRD TEST EVEN WHILE STILL BUSY WITH PREPARATIONS FOR THE FIRST.

BLANDY SAID TODAY HE WILL GO OUT ON A DESTROYER THURSDAY TO STUDY WINDS, CURRENT AND THE OCEAN BEACH OFF THE SOUTHWEST END OF BIKINI ATOLL. HE HOPES TO LEARN IF THE AREA CAN BE USED FOR THE THIRD EXPERIMENT, TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED EARLY NEXT YEAR.

HE SAID IT MAY BE POSSIBLE TO LOCATE TARGETS SHIPS ABOUT A MILE OUTSIDE BARRIER REFFS IN APPROXIMATELY 5,000 FEET OF WATER FOR THE DEEP UNDERSEA EXPLOSION. SHIPS MIGHT BE TETHERED TO MILE-LONG HAWSERS SECURED TO BIKINI'S ISLANDS AND REEFS. OR THEY MIGHT BE KEPT ON THE TARGET BY RADIO CONTROL.

PECULIAR ACTION OF THE TIDES RUSHING IN AND OUT OF BIKINI LAGOON THROUGH PASSES BETWEEN THE REEFS COMPLICATES THE PROBLEM. THE SHELF ON WHICH THE ATOLL RESTS SLOPES DOWNWARD AT A 45-DEGREE ANGLE. BLANDY SAID DETONATION OF THE SUBMERGED BOMB TOO NEAR THE SLOPE MIGHT GIVE A HIGHLY ARTIFICIAL REACTION AGAINST THE SHIPS BECAUSE THE WALL OF THE SHELF MIGHT REFLECT THE BLAST.

WASHINGTON, JUNE 4-(AP)-AN UNRRA FOOD CONSULTANT WILL BE IN SOUTH DAKOTA LATE THIS WEEK TO DISCUSS PURCHASE OF RANGE HORSES FOR SHIPMENT ABROAD AS WORK ANIMALS AND FOR FOOD.

RANGE HORSES ARE USUALLY MILD, BUT IN SOME INSTANCES RANCHERS TURN BROKEN HORSES ON THE RANGE WHEN THEY ARE NOT NEEDED FOR RANCH.

JAMES T.BURT OF THE AGENCY'S FOOD SECTION WILL ARRIVE IN PIERRE THURSDAY, REP.CASE (R-SC) TOLD A REPORTER TODAY. GOVERNOR SHARPE WILL TAKE HIM TO CHAMBERLAIN, TO ADDRESS THE SOUTH DAKOTA STOCK GROWERS ASSOCIATION.

BURT THEN PLANS TO SPEND AT LEAST TWO MORE DAYS IN THE STATE TALKING WITH STOCKMEN AT RAPID CITY, FAITH AND BELLE FOURCHE, CASE ADDED. MONTANA STOCKMEN ARE TRYING TO ARRANGE A MEETING WITH HIM IN MILES CITY NEXT WEEK.

CASE SAID MORE THAN 130 RANCHERS HAVE WRITTEN HIM THEY WOULD LIKE TO SELL HORSES TO UNRRA FOR FOOD OR DRAFT ANIMALS IN DEVASTATED COUNTRIES, ONE SAYING HE HAS 1,000 HEAD HE MUST KILL IF HE CANNOT SELL THEM. HOWEVER, HE SAID, THE RANCHERS FEEL THE PRESENT PRICE OF A CENT TO A CENT AND A HALF A POUND IS NOT ENOUGH TO PAY FOR ROUNDING UP THE HORSES.

"THE STOCKMEN WANT FIVE CENTS A POUND," CASE EXPLAINED, "BUT CAN TAKE LESS. I HAVE BEEN TOLD BY THE OPA THAT THE PRICE COULD BE RAISED TO THREE CENTS WITHOUT UPSETTING THE BALANCE OF OTHER MEAT PRICES, AND I THINK THIS WOULD BRING IN A LOT OF HORSES."

CASE SAID THERE IS NO RELIABLE ESTIMATE OF HOW MANY HORSES ARE AVAILABLE ON THE SOUTH DAKOTA RANGES. "THE GOVERNMENT COULD GET THIS MEAT FOR LESS THAN A THIRD OF WHAT IT IS PAYING FOR BEEF," CASE COMMENTED.

RANGE HORSES AVERAGE ABOUT 1,150 TO 1,200 POUNDS, HE ESTIMATED. THEY ARE LARGE ONLY WHERE INDIVIDUAL GROWERS HAVE INTRODUCED HEAVY STRAINS OF DRAFT HORSES, SUCH AS PERCHERONS, TO BUILD THEIR HERDS.

OKLAHOMA CITY, JUNE 4-(AP)-FIORELLO LAGUARDIA LEFT FOR WASHINGTON TODAY WITH THE WORD THAT OKLAHOMA WHEAT FARMERS WERE READY TO DUMP THEIR GRAIN "ON THE GROUND" UNLESS THE GOVERNMENT CHANGES ITS REQUISITION POLICY.

A COMMITTEE OF 43 FARMERS TOLD LAGUARDIA, DIRECTOR GENERAL OF THE UNRRA, THAT UNDER THE REQUISITION POLICY THERE IS NO PROVISION TO COMPENSATE FOR FUTURE PRICE INCREASES. THE REQUISITION ORDER REQUIRES AT LEAST 90 PER CENT OF ALL WHEAT DELIVERED AT AN ELEVATOR BE SOLD TO THE COMMODITY CORPORATION AT CEILING PRICES.

SPOKESMEN FOR THE GROUP--LYLE HAGUE OF CHEROKEE, ROY BENDER OF ENID, JOHN TAYLOR OF MOUNTAIN VIEW AND FRED PERCEY OF STILLWATER--SAID THAT BEFORE OKLAHOMA FARMERS WOULD COMPLY WITH THE ORDER THEY WOULD STORE THEIR GRAIN IN "CHICKEN HOUSES, BARNS AND DUMP IT ON THE GROUND."

THEY CHARGED THE GOVERNMENT WITH GIVING SOUTHWESTERN WHEAT FARMERS A RAW DEAL BY GIVING NORTHERN FARMERS A 30-CENT A BUSHEL BONUS AND HIGHER PRICES AFTER WHEAT IN THIS AREA ALREADY HAD BEEN MARKETED.

LAGUARDIA TOLD THE GROUP AT A CONFERENCE, ARRANGED BY LEO W.SMITH, ASSISTANT DIRECTOR OF THE PRODUCTION AND MARKETING ADMINISTRATION FOR OKLAHOMA, THAT HE WOULD CARRY THEIR PLEA FOR PRICE PROTECTION TO CONGRESS AND PRESIDENT TRUMAN. LAGUARDIA LEFT FOR WASHINGTON LAST NIGHT AFTER ADDRESSING A MASS MEETING UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE FAMINE EMERGENCY COMMITTEE.

MOON BLINDNESS (280)

WASHINGTON, JUNE 4-(AP)-ARMY VETERINARIANS BELIEVE THEY HAVE DEVELOPED A MEANS OF PREVENTING SO-CALLED "MOON BLINDNESS"--AN EYE DISEASE AMONG HORSES AND MULES THAT COSTS AMERICAN HORSEMEN ALONE MORE THAN $17,000,000 A YEAR.

THIS WAS RELATED TO A REPORTER TODAY BY MAJOR T.C.JONES DURING AN EXHIBIT OF WARTIME MEDICAL DEVELOPMENTS OF AID TO MAN AND BEAST.

JONES, OF THE VETERINARIAN DIVISION OF THE ARMY SURGEON GENERAL'S OFFICE, SAID THE SCIENTIFIC NAME OF THE DISEASE IS "PERIODIC OPHTHALMIA" BUT THAT IT HAS BEEN CALLED "MOON BLINDNESS" BECAUSE OF THE ERRONEOUS SUPERSTITION OF ANCIENTS THAT IT WAS DUE TO CHANGES IN THE MOON.

HE ADDED THAT ARMY STUDIES INDICATED THE DISEASE--WHICH IS MARKED BY COMPLETE OR PARTIAL BLINDNESS--IS DIRECTLY CONNECTED WITH A DEFICIENCY OF RIBOFLAVIN (BITAMIN B-2) IN THE DIET.

WHILE SAYING THAT DIETS HIGH IN RIBOFLAVIN APPARENTLY PREVENTED DEVELOPMENT OF THE MALADY AMONG A GROUP OF ARMY HORSES STUDIED, JONES EMPHASIZED THAT RIBOFLAVIN IS NOT A TREATMENT FOR THE DEVELOPED DISEASE. HE SAID THERE IS NO KNOWN EFFECTIVE TREATMENT FOR IT.

JONES SAID THAT IN 1943 ARMY HORSES AND MULES SUFFERED A RELATIVELY HIGH INCIDENCE OF THE DISEASE AT FRONT ROYAL, VA. TO WHERE, BECAUSE GROWING CONDITIONS FOR FORAGE WERE POOR, THE ANIMALS WERE FED MORE GRAIN THAN HAY. GRAIN, HE ADDED, CONTAINS MUCH LESS RIBOFLAVIN THAN HAY.

SOME 50 OUT OF EVERY 1,000 HORSES AT THE POST WERE AFFECTED, COMPARED WITHA GENERAL ARMY RATE OF ABOUT SIX ANIMALS PER 1,000.

VETERINARIANS TOOK ONE GROUP OF 130 HORSES AMONG WHICH THE ATTACK RATE HAD BEEN HIGHEST AND FED THESE HORSES A SPECIAL DIET CONTAINING 40 MILLIGRAMS OF RIBOFLAVIN FOR A YEAR. NOT A SINGLE NEW CASE OF THE DISEASE DEVELOPED.

DURING THE SAME PERIOD, THE ATTACK RATE OF THE DISEASE AMONG OTHER HORSES ON THE POST, WHICH HAD NOT BEEN FED THE SPECIAL DIET, REMAINED THE SAME AS BEFORE.

SINCE 1944, JONES SAID, ALL HORSES ON THE POST HAVE BEEN FED THE SPECIAL RIBOFLAVIN-ENRICHED RATION AND NOT A SINGLE NEW CASE OF THE DISEASE HAS BEEN DEVELOPED.

AIR RECORDS (450)

BY EDWARD E.BOMAR

WRIGHT FIELD, DAYTON, O., JUNE 4-(AP)-TWENTY-ONE NEW WORLD FLIGHT RECORDS WERE CLAIMED TODAY BY THE ARMY AIR FORCES, INCLUDING TOP SPEEDS APPROACHING 500 MILES PER HOUR BY JET PROPELLED FIGHTER PLANES.

A POSTWAR LOCKHEED P-80 SHOOTING STAR FIGHTER AVERAGED 495 MILES AN HOUR ON ONE RECORD RUN OF 100 KILOMETERS, OR ABOUT 62 MILES, APRIL 19, IT WAS ANNOUNCED. THE FORMER MARK OF 394 MILES PER HOUR WAS SET BY MAJOR GENERAL ERNST UDET OF GERMANY IN A HEINKEL 112.

BRITISH JET PLANES HAVE EXCEEDED 600 MILES AN HOUR BUT ON A COURSE OF ONLY THREE KILOMETERS, AAF ARMY AIR SPOKESMEN SAID ATTEMPTS WOULD BE MADE LATER THIS SUMMER TO CRACK THIS RECORD WITH THE AMERICAN PLANE.

THE NEW RECORDS, WHICH WERE SET PRINCIPALLY BY JET FIGHTERS, B29 BOMBERS AND HELICOPTERS, WERE ANNOUNCED BY GEN.CARL SPAATZ, CHIEF OF AIR FORCES, AT A NATIONAL PRESS CONFERENCE AT THE AIR FORCES RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT CENTER HERE.

FORMER RECORDS, MADE BEFORE WORLD WAR TWO CHIEFLY BY GERMAN AND ITALIAN PILOTS, HAD STOOD DURING THE CONFLICT LARGELY BECAUSE MILITARY AIR FORCES WERE TOO BUSY FIGHTING TO TRY TO PUT NEW MARKS IN THE BOOK.

AFTER SPAATZ REPORTED THAT HIS FLIERS HAD ESTABLISHED A SCORE OF NEW INTERNATIONAL MARKS, THE AIR FORCES UNDERTOOK YESTERDAY AFTERNOON TO ADD FOUR MORE. TWO ATTEMPTS WERE SUCCESSFUL.

LT.COL.HENRY A.JOHNSON, TEST PILOT FOR AIR MATERIEL COMMAND, AVERAGED 462 MILES PER HOUR IN A SHOOTING STAR OVER A 1,000 KILOMETER OR 621 MILE COURSE BETWEEN WRIGHT FIELD AND ST.LOUIS, MO., AND RETURN. THIS BETTERED BOTH A RECORD BY UDET AND A 440 MILE AN HOUR RECORD SET MAY 19 IN AN IDENTICAL PLANE BY AMERICAN LT.J.L.HANCOCK.

ANOTHER RECORD CLAIMED YESTERDAY WAS 110 MILES PER HOUR IN A SIKORSKY R-5 HELICOPTER ESTABLISHED BY LT.COL.KEITH S.WILSON OVER A 12 MILE COURSE.

CAPT.JAMES M.LITTLE AVERAGED 361 MILES HOURLY OVER A 2,000 KILOMETER COURSE WITH A 2,000 POUND PAYLOAD IN A B29 BOMBER, EXCEEDING THE PREWAR RECORD OF 311 MILES SET BY GERMANY'S ERNST SEIBERT BUT FAILING TO REACH 366 MILES ESTABLISHED LAST WEEK BY LT. E.M.GRABOWSKI OF NEW YORK CITY.

LITTLE'S BOMBER ALMOST FELL TO PIECES IN THE CLOSING MINUTES OF THE FLIGHT. CIRCLING OVER NEARBY SPRINGFIELD, THE PLANE'S RIGHT OUTBOARD ENGINE THREW A PROPELLER. THE PROP HIT THE RIGHT INBOARD ENGINE, KNOCKING IT OUT.

AS LITTLE APPROACHED TO LAND, THE LEFT OUTBOARD QUIT, TOO, AND THE B29 CAME IN ON ONE ENGINE. IT LANDED SAFELY, THOUGH. OFFICIALS SAID PARTS OF THE BOMBER WERE SCATTERED OVER A WIDE AREA IN SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST SPRINGFIELD.

A FOURTH SPEED EFFORT BY A DOUGLAS A26 BOMBER WAS CANCELLED BECAUSE OF INCLEMENT WEATHER.

SPAATZ SAID ARMY AIR FORCES BEFORE THE WAR WERE FORCED BY LACK OF FUNDS TO OCCUPY "ALSO RAN" POSITIONS, BUT PROPOSED NOW TO "BREAK AND HOLD EVERY POSSIBLE INTERNATIONAL AIRCRAFT PERFORMANCE RECORD."

"THE FACT WE NOW HOLD MOST OF THE WORLD RECORDS IS AN INDICATION THAT WE HAVE THE WORLD'S BEST AIRPLANES," SPAATZ ASSERTED IN A STATEMENT. "OUR NEW RECORDS WERE NOT ESTABLISHED BY SPECIALLY BUILT AIRCRAFT. THEY ARE OUR STANDARD, CURRENTLY OPERATIONAL, PRODUCTION LINE AIRCRAFT, STRIPPED ONLY OF ARMAMENT.

"PERFORMANCE OF THESE OPERATIONAL AIRCRAFT ALREADY HAS BEEN EXCEEDED BY OUR NEWEST EXPERIMENTAL FIGHTERS."

ITALIAN REPUBLIC VOTED, KING OUSTED

Umberto Loses Crown Saturday Under Plebiscite

G. BRIA JUN 6 1946

Rome, June 5 (A.P.)—Italy's royal house of Savoy fell tonight under the weight of more than 12,000,000 votes cast against it in the weekend plebiscite when the nation chose to be a republic.

The Ministry of the Interior announced that with only a few ballots still to be counted, voters in favor of a republic led by 1,820,146. They swept the industrial and densely populated north and one section of central Italy.

Vice Premier Pietro Nenni said King Umberto II, 47, who reigned less than a month, would leave Italy on Saturday after the official verdict is announced by the Supreme Court, and probably would join his father, Vittorio Emanuele III, who abdicated May 9 and went into voluntary exile in Egypt.

Queen Leaves Capital

Queen Marie Jose, sister of Belgium's King Leopold, already has left the capital. She arrived in Naples tonight by plane with her four children and went to the Villa Maria Pia in the suburbs, where her father-in-law spent the last days before his abdication.

The Interior Ministry said the Republicans polled 12,182,855 votes, against 10,362,709 for the monarchy. All southern Italy and the islands of Sicily and Sardinia, where the kingdom was born, favored the retention of the monarchy. But the votes of the more populous north sealed the fate of the royal house which united Italy in 1870.

Umberto had campaigned actively for his throne. He had promised the voters another plebiscite later if they left him his crown. His father, who had abdicated to strengthen the Crown Prince's chances, was tainted, in the public eye, with the stigma of fascism.

Disturbances Missing

Shortly before the official announcement was to be made, police and soldiers with light tanks were deployed about the Royal Palace and the Government building. But there were no signs of disturbances. Romans generally took for granted their country's momentous decision.

Some crowds swirled through the streets of Rome, and small groups sang "Red Flag," Italian revolutionary song.

King Umberto received the news of his defeat camly, Premier Alcide de Gasperi said.

Royal Trunks Put On Cruiser

An unofficial report said Umberto would issue a farewell proclamation to the nation before he leaves Italian soil.

A dispatch from Naples said two truckloads of trunks were taken from the royal villa tonight and placed aboard the Italian cruiser Duca Degli Abruzzi, which was standing by during the day. Photographs taken by Walter Green, Associated Press photographer, were confiscated by an Italian naval officer. Green estimated there were at least 50 trunks and crates in the consignment, which included a sewing machine.

Premier de Gasperi, addressing the nation by radio, said "the King himself, faithful to his pledges, intends to set the example of placing above all other matters the interests of the nation, the pacification of the people and the strengthening of its constructive measures." He urged the nation to remain calm and respect the outcome of the vote.

Under election law, de Gasperi's six-party coalition government will remain in office until the new Constituent Assembly, chosen in an election concurrently with the plebiscite, appoints a provisional chief of state in its initial session June 24.

De Gasperi's Cabinet will submit its resignation to the chief of state, and he will appoint a new provisional government, presumably responding to party strength shown in the elections. Technically, Umberto will remain as chief of state until the Supreme Court proclaims the republic Saturday.

In returns of the national elections, de Gasperi's moderate Christian Democrat party clinched a big plurality, with the Socialists second and Communists third. The Christian Democrats will have the largest voice in the new Constituent Assembly to write a constitution.

Christian Democrats Lead

The returns gave the Christian Democrats 7,876,874 votes, the Socialists 4,606,509, and Communists 4,204,741. The Uomo Qualunque (common man) party received 1,164,152 votes, nearly as many as the fourth-place National Democratic Union, led by former Premier Vittorio Emanuele Orlando with 1,486,277. The Republican party polled 954,973.

De Gasperi, who called on Umberto earlier today, said the King "maintained the same self-control which he has always shown in these recent times" when he learned his country's decision.

Sardinia also voted for the monarchy.

Queen of Posilipo.

Queen Maria Jose, wife of Humbert, and her four children arrived at the Capohdi Chino airport in the Naples suburb tonight by plane from Rome. She was accompanied by three ladies in waiting. All went to the Villa Maria Pia at Posilipo, where King Victor Emmanuel III spent his last days in Italy before abdicating May 9.

Trucks loaded with twenty pieces of luggage from the plane went to the villa. Humbert was not with his wife.

Premier Alcide de Gasperi called on Humbert at the Royal Palace shortly before noon and immediately afterward met with leaders of the coalition government parties at the Foreign Ministry.

Middle Roaders Win.

Nearly complete returns in the concurrent Constituent Assembly election meanwhile gave De Gasperi's Christian Democrats an imposing victory. The Socialists ran second to this middle-of-the-road party and the Communists a close third.

The Ministry of the Interior announced that the Christian Democrats won 7,598,783 votes out of 21,549,002 tabulated while the Socialists polled 4,512,333 and the Communists 4,129,222.

On the basis of their present showing the Christian Democrats were expected to win about 200 of the 556 seats in the Assembly, which will write a new constitution for Italy.

Victor Emmanuel Orlando's moderate National Democratic Union continued to run fourth in the Assembly elections with 1,392,227 votes, pressed hard by the "Common Man" movement with 1,106,726, the Ministry's latest figures showed. Randolfo Pacciardi's Republicans were sixth with 954,753 votes.

First reports of serious election irregularities came from Reggio Emilia, in northern Italy. An Ansa dispatch last night said many monarchist ballots had to be thrown out when they were found so defaced as to be invalid.

Umberto's Reign

Umberto has been King for less than a month, although he has exercised the royal prerogatives for two years. His father, Vittorio Emanuele III, abdicated May 9 after a reign of 46 years and sailed with Queen Elena on an Italian cruiser to exile in Alexandria, Egypt.

When American troops captured Rome, Vittorio Emanuele designated Umberto "lieutenant general of the realm" and went into virtual retirement at a borrowed villa near Naples.

JUN 6 1946

Umberto Fought Allies

During the war Umberto commanded one of Mussolini's armies against the Allies. His father was held responsible for allowing Mussolini and his Fascist regime to gain power, entrench themselves and then embark on such adventures as the invasions of Ethiopia and Albania and the fateful alliance with Germany.

Vittorio Emanuele's abdication was a last, desperate gamble to save the crown for his son and grandson, the Prince of Naples, a nephew of another exiles monarch, Leopold of Belgium. Umberto's Queen, Marie Jose, is a sister of Leopold.

Monarchy Defeated in Italy; Humbert to Leave Saturday

G. BRIA

Rome, June 5 (A. P.).—Pietro Nenni, Socialist Vice-Premier, announced today that the republic had been voted by the Italian people and that King Humbert II would leave Italy Saturday.

With some votes still to be counted, Nenni said the republic had polled roughly 12,000,000 votes for continuance of the Monarchy. He said Humbert would leave immediately after the Supreme Court of Cassation made the formal announcement Saturday. Nenni added that the king probably would go to Egypt, where his royal parents are in exile.

At the same time Minister of Interior Giuseppe Romita, in explaining the vote, said all regions in northern Italy had v[illegible] for a republic. Central and southern Italy, with the exception of Umbria, favored the monarchy. Sicily and

Churchill Sees Seeds of War Being Sown in Eastern Europe

JUN 6 1 1946

R. W. HEELER

LONDON, June 5.—(AP) Winston Churchill charged bluntly today that "the seeds of a new world war are being sown" in Soviet-influenced areas of eastern Europe, and Prime Minister Attlee declared Russia was ignoring "the spirit" of the Potsdam agreements.

Attlee, however, said the British should not look on the present state of the world wholly pessimistically," and cautioned against "the counsel of despair that would divide Europe into two separate camps."

Churchill warned that "it cannot be in the interest of Russia to go on irritating the United States."

He said he marvelled that in the single year since the war's end, the Soviet government could "do themselves so much harm and chill so many friendships in the English-speaking world."

The Conservative leader asserted that "not only has a curtain descended from the Baltic to the Adriatic, but behind it is a broad band of territory containing nearly one third of the population of Europe, apart from Russia."

"It is here," said Churchill "that the seeds of a new world war are being sown. Behind that curtain efforts are being made to Sovietize all the Soviet occupation zone of Germany. We have to face the fact that two Germanies are coming into being."

Both Churchill and Attlee advocated a conference of the 21 belligerent nations if the "Big Four" were unable to agree on European peace treaties.

Attlee, replying to Churchill in the second day of debate on foreign policy, said the misunderstanding between Russia and the western powers "is really the iron curtain—it is a curtain between minds."

He said Russia insisted on literal and rigid interpretation of the Potsdam agreement, denying all flexibility to meet changing situations.

Attlee Says Russians Break Spirit of Pact

JUN 6 1946

Prime Minister Backs Bevin on Policy—Churchill Declares Seeds of New War Are Being Sown in East Europe.

R. W. HEELER

London, June 5 (A.P.).—Prime Minister Attlee charged in the House of Commons today that Russia has disregarded the spirit in which the Allies entered into the Potsdam agreement. He spokes after Winston Churchill had declared that "the seeds of a new world war are being sown" in the Soviet-dominated areas of eastern Europe.

In the second day of the full-dress debate on foreign policy, Attlee said that Russia had insisted on imparting to the Potsdam agreement a rigid and literal interpretation, denying all flexibility to meet the changing situation.

"I think," he declared, "that they disregard the spirit in which we entered into these things at Potsdam."

Aliens to the Sun.

One of Great Britain's greatest difficulties, he continued, is "to try to get into the minds of our Russian friends some real understanding of the way we work things in western democracies." He added: "We have to look upon the Russian people, to some extent, as if they had been born in a dark forest; they do not seem to understand the sunlight, the wind and the air of the free democracies."

Attlee defended Foreign Secretary Bevin in his policies, declaring: "The Foreign Secretary is showing the thing that is needed most of all at the present time—patience and understanding. Do not believe that we should judge the present state of the world wholly pessimistically. I believe in the overcoming of our difficulties, no one will play a greater part than Mr. Bevin."

Continued misunderstanding between Russia and the Western Powers, Attlee declared, "is really the iron curtain—it is a curtain between minds."

Referring to a statement made earlier by Churchill that Russia regards any Anglo-American agreement as sinister in motive, Attlee observed: "I entirely agree that friendship with neighbors is not 'ganging up' but I also have this to say: We don't want in any way to get exclusive friendship with the Western Powers. We are out to get an all-inclusive friendship."

Touching on Spain, Attlee commented that Great Britain must take action "best calculated to make the Spanish get rid of their present government and get a decent government in its place." But he added: "Because you get rid of one government, it does not necessarily follow that you get a better one."

He said that Germany should be treated as an economic whole. As for Western Europe, he continued, Great Britain believes in closest co-operation with all countries "and, above all, France," and in China it is British policy to do everything possible to secure conditions favorable for British trade. "We desire in the interests of the Chinese people to see the emergence as soon as possible of a strong, stable, unieted China," he said, adding that this depended on a settlement of the dispute between the Central Government and the Chinese Communists.

Churchill Lauds Policy.

Opening the second day of debate as Leader of the Opposition, Churchill declared that the Attlee Government had made an important contribution to world peace by its resolute denunciation of Communism.

"Not only has a curtain descended from the Baltic to the Adriatic, but behind it is a broad band of territory containing nearly one-third of the population of Europe, apart from Russia," the former Prime Minister declared, and added: "It is here that the seeds of a new world war are being sown. Behind this curtain efforts are being made to Sovietize all the Soviet-occupied zone of Germany.

"We have to face the fact that two Germanies are coming into being."

Warns Reds on U. S.

Sounding a warning that "it cannot be in the interest of Russia to go on irritating the United States," Churchill observed that "the American eagle is a large, strong bird with formidable beak and claws." He then drew laughter with the remark that the eagle "sits motionless, and Mr. Gromyko is sent day after day to prod him."

Churchill praised Foreign Secretary Bevin, declaring that he "has stood forth as a representative of much that is wise and courageous in the British character."

"It would be wrong to cast blame on him," Churchill said, for what he called virtual breakdown or stalemate in the concert and collaboration of the three great Powers as well as a painful decline in British influence and prestige" since the end of fighting against Germany.

Churchill applauded Britain's hands off policy in Spain, declaring the Government has shown "wise restraint in not interfering in the internal affairs of that country."

Would Admonish Franco.

"We none of us like the Franco regime," Churchill said, and drew laughter by adding: "Personally I like it as little as I like the present British administration."

Continuing, however, he added: "Between not liking the Government and trying to stir up a civil war, there is a very wide difference. I have a sort of feeling that the Spanish people had better be left to work out their own salvation.

"Even the Communists in Spain will not thank foreign governments for trying to start another civil war, and anything more silly than to tell the Spaniards that they ought to overthrow Franco, while at the same time telling them there will be no military intervention by the Allies, cannot be imagined."

Referring to suggestions that the British Ambassador be withdrawn from Spain, Churchill said: "That would only have the effect of preventing us worrying and admonishing Franco with diplomatic representations, and gradually smoothing the way for better times in Spain."

Churchill Lauds Bevin Stand On Communism

JUN 6 1 1946

London, June 5 (AP)—Former Prime Minister Winston Churchill declared in Commons today that the British Labor Government had "made an important contribution to world peace" by a "resolute denunciation of Communism."

He said, however, that Prime Minister Attlee's Government "has followed the Russian principal in foreign affairs of one party government" by not consulting opposition leaders.

Churchill, now leader of the Conservative opposition, said, however, "I am not complaining."

Praise For Bevin

Churchill, opening the second day of a foreign affairs debate, praised Laborite Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, who he said "has stood forth as a representative of much that is wise and courageous in the British character."

"It would be wrong to cast blame on him," Churchill said for what he called "virtual breakdown or stalemate in the concert and collaboration of the three great powers as well as a painful decline in British influence and prestige" since the end of fighting against Germany.

Policy On Spain

Churchill applauded Britain's hands-off policy in Spain, declaring the Government has shown "wise restraint in not interfering in the internal affairs of that country."

"We none of us like the Franco regime," Churchill said, and drew laughter with his political sally that "personally I like it as little as I like the present British administration."

"Between not liking the Government and trying to stir up a civil war, there is a very wide difference," he said.

"Their Own Salvation"

"I have a sort of feeling that the Spanish people had better be left to work out their own salvation."

"Even the Communists in Spain will not thank foreign governments for trying to start another civil war, and anything more silly than to tell the Spaniards they ought to overthrow Franco while at the same time telling theme there will be no military intervention by the Allies cannot be imagined."

Referring to suggestions that the British Ambassador to Spain, Sir Victor Mallet, should be withdrawn, Churchill said it "would only have the effect of preventing us worrying and admonishing Franco with diplomatic representations and gradually smoothing the way for better times in Spain."

Government today to take over the iron and steel industry immediately and run it as a Government concern until proposed nationalization laws can be prepared and pushed through Parliament.

"Any form of state control or public ownership that leaves the representatives of the steel monopoly entrenched in the administrative machinery is fraught with the gravest danger," the party said in a statement critical of announced plans for a Government board to supervise the industry until it is nationalized.

"The Government must not hesitate," it said. "The surest safeguard against sabotage by the steel monopolists is to requisition the industry now."

Wavell Lays Somaliland Defeat To War Cabinet

JUN 6 1 1946

London, June 5 (AP)—Field Marshal Lord Wavell blamed the British war Cabinet in a dispatch published today for actions which resulted in his troops being driven from Somaliland by a twelve-day Italian offensive in August, 1940.

The dispatch was filed a month after Mussolini's forces overran the British protectorate in East Africa, but was withheld until today.

Lord Wavell, then British commander in the Middle East and now Viceroy of India, accused the War Cabinet, then headed by Winston Churchill, of dispensing with "proper precautions" against an Italian entry into the war in an effort to appease Mussolini and keep him neutral.

The field marshal said the Cabinet policy "resulted in long delays in the arrival of reinforcements, withholding of money necessary for defenses and refusal to allow measures to be taken to establish a proper intelligence system for fear of impairing relations with Italy."

Mountbatten Hails U.S. Air Transport In War

London, June 5 (AP) — Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, Allied supreme commander for Southeast Asia, paid tribute today to American air transport in beating the Japanese in that theater.

"America's greatest contribution," he told a news conference, "was the great proportion of air transport they supplied."

The SEAC commander, in London for the victory parade on Saturday, said 200,000 Japanese were killed in Southeast Asia.

At the time of Japanese surrender, he said, the SEAC was ready for a September 9 invasion of Malaya with 250,000 men.

"It would have been an absolute pushover," said Mountbatten. "Thank God it wasn't necessary."

Iraq's Boy King Reaches London

LONDON, June 5 (AP)—Eleven-year-old King Faisal of Iraq, wearing a heavy overcoat and pink ankle-length socks, arrived in Britain today to witness Saturday's Victory Day celebration. A twenty-one-gun royal salute from Dover Castle greeted the young monarch as his destroyer entered Dover harbor. A special train carried him to London. It was reported that he would be treated for his asthma during the visit.

G. I. Fined $60 For Beatings at Lichfield Camp

P. DOANE

Testifies He Was Told To Be Tough, Says Most of Men Were Combat Shirkers

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany, June 5 (AP).—A United States Army private who testified he beat American soldier prisoners on orders from his superiors was convicted today by a general court-martial but drew the lightest sentence—a $60 fine—yet meted out in the Lichfield Detention Camp case.

The soldier, twenty-eight-year-old Private First Class William B. Norris of Mulga, Ala., a former coal miner, was not sentenced to confinement. He was ordered to forfeit $15 of his pay a month for four months. In the cases of two others convicted of beating prisoners in the camp at Lichfield, England, one drew a prison term of three years and one a term of six months.

Norris, who saw action in Normandy before becoming a Lichfield guard, testified in his own defense before the court of seven officers that he had been instructed by officers to be rough on the prisoners in the guardhouse.

He said he questioned these orders in his own mind at first, "but I saw it being done all around me and right out in the open, with officers seeing it, and it began to seem right. Since then I have come to realize I was wrong."

Norris was asked why he felt justified in beating the men.

"Well," he replied, "I knew most of these pr[illegible] were repeaters who would [illegible] into combat—who would [illegible] in the guardhouse tha[illegible]t lines—and we were following orders. I thought if we were doing wrong some one would have reported it and something would have been done about it."

The prosecutor, Captain Joseph J. Crimmins, of Yonkers, N. Y., while denying that orders from superior officers justifies illegal acts, conceded that the orders might "extenuate down to next to nothing but a token conviction." The maximum sentence would have been two years imprisonment.

In a concurrent court martial, Private First Class Thomas E. Warren, of Plainview, Texas, admitted that as a guard he beat Lichfield prisoners, but said he acted on orders from Lieutenant Granville Cubage, of Oklahoma City, who is on trial charged with authorizing the cruelties.

"Cubage told us," he testified, "if prisoners gave trouble to beat the hell out of them. He told us not to dirty our hands but to use rifle butts and billy clubs. He said if they gave us too much trouble to beat them into the the damned floor. Then when an inspector came around, Cubage told us to deny any mistreatment of prisoners and assured us this will all blow over in a few days."

In the simultaneous trial of Lieutenant W. Ennis, of Peekskill, N. Y., also accused of mistreating prisoners, Staff Sergeant James M. Jones, of Muskogee, Okla., testified that Ennis ordered guards to get as rough as possible, and that Ennis once pushed a prisoner against a wall and stood by while a guard hit him with his fists.

Jones was convicted two months ago of mistreating prisoners, and sentenced to six months' confinement.

Norris, a [illegible]-year-old former coal miner who enlisted in the Army in 1940 and saw action in Normandy before becoming a guard at Lichfield, was the third soldier convicted of cruelties there. His sentence was the lightest yet given. Two others were convicted in London. One was sentenced to three years in prison, the other six months.

Norris admitted the beatings, but contended he acted under orders of superior officers and in accordance with the general policy at Lichfield.

Earlier a soldier accused of beating guardhouse prisoners admitted the charge and said the prisoners were beaten in accord with orders from Lieut. Granville Cubage of Oklahoma City.

The soldier, Pfc. Thomas E. Warren of Plainview, Tex., was testifying in the trial of Cubage, who is accused of authorizing and aiding cruelty to prisoners in the United States Army guardhouse at Lichfield, England.

Willing to Talk.

Although warned by the military court that his answers to prosecution questions might be incriminating and that he need not answer, Warren, a former guard, said:

"I intend to tell the truth in this trial and I'll repeat these things in my own trial. Cubage told us if prisoners gave trouble to beat hell out of them.

"He told us not to dirty our hands, but to use rifle butts and billy clubs. He said if they gave us too much trouble to beat them into the damned floor. Then when an inspector came around Cubage told us to deny any mistreatment of prisoners and assured us this will all blow over in a few days."

Warren said he was warned by a Capt. Allen, who was not further identified, that if he did not follow the instructions to treat prisoners rough "you will find yourself in the guardhouse getting the same treatment yourself."

Warren told the court that when he was charged last year with a beating, Cubage "told me "I'd be backed up at that time."

A major and a sergeant, he said, gave him a false pass indicating he had not been on duty when that alleged beating occurred and he was acquitted. New charges of other beatings were brought against him later, however, and his trial is expected to be called soon.

In the simultaneous trial of Lieut. Leonard W. Ennis of Peekskill, N. Y., also accused of mistreating Lichfield prisoners, Sergt. James M. Jones of Muskogee, Okla., testified that Ennis directed guards to get as "rough as you can get" and that Ennis once pushed a prisoner up aganst a wall and stood by while a guard hit him with his fists.

JODL RECALLS ROMMEL ADVICE

T. REEDY

Hitler Warned War Was Lost, Nuernberg Court Told

Nuernberg, June 5 (AP)—Field Marshals Erwin Rommel and Karl von Rundstedt in July, 1944, urged Hitler to sue for peace because of the hopeless situation in France, Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl declared today at his war-crimes trial.

Jodl also said Hitler had decided to attack Russia in 1941 because Russia had massed troops on the German border and Hitler feared the Soviet Union was waiting only for an Allied attack before abandoning her neutrality.

Month After Invasion

Jodl said that at a conference with Hitler in July, 1944, a month after the Normandy invasion, "von Rundstedt and Rommel—Rommel particularly—stated in unmistakable language how serious the entire situation in France was. Anglo-American air forces had made a mockery of the situation, and our ground forces were powerless.

"Rommel asked Hitler: 'My Führer, have you actually imagined continuation of this war?'

"Hitler grew very angry and said very shortly:

"'That is a question which is none of your business. That is a question I will decide.'"

Rommel's Last Conference

The Allies by then had a firm foothold in France. Jodl said the conference was the last Rommel had with Hitler before being wounded by strafing, retiring in ill health and later committing suicide.

Jodl also said he was standing beside Hitler when a letter came from Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge, who committed suicide on the Western front.

"Hitler read it and handed it to me without a word. Von Kluge said he was convinced the situation in France was now hopeless, and his best advice was to make peace now.

View Of Attack On Russia

He declared that no responsible commander felt otherwise at the time but that none could touch the question of ending the war in conversations with Hitler.

Jodl testified that all factors presented to the German military high command "justified the attack on Russia from a military standpoint."

He said Russia had massed 150 divisions on the Russian-German border after the occupation of Poland, that Hitler received information that the Soviets intended to seize Romanian oil fields at the first opportunity, and concluded that Russia was waiting to time her strike with an Allied invasion of Europe.

JODL EXCUSES BLOW AT REDS

T. REEDY

Says 150 Russian Divisions Were at German Border.

Nuernberg, June 5 (A. P.).—Col.-Gen. Alfred Jodl, the ex-German chief of staff, told the war crime court today that Russia provoked the German attack in 1941 by massing 150 divisions on the border after the two countries had partitioned Poland. Adolf Hitler, he testified, heard of this still growing concentration and was informed that the Russians intended to seize the Romanian oil fields at their first opportunity, whereupon he decided to attack.

The German High Command also had concluded by that time that Russia intended to forsake her neutrality and to time a blow at Germany coinciding with an Allied [illegible] invasion in the west, Jodl went on to say, adding that that would have been fatal to Germany. At a moment when Russia had 150 divisions on Germany's flank, the Reich was ill prepared on the Eastern Front and could not have withstood an attack, he said, for 300 divisions would have been needed to defend a front that long and "we never had that many available."

The witness, testifying in his own defense, declared that Hitler had talked to the Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov in an unsuccessful effort to clarify the situation, then ordered general mobilization on the Russian frontier, which required four months.

"With Russia neutral, we could not lose the war," Jodl said. "An invasion such as that of 1944 [Nomandy] was completely out of the question if we had all our forces that were used up in the Russian struggle.

"For months Der Fuehrer struggled with this decision (the attack on Russia). We succeeded in a tactical surprise, but never in a strategic surprise. We found Russia was finally prepared for war."

Jodl contended that all these factors, as presented to the High Command, "justified an attack on Russia from a military standpoint."

Tank Driver Describes Killing Of Unarmed GI's

Dachau, Germany, June 5 (AP)—SS armored force veterans continued to kill unarmed American prisoners even when their own tanks came under deadly fire from United States artillery, a confessed slayer told the war-crimes court here today.

Erwin Szyperski, tank driver, swore he saw ten or fifteen Americans, their hands clasped helplessly behind their heads, mowed down by the machine gun of his vehicle while a tank behind him boiled into flames from a direct shell hit.

Szyperski, one of the 74 SS defendants on trial for mass atrocities during the Battle of the Bulge in Belgium in December, 1944, said he shot two Americans.

FRATERNIZATION RULES TIGHTENED IN GERMAN ZONES

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 5 [illegible]—(AP) Gen. Joseph T. McNarney today prohibited all U. S. Army personnel from entertaining women in other than "designated" rooms.

The American commander in Europe, intervening in the issue of fraternization between troops and German girls, said the Army also was considering screening every German girl allowed in Army clubs. Four German girls have died violently recently in American soldiers' quarters.

Simultaneously, U. S. headquarters disclosed that military police had been ordered to take disciplinary action in Frankfurt against soldiers caressing or holding hands with German women in the streets.

"Purity squads" are to clean up Frankfurt trysting spots. Commanders in Berlin and Nuernberg already have prohibited public displays of affection.

McNarney said his new restrictions were part of a general disciplinary crackdown which, he added, had improved soldier conduct "in all but one area of Germany." (He evidently was referring to Frankfurt.)

"Sixty per cent of the reasons for screening German girls at American clubs is to reduce propaganda, 35 per cent is to combat venereal disease, and five per cent to improve behavior," McNarney said.

U.S. Curbs 'Right' Party In Its Zone

Frankfurt, Germany, June 5 (AP). The strongest political party in the United States zone; the rightest Christian Social Union, has been outlawed in Wuerzburg for an alleged pro-Nazi trend, the American-controlled Dana News Agency disclosed today.

Dana said the American Military Government cracked down after local members re-elected to office a chairman who, a few days previously, was barred from political activity for admitting Nazis to membership.

Posts Retained

The party will not be permitted to operate in Wuerzburg until further notice, although party members elected recently to city and country administrations in the area were permitted to retain their seats.

A military government officer at Frankfurt army headquarters declared the "infiltration of Nazi sympathizers into the Christian Social Union is growing, and it will not be tolerated."

15-YEAR OCCUPATION OF GERMANY IS SEEN

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 5. —(AP) Gen. Joseph T. McNarney said tonight Germany would have to be occupied at least 15 years.

Admitting he had revised his previous estimate of 10 years, the American theater commander told a press conference that "until we can reeducate the growing generation x x x we never are going to have a democratic Germany."

Secret Yugoslav Army Discovered

Iserlohn, Germany, June 5 (AP)—British authorities have reported the discovery of a secret Royalist Yugoslav army, operating from a displaced-persons camp near Menden, Prussia, which has allegedly been attempting to smuggle arms to anti-Tito forces in Yugoslavia.

Officials said 40 Royalist generals had directed the Europe-wide traffic in guns and ammunition from the Menden headquarters. The secret channel of supply was said to have run through Germany and Austria to Yugoslavia.

Authorities said the movement had been stopped in the British occupation zone of Germany, where Yugoslav displaced persons have been dispersed and deprived of their military uniforms. Numbers of such persons have been picked up daily traveling through the zone with arms they planned to smuggle into Yugoslavia, the British said.

Newspaper Suppressed Again

SOFIA, June 5 (AP).—The Bulgarian government suppressed today the Democratic party newspaper "Zname" for two months on the charge that it was "systematically leading agitation against the Soviet Union." It was "Zname's" fifth suppression since last September.

New Inflation Note Issued In Hungary

Budapest, June 3 [AP—Delayed]. A new 100-billion pengo note was issued today as Hungary's inflation reached a higher degree of confusion. Among the complications was a strike of schoolteachers, which closed all elementary schools in Budapest.

If the new note had existed before the war it would have been worth 20 billion dollars. Today, with dollars selling for 120 billion pengo, the new bill is worth less than a dollar.

The striking teachers, protesting delays in paying them caused by the currency shortage, are supposed to receive a salary equivalent to about $2 on the last day of each month.

They have not yet made any definite demands, but spokesmen say they want an increase in salary up to the equivalent of about $5 per month. Before the war they earned the equivalent of about $50 a month.

Nisei Regiment Holds Parade, Is Deactivated

Livorno, Italy, June 5 (AP)—The Nisei (Japanese-American) 442d Regiment Combat Team, one of the great combat units of World War II, paraded today for the last time. The occasion was the awarding of a presidential unit citation to the regiment for cracking open the western anchor of the Gothic Line in Italy.

Lieut. Gen. John C. H. Lee, American commander in the Mediterranean theater, affixed the streamer to the regimental colors.

After the ceremony, Lee disclosed that the regiment was being deactivated. Men of the regiment in 240 days of combat in Italy and France won more decorations than the soldiers of any other American outfit of its size for an equal time in the line.

Russians Paying Last Tribute To Kalinin

Moscow, June 5 (AP)—The Russian people will pay a final tribute to the late Mikhail Kalinin tonight when the ashes of the former president of the Soviet Union are placed in the Kremlin wall beside the remains of many of the leading figures of the U.S.S.R.

The body was to be cremated this afternoon, with funeral rites in Red Square scheduled for 7 P.M.

Throughout last night long lines of mourners filed by the bier in the Hall of Columns. Prime Minister Stalin was expected to be in the two-block funeral procession from the Hall of Columns to Red Square.

Drought Threat To Ukraine Wheat

Kiev, June 5 (AP)—A high official o fthe Ukranian Government told foreign newsmen here today that the size of the Ukraine wheat crop depends on whether there is a rainfal by June 15 to end the long drought.

During a six-day tour of Kiev and the surrounding vicinity, correspondents interviewed government and UNRRA officials and collective farmers to get a picture of the crop situation in European Russia's breadbasket.

Prediction Impossible

"It is impossible to predict what size crop the Ukraine will have at present," said Peter V. Rudnitsky, vice president of the Council of Ministers of the Ukranian Republic.

There are two wheat crops in the Ukraine—the winter and the spring crops. The winter wheat, badly damaged by lack of a good winter snow cover and by a dry spell in May, is due to be harvested next month.

The spring crop is now in a critical period, with prospects of an excellent crop if rain comes quickly, but will yield 50 per cent less if the drought continues.

Criticizes UNRRA Service

Col. Vasily Khomyak, Ukranian government official, who addressed the press conference, expressed dissatisfaction with deliveries under the UNRRA program for the Ukranian Government. He declared that 2,000 tons of various kinds of seeds had proven unusable and a shipment of black beans from Brazil had turned out to be flyinfected.

"We expected tractors in time for sowing," added Khomyak.

Marshall MacDuffie, American head of the UNRRA mission here, admitted that the Ukraine had received no machinery so far, explaining that foodstuffs had been given first priority.

Under an $89,000,000 program, said MacDuffie, the Ukraine had already received $59,000,000 worth of goods, with an additional $10,000,000 worth en route.

Jinnah Says Moslems Will Stand On Demands

New Delhi, June 5 (AP)—Mahomed Ali Jinnah, president of the All India Moslem League, told the league council today that the Moslems would not rest until they had a separate state (Pakistan), and accused the British Cabinet mission of shaping its proposals for a unified India to "appease the Congress party."

On Jinnah's recommendation, the council of 475 representatives from eleven provinces went into closed session to accept or reject the Cabinet mission proposals, which suggested a federation of Indian states under a central government.

MoslemFaction Favors Trial of FederatedIndia

Would Accept British Plan for 10 Years Despite Plea by Jinnah for Separation

NEW DELHI, India, June 5 (AP). —Considerable Moslem sentiment in favor of a ten-year trial of the British Cabinet mission's plan for an independent India was reported here tonight, despite the insistence of Mohammed Ali Jinnah, president of the Moslem League, on a separate Moslem state (Pakistan).

The Moslem League recessed the first of two days of closed sessions to consider British proposals, after hearing Jinnah assert that Moslems would not rest until Pakistan came into being, and that the Cabinet mission proposals were designed to "appease the All-India Congress (Nationalist party)."

Council members said they were sworn to secrecy on the day's proceedings. However, a source high in the league said some members favored a trial of the proposals, adding, "but there also is much sentiment against it."

Thirteen speakers representing the frontier provinces of Baluchistan and Sind debated the proposals in today's session, and more will give their views tomorrow.

On Jinnah's recommendation, the council of 475 Representatives from eleven provinces went into closed session to accept or reject the Cabinet mission proposals, which suggest a federation of Indian states under a central government.

U.S., British Study Siam Border Row

Bangkok, Siam, June 5 (AP)—American and British military observers left yesterday for Nongkai at the request of the Siamese Government "to survey the scene" of recent French-Siamese border clashes. They probably will remain several weeks.

Lieut. Col. William S. Law, Wellesley Hills, Mass., assistant military attaché of the American legation, represented his country.

(The French Foreign Office in Paris said last night that Siamese "pirates and irregulars" were continuing attacks on French frontier garrison troops in Indo-China. The French high commissioner asserted that the Siamese had been firing "for 43 consecutive hours" across the Mekong River.)

Chinese In Java 'Butchered By Indonesians'

Batavia, Java, June 5 (AP)—Chinese refugees reaching Batavia today reported a large-scale massacre of Chinese by Indonesians retreating from the Tangerang area, twenty miles west of Batavia.

The Chinese consul general promptly asked Allied military authorities to send a rescue expedition.

It was reported the massacre occurred as the Indonesians withdrew and Dutch troops occupied the city. A Chinese-language Batavia paper said at least 1,000 men, women and children were "butchered."

Laid To Resentment

The Chinese Red Cross here is preparing to accommodate several thousand Chinese refugees from areas west of Tangerang, where the Tjisadane River separates Dutch and Indonesian-controlled territories.

A Chinese spokesman said the Indonesian action might be explained by resentment over the fact that many Chinese were serving with Dutch forces under reoccupied Tangerang.

Meanwhile, Allied headquarters officially denied a charge by Indonesian Premier Sutan Sjahrir that Tangerang was occupied after "heavy mortar and artillery bombardment," saying the occupation was without incident.

Trend Worries Britain

London, June 5 (AP)—Pessimistic reports from Java and questions surrounding formation of the new Dutch Cabinet caused growing concern in the British Government today over the problem of Indonesia.

In Batavia, Premier Sutan Sjahrir of the unrecognized Indonesian Republic was quoted, on his return from five days of conferences with independence leaders and army authorities, as saying that Dutch offers for settling Indonesian demands for independence were "far below expectations," as a result of which Indonesians "must be prepared for the worst."

Dutch Split On Policy

In The Hague, authoritative sources said Premier Willem Schermerhorn's Labor party—second to the Catholic party in the number

Admiral Lord Louis Mounbatten, agree to a coalition government with the Catholics only if the latter agreed to accept a liberal view on the Indonesian problem.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told the House of Commons yesterday that "this Indonesian problem has given us a good deal of anxiety" because the Government wants to withdraw all British forces from the Netherlands East Indies as soon as possible.

Tells Evacuation Schedule

Admiral Lord Louis Mounthatten, supreme Allied commander for southeast Asia, estimated the Dutch had about six brigades in the islands and the British a like number of units. Mounthatten said all British had been withdrawn from Semarang and Soerabaja and would relinquish Bandoeng to the Dutch this month.

The supreme commander said he foresaw little likelihood of civil war between the Indonesian Nationalists and Dutch forces "because politically there would be no point in waging war if the 45,000,000 people don't want you."

BELIEVE MUCH RICE HIDDEN IN BURMA

JUN 6 1 1946

Rangoon, June 5 (A. P.).—The rice traders of Rangoon say they are convinced that rice hoards of between 1,000,000 and 2,000,000 tons lie in the jungle-locked and hard to reach interior of fertile Burma but they have not yet solved the problem of how to get it for the hungry world.

Nobody really knows how much rice Burma's farmers concealed from the Japanese invader because all records were destroyed, but it is believed the total might reach 2,000,000 tons —more than enough to avert famine in India.

Many hoards have been uncovered already. Town elders of two areas alone informed officials of 116,000 tons of rice hidden by falsifying declarations to the Japanese, who habitually seized all the rice available. Fearing similar action by the returning British, the elders added, they at first were afraid to make true declarations.

Approximately all of this hidden surplus will be exportable, the rice traders say, because Burma's rice crop this year, although short, is estimated to be sufficient for her own needs.

Some of the supplies, however, will not be available until July or August, when flood waters allow maximum communication by boat.

Marshall Wins 15-Day Truce In Manchuria

J. RODERICK

Hostilities to End Today as Both Factions Prepare to Negotiate Major Disputes

JUN 6 1 1946

NANKING, June 6 (Thursday) (AP).—Assurance of a fifteen-day truce in Manchuria today gave General George C. Marshall time in which to try for a permanent settlement of the civil strife which has disrupted China.

The Manchurian truce, announced yesterday after conferences between President Truman's special envoy and leaders of the opposing factions, was to take effect today immediately after its formal signature by General Marshall's committee of three. The committee members, besides General Marshall, are General Chou En-lai, chief negotiator for the Chinese Communists, and General Chu Yung-chang, representing the Nationalist government.

General Marshall's headquarters ordered an advance section of Executive (truce) Headquarters at Peiping to move to Changchun, the Manchurian capital, "in preparation for carrying out any agreement."

Will Consider Three Points

Three major points remained to be negotiated during the armistice period. As listed by Lu Chung-lin, prominent Kuomintang (Nationalist party) leader, they were: Permanent cessation of hostilities, restoration of communications, disrupted in many places by fighting, and reorganization of the army.

Chen Li-fu, Rightist minister in Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's regime, said it was possible that the government would assign the Communists an area to garrison in Manchuria after hostilities ceased.

"There must be no empty talk, however," Chen declared. "The Communists must carry out the agreement to reorganize their armies in Manchuria and restore communications. Then there can be peace."

Referring to the failure of the January truce agreement, Information Minister Peng Hsueh-pei said more authority for General

1946

Marshall could remove the danger of further delay and frustration.

Increase Marshall's Power

"The most reliable means to insure speedy realization of agreements and prevent endless discussion over technical details and questions of theory," Peng told a press conference, "is to increase the power and responsibility of arbitration by the American member of the committee of three. Acceptance of this arbitration is the best proof of sincerity and the best remedy against delay."

Peng said the damaged railways of the strife-torn areas would have to be repaired according to assigned sections and within a definite time limit, so that the public could know when trains would run.

He said the proposed increase of arbitration powers for General Marshall also would involve increased authority for American members of the Executive Headquarters field teams, which have arranged regional cease-fire pacts.

Peng confirmed news reports that the steel center of Anshan, south of Mukden, was again in government hands after five days' possession by Chinese Communists. He added that the southern part of Yingkow, one of four Manchurian cities which the Communists asserted Monday they had captured, still is held by government forces.

will tomorrow sign an agreement imposing a fifteen-day truce in Manchuria.

The truce is preliminary to negotiations for permanent peace between the Chinese Government and the Chinese Communists, who for eighteen years have waged civil war, primarily in Manchuria.

Lu Chung-li, prominent Kuomintang (Government party) leader, announced the armistice. He told the Associated Press that these three points remain to be negotiated for peace: (1) a permanent cessation of hostilities; (2) the restoration of communications, disrupted in many places by the fighting and (3) the reorganization of the army.

Effective At Once

Lu said the truce would go into effect immediately after it was signed by the Committee of Three, whose members are General Marshall, United States envoy to China; Communist negotiator Chou En-lai and Government Gen. Chu Yung-chang.

At the same time, Marshall's headquarters ordered an advance section of Executive (truce) Headquarters at Peiping to move to Changchun, the Manchurian capital, "in preparation for carrying out any agreement that may be reached for the cessation of hostilities."

Garrison Area Predicted

Chen Li-fu, extreme rightist minister in the Kuomintang, reported meantime it was possible that the Government would assign the Communists an area to garrison in Manchuria after hostilities ceased.

"There must be no empty talk, however," Chen said. "The Communists must carry out the agreement to reorganize their armies in Manchuria and restore communications. Then there can be peace."

A January agreement, since violated, provided for nationalization of the army, with reductions in both the Government and Communist forces.

Ruin Threatened

Chen said he was hopeful peace could be established in Manchuria. He warned that if fighting continued, China faced financial and economic ruin.

Marshall's announcement said Brig. Gen. Henry Byroade, senior American officer at Peiping truce headquarters, would head the advanced section, which was ordered to move to Changchun after having been alerted to prepare for such a move ten days ago.

Marshall and Chiang Kai-shek conferred again today in an effort to agree on a basis for complete, permanent peace.

Marshall Wins Point

Chiang first proposed a seven-day truce, a high Government official said, but Marshall urged a fifteen-day halt.

The reported agreements surprised anxious Nanking. Marshall's conferences yesterday with Chiang and Chou had raised few hopes here, and Communist sources had spoken pessimistically of chances for an early peace.

Marshall talked for more than five hours with Chiang yesterday, shortly after the latter's return from Manchuria. Immediately after the meeting, Marshall went into a two-hour conference with Chou.

Chinese Arrest 23 Military Puppets

Peiping, June 5 (AP)—The arrest of 23 military puppets was announced here today. Their names and the evidence against them were given to the military law department of the Government field headquarters, which will handle the trial.

Among those arrested, the announcement said, were two former Peiping garrison commanders, Shao Wen-kai and Huan Nan-peng.

The others includes puppet provincial chairmen, army commanders, district magistrates and staff members of the puppet armies.

Pauley Stricken On Korean Trip

Seoul, Korea, June 5 (AP)—United States Reparations Commissioner Edwin W. Pauley was confined to the 29th Army General Hospital today with bacillary dysentery. Medical officers said he may have contracted it on his recent inspection trip to northern Korea.

The reparations mission ate all its meals aboard its special train on the trip, save for two dinners given by Soviet officials.

Pauley is the only member of the group suffering from the common Oriental malady.

Col. W. D. Willis, of Dallas, senior surgeon of the 24th Corps, said Pauley's condition was not serious.

4 MORE JAPS FACE WAR CRIME TRIALS

JUN 6 1 1946

Tokyo, June 5 (A. P.).—Four former Japanese Navy officers were charged today with responsibility for the deaths of twelve identified and numerous unidentified American war prisoners.

Rear-Admiral Inokichi Matsumoto and Capt. Kenji Iwataka and two lieutenants were accused. All will be taken to Manila for trial. Specifications charged they forced the prisoners to work at Nichols Field, Manila, while the field was being used by Japanese war planes.

The prisoners named as victims included Pfc. C. E. Quattroni of 220 Washington street, Trenton, N. J.

Hoover Sees Hunger Exploited by Reds

By The Associated Press.

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 5—Herbert Hoover, making a world food survey for President Truman, said today in an interview that the Communists "like to see the peoples of Europe hungry in order more easily to establish their political ideals."

The former United States President accused the world Communist press of perpetrating "slanderous reports" wherever he traveled. Mr. Hoover, who arrived here Tuesday from Lima, found himself described by the Chilean Communist press as a "food dictator."

Mr. Hoover said he found that the Communist press in Latin America was following the same line of attack on his food mission as the Communist press in Europe.

He declared that "to date we have not got a pound of food out of Russia."

The alleged sabotage occurred while the cruiser was tied up at Kwajalein en route to Bikini atoll, where it will be one of the atomic bomb test targets.

Red Spy Figure Reported Dead

JUN 6 1946

Col. Zabotin Said to Have Had Heart Failure After Return to Russia From Canada.

Ottawa, June 5 (A. P.).—The Ottawa Morning Journal said today that word had reached here of the death in Russia of Col. Nicolai Zabotin, former military attache at the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, four days after his return to Moscow from the Canadian capital.

Zabotin was named by Igor Gouzenko, former Russian embassy cipher clerk here and star crown witness in the current espionage trials, as master-mind of a spy network in Canada.

The Journal said he had "died from heart failure four days after reaching Moscow from Ottawa, according to word reaching intelligence services here."

It was announced in Moscow February 20 last that Zabotin was being recalled because of the "inadmissibility of the activities of some members of his staff.

Gouzenko to Stand.

Montreal, June 5 (A. P.).—Attorneys for Fred Rose, communist member of Canada's Parliament, prepared today to cross-examine Igor Gouzenko, one of the prosecution's key witnesses against Rose, who is on trial for conspiracy in connection with the wartime Soviet espionage ring in Canada.

Gouzenko, a former cipher clerk in the Russian Embassy at Ottawa, testified yesterday that Soviet officials sought samples of uranium 235, basic ingredient of atomic research, and also tried to learn the location of the atomic bomb plant in the United States.

The witness identified a document which, he said, he removed from a secret room in the Embassy, stating that the Russians sought this information from an agent named "Alex," previously named by Gouzenko as Dr. Alan Nuhn May, now serving a ten-year sentence in Great Britain for disclosing atom secrets.

Also scheduled to be summoned to the witness stand today was Miss Kathleen Willsher, former stenographer in the British High Commissioner's office in Ottawa, who was sentenced to serve three years in prison for violation of the official secrets act. Miss Willsher testified briefly yesterday but her testimony was interrupted by defense objections.

DOCUMENTS CITED IN RED SPY TRIAL

JUN 6 1946

H. MONTGOMERY

MONTREAL, June 5—(AP) Igor Gouzenko, star witness against Fred Rose, Communist member of Parliament on trial for conspiracy in behalf of Russia, testified under cross-examination today that all his information linking Rose with the so-called espionage case came from documents which he stole from the Soviet embassy in Ottawa.

Gouzenko, 27-year-old former code clerk in the embassy, admitted he had no personal knowledge of the incidents related in the documents linking Rose, under the code name of "Deboub" and "Fred", with the espionage network.

Gouzenko said he first took his documents and his story upon leaving the embassy last September to an Ottawa newspaper instead of the Royal Canadian Mounted police because he "thought there might be NKVD (Soviet secret police) agents in the RCMP" and because he wanted "the protection of public opinion".

The defense brought out these ponits from Gouzenko in cross-examination:

That he took an oath not to disc[lose] secrets of his work; that when he came to Canada in June, 1943, he knew it was for espionage work under Col. Nicolai Zabotin, former embassy military attache described as leader of the network in Canada; and that his pay began at $200 a month and had been increased to $275 when he fled last September.

It was in 1945, Gouzenko said, that he first "definitely" decided to expose the espionage network. He took the first document in August of 1945, several pages from a notebook later that month, and the remainder of the bulky file on Sept. 5 when he left the embassy for the last time.

sion bill today which would continue the act until May 15, 1947, permit 18 and 19-year-olds to be drafted again after this month, and raise the pay of enlisted men.

The vote on final passage was 69 to 8. It came after the Senate defeated, 63 to 14, a proposal that actual inductions be halted while the volunteer system got a further trial with the pay of an army private raised from $50 to $75 a month.

Bill Returns to House

The main features of the Senate bill, which grants most of the Administration's requests, are subject now to House action. That chamber voted an extension only to Feb. 15 with a ban on teen-age inductions, and approved pay increases in a separate measure.

The Senate and House, in seeking ther 18 and 19-year-olds should be subject to the draft. The House voted no. The Senate decided, 53 to 26, that they should. Talk already is going around of a possible compromise dropping boys 18 but taking those 19.

Differences in Proposal

Other major differences:

The House voted to extend the draft only until Feb. 15 and to supend all inductions from May 15 until Oct. 15.

The Senate approved an increase from $50 to $75 a month in pay of "buck" privates, increases for other enlisted men, but no pay boost for officers. The House, in a bill separate from its draft measure, voted comparable increases for enlisted men. It also approved 20 per cent raises for first and second lieutenants and 10 percent in-

Draft Bill Provisions

WASHINGTON, June 5. — (AP) Here are the major provisions of the legislation extending Selective Service until May 15, 1947, as passed by the Senate today and sent to the House:

1. Principal sections of the wartime draft act are extended, including re-employment benefits.

2. Men between 18 and 45 years must register and are subject to call. This would eliminate the present exemption for 18 and 19 year olds forced by the House into the stopgap extension which expires July 1.

3. The size of the armed forces is fixed for July 1 and the year following with inductions limited to numbers required above voluntary enlistments. The Army limits are 1,550,000 at the end of this month and 1,070,000 a year later. The Navy limit for both dates is 558,000 and the Marines 168,000.

4. All inductions of fathers, or men with a dependent child, are halted. On August 1 all inductees in this class who request it will be released.

5. On October 1 all present inductees with 18 months service or longer may request release. Service of all future inductees is limited to 18 months.

6. Men who have served overseas or six months in this country are exempted from reinduction.

7. Pay increases are granted for enlisted personnel.

8. Special deferments are given scientists and scientific students.

9. Selective Service will expire May 15, 1947, unless sooner ended by Congress. It's records will be transferred to other Federal agencies.

Major provisions of the House-approved legislation include:

1. Extension of the draft only to February 15.

2. Prohibition against induction of 18 and 19-year-olds.

3. Suspension of all inductions from May 15 until October 15 of this year to permit a trial of the voluntary system.

A broader pay increase was voted in a separate bill, covering officers as well as enlisted men.

Senate Votes to End Draft Holiday July 1, Increase Pay for GI's

BILL MOVES TO HOUSE

Pay Boost Would Benefit Privates, No Increase for Officers.

WASHINGTON, June 5 — (AP) The Senate passed a draft exten-

to adjust their differences, will work against a July 1 deadline when the temporary draft extension expires.

Appointed to represent the Senate on the Senate-House conference committee were Senators Thomas (Utah), Johnson (Colo), Hill (Ala) and Downey (Calif), Democrats, and Austin (Vt), Bridges (NH) and Gurney (SD), Republicans, all of the Military committee.

Proposed Halt in Inductions

Senators Revercomb (R-WVa), Wilson (R-Iowa) and Wherry (R-Neb) had proposed the stop on inductions, arguing that Congress should await results from the pay increase

"I don't want to draft American boys to march into Spain," Revercomb said, adding that he does not know what this country's commitments might be. "And I don't want to draft boys to take part in a civil war in China."

Administration leaders contended it would be dangerous to ban inductions and leave future manpower needs of the armed forces to the uncertainty of volunteering.

The chief point of controversy between the two chambers is whe-creases for higher officers. The Navy and Marine corps also would receive the higher pay.

The Senate and House agreed that the service of future inductees should be limited to 18 months and that fathers should not be drafted.

The Senate bill, as drawn by the Military committee, took account of the possibility that volunteers may meet future needs through a section directing, in effect, that no one should be drafted if sufficient volunteers do step forward.

This section requires that the Army shall be reduced "consistently month by month" from the current figure of about 1,550,000 to 1,070,000 by July 1, 1947. Draft requisitions, it adds, "shall not exceed the number of men required after consideration of the actual number of voluntary enlistments during the three months preceding that month in which the requisition is made."

HART EXPLAINS VOTE OPPOSING ARMY PAY BOOST

JUN 6 1948

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP) Senator Hart (R-Conn.), one of four senators who yesterday voted against pay raises for enlisted personnel, said today he had little "optimism" raises would increase enlistments.

He told his colleagues in a speech that he preferred an amendment to the draft extension bill by Senator Gurney (R-S.D.), which would have raised the pay of officers, non-commissioned personnel and technicians. Instead, the Senate adopted 67 to 4 a substitute amendment by Senators Johnson (R-Colo.), and La Follette (Prog.-Wis.), boosting pay in the lower grades.

Hart, a former admiral, said the increases might properly be called "incentive pay for volunteering" and that "various degrees of optimism have been expressed as to the effect of these increases in pay" on enlistments. Present volunteer figures "are not particularly encouraging," he said. "I am unable to share very much optimism over the affect of these increases."

The government, he said, will be committed to pay out nearly a half billion dollars annually "on this experiment. A half billion dollars is, of course, going to buy some enlistments," he continued, "but I do not believe that we will receive great results from that very considerable expenditure."

"Recruiting officers have found," Hart said, "that the principal reason for volunteering is the natural urge to go somewhere." The volunteers in general, he added, do not give much consideration "to the money part of it." Those who do think about the "money part of it," Hart continued, look upon military service as a career, and constitute the "motor nerves" or brains of any armed organization.

"Any nation possessing in sufficient quantity and quality a corps of all kinds of offices and technicians is a long distance on the road to having an efficient army," he declared.

"The nation would have gotten its money's worth under the Gurney amendment."

SENATOR AUSTIN 'GETS U. N. POST

Vermont Republican Named by Truman to Succeed Stettinius.

WASHINGTON, June 5 — (AP) Senator Warren R. Austin, life-long Vermont Republican, lawyer and advocate of international peace organization, was named by President Truman today to succeed Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., as American representative on the United Nations Security council.

Selection of the 68-year-old senator from the ranks of the President's nominal party opposition gave a bi-partisan tone to Mr. Truman's foreign policy development, for the United Nations post is one of the most important diplomatic jobs in the President's power to fill.

Responsible Job

The post pays $20,000 a year, and the man who fills it has immediate responsibility for carrying out in the council the development of American foreign policy laid down by the President and Secretary of State Byrnes.

Austin's approval by the Senate was considered assured. Presumably his ready acceptability to his colleagues was one of the factors favorable to his selection. Others, it was learned, were the facts that he is a lawyer capable of conducting the intricate public debate for which the Security council has grown famous, and that he has been a consistent supporter of an "international" foreign policy.

Accepts Appointment

Shortly after his name reached the Senate in the President's formal nomination, Austin announced that he was accepting the appointment.

"I accept the honor which the President of United States has conferred upon me," he said, "with humility and a deep appreciation of the responsibility and the enlarged opportunity tendered me to work for my lifelong ideal of security and peace for all nations."

Officially the appointment will not become effective until January because of a constitutional provision that a member of Congress cannot, during a term to which he has been elected, take an office created during that term. Austin's senatorial term runs out in January.

Meantime Herschel Johnson, deputy American representative to the Security council, will represent the United States in United Nations affairs.

Austin, however, will resign his Senate seat as soon as his appointment is confirmed. He will then be named special representative of the President, with ambassadorial rank, to serve as adviser to Johnson until January.

Senate Group Drafts Wide Curbs on OPA

JUN 6 1948

Proposed Bill Would End Price Control on Meat, Permit Markups.

WASHINGTON, June 5. — (AP) A bill ripping great gaps in OPA's powers was approved by the Senate Banking committee tonight in defiance of Chester Bowles' warning that he would urge President Truman to veto it as a "monstrous thing."

Under the measure, price control would be extended until June 30, 1947, but with amendments lifting controls from meat and dairy products, preventing OPA from interfering with normal markups of thousands of merchants, and making other sweeping changes in the stabilization program.

The committee did, however, delete the Wolcott amendment of the House, which provided that all producers, processors and distributors must be allowed cost plus "a reasonable profit."

The committee stuck to amendments previously adopted and even plastered on some new ones despite Stabilization Director Bowles' radio address last night declaring the measure constituted a "fraud" which would send the cost of living skyrocketing.

Chairman Wagner (D-NY) immediately told reporters he would file a minority report against the bill and declared he would be joined by "several others."

Final Draft Today

The bill was not officially reported and there was no record vote on its final form. That probably will come tomorrow when the committee gathers to look over the final draft.

The bill would remove price controls on meat and dairy products and impose various restrictions on the OPA.

As one of its final decisions, the committee adopted a provision contained in the OPA bill which the House has passed prohibiting the price agency from interfering with normal discounts or markups of retailers and wholesalers on "reconversion items" such as automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines, and radios.

The OPA has estimated that this amendment will raise the price to consumers approximately $500,000,000 a year, with the boost on $1,000 cars, for instance, running about $88. The estimates, however, have been contested by senators favoring the amendment.

Major Items in Bill

Other important provisions of the bill as finally agreed upon by the committee include:

1. Ceilings could not be maintained on a farm product unless the Secretary of Agriculture certified it was in short supply.

2. Controls would have to be removed by Dec. 31, 1946, on all items not important to living costs or business costs.

3. OPA's request for approximately $2,000,000,000 in subsidies for the next fiscal year would be cut to $1,100,000,000, with no food subsidies to be paid after next May 1.

4. A decontrol board would be established to decide appeals by industry committees when the price administrator or Secretary of Agriculture, as the case might be, denied a petition by an industry advisory committee for removal of controls on a particular item.

5. OPA's "MAP" (maximum average price) order would be abolished. It is designed to require manufacturers to produce a normal volume of low-priced clothing.

6. Items not under price control May 1, 1946, could not be brought under controls.

7. The subsidy fund could not be used to start any new subsidies.

Romanian Reply to U. S. Hints New Clash with Reds

JUN 6 1 1946

G. HOUEY

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP) The United States and Britain today faced the prospect of another clash with Russia over an old trouble spot—Romania.

Both Washington and London labeled "unsatisfactory" a Romanian answer to American and British notes protesting that the Balkan nation had failed to hold elections and protect the basic freedoms as promised.

American officials took it for granted that Russia would give stout support to the Soviet-sponsored regime in Bucharest, thereby reopening an old Big-Three problem which was regarded as solved four months ago.

Text Not Revealed

The State department refused to make public the text of the Romanian answer to the American note of May 27. Michael J. McDermott, department press officer, issued only the statement that "at first blush, the note is unsatisfactory because it presents a distorted picture and is inaccurate."

Earlier, a foreign office spokesman in London had said virtually the same thing.

The blunt response of both governments to the Bucharest note raised the question among diplomats as to whether they would continue official diplomatic recognition of the Romanian regime.

This country and Britain recognized the government of Premier Petru Groza only in February, after Romania promised to hold general elections "in the shortest time possible"; insure universal participation of all democratic groups, and guarantee the basic freedoms.

Not Formally Accredited

Actually, U. S. recognition has meant little because Romania never has sent a minister to Washington and consequently, Burton Y. Berry, American political representative at Bucharest, has never taken the necessary steps to be formally accredited to the Groza government as minister.

Romania never promised to hold elections on any specific date. In a note shortly before granting recognition, however, the State department told Bucharest that the U.S. "confidently expects" that election arrangements would be undertaken speedily, and hoped it might be possible to hold the balloting in late April or early May.

In the note delivered by Berry in Bucharest May 27, the U.S. cited two things it was concerned about:

1. No election law had been written and no date for elections had been set.

2. What the U. S. called "abuses of the freedoms"—particularly "the increasing frequency of actions of violence . . ."

The British note, delivered the same day, raised the same points of objections to the behavior of the Romanian government.

Surplus-Goods Credit Given Czechoslovakia

Washington, June 5 (AP)—The United States has extended a credit of up to $50,000,000 to Czechoslovakia for the purchase of American surplus war property in Europe, Thomas B. McCabe, foreign liquidation commissioner, announced today.

McCabe did not disclose the details of the credit arrangement, but said it was another in a series of agreements to enable nations with a limited supply of American dollars to buy overseas surplus goods for relief and reconstruction purposes.

A similar surplus-property credit was granted to Poland several weeks ago, but later suspended on grounds that the Polish Government had not furnished the United States with adequate information about its trade agreements with otther countries, particularly Russia.

Chinese Ambassador Bids Truman Good-By

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Dr. Wei Tao-ming, the Chinese Ambassador, said good-by to President Truman today in advance of departure for China Friday.

He said Mr. Truman sent his "best regards" to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. The Ambassador said he would confer with Chiang and Gen. George C. Marshall as soon as he reaches home.

Far Eastern Study Of Monarchy

JUN 6 1 1946

Washington, June 5 (AP)—A committee of the Far Eastern Commission has taken under consideration the question of abolishing the Japanese monarchy.

The commission's weekly press statement said today the question of "abolition of the Emperor institution" and the issue of basic democratic reform in Japan had been referred after discussion to the committee on constitutional and legal reform "for reconsideration and report."

It was the first time since its establishment in February that the commission — eleven-nation Allied policy-making body for Japan—had mentioned the possibility of doing away with the Emperor.

Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, commission chairman and United States representative, indicated at a news conference that he would oppose any move to unseat Emperor Hirohito, through whom Gen. Douglas MacArthur has administered Japan since the beginning of the occupation.

Once Sharp Division

McCoy said that at one time there had been a sharp division of opinion within the United States Government over the Emperor question, but that MacArthur's "successful and statesmanlike" handling of the situation had quieted the dissenters. He added that he is well satisfied with the MacArthur method.

Pressure for abolition of the monarchy is expected to come from Russia, Australia and possibly New Zealand.

For the second straight week, Nikolai V. Novikov, Soviet Ambassador, submitted a proposal for inquiring of MacArthur what the political effects of the Emperor's recent tours around Japan have been. Novikov previously had said the Emperor's trips constituted "electioneering" for retention of the monarchy.

Proposes Broader Question

Herbert V. Evatt, Australian Foreign Minister, sitting in on today's meeting, suggested that nothing could be gained by considering Novikov's proposal by itself. He said it should be considered as part of the broader question of whether the monarchy should be retained or scrapped. Novikov then agreed with the other commission members to refer the whole question of the monarchy to the committee on constitutional and legal reform.

Commission officials said they doubted if the committee would come up with any final decision for some time.

American food shipments to Japan also provoked a lively discussion at today's meeting.

Had Ordered Review

Some commission officials said they had been told that a policy directive on food which was approved unanimously by the commission April 25 had not been sent to MacArthur. It ordered the United States to review its plan to send nearly half a million tons of food to Japan during the April-May-June period. It also warned this country not to permit food shipments in amounts that would give the Japanese preferential treatment over the peoples of hard-pressed Allied countries.

Later, however, American officials said the commission's statement had been sent to MacArthur, not as a directive but for his information and guidance.

1948 POINTER SEEN IN WARREN FEAT

JUN 6 1 1946

Friends Hail Double Victory As GOP Presidential Omen

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Gov. Earl Warren's unprecedented renomination victory on both Republican and Democratic tickets in California projected him tonight into the circle of GOP prospects for the 1948 presidential nomination.

Warren's capture of both nominations for another four-year term over Robert Kenny, Democrat Attorney General, was hailed by his friends as a tribute to his "nonpartisan" administration and his personal vote-getting ability.

One of the supporters, Representative J. Leroy Johnson, of Stockton, told the House of Representatives that the double victory made Warren "the No. 1 man" for the presidency two years hence.

Credited With "Human Touch"

He said Warren, who rejected offers of the vice presidential nomination on a ticket with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York in 1944, has "the human touch" and refused to "play politics" in the governorship.

The late Senator Hiram Johnson won both major party senatorial nominations in California, but Warren was the first to achieve this in a governorship primary. California is one of the few states permitting crossfiling in primaries.

All other major races in Tuesday's five-state primaries had been decided tonight, except in New Mexico. In that State Senator Dennis Chavez won Democratic renomination over Gov. John J. Dempsey. His majority was nearing the 8,000 mark.

For New Mexico Governorship

In the New Mexican gubernatorial contests, Thomas J. Mabry, former chief justice of the State Supreme Court, had an apparently insurmountable margin for the Democratic nomination, as did Ed Safford, former State GOP chairman just out of the Army, for the Republican.

The CIO Political Action Committee counted both victories and defeats for the candidates it backed in the primaries. Some of its victories, however, were assured beforehand because it supported more than one candidate on the same ticket.

It backed the winner of the Alabama Democratic gubernatorial race, but in the losing column were men it supported for the nomination for California Governor, and for the House in the Alabama Ninth and New Jersey Tenth districts.

California Senatorial Races

In other important contests, Senator William F. Knowland won renomination on the Republican ticket in California and Will Rogers, Jr., former United States Representative and son of the late humorist, captured the Democratic nomination over Knowland and Representative Ellis E. Patterson, of Los Angeles.

Douglas (Wrong-Way) Corrigan is the Prohibition candidate. The Los Angeles aviator's "wrong-way" flight to Ireland in 1938 was one of the lighter sensations of the season.

Senator H. Alexander Smith and Mayor George E. Brunner, of Camden, were winners without opposition for the Republican and Democratic senatorial nominations in New Jersey. Patrick J. Hurley, former Secretary of War and Ambassador to China, unopposed, is the Republican senatorial candidate in New Mexico.

Folsom In Alabama

The governorship races outside of California went this way:

Alabama—James E. Folsom, 37-year-old war veteran and insurance salesman, won the Democratic runoff (which means election) from Lieut. Gov. Handy Ellis. It will be his first public office when he takes over next January at Montgomery.

New Jersey—Republican: Alfred E. Driscoll, State alcoholic beverage control commissioner, won with backing of Gov. Walter E. Edge and former Governor Charles Edison, over former Governor Harold G. Hoffman. Democratic: Former Judge Lewis G. Hansen, of Jersey City, unopposed.

South Dakota—Republican: Attorney General George T. Mickelson turned back Gov. M. Q. Sharpe's bid for an unprecedented third term. Democratic: Richard Haeder, president of the South Dakota Rural Electrification Association.

Further Subsidy Slash Tackled By Senators

JUN 6 1 1946

Washington, June 5 (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee went back to work today on an OPA bill which Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles said is taking the shape of a "monstrous thing."

Specifically, the committee sought a decision as to whether its previous action in voting to eliminate meat and dairy price controls June 30 would permit lopping off an additional $600,000,000 in food subsidies.

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) estimated that if meat and dairy prices are allowed to assume their supply-and-demand level, about two thirds of the $900,000,000 set up for food subsidies from June 30, 1946, to May 1, 1947, would be unnecessary. The OPA had requested about $1,700,000,000 for food subsidies and the right to pay them an additional twelve months after the present Price Control Act expires June 30.

Bowles Renews Plea

Bowles voiced a renewed plea not only for a reversal of that action but others which he said threatened to "wreck our hopes of stability and full production."

He said the meat decision would raise prices 40 to 50 per cent by September and declared that last week's increase in dairy ceilings are "only a curtain raiser to what lies ahead" for milk, butter and cheese.

Other amendments already accepted by the committee, Bowles said in a broadcast last night, would make it impossible to hold the line on rents, would lift clothing prices ten per cent and would cut down flour at home and grain shipments abroad.

30.24-3151

Taft May Press Plan

With the committee renewing its effort to finish the bill today, Taft indicated that he might seek another vote on his price-margin amendment, rejected yesterday on an 8-to-8 tie.

That amendment would tell the OPA that ceilings must be set so as to allow manufacturers and processors the price they charged for an article in the base period October 1-15, 1941, plus the weighted average unit cost increase since then in the industry.

Majority Leader Barkley (Ky.) has abandoned hope of getting the one-year extension bill up before the Senate earlier than next week.

BILL TO REVISE CONGRESS UP

Senate Adjourns After Hearing It Explained

JUN 6 1946

Washington, June 5 (AP) — The Senate took up today the question of scrapping the legislative machinery Congress has built up over the years and replacing it with a simpler model.

Senator La Follette (Prog., Wis.), sponsor of a bill to revise procedures, successfully moved to take it up, but got no further than a general explanation before the Senate quit for the day.

The legislation is shot through with controversy. Particularly prickly is a proposal to cut the 33 committees to 16.

The bill is the outgrowth of study by a special Senate-House committee of how Congress might improve itself.

Some Major Proposals

Among its major proposals:

Provide an annual "ceiling" on Federal expenditures. If appropriations exceed it, all except such fixed items as debt service would be reduced by sufficient percentage to bring the total under the ceiling.

Authorize each senator and representative to hire an administrative assistant at $8,000 a year.

Increase pay of Congress members from $10,000 to $15,000 a year and authorize them, at their discretion, to participate in the Federal Retiremen (pension) System by paying into it as do civil service employés.

Require lobbyists to register and state the source of their income.

Senate Group Approves Allowance For Senators

Washington, June 5 (AP)—The Senate which last year spurned the $2,500 annual expense money that House members receive appeared about ready today to change its mind.

Chairman Tydings said an Appropriations subcommittee had approved the allowance unanimously. It may reach the Senate floor for action next week as a part of the pending legislative appropriations measure. Full committee acceptance is required first.

Committee Action Due On Seaway

Washington, June 5 (AP)—The St. Lawrence seaway and power project headed for full consideration by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today after several weeks' delay.

Although another postponement was considered possible, assurance that the legislation, already approved by a subcommittee, would be debated by the full committee came from an aide. Senator La Follette (Prog., Wis.) last week exacted a promise that the measure "definitely will be discussed" at today's committee session.

Time Of Vote Uncertain

Still in doubt was when the committee would vote on the measure which was introduced last October.

A committee clerk said he doubted "very much" that a vote would be taken "immediately."

Even should the committee report favorably, it is unlikely that the bill will come before the Senate in time for action at this session.

Anxious For Such Action

Backers of the measure, which requires majority approval of the Senate and House, are resigned to such a likelihood. They are anxious, however, for committee action, which they feel will be favorable, so as to provide the bill with a significant springboard in the next Congress.

Several seaway advocates, including Representative Pittenger (R., Minn.), have declared that they would reintroduce the measure immediately upon the convening of the next Congress.

Aiken Sees Support For Shipping Probe

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Senator Aiken (R., Vt.) said otday that public support is gathering behind his request for a congressional investigation into "unconscionable conditions" in the Maritime Commission and the War Shipping Board.

Representative Wigglesworth (R., Mass.) lodged a similar request in the House, but neither has been successful thus far.

Aiken and Wigglesworth instituted their action on the basis of a report by the Comptroller General which Aiken told the Senate Monday "indicates . . . a total of $8,007,163,990.60 of funds unproperly accounted for by these two agencies."

Plans For Single Chief Of Staff Believed Dead

Washington, June 5 (AP)—The proposal for a single chief of staff over the armed forces was reported the first casualty today, as President Truman personally undertook to reconcile Army-Navy merger differences.

The single chief of staff proposal was strongly plugged by the Army but congressional circles heard reports that the President had decided against it, removing it from further consideration.

One senator said it was his information that Mr. Truman had sided with the Navy on this particular issue.

Sees Forrestal, Patterson

The fact that Mr. Truman is taking over the job of resolving Army-Navy merger disagreements was disclosed after he had had a 90-minute conference yesterday with Secretary of Navy Forrestal and Secretary of War Patterson.

Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, reported that Mr. Truman termed it "a very constructive session."

Forrestal was reported to be sticking by the Navy's contention that two departments, with separate Cabinet members, should be maintained instead of the single department of common defense suggested in a bill sponsored by Chairman Elbert D. Thomas (D., Utah) of the Senate Military Committee and Senators Hill (D., Ala.) and Austin (R., Vt.),

Early Change Seen Unlikely

While there was some indication that those favoring what is known as the Army plan for all-out unification might be willing to compromise on the proposal to retain two Cabinet members, few senators thought any basic changes in the military lineup would get serious consideration in this Congress.

Senator Maybank (D., S.C.), a member of the Military and Appropriations committees, said he expected no action on a merger bill as such.

But he said he would not be surprised if efforts were made to bring about a partial consolidation of Army and Navy activities in legislation which could be considered before the mid-July adjournment.

"I would expect to see someone offer a bill to combine the purchasing divisions of the Army and Navy," he said.

BRADLEY GIVES HOSPITAL HOPE

Veterans' Head Tells D'Alesandro Of Plans

Washington, June 5 (AP)—The Veterans Administration hopes eventually to locate a large general hospital in Baltimore, according to Gen. Omar N. Bradley.

General Bradley, veterans' administrator, is a letter to Representative D'Alesandro (D., Md.) which the latter inserted in today's Congresional Record, said:

"It is our hope ultimately to provide a medical center in Baltimore which would consist of a large general medical and surgical hospital in addition to the tuberculosi hospital now authorized."

Present authorizations call for a 300-bed tuberculosis hospital in Baltimore. Mr. D'Alesandro had offered to introduce legislation calling for additional facilities.

3 Hospitals In Maryland

General Bradley said, however, that no further legislation is necessary since "it may be authorized under existing procedures as soon as the need for it justifies its recommendation."

The Veterans Administration now has three hospitals in Maryland: At Fort Howard, general; at Perry Point, neuropsychiatric, and at Fort Washington, general. In addition, the agency has the use of about 200 beds at the Fort George G. Meade Army Hospital, and 50 beds at the Baltimore Marine Hospital.

Mr. D'Alesandro had argued in a letter to General Bradley that since 1,000-bed hospitals have been authorized for such cities as Buffalo and Albany, N.Y., "it would seem that a metropolitan city the size of Baltimore should also have a hospital similar in size."

Co-Operation Praised

He said there is particular need for additional facilities for treatment of neuropsychiatric cases.

"You may be assured of our desire to provide adequately for the veterans of Maryland," General Bradley replied, "and to utilize to the fullest extent the advantages offered by the medical centers in Baltimore.

"We are obtaining the best possible co-operation from the medical schools in Baltimore in forwarding our hospitalization prgram."

States Are Urged To Form Air Units

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer said tonight that every state has become vulnerable to sudden surprise air thrusts and urged them to "accept allocated air national guard units without delay."

Stratemeyer, commanding general of the Air Defense Command, Mitchell Field, N.Y., declared that "with experimental long-range bombers designed to fly 10,000 miles carrying atomic bombs," the problem of integrating air defense is vital.

In a broadcast, Stratemeyer said the units will consist of 72 fighter squadrons and 12 light bombardment squadrons with one or more squadrons in each state and the District of Columbia.

"They will be equipped with the latest fighters and light bombers," he declared.

"Later when they become available, we hope to equip fighter units with jet-propelled aircraft, never permitting guard equipment to become obsolete."

Inquiry Clears Medical Staff In Death of Bride Ship Babies

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 5.—An investigating board reported to the War Department today that "lax sanitary methods employed by the mothers" may have contributed to the tragedy of eight baby deaths on the bride ship Zebulon B. Vance.

"No misconduct or neglect on the part of the medical staff aboard the vessel contributed in any way to the cause or spread of the illness, nor were any members of the medical staff intoxicated at any time during the voyage, as alleged by several of the passengers," said the report.

"On the contrary, if a break in technique was a contributing cause, it undoubtedly was occasioned by the lax sanitary methods employed by the mothers in the care of the infants."

The Zebulon Vance docked at New York May 20 after a thirteen-day voyage from Le Havre, France. Called to testify before the board which investigated the baby deaths were members of the ship's medical staff, doctors and nurses, passengers, United States Public Health authorities and New York Port of Embarkation officials.

This board, which sat in New York, was composed of Lieutenant Colonel Edwin T. Miller of the Army Transportation Corps, Lieutenant Colonel Thayer Chapman of the Inspector General's Division; Captain Lawrence I. Michel, Medical Corps, and Dr. Roy E. Bodet, medical director of the United States Public Health Service, quarantine service at Staten Island.

As a result of its investigations, the board recommended that no infant under one year be embarked from the European theater, and that more thorough physical examinations be given mothers and infants before they sail.

The board found that during the voyage the medical staff, composed of two medical officers, seven Army nurses, eight enlisted Wacs and two enlisted male personnel, was in constant attendance.

Further, it held that the hospital areas and the whole ship were "scrupulously cleaned." It found that "several of the infants were suffering from diarrhea at Camp Philip Morris" in France, and that "some mothers failed to inform medical authorities."

Major Jule F. Corey, transport commander, was shown to have testified, on the personal habits of his women passengers, that he had "noticed women didn't flush toilets." In fact, he said, if a toilet was out of repair it was used anyway.

Colonel Edward M. Marsh, director of preventive medicine, office of the surgeon, 2d Service Command, testified he believed that the infection was introduced before the ship left France. He said it was likely transferred from mother to baby because of an unsanitary and unhygienic manner of living.

The passenger list showed that of the adults 242 were French, 124 Belgian, two Poles and one Dutch. There were fifty-seven infants.

Dr. Henry M. Friedman sr., United States Public Health Service, testified: "I would say the personal hygiene of all the brides, no matter where they came from, was very unsatisfactory."

Captain George P. Schneider, transport surgeon, recommended replacement of Negro stewardesses with nurses. He suggested also that no infants under six months be brought over and that no mother pregnant more than six months be shipped.

Lieutenant Blanche F. Kuchar, chief nurse, testified that the medical staff repeatedly tried to discourage use of pacifiers, as unhygienic.

Lieutenant Kuchar said some of the mothers would pour the feeding formulas from sterile bottles, which had been made up in the diet kitchen, to unsterile bottles of their own. Sometimes, she said, when the milk was not flowing fast enough mothers used pins to enlarge the holes in the bottle nipples.

Asked about the personal cleanliness of the mothers, she said she thought they bathed their children every day but that some of the mothers went four to five days without bathing.

The board found that bottles and nipples had been sterlized according to accepted methods. It said that mothers of numerous infants prepared home-made pacifiers, using unsterile nipples, corks, cotton, sugar and water.

Mrs. Yvette Carter, one of the mothers, testified she had been very sick on ship and couldn't get attention. Her own baby became ill, but she said she was satisfied with the treatment given the infant. Mrs. Claude Graper, 1728 Belleau Drive, Pittsburgh, said that on the last day at Camp Philip Morris her baby daughter had had a touch of diarrhea. She said she allowed her child to use a pacifier.

Both these mothers expressed the belief that one of the medical staff, whom they believed to be a nurse, had been drinking. However, both said they saw this supposed nurse in a uniform and it was that of a soldier. The testimony indicated, the board said, that the person they saw was one of the Wac enlisted personnel.

The board's report said that during the voyage thirty infants were treated at the dispensary for diarrhea, vomiting and dehydration.

It reported that cause of the illness has not been definitely established, but that it resembles "epidemic infantile diarrhea, summer diarrhea or cholera infantum."

GI Baby Dies At Army Hospital

New York, June 5 (AP) — The death last night at Fort Hamilton Station Hospital of Margaret Freer, 2½-month-old GI baby, was announced today by the Army Port of Embarkation.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Freer, of Miami, Fla. The announcement said cause of death was pulmonary edema and gastroenteritis dehydration.

Baby and mother arrived here May 26 on the brideship George Goethals. Margaret and eight other infants were taken immediately to the hospital.

Of the eight, two have been discharged, three are in a "fair" condition and three others are seriously ill, the Army said.

E-Bond Cashins Exceed Buying

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Cashins of the Series E savings bond—the former "war bond"—have outstripped new purchases by $486,930,000 this year, Treasury figures disclosed today on the eve of a campaign to promote greater bond buying.

E-bond redemptions from the beginning of the year to June 1 totaled $2,598,655,000, as against $2,111,725,000 in new purchases.

Combined Sales Favorable

For all current savings bonds, however, new purchases have exceeded cashins of the same issues—Series F and G as well as E—by $629,182,000.

Furthermore, combined sales of the E, F and G issues for the first five months of 1946 totaled $3,470,440,000, which officials translated to "an annual rate of $8,300,000,000" and described as higher than predicted last December.

A downtrend in redemptions of E bonds, which have outrun new buying every month this year except January, was shown in figures for the last two months.

Campaign Opens Tomorrow

Cashins in May were fourteen per cent under April, which had been 14.7 under March, the peak month.

E-bond buying during May totaled $344,800,000. Redemptions were $469,160,000.

The nation-wide bond-selling campaign which opens tomorrow—second anniversary of D-day in Normandy—and runs through July 4 was described officially as a step to combat inflation.

REPORT ON FRANCO FACES OPPOSITION

M. HARRELSON

U. S., Russia, Britain Object to U.N. Sub-Committee's Spanish Findings.

NEW YORK, June 5—(AP) The United Nations Security council tonight appeared to be headed toward another bitter fight as it became clear that Russia, Great Britain and the United States would refuse to accept the report of the council's sub-committee on Spain in its present form.

An authoritative Soviet spokesman indicated that when the report comes before the council at 3 p.m. tomorrow Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko would be prepared to object strenuously to two major points.

Soviet Veto Seen

While the spokesman would not comment on reports that Russia might veto acceptance of the report, some delegates saw the Soviet attitude as opening the way for a possible veto.

Neither the United States nor the British delegations had received instructions from their governments this afternoon, but spokesmen for both groups said it could be safely assumed that they would object to some of the sub-committee's conclusions.

The sub-committee report, circulated Saturday after a month's investigation of Poland's charges that the Franco regime is a threat to world peace, concluded that the Spanish government was not an actual threat at present but only a "potential threat."

Diplomatic Break Urged

It recommended that the case be referred to the 51-nation General Assembly with a request that the assembly call for a worldwide break of diplomatic relations with Spain unless the Franco regime is "withdrawn" by September.

The Soviet spokesman said Russia took issue with both points. He said the Soviet government is convinced that Generalissimo Francisco Franco is a definite menace to peace at present and that the council itself should direct a break with the Franco government instead of referring the case to the assembly.

American and British circles, while emphasizing that their positions were not yet definite, indicate they probably would follow their previous contention that there is not sufficient evidence to justify a break with Franco.

This, it was pointed out, would mean opposition to sending the Assembly a specific recommendation for a break in September. It was not clear whether they would be willing to refer the case to the Assembly without recommendations or whether they would object to handing it over to the Assembly under any circumstances.

Must Get 7 Affirmative Votes

Under terms of the charter, the recommendations must get seven affirmative votes, including the unanimous support of the five major powers. Thus, the recommendations must have the support of Russia, the United States and Britain, to be approved.

So far the report has the definite backing of five Council members—France, China, Australia, Poland and Brazil—who made up the sub-committee.

The fight for acceptance of the report will be led by Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian Minister of External Affairs.

Opposes Russian Proposal

Meanwhile, at today's session of the Economic and Social Council, British Delegate Philip J. Noel-Baker vigorously opposed a Russian proposal that aid to war-devastated areas be extended only to United Nations members.

"It would be tragic," he said, "if we would say we should not consider such countries as Italy and Austria in studying devastated areas."

Soviet Delegate Nikolai J. Feonov, after suggesting limitation of United Nations aid, said the United Nations must make sure it does not endanger the sovereignty of the countries being aided.

Russian Opposition To Spain Report Told

F. CARPENTER

New York, June 5 (AP)—An authorized Soviet spokesman declared today that Russia was strongly opposed to the conclusions reached by the United Nations Security Council subcommittee investigating Franco Spain.

The spokesman declined to comment on reports that Russia might invoke the veto against the subcommittee recommendations in their present form, but his explanation of Russia's stand made the veto a possibility.

The subcommittee, in its conclusions announced last Saturday, said Franco Spain does not at present constitute an "existing threat to the peace" and that the Security Council therefore has no jurisdiction to authorize enforcement measures called for by the Charter.

September Action Urged

The subcommittee recommended, however, that if Generalissimo Franco is still in power in September the General Assembly call upon the entire membership of the United Nations to break relations with the Franco regime forthwith.

The spokesman said the Russian delegate, Andrei A. Gromyko, was not enthusiastic about the subcommittee's conclusions, regarding them as contradictory.

It was said that the Russian delegation disagreed with these two points contained in the subcommittee report:

1. That Spain is not an existing threat to peace.
2. That the General Assembly, instead of the Security Council, should call for severance of relations.

On the first point Gromyko, debating in the Council on a resolution presented by Poland calling for an immediate break with Spain, said the evidence put before the Council showed that Generalissimo Franco is a threat to international peace.

It was said today that Gromyko still could not agree that Franco is not an existing threat to world peace.

On the second point, it was pointed out that putting the matter up to the General Assembly postpones action. The next meeting of the Assembly will be here in September.

Meets Once A Year

The General Assembly meets once a year. Therefore, if such a precedent is to be established, such recommendations might prove to be ineffective because they put the matter off until the Assembly meets.

United Nations observers have noted that the Security Council has closely guarded its prerogatives. The recommendation of the subcommittee that the Council pass final action on to the Assembly occasioned some surprise on that score.

The Russian view was said to be that the Security Council was created for the definite purpose of taking action and it should do so instead of the General Assembly.

The Spanish question has been placed on the agenda of the Security Council meeting tomorrow at 3 P.M.

UN Council Will Fly 'World Flag'

SAN FRANCISCO, (INS)—The new "World Flag" will soon replace the more cumbersome 51-flag display of the United Nations.

A check of more than one thousand UN diplomats and leaders by the UN Honor Flag Committee has disclosed their unanimous approval of the new banner.

Brooks Harding of San Francisco, national chairman of the U. S. division of the flag committee, is now in the East conferring with UN officials there on the flag.

However, the UN flag is not really new. It was first raised to the top of a flag pole at Dumbarton Oaks, Washington, D. C., on June 20, 1943.

The flag is quite un-complicated. It consists of a white field with four upright bars emblazoned upon it. In the United States these pillars will usually be red, but blue or green pillars are optional at the request of certain of the United Nations.

Four Bars

The white field of the flag stands for purity and peace among nations and the bars for the four freedoms.

When it is displayed with the national flag, the UN honor flag is placed below or, if on a stage or table, is to the right of the observer.

And there's a possibility the four bars—like the stars in the United States flag—may be increased in number. The flag committee has this to observe about the bars:

"Each country may define its own basic four freedoms, or join with others in determining an acceptable set of world-wide four freedoms. Other freedoms may be added by interpretation of the basic four."

U. N. Nominee Wins Approval

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved today the nomination of Harry J. Anslinger of Pennsylvania to represent the United States on the Narcotic Drugs Commission of the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations. The nomination now goes to the Senate for final action.

2 German Seamen Await Deportation

Philadelphia, June 5 (AP)—Two former crew members of the Nazi heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen awaited deportation today to the Germany they left May 15 as stowaways aboard an unidentified American ship.

The men were turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation yesterday. The FBI said the Germans were Hans Haska, 21, and Eugene Schall, 20.

The Prinz Eugen is to be a target ship at Bikini atoll for the atomic-bomb tests.

FBI agents said the two Germans had arrived in Baltimore May 30 and came to Philadelphia because they had been told jobs were easy to get and because they had a good time when the Prinz Eugen was docked at the Philadelphia naval base.

Newspaper reports said crew members of the Nazi vessel were wined and dined at a party before the ship departed for Germany and given gifts of clothing and liquor

RADAR EQUIPMENT LANDS PLANES IN BLIND FLYING TEST

DAYTON, O., June 5—(AP) Converted war-time radar apparatus was used today to guide nine blind-flying planes to landings by a method which Army air officials said promised to relieve the problem of traffic congestion over large airports.

At intervals of about one and one-half minutes, the planes were "talked" to runways at Clinton Army Air base at nearby Wilmington upon their arrival from Cincinnati.

Without special equipment of any kind aboard, they had been kept in view for some 35 miles on a radar screen on the field and their movements controlled by instructions radioed to the pilot.

Airliners, because of Federal safety regulations, are spaced as much as 15 minutes apart in landing in thick weather at large metropolitan airports.

Radar was used in wartime to help guide planes to landings but this newest Airport control traffic apparatus and system was developed since V-E Day by Cambridge, Mass., field station.

Nine planes of miscellaneous types were "stacked up" in the vicinity of Cincinnati for today's demonstration, much as airliners sometimes are spaced as far west as Dayton, O., waiting to enter La Guardia field, New York city, in bad weather, or are held over West Virginia before getting the radio signal to land at Washington's National airport.

The radar-radio system brought them down in about twenty minutes, compared with a delay which officials said might reach three hours over congested airports. Attempts are being made now to speed the landings to one a minute from about forty an hour.

As three operators and three radio channels are required the new system is adopted presently chiefly to large airports.

With today's demonstration, the Army Air Forces reported for the first time on tests of this peacetime adaptation of radar which have been in progress for more than a month.

'Make Army, Navy Unify Research'

Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, June 5 (AP)—Dr. Vannevar Bush proposed today that the Army ground and air forces and the Navy be required by "authoritative" means to unify their military research and development so as to eliminate costly duplication of effort.

Dr. Bush, president of the Carnegie Institution and a leading figure in development of the atomic bomb, said a national program of military research and an end to "acrimonious disptue and jockeying for position" is "a must if we are to remain fully strong."

Sees No Voluntary Accord

Shortly before, army air research and development requirements had been estimated at $250,000,000 annually for five years and Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Lemay outlined a current proposal for a new air forces center to develop jet-age weapons estimated to cost $600,000,000.

Bush did not refer specifically to any service or plan. He said, however, a specific unification proposal was under consideration and indorsed as one measure the creation of a national science foundation. He contended overlapping of effort could not be prevented by voluntary agreement.

Rivalry among the Army, Navy and Air Forces over control of guided missiles and other new type weapons was brought to light last month by top officials of the three services when the ground forces ordnance department fired the first 25 captured German V-2 rockets at the start of a series of tests in New Mexico. The Budget Bureau directed the air forces and the NACA to get together on overlapping proposals.

ONE OF BRITAIN'S GREATEST DIFFICULTIES, ATTLEE SAID, WAS "TO TRY TO GET INTO THE MINDS OF OUR RUSSIAN FRIENDS SOME REAL UNDERSTANDING OF THE WAY WE WORK THINGS IN WESTERN DEMOCRACIES."

CHURCHILL DECLARED IT WAS INCREDIBLE THAT "THE HANDFUL OF VERY ABLE MEN" WHO RULE FROM THE KREMLIN SHOULD BE SO ILL-INFORMED CONCERNING THE WESTERN DEMOCRACIES, AND CRIED:

"IT CANNOT BE IN THE INTERESTS OF RUSSIA TO GO ON IRRITATING THE UNITED STATES. THERE IS NO PEOPLE IN THE WORLD WHICH IS SLOWER IN DEVELOPING HOSTILE FEELINGS AGAINST A FOREIGN COUNTRY THAN THE AMERICANS."

"THE AMERICAN EAGLE SITS ON HIS PERCH, A STRONG BIRD WITH FORMIDABLE BEAK AND CLAWS. THERE HE SITS, MOTIONLESS, AND MR. GROMYKO (ANDREI GROMYKO, RUSSIAN MEMBER OF THE SECURITY COUNCIL) IS SENT EVERY DAY TO PROD HIM WITH A SHARP SICKLE, NOW ON HIS BEAK, NOW UNDER HIS WING, NOW IN HIS TAIL FEATHERS.

"ALL THE TIME THE EAGLE KEEPS QUITE STILL," CHURCHILL CONTINUED AMID LAUGHTER. "BUT IT WOULD BE A MISTAKE TO SUPPOSE NOTHING IS GOING ON IN THE BREAST OF THE EAGLE. I VENTURE TO GIVE THIS FRIENDLY HINT TO MY OLD WARTIME COMRADE, MARSHAL STALIN."

"WE SEEK NOTHING FROM RUSSIA EXCEPT GOOD WILL," CHURCHILL SAID, ADDING THAT IF RUSSIA WERE MENACED AGAIN, BRITAIN WOULD FULFILL HER OBLIGATIMNS AND GO TO THE RUSSIANS' AID.

NEVERTHELESS, HE SAID, BRITAIN COULD NOT AGREE TO INDEFINITE POSTPONEMENT OF PEACE TREATIES.

"THE IDEA OF KEEPING MILLIONS OF PEOPLE HANGING ABOUT IN A SUB-HUMAN STATE BETWEEN HEAVEN AND HELL WILL ONLY BREED MORAL PESTILENCE AND PROBABLY ACTIVE WAR," CHURCHILL SAID.

"IT IS BETTER TO HAVE A WORLD UNITED THAN A WORLD DIVIDED," HE SAID. "IT IS ALSO BETTER TO HAVE A WORLD DIVIDED THAN A WORLD DESTROYED."

CHURCHILL INJECTED INTO THE DEBATE THE INVESTIGATION OF THE SOVIET SPY PLOT IN CANADA, AND SAID THE BRITISH PEOPLE WONDERED WHETHER RUSSIA REALLY SOUGHT THE FRIENDSHIP OF BRITAIN.

BOTH ATTLEE AND OPPOSITION LEADER CHURCHILL SUPPORTED THE FOREIGN POLICY OF FOREIGN SECRETARY ERNEST BEVIN, WHO YESTERDAY CRITICIZED THE RUSSIANS' IDEAS ON SECURITY AND DEMOCRACY AS BEING ONE OF THE "GREAT OBSTACLES TO PEACE."

CHURCHILL APPLAUDED BEVIN AND THE LABOR GOVERNMENT FOR THEIR "RESOLUTE DENUNCIATION OF COMMUNISM."

ATTLEE SAID BEVIN'S PATIENCE AND UNDERSTANDING WOULD PLAY A GREAT ROLE IN THE "OVERCOMING OF OUR DIFFICULTIES."

CHURCHILL AND ATTLEE DISAGREED ON SPAIN. THE OPPOSITION LEADER CALLED SPAIN "ONE OF THE LEAST AGGRESSIVE NATIONS OF EUROPE" AND SAID HE FELT THAT "THE SPANISH PEOPLE HAD BETTER BE LEFT TO WORK OUT THEIR OWN SALVATION." BUT ATTLEE COUNTERED THAT BRITAIN MUST TAKE ACTION "BEST CALCULATED TO MAKE THE SPANISH GET RID OF THEIR PRESENT GOVERNMENT AND GET A DECENT GOVERNMENT IN ITS PLACE."

CHURCHILL DECLARED "I BELIEVE IT IS A FACT, TO PUT IT MILDLY, THAT THERE IS AS MUCH FREEDOM IN SPAIN UNDER THE FRANCO REGIME, AND A GOOD DEAL MORE SECURITY AND HAPPINESS FOR ORDINARY FOLK, THAN THERE IS IN POLAND AT THIS TIME."

SAYING THAT "NONE OF US LIKE THE FRANCO REGIME," HE STATED THAT "BETWEEN NOT LIKING THE GOVERNMENT AND TRYING TO STIR UP A CIVIL WAR THERE IS A VERY WIDE DIFFERENCE."

CHURCHILL, ON OTHER SUBJECTS, S... SUPPORTED INTERNATIONALIZATION ... THE ADRIATIC PORT OF TRIESTE. CALLED FOR A STRENGTHENED FRANCE AND BRITISH FRIENDSHIP WITH BELGIUM AND HOLLAND AND ENDORSED BRITISH POLICY IN GREECE. HE ALSO SUPPORTED THE PROPOSAL FOR A PLEBISCITE IN THE AUSTRIAN TYROL TO DECIDE ITS OWNERSHIP BETWEEN ITALY AND AUSTRIA.

HE SAID TRIESTE WAS OF "VITAL IMPORTANCE TO THE WHOLE OF CENTRAL EUROPE AND THE DANUBIAN BASIN" BECAUSE IT IS A NATURAL FUNNEL TO THE MEDITERRANEAN FOR THE AREA'S COMMERCE.

ATTLEE DECLARED GERMANY SHOULD BE TREATED AS AN ECONOMIC WHOLE, PREFERABLY AS A FEDERATION OF GERMANIC STATES.

"GERMANY MUST WORK OUT HER SALVATION THROUGH GERMANY," HE SAID, "AND THEREFORE WE ARE CONTINUING TO TRY TO WORK IN GETTING AN ECONOMIC UNITY OF GERMANY, TO GETTING REAL DEMOCRACY INTO GERMANY, AND IN WORKING IN THE CLOSEST HARMONY WITH OUR GREAT ALLIES."

London, June 5--(AP)--Winston Churchill said today in the debate on foreign policy that a Communist spy system "whose exposure is at present confined to Canada," had made a deep mark on trans-Atlantic opinion.

"These revelations, by no means complete, have stirred the whole of the dominion of Canada," Churchill said.

"The Canadian government and Prime Minister MacKenzie King have only done their duty with courage and justice in exposing what has been brought out in Canada," he declared.

William Gallacher, Communist member for Fife, Western, interrupted

Churchill at one point, saying that he knew of only one Communist, (Fred Rose) who was associated with the question of espionage in Canada and that he understood that man's trial was proceeding. He said he did not think it desirable that any one should "prejudge" the case.

ALTHOUGH THE CENTRIST POPULAR REPUBLICAN MOVEMENT(MRP) CAPTURED A PLURALITY OF THE SEATS IN THE ASSEMBLY, THERE SEEMED LITTLE LIKELIHOOD THAT THE PARTY WOULD SEEK THE PRESIDENCY FOR ONE OF ITS MEMBERS.

IT WAS GENERALLY CONCEDED THAT AN MRP CANDIDATE WOULD HAVE SMALL CHANCE OF SUPPORT BY THE COMMUNISTS, NOW FRANCE'S SECOND LARGEST PARTY, WHO REGARD THE MRP AS REACTIONARY AND CATHOLIC-DOMINATED.

IT WAS EQUALLY OBVIOUS THAT ANY GOVERNMENT WHICH DOES NOT INCLUDE THE COMMUNISTS WOULD BE A DIFFICULT ONE TO FORM, AND IF FORMED WOULD BE DIFFICULT TO KEEP IN EXISTENCE WITH THEIR OPPOSITION.

THE ONLY SOLUTION SEEMED TO BE A THIRD PARTY COALITION HEADED BY THE SOCIALISTS, WHO HAVE EMPHASIZED THAT THEY WOULD NOT PARTICIPATE IN ANY GOVERNMENT WHICH EXCLUDED THE COMMUNISTS.

THE SOCIALISTS THEMSELVES, ATTEMPTING TO STRENGTHEN A POSITION BADLY WEAKENED BY SUNDAY'S ELECTION, HAVE PUT OUT FEELERS CONCERNING THE POSSIBILITY OF A SOCIALIST-COMMUNIST RADICAL SOCIALIST COALITION. THIS APPEARED OUT OF THE QUESTION, JUN 6 1946 HOWEVER, IN VIEW OF FORMER PREMIER EDOUARD DALADIER'S ASSERTION THAT HIS RIGHTIST RADICAL SOCIALISTS WOULD NOT PARTICIPATE IN FORMING THE NEW GOVERNMENT.

SELECTION OF A PRESIDENT WILL BE BY SIMPLE MAJORITY VOTE OF THE CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY, WHICH WILL CONVENE NEXT TUESDAY. IT IS EXPECTED TO DESIGNATE ITS OWN OFFICERS THE FOLLOWING DAY BEFORE TACKLING THE QUESTION OF THE PRESIDENCY.

SOCALIST LEADERS REGARDED AS LIKELY CANDIDATES FOR PRESIDENT INCLUDE FELIX GOUIN, HEAD OF THE RETIRING GOVERNMENT; VINCENT AURIOL, PRESIDENT OF THE OLD CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY, AND FORMER PREMIER LEON BLUM.

the 50-year-old army officer, who assumed office on the third anniversary of the military revolt which seized power from the country's last constitutional government, decreed that his first full day as president would be a national holiday.

three minor disorders, the first to occur since the elections took place on feb. 24, marred an otherwise orderly inaugural celebration. an unidentified man was wounded in the hand during a street fight between youths affiliated with the nationalist liberating alliance and patrons of a cafe usually frequented by spanish republicans. the office of the morning paper la prensa was stoned by nationalist youths, and a group of armed men entered the plant of the communist organ laHora and destroyed some newspaper files.

one of peron's first official acts was to ~~take the oaths~~ swear in of his cabinet. eight ministers were named, in addition to four secretaries who do not hold the rank of minister, but will be members of the cabinet.

Cambridge, Mass., June 6 (A. P.).—Harvard University broke a three-century-old tradition today to confer in absentia honorary doctor of laws degrees upon Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Gen. George Marshall.

Conant said that both MacArthur and Marshall had accepted the degrees. They will be presented at a special ceremony to be held in Cambridge at a later date.

Thirteen honorary degrees in all were conferred by President James B. Conant, including:

Byron Price, vice-president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, for his work as war time censor, master of arts.

Moslems Accept British Plan, Insist Pakistan Is Still Goal

Will Enter Federated Union of India, but League Retains Right to Advise Secession Later; Princes Also Announce Their Acceptance

By The Associated Press

NEW DELHI, India, June 6.—The Council of the Moslem League accepted tonight the British Cabinet mission's plan for an independent federated union of India, but reiterated that establishment of a separate Moslem state (Pakistan) remains the Moslems' "unalterable" objective.

The council, which claims to be the spokesman for the 90,000,000 Moslems in India, said its action was "prompted by its earnest desire for a peaceful solution, if possible, of the Indian problem."

In a resolution the council declared that "the basis and foundation of Pakistan are inherent" in the British plan, by virtue of the plan's reference to "compulsory regrouping" of six provinces in which the Moslems assert they are the dominant majority.

The council said the league "is willing to co-operate with the constitution-making machinery proposed . . . in the hope that it would ultimately result in establishment of complete sovereign Pakistan and in the consummation of the goal of independence for the major nations, Moslems and Hindus and all the other people inhabiting this vast subcontinent."

The league retains the right, the council asserted, to advise secession of Moslem groups from any federation of India resulting from the British plan. For achievement of Pakistan the Moslems will, "if necessary, employ every means in their power and consider no sacrifice or suffering too great," the council added.

To Negotiate On Participation

A resolution passed by virtually unanimous vote of the council instructed its president, Mahomed Ali Jinnah, to negotiate with Viceroy Lord Wavell on participation in an interim central government.

The action came after hours of discussion and an informal voice vote this morning favoring acceptance of the plan, even though Britain's proposals rejected the Moslem demand for establishment of a separate Moslem state.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, a leader of the other major Indian political party, the All-India Congress party, has already spoken in favor of following the British proposals.

Princes Also Willing

In Bombay a spokesman at a meeting of representatives of the foremost princes of India said today the princes were also "quite willing to come into the framework of an independent India" and do their best to enter the British plan.

The resolution passed by the council said that the "ultimate decision" of the Moslem League would depend upon the outcome of the work of the constitutional assembly which will draw the plan for a federated India.

Some Moslems had staged demonstrations against the British plan, but Gandhi, spiritual leader of the Congress party, which is predominantly Hindu, said it was "the best document the British Government could have produced under the circumstances."

India Group Backs Freedom Plan

New Delhi, June 6 (AP)—The Moslem League council gave overwhelming approval to the British Cabinet delegation's plan for Indian independence in an informal voice vote today, council members said, after a four-and-a-half-hour closed meeting.

The members said the vote indicated that a "large majority in favor" would be recorded this evening when a formal ballot is scheduled on a resolution setting forth the league's attitude toward the Cabinet mission's proposal for a constituent assembly to draft basic laws for an independent Indian federation.

Mahomed Ali Jinnah, president of the Moslem League, criticized the British proposals yesterday in an address at the opening session of the council, reaffirming demands for a separate Moslem state (Pakistan).

The council is composed of 475 delegates representing the Moslem League members in eleven provinces.

Russia, Argentina Linked Again by Diplomatic Ties

LONDON, June 6—(AP) Russia and Argentina have established diplomatic relations, the Moscow radio announced tonight. The announcement said:

"The government of the U.S.S.R. and the government of the Argentine republic, inspired by the high principles of collaboration and understanding between peoples, declare that they have decided to establish from today complete diplomatic, consular and trade relations.

"The two governments have decided to exchange ambassadors in the very near future."

Negotiated By Peron

"The negotiations which have come to such a happy conclusion took place in the city of Buenos Aires between the plenipotentiary of the government of the U.S.S.R., Shevelev, and his excellency the president of the Argentine republic, Gen. Juan Domingo Peron, and the minister of foreign affairs and culture, Dr. Juan Atilio Bramuglia.

"As a result of the negotiations, notes were exchanged simultaneously between the minister of foreign affairs and culture of the Argentine republic, Dr. Juan Atilio Bramuglia, and the plenipotentiary of the U.S.S.R., Shevelev. The present communique is being published simultaneously in Moscow and Buenos Aires."

The two countries now have diplomatic relations for the first time since the Russian revolution during the first World War. The action had been expected since Peron's victory in the Feb. 24 presidential election. It also has been forecast that Argentina would establish relations with Poland and Egypt.

Announcement of the establishment of relations came only two days after Peron was inaugurated as Argentina's 29th president.

Reds Denounced Regime

During the 1945 San Francisco conference when the United Nations charter was being written, Russia denounced Argentina's military regime as fascist. Peron had been a leading figure in that regime which ruled the South American country until last Tuesday.

In preparing the ground for the move, the Soviet press today praised Argentina editorially. An article in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia by V. Kudryavtsev said the Soviet Union considered that the establishment of relations between the two countries would be in the interest of peace and security.

Declaring that the move to force a diplomatic link between the two countries had gained strong headway since Peron's election, the article said:

"Argentina has possibilities of conducting animated trade relations—she needs autos, tractors and farm machinery so naturally this opens broad prospects for trade with the Soviet Union—a highly industrialized country."

Presence of a Soviet trade mission in Argentina, Izvestia said, stimulated interest in political and business circles there in the setting up of normal relations.

The article described Argentina as a country where the British dominated the railroads, American and British interests had a large measure of control in the meat packing industry and where foreigners in the past sometimes have tried to run the nation's foreign policy.

REDS ATTACK U. S. ON GERMAN PLAN

Moscow Radio Charges Probe of Disarmament Has Been Sidetracked.

LONDON, June 6 — (AP) The Moscow radio charged today that the United States had "sidetracked" the Soviet plan for a four-power investigation of the progress of German disarmament by proposing a simultaneous inquiry of the entire German war industry.

The government newspaper Izvestia, meanwhile, declared that it would be in the interests of peace and security for Russia to establish diplomatic and trade relations with Argentina, which Izvestia described as a country "where British interests dominate the railroads, meat packing is largely American and British controlled, and where foreigners in the past sometimes tried to run the nation's foreign policies."

Reports from Berlin had said that the breakdown of the commission, appointed at the recent foreign ministers conference in Paris, was caused by Soviet reluctance to permit the commission to inspect factories in the Soviet occupation zone.

The Moscow radio, in an English-language broadcast by the commentator "Analyzer," attributed the commission's failure to an American proposal "that a general investigation of the entire German war industry be undertaken simultaneously," then added:

"Obviously this would not make it possible to carry out quickly the urgent job of making sure that all the German troops had been actually disarmed. So the investigation, suggested by the Soviet representatives, has been sidetracked."

The broadcast hit again at the U. S. action in halting all industrial reparations shipments from the American zone until a decision is reached on economic unification of Germany.

"German industry is still so powerful as to be capable of supporting large scale aggression," the broadcast said, "and the fact that General Clay, head of the American military administration in Germany, refused, contrary to agreements made, to proceed with the dismantling of German factories does not make the menace to peace which a formidable German industry represents any smaller."

Another Moscow broadcast said the Iranian newspaper Rahbar had suggested that Premier Ahmed Qavam investigate whether all British troops have withdrawn from Iran.

The broadcast, quoting a Tass dispatch from Tehran, said the newspaper reported that disgusted British officers remained in various districts of Iran, including the extreme eastern area near the Baluchistan border. The newspaper reported also that British troops remained in Bushire, Iranian port on the Persian Gulf, and on Bahrein Island, on the opposite side of the gulf.

Diplomats Hopeful Of Big-4 Part For Reich

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Diplomats talked hopefully today of improving chances for Big Four agreement on plans for long-range control of Germany.

Their guarded optimism is based on late reports from London, Paris and Moscow bearing on the approaching June 15 renewal of the Foreign Ministers conference.

These officials say British Foreign Minister Bevin has decided to press for eventual creation of a German federation which would include the once highly industrialized Ruhr.

Byrnes To Try Again

An agreement on this point would put an end to the long controversy centering around France's demand for separation of the Ruhr.

Secretary of State Byrnes is equally determined to try again for an agreement to keep Germany disarmed.

Bevin has pledged his support: and indications are that Byrnes will fully back the federation plan. It is, in fact, already being practiced in the American occupation zone.

France, according to some diplomats here, may be prevailed upon to accept the federation system without insisting on her demand for complete separation of the Ruhr. The expectation, too, is that the French will go along with the treaty to keep Germany impotent.

Soviet Strategy Seen

Moscow is silent, but diplomats familiar with conditions there are speculating that since the French elections are over and the Ruhr is no longer a prime political issue, the Kremlin may be quite willing to accept a plan which would keep Germany more or less in one piece.

The Russian hope, according to these persons, would be to exercise a strong influence in Germany by means of a union of the Communist elements in eastern and western Germany.

British and American officials recognize this as possible Soviet strategy, but they believe the development of communism in Germany may be comparable to that in other European countries where the party's success has been considerable but not overwhelming.

The belief is that the Russians eventually many go along on Byrnes's 25-year treaty proposal, provided Byrnes can allay Foreign Minister Molotov's suspicions.

No Appeasement British Policy Takes Shape

London, June 6 (AP)—After two days of debate in the House of Commons in which the Conservative opposition sustained the Labor Government's policy toward Russia, the British attitude on foreign affairs appeared today to sum up to this:

1. Determination to approach the new four-power Foreign Ministers Conference in Paris June 15 with an open mind, but with the limitation that there will be no appeasement of Russia.

2. Acceptance of the view that, if compromise fails, peace treaties for Europe should be considered by the other 21 belligerents of the United Nations.

3. Regretful acknowledgement that, although a united world is desirable, "it is also better to have a world divided than a world destroyed."

Compromise Doubted

British Government sources as well as authoritative diplomatic quarters were pessimistic today about the chances that Moscow would compromise on matters in its primary zone of influence. This zone has been described as reaching westward from Stettin in the north to Trieste on the Adriatic, and including all the Russian occupation zone of Germany.

In this zone, where Churchill declared "the seeds of a new world war are being sown," diplomats have noted a Soviet determination to hold a position of dominant influence.

Soviet Stand Uncertain

Both Prime Minister Attlee and Foreign Secretary Bevin have committed Britain to the policy of organizing a federated Germany bound with political and economic ties to neighboring countries.

They also have committed Britain to support United States Secretary of State Byrnes's plan for a 25-year four-power alliance to keep Germany disarmed.

But whether Russia will accept the principle of federation and recede from opposition to Byrnes's offer is uncertain.

Diplomats say they believe it significant, however, that Communist propaganda in the western zone of Germany is advocating a centralized Reich rather than a federated Germany. This may be because the Russians believe centralization would strengthen their influence through all Germany and well beyond their present zone of occupation.

LASKI TO VISIT RUSSIA

London, June 6 (A. P.).—The Labor party announced today that it is arranging to send to Russia a "good will" mission headed by Prof. Harold Laski, chairman of the party's national executive committee.

Morgan Phillips, party secretary; Miss Alice Bacon, a member of Parliament, and Harold Clay, assistant general secretary of the Transport and General Workers Union, will be the other members of the mission. The party will leave some time in July.

Phillips said the British Labor movement "is very desirous that there shall be closest possible contact with the Soviet Union."

Disguised British Still In Iran, Paper Says

London, June 6 (AP)—The Moscow radio quoted the Tehran newspaper Rahbar today as saying that British soldiers disguised in civilian dress still remained in various sections of Iran—including the Bushire area, Iranian Baluchistan and various southern ports.

The broadcast said the paper urged Premier Ahmed Qavam to send a mission of patriots and journalists to "check up whether the evacuation of British troops and installations from these districts has been completed and inform the United Nations Security Council of its findings."

Britain Concluding Greek Trade Pact

London, June 6 (AP)—Great Britain is concluding a trade agreement with Greece, aimed at centralizing distribution and combatting the black market, a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

Text of the agreement was not yet available in London, but the agreement was understood to be regarded favorably in Washington although the United States was not consulted beforehand.

SECURITY COUNCIL POSTPONES DEBATE ON FRANCO REPORT

U. S., Great Britain Both Favor Delay in Discussion.

NEXT SESSION TUESDAY

Chairman of Probe Group Demands 'Just, Fearless Decision.'

NEW YORK, June 6—(AP) The United Nations Security council yielded to a request by the United States and Great Britain today for postponement of full-dress debate on a proposal for a complete United Nations diplomatic break with Generalissimo Franco's Spain by Next September.

Both Herschel V. Johnson, sitting for the first time as the United States delegate, and Sir Alexander Cadogan of Great Britain, said their governments had not had time to decide their position on the Spanish issue. They requested that the discussion be put off.

Action Until Tuesday

When it became apparent that no one wanted to start the long-expected debate, Council President Alexandre Parodi of France, announced adjournment until next Tuesday.

Prior to submission of the subcommittee report, Parodi expressed the Council's regret at the resignation Monday of Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., as the United States delegate. Parodi at that time welcomed Johnson, who will serve as acting delegate until Senator Warren R. Austin (R., Vt.) takes the delegate's post next January 3.

The question before the council was a formal proposal by Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian delegate and chairman of the council subcommittee which investigated Spain, to approve the recommendations his group had reached after a month-long study.

The sub-committee decided that the Franco regime is a "potential" threat to world peace and should be isolated unless Franco is ousted by September.

The group suggested that the Security council convey to the General Assembly, which meets here in September, a recommendation that every member of the United Nations break off relations with Franco if he still is in power by that time.

Attacks Franco

Dr. Evatt, also sitting for the first time in the council, told his fellow delegates and a crowded council chamber that as long as "Franco remains in power there is likely to be a situation of international concern."

Calling for a "just and fearless decision," Dr. Evatt said:

"So here is a challenge to the United Nations organization, a challenge to the Security council in the first instance and ultimately in the recommendation of the committee to the assembly. Because we have thought that in this particular case it is proper that the Security council should not be the final arbiter in this matter but as all the United Nations are involved, and as the question of diplomatic relations with Spain is involved, so many countries are involved, the matter should ultimately go to the General Assembly of the United Nations.

"Mr. President, I therefore propose to the Security council that all the recommendations in the subcommittee's report be now adopted by the Security council."

Johnson immediately requested the discussion be put off. Sir Alexander supported Johnson.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Russian delegate, did not say a word during the session.

Showdown Is Due On Spain Issue

New York, June 6 (AP)—Russia and the big Western powers in the United Nations Security Council—all three armed with the knockout punch of the veto—headed for a showdown today over a subcommittee's appraisal of Franco Spain as a potential menace to peace.

As the Council prepared to assemble after a fifteen-day layoff, the spokesman for a delegation represented on the subcommittee said he understood [illegible] of the Big Three might invoke the veto unless the report is modified, but he expressed hope that the committee's conclusions on Spain would be adopted "without too much cutting or watering down."

The report called for a collective United Nations diplomatic break with Madrid by the General Assembly next September if Spain is not rid of Generalissimo Francisco Franco by then.

Reasons Vary

It was authoritatively reported unacceptable in its present form to Russia, the United States and Britain for divergent reasons.

The subcommittee spokesman said that Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko could be expected to argue for severe action against Franco immediately and that the Russian would oppose any attempt to hand the issue over to the General Assembly. (ADD)

Spain Press Hits Russ On U.N.

Madrid, June 6 (AP)—The Falange party newspaper Arriba said in a first-page editorial today that only Russia would benefit from a world-wide rupture of relations with Spain and asked if the United States and England "want the iron curtain to begin at Algeciras."

"It does not seem that the Anglo-Saxons are too interested in cutting the throat of the only portion of Europe which maintains order and liberty—yes, liberty—and those good intentions indispensable to the normal living together of nations," Arriba said.

"A Spain sunk in chaos or in terrible, ordered Communist silence would not suit either the commerce and politics or the spiritual values which the Anglo-Saxons defend. Or do they want the iron curtain to begin at Algeciras?"

"Russia's Business"

The Catholic newspaper YA said a rupture would be "good business" only for Russia "because Russia's business is this: Disorder, oppression and hunger for all peoples."

The monarchist publication ABC printed an attack on Spanish exiles by Mariano Daranas, press chief of the Ministry of Interior, accusing them of having offered Spanish territory to Russia.

The Franco Government maintained that Spain would rather endure "sacrificing isolation" than submit to foreign interference in her internal affairs. It contended that the United Nations was "unjust and abusive" toward Spain.

"Threat To Spanish Peace"

In a 3,000-word statement, issued only a few hours before the United Nations Security Council was scheduled to meet in New York to consider a subcommittee report recommending an eventual world-wide diplomatic break with Spain unless Generalissimo Francisco Franco is ousted, the Government accused France and Russia of threatening Spanish peace. Choice Of Austin Seen As Russ Amity Move

Washington, June 6 (AP)—President Truman's choice of Senator Warren R. Austin as American representative on the United Nations Security Council prompted official hopes today of encouraging a new Soviet attitude in that body.

The Vermont Republican said only that as the successor to Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., he considered himself the President's deputy to carry out policies Mr. Truman formulates.

But Senate colleagues noted that the 68-year-old New Englander will take into his new post a publicly recorded understanding of what he has termed the "Security-conscious" position of Russia.

Dealings With Gromyko

As American representative, Austin will deal directly wtih Andrei A. Gromyko, his Soviet counterpart who on more than one occasion has failed to see eye to eye with the United States on world controversies called to the Council's attention.

Noting that he has not publicly criticized Russia, Austin referred a reporter's request for a statement of his attitude toward the Soviets to the June 1 commencement address she delivered to the School of Advanced International Studies of the Foreign Service Educational Foundation.

Word On Draft Moves

In that address, Austin mentioned the House vote for a selective service holiday and said it must have caused "consternation" in Russia when that country saw "her greatest ally bowing in subservience to an isolationist minority."

Russia could not be blamed, he went on, for concluding that the United States would fail in her occupation duties and "could not carry out her expressed obligations under the United Nations Charter."

"People who have suffered military aggression and the devastation of modern war have little faith in promises without works," Austin said. "After her desperate exposure to German aggression during the last 30 years, in which she was ravaged and looted in two wars, Russia is security conscious.

Buffer-State Interest

"The conduct of the United States being inconsistent with the Charter of the United Nations, Russia is interested in buffer states for her security."

But friends said Austin is not so impressed with Russia's position that he could ever forget that American interests come first.

OHIO G. I. GETS LIFE IN SLAYING

Paris, June 6 (A. P.).—Private Eddy Jones Jr. of Cleveland was convicted of the slaying of an Army courier and sentenced by a military court last night to life imprisonment.

Jones was convicted also of assault, armed robbery and escape from confinement.

The murder victim was Pvt. James Clendaniel of Lincoln, Del.

In the closing hours of the trial Jones's attorney, Lieut. Harry Cohen of New Milford, Conn., resigned because the eight-man court admitted as evidence a confession of the slaying that Cohen charged was extorted from Jones by the brutality of criminal investigation agents.

Cohen called the case a "gross miscarriage of justice" and said that it proved an indictment against the Army court-martial system.

Lieut. Ernest Fidellow of Huntington, N. Y., took up Jones's defense.

The prosecution denied that the Negro soldier was mistreated. One military police witness, however, testified he saw Jones slapped several times by an agent.

D-DAY OBSERVED IN FRENCH TOWNS

ST. MERE EGLISE, France, June 6—(AP) More than 5,000 Norman villagers and peasants paid tribute today to the American 82d Airborne division—which two years ago liberated this hamlet from the Germans—in one of several D-day commemoration ceremonies held in Normandy.

Twenty [illegible] enlisted men of the 508th regiment of the division, selected for devotion to duty under long periods of combat, were awarded the Croix de Guerre, with stars and palms, by Gen. J. P. Le Gentilhomme, military governor of Paris and commander of the French First Military region.

The day-long D-day anniversary celebration started this morning with the ringing of church bells at 7 a.m., and included a reception at the town hall, a solemn mass at the Catholic church, a procession to two nearby American military cemeteries and a dance tonight.

Monuments to Allied invasion forces were dedicated in ceremonies at Collenville and St. Laurent on bloody Omaha beach in the American sector.

Ceremonies also were held on the beaches where British soldiers landed and where Gen. Charles deGaulle stepped again on French soil, June 14, 1944, after an absence from France of five years.

Formal Celebrations

In St. Mère Eglise there was an all-day observance honoring the men of the 82d Airborne Division, which floated out of the sky two years ago to begin the invasion. In Bayeux and Caen there were anniversary celebrations honoring the British and Canadian troops who fought there.

But in most of the little villages and along most of the dusty roads bordered by hedgerows the people of Normandy regarded the day quietly. They prayed for the men who came to liberate them and who stayed behind under the white cross or Star of David in one of Normandy's nine American military cemeteries.

Many of them told once again stories they have been telling for two years, personal stories of heroism and sacrifice by the men who came to free them. They also recall many anecdotes which put a touch of humor to the grim days.

A Drink On The House

Pierre Aoust, who used to be "Pierre of the Ritz-Carlton" in New York, poured another toast to the men of the 2d Infantry Division, which captured Treviers, and recounted how he stood at the door of his Hotel Laglon and yelled: "Come in for a drink. The Boche has gone for a jump in the river."

Many men accepted his invitation for "one on the house," then left again to continue the bitter hedgerow battle. (ADD)

FRANCO AIDES CONFER WITH EXILED LEADERS

BIARRITZ, France, June 6—(AP) The Journal de Biarritz said today that two members of the Franco Spanish government had conferred in Arnegy, France, with a representative of the Spanish republican government in exile headed by Jose Giral.

The newspaper quoted one of the Franco ministers as saying that a decision against the Franco regime by the United Nations Security council "would oblige us to capitulate."

The Franco ministers also were quoted as saying that they had made contact with the Spanish republicans to avoid a new revolution in Spain."

On D-Day Plus 2 Years French Tell Epic Tales

Treviers, France, June 6 (AP)—The people of Normandy paid tribute today to a memorable morning two years ago when Allied troops, in the greatest invasion in history, surged over their beaches to begin the long, bloody attack against Hitler's Fortress Europe.

GERMAN GENERAL CHARGES ALLIES WITH ATROCITIES

T. Reed

NUERNBERG, Germany, June 6.—(AP) Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, former German army chief of staff, indirectly accused the Allies of war atrocities today and said the Allies would be on trial if Germany had won the war.

His [illegible] war crimes trial before the International Military Tribunal came during questioning by British Attorney G. C. Roberts about Hitler's orders to shoot commandos, orders which were distributed by Jodl.

"We have heard about your inner convictions against this and about (Field Marshal Wilhelm) Keitel's conscience," Roberts observed. "Would we have heard anything about your convictions and conscience if Germany had not lost the war?"

"No, but then we would have heard of other atrocities in a similar trial," Jodl retorted.

Referring to Germany's invasion of Russia, Roberts asked:

"Don't you think these facts will dishonor the nation for centuries to come?"

"Only if history proves without doubt that Russia had no intention to attack us or to break the (non-aggression) agreement," Jodl replied.

Jodl said he never knew about the shooting of 15 American soldiers who landed in Italy to destroy a railway tunnel. Gen. Anton Dostler was executed for ordering the men's death after they surrendered.

Roberts declared that "these men were killed by the order you circulated"—Hitler's order initialed by Jodl.

"It would be more proper to say by the order I had to circulate," Jodl said. "In five years I could not do or say what I liked."

"You and other generals could have said, 'We are honorable soldiers and we will not issue such orders'," Roberts declared.

Questioned about Germany's treaty-breaking or violations of international law, Jodl termed such questions "political" and refused definite answers.

JODL DEFIANT AT WAR TRIAL

Refuses to Be Pinned Down on Treaty Breaking.

Nuernberg, June 6 (A. P.).—Col.-Gen. Alfred Jodl, former chief of staff of the German Army, refused defiantly under cross examination at the international war crimes trial today to be pinned down to categorical answers about Germany's treaty breaking.

He fended off such questions as "political" and repeatedly clashed with British Attorney G. C. Roberts, who challenged his veracity.

"I am afraid I am too dumb to answer that question," he said when Roberts asked him if he always was honorable and truthful in his dealings as army chief of staff.

Roberts took Jodl over the details of every aggressive German campaign in which battle plans bore his initials and each time reproached him for breaches of international law.

"You represented yourself as such a stickler for international law. What do you have to say about these things?" Jodl was asked.

"There were political questions," was the defendant's reply each time.

Referring to a Jodl speech in which he referred to the British as sanctimonious, Roberts asked: "Why did you call us that? Because we keep treaties and do not persecute Jews?"

"The political situation was such that I was of that opinion," was all the defendant would say.

Explaining the Austrian invasion, Jodl said at one point that Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria was put in honorary detention by Hitler.

Roberts cut in: "He was an honorary member of Dachau."

Reich 'Rearmed Before Hitler'

O. DeLuce

Nuernberg, Germany, June 6 (AP). Confiscated records of the Krupp dynasty laid bare today the secret origin of Germany rearmament in the supposedly beaten and bankrupt Weimar Republic barely a year after the Treaty of Versailles was signed and 13 years before Hitler came to power.

Documents in Allied hands provide evidence that a hush-hush $48,000,000 loan was made available to Krupp's in 1920 by a man who was Reich chancellor and finance minister three years before Hitler had marched in his 1923 beer hall putsch.

Wrote Of Role

In 1940, when Germany had beaten France and was poised to invade England, the ex-chancellor wrote proudly from exile in Switzerland to old Gunmaker Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach in his stone palace in the smoke-wreathed Ruhr.

The letter, signed "Joseph Wirth" and recovered from the Krupp files in Essen, is regarded by Allied investigators as typifying brazenly the hidden partnership of industrial magnates and presumably Democratic politicians to restore German military might.

As It Might Do Today

"That partnership operated a quarter-century ago just as it might do today," said one.

"Most honored herr president," the letter began, "Swiss papers carry the news that you are the first German to be decorated with the War Cross of Merit, first class, in appreciation of your accomplishments in arming the German Wehrmacht.

"I have the honor to state that this fact has been noted down with pleasure in my memoirs and I look with satisfaction to the years 1920-23 when we both . . . laid the new foundations for the development of German armament technique with the help of your great and most important firm.

Boasts Of "My Initiative"

"I am putting down these lines in order to make a record in my files, in which there is already the letter of Doctor Wiedtfeld of 1921, which sets forth that, through my initiative as Reich Chancellor and Finance Minister, your highly esteemed firm was secured for ten years by putting at its disposal considerable means of the Reich for maintenance of armament technique in the Reich's service.

"I am repeating this fact purely personally and confidentially. . . . The Reich government, only about two years ago, issued a statement through its ambassador in Paris that publicity on the subject of earlier preparations for regaining national freedom is not desirable. There is no reason to do that, considering the grave battle decision ahead of us. . . .

"Private Journey" To U.S.

"I have kept up good relations with the United States of America, which passed the test during my last year's journey of purely private character. . . . I should desire that we may be spared armed conflict with the United States of America, as doubtful as the news from the United States of America makes one feel."

Attached to Wirth's letter was a confidential memorandum by one of Krupp's staff which is expected to figure prominently in any Allied trial of German industrialists.

The memorandum stated that Wirth put $48,000,000 worth of marks at Krupp's disposal at Mendelssohn and Co., Berlin, from which the money was transferred to an account carried under the name "Custdois" in Amsterdam.

Added Swedish Crowns

The account was later "nourished by yearly remittances from Stockholm in Swedish crowns which represented dividends for Bofors shares," the memorandum concluded. "The Bofors shares had been paid for from Wirth's funds."

Because of senile softening of the brain, Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach was excluded from the present Nuernberg war-crimes trial. His son, Alfred, may be included as a defendant if industrialists are put on trial as a class.

German Royal Jewels Stolen from Castle Used by U. S. Officer

D Dodge

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 6—(AP) The provost marshal announced today that German royal jewels valu l at $1,500,000 had disappeared from a castle used as an American officers' club and said "it is presumed that further investigation is being continued in the United States."

NIGHT

The House of Hesse complained to American authorities that the jewels, stored for two years in the basement floor of Kronberg castle, had vanished. The castle is about 15 miles from Frankfurt.

An investigation showed that a container was taken from the basement floor last Nov. 6, seven months after the castle had been requisitioned as a recreation center for American officers, the provost marshal's office said.

"All military personnel who may have had knowledge of the jewels alleged to have been buried in the basement and then reported removed, returned to the United States prior to disclosure of the loss," it was added.

"All facts ascertained here have been reported to the War department and it is presumed that further investigation is being continued in the Unit l States."

(In Washington, the War department said no details would be released until the inquiry was completed.)

No official indication was given as to what individuals might be suspected in connection with the removal of the jewels.

A criminal investigation division officer said that the brief announcement through the Army public relations division, was "all the information that we can disclose at this time."

He refused to say if both American military personnel and German civilians were possibly implicated, or whether the jewels could have been stolen without knowledge of American officers who operated the center.

The House of Hesse hid the family treasure in October, 1944, when there was general panic in western Germany. The castle was taken over in April, 1945, as a night spot where officers and their feminine guests dined and danced by candlelight.

Tells of G. I. Massacre

Defendant Says U. S. Prisoners Were Nazi Targets at Ardennes

DACHAU, Germany, June 6 (AP).—A defendant in the Ardennes massacre trial stated today that helpless American prisoners were shot from the rear after being linedup by German S S. (Elite Guard) troops as stationary targets for small arms practice.

T. I. Rauh, veteran of the S. S. Hitler Lifeguard Division, testied that he and his comrades selected seven or eight Americans at a time, carefully spaced them two yards apart in a Belgian woods in the Ardennes, then killed them from a distance of less than ten feet.

"We took turns firing," Rauh's signed statement said. "We made them face th eother way, because if they had seen that we aimed at them they woud have moved and offered a bad target."

Reds Open Black Sea Railroad

MOSCOW, June 6 (AP).—Train travel between Moscow and Tiflis, in Georgia, has been cut by 435 miles and eighteen hours by opening for general use a new railroad line along the eastern shore of the Black Sea through Sochi, Gagry and Sukhumi. Previously, mainline trains had to go by way of Baku, on the shores of the Caspian Sea, to by-pass the high ranges of the Caucasu Mountains. Distance was about 1,500 miles. The new line was finished during the war and played an important military role in the defense of Novorossick and the defeat of the Germans in the Kuban region.

UMBERTO TO URGE ITALIAN UNITY IN HIS FINAL MESSAGE

J. McKnight

ROME, June 6—(AP) King Umberto II tonight was drafting a farewell message expected to urge unity for the new Italian republic, already confronted with mutterings of secession in the south, before joining his queen en route to exile in Portu[illegible]

NIGHT

The royal [illegible] announced officially that Queen Marie Jose and her four children were on their way to Portugal aboard the Italian cruiser Duca Degli Abruzzi, and Umberto was expected to follow after giving a final message to the nation. His family ruled Italy for 75 years and his reign lasted just under a month.

Secession Talk in South

Talk of secession came from the south of Italy, which saw its overwhelming monarchial vote in the plebiscite go for naught in the face of the north's heavy vote for the republic. There was open discussion in Naples, royalist stronghold, about breaking with the north.

For the moment it was only a muttering, and northern and southern political leaders, backed unanimously by the press, joined in speaking out for unity behind the new form of government for which 54.3 per cent of the voters cast ballots on Sunday and Monday.

Yet the urgency of the pleas for union emphasized the danger that the old division between the industrial north and the agricultural south, born of economic and cultural unbalance, might be sharpened by the referendum split.

Will Board Cruiser

Royal household sources said the 41-year-old king who succeeded to the throne when his father, Vittorio Emanuele III, abdicated on May 9, was busy writing his farewell message. The vessel on which his wife stalled from Naples was the same one that took his father and mother Queen Elena to exile in Egypt last month. A Naples dispatch said the ship would stop at Gaeta, 40 miles northwest of Naples, presumably to wait for Umberto.

The flag of the House of Savoy still waved over historic Quirinale palace, where stalwart royal guards wept openly at the outcome of the voting. Umberto was still technically king, until formal pronouncement of the republic expected early next week after the court of cessation makes the voters' verdict final.

Tearful scenes took place at the royal palace as notables, officers and personal friends of Umberto called to pay their farewell visits. Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Italy's first post-fascism Premier, wept openly as he left the King's offices.

Premier Alcide de Gasperi's coalition government, which handled the plebiscite so impartially that no complaint of illegality was voiced from any source, was running the country.

Coalition To Remain At Helm

The coalition government will remain at the helm until the Constituent Assembly, also elected in the week-end voting, meets on June 24 to pick a provisional president.

Mentioned as likely candidates for president were grizzled Vittorio Emanuele Orlando, 86, and Ivanoe Bonomi, 78, who led two provisional governments.

With only 31 out of 35,318 precincts missing, the total vote was 12,737,398 for the republic and 10,725,532 for the monarchy. In the seven northern regions the republic won by a vote of 2 to 1, but in the four southern regions the monarchy was supported almost 3 to 1, a breakdown of the vote showed.

Orlando, Bonomi Italy President Possibilities

Rome, June 6 (AP)—Grizzled, 86-year-old Vittorio Emanuel Orlando was winning wide mention today as a likely compromise candidate for first President of Italy's new republic as the nation awaited formal proclamation of the end of the monarchy.

Orlando, the only survivor of the Big Four of Versailles, was being proposed, political observers said, because as a Sicilian he would be able to heal the schism shown at the polls between the industrial north—which favored the republic—and the south—which supported the House of Savoy.

Red Opposition Seen

It appeared likely, however, that Orlando would face powerful opposition from the Communists, who ran third in last weekend elections. Palmiro Togliatto, Minister of Justice and a Communist leader, declared in one campaign speech that the Communists would "never" collaborate with Orlando, whose National Democratic Union ran fourth in the balloting.

Another "venerable old man" of Italian politics, 78-year-old Ivanoe Bonomi, who headed two provisional governments during Italy's status as a cobelligerent, was also being suggested as a presidential candidate. His supporters said he was less of a monarchist than Orlando and thus perhaps more suitable to a new regime.

Choice To Be Made June 24

King Umberto II, meanwhile, prepared to follow his father into exile, his brief reign ended under the crushing weight of nearly 13,000,000 votes favoring a republican form of government.

The first President will be selected at the new Constituent Assembly's first session June 24, and he in turn will select the new Premier. Premier Alcide de Gasperi is expected to be called upon to continue in office.

The republic will be formally proclaimed Saturday at a ceremony in the ornate "Hall of the Wolf" in the Chamber of Deputies. Reports circulated that Umberto might attend as his last official act. He was still at the royal palace today.

Secession Talk In South

A dispatch from Naples said there was increasing talk in that city of secession of southern Italy so that it could continue under the monarchy. However, the likelihood of such a step was discounted in Rome.

Lieut. Gen. John C. H. Lee, commander of American forces in Italy, called on Umberto at noon. He described the visit as unofficial. Premier de Gasperi also conferred with the king.

Victory by 2,000,000.

The republic's margin of victory was extended to more than 2,000,000 votes today—12,718,019 to 10,709,423—with the ballots in all but eighty-five of the nation's 35,317 voting districts counted.

Although some counted the monarchy's defeat a leftist victory, the Vatican's Osservatore Romano interpreted the strong Christian Democratic showing in the assembly election as a rebuff to the left.

Naples reported increasing talk there of the secession in southern Italy so that it could continue under the monarchy. However, the likelihood of such a step was discounted in the capital.

Other members of the royal family apparently also were preparing to leave Italy. Prince Aimone di Savoia-Aosta, the Duke of Spoleto, who during the war briefly held the title of "King Aimone of Croatia," left Rome early today with his family and luggage for an undisclosed destination.

The only untoward incident was reported at Pisa, where, the Italian news agency Ansa said, a bomb thrown by an unidentifed person killed a youth and wounded eighteen persons who had gathered at a street corner.

De Gasperi's middle-of-the-road Christian Democrats, meanwhile, maintained their big lead in the Assembly election, clinching a good-sized plurality, with the Socialists second and the Communists third.

MONARCHIST SLAIN IN RIOT AT NAPLES

ROME, Friday, June 7—(AP) The long calm that prevailed during Italy's orderly ouster of the House of Savoy was broken last night in Naples when one monarchist was killed and eight more were wounded.

The casualties occurred, when a hand grenade was hurled by one of a group of 400 monarchists who had marched to the carabinieri headquarters and demanded arms.

The group was dispersed by shots fired in the air by the carabinieri. Police and troops, some of whom were in light tanks, patrolled the streets of the city early today. The city had voted four to one in favor of the monarchy.

Priests on the outskirts of the city were reported to have been maltreated by the populace which blamed them for the downfall of the Italian royal house.

The curia at Naples in a statement said it was "false to accuse the church and clergy for events developing only through the free will of the people of the whole nation."

Other sections of Italy were calm. Guiseppe Romita, minister of the interior, telegraphed a circular to prefects ordering them to act with the greatest energy against any attempt to violate public order.

MIKOLAJCZYK HITS WARSAW PLOTTERS

Charges Attempt to Destroy His Peasant Party by Armed Bands and Secret Police

WARSAW, Poland, June 5 (Delayed) (AP)—Vice Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk has charged in an address that the Warsaw regime is trying to destroy his Polish Peasant party through force, armed bands and secret police. M. Mikolajczyk, who formerly was Premier of the Polish Goverament in exile, spoke before the general council of his party, but the text has not been published here because of censorship.

He declared that an attempt was under way to "railroad" the June 30 referendum, charging that Peasant party members had been rejected as polling clerks in all but three of Poland's seventeen provinces. The referendum is to obtain the voters' views on the Government's policies of nationalization of industries, and other measures.

The Vice Premier charged that the Government was using secret police to plant evidence purporting to show that the Polish Peasant party was linked with terrorist bands.

Constitutional Violation Seen

"This is nothing but a political fight which tries to make our work impossible and perhaps wipe us off the face of the earth," M. Mikolajczyk said.

He declared that instructions had been issued that Polish citizens of German descent and even Germans be supplied with counterfeit Peasant party memberships "so that it will be possible to say after the referendum that our party is not only anti-democratic but pro-German."

"The breaking up of our party is to be accomplished through the citizens' militia reserve organization, special courts and through gangs," he said, adding that gangs were "often recruited" from the Communist-backed Workers party and the outcast Poles of German descent.

The Peasant leader charged that the recent action of the security police in padlocking and suspending activities of six Peasant district headquarters violated the 1921 Constitution. He questioned the legality of the Government's formation of the reserve militia, which had placed guns in the hands of 30,000 in the last sixty days.

Forest Bandits Included

"There are those who ask what we, the unarmed, can do, although there are millions of us, when brutal force attacks us?" he said. "I told [Vice Premier Wladyslaw] Gomulka, the Workers' party leader: 'You will not be able to shoot us all. You will not be able to break the freedom of every person in Poland.'"

M. Mikolajczyk predicted the fifty-year-old party would continue, despite threats. He said that Stanislaw Radkiewicz, Minister of Public Security, admitted in Parliament that his own secret police organization contained armed bandits from the forest.

Meanwhile, secret police agents continue to drive against what were described as anti-democratic elements, meeting many allegedly bearing credentials of M. Mikolajczyk's party.

Greece Moves to Curb Reds

ATHENS, June 6 (AP). — The Greek government submitted to Parliament today a resolution providing drastic measures for the suppression of Communist and autonomist bands in northern Greece. The resolution stipulates that special courts martial will be established in Epirus, Macedonia and Thrace to deal with offenses against the security and integrity of the state. Death sentences and other heavy punishments were provided.

Belgians Light Fires.

Vielsalm, Belgium, June 6 (A. P.).—Huge fires were lighted all over Belgium during the night to commemorate the landing two years ago of Allied troops on the Normandy beaches and the action of Belgian underground forces.

1,000 In Stone-Throwin Battle In Jerusalem

Jerusalem, June 6 (AP)—Approximately 1,000 Arabs and Jews stoned each other in the eastern quarter of Jerusalem tonight in the first clash of this kind in the city in recent years. Cause of the disturbance was not ascertained.

A number of persons suffered slight injuries during the stone throwing and a Jewish girl was accidentally wounded in the shoulder when police fired warning shots into the air to disperse the excited crowd.

Chiang Orders Drives Halted During Truce In Manchuria

Nanking, Friday, June 7 (AP)—The long conflict between the Chinese Government and Communists for control of Manchuria is scheduled to end at noon today in a fifteen-day truce arranged by Gen. George C. Marshall in hope of making a permanent settlement.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek announced that he was issuing orders to his armies "to hold all advances, attacks and pursuits" for the fifteen-day period. Gen. Chou En-lai, chief Communist negotiator, said his faction concurred but was concerned over the brevity of the truce.

[It was not immediately clear whether the armistice covered all China or merely Manchuria, but Manchuria has been the only recent scene of widespread major strife.]

Both Claim Credit

While General Marshall, special American envoy to China, jammed the truce agreement through, both Chinese groups took credit for making every effort for peace.

"We concur in the cease-fire arrangement, having in mind that no opportunity for peace should be skipped over," said Chou. "In doing so, we will exert our best efforts toward bringing the negotiations to success."

In issuing his orders, Chiang declared: "I am doing this to give the Communist party an opportunity to demonstrate the good faith of their intentions in carrying out the agreement previously signed.

Stands On Treaty Right

"In taking this action, the Government in no way prejudices its right under the Sino-Soviet treaty to recover Manchurian sovereignty."

Chiang specified that these three matters must be settled within the fifteen days:

1. Detailed arrangements governing complete termination of hostilities in Manchuria.

2. Detailed arrangements and time schedules for complete restoration of communications in China.

Includes Reorganization

3. A definite basis for carrying out without further delay the February 25 agreement for demobilization, reorganization and integration of China's armed forces.

The previous truce to which Chiang referred was arranged by General Marshall last January but since has been violated by both sides.

To implement the new "last chance" truce, Brig. Gen. Henry A. Byroade and his staff flew to Changchun, Manchurian capital, where a truce-inspection headquarters will be established to enforce whatever agreements are made in Nanking.

Trops Nearing Harbin

The latest truce finds the Government armies pushing north toward Communist-held Harbin. Latest reports have placed them 20 to 70 miles from that North Manchurian metropolis.

Government forces control most cities of southern Manchuria. Chinese press dispatches said the Communists there were concentrated now in a narrow strip in Antung province.

There were no fresh reports of fighting elsewhere in China. Accounts from Peiping said the Communists had unexpectedly halted their three-way drive on Tsinan, Shantung province capital, after aproaching within 3 miles.

15-Day Truce Set In New Try For China Peace

Nanking, June 6 (AP)—Chiang Kai-shek today issued a cease-fire order. Calling a fifteen-day halt in the long, bloody conflict in Manchuria.

The truce, effective tomorrow, is expected to clear the way to permanent settlement of differences between the Chinese Government and the Communists.

"I am issuing orders to my armies to hold all advances, attacks and pursuits for a period of fifteen days from noon Friday, June 7," the Generalissimo announced through Minister of Information Peng Hsueh-pei.

Communists 'Opportunity"

"Doing this gives the Communist party an opportunity to demonstrate its good faith and intention of carrying out the agreement previously signed. In taking this action, the Government in no way prejudices its right under the Sino-Soviet treaty to recover Manchurian sovereignty."

The previous agreement was a January political-military truce, since violated by both sides.

Three Things To Settle

Chiang stipulated that the following three matters must be settled within the fifteen-day period:

1. Detailed arrangements governing the complete termination of hostilities in Manchuria.

2. Detailed arrangements and time schedules for the complete restoration of communications in China.

3. A definite basis for carrying out, without further delay, the February 25 agreement for demobilization, reorganization and integration of China's armed forces.

In Peiping, meanwhile, the independent newspaper Hsin Min Pao said Government forces have pushed north to within 20 miles of Communist-held Harbin. The paper said National troops had captured Lafah, east of Yungki (Kirin) and now controlled all major cities in the triangular area formed by Lafah, Changchun and Harbin.

Committee Of Three At Work

The key Committee of Three, made up of American General Marshall, Government Gen. Chu Yung-chang and Communist Gen. Chou En-lai, was expected to make the truce agreement immediately effective.

An advance section of executive (truce) headquarters at Peiping headed for Changchun, Manchurian capital, to carry out any agreement.

Chiang Kai-shek was reported to have insisted that Communists agree to a broadening of Marshall's arbitration powers.

Information Minister Peng said additional authority for Marshall could remove the danger of further delay and frustration. The proposed increase, he added, also would involve more authority for American members of the executive headquarters field teams, which have arranged regional cease-fire pacts.

China Opens Inland Ports.

Nanking, June 6 (A. P.).—China's Supreme National Defense Counsel ruled today that foreign ships would be allowed to unload cargoes at inland ports of Nanking, Hankow, Wuhu and Kiukiang by the next year. Premier T. V. Soong recommended the action to relieve seaboard congestion.

Canton Seizes Leftist Books

CANTON, June 6 (AP).—Police, provincial guards and civilian officials raided bookstores today, seizing Leftist books, magazines and newspapers, most of which had been published in Hong Kong. The Peiping branch of the Chinese Communist agency was closed by the government last week. Yesterday the Communist "New China Weekly" at Shanghai was suspended.

SINGAPORE, June 6 (AP).—Saka', an aboriginal hillman, found and led to safety today Royal Air Force Flying Officer William Leslie McLachlan, of London, who had been lost in the jungle since he left the Cameron Highlanders' leave center May 28.

Sakai, who was en route to buy a wife when he found McLachlan, said he would use his $250 reward to purchase the best type of wife, instead of the $40 variety he planned before.

Malayan Tin Mining Gradually Coming Back

Ipoh, Malaya, June 6 (AP)—Malaya's tin-mining industry gradually is making a postwar comeback.

Production in both European and Chinese owned mines increased from 99 tons in January to 251 in February and 452 tons in March.

Dulang washers—industrious Chinese women who work with peculiarly shaped wooden pans—produced 143 tons of tin in February and 252 tons in March. This was more tin ore than large-scale operators mined with dredges, hydraulic equipment and gravel-pumping devices.

The colorful dulang washers, dressed in long-sleeved black jackets and trousers with red scarfs over their heads, now number 13,000 and an additional 13,392 other laborers are employed in the industry.

Move To Oust Hirohito Held Step Backward

By BYRNES

Tokyo, June 6 (AP)—Monarchy is a minor question in Japan now but, in the opinion of many observers, continued pressure from outside might inflame the Japanese into giving the institution support they don't feel at present.

An announcement in Washington yesterday that a Far Eastern Commission committee is considering the question of abolishing the emporer institution doubtless will cause strong repercussions in monarchist circles.

Any reaction, however, will be closely hidden, as has been the Japanese attitude toward recent international criticism of their ruler.

Little Sanctity Left

For the people as a whole, the problem of the Emperor's future is far less important than are questions of livelihood.

Hirohito has become a rather ordinary man whose personal power is slipping fast. His people bear him a unique affection. But little of his one-time sanctity is left.

The Japanese always are quick to change sides with expediency. Commoners no longer hesitate to brand the Emperor's actions "foolish." The extent to which the Emperor's sanctity has been stripped—with added pressure from unsatisfied appetites—was illustrated by the recent food demonstrations at the palace gates.

But that does not deny the depth of affection the people hold for the ruler. It means simply that the relationship now is far more realistic than in the days of unchallenged teaching that the Emperor embodied divinity.

Confusion Foreseen

The abrupt removal of the Emperor by outside pressure doubtless would create great confusion in Japan. Although Hirohito has little influence, he retains a symbolic position, holding together his essentially clannish subjects. This symbolic power should be distinguished from the political influence he is losing.

Observers say that continued outside pressure in itself would elevate the emperor question to major importance again and perhaps transform the present unexpressed Japanese affection into strong, vociferous support. That might nullify all the progress made to date toward realism.

HIROHITO IN TOUR OF RICE PADDIES

Chosi, Japan, June 6 (A. P.).—Emperor Hirohito trudged through heavy mud along rice paddies today and urged farm workers to help overcome Japan's food crisis.

Traveling to Chiba prefecture, southeast of Tokyo, for another visit among his people, he stopped at the little farming community of Odo to watch planting.

Obviously nervous, he talked to men and women in flooded paddies.

To one elderly woman he stressed Japan's food shortage and urged her to work even harder.

He joined his party in laughter when a cow impeded the way of correspondents on a parallel embankment.

He frequently lifted his brown fedora as lusty banzais greeted him everywhere. From Odo he came to Chosi, a fishing center, where he inspected several war destroyed schools, the Chosi dockyard and a fishery and soy sauce plant.

School children broke into tears at the sight of the shy, awkward ruler, who seemed to lose some of his nervousness as the day wore on.

Valentine For Decentralized Japan Police

Better Pay and Equipment Also Are Recommended in Report to MacArthur

TOKYO, June 6 (AP).—Democratic local control of Japanese municipal police systems, rather than national direction, was recommended to General Douglas MacArthur by a planning group headed by Lewis J. Valentine, former New York City Police Commissioner, in a report released today.

Mr. Valentine, who went to Japan with a group of police specialists to study the police system, observed that the Japanese system had been organized to advance the political ambitions of those in control of the government and that the people still resent policemen in that category.

The report, which was turned in last month, also suggested that the police be relieved of non-police functions. "Policemen," Mr. Valentine wrote, "are hardly qualified to combat epidemics, distribute charity or build sanitary facilities."

In releasing the report General MacArthur said, 'Insofar as practicable, I am sure the Japanese government will initiate reform as rapidly as there can be a full understanding of the import of the changes recommended," but added that the reform would take some time.

Colonel H. E. Pulliam, headquarters public safety officer, said he did not kno wto what extent Mr. Valentine's recommendations would be included in the final reorganization plans.

The report observed that t morale of Japanese policemen w low and that they should ha better pay and shorter hours, better and more appropriate uniforms and equipment and provisions for vacations, sickness and death benefits and pensions. "The low-pay job attracts the least efficient men, and poorly paid policemen are likely to become dishonest."

Navy To Abandon Rule In Okinawa

Tokyo, June 6 (AP)—The United States Navy has decided to abandon the military government administration of Okinawa, Allied headquarters sources said unofficially today.

As a result, they said, the Army is sending 75 specially trained officers to the island, creating a serious problem in the military government section in Japan. That section already has been hard hit by demobilization.

The Okinawa administration was set up at the time of the invasion, April 1, 1945, under the overall command of the Navy to handle civilian problems.

Jap Youth Held, Tells Of Party Plot

Tokyo, June 6 (AP)—General MacArthur's headquarters announced today that an 18-year-old Japanese youth had related a plot to join the Communist party and pretend to kill MacArthur. The youth said he wanted to discredit the party because he favors the Emperor.

The announcement resulted from the latest assassination rumor. The youth, Terunari Arai, was arrested after he was reported to have remarked that MacArthur must be eliminated.

Headquarters said Arai told army psychiatrists he would "not actually have injured the general" but "would have pretended to kill him." He said he had planned to join the party and kill Communist leaders.

Psychiatrists judged him mentally competent.

Headquarters did not say whether the youth would be released.

STALLING SEEN ON PALESTINE

Senators Charge Britain With Delaying Jewish Settlement

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Great Britain was accused in the Senate today of deliberately delaying and obstructing settlement of 100,000 European Jews in Palestine as proposed by an Anglo-American study committee.

Senators Wagner (D., N.Y.) and Taft (R., Ohio), only two of several who voiced this accusation in a general Senate debate, coupled with it the charge that unnamed persons in the State Department are supporting the British policy despite President Truman's warm indorsement of the committee's recommendations.

The President said, meanwhile, that Secretary Byrnes and Foreign Minister Bevin are working on several problems in connection with his proposal for the admittance of more Jews to Palestine.

Housing Problem Noted

These problems, he said, include transportation, housing and a lot of other things which have to be worked out before the admittance could be carried out.

The President was asked at his news conference why, despite consultations now going forward with both Jewish and Arab leaders and various government and organization representatives, the United States could not insist on the immediate admittance of 100,000 Jews.

Mr. Truman replied that several months ago he had suggested that that number should be let in. He made this suggestion to the British, who are responsible for Palestine. But he said that before anything could actually be done it was necessary to work out the problems which he cited, and that, he declared, is being done by the Secretary of State and the Foreign Minister.

Proposal Preceded Report

Mr. Truman's original proposal was made prior to the creation of the joint Anglo-American commission which also proposed the admittance of 100,000 Jews, and it is the commission's whole report on that and various other suggestions for handling the Palestine situation which is now involved in the consultations.

During the Senate debate on the Jewish problem, Senator Johnson (D., Col.) asserted that Prime Minister Atlee "and his associates" had proposed creation of the committee in the first place in a move to "sidetrack" the Palestine issue. He said they feared that if it remained in the forefront American public opinion "might react adversely" against the $3,750,000,000 British loan which was then pending in the Senate.

Johnson was one of those who fought the loan, since passed by the Senate and now before a House committee.

Insistence Asked

Johnson, Wagner, Taft and others all demanded that the United States insist that Britain go ahead with arrangements for settlement of 100,000 Jewish refugees in the Holy Land.

While the debate was in progress, an Associated Press dispatch from London reported the British Government is framing new conditions which it will ask the United States to approve. Britain already has sought assurance of American military aid in putting down any fighting—Arabs have warned it will break out — resulting from increased Jewish immigration.

Quoting a high source, the London dispatch said Britain will also ask for American financial aid in settling Jewish immigrants in Palestine and for the United States to join in Demanding disarmament of "illegal armies" in Palestine.

the British mandate to 100,000 homeless Jews of Europe. Britain subsequently asked whether the United States would send troops to Palestine to help maintain order. Arabs had threatened bloodshed if the Jews were admitted.

Taft declared, the fact apparently is that the British have many thousands of troops in Palestine and that no military problem whatever is involved in this immigration."

The speeches touched off a general Senate exchange in which Senator Pepper (D.-Fla.), asserted that the British Government asked American troops because it knew "the United States is not Wagner and Taft Accuse State Department Aids—New Yorker Says Britain Is Stalling on Admitting Jews.

Washington, June 6 (A. P.).—Senators Wagner (D.-N. Y.) and Taft (R.-Ohio) accused unnamed State Department officials today of attempting to thwart an Anglo-American Commission's recommendation for immediate admission of 100,000 Jews to Palestine.

In a speech in the Senate, Wagner also asserted that Britain is "stalling" and using every device to avoid going through with the proposal. He said that he was certain the recommendation has the whole-hearted support of President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes and called on them to see that it is not "sidetracked or evaded by a group of subordinate officials in Washington and abroad who may be out of sympathy with that policy."

Taft, also praising the President's stand on the issue, told the Senate that the Sate Departmen has "promoted delay."

"Obviously the Near East division of the State Department is not in sympathy with prompt action or with the President's position," he said.

The Anglo-American group made its recommendation last April 30. It was appointed after Mr. Truman had urged opening going to risk or spill America blood" in British-mandated territory.

Other Congressmen also protested what they termed delay in carrying out the commission's recommendation.

TALBOT ASKS ACTION ON PALESTINE ISSUE

WASHINGTON, June 6 — (AP) Representative Joseph E. Talbot (R.-Conn.) today expressed himself as "heartily in accord" with President Truman's suggestion that 100,000 Jews be granted immediate entrance into Palestine.

In endorsing the President's proposal, Congressman Talbot made public the text of letters he sent to the White House and to Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, urging that the suggestion be followed by action.

"I am convinced that the vast majority of American public opinion is in accord with this request and feel as you do that this step should be taken immediately rather than be delayed until the complete report of the (Palestine) commission may be studied," Talbot wrote to President Truman.

The Connecticut congressman requested the President to urge the State department to act immediately on the matter.

In his letter to Secretary Byrnes, Talbot charged the State department with failure to follow the President's direction in not properly implementing his suggestion and asked that immediate action be taken.

Britain to Ask Armed Help.

London, June 6 (A. P.).—A highly placed informant said tonight that Great Britain intends to ask the United States for an informal assurance of military help to put down any fighting that might result from increased Jewish immigration into Palestine. The official added that the British also would ask that the United States join them in a demand for disarmament of illegal armies in Palestine, and would argue that there was little likelihood of fighting breaking out if these armies were disarmed.

The informant said a third British request would be for American financial aid in resettling the 100,000 Jews recommended for immigration by the British-American Palestine Commission.

Decision Due Soon.

The British Government is expected to announce acceptance or rejection of the commission report around the end of June and it was said authoritatively that one of the big factors in Britain's decision would be whether the United States backed the British demand for Jewish underground armies in Palestine to lay down their arms.

The demand applies equally to Arab arms, but the British express confidence that they can gather these without difficulty. They question, however, whether the Jewish illegal armies will comply unless the United States adds its voice to the demand.

British authorities said that Jewish funds would cover approximately half the cost of resettling the 100,000 Jews which the commission recommended be admitted to Palestine. The British want the United States and Britain to share the remainder.

The United States has offered Army facilities to transport the Jews from Europe, but it has not been decided who would pay for receiving and settling them.

DENIES LOAN IS 'ALLIANCE'

Clayton, State Official, Calls Jones 100 P.C. Wrong

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Jesse Jones's statement that the $3,750,000,000 British loan would constitute an exclusive alliance between America and Britain was described today by William L. Clayton, Assistant Secretary of State as "100 per cent wrong."

As one Texan to another, Clayton said Jones "is my good friend but, frankly, I don't think Mr. Jones understands the British financial agreement. I'm afraid Mr. Jones fails to see the forest for the trees."

In response to questions by Chairman Spence (D., Ky.), of the House Banking Committee, Clayton answered a declaration by Jones, former Commerce Secretary, that the loan "carries us along the road toward financial ruin" and means an "alliance with the British to the exclusion of other countries . . . notwithstanding our advocacy and participation in the United Nations."

"Not An Alliance"

"This is not an alliance," Clayton said. "It is perfectly in the open. There are no bugs under the chips here. Instead of making a world economic bloc it dissolves a bloc and prevents the formation of another one."

Telling the committee that "I don't think Mr. Jones really understands what bilateral trading is," Clayton pointed to a part of Jones's statement, sent by mail to the committee, which said the talk about multilateral and bilateral trading is "greatly exaggerated."

Clayton, who built a huge international cotton trade, said Jones's experience has been principally in banking "in a domestic atmosphere." Both men made their fortunes in Texas.

"Exclusion" Indicated

Emphasizing that Britain has been "forced" into bilateral trading by the war, Clayton said such agreements would exclude American goods from many world markets. Under the loan agreement, he said, Britain will cease such "political arrangements" that shut out American goods.

He told the committee Jones "appears to look upon the financial agreement, as so many people do, as just a loan to Britain—a handing over of $3,750,000,000. That is a narrow concept."

Britain's agreement to co-operate in removing restrictions on world trading is the greatest consideration of the transaction, he argued.

Taking up another phase of the loan, he read a letter to the committee from James F. Byrnes, Secretary of State, saying the British agreement commits Congress and the United States Government to nothing beyond "the simple terms of the loan."

"It does not prejudice the freedom of choice of Congress or this Government on any other measures to be taken," Byrnes wrote. The point had been raised in the committee as to whether the loan agreement committed this Government on future world-trade policies.

Clayton lambasted proposals that Britain cede Atlantic islands to the United States in consideration for the loan, saying "this country has said repeatedly it does not seek territorial aggrandizement." Clayton said the 99-year leases for military bases this Government now has on the islands "are all that our chief of staff considers necessary to defense."

Senators Ask Reorganization Of U. S. Aviation Program

WASHINGTON, June 6—(AP) Guided missiles travelling 100,000 miles an hour and space ships high above the atmosphere were foreseen today by senators urging a reorganization of the nation's air planning efforts.

An aircraft sub-committee of the Senate Defense Investigating committee, in a 39-page report to the Senate, included these two glimpses into the future:

Great Speeds Forecast

1. A forecast by "reputable aviation experts" that guided missiles, similar to the V-2 rocket used by the Germans, may attain "speeds up to 100,000 miles per hour."

2. Plans by the Army Air Forces for development eventually of "flight and survival equipment for use above the atmosphere, including space vehicles, space bases, and special devices for use thereon."

The sub-committee found that German aeronautical scientists were far ahead of Americans at the start of the war and continued that leadership in the fields of jet propelled planes and guided missiles to the end of the war.

Calling for an outlay of "several hundred million dollars" for scientific aeronautical research in the immediate future, the Senate group said this is necessary to maintain wartime air supremacy.

Senator Mitchell (D-Wash), chairman of the subcommittee, in a speech prepared for the Senate, questioned the rapid contraction of the huge wartime aviation industry.

Committee Reports Conclusions natural defenses.

2. We may be proud of our war record of mass production of 300,000 airplanes.

3. Notwithstanding the achievement, there were costly errors and unnecessary wastes. The greatest

He said the subcommittee had agreed upon 10 conclusions and will continue its work. The conclusions follow:

1. Actual and projected improvements in aircraft and missiles threaten to dissipate our historic handicaps were an almost complete lack of realistic planning by the responsible government officials and delay of the industry to use outside mass production facilities by sub-contracting and licensing. The services also failed to investigate and clarify many mass production problems.

Adjustment by Industry

4. Since hostilities ended, the wartime aircraft industry has made a remarkable adjustment to lower production and has shown ingenuity in converting to peacetime aircraft production and switching to other civilian products. However, the airplane industry has been deflated to the approximate size it was in December, 1940. It would take two years to rebuild it to its productive capacity of September, 1945.

5. We have not yet developed a clear and farsighted national policy in aircraft research and development. Furthermore, we have not set a policy for the level of production of military-type aircraft and the aviation productive capacity to be maintained in stand-by conditions.

6. Military procurement during peacetime should allow for the purchase of a sufficient quantity of models to conduct experimental and service tests expeditiously to afford manufacturers an opportunity to work out problems of production engineering, planning, and tool design.

Research Facilities Inadequate

7. Present facilities for aeronautical research and development are inadequate. The government should encourage, financially and otherwise, the establishment of a body of qualified research and technical personnel and the acquisition of adequate scientific research and testing equipment.

8. The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics has made many valuable contributions during the past 30 years. However, in the last decade that agency, as well as the armed forces, have failed to exercise vigorous leadership in aeronautical research and development.

Furthermore, they have been slow in conducting research and development in such important phases of aviation as jet propulsion and guided missiles.

9. The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics should be modified and expanded. Represented in its policy-making body should be all of the principal elements of the economy interested in furthering aviation science, especially groups which give promise of assuring more aggressive leadership in scientific research and development. The committee believes that a greater voice in the affairs and policies of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics should be given to representatives of the various branches of the aircraft manufacturing industry.

10. Clear lines of responsibility, coordination, and relationships should be established between the armed services and the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics and other governmental agencies and private industry.

PRICE CHIEF FEARS END OF CONTROLS UNDER SENATE BILL

Porter Predicts 40 Per Cent Climb in Cost of Meat, Dairy Products.

TAFT EXPECTS FIGHT

Will Offer Amendment to Permit Increase Over 1941 Prices.

WASHINGTON, June 6 — (AP) Price Administrator Paul Porter asserted tonight that "effective price and rent control will end" if the Senate Banking committee's OPA extension bill becomes law.

His statement attacking the measure served to underscore the comment of Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) that a major battle may be expected when the Senate takes it up next week, especially over a provision lifting meat and dairy price controls at the end of this month.

Speak on Same Points

Though they are on opposite sides of the issue, Porter in his formal statement and Taft in talking to reporters laid their emphasis on the same points—the meat and dairy price ceilings question and the regulations on profit margin allowances.

Taft, who supported in committee the lifting of the meat and dairy ceilings, said he expected the big quarrel over that point. He added that sharp debate is likely on a committee-approved rule forbidding OPA to force cost absorption upon dealers in "conversion" items such as automobiles, refrigerators, and radios.

He said also that he will try to write in on the floor his own amendment to require that manufacturers be allowed their 1941 prices plus the industry's average unit increase in costs since then. He lost on a tie vote when he tried to put the provision into the bill in committee.

Says Prices Soaring

Porter in his statement asserted his belief that if the measure passes as it now stands, meat will rise 40 to 50 per cent in price and the cost of butter, milk, cream and cheese will soar.

He said further that the effects would spread from that point to other items of the national economy. On the profit regulations he had this main theme:

"In the case of durable goods such as automobiles, washing machines, other household electrical appliances, and farm implements, prices will be raised by hundreds of millions of dollars."

At another point he said the rise would be more than half a billion.

He added that rent controls "could not long remain with other prices uncontrolled."

He added: "The net result of these amendments would be that the city worker and everybody else pays more for his food. The farmer and everybody else pays more for his clothing, tools and the electrical equipment he's been saving his money for. We couldn't meet our commitments to feed famine-stricken allies."

Measure Goes to Senate

The Banking committee, which voted on the last disputed provisions of the bill yesterday, dotted a few I's in it today and sent it on to the Senate without a record vote.

To Majority Leader Barkley (Ky.), a high ranking member of the committee, fell the task of formally reporting it to the Senate. The chore usually would be performed by the chairman, Senator Wagner (D.-N. Y.), but he was busy preparing a minority report summing up what he and Administration stabilization officials do not like about the bill.

Barkley emphasized that his presentation of the report should not be construed as an endorsement of the bill itself or many of its amendments. In fact, nobody has been found late today to act as general floor manager for the measure, which is due to be taken up Monday.

Proposal on De-Control

In addition to pressing for his manufacturers' price-margin amendment, Taft said he would support a proposal by Senator Capehart (R.-Ind.) setting out a systematic method for lifting controls from everything except rent in the next year. Under Capehart's plan, 40 per cent of all controls would have to go by Jan. 1, 1947, another 20 per cent in the first quarter of next year, and all by July 1, 1947. The amendment was rejected 10 to 6 in committee.

Senator Butler (R.-Neb.) said he thought the committee of which he is a member had reported a "pretty good bill."

"Of course," he told newsmen, "the OPA enthusiasts don't like it but I'm sure the people will."

Butler said enactment of the legislation might result in advances in the price of some commodities, but he declared that would happen no matter whether prices are decontrolled now or at some fuutre time.

"Prices will soon settle down to the proper basis," he said, "and the sooner we settle down to normal the better."

TAFT REPLIES TO BOWLES ON OPA SPEECH

Says Stabilization Chief 'Slandered' Congress For Price Stand

New York, June 6 (AP)—Senator Taft (R., Ohio) declared tonight that Chester Bowles, stabilization director, had "slandered" Congress for its stand on price control.

Taft replied in a broadcast to Bowles's Tuesday night speech in which the Administration official referred to the curtailed and amended version of the price-control extension bill as "a monstrous thing."

"Mr. Bowles is an advertising man and is not concerned with facts," Taft declared.

Congress Listened To Facts

"Congress listened for weeks to testimony regarding the facts. No one could have listened to that testimony without being convinced that in many cases OPA is unjust, unrealistic and illogical."

Taft said all that Congress proposes to do in the pending extension legislation is "to force the gradual decontrol of prices and impose some legislative restrictions on Mr. Bowles's arbitrary powers.

"Mr. Bowles slanders Congress by representing it as a group of weaklings, yielding to every cry for more profits," Taft said. "The truth is that if they were that kind of weaklings, Mr. Bowles's pressure groups are three times as strong as any group of business organizations."

OPA Used Funds For Publicity

The Senator declared OPA has admitted spending $2,500,000 a year for publicity, and declared it has "repeatedly violated the law against spending Government money to pressure Congress."

Taft asserted that Bowles made six specific misstatements in his Tuesday broadcast: By declaring that production since V-J day has risen to record peacetime levels; by saying that people have prospered because of price and rent controls; by asserting that OPA recently increased dairy prices because Congress intended to reduce subsidies; by exaggerating the effects of removing subsidies; by blaming the lack of meat on Congress, and by claiming that Taft advocated raising the price level by 15 per cent.

Hickenlooper Joins In Attack

Speaking on the same program, Senator Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) said that Bowles's "attack upon Senator Taft and the Banking Committee was not only viciously unfair, but it is typical of the smear tactics of those who want to establish permanent controls on our American economy.

"Full production has not been attained," the Senator asserted. "The main reason is that Mr. Bowles has refused to set prices on mass consumers' goods, in many cases, that permit their maximum production. Cheap shirts, underwear, house dresses and a host of other things are almost unobtainable, but luxury items and expensive merchandise seem to be plentiful. . . . We began reconversion over a year ago, but we are still struggling with shortages of necessities, and with the delays, incompetence and stupidity of OPA."

Senator Wherry (R., Neb.), the third speaker, asserted "the American people, including veterans, will not get the goods and services they must have through Mr. Bowles's demagoguery over the radio. They must get it from the factories and the farms of America."

Senate's OPA Measure Heads Into Floor Fight

Washington, June 6 (AP)—An OPA bill laden with grief for the Administration began its journey to the Senate floor today.

The Banking Committee drafted a formal recommendation to the chamber that it vote to extend price control one year beyond June 30 but in sharply curtailed form.

Chairman Wagner (D., N.Y.), who led the fight against drastic revisions, announced he would issue a report denouncing the changes.

Half a dozen members of the nineteen-man committee signified their intention to side with the chairman.

Among Major Features

Some of the major features, condemned as "monstrous" by Stabilization Director Chester Bowles even before the bill was completed, follow:

1. Price control over livestock, meat, poultry, eggs and dairy products would end June 30.

2. The Secretary of Agriculture rather than the price administration would say what other farm products could be kept under price ceilings.

3. A decontrol board, independent of the OPA, would have power to overturn the price administrator's refusal to lift controls from any specific commodity.

Markup Restrictions

4. "Cost absorption" would be out. The OPA would be forbidden to interfere with normal markups and discounts of wholesalers and retailers of so-called "reconversion items." These include automobiles, refrigerators, radios and washing machines whose wartime production was curtailed 25 per cent or more by Government order.

5. The $2,000,000,000 in subsidies requested by the OPA would be cut to $1,100,000,000, with a provision that no food subsidies could decontrol of meat and dairy products stands up in the Senate, the food subsidies will probably cut to about $400,000,000 for the ten months.

6. The OPA's MAP (maximum average price) order, designed to keep the manufacture of low-priced clothing going, would be repealed.

Ban On New Controls

7. The OPA could not put any item under control which was not controlled May 1 this year, and could inaugurate no new subsidies.

8. Items not important to living costs or business costs must be taken out from under price control by the end of this year.

The OPA officials estimated that the ban against cost absorption on reconversion items would cost consumers an extra $500,000,000 a year, with the increase for automobiles alone aggregating $400,000,000. But automobile spokesmen took exception to this. They contended that production could not exceed 2,000,000 cars this year and said the average increase would be about $75 a car.

Wagner called the committee together today to look over the completed bill.

"Reasonable Profit" Omitted

While the measure incorporated many of the House provisions, one was struck which would have required ceilings high enough on every item to reflect to manufacturers, processors and distributors their costs plus "a reasonable profit."

The House voted to scrap all subsidies by January 1, and end meat subsidies June 30.

The House also provided that the OPA would have to lift the price ceiling on any commodity when its output attained a rate equivalent to that in 1941.

The House voted only a nine-month extension.

TEEN-AGE DRAFT COMPROMISE AT 19 IS EXPECTED

House and Senate Seem to Be Poles Apart on Induction Issue.

CONFEREES TO DECIDE SOON

Committees From Both Chambers Not Likely to Have Difficulty With Most of Provisions.

Washington, June 6 (A. P.).—House and Senate braced today for a tug of war over resuming the teen age draft. But there were hints of a compromise making 19-year-olds eligible and exempting those of 18.

The two chambers found themselves poles apart on the teen age issue in their efforts to decide how to continue the draft. The Senate is overwhelmingly for continued use of teen agers in the services, the House just as overwhelmingly against it.

The Senate pushed the question toward a showdown when it gave a thumping 69 to 8 majority yesterday to its bill for keeping the main provisions of the wartime draft act in force until next May.

Although it differed on a number of points from the House measure voted April 13, the teen age provision promised to be the big stumbling block in the bill which the Senate passed along to a Senate-House conference committee.

Must Agree by June 30.

The conferees, seven Senators and seven Representatives, must adjust all the differences and persuade Congress to accept their recommendations between now and June 30, when the present law expires. Here is their problem:

Length of Extension: The Senate voted to continue the draft until May 15 next; the House until February 15 next.

Age of Inductions: The Senate by a 53 to 26 count voted to continue inducting 18 and 19-year-olds; the House by a 195 to 96 tally ordered a halt to teen-age inductions. The top draft age in the House bill is 29; in the Senate's, 44.

Pay Rises: The Senate wrote into its bill pay rises for enlisted grades only, ranging from 50 per cent for buck privates to smaller boosts for top sergeants and corresponding ranks in the other services; the House refused to put pay rises into the draft bill, but voted in separate legislation for rises ranging from 50 per cent for buck privates to 10 per cent for five-star generals.

Induction holiday: The House ordered a moratorium on all inductions prior to October 15. The Senate turned that proposal down.

The two branches are in virtual agreement on these provisions of their separate bills:

A ban against induction of fathers, regardless of age.

A limit of eighteen months of service for inducted men.

A prohibition against any inductions that will give the Army more than 1,070,000 men by July 1, 1947.

Continuation of re-employment benefits specified in the wartime draft act.

The conferees expect little difficulty compromising all the differences except the teen-age provision.

House members indicated willingness to accept the Senate's pay rise proposal, probably with adjustments; said they wouldn't hold out too vigorously to retain the House-voted draft holiday, and expected no trouble compromising on the date the proposed new law shall expire.

But on the teen-age question a knock-down, drag-out fight was in prospect.

Twice the House has voted emphatically to prohibit induction of 18 and 19-year-olds, once in its version of the bill passed yesterday by the Senate and again in the stop-gap measure continuing the draft law until the end of this month. The Senate has just as emphatically insisted that the teen-agers be put into uniform as replacements for men with long service.

ARMY TO REQUIRE MORE MEN SOON, EISENHOWER SAYS

WASHINGTON, June 6 — (AP) With the final form of the draft extension highly uncertain, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said tonight that "the pool of potential volunteers is drying up" and "Selective Service must supplement enlistments."

"For this purpose 18 months of service is a fair contribution to ask of any young man," the chief of staff declared. "The security of our own country and the continuing peace of our world are worth it. It is far less than we asked of the soldiers who fought to make possible a peaceful world."

Eisenhower prepared his remarks for an NBC broadcast commemorating the second anniversary of the landings in Normandy which he commanded as supreme Allied commander.

Meanwhile a final congressional decision on the future of the draft awaited conferences between the Senate and House to adjust their differences over the length and terms of the extension.

One of the chief issues is whether teen-agers should be drafted again after the present stopgap extension expires July 1. The measure would permit 18 and 19-year-olds to be called, but the House previously had disapproved. A compromise by which 18-year-olds would be exempted but 19-year-olds would be taken was discussed.

Eisenhower paid tribute to "the American fighting man" and said that "the job he began and carried through to its combat conclusion is not yet complete."

"Only firm and just peace throughout the world can bring an end to our endeavor," he continued. "Victory won in blood and sacrifice demands of us effort and sacrifice to establish peace."

He added that the task of enforcing the surrender terms on the enemy has been assigned to the Army and "only adequate manpower can make it an effective performance."

58 FLAG OFFICERS TO RETIRE SOON

Washington, June 6 (A. P.).—The Navy today issued a list of fifty-eight admirals and commodores who will be retiring soon and indicated that ninety-four more, not named, would drop out by the end of October.

At the Navy's peak strength during the war, there were 550 "flag officers" (those holding the rank of commodore or higher on the active list), a Navy spokesman said, but this number has been scaled down to 382 and will take a further cut to 230 when the 152 officers mentioned quit the service.

The following fifty-eight officers are in a "retirement proceeding pending" status:

Admirals Royal E. Ingersoll and Samuel M. Robinson.

Vice-Admirals Robert L. Ghormley, William L. Calhoun and William Farber.

Rear Admirals Roy W. Ryden, David M. Lebreton, Herbert S. Howard, Herbert F. Leary, John H. Newton, Wilhelm L. Friedell, Milo F. Draemel, Ferdinand L. Reichmuth, Alexander Sharp, Felix X. SECURITY BENEFITS FAVORED FOR VETS

WASHINGTON, June 6 — (AP) Legislation to give veterans social security credit for World War II service was recommended to the Senate today by its Finance committee.

Senators were told that this credit, at a flat rate of $160 a month, would be retroactive to the start of the war and extend for three years after effective date of the legislation.

It would enable surviving dependents of veterans killed during the war and those who die within three years to obtain Social Security benefits. After three years the veterans are expected to have built up sufficient credits.

Both employe and employer costs would be paid by the Federal government. The cost was not estimated.

Mrs. Luce Pledges Conservation As Famine Drive Opens in Capital

WASHINGTON, June 6—(AP) Seven congresswomen signed the pledge today—"I will do my utmost to conserve any and all foodstuffs."

At the White House, Mrs. Truman signed, too, starting off a campaign to enlist 30,000,000 American housewives in the war against wasted food.

Five of the congresswomen got the pledge from Chester Davis, chairman of the Famine Emergency committee.

As housewives, the one question that seemed uppermost in their minds was:

"Why don't we have rationing?"

Representative Clare Boothe Luce (R-Conn) said folks up her way would be tickled to have rationing if it meant help for the world's starving.

"With wheat," said Davis, "rationing just won't work."

Davis explained that rationing means dividing things up equally, and he doesn't think bread should be divided equally.

Said Davis, an old St. Louis boy: "The fellow who works across the river in Granite City, Ill., will need a lot of bread. I need very little. In fact, I don't need any.

"We've got to convince people, people like you, that if you don't need bread, don't eat it."

"Remember," he added, "there is an abundance of food in America. It's the question of having—and of eating the right things."

Here he whipped out a fountain pen, and the photographers whipped out their cameras. The ladies gave their hair a souple of hopeful, fussy pats, and signed.

In addition to Mrs. Luce and Mrs. Douglas, those who took the pledge were Representatives Rogers (R-Mass), Woodhouse (D-Conn), Smith (R-Me), Pratt (D-NC) and Mankin (D-Ga).

Rep. Douglas (D-Ill) wasn't convinced.

"It's demoralizing," he said, "for a woman to scrimp and save, all the time knowing that the woman next door is wasting as usual.

"And also, that makes it very difficult to explain to my daughter why she can't have a second piece of toast."

Davis said he has a lot of confidence in the nation's 30,000,000 housewives.

Mrs. Truman Asks Women To Take Lead In Bond Sales

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Mrs. Bess W. Truman called upon women today to "take the lead in backing the future of their loved ones" by buying United States savings bonds.

Mrs. Truman's statement, issued on the opening of the Treasury's anti-inflation bond drive, follows:

"The future well-being of most American families rests largely upon the resoluteness of women in maintaining the wartime habit of investing every dollar above needed living expenses in United States savings bonds.

"Equally Vital In Peace"

"It was vital to back the attack on our enemies by buying war bonds. In peace it is equally vital for women to take the lead in backing the future of their loved ones.

"Let us all heed the lesson we learned during the war—that the most effective way to save is to make each pay day a step toward ownership of another savings bond."

The drive, for which no quota has been set, runs until July 4.

50,000,000 CANS OF GIFT FOOD SEEN

Washington, June 6 (A. P.).—Secretary of Commerce Wallace estimated today that 50,000,000 cans of relief food will be collected through volunteer means by July 1.

"This should save many lives," he said.

Wallace testified before the Senate Small Business Committee as chairman of the Emergency Food Collection, a private organization to collect canned foods and cash for relief. He said that the group's New York headquarters has received $323,000 and 349,848 cans of food from its 4,726 local committees and that shipments to New York are only beginning.

The Senate committee is looking into the relief situation in connection with a general inquiry into complaints from bakers and flour mills that Government grain buying for relief is forcing them out of business.

Meanwhile, Representative Carlson (R.-Kan.) told the House today that the Agriculture Department's order requisitioning one-half of all wheat moving into commercial channels is illegal. He contended that the order is an invasion of property rights and deprives farmers of property without due process of law.

Blades Ease Helicopter Fall

Act as Chute in 9,000-Foot Drop With Engine Dead

DAYTON, Ohio, June 6 (AP).—An Army Air Forces helicopter, its engine dead, dropped from 9,000 feet without damage to the craft or injury to its pilot today.

Auto-rotation—free-wheeling of the helicopter's rotor blades—allowed the pilot, Captain Irvin C. Steiner, of Wright Field, to land his helicopter safely in a cow pasture at near-by New Germany.

Captain Steiner said rough air tilted the helicopter so that a carburetor float became clogged.

BILL TAXES LEASED SURPLUS PROPERTY

Washington, June 6 (A. P.).—Surplus Government property conditionally bought or leased by private industry would be subject to full State and local taxation under a bill introduced by Representative Eberharter (D.-Pa.).

Eberharter expressed belief the measure would mean millions of dollars in revenues for many localities. His bill provides that any Government property, as defined in the surplus property act, becomes taxable when used for private profit.

Eberharter told a reporter that at present some Government-owned property, such as surplus war plants, leased or sold on a conditional basis—with title remaining with the Government—has been considered non-taxable locally.

He said this gave an unfair competitive advantage to the operators of the plants and was unjust to communities denied tax revenues from these privately operated plants, merely because they happened to be Government-owned.

VICTIM TO GO TO JAPAN

Powell Will Testify Against Tojo and Others

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—John B. Powell, the newspaper man who lost part of both feet as a result of gangrene incurred in a Japanese prison camp, will testify at the war crimes trial in Tokyo, it was learned tonight.

Mr. Powell, a native of Hannibal, Mo., will leave Friday for Japan. He is expected to testify against former Premier Hideki Tojo and other Japanese charged with being war criminals.

Publisher of the China Weekly Review in Shanghai at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack, Mr. Powell spent about seven months in the Bridgehouse prison camp in Shanghai before he was repatriated in June, 1942. He was hospitalized almost three years after his return to the United States.

PEPPER BACKS PROTEST OF ARMY NEWS STAFF

WASHINGTON, June 6 — (AP) Senator Pepper (D.-Fla.) told the Senate today he would ask Secretary of War Patterson to see that the staff of the Army newspaper Pacifican at Manila is "not impaired" by undue censorship and officer control.

Pepper read to the Senate a long cable from the staff complaining that cartoons, letters to the editor, and reports from the Associated Press and United Press had been deleted or altered.

The cable said the entire staff asked transfer to other duties unless allowed to "report freely and fully."

Eisenhower Lost In Pentagon Building

Washington, June 6 (AP)—The boss got lost today in the Pentagon Building.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower volunteered to guide a group of women magazine writers and editors out of the huge five-sided War Department headquarters after a luncheon given by Secretary of War Patterson.

Before they left, he said he would show them his own office. He made four false tries at promising-looking doors. Then he grinned and admitted he was lost.

An unsung, unidentified major came to the rescue and piloted the group to the right door.

KING OF SIAM TO ARRIVE ON WEST COAST JUNE 16

WASHINGTON, June 6 — (AP) King Ananba Mahidol of Siam will arrive in San Francisco June 16, the State department announced today to visit this country as a guest of the government.

The 20-year-old monarch, accompanied by the queen mother and a royal party, will spend three days in Washington. He will see President Truman June 19.

After his Washington visit, the king will leave for New York enroute to Britian. He is also scheduled to visit Switzerland.

PREDICTS U. S. HOUSING GRAB

Producer Sees Drive for Government Control

Washington, June 6 (A. P.).—Douglas Whitlock, chairman of the Producers' Council, Inc., described today a proposed permanent national housing agency as the first step in an administration plan "to gain and retain strict control over housing."

He asserted that Chester Bowles, the stabilization director, and Wilson Wyatt Jr., the housing expediter, "have beat their chests over the housing shortage, but have carefully refrained from taking the steps needed to eliminate it."

"They have held prices down to the point where manufacturers cannot turn out the needed materials," Whitlock added in testimony before the House Expenditures Committee. The committee is considering a resolution to disapprove President Truman's reorganization plan, which would set up the permanent housing agency.

"In place of adjusting ceiling prices to permit production, they brought forth their premium payment subsidy plan," said Whitlock, whose organization represents manufacturers of building materials and equipment.

Sees Industry Blamed.

"In our opinion, this failure to adjust ceiling prices and the insistence on ineffective subsides to be passed out at the whim of the Government is the groundwork for a campaign due to start before many weeks have passed, in which an attempt will be made to blame private enterprise for not building more homes.

"As soon as it becomes obvious to every one that Wyatt's housing goals cannot be met, because of the continued shortage of materials, these men in Government will cry out that private enterprise has failed, that veterans are not getting enough homes, that the Government must step in and take over."

George W. West, president of the First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Atlanta, also opposed the housing features of the proposed reorganization.

Appearing for the United States Chamber of Commerce, West said that the plan would merge the Government's responsibility to strengthen private home financing facilities and the objective "of seeing to it that every family in the United States ultimately obtains a suitable dwelling."

He likened this to "an attempt to mix oil and water."

Admiral Flies Nonstop Honolulu To Seattle

Seattle, June 6 (AP)—Admiral John H. Towers, commander in chief, Pacific, blazed an air trail yesterday in a nonstop flight from Honolulu to Seattle and planned another history-making hop June 10 from Kodiak, Alaska, back to Hawaii.

The admiral said his flight here was the first leg of an inspection trip to Alaskan bases. He was to take off today for Kodiak. The flight here, believed the first over the route, took 13 hours 8 minutes.

Says Taylor Will Be Recalled

Richmond Minister States Truman Assured Protestants Envoy to Pope Was Temporary.

Richmond, Va., June 6 (A. P.).—A Richmond minister said today that President Truman had assured a group of Protestant churchmen that Myron C. Taylor, the President's personal representative to the Vatican would be recalled at the latest by the time the peace treaties were signed.

Dr. John A. MacLean, pastor of the Ginfer Park Presbyterian Church of Richmond, who represented the Southern Presbyterian churches as one of the committee of eleven calling on the President yesterday, issued this statement:

"We were given assurance that the appointment of Mr. Taylor was a temporary expedient to give the President the fullest opportunity to make his contribution to the peace. We were assured that Mr. Taylor's service as Ambassador to the Pope might terminate at an early date, but would certainly terminate with the signing of the peace treaties."

[In Washington, the White House declined any comment on Dr. MacLean's statement.]

Cites Two Accomplishments.

The Richmond minister, who said the group which called at the White House yesterday represented more than 40,000,000 Protestants, commented that "the conference accomplished at least two purposes." He said that the occasion was the first in which the Protestants of America have been fully united in explaining to the President their attitude toward retaining an Ambassador to the Pope. Also, Dr. MacLean stated, "for the first time we have the assurance from official sources that this arrangement is not permanent but temporary, and will definitely be terminated.

"In the minds of Protestants," Dr. McLean continued, "the chief objection to the appointment of Mr. Taylor is that it clearly violates the principle of separation of church and state which is so large and important a part of the foundation of our Government."

Paratroops Fulfill Dead C.O.'s Vow, Made On D-Day Eve

Kansas City, June 6 (AP)—A crescent moon silhouetted the towering Liberty Memorial shaft on a mall high above the city, making dusky shadows of the 50 men gathered at the base last midnight.

A dark-haired lad, his empty sleeve aflutter in the breeze, recalled "it wasn't so bright when we 'chuted down into Normandy.'"

Some of the men, all veterans of the 506th Paratroop Regiment, wiped aside a tear now and then as a minister began praying. Others knelt, looked up at the starlit sky. The words of Lieut. Col. Robert L. Wolverton, as he stood in an English orchard two years ago, seemed nearer.

Preinvasion Prayer

"Look up," he had said to his 3d Battalion before it began its invasion of Normandy from the air hours ahead of assault troops who hit the Omaha Beach.

Then he had prayed, "If die we must, may we die as men would die, without complaining, without pleading and safe in the feeling we have done our best. . . ."

When he had finished he shouted to his boys that there'd be a reunion in Kansas City "a year from today."

Last Year's Celebration

Wolverton fell a few ours later under German gunfire. His reunion "next year" had to wait but 135 of his paratroopers celebrated the next best place they could find on June 6, 1945—Adolf Hitler's Berchtesgaden.

So last night, two years later, 50 men of the 3d Battalion gathered here to keep their reunion promise. They came by all sorts of ways. John Allison, of Stockton, Cal., and James W. Bradley, of Los Angeles, had spent three days on a motorcycle getting here. Bob Morrow, of Uniontown, Pa., had hitchhiked. The Colonel's widow, Mrs. Kathleen Wolverton, had flown from Elkins, W.Va.

Roll-Call Of The Dead

To the roll of drums, former Major Robert Harwick, of Pittsburgh, Pa., Wolverton's successor, read the names of their fallen comrads. Then came taps. The former paratroopers left silently, each with his own way of paying tribute to his fallen commander.

But they all agreed with ex-Sergt. E. E. Lee, of Shelbyville, Ind., that Wolverton was the "best damned commander in the army."

Some couldn't say anything, like George Rosie, of Kalamazoo, Mich., whose 200 pounds dwindled to 140 in eleven months in a German prison camp.

"Really Loved His Men"

His buddy, Corporal Charles Stewart, of Philadelphia, his right arm limp, shattered by German bullets, recalled "the colonel was the kind of guy who really loved his men."

A British war bride, Barbara, knelt by her soldier-husband, Vincent Michael. Many of the paratroopers had been her friends. Her home was in Ramsbury, England, where the battalion had been stationed for nearly a year.

Miss Helen Briggs, the Red Cross girl who ran the club at Ramsbury, helped organize the Kansas City reunion. She is now a dental hygienist in Washington.

Gold Star Mothers Elect Eleanor Boyd

Philadelphia, June 6 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Boyd, of Long Beach, Cal., who lost two sons in World War II, was elected 1946-47 president of the American Gold Star Mothers yesterday at the final session of the three-day convention of the organization here.

Other officers elected include: Mrs. Anna G. Hagerty, Atlantic City, N.J.; Mrs. Martha Davies, Salt Lake City, Utah; Mrs. Agnes M. O'Laughlin, Lyndhurst, N.J., and Mrs. Etta M. Nash, Washington, D.C., vice presidents; Mrs. Hazel H. Williams, Wheeling, W.Va., treasurer; Mrs. Barbara Ford, Portland, Ore., recording secretary; Mrs. Anna Brown, Rochester, N.Y., chaplain; Mrs. Marion Harr, Cleveland, Ohio, custodian of records, and Mrs. Dorothy Gothard, Springfield, Ohio, historian.

Dulles's Warning On Soviet Policy

New York, June 6 (AP)—John Foster Dulles says: "The basic purpose of Americans for the next few years should be to develop the facts which will make it apparent, even to those within the Kremlin, that present Soviet foreign policy will not succeed."

He made the statement in an article in Life magazine, released today.

Dulles, adviser to Secretary of State Byrnes at the London Conference of Foreign Ministers last fall, said: "Then they (Russia) will change that policy.

Way To Ward Off Danger

"In that way, and only in that way, can we ward off the danger of another great war due to another great miscalculation.

In not making apparent, in time, our devotion to our ideals, we were guilty of contributory negligence" in World Wars I and II, he said.

"We must not make the same mistake three times in a generation.

"We bartered away to the Soviet Union the rights of weak nations, as China and Poland, despite the Atlantic Charter. We have, in Germany, shared in policies and practices which are inhuman and unjust by the standards we use to condemn Soviet policies and methods."

Called Beyond Control

Dulles said he considered these practices — all beyond control of the United Nations—a danger to world peace.

"Great powers use force, or more subtle methods, to gain working controls of the governments of weak states. . . .

"The Soviet program uses our freedom of press, speech and communication in order to convert us to a society which will not tolerate those freedoms."

BUENOS AIRES, JUNE 6-(AP)-ARGENTINA ESTABLISHED DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA TODAY, MARKING THE FIRST EXCHANGE OF ENVOYS BETWEEN THIS COUNTRY AND THE SOVIET UNION.

AT HIS FIRST PRESS CONFERENCE SINCE ASSUMING THE PRESIDENCY LAST TUESDAY, JUAN D.PERON MADE THE ANNOUNCEMENT FROM GOVERNMENT HOUSE.
THE ACCORD ENDS A 29-YEAR-OLD DIPLOMATIC ISOLATION OF THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT BY ARGENTINA WHICH IS RENEWING TIES CUT AFTER THE 1917
RUSSIAN REVOLUTION.

ARGENTINA WITHDREW HER MINISTER AFTER THE CZARIST REGIME WAS OVERTHROWN AND AN INCIDENT DEVELOPED WHEN SOVIET OFFICIALS SEIZED
THE LEGATION'S RECORDS AND ARRESTED AN ARGENTINE DIPLOMAT ENTRUSTED WITH CLOSING THE OFFICES. ARGENTINA ASKED FOR AN EXPLANATION WHICH, GOVERNMENT SOURCES SAID, NEVER WAS GIVEN.

ARGENTINA REQUESTED AND OBTAINED RUSSIA'S EXPULSION FROM THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS AFTER THE RUSSIAN INVASION OF FINLAND IN 1939.

THE ESTABLISHMENT NOW OF A DIPLOMATIC LINK BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES, ACCORDING TO VIEWS EXPRESSED IN THE OFFICIAL SOVIET PRESS, OPENS BROAD TRADE PROSPECTS. THE RUSSIAN MISSION WHICH CAME TO BUENOS AIRES OSTENSIBLY FOR TRADE PURPOSES HAS BEEN ACCORDED UNUSUAL
HONORS BY THE ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT; IT WAS GIVEN DIPLOMATIC STATUS
AT PERON'S INAUGURATION.

THE COMMUNIST PARTY IN ARGENTINA IS RELATIVELY UNIMPORTANT

GROMYKO THROUGHOUT HAS CONTENDED THAT ACTION AGAINST HIM SHOULD NOT BE DELAYED. HE ALSO HAS HELD OUT AGAINST TRANSFER TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF AUTHORITY WHICH HE MAINTAINS SHOULD BE EXERCISED BY THE SECURITY COUNCIL.

BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES HAVE JOINED IN MORAL CONDEMNATION OF THE FRANCO REGIME, BUT HAVE MAINTAINED THAT SPAIN DOES NOT MENACE PEACE AND THAT A BREAK IN RELATIONS WOULD END THE SURVEILLANCE THEY ARE ABLE TO KEEP OVER THE FALANGIST GOVERNMENT THROUGH VARIOUS AGENCIES.

THEY ADVOCATE A PEACEFUL OVERTHROW OF FRANCO BY THE SPANISH PEOPLE.

BEFORE THE SUBCOMMITTEE INQUIRY WAS LAUNCHED APRIL 29, POLAND -- WHICH BROUGHT THE CASE BEFORE THE SECURITY COUNCIL -- HAD WON THE SUPPORT OF RUSSIA, FRANCE AND MEXICO FOR AN IMMEDIATE COLLECTIVE SEVERANCE OF RELATIONS WITH MADRID AS A THREAT TO PEACE.

AFTER STUDYING MASSES OF DOCUMENTS AND HEARING SPANISH REPUBLICAN TESTIMONY IN 18 SESSIONS, THE SUBCOMMITTEE HELD THAT THE FRANCO REGIME IS A "POTENTIAL" THREAT AND SHOULD BE ISOLATED UNLESS FRANCO IS "WITHDRAWN" BY SEPTEMBER. THE SUBCOMMITTEE MEMBERSHIP -- AUSTRALIA, BRAZIL, CHINA, FRANCE AND POLAND -- CONCURRED IN THE FINDINGS AND IN RECOMMENDING FUTURE ACTION BY THE ASSEMBLY.

A12

ADOPTION OF THE REPORT WOULD REQUIRE THE AFFIRMATIVE VOTE OF SEVEN COUNCIL MEMBERS, INCLUDING ALL THE BIG FIVE -- THE UNITED STATES, BRITAIN, RUSSIA, FRANCE AND CHINA.

THE FRANCO GOVERNMENT EARLY TODAY ISSUED A 3,000-WORD REPLY TO THE SUBCOMMITTEE IN WHICH IT ACCUSED FRANCE AND RUSSIA OF THREATENING THE PEACE OF SPAIN AND DECLARED SPAIN WOULD LIVE IN "SACRIFICING ISOLATION" RATHER THAN SUBMIT TO ANY INTERFERENCE IN HER INTERNAL AFFAIRS.

THE REPLY WAS CIRCULATED IN MADRID AMONG THE LEGATIONS OF THOSE NATIONS REPRESENTED ON THE SECURITY COUNCIL WHICH MAINTAIN RELATIONS WITH SPAIN. IT CHALLENGED THE "COMPETENCE" OF THE ORGANS OF THE UNITED NATIONS AND OF THE SUBCOMMITTEE TO CONSIDER SPANISH AFFAIRS AND CHARACTERIZED THE PARENT BODY ITSELF AS A "DIALECTIC PIECE CHARGED WITH POLITICAL AND IDEOLOGICAL PASSION."

THE UNITED STATES WILL BE REPRESENTED IN THE SECURITY COUNCIL DURING TODAY'S DEBATE BY HERSCHEL V. JOHNSON, ALTERNATE DELEGATE, WHO IS TAKING THE PLACE OF EDWARD R. STETTINIUS, JR., FOLLOWING THE LATTER'S RESIGNATION.

JOHNSON WILL SERVE AS THE U.S. DELEGATE UNTIL NEXT JANUARY 3, WHEN HIS PLACE WILL BE TAKEN BY SENATOR WARREN R. AUSTIN WHO WAS APPOINTED TO THE COUNCIL YESTERDAY BY PRESIDENT TRUMAN.

NOT FAR AWAY, LEAR LE MOLAY, MADAME RENE LUBIN, -- KNOWN TO HUNDREDS OF AMERICAN SOLDIERS AS "MRS. JUN 7 1946

"GOOD AFTERNOON, GIN? WHISKEY?"

SHE CAN SHOW PEOPLE HER SCRAPBOOK, FULL OF LETTERS FROM SOLDIERS WHO LEFT NORMANDY TO FIGHT THEIR WAY INTO GERMANY AND WHO WROTE BACK TO THANK HER FOR HER HOSPITALITY.

IN VALOGNES THEY TELL AGAIN AND AGAIN THE STORY THAT HAS MADE THEM LAUGH SO OFTEN IN THE PAST TWO YEARS -- HOW AN UNKNOWN AMERICAN SOLDIER ROARED UP ON HIS MOTORCYCLE TO ONE OF THE FEW HOUSES STILL STANDING IN THE TOWN AND TOLD THE FAMILY INSIDE:

"YOU'D BETTER GET OUT OF HERE, THE GERMANS ARE COMING."

WHEN THE FAMILY LEFT HE FLOPPED DOWN ON THE BIG FEATHER BED. "THERE AREN'T ANY GERMANS WITHIN MILES OF HERE" HE SAID, "BUT I JUST HAVE TO GET SOME SLEEP."

IN BREHAL, JUST NORTH OF GRANVILLE, M. PIERRE DUMONT TOLD HOW HE TRADED A BOTTLE OF 30-YEAR-OLD CALVADOS (NORMANDY'S VERSION OF APPLE JACK) TO A WAR CORRESPONDENT FOR FIVE POUNDS OF SUGAR, AND HOW FOR THREE DAYS THERE WAS A CONSTANT PROCESSION OF PRESS JEEPS BEARING CORRESPONDENT'S SUGAR TO HIS FRONT DOOR.

IN GRANVILLE THE CLASSIC STORY WAS OF MAJ. PAUL GALE (HOME TOWN UNAVILABLE) OF THE FIRST INFANTRY DIVISION AND HIS DRIVER. THEY CAME INTO GRANVILLE THE NIGHT BEFORE THE MAIN BODY OF TROOPS AND STAYED ALL NIGHT, KILLING SEVEN GERMAN SOLDIERS AND HAVING A WONDERFUL TIME WITH THE TOWNSPEOPLE BETWEEN SKIRMISHES.

"WE HAVE TRUSTED GENERAL MARSHALL AND THIS IS PROVED BY THE FACT THAT WE REACHED SO MANY AGREEMENTS IN THE FIRST THREE MONTHS," CHOU TOLD A PRESS CONFERENCE. "BUT TO TRUST GENERAL MARSHALL DOES NOT NECESSARILY MEAN THAT HE IS TO BE EMPOWERED WITH FINAL DECISIONS."

IMMEDIATELY AFTER MARSHALL'S ARRIVAL IN CHINA TO MEDIATE THE CONFLICT, HE PROPOSED THE PRINCIPLE OF UNANIMOUS AGREEMENT WHICH THE COMMUNISTS ENDORSE, CHOU SAID.

"SINCE JANUARY OF THIS YEAR MANY FUNDAMENTAL ISSUES HAVE BEEN RESOLVED THROUGH UNANIMOUS AGREEMENT," HE CONTINUED. HIROHITO TRAVELED BY SPECIAL TRAIN AND AUTOMOBILE THROUGH RICH CHIBA PREFECTURE NEAR THE CAPITAL. OBSERVERS SAID HIS TRIP WAS A LAST-DITCH EFFORT TO EASE THE FOOD PROBLEM. HIS RECENT RADIO APPEAL TO HIS HUNGRY PEOPLE TO "HELP THEIR BROTHERS" SURMOUND CURRENT SHORTAGES AND HAMMER DOWN SKYROCKETING PRICES FAILED FLATLY.

HIS ITINERARY -- COVERING WHEAT FIELDS, DOCKS AND FISH MARKETS -- IS THAT OF TENS OF THOUSANDS OF TOKYO RESIDENTS WHO MAKE THE TRIP WEEKLY, SEEKING FOOD. THEY PACK RICKETY TRAINS AND CROWD THE HIGHWAYS, GOING FORTH TO HAGGLE WITH FARMERS AND FISHERMEN OVER FOOD PRICED OPENLY AT SEVERAL TIMES LEGAL CEILINGS.

WHETHER THE EMPEROR SAYS ANYTHING ABOUT THE FOOD CRISIS IS IMMATERIAL; HIS PRESENCE IS HIS STRONGEST APPEAL TO FARMERS TO SELL PRODUCE ONLY AT LEGITIMATE PRICES AND THROUGH LEGITIMATE CHANNELS.

IF TODAY'S PERSONAL TOUR EASES THE SITUATION, HIROHITO MAY MAKE OTHER SUCH TRIPS. IF IT DOES NOT, HE WILL HAVE LOST FACE AGAIN, AND THE RESTLESSNESS OF CITY FOLK CAUGHT IN THE ECONOMIC VISE MAY GROW.

ASSOCIATED PRESS DIPLOMATIC REPORTER

WASHINGTON, JUNE 6-(AP)-DIPLOMATS TALKED HOPEFULLY TODAY OF IMPROVING CHANCES FOR BIG FOUR AGREEMENT ON PLANS FOR LONG-RANGE CONTROL OF GERMANY.

THEIR GUARDED OPTIMISM IS BASED ON LATE REPORTS FROM LONDON, PARIS AND MOSCOW BEARING ON THE APPROACHING JUNE 15 SECOND SESSION OF THE FOREIGN MINISTERS' CONFERENCE IN THE FRENCH CAPITAL.

THESE OFFICIALS SAY BRITISH FOREIGN MINISTER BEVIN HAS DECIDED TO PRESS FOR EVENTUAL CREATION OF A GERMAN FEDERATION WHICH WOULD INCLUDE THE ONCE HIGHLY INDUSTRIALIZED RUHR.

AN AGREEMENT ON THIS POINT WOULD PUT AN END TO THE LONG CONTROVERSY CENTERING AROUND FRANCE'S DEMAND FOR SEPARATION OF THE RUHR.

SECRETARY OF STATE BYRNES, WHO WILL LEAVE FOR PARIS A WEEK FROM TO CENTERING AROUND FRANCE'S DEMAND FOR SEPARATION OF THE RUHR.

SECRETARY OF STATE BYRNES, WHO WILL LEAVE FOR PARIS A WEEK FROM TODAY, IS EQUALLY DETERMINED TO TRY AGAIN FOR AN AGREEMENT AMONG THE GREAT POWERS TO KEEP GERMANY DISARMED.

BEVIN HAS PLEDGED HIS SUPPORT TO THIS, AND INDICATIONS ARE THAT BYRNES WILL FULLY BACK THE FEDERATION PLAN. IT IS, IN FACT, ALREADY BEING PRACTICED IN THE AMERICAN OCCUPATION ZONE.

FRANCE, ACCORDING TO SOME DIPLOMATS HERE, MAY BE PREVAILED UPON TO ACCEPT THE FEDERATION SYSTEM WITHOUT INSISTING ON HER DEMAND FOR COMPLETE SEPARATION OF THE RUHR. THE EXPECTATION, TOO IS THAT THE FRENCH WILL GO ALONG WITH THE TREATY TO KEEP GERMANY IMPOTENT.

THE BIG QUESTION MARK ON BOTH SCORES IS RUSSIA. MOSCOW ITSELF IS SILENT, BUT DIPLOMATS FAMILIAR WITH CONDITIONS THERE ARE SPECULATING THAT SINCE THE FRENCH ELECTIONS ARE OVER AND THE RUHR IS NO LONGER A PRIME POLITICAL ISSUE, THE KREMLIN MAY BE QUITE WILLING TO ACCEPT A PLAN WHICH WOULD KEEP GERMANY MORE OR LESS IN ONE PIECE.

THE RUSSIAN HOPE, ACCORDING TO THESE PERSONS, WOULD BE TO EXERCISE A STRONG INFLUENCE IN ANY FUTURE GERMAN GOVERNMENT BY MEANS OF A UNION OF THE COMMUNIST ELEMENTS IN EASTERN AND WESTERN GERMANY.

BRITISH AND AMERICA OFFICIALS RECOGNIZE THIS AS POSSIBLE SOVIET STRATEGY, BUT THEY BELIEVE THE DEVELOPMENT OF COMMUNISM IN GERMANY MAY BE COMPARABLE TO THAT IN OTHER EUROPEAN COUNTRIES. THERE THE PARTY'S SUCCESS HAS BEEN CONSIDERABLE BUT NOT OVERWHELMING.

ON BYRNES' 25-YEAR TREATY PROPOSAL, THE BELIEF IS THAT THE RUSSIANS EVENTUALLY MAY GO ALONG, PROVIDED BYRNES CAN ALLAY FOREIGN MINISTER MOLOTOV'S SUSPICIONS.

THOSE WHO ADVOCATE A FEDERATIVE PLAN FOR ALL OF GERMANY CLAIM: (1). THAT IT WOULD DENY THE PRUSSIAN MILITARISTIC ELEMENTS DOMINATION OVER THE WHOLE COUNTRY, AND (2) THAT IT WOULD ALLOW GERMANY TO FUNCTION AS A SELF-SUPPORTING ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL UNIT.

OPPONENTS CONTEND THAT UNIFICATION MOVES ARE THE FIRST STEP TOWARD REVIVAL OF GERMAN ARMAMENT.

THE PRESENT BRITISH PLAN WOULD LEAVE INDUSTRIAL CONTROL OF THE RUHR MAINLY IN GERMAN HANDS BUT WITH THE ALLIES MAINTAINING AN ARMY OF INDUSTRIAL EXPERTS IN THE AREA WITH VETO POWER OVER PRODUCTION PLANS. AN ALTERNATIVE WOULD BE FOR THE INDUSTRIES TO BE RUN BY AN INTERNATIONAL AGENCY.

WASHINGTON, JUNE 6-(AP)-BRIG.GEN.LAWRENCE C.CRAIGIE SAID TODAY THE ARMY AIR FORCES WANTS TO BUILD SOME WIND TUNNELS IN WHICH IT COULD TEST SPEEDS RANGING UP TO 7,000 MILES AN HOUR.

HE STOPPED SHORT OF DISCLOSING WHAT WEAPONS, MISSILES OR CRAFT MIGHT BE SUBJECTED TO SUCH AIR SPEEDS--TEN TIMES THE SPEED OF SOUND.

CRAIGIE APPEARED BEFORE A SENATE INTERSTATE COMMERCE SUBCOMMITTEE. HE URGED THAT A PERMANENT NATIONAL AIR POLICY BOARD BE ESTABLISHED.

HE SAID THIS COUNTRY MUST SPEND $220,000,000 ANNUALLY FOR RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT IF IT EXPECTS TO MAINTAIN ITS WARTIME AIR SUPREMACY.

SENATORS SHOWED MUCH INTEREST IN FAR-RANGING PLANS FOR SPEED TESTS.

THE GENERAL SAID IT WOULD BE NECESSARY TO DESIGN AND CONSTRUCT A SERIES OF FIVE TEST WIND TUNNELS, RANGING FROM SPEED "SLIGHTLY SLOWER THAN THAT OF SOUND UP TO TEN TIMES AS FAST AS SOUND."

"HOW FAST WOULD THAT BE," ASKED SENATOR MITCHELL (D-WASH).

"ABOUT 7,000 MILES PER HOUR WITH SOUND AT 760 MILES AN HOUR," CRAGIE REPLIED.

WAR BABIES (150)

WASHINGTON, JUNE 6 (AP) THE SERIES OF DEATHS AMONG GI BABIES EN ROUTE FROM EUROPE TO THE UNITED STATES BROUGHT RECOMMENDATIONS TODAY THAT ARMY TRANSPORTS BAN FUTURE PASSAGE TO ALL SUCH INFANTS LESS THAN A YEAR OLD.

THE RECOMMENDATION CAME FROM A SPECIAL BOARD APPOINTED TO INVESTIGATE THE DEATH OF SEVERAL BABIES ON THE ARMY "BRIDE SHIP," ZEBULON B. VANCE.

THE BOARD GAVE THE SHIP AND ITS MEDICAL STAFF A CLEAN BILL OF HEALTH, AND ATTRIBUTED THE FATAL OUTBREAK OF SICKNESS AMONG SOME OF THE INFANTS TO UNHYGENIC HABITS OF THEIR MOTHERS.

THE REPORT, MADE PUBLIC BY THE WAR DEPARTMENT YESTERDAY, SAID THE CAUSE OF THE DISEASE HAS NOT YET BEEN POSITIVELY ESTABLISHED. IT ADDED THAT SYMPTOMS INDICATED IT WAS A FORM OF DIARRHEA TO WHICH INFANTS ARE SUBJECT.

THE BOARD ALSO STATED THAT SEVERAL OF THE STRICKEN INFANTS APPARENTLY WERE SUFFERING FROM THE AILMENT BEFORE THEY EMBARKED FROM FRANCE, BUT MANY MOTHERS FAILED TO REPORT THIS TO SHIP MEDICAL AUTHORITIES.

WASHINGTON, JUNE 6-(AP)-THE LETTERS COME IN EVERY LANGUAGE, EVERY SIZE, EVERY KIND OF SCRAWL. THEY ALL SAY THANK-YOU.

THERE ARE 10,000 OF THEM AT RED CROSS NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS HERE, WRITTEN IN THE LAST FOUR WEEKS BY THE LITTLE PEOPLE OF EUROPE TO THE PEOPLE OF AMERICA.

EVERY SHIP WHICH TAKES AMERICAN RELIEF SUPPLIES TO THE CONTINENT COMES BACK WITH CARTONS OF LETTERS--EARNEST, PATHETIC THANKS FOR A CAKE OR SOAP, A CHILD'S SHIRT, A CHOCOLATE BAR.

MANY WRITERS CAREFULLY COPY THE ADDRESS FROM A LABEL IN THE SHIRT OR ON THE PACKAGE. THEIR LETTERS COME TO "AMERICAN RED CROSS, NOT TO BE SOLD, U.S.A." OR "RED CROSS, CHILDREN'S SIZE TWO, WASHINGTON, D.C."

NOW AND THEN AN ENVELOPE CONTAINS A PICTURE. A FRENCH FAMILY SENT A SNAPSHOT "TAKEN DURING HAPPIER DAYS." A 12-YEAR-OLD BELGIAN GIRL ENCLOSED HER PICTURE. DUTCH SCHOOL CHILDREN DRAW WINDMILLS AND SEND THEM AS A "SOUVENIR OF HOLLAND."

FROM FRANCE, A 21-YEAR-OLD GIRL SENT A TINY SNAPSHOT OF A SHAPELESS PILE OF RUBBLE. HER EXPLANATION WAS SIMPLE, ELOQUENT:

"I SEND A PHOTO. IT WAS MY STREET, A TOWN--BUT THE FLYERS PASSED OVER."

JUN 7 1948

EACH LETTER IS A STORY. ONE IS FROM A DUTCH GIRL, FREED FROM A GERMAN CONCENTRATION CAMP TO MAKE HER WAY HOME. BACK IN HOLLAND, SHE CAME TO A RED CROSS DISTRIBUTION CENTER.

"I'LL NEVER FORGET THE WORDS," SHE WROTE. "'GIRL, WHAT DO YOU WANT, WHAT DO YOU NEED?'"

FROM VIENNA, A NUN WRITES FOR THE SCHOOL CHILDREN OF HER CONVENT "TO RENDER MANY, MANY THNAKS" FOR AMERICAN BREAD, BUTTER, MILK AND LARD. HER LETTER BEGINS "PATRONS, BENEFACTORS, FRIENDS."

"THE CHILDREN ARE DELIGHTED," SHE WRITES. "'THAT'S FINE.' 'HOW VERY, VERY GOOD.' 'NOW I AM NOT HUNGRY ANYMORE,' YOU HEAR THEM SHOUT AFTERWARD."

AN ITALIAN MAYOR SENT THIS MESSAGE: "THE PEOPLE IS VERY GRATEFUL AND THANKS THE GENEROUS AMERICAN PEOPLE FOR THE BEAUTIFUL GIFT."

TWO DUTCH BOYS, NINE AND 12, TOLD OF THEIR FAMILY'S EXCITEMENT OVER A PACKAGE FROM AMERICA. EACH MEMBER, THEY SAID, GUESSED WHAT WAS INSIDE.

"THE GIRLS GUESSED CHOCOLATE, A DOLL, SWEETIES, STOCKINGS, A NEW DRESS. WE GUESSED TOBACCO, CIGARETTES, A FOUNTAIN PEN. BUT MUMMY SAID SOAP WAS WHAT SHE WANTED MOST OF ALL--AND THAT'S WHAT IT WAS. YOU CANNOT IMAGINE WHAT THAT MEANS FOR US--OUR FIRST AFTER LIBERATION."

THE LETTERS STILL COME. AS MAIL CHANNELS OPEN FROM EACH LIBERATED COUNTRY, A FRESH FLOOD POURS IN. PICK ANY ONE FROM THE STACK. IT SPEAKS FOR THEM ALL.

"YOU HAVE HELPED US TO FORGET THE WAR SOON. THE GERMANS ARE AWAY. GOD, WE THANK YOU, THE PEOPLE AND SOLDIERS OF AMERICA."

British And U. S. Views On Spain Asked For U. N.

Action Expected Tuesday at Earliest While Delegates of Two Nations Seek Official Instructions—Delay in Receiving Text of Report Causes Postponement

New York, June 7—(AP)—The United States and British delegations to the United Nations Security Council looked to their home governments today for instructions on what stand to take toward the Council subcommittee's controversial proposal for a collective diplomatic break with Franco Spain next September.

The proposal was presented to the Council yesterday by Dr. Herbert V. Evatt of Australia, sub-committee chairman, amid a wary, unresponsive and almost complete silence among the delegates other than Evatt and two Council members of the sub-committee.

It was authoritatively reported unacceptable in its present form to both Britain and the United States. For different reasons Russia also is opposed to it.

Any of the Big Three could veto the sub-committee report but there were indications that inter-delegation maneuverings were going on, with the Council in recess until next week, to determine whether agreement could be reached by modifying the proposal.

Difficulties Foreseen

One delegation spokesman, who declined to be identified, acknowledged the difficulties involved in any attempt to reconcile the report with the British and American viewpoint that the Franco regime does not menace peace and that a break with Madrid would deprive them of a vital insight into Spanish affairs.

Debate on the Spanish question was balked at the outset yesterday on the motion of U. S. Delegate Herschel V. Johnson, who said Washington did not believe the governments had had sufficient time to examine the sub-committee report, circulated in New York on June 1.

Sir Alexander Cadogan of Great Britain said his government had not yet received a text of the report and joined Johnson in a plea for postponement.

Alexander Parodi of France, president of the council and a member of the subcommittee on Spain, adjourned the council until next Tuesday—or later, he said—in the event some member had not received further advice or instructions from his government by then.

Prior to adjournment, however, Parodi invited "general observations" on the Spanish report.

There was no immediate response. Soviet delegate Andrei A. Gromyko maintained silence throughout the session.

The Russian position was known, however, to be opposed to any delay in dealing as severely as possible with the Franco regime and against handing over the issue to the General Assembly, meeting in September, for final recommendation of a break if Generalissimo Franco has not been ousted by then.

Parodi then undertook an explantaion of legal points involving the sub-committee's distinction between a threat to peace and a potential threat to peace.

BREAK WITH SPAIN URGED

London, June 7—(AP)—The executive council of the powerful British Transport and General Workers' Union called today for a break in diplomatic relations with Spain. The resolution asked for development of trading facilities "with the U. S. S. R. and other democratic states."

TRADE UNION ROLE IN U.N. IS DEBATED

NEW YORK, June 7-(AP) The Major powers on the United Nations Economic and Social council clashed today over a French proposal that the World Federation of Trade Unions be given a bigger voice in U.N. affairs.

The proposal was vigorously opposed by the United States and Great Britain, but was supported by Russia, Czechoslovakia, the Ukraine, Belgium and Peru.

After almost three hours of debate, the question was referred to the council's committee on arrangements for consultation with non-governmental organizations with instructions that the committee redraft its earlier recommendations in the light of today's comments and suggestions.

In urging that the role of the W.F.T.U. be enlarged, French Delegate Henri Rochat and Soviet Delegate Nikolai V. Feonov supported the position which Sidney Hillman, vice president of the labor organization, set forth in a letter to the council.

This letter declared the committee's recommendations were "unsatisfactory" and proposed that a representative of the W.F.T.U. be permitted to sit in council meetings and express the views of the organization.

The disputed recommendations of the committee had provided that the W.F.T.U. could express its views only to a special committee appointed by the council. (ADD)

AUSTIN PROPOSES PLATFORM FOR U. N.

Washington, June 7 (A. P.).—Senator Warren Austin, newly chosen to be this country's voice in the Security Council of the United Nations, offered this today as a goal for America: An end to economic warfare in the world; abolition of the use of destructive weapons such as the atomic bomb; the use of peaceful methods for settling quarrels between nations.

He did not favor sharing any atomic secrets until "we can guarantee against its use for mass destruction." He said also that the United States, in the name of national security and world peace, must continue the selective service act. He talked to reporters at the White House. He had gone there to thank President Truman for his selection as United States representative on the Security Council.

The Vermont Republican said that he would not give up his Senate post until action has been completed on the draft extension bill. He called it absolutely essential that the Government continue with authority to draft 18 and 19-year-olds for armed service.

"We must always have a full force ready to conduct peace," he said, and added about atomic energy: "When we can get all other nations to agree to its use only for constructive purposes, and we can guarantee against its use for mass destruction, then we can share it. We want to abolish the use of the atomic bomb."

LONDON JAMMED FOR CELEBRATION OF WAR VICTORY

R. Landstrom

LONDON, June 7.—(AP) A spirit of jubilee heightened tonight in London, whose postwar drabness has been transformed into brilliant color for tomorrow's official celebration of victory in World War Two.

Neither the fire-gutted bomb ruins nor the people's freely expressed forebodings about the peace seemed to dull a general determination to make the most of this first formal public rejoicing in nearly 10 years. The weather was fine and promised to stay so.

NIGHT

Visitors poured into London from the country by the hundred thousand, lured by the promise of a long day of merry making and a great victory parade—a nine mile panorama of heroes and victory weapons, with 300 Royal Air Force planes sweeping overhead.

In a city where housing was already critically short the visitors swelled it to near the bursting point. But large numbers of arrivals asked no more than a few square feet of pavement and many slept tonight at places they had preempted for the parade.

Hotels, restaurants and pubs were unable to satisfy the needs of the visitors. Food lines formed at 5 a. m. and by 10 a. m. supplies of some items were gone virtually everywhere. Bread particularly was scarce.

Royalty in Parade

In the parade King George, Queen Elizabeth and the two princesses, in the royal landau, will lead a marching procession which will join with a cavalcade of motorized equipment.

Prime Minister Attlee, Winston Churchill, and other civilian war leaders will cut into the procession near 10 Downing street, before it reaches a climax on the mall, near Buckingham Palace.

Park concerts, open air dancing in the evening, fireworks, searchlights and a royal procession on the Thames at night complete a $620,000 amusement program.

Smaller celebrations will be held elsewhere in Britain, although some communities held aloof, saying this was no time for costly festivities.

10,000,000 DUE IN LONDON FOR VICTORY FETE

Uniforms of Most Allies to Be Represented in Colorful Observance

R. Landstrom

London, June 7.—(AP)—Millions of visitors jammed the English capital today for tomorrow's victory celebration, expected to be the greatest show this nation has seen since the coronation of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth in May, 1937.

As flags bedecked the ancient streets, softening the scars of war, authorities prepared to handle 10,000,000 or more people in London from long before dawn until far after midnight as masses continued to pour in from all parts of the kingdom, freed from their normal routine by the long Whitsuntide holiday.

DAY

At a cost of approximately $620,000, the government has devised a spectacular entertainment in official token of the Allied triumph, 13 months after the victory in Europe.

Parade A Feature

The victory will be commemorated especially by the day's first major event—a parade of marching columns and mechanized forces, led by the royal family in a state landau, escorted by cavalry.

To the accompaniment of martial music, men and women of the homeland, colorfully uniformed representatives of all parts of the empire and contingents of Allied armies will move past the huge reviewing stand in the Mall, a wide thoroughfare between Buckingham Palace and the Admiralty Arch.

Civilian veterans of the blitz and railroadmen who ran trains despite the Luftwaffe attacks, will march along with those who fought from African deserts to the wreckage of Germany.

Over them will fly old and new craft of the R.A.F., heavy bombers, famed in the war years and jet-propelled ships, of later fame, sweeping low to salute the sovereign.

"This victory parade show will be pure, unadulterated swank, so let's have plenty of it," R. A. F. Marshal Yord Tedder told his men.

The King, Queen and the two princesses spent an hour and a half yesterday inspecting the temporary encampment of some 11,000 Dominion and Colonial troops in Kensington Gardens—men from Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, from India, Burma, Ceylon, the Indies and from remote African garrisons.

Many Countries Represented

Much of London's dramatic wartime contrast was recaptured by the presence of these men and others in dozens of different—and often strange—uniforms. Virtually all the Allied nations are represented by troops. Many of their military or political leaders also will be present.

Three Allied countries will not participate in the parade—Russia, Yugoslavia and Poland. It was announced last night that the Polish government had notified Britain that a Polish contingent would not be in the march. A week ago the Poles, accepting a British invitation, had said their army, air force and navy would be represented. Reasons for the reversal of decision, it was said, would be set forth in a note to be delivered to the British soon.

The greatest disappointment, for Britons is the absence of General Eisenhower, who advised Prime Minister Atlee that pressure of work in the United States prevented him from accepting the government's invitation to attend. The American Army, Navy and Marine Corps will be represented, however, by high ranking officers and detachments of men numbering in all about 130.

That, in a way, is the strangest aspect of all—so few Americans to be seen in a city which had grown used to the sight of so many of them.

Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, commander of U. S. forces in Europe; Adm. H. Kent Hewitt, commander of naval forces in this theater; and Brig. Gen. Franklin A. Hart, of the Marine Corps, head the American representation.

In the hope of seeing the procession, which will require about three hours to pass the saluting base (reviewing stand), large numbers of people are planning to stay up all night tonight, huddled in the open, wherever they can find sitting room.

Throughout the afternoon and evening there will be special programs for children and concerts, water displays, fireworks, the illumination of public buildings and the line-up of the Royal Navy warships in the Thames.

U. S., Britain, Vatican Targets Of Attack by Russian Radio

Williams

LONDON, June 7.—(AP) The Moscow radio accused the United States and Britain today of using "independence to mask imperialistic policies," and declared Pope Pius XII had tried to intimidate French and Italian voters "with all kinds of bogies."

Commentator Philip Baratov in an English-language broadcast said "one gets a pretty good idea of what the West means by independence if one considers the treaty for the so-called independence of Trans-Jordan, the Anglo-Egyptian talks in Cairo, and the talks between the Anglo-Dutch authorities and representatives of the Indonesian republic."

Britain draped in an elaborate mantle of a struggle against slaveholders" her "war for the diamond deposits of Kimberly and the goldfields of the Transvaal," he said, and added:

"The same methods were used by the Americans in developing their system of naval bases in the Pacific and in the Caribbean war was also screened with the flag of independence for the slave peoples."

"At the present time," Baratov continued, "certain foreign circles are again hatching all sorts of expansionist plans. This time, too, the screen is independence. The duty of all who cherish the interests of peace is to expose this machination."

In a new attack on the Vatican, a Tass report of an article in Izvestia declared "the Pope is greatly alarmed by the fact that despite all the efforts of reaction, including Catholic reaction, the masses are steadfastly following the truly democratic parties."

Slaps at Vatican

"Everyone remembers that the Vatican never displayed a similar anxiety during those truly dark days when the danger of fascist slavery overhung Europe, when towns and villages were razed to the ground by the Hitlerite bandits and millions of innocent men, women, and children ruthlessly murdered."

The broadcast charged that the Pope on the eve of the French and Italian elections tried "to intimidate his audience with all kinds of bogies which the victory of the democratic parties was allegedly bound to bring in[illegible]." It declared that '[illegible]tion x[illegible]' is powerless[illegible] growth[illegible] Democratic

Vatican Paper Answers Reds

VATICAN CITY, June 7 — (AP) L'Osservatore Romano suggested today that if Pope Pius XII had supported the Italian monarchy in the weekend plebiscite, as radio Moscow (quoting Izvestia) declared, the monarchy would have been victorious.

The Vatican organ said:

"If Pope Pius had really supported the monarchy, it is probable that Izvestia today would once again deplore the triumph of the 'reactionaries.'"

L'Osservatore added that the fact that members of the Roman Catholic clergy were attacked at Naples because they were charged with being republican and elsewhere because they were believed to be monarchists "indicated that the clergy freely exercised their right to vote as other citizens."

SOVIET ASSAILS VATICAN AGAIN

Sees Defeat for Papal Views in France and Italy.

London, June 7 (A. P.).—Moscow made a new attack on the Vatican today, accusing the Catholic hierarchy of pro-Fascist sympathies and the Pope of attempts to intimidate French and Italian voters "with all kinds of bogies" on the eve of elections, but declaring also that the Italy elections represent a "victory for democracy" in spite of all the Pope could do, and the French elections a victory for the Left, despite the [illegible]ion of "Catholic reaction." The assertions were quoted from Izvestia, the Government newspaper, in a dispatch by Tass, the official Soviet news agency, which in turn was broadcast by the Moscow Radio.

"The Pope is greatly alarmed by the fact that, despite all the efforts of reaction, including Catholic reaction, the masses are steadfastly following the truly Democratic parties," the Tass report said. "Every one remembers that the Vatican never displayed a similar anxiety during those truly dark days when the danger of Fascist slavery overhung Europe. . . . Every one remembers that at the time when Hitler began to suffer one defeat after another, the Vatican did everything in its power to weaken the anti-Hitlerite struggle by means of propaganda in favor of a negotiated peace."

At the same time Moscow dispatches reported an Izvestia article from Ungvar (Uzhorod), Ruthenia, attacking the Uniate clergy of that area. "Trans-Carpathian political gangsters built themselves nests in the folds of the black cassocks of the Uniate bishop," the article asserted, adding that Bishop Stoiko inherited funds of the deceased head of a "spying bandit gang," Ivan Krutyak, and that the funds came from America and were used to "distribute poisonous propaganda from Budapest."

Under Vatican directives, the article continued, a former political adviser to the German occupation commander was left in Trans-Carpathian Ukraine after the arrival of the Red Army to act as agent and scout of the Roman Pope."

Moscow had previously reported that Uniate clergymen had voted to secede from Rome and ally themselves with the Russian Orthodox Church. The Vatican has retorted that such action was taken by only a few apostates. (ADD)

New British Stamp Issues Designed on Peace Theme

LONDON, June 6—Britain will break away from the traditional unadorned King's head postage stamp design in a peace commemorative issue that goes on sale next Tuesday. King George VI selected the designs from a number submitted by principal artists.

The new issue, double the size of the current stamps, will be in these two combinations:

A blue 2½-pence stamp will show the King's head in the center surrounded by four symbols of reconstruction—a tractor, a power station, a ship and a pair of workmen's horses.

A violet 3-pence stamp will display, in addition to the King's head, a dove holding an olive branch, a square and dividers representing planning and a trowel and bricks symbolic of reconstruction.

The total issue of the 2½-pence stamps will be 240,000,000 and the 3-penny printing 24,000,000.

POISON PROPOSED FOR RED CAPTIVES, COURT INFORMED

NUERNBERG, June 7. — (AP) A record of a German army staff conference at which a recommendation was made to poison all Russian prisoners of war unable to work was introduced by the Soviet prosecution before the international military tribunal today.

Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, former chief of staff for the German army, one of the 22 top Nazis on trial before the tribunal, testified that he knew nothing about such a plan. Jodl said he was so concerned with military operations that the [illegible] was beyond his jurisdiction at the time.

The Soviet prosecution said that the proposal for poisoning the prisoners was advanced by Gen. Von Grabenitz, who was in charge of prisoners on the Eastern front.

Chetnik Losses High

Other documents presented at the trial today said that the forces of Gen. Draja Mihailovic, bearded Chetnik leader, lost 15 to 30 men daily in guerrilla warfare against the Nazis in Yugoslavia in the winter of 1942-43.

Mihailovic is facing trial by Premier Mashal Tito's government on charges of collaborating with the Germans under the guise of conducting a patriotic defense.

The document, said to have come from Jodl's files, was in the nature of a progress report to a junior officer. Dated Dec. 12, 1942, it declared that "down there in the Balkans a cleanup campaign is underway in the area of Jajce.

"At (blank) across the demarcation line we have thrown back the enemy. Here he has attacked very hard and left 37 dead. People are continuously being arrested in Belgrade. One can say that every day between 15 and 30 Mihailovic followers are being shot."

Mass Defiance By G. I.s Blocks Lichfield Trial

Refusal of 17 to Take Stand Forces Army to Wind Up Case Against an Officer

By The Associated Press

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany, June 7.—Seventeen American soldiers, staging a mass protest against what they called "Army injustice," refused to testify today at the trial of a lieutenant charged with brutality to American soldierss, and thereby forced the prosecution to find up its case against another officer.

One witness, Private First Class Peter Claim, twenty-one, of Uniontown, Pa., declared the Lichfield detention camp trials "are the biggest frame job I've seen in the Army, and I want justice."

Another, Aubrey L. Richey, twenty-two, of Birmingham, Ala., asserted he will testify "only if this case goes to the United States, which beyond doubt is the only place where justice will be done."

The seventeen men refused to testify at the trial of Lieutenant Leonard W. Ennis, of Peekskill, N. Y., charged with mistreating inmates of the 10th Replacement Depot guardhouse at Lichfield, England. All seventeen had refused to testify last week at the court martial of Lieutenant Granville Cubage, of Oklahoma City. When it became evident that none of them would talk at the trial of Ennis either, the prosecution wound up its case against Cubage.

"No useful purpose can be served in prolonging our case," said Captain David M. Proctor jr., of Kansas City, prosecutor at Cubage's trial.

The seventeen witnesses today refused to talk even though threatened with military punishment.

Several of the men—each of whom declared he had not talked with the other witnesses—criticized the $60 fine imposed on Private First Class William B. Norris, former Lichfield guard from Mulga, Ala., who was convicted Wednesday.

Private Otto C. Holt, of Gilman, Ill., declared, "I'm not going to be better off if I testify in this trial, and I'm certainly not going to be worse off."

"From what I've seen of the Army, I've not seen much justice," he said. "Somebody beats me on the head and gets a $60 fine. I go A. W. O. L. and get twenty years. I don't think another six months will hurt me."

The trials had been transferred to Bad Nauheim on April 30, after opening six months previously in England.

A total of nineteen soldiers, who are Army prisoners, have refused to speak against either Cubage or Ennis. Some are serving court martial sentences and others are in the Bad Nauheim guardhouse on charges brought for alleged offenses committed in Bad Neuheim.

One complained that he was locked up for ten days without being told what the charges were against him; another that he was jailed while defendants in the Lichfield trials were allowed to "run around free"; still another that he was treated as "a dangerous character."

The acting court president, Colonial Mastin G. White, of Tyler, Tex., granted an adjournment in Cubage's trial until Monday on the announcement that assistant defense counsel had suddenly been assigned to a new case, scheduled to begin Tuesday.

diers refused. Eleven more witnesses were scheduled to be asked to testify after the recess.

Chance to Explain.

Col. Samuel L. Metcalfe of New York city, the court president, gave each a chance to explain his reasons for refusing to answer the prosecutor's questions.

"Do you realize that, as a citizen and a witness, you have a responsibility to the Government and to the administration of justice?" he asked.

All answered "yes."

"And, realizing that, do you still refuse to answer?" Metcalfe demanded.

As the witnesses appeared successively before him, each replied "yes."

"Do you realize I am an officer of the United States Army and you are a member of the Army?" he asked, and received affirmative replies.

Then with deliberate slowness, Metcalfe said: "I order you to answer the questions."

Others refusing to testify were Pvt. Joseph D. De Felice of New York city, Sgt. Sal L. Ross of Brooklyn and Pvt. Anthony Calegero of Brooklyn.

"I'm sorry, sir, but I refuse," one after another of the soldiers retorted.

All Held in Guardhouse.

Ten days ago, the witnesses refused to testify in the trial of Lieut. Granville Cubage of Oklahoma City. A three-hour recess was granted in Cubage's trial today to await the outcome of the Army's second effort to persuade the prisoner-witnesses to testify.

All the witnesses are confined in an Army guardhouse. Some are already serving court-martial sentences and others were imprisoned recently on charges brought for alleged offenses committed in Bad Nauheim. They face possible court-martial charges for refusing to obey orders to testify.

All declared they were not afraid they would incriminate themselves but they asserted they had been treated unjustly, or were being held on trumped-up charges.

Pfc. Peter H. Claim, 21 years old, of Uniontown, Pa., asserted that the Lichfield trials "are the biggest frame job I've seen in the Army and I want justice."

Six Witnesses Silent on Lichfield Brutality Despite Order by Court President.

Bad Nauheim, June 7 (A. P.).—For the second time in ten days, six prisoner witnesses in the Lichfield trials for brutality against American soldier prisoners during the war refused en masse to testify today although threatened with military punishment.

Six times before the luncheon recess, the president of the eight-man court trying Lieut. Leonard W. Ennis of Peekskill, N. Y., on charges of authorizing acts of cruelty while in charge of guards ath the stockae at Lichfield, England asked witnesses to recognize their "responsibility to the Government and to justice" and then ordered them to obey and testify.

Three G. I.'s Killed In Crash in Reich

Berlin, June 7 (A. P.).—An American announcement said three United States soldiers were killed and 17 injured last night in the collision of a jeep and an Army truck, carrying soldiers from a theatrical performance. Names of the victims were withheld pending notification of the families.

Germans Protest Losing Homes

WIESBADEN, Germany, June 7 (AP).—The advisory parliament of Greater Hesse unanimously adopted today a strongly worded protest of "indignation" and "horror" at the continued requisitioning of German homes by the United States Army. The protest, submitted by leaders of the four major parties, asserted that hungry Germans are being "chased out of their homes" with no place to go. It predicted that unless the requisitioning is stopped quickly it "must have disastrous effects on the growth of democracy and the reconciliation of Germany."

forced stores in the big southern port to close early. A soldier riding in the open turret of a tank was killed when the police fired a volley into the air in an attempt to break up a crowd near the University of Naples. Shouts rose that the plebiscite was fraudulent.

Ten persons also were injured in the explosion of a hand grenade tossed during this demonstration. About fifty persons were arrested, most of them women.

Continue All Day.

The demonstrations in Naples, last Italian refuge of King Victor Emmanuel III before his abdication May 9, followed fighting late last night between monarchists and policemen in which one person was killed and eight were injured. The casualties occurred when a grenade was tossed by one of a group of 400 monarchists who demanded arms from Carabinieri headquarters. The group finally was dispersed by shots fired into the air by the Carabinieri.

Throughout the day, the crowds of from twenty to thirty to several thousand surged up and down the streets of Naples and shouted vivas for King Humbert II. They tore down Communist posters and flags wherever they could be found.

Priests were conspicuously absent from the Neopolitan streets. They had aroused the wrath of Demonstrators Parade All Day Shouting Vivas for King—One Killed, 10 Injured —Rome Mob Quickly Routed.

Rome, June 7 (A. P.).—Large-scale demonstrations for the deposed Royal House of Savoy swept Naples all day today and reinforced police were unable to quell them. A similar, yet less determined, Monarchist demonstration was broken up in downtown Rome.

some monarchists, who accused them of supporting the republic.

Little Trouble in Rome.

By contrast, the monarchist demonstration in Rome was quickly broken up.

About 200 demonstrators paraded through crowded streets shouting "Long live the King" and "Down with the Republic."

Fist-fights with republic sympathizers broke out before the police intervened.

Police precautions against demonstrations were redoubled and strong forces cordoned off all approaches to the Royal Palace, where King Humbert II was reported drafting a farewell message. Informants said he would urge Italians to support a unified republic.

The monarch was voted from power in a week-end plebiscite and is scheduled to leave Italy for exile soon. Naples, however, voted 4 to 1 for the monarch! The populous and industri north voted strongly for the r public.

POLICE DISBAND PRO-MONARCHY PARADE IN ROME

Clubs and Fists Swing as Tension Spreads—One Killed in Naples

Rome, June 7.—(AP)—Club-swinging police broke up a monarchist demonstration in downtown Rome today as post-plebiscite tension which caused bloodshed in Naples last night spread to the capital.

About 200 demonstrators paraded through crowded streets shouting "Long live the King" and "Down with the republic."

Fist-fights with Republican sympathizers broke out before the police intervened.

Police precautions against demonstrations were redoubled and strong forces cordoned off all approaches to the royal palace, where King Umberto II was reported drafting a farewell message. Informed sources said he would urge Italians to support a unified republic.

One Killed in Naples

One monarchist was killed and eight others wounded in the outbreak at Naples, which had voted four to one in favor of the monarchy in last weekend's elections. Troops in light tanks joined police in patrolling the streets to maintain order there today.

The casualties occurred when a grenade was tossed by one of a group of 400 monarchists who demanded arms from carabinieri headquarters. The group finally was dispersed by shots fired into the air by the carabinieri.

Other sections of Italy remained calm.

Royal household circles said that Umberto, who was voted off the throne after having served for less than a month following his father's abdication May 9, was working on the farewell message at his palace in Rome.

Queen Marie Jose and their four children already are en route to Portugal aboard the Italian cruiser Duca Degli Abruzzi, a spokesman for the Royal household said, and Umberto is expected to follow after giving the message to the nation. A Naples dispatch said the ship would stop at Gaeta, 40 miles northwest of Naples, presumably to wait for Umberto.

He will remain as King technically until formal pronouncement of the republic is made early next week, after the verdict of the voters is pronounced by the Court of Cassation. Unofficial returns to date showed 54.3 per cent voted for the republic.

Meanwhile, the Moscow radio, heard in London, called the outcome of the plebiscite a defeat for reactionary forces "well supported by the Vatican" and "encouraged by the reactionary circles" of the United States and Britain.

"The Communists had the greatest success in the industrial centers of north Italy, which indicates the trust that the Communist party has won among the Italian working class," the broadcast added.

Italian Paper Reports New Armistice Terms

Rome, Saturday, June 8 (AP)—The newspaper Italia Sera published last night what it said were the terms of the third Italian armistice—obtained from a "very high Allied personality."

Some of the twelve points which Italia Sera said are contained in the document signed by the Big Four at Paris May 15 already had appeared in more speculative form in the Italian press.

An Italian foreign spokesman said early today he could not vouch for the authenticity of the newspaper's report, but admitted it was possible for information on the armistice to have leaked out.

Venezia Giulia Section

The new armistice, the paper said, stipulates that the Allied commission shall be eliminated and a new special section of Allied general headquarters created under order of the Allied Supreme Command with the task of controlling and directing Italian armed forces and Italian war production.

It also provides that the Navy shall be under command and control of the Supreme Allied Command and that Venezia Giulia and the province of Udine shall be under Allied military control until the peace treaty is signed, the paper added.

The armistice makes no provision for the administration of Italian colonies, it continued, and specifies that the document does not prejudice any of the eventual claims of the United Nations against Italy nor final disposition of Italian territory and property.

Preamble To Document

The newspaper said the document provides for maintenance of Allied troops in Italy—both those in process of demobilization and those necessary to maintain communication lines with Austria.

It also provides for new financial and economic regulations, now being studied at London and Washington, Italia Sera declared, and specifies that Italian war prisoners shall be "returned as soon as possible."

The preamble to the document, the paper said, explains that the new armistice was granted by the Big Four because of Italian cessation of hostilities, Italy's contribution to the war against Germany, the partial superceding of old armistice clauses and Italy's request for revision of armistice terms.

Police Battle Monarchists In Italian Demonstrations

Rome, Naples Scenes of Violence as Royalists Protest Defeat.

NAPLES, June 7—(AP) Violent demonstrations, by several thousand royalists, killed one soldier and injured at least 10 persons in Naples today, while in Rome police clubbed down monarchists shouting "long live the king!" and "down with the republic!"

The new outbursts in Naples by House of Savoy sympathizers, dissatisfied with the plebiscite rejecting the monarchy, broke out after fighting late last night in which one person was killed, eight injured and Catholic priests were maltreated. Priests were conspicuously absent from the streets today.

Police Patrol Streets

Heavy police guards, reinforced by troops, cruised Naples streets in light tanks and jeeps armed with machine guns. Early tonight gunfire continued and some 50 persons, many of them women, had been placed under arrest.

A soldier riding in the open turret of a tank was killed when police fired a volley into the air in an effort to disperse a crowd near the University of Naples. A hand grenade was tossed during the manifestation, wounding at least 10 persons.

This afternoon leaders of the monarchist party in Naples, called to police headquarters, asserted they had not organized the demonstrators.

In Rome police used clubs to break up a demonstration by 200 monarchists in downtown streets.

Socialist Minister of the Interior Giuseppe Romita insisted, however, that tranquility reigned in all of Italy with the exception of Rome and Naples. Government sources in Rome denied categorically reports that armed supporters of the king were gathering in Naples.

Crowds surged through the streets of Naples all day shouting "viva!" for King Umberto II, as many as 5,000 passed through the railway station on at least two occasions. They shouted also that the plebiscite was fraudulent.

Stores Close Early

The demonstrators forced stores to close at 10 a.m. in this city where the royalists outnumbered republicans 4 to 1 in the plebiscite.

The mistreatment of Catholic priests was said to have been done by persons accusing them of blame for downfall of the Savoy dynasty—a motive which puzzled observers since the Church had never been charged with favoritism for the republic.

The curia in Naples issued a statement asserting the Church was beyond the pale of politics and that it was "false to accuse the Church clergy for events developing only through the free will of the people of the whole nation."

While the few monarchists in Rome able to filter past the heavy police cordons shouted outside the Quirinal palace for Umberto to remain in Italy, the king went ahead with his preparations to join Queen Marie José and their four children in exile in Portugal.

Whether the king would delay his departure until formal proclamation of the republic the first of the week and personally hand over his powers to Premier Alcide de Gasperi as interim provisional president was not known tonight.

Anxious to get the republic proclaimed without delay, Romita instructed provincial officials to use planes, if necessary, to get their election results into the hands of the court of cessation before Monday.

GREEKS LAUNCH EMERGENCY DRIVE TO END DISORDER

ATHENS, June 7.—(AP) The royalist government, opening a drive to crush disorder in Greece, today invoked a drastic emergency decree setting up summary courts empowered to pass death sentences for using arms against authorities or interfering with police.

There will be no recourse from the summary courts, and death sentences will be carried out immediately, the ministry of justice declared.

Suspends Guarantees

The decree, which suspends guarantees in the Greek constitution of either a trial within three months or freedom, provides also for a minimum sentence of five years for strikes in public utilities.

The death penalty can be passed also for "moral authors" of action against the state.

Six articles in the constitution relating to the courts were suspended, and police and the military were given wide authority.

The police were authorized to enter premises, homes or business establishments at any hour without a search warrant. Any person can be held in jail indefinitely without bond and without trial.

After the court passes sentence, no pardons, reprieves or probations will be permitted. Military courts will try alleged violators in northern Greece while civilian courts will prevail in the south.

Ready for Action

The gendarmerie and military personnel throughout Macedonia were alerted to meet any possible subversive action, it was reliably reported.

On May 19 the ministry of public order reported that a band of "Communists" armed with automatic weapons had killed four gendarmes at Volos, about 100 miles southwest of Salonika. The day before 100 uniformed men, described as "goaded by constant press attacks on the army," destroyed a Communist newspaper plant in Volos, the ministry said.

On May 7 the ministry said nine persons had been killed in northern Greece in two days by Communist and Autonomist bands.

Greek Decree Aims To Crush Disorder

Athens, Greece, June 7—(AP)— A drastic emergency decree establishing summary courts without recourse and providing death sentences among the penalties, was invoked today as the royal government opened a drive to crush disorder in Greece.

Police and military personnel throughout Macedonia were alerted officially to meet any possible subversive action by Communist bands and Macedonian autonomists.

Six articles of the Constitution relating to courts were suspended.

Slavs Deny Mobilizing

Belgrade, June 7 (AP)—The Government bulletin Tanjug today denied "from beginning to end" foreign press reports of a general mobilization of troops in Yugoslavia and declared the reports were aimed at creating "an alarming atmosphere to bring about misunderstanding."

[The London Daily Mail's Rome correspondent said on June 4 he had learned from "reliable sources" in Rome that Belgrade newspapers had carried an announcement of general mobilization.]

The official statement in Tanjug said "all foreigners in Yugoslavia can confirm the absurdity of this report . . . published in close connection with the coming conference of the Big Four to impede the formation of agreement and avert a just decision on claims of Yugoslavia (to Trieste)."

Registration Required

Reports of mobilization may have arisen from publication in the Belgrade press of public notices calling for the registration of all officer groups, including all demobilized officers and political commissars; all those of officer status from sergeant major upward who belonged to the Peoples' Liberation Army, to the partisan organization of Yugoslavia or the Yugoslav Army, and all former active or reserve officers.

The registration does not constitute mobilization and was not considered such by qualified observers in Yugoslavia. However, such registration would be a necessary step if mobilization were visualized in the near future, and observers believe that following such registration, mobilization could take place without public notice.

But there has been no indication such steps have been taken or planned.

Air Of Tenseness Noted

There is an undeniable air of tenseness in Yugoslavia. This atmosphere appears created as much by reports from outside Yugoslavia as from military and psychological preparation within the country.

These developments have been noted recently:

Tito's recent conferences in Moscow which were attended by high officers of the Yugoslav military establishment.

Increased press agitation here on the Trieste question.

Increased police pressure against unauthorized contact between British and Americans, on the one hand, and Yugoslavs, on the other.

There is no indication of large numbers of Russian troops anywhere in Yugoslavia. Military observers say the Russians—if there are any besides those attached to diplomatic missions—are restricted to training cadres instructing Yugoslavs in the use of Russian weapons with which the army has been equipped.

Another Incident

Another incident adding to the present tenseness was a fire and heavy explosions June 3 at Kragujevac, location of one of Yugoslavia's largest arsenals.

An official announcement issued today said the fire was the result of enemy sabotage by persons "who would not hesitate at any time to halt the restoration and development of the country."

One report said 40 to 50 persons were killed in the explosions and many more injured.

U. S., BRITISH NOTES TO RUMANIA PRINTED

BUCHAREST, June 7—(AP)—American and British notes protesting that Romania had failed to give satisfactory assurance of intention to hold free elections were published in Bucharest newspapers today, together with copies of Romania's reply.

In Washington, the State department said Romania had notified the United States it was eager to hold national elections and has already published the draft of a law providing for balloting. A department spokesman said that the Romanian note was under study and no reply was imminent.

Publication of the American and British notes came 12 days after their delivery.

A Sofia dispatch said the Romanian minister of propaganda, visiting in the Bulgarian capital, had announced elections would be held in September.

Romniceanu Knew Little

Bucharest, June 7 (AP)—Mihai Romniceanu, Liberal party member of the Romanian Cabinet, said today the Liberal party could not recognize the validity of the Government's replies to American and British notes in connection with the holding of free elections in the country since the replies were not considered beforehand by a full Cabinet meeting.

Romniceanu said he learned of the replies only from Bucharest newspaper, which today published the notes together with copies of Romania's reply. He added that he had taken part in only five Cabinet meetings in the past six months and that laws were passed which he had not seen.

Romniceanu said the electoral law project contained unconstitutional clauses such as the abolition of the senate.

However, a department spokesman said no reply is imminent.

In disagreeing with the Romanian claims, the department made available a fund of information on which the original American protest to Bucharest May 27 obviously was based.

Points of difference between the Romanian statements and the State Department information include:

1. Elections:

State Department information indicated the draft election proposal cited was drawn up only by the parties participating in the so-called National Democratic Front, which dominates the Government. This information added that no date had been set even for official consideration of an electoral law and no steps had been taken to register voters and revise the electorial lists which have not been changed since December, 1937.

Press And Radio

2. Freedom of press and radio:

State Department information is that the "traditional opposition" parties—National Peasant and National Liberal—are permitted to publish only one daily newspaper each in Bucharest, and are constantly hamstrung by inability to get newsprint from the Government.

Censorship, the opposition papers charge, often is exercised indirectly, and papers are threatened with suspension for publication of Government-disapproved material.

3. Freedom of speech and assembly:

State Department information is that most of the violence at public meetings appears to be Government-inspired or condoned, rather that the result of "campaigns of opposition and hatred" as the Romanian note reported.

Opposition Ministers

4. Treatment of opposition ministers added to the Government under the Moscow Big Three decision:

The State Department reports say Dinu Bratianu, of the National Liberal party, and Iulius Maniu, of the National Peasant party, is charged that they are studiously excluded from participation in Government and are frequently notified of Cabinet meetings and decisions taken without their participation.

Government officials said that withdrawal of American recognition from Romania was not being considered.

Romanian Elections

Washington, June 7 (AP) — Romania has told the United States that it is "eager" to hold national elections and has published the draft of a law providing for the balloting.

In addition, Romania reports that leaders of opposition parties attend all Cabinet meetings, and that sixteen opposition newspapers, publishing with complete freedom, practice virtual "license" in their attacks on the Government.

This official version of how democracy works in the Balkan country is outlined in a note from Romania received Wednesday and made public by the State Department today.

"Unsatisfactory"

Along with the publication of the note, the department reiterated that the Romanian assurances of democratic practices and intention to hold free elections are "unsatisfactory" to the United States and present a distorted picture of actual conditions.

Romania's Reply to U. S.

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—Following is the text of the reply from the Romanian Minister of Foreign Affairs to the United States representative in Bucharest on June 3 in reply to the American protest of May 27:

Sir:

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note dated May the twenty-seventh and at the same time to forward you the Romanian Government's reply thereto.

From the contents of your note it follows that the anxiety expressed by the United States Government is caused, first, by nonfixation of the date for the general elections and, secondly, by the manner in which the Moscow decisions concerning public liberties are being carried out.

The Romanian Government are eager to effect the general elections as speedily as possible. To this end they have after laborious study set up the provisional draft of the electoral law, which they have submitted to public discussion, in their desire to win the assent of the entire public opinion to the final wording of that law. After the law's promulgation the Government will proceed without delay to the establishing of the electoral lists and then, after that procedure will have been accomplished, they will consult the electorate. With regard to the public liberties guaranteed by the Moscow decisions, the Romanian Government have taken all measures to insure their exercise.

Press Set-Up Described

The Romanian Government wish to implement the Moscow decisions in their entirety, yet with constant mindfulness to defend the rule of public order and security, necessary for the fulfillment of the obligations which they have assumed under the armistice agreement as well as for the realization of the commandments of the state's permanent interests.

At present the Opposition parties have at their disposal sixteen newspapers, wherein the free expression of opinion is complete, bordering as it does on license, through their violence of language. On February the twenty-second, last, the President of the Council of Ministers, wishing to take cognizance personally of the complaints of the press, called a conference of representatives of all newspapers in the country, including Opposition newspapers. No complaint whatever was raised at that conference by the representatives of the Opposition newspapers in connection with the action of the services of censorship. The directives of the Allied Control Commission aiming to prevent the diffusion of polemics between the Allies have but rarely been applied to certain statements from abroad.

Opposition Blamed for Violence

According to regulations in force, broadcasting facilities are and remain available only to persons with official responsibilities in the performance of their governmental or administrative duties, yet not to persons without responsibility.

The political violence which at times manifests itself at public meetings and demonstrations is due, for the most part, to the campaigns of agitation and hatred, that have been launched lately by the Opposition parties against the Government and its members, and the responsible authorities are making all efforts to hamper it and to maintain public order and tranquillity.

The legal proceedings against the authors of the incidents of Nov. 8 have been continued only in regard to those who, at the time of the governmental statement, were under inquiry for offense against common law and were found in a position of obvious and legaliy ascertained guilt—as the application of the law cannot be suspended in favor of any citizen.

The Ministers representing the National Liberal party under the leadership of Mr. Dinu [Constantin] Bratianu and the National Peasant party under the leadership of Mr. Juliu Maniu have participated and are still participating in all Cabinet meetings, where they mean however to exercise, according to their initial statements, only the function of observers, not that of collaborators.

Thus, the impressions abroad, to which your note refers, can only be the consequence of a certain propaganda that aims to misrepresent the acts of the Government and to ignore realities in our country.

Very truly yours,

G. TATARESCU,

Vice President of the Council of Ministers, Minister for Foreign Affairs.

Belgian Flour Stocks Seen Lasting 20 Days

Brussels, June 7 (AP)—Stocks of flour in Belgium will last only for twenty days, a member of the Food Ministry declared today.

This country, he added, is suffering from what he called American social conflicts, which have delayed the arrival of several ships loaded with wheat.

The ration of brown bread will be cut down 13 ounces to 11 ounces a day beginning June 10.

Steps Taken To Halt Trouble In Cairo

Cairo, June 7 (AP)—The Ministry of the Interior today warned that mass demonstrations would be prevented and police would take strong measures to maintain order tomorrow, the date set by the Moslem Brotherhood and Wafdist (Nationalist) youth for anti-British general NIGHT.

The strike date coincides with the festivities planned in London tomorrow celebrating the end of World War II and the ministry communiqué declared:

"For certain reasons and not for patriotism, certain associations have declared tomorrow a general strike and mourning day. The Ministry of Interior announces it will prevent any assembly or demonstration tomorrow, and will guarantee freedom of public activities and communications. The army and police will take strong measures to maintain order.

The Government confiscated an edition of the Wafdist newspaper Wafd al Misri, which carried an editorial titled "Tomorrow, Victory Day Celebration in London and Mourning and General Strike in Egypt."

OUTLAW RADIO HEARD

Jerusalem, June 7 (A. P.).—The illegal "Fighters for the Freedom of Israel" radio was on the air again last night three hours after a seven-year prison sentence had been pronounced against Geulah Cohen, 20 years old, alleged former announcer of the station, by a Jerusalem military court.

Earlier in the evening approximately 1,000 Arabs and Jews stoned each other in the eastern quarter of the city. During the altercation a Jewish girl was accidentally wounded in the shoulder by the police. The disturbance was the first of its kind here in recent years.

Unconfirmed reports said a British destroyer intercepted off Tel Aviv today a ship carrying 500 illegal Jewish immigrants from Europe.

34 HURT IN CAIRO BLAST

Cairo, June 7—(AP)—The British Army announced today that 32 Indian soldiers and one Indian and one Sudanese civilian were injured last night in a grenade explosion at the Empire Services Club. Three of the Indian soldiers and the Sudanese were reported to be in a dangerous condition, two other Indians were seriously hurt.

MANCHURIAN TRUCE HALTS 500,000 MEN

Communist Negotiators Fly to Yenan From Nanking to Study Peace Program

NANKING, June 7 (AP)—China entered upon one of the most delicate periods in her modern history at noon today, a fifteen-day truce in Manchuria during which she must unequivocally determine whether she is to have peace or full-scale civil war.

On the Manchurian plain, orders halted 500,000 opposing Government and Communist troops where they stood so that negotiators here NIGHT again to achieve political unity. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's directive to his advancing troops to cease fire, and concurrence by the Communists, prevented the general civil war that had been threatened.

[Lieut. Gen. Tu Li-ming, commander of Chinese Nationalist forces in Manchuria, announced Saturday that the cease-fire order was carried out at noon Friday by Kuomintang troops throughout the province, according to a Central News Agency report relayed by The United Press.]

The rest of China still is technically under the armistice arranged last January, although there has been almost constant skirmishing at scattered points.

Before the Manchurian truce became effective, Gen. Chou En-lai, chief Communist negotiator; Lu Ting-yi, Communist information chief, and ten staff members took off this morning for the Communist capital at Yenan to confer with party chiefs. They went in the personal plane of Gen. George C. Marshall, special American envoy.

General Chou departed without seeing General Marshall again, leading to speculation that he might have taken with him a plan for permanent cessation of hostilities throughout China. A plan of such scope would require the approval of Mao Tze-tung, Communist party chairman, and the Communist political bureau before General Chou could sign a binding agreement. General Chou and his party are due back in Nanking tomorrow.

The Communist Emancipation Daily in Yenan released today an especially bitter editorial attacking United States policy.

"The Chinese people cannot but awake to the fact that military intervention by the United States is not yet devoid of imperialistic designs," said the editorial.

"The day may even dawn when they find America demanding military bases and political and economic rights from China, thereby degrading China as a protectorate or colony of America.

"Is it the Chinese reactionaries, with their vicious civil war policy, who are demanding vigorous American military intervention, or is it the United States' vigorous military intervention which is demanding the Chinese reactionaries' vicious civil war policy?"

MOSLEM LEAGUE REMOVES HURDLE TO UNITY IN INDIA

NEW DELHI, June 7—(AP)—The Moslem League's acceptance of British proposals for a federated union of India was hailed today as clearing away a major hurdle to unity, and there were indications that an interim government might be chosen by June 15.

The working committee of the All-India Congress party will convene Sunday to reject or accept the British plan, and there was a general feeling that the spirit of compromise shown by the Moslem League would speed the Congress party's decision. Mohandas K. Gandhi, a party leader, has already spoken in favor of the proposal.

Princes to Cooperate

The princes of India, rulers of 400,000,000 people, also are reported willing to cooperate in the British plan.

Gandhi and Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, Congress party president, were said to be coming to New Delhi today at the urging of the viceroy and members of the cabinet.

Mahomed Ali Jinnah, Moslem League president, was reported to have refused to take any office in the interim government because he felt he could best direct the league's affairs if unfettered by other responsibilities.

The Moslem League's declaration that a separate Moslem state (pakistan) still was its goal was seen as a sword over the head of those entrusted with the Indian government in the coming months.

Jinnah was said to have told his council members that a revolution to achieve Pakistan was "not possible at this time." This was interpreted as a hint to members of the British cabinet mission not to go any further in what Jinnah has called appeasement of the Congress party, and a hint to other parties not to attempt further denial of the league's demands for pakistan.

One veteran of Indian political battles for the last 30 years remarked that "Mr. Jinnah seems to have realized the import of Prime Minister Attlee's statement that 'no minority will be allowed to veto the progress of the majority.'"

Press Approves Decision

Indian newspapers approved the Moslem League's decision, and an editorial in the British-owned New Delhi Statesman termed it "the greatest and most positive encouragement of all."

"Practical good sense has prevailed," said the Calcutta Statesman. The pro-league Morning News in Calcutta, saying that many Moslems would find the decision disappointing, urged Moslems to "place implicit trust in their leaders."

The next step after establishment of an interim government would be election of a constituent assembly by provincial councils to write a constitution."

JAPANESE TANK COULD SUBMERGE WITH SUBMARINE

PEARL HARBOR, (AP)—Japanese militarists—masters at dreaming up unorthodox weapons—developed an amphibious tank that rode piggy back on submarines, carried torpedoes and could withstand tremendous underwater pressures.

Although about 100 were built, there is no record that any were used in combat. The tanks were among weapons examined by a U. S. Navy technical mission to Japan.

Had the invasion of Japan come off, Navy experts believe Japanese might have used the seagoing tank as a suicide craft to repel landing forces. But despite its two torpedoes, the amphibious tank would have been a sorry suicide weapon beside the baka bomb, kamikaze flier and surface craft developed in the closing days of the war. Its speed was slow, four knots on water and 12 miles per hour on land. Its maximum range was 80 waterborne miles.

Thirty-five feet long, the tank could carry a landing party of 35 men and a crew of seven. During transport it was lashed to the deck of the submarine. Its 110-horsepower engine was sealed in watertight casing and the remainder flooded when the U-boat submerged. It could withstand underwater pressures down to 90 feet.

Adm. Nomura To Quit Jap Privy Council Post

Tokyo, June 7—(AP)—Adm. Kichisaburo Nomura will resign shortly from the Privy Council, Japanese sources reported today. Nomura, who was talking peace in Washington, D. C. at the time the Japanese struck Pearl Harbor, comes under General MacArthur's political purge directive. So do Baron Adm. Kantaro Suzuki, Privy Council president, and Takashi Isaka, council member, who likewise are expected to resign.

JAP OFFICER ACQUITTED

Yokohama, June 7—(AP)—Lt. Kazuo Danno was acquitted by an Eighth Army tribunal today of war crimes charges. He was accused of failing to restrain members of his medical detachment from committing atrocities against American prisoners. Danno's was the fourth acquittal among 81 Japanese tried by the Eighth Army.

G.I. EDITORS OUSTED

MANILA, Saturday, June 8—(AP) As the climax of a dispute in which editors of the Army newspaper Daily Pacifican charged they were subjected to censorship, an Army official today confirmed that the entire staff had been replaced.

Lt. Col. Wayne Homan, of the information and education section of the Army forces, Western Pacific (AFWESPAC), disclosed the development. Members of the old staff, charging they were compelled either to distort or omit news, had named Homan as the chief censor.

Twenty-two staff members were affected. One of these, Lt. George W. Cornell, Oklahoma City, who was in charge of the Daily Pacifican, said the members were transferred to the 6th division, a combat outfit.

SOVIETS RENEW RELATIONSHIP WITH ARGENTINA

29-Year Diplomatic Rift Ended — Improved Trade Seen—U. S. Awaits Results

Buenos Aires, June 7—(AP)—Russia and Argentina have re-established diplomatic relations, severed in 1917 after the overthrow of the Czarist regime.

Announcement of the termination of the 29-year-old diplomatic rift between the powers was made here by President Juan D. Peron at his first press conference since taking office last Tuesday.

Simultaneously, the Moscow radio, heard in London, said the two governments, guided by the high principles of collaboration and understanding between peoples, declare they have decided to establish from today complete diplomatic, consular and trade relations."

The Moscow broadcast said ambassadors would be exchanged "in the very near future."

"The negotiations which have come to such a happy conclusion took place in the City of Buenos Aires between the plenipotentiary of the government of the U. S. S. R., Sheyelev, and his excellency the President of the Argentine Republic, Gen. Juan Domingo Peron, and the Minister of Foreign Affairs and Culture, Dr. Juan Atilio Bramuglia," the broadcast added.

Trade Increase Seen

The official Soviet press said the diplomatic link between the nations would result in extensive trade. A Russian mission which came here ostensibly to promote commerce was given diplomatic status at Peron's inauguration.

The Soviet Government newspaper Izvestia, in preparing the groundwork for the move, said the establishment of relations would be in the interest of peace and security. Izvestia added that the move had gained strong headway since Peron's election.

Argentina withdrew her minister from Moscow after the Russian revolution, and tension between the countries was increased when Soviet officials seized the legation records and arrested the Argentine diplomat directed to close the offices.

Argentina asked for an explanation, but apparently none ever was given.

Russia's expulsion from the League of Nations was sponsored by Argentina after the Red Army invaded Finland in 1939.

Russia denounced Argentina's military regime as Fascist, during the writing of the United Nations Charter at the San Francisco Conference in 1945. Peron was the strong man of that regime.

Argentina's Communist party is relatively unimportant politically, and failed to win a single congressional seat in the last elections.

U. S. Awaits Results

Washington, June 7—(AP)—The bright new friendship between Argentina and Soviet Russia led some American officials to suggest today that international politics too, makes strange bed-fellows.

The initial reaction of diplomats here is that both the fledgling government of President Juan Peron and the potent regime of Premier Stalin are playing power politics of a very high order. But the consequences are not exactly foreseen.

At the moment there is no indication of any change in United States policy toward Argentina. That policy was last summed up April 8 in a document outlining an attitude of hopeful waiting on the part of the State Department.

The expressed hope was that the Peron government would live up to Argentina's commitments to rid the country of Axis influences and personalities. And thereby clear the way for all the American Republics to unite in a Western Hemisphere defense treaty.

Peron, who was elected February 24, took office only Wednesday. The establishment of diplomatic, consular and trade relations between Buenos Aires and Moscow was announced by the Soviet radio last night.

In so far as this move represents only the development of normal relations between sovereign states, indications are that it will be thoroughly welcomed by the State Department. However, no officials with whom the development has been discussed express any belief that only normal relationships are involved.

HOOVER, PERON CONFER

BUENOS AIRES, June 7—(AP) Herbert Hoover, on a special food mission for President Truman, talked for an hour today with President Juan D. Peron in an atmosphere described as cordial and cooperative. Hoover was accompanied by U. S. Ambassador George Messersmith.

Argentine Foreign Minister Juan Atilio Bramuglia, who was present at the conference, declined to reveal what Hoover had asked from the nation. There was a report, however, that the former American president requested a duplication of Argentina's original 150,000-ton wheat contribution to UNRRA.

TOLD SOVIET RDX SECRET, BOYER ADMITS

Wealthy Scientist Says He Gave Details Despite U.S. Opposition

Montreal, June 7—(AP)—Dr. Raymond Boyer, wealthy Canadian scientist charged with conspiracy in a Moscow-directed espionage network, testified today he had revealed details of the new superexplosive RDX against the wishes of United States authorities.

He said Canada's Minister of Munitions favored telling the Russians about it.

Dr. Boyer, a prosecution witness in the trial of Fred Rose, Communist member of Parliament also charged with conspiracy in the network, said he had discussed RDX with Rose "three or four times" beginning in late 1943. The meetings were at Rose's apartment at Rose's invitation.

Followed Announcement

The scientist testified that these invitations followed a Government announcement of his role in the development of RDX, for which he won a special Government citation.

Explaining his motives, Dr. Boyer said that at the time of a second meeting with Rose there was a Russian technical mission in Canada which had officially requested details of RDX. Boyer said he knew that the Canadian Minister of Munitions and Supply, C. D. Howe, favored giving the information to the Russians, but that "the Americans" opposed it.

The press and public were barred from the courtroom as Dr. Boyer discussed technical details of the manufacture of RDX, still considered a top secret.

"Leftist And Radical"

Dr. Boyer described himself as a Leftist and radical politically, and said that at the beginning of the war he had written to the Canadian Government offering himself, without pay or diplomatic status, as an "observer" in Moscow.

He said in a letter to the Under Secretary of State, Dr. E. H. Coleman, that he had studied first-hand the growth of fascism in Europe, that he had contacts with the Communists and that "I enjoy their confidence to some extent." He said he received no reply to his letter.

First meeting Rose in 1938, Dr. Boyer said he had seen him ten or twelve times altogether, supporting him in his successful campaigns for election to Parliament in 1943 and 1945.

ARMY HOLDS COLONEL AND WAC WIFE

Two Others Are Sought; Valuables Were Taken From Castle Cellar

Washington, June 7 (AP)—The arrest of a honeymooning colonel and WAC captain in connection with the theft of $1,500,000 worth of Hessian crown jewels and other treasure from a German castle where their romance started was disclosed today by the Army.

Officials said the couple admitted having the loot. They identified the pair as Col. J. W. Durant, 36, former attorney of Falls Church, Va., and Capt. Kathleen B. Nash Durant, 34, former hotel executive, of Phoenix, Ariz.

The War Department announced later that the couple would be transferred from Chicago, where they were arrested, to Washington, probably tomorrow, and will be taken to an unspecified military post in this vicinity.

Directed Rest Home

Mrs. Durant had carried on her hotel-keeping work in the Army by directing the officers' rest home established in the 80-room Kronberg, Castle, where the trove had been buried by members of the old House of Hesse. It was there Durant met her.

Two others—a major still on active duty and a corporal who has been discharged—are sought, but their arrest is expected momentarily.

Of the treasure itself—diamonds, pearls, amethysts and royal heirlooms—officials recovered that part which they said was the woman's loot. They placed this at 25 to 50 per cent of the hoard. The rest, they said, went to the colonel. The authorities do not have this portion now but indicated they know where it can be found.

In Lead-Lined Casket

Col. A. C. Miller, of the provost marshal general's office, and his assistant, Lieut. Col. S. S. Myers, unfolded the story at a news conference. They told it thus:

The hoard, in a lead-lined casket within a wooden box, was hidden in the deepest cellar of the castle near Frankfurt-am-Main, which subsequently was taken over for an officer's rest home.

When 3d Army troops first moved into the area, thirsty GI's went hunting for liquor in the castle. They found 1,800 bottles of choice wines. Then they found 1,600 bottles of very ancient vintage more carefully hidden near the treasure hoard. The circumstances indicated something else was hidden.

Major's Part Undisclosed

The corporal is alleged to have carried on the search, dug up the jewels and turned them over to the WAC, who was in charge of the rest home. Where the major came in, and just how the hoard was smuggled to this country were not disclosed immediately.

At any rate, the major and the corporal, Miller said, apparently did not get their share.

It was not any tip from those two, but the subsequent marriage of the WAC and the colonel, Miller related, that aroused the suspicion of Army authorities and set them on the trail.

Their marriage was discovered only last Saturday. Authorities went to take them at a small Wisconsin town which Miller declined to identify and where they apparently were honeymooning. They slipped away to Chicago and registered at the ill-fated La Salle Hotel, scene of a flash fire early Wednesday in which 59 perished and 200 were injured. They were arrested there Monday.

"Probably Saved Their Lives"

"We probably saved their lives," Miller remarked, "for they were on one of the floors that was burned out."

"Interrogation started immediately," he continued. "By noon Monday she had confessed her share. By 4 A.M. Tuesday we had her share of the loot. She did not unload any of it. The colonel had the rest."

"We do not yet have the jewels the colonel admitted having," Miller added.

The two were on terminal leave and thus under military jurisdiction. The WAC's leave would have expired May 30 but she was recalled to active duty the day before as authorities pressed their investigation. The colonel then was recalled to active duty after his marriage.

Despite the discharge of the corporal, authorities said all four probably would be subject to court-martial in the European theater under charges of larceny. The penalty upon conviction could be fine or imprisonment.

Miller said there was nothing in the previous records of any of the four to indicate any criminal tendencies—until the disruptions of war placed many temptation in their way.

Princess Seeks Jewels

"As we got the story relayed to us from the theater," Miller said, "very heavy air raids in 1944 convinced the members of the Royal House of Hesse that it would be wise to remove their jewels and heirlooms from banks and hide them in the old castle.

"Members of the family met in October, 1944, with the jewels. They took inventory of the jewels."

Last January, Miller said, Princess Sophie called at the castle to ask the Americans about them and was told they were in safe custody.

But in April the Princess sought to get possession of some jewels, saying she was to be married and wanted to wear them then. It was then that the theft was discovered.

Military authorities in Germany started an investigation and listed six to ten suspects, all of whom had been redeployed to the United States by that time. The War Department then took over in what Miller called a nation-wide man hunt. The Army handled the case itself, without calling in the FBI or other authorities.

Completed In 1892

Kronberg Castle was completed in 1892 by Kaiserin Friedrich, formerly the Princess Royal of Great Britain, in memory of her husband, Emperor Friedrich of Germany.

The castle, 15 miles from Frankfurt, was the scene of elaborate fetes in the last century when the Kaiserin's mother, Queen Victoria of England; her brother, King Edward VII, and other royalty visited the summer residence of the ancient House of Hesse.

When the Kaiserin died, she left the castle to her daughter, the Countess von Hessen, now 74, who occupied it until 1920. The Countess now lives near by in a small house.

Pearls, Tiara Valued

A German housekeeper, employed nineteen years by the Hesse family, said that possibly the most valuable pieces of the treasure hoard were a string of pearls and a diamond tiara.

The Hesse jewels, according to one story circulated among United States troops, were received by the House of Hesse in part payment for the services of Hessian mercenaries who fought for England in the American Revolutionary War.

The House of Hesse ceased to rule in 1866 when it was annexed by Prussia during the war between Prussia and the south German states.

Eisenhower Informs Byrnes Of Talks Wih Argentinean

Washington, June 7 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has given James F. Byrnes, Secretary of State, a minutely detailed report of his conversation with Argentine Gen. Carlos von der Becke, the State Department said tonight.

Von der Becke is understood by diplomatic authorities to have come here on a sepcial mission for Argentina's new President, Gen. Juan Perón, with the purpose of trying to find a formula for eliminating long-standing differences between the two nations.

Defense Objective Noted

One ultimate objective is the creation of an inter-American defense treaty to which both countries would be parties. The United States thus far has declined to participate in writing any treaty with Argentina until the Argentine Government takes action against 100 or more Nazi agents and otherwise rids itself of Nazi influence left over from the war.

Perón's purpose in sending von der Becke to Washington, ostensibly on a visit to Argentine officials here, was described by some diplomatic informants as being to get around his difficulties at the State Department and particularly Assistant Secretary of State Spruille Braden, exponent of a "strong" Argentine policy.

Talks Approved

A State Department announcement today declared that Eisenhower had kept the department fully informed of his arrangements for seeing von der Becke, that the department had approved a talk he had with the Argentine General Wednesday and had been completely informed of its results.

Eisenhower, according to some informants, gave the Argentine General no assurances with respect to this country's Argentine policy other than the statement of Secretary Byrnes last April 8. This was to the effect that when the Argentine Government lives up to its commitments under wartime inter-American agreements this country will be ready to make the defense pact.

ACTION BY U.S. ON SIAM ASKED

French Request Intervention With Bangkok Government

Washington, June 7 (AP)—France has blamed Siam for recent armed clashes o nthe Siamese-Indo-China frontier and has asked the United States to intervene with the Bangkok Government in the matter, it was learned today.

Both the State Department and the French Embassy confirmed that Ambassador Henri Bonnet had delivered a note to this Government, answering a recent Amrican inquiry on the Siamese situation. Neither would disclose the contents of the note, however.

"Right Of Pursuit"

Informed persons who asked that they not be identified, said however, that the note asserted that recent French attacks on Siamese territory had been preceded by a number of raids on Indo-China territory by Annamites, aided by Siamese and Japanese troops.

The note said that in crossing the border, the French exercised the "right of pursuit" under international law, because they were continuing an attack begun when raiding bands of Annamites assaulted an Indo-Chia town.

Sympathy Move Claimed

The French charged, the informed persons said, that Siam was promoting border incidents to arouse world-wide sympathy for Siamese claims to permanent possession of Indo-China territory acquired with Japanese assistance in 1941.

The United States and Britain already have taken the stand that Siam should return this territory acquired by force to Indo-China pending final negotiation of the ancient boundary dispute between the two countries.

House Winds Up Hearing On Proposed British Loan

Committee Vote on Issue Is Expected Next Week

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—The House Banking Committee concluded today public hearings on the proposed $3,750,000,000 British loan, and the committee chairman, Representative Brent Spence, Democrat, of Kentucky, said the group will vote on the issue next week.

The final witness was Assistant Secretary of State Wiliam L. Clayton, who pleaded for ratification of the Senate-approved loan as a means of removing shackles from world trade and of aiding world peace.

Representatives Jessie Sumner, Republican, of Illinois, and Frederick C. Smith, Republican, of Ohio, leading the opposition in the committee, contended the credit would be detrimental to America and would contribute nothing to world co-operation.

Representative Smith questioned Mr. Clayton particularly concerning his discussion yesterday of Former Secretary of Commerce Jesse H. Jones's opposition to the loan in its present form.

Mr. Clayton repeated that he believes "Mr. Jones's thinking and experience relate so largely to domestic and not international affairs that he does not recognize how disadvantageous it would be for this country to conduct world trade on a bi-lateral basis."

AUSTRALIA SETTLES DEBT

She Agrees to Pay Us $27,000,000 on Lend-Lease

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—Australia settled her lend-lease account with the United States tonight by promising to pay $27,000,000 to the American Government.

After three months of negotiation, Secretary Byrnes and the Australian Minister of External Affairs, Herbert V. Evatt, signed an agreement at the State Department.

Australia thus became the fifth country to wind up its lend-lease obligations to the United States and the first to whom the American Government did not have to extend credit to make the settlement possible.

The other four, Great Britain, India, France and Turkey, all received credit terms ranging up to 20 years to settle their accounts.

The total value of lend-lease, mostly war equipment which the United States sent to Australia during four years of war amounted to $1,300,000,000, while Australia's reverse lend-lease contributions totaled $920,000,000.

Murphy Going to Manila

Justice Will Represent U. S. at Quezon Funeral Shrine

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP).—Associate Justice Frank Murphy of the Supreme Court was appointed by President Truman today to represent the government at a funeral service for Manuel Quezon, late President of the Philippines, in Manila Aug. 1.

Mr. Quezon, who escaped from Corregidor with General of the Army Douglas MacArthur early in the war, died in the United States Aug. 1, 1944, and was buried temporarily in Arlington National Cemetery. His body will be sent to the Philippines on the U. S. S. Princeton, which will sail from San Diego, Calif., about July 1.

Justice Murphy was the last United States Governor General of the Philippines and the first American High Commissioner of the commonwealth.

Favors U. S. Military Aid to Philippines

Washington, June 7 (A. P.).—The House Foreign Affairs Committee unanimously approved today a bill to permit the United States to give military aid to the Philippine Islands.

The measure would authorize the President to transfer armaments to the Philippines after they become an independent republic on July 4. It also would permit the United States to help train Philippine military and naval personnel.

WORLD WAR II ARMY CALLED BEST BEHAVED

WASHINGTON, June 7—(AP) The American army during World War II was the best behaved army in history, Maj. Gen. Thomas H. Green, the judge advocate general, tonight told the graduating class of the National University School of Law.

"More than 10,000,000 men and women, in the aggregate, composed its personnel and at one time or another were under the jurisdiction of military law," he said in a prepared address.

"The vast majority of the members of this peoples' army conducted themselves as well-disciplined, law-abiding soldiers.

"Less than one per cent underwent confinement as the result of sentences by general courts-martial. They not only outwitted and outfought their foes; they set an example of good conduct that won the admiration of our allies and our foes alike."

HISTORIANS FORECAST FATE OF NAZI EMPIRE

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—Nine historians used the past to make a "remarkably accurate" secret wartime forecast of the fate of Nazi Germany, the War Department disclosed today in announcing official commendations for the group.

They were assembled in October, 1943, at the request of Gen. Henry H. Arnold, wartime chief of the Army Air Forces, and asked to reverse the usual historical process and predict, largely on the basis of what had already happened, the ability of the Nazi war machine and the German people to stand up under Allied pressure.

Secret reports and plans were turned over to the group and scores of witnesses were heard. The report, presented in January, 1944, was described as "a remarkably accurate forecast of the things that ultimately came to pass."

Lieut. Col. Frank Monaghan, former history professor at Yale, who assembled the group, received a special commendation.

Secretary of War Patterson and General Arnold signed certificates of appreciation for the historians. They included: Prof. Carl Becker, Cornell University; Prof. Arthur C. Cole, then of Western Reserve University and now of Brooklyn College; Prof. Henry Steele Commager, Columbia; Prof. Louis Gottschalk, Chicago; Dr. Elias A. Lowe, Princeton; Dr. Dumas Malone, now of Columbia; Prof. Bernadotte E. Schmidt, then of Chicago and now in the State Department, and Prof. J. Duane Squires, of Colby Junior College.

Dr. Edward M. Earle, of Princeton's Institute for Advanced Study, received a Medal of Merit for overall contributions to the war report.

VINSON HAILS CO-OPERATION OVER WORLD

Americans Should Not Be Pessimistic About Future, He Says

Lexington, Ky., June 7 (AP)—Fred M. Vinson, Secretary of the Treasury and President Truman's nominee for Chief Justice of the United States, said here tonight that "we have more honest effort and co-operation among the nations that he have ever had" before.

In an address at the University of Kentucky commencement program, Vinson said Americans never have been pessimistic about the future and should not be pessimistic now.

"Even though there is much hard work ahead," he said, ". . . we shall, as a united people, keep our feet on the ground, take sound constructive steps and journey forward on the road of peace and prosperity.

A Native Of Kentucky

"We can have faith," he continued, "that the natural optimism of us Americans has more justification today than ever before in history."

Vinson, a native of Louisa, Ky., and a graduate of Centre College at Danville, Ky., arrived here this morning by plane from Washington.

Speaking directly to members of the graduating class, he said the people of the United States "and folks everywhere" want freedom, security and peace. These desires, he said, "embody most of what is precious in life."

"History Repeats Itself"

The speaker said this country must remain strong, alert and industrious to assure the realization of those desires.

"Some people in viewing history of the past 30 years . . . would say that it just goes to show that history repeats itself and that whatever is to be the course of our nation will be," the Treasury Secretary said.

"I do not agree. History repeats itself to the extent that it does, only because man with his limitations acts and thinks in such manner that he repeats his mistakes. . . . We control our course."

CONDITION OF WORLD ALARMS GEN. ARNOLD

RAPID CITY, S. D., June 7—(AP) General of the Army H. H. (Hap) Arnold, retired chief of the air forces, today expressed alarm at the condition of world affairs and declared "right now its difficult to tell whether we are reading the newspapers of 1934 or 1946."

Before he was presented with an honorary doctor of engineering degree from the South Dakota School of Mines, General Arnold told the graduating class and commencement audience:

"I om of the opinion that if we get into a third world war, it may be so devastating that if it does not destroy civilization entirely it will throw it back for generations.

"There must not be any more wars," he said. "We must rearrange our affairs. We mustn't just arm for defense but we must be strong enough to make sure there are no more wars. Again we must call on the young people to make sure of this, just as we called on them to win the conflict just ended."

U. S. INTELLIGENCE GETS NEW CHIEF

Washington, June 7 (A. P.).—President Truman today appointed Lieut.-Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg Director of Central Intelligence for the Government.

This is the agency created by presidential directive last January to co-ordinate all foreign intelligence activities of the Government. It operates under a policy-making board composed of the Secretaries of State, War and Navy, and Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of staff to the President.

Vandenberg, 47-year-old assistant chief of staff G-2, War Department General Staff, succeeds Rear Admiral Sydney W. Souers, who resigns to return to private business interests at St. Louis.

Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, told reporters that Vandenberg will take over his new duties on June 10.

Vandenberg commanded the Ninth Airforces in Europe after serving as chief of staff of the 12th Air Force. He was graduated from the Military Academy in 1923.

ROSENDAHL IS UP FOR RETIREMENT

WASHINGTON, June 7—(AP) The Navy Bureau of Personnel announced today that the name of Rear Admiral Charles E. Rosendahl, the famed dirigible expert, has been placed before the retirement board.

The brief announcement merely said that Rosendahl, chief of the naval air ship and experimental command, Lakehurst, N.J., is "up for examination by the naval retiring board with orders to home."

Rosendahl's home is at 1021 North Anglin street, Cleburne, Tex.

He was navigator of the rigid airship USS Shenandoah which crashed in a storm near Ava, Ohio, on Sept. 5, 1925 killing 14 of her crew of 43. Rosendahl was senior surviving officer.

Lakehurst Commander

He was commander of the naval air station at Lakehurst when the German airship Hindenburg burned there on May 6, 1937. Previously he had made Atlantic crossings on the Hindenburg and another German ship, the Graf Zeppelin.

After serving as special assistant in the Bureau of Aeronautics on lighter than air projects, Rosendahl became commander during World War II of the cruiser Minneapolis.

He won the Navy Cross for heroism in the battle of Tassafaronga, in September, 1942. Although the Minneapolis was torpedoed she was credited with contributing in a large way to the scattering of the Japanese fleet and this ended most Japanese surface action in the Guadalcanal region.

In May 1943, Commander Rosendahl was transferred to the naval air station at Lakehurst and has been there since.

Names Adm. Morcell for 4 Stars

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—President Truman today nominated Vice Admiral Ben Morcell, Federal operator of the coal mines, for promotion to the rank of four-star admiral. Morcell, who has active charge of the soft coal mines under Secretary of the Interior Krug, is a civil engineer in the Navy.

SENATORS ADVISED TO HIKE INCOMES, CUT NAVY FUNDS

WASHINGTON, June 7 — (AP) Senators were advised today to increase their own incomes through a $2,500 a year expense allowance and at the same time reduce funds for the Navy by almost $40,000,000.

The unrelated recommendations came from the Senate Appropriations committee as it worked double time to try to complete a series of annual appropriations needed to operate the federal government in the fiscal year starting July 1. It finished work on the legislative appropriations and the Navy supply bills.

Extra Allowance Killed

On May 28 of last year the Senate by a 43 to 9 roll call vote, with 44 senators not voting, rejected the extra expense allowance for themselves while allowing it to House members.

Although the Appropriations committee action was unanimous, Senator Bridges (R-NH) a member of the committee, said some senators may fight the pay item on the Senate floor. He added that if congressional salaries are upped from the present $10,000 to $15,000 a year, as provided in pending bills, there is a "general understanding" that the expense allowance would be dropped.

As recommended to the Senate the extra $2,500 could be collected from Jan. 1 of this year as well as for the year starting July 1.

The Senate committee also recommended that each of the 96 senators receive an additional $2,400 a year for clerk hire, that the number of long distance telephone calls at government expense be raised from the present 26 monthly aggregating 130 minutes, to 50 calls and 250 minutes.

A limit of 300 telegrams a month at government expense also was written into the bill for the first time.

Tops House Measure

In all the legislative appropriations bill as reported to the Senate carried $53,919,586, or some $1,118,000 more than voted by the House.

Senator Overton (D-La) said the $39,708,900 reduction in the Navy funds was the first made by the Senate Appropriations committee in a Navy supply measure in recent years.

Overton, chairman of the big Navy supply bill, which still contained $4,100,009,100 as sent to the Senate, said these funds would not curtail plans for maintenance of a "Navy second to none both on the seas and in the air."

In all the Senate committee made $58,000,000 in reductions of Navy items voted by the House, and then offset these in part with $19,000,000 increases.

A broader "no-strike" provision was inserted in both the legislative and Navy supply bills, so that none of the funds could be used for payment to any person" who engages in a strike against the government of the United States.

Bride Ship Travel By Babies Carbed

Ruling Following Epidemic Bars Any Under 6 Months

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—Infants under six months old will be banned from bride ships bringing American service men's families from the European and Mediterranean theaters, the War Department announced tonight.

This action was taken after study of a report submitted earlier this week by the Board of Inquiry which investigated the epidemic, tentatively identified as infectious diarrhea, among children aboard the Army transport Zebulon Vance.

Nineten infants were taken from the Vance to the hospital at Fort Hamilton, N. Y. Of these six have died. Three other infant passengers from this ship are reported to have died in various sections of the country "from acute diarrhea."

Since the movement of war brides began, twenty-two infants' deaths have been reported, five of them children wh owere not under Army care. One of the infants dying aboard ship was a premature birth.

Through June 5, a total of 10,626 infants and children have been embarked from the European and Mediterranean theaters. This means, the War Department said, that the mortality rate has been less than two-tenths of 1 per cent.

No expectant mother beyond six months' pregnancy will be acrried, and no ship is to be loaded with more than 25 per cent of children under six years of age.

Since the shipment of war brides and babies from other theaters is so nearly comlete, they are excluded from these restrictions.

Gentlemen's Agreement Blocks House Action on Terminal Pay

WASHINGTON, June 7—(AP) A Gentlemen's agreement blocked House action today on legislation to pay billions of dollars of past and present enlisted men for furlough time they didn't get while in service.

The agreement, entered into by party leaders earlier in the week to protect absent members, provided that there would be no roll-call votes today.

NIGHT

The House was all set to pass the so-called terminal pay bill by a thunderous voice vote, no opposition having developed during two hours of debate. But Representative Brooks (D-La) insisted on a roll-call vote on which the members are recorded individually.

He declined to withdraw his demand after Speaker Rayburn called attention to the no-roll-call agreement, and the House finally adjourned.

The action left the bill unfinished business for next Tuesday, when its passage is virtually assured.

Brooks told reporters later he demanded the record vote in order to put off action until Tuesday because many members who could not be present today desire to be recorded in favor of the bill.

"We'll pass it next Tuesday and I don't thing there will be single vote against the bill," he said.

Member after member rose in support of the legislation today, citing what they called the unfairness of present regulations permitting officers to receive pay for accrued furlough time but denying it to enlisted personnel.

Provides Cash Payment

The pending legislation provides for lump cash payments at the time of discharge for enlisted personnel of all the armed services who did not get furloughs to which they were entitled.

It permits accrual of a maximum of 120 days of unused furlough time and provides for payment at the rate of compensation received at the time of discharge, plus allowances of at least 70 cents a day. It computes a man's furlough time at the rate of two and one-half days for each month of service.

Retroactive to apply to all men and women who have served since Sept. 8, 1939, it provides for payments to discharged personnel upon their own certification that they are entitled to it.

The bill, not yet acted on by the Senate, prohibits cash furlough payments to officers or enlisted personnel in future wars.

Its cost has been estimated variously at from $2,000,000,000 to more than $5,000,000,000, with an estimated 15,000,000 men and women affected. Some legislators figured the average payment might be $250. Provisions are made for payments to next of kin of men who have died.

$3,750,000,000 LOST FURLOUGH PAY BILL IS UP

Would Give Average of $250 to Each of 15,000,000 Who Saw Service.

FOR LEAVES THEY MISSED

House Bill Is Expected to Pass Swiftly and to Find Easy Going in the Senate.

Washington, June 7 (A. P.).—The House, with manifest enthusiasm, today called up legislation to pay some 15,000,000 past and present service men an average of $250 each to cover furlough time missed in uniform. Its backers, led by Representative Dwight L. Rogers (D.-Fla.) and Robert L. Sikes (D.-Fla.), predicted its passage without opposition after a few hours of debate and said the chance for early Senate approval looks good.

The only amendment in sight was a noncontroversial one intended to simplify the payment methods. In preliminary form it would permit enlisted men entitled to terminal furlough money to claim it by mail, or collect it in cash at local Army or Navy offices.

What Bill Would Do.

The legislation, if it becomes law, will (1) entitle enlisted personnel to a cash payment for furlough time not used up in service any time since September 8, 1939, such payment to be made at the time of discharge for those still in uniform, or immediately for those already back in civies; (2) compute furlough time on the basis of two and a half days for each month of service, with a limit of 120 days that may be accrued after furlough time used up in service has been deducted; (3) authorize the secretaries of War and of the Navy to make the payments "on the basis of sworn statements" by the applicants; (4) direct payment to next of kin in the case of men who have died; (5) exempt the payments from taxes and from all claims of creditors, and (6) prohibit the payment of cash in lieu of furlough time for all personnel, both officers and enlisted men, in future wars or national emergencies.

The legislation grew out of Congressional demands that enlisted personnel be given the same privileges as officers in accumulating leave or furlough time. Heretofore enlisted men have been unable to carry over unused furlough time from year to year, whereas officers could accumulate it up to the four months' maximum and be paid for the unused leave upon their separation from the service.

May Cost Five Billions.

The measure puts enlisted personnel and officers on the same basis, with each being paid at the rate of pay and allowances received at the time of discharge. In no case would the allowance, in addition to pay, be considered as less than seventy cents a day—the amount the services normally allot for a day's rations. Estimates of the cost of the legislation have varied from a low of "several billion" by the Budget Bureau to five billion by individual committee members.

On the assumption that each of 15,000,000 men and women would receive an average of $250, it would cost $3,750,000,000 for the Army, the Navy, the Marine Corps and the Coast Guard. The $250 estimate was an arbitrary one worked out by some committee members. It was pointed out that the lowest Army-Navy grades would be entitled to $200 base pay for the maximum furlough period, plus a minimum of $84 in ration allowances.

SENATE RECEIVES BILL CURBING OPA

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP) Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) formally handed the Banking committee's curtailed version of price control to the Senate today with the announcement that he is ready to fight some of the changes.

He said the reason he brought it in was that it is "urgently necessary" to take action well in advance of June 30, the present expiration date of OPA.

The normal procedure would have been for the committee report to come from Chairman Wagner (D-N.Y.). The chairman, however, was on the losing side in the fight to retain OPA powers, and plans to sponsor a minority report instead.

Unions Hint New Demands

The Senate thus got the measure left-handedly just after representatives of a number of labor unions told reporters at a special news conference that if the bill becomes law it will set off a new round of wage demands and bring national disaster.

C.I.O. President Philip Murray, in a statement read at the conference held by more than 30 organizations in the labor, education and consumer fields, called the measure "a complete surrender to the forces of inflation."

"To a few," he said, "it spells big profits quickly. But to the country as a whole it spells national disaster. x x x

"The Congress could devise no better way to throw labor-management relations into a state of utter chaos than to remove the last bulwark against soaring prices."

Labor Disputes Loom

Robert K. Lamb, C.I.O. representative who read Murphy's statement, said that its "implication is that this will create a new round of disputes between labor and management."

Clifford T. McAvoy of the C.I.O.-United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, said that union "will be forced to make new wage demands" if the bill becomes law.

This view was echoed in substance by speakers for several other labor organizations.

Martin H. Miller, representing A. F. Whitney's Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, said this year's strikes would be "as nothing" to next year's if prices continue to "balloon."

Colston E. Warne, president of the Consumers' Union of the United States, declared the Senate committee's bill would mean "an inflationary tax of $800 out of the pocketbook of every American consumer."

BOWLES REQUESTS CONGRESS TO VOTE OPA 'UP OR DOWN'

LaGuardia Says He 'Put the Bums in Jail' in Black Market War.

Washington, June 7 (A. P.).—Chester Bowles, director of economic stabilization, said today that he wished Congress would vote price control "up or down." He contended that amendments proposed in pending legislation would lead directly to inflation.

Bowles testified before the Senate Small Business Committee, which is reviewing the general food situation, after F. H. LaGuardia, director-general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, had urged the lawmakers to "stop monkeying with the OPA."

Bowles ended an exchange with Senator Capehart (R.-Ind.), on when price controls could be removed safely by exclaiming: "Let's either have it or don't have it!"

Doesn't Want Cancer.

"We've done this job four years and we've kept reasonable stability," he continued. "Sure we've had our headaches. But when I want to get rid of a headache I don't want to take on cancer."

Getting down to the bread shortage, currently one of the committee's principal concerns, Bowles said that he did not think rationing is necessary or would be worth the effort. He did, however, disclose that he is discussing with the Agriculture Department the possibility of rationing wheat and flour down to the grocery store, stopping short of the consumer level.

Bowles said that he thought every miller should be allotted his fair share of wheat, every baker his fair share of flour, and every outlet it's fair share of bread.

advised Congress today to "stop monkeying with OPA" and Stabilization Director Chester Bowles urged the lawmakers to vote price control "up or down."

The two officials appeared before the Senate Small Business committee which is inquiring into the general food situation and specifically into the current bread shortage.

Bowles disclosed he has opened discussions with Agriculture department officials over the desirability of rationing breadstuffs down to —but not including—the consumer.

He said every miller was entitled to his fair share of wheat, every baker to his fair proportion of flour, and every store selling bread to its equitable quota of the finished product.

He asserted that the government has authority under the Second War Powers act to place such rationing in effect. There is some reason to believe, he said, that the bread shortage will be eased in a few weeks as new crop wheat comes in.

Bowles said he did not think consumer rationing of bread would be justified at this time.

Both witnesses showed an unhappy familiarity with the restrictions that would be placed on OPA by pending legislation extending the price control law one year (Senate Banking committee version) or nine months (House version).

Bowles said Congress ought to decide simply whether the nation is going to have price control or isn't.

HOUSE APPROVES HARBOR MEASURE

Bill Provides for Project Here at Cost of $955,000.

WASHINGTON, June 6. — The House passed by a standing vote of 208 to 68 today the first big rivers and harbors bill since before the war, a measure which includes the Bridgeport Harbor project at an estimated first Federal cost of $955,000.

The bill proposes an expenditure of more than $900,000,000 for navigation, flood control, hydroelectric power and related works throughout the country.

Big Sandy Plan Dropped

An economy move eliminated the $83,000,000 Big Sandy canalization plan in West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia.

While the bill makes no appropriation, the 50 approved projects become eligible for construction if and when Congress later votes the money. The measure goes next to the Senate.

An amendment to kill the $116,000,000 Tennessee-Tombigbee waterway proposal was rejected on a roll call vote, 184 to 164.

$3,460,000 for Stamford

Other New England projects in the bill and estimated first federal cost include:

New Haven harbor, Conn., $3,460,000; Stamford harbor, Conn., $45,000.

The bill also authorizes surveys of these projects still in the planning stage:

Cove harbor and Cove pond, Conn.; Patchogue river, Conn.; Connecticut river, Conn.; harbor at Pine Orchard, Branford, Conn.; Greenwich cove, Conn.

Hannegan Sees Give-me Threat

Says Demands for Higher Profits and Wages Alike Portend Appalling Inflation.

St. Louis, June 7 (A. P.).—Postmaster-General Robert E. Hannegan said today the nation is threatened by a price inflation brough tabout by excessive demands for higher profits and wages.

"Price inflation," he told the Missouri chapter of the National Association of Postmasters, "is the symptom of a nation that has become afflicted with the 'Give-me.' It is this disease—the give-me—that has brought on our labor troubles. And the give-me is an economic virus that feeds upon itself."

The prospect is appalling if Congress is to end price control, he added.

Hannegan, discussing recent strikes that threatened operation of the mails, and their relation to the national economy, continued: "In the beginning, as we emerge into the post-war world, we find that producers are operating at high rates of profit, as shown by their income statements. They have come out of the war with a bad case of give-me.

Power to Force Work.

"To maintain that high rate of profit, the price of the necessities of life is set beyond the working man's reach. He cannot pay those prices and keep his family housed and fed and clothed. He needs higher wages.

"The leaders of his union then make demands for higher wages. But they make their demands excessive. They, too, have come down with a case of the give-me."

Hannegan said that "Give-me" never ends, and that proof of this is to be found "in the extreme pressure that has been brought to bear on Congress to end price control." Continuing, he declared: "The power to make men go to as it is, and necessary though it may be in times of emergency, is not an answer to inflation. That power is not an expendable or an unlimited power. In the national interest, your Government can force a group of workers to end their strike and accept a settlement which it deems fair. But six months later, if the price of living has continued upward, your Government cannot force those men to keep themselves and their children alive and healthy on the same settlement."

RETURN TO NORMAL FLOUR PROPOSED

Millers Point Way To Increase Wheat Exports

Washington, June 7 (AP)—The Miller's National Federation today declared wheat exports to famine areas from the 1946 crop would be increased at least 50,000,000 bushels by returning to the normal white flour.

The statement was made in a suggested wheat-control program submitted Government officials.

The program proposes sharp curtailment of direct wheat feeding to live stock.

The federation said that if this country abandons the present 80 per cent flour extraction rate for the normal 72 per cent, domestic supplies of mill feeds for livestock would be increased 1,157,000 tons. Mill feeds constitute that portion of the wheat which does not go into flour.

Additional Saving Cited

It asserted an additional 1,000,000 tons of mill feed would be saved for domestic feeders if half the wheat assigned for export was milled before it was exported.

These additional supplies of mill feeds would go far, the organizaton said, in replacing wheat as feed. Mill feed is higher in protein content than the whole wheat kernel. Farmers usually feed wheat only when protein feeds are unavailable.

Would Increase Home Supply

The federation said that wheat which thus would not be used as feed would go to market to increase supplies for human consumption by at least 50,000,000 bushels. All of this increase could be shipped overseas, it added, without reducing domestic consumption of flour below levels already intended by the Government.

It declared the increased supplies of mill feed resulting from the lower extraction rate would produce more livestock products than an equal tonnage of wheat fed to livestock.

COL. E. A. BIXBY IS SHOT TWICE AT POST HOME

Wounding Of Officer Decorated In World War II Held Accidental

Camp Atterbury, Ind., June 7 (AP)—Col. Ernest A. Bixby, post commander here who was decorated in World War II, was in the post hospital today suffering from two bullet wounds apparently suffered accidentally when he was cleaning a .22-caliber rifle.

Bixby's executive officer, Col. John E. Hatch, said the shooting occurred Tuesday night and that Mrs. Bixby also was in the hospital suffering from nervous reaction. Hatch said a formal report had been sent to 5th Service Command headquarters at Fort Hayes, Columbus, Ohio.

Circumstances Unknown

At Fort Hayes, First Lieutenant Jack Casey, assistant press relations officer, said late today the 5th Service Command was satisfied by its investigation that the shooting was an accident. The circumstances were unknown at Fort Hayes, he added, but Colonel Bixby's wounds were minor and from a rifle which he "probably was cleaning."

Colonel Hatch issued this statement:

"Colonel Bixby is in the hospital with gunshot wounds from a .22-caliber rifle. No one was present at the time except Colonel and Mrs. Bixby. Mrs. Bixby is in the hospital as a result of nervous reaction. The shooting was accidental."

Colonel Hatch would give no further details except to say the wounds were in one arm and one leg and that the shooting occurred in the Bixby home at 11.40 P.M., Tuesday.

Colonel Bixby was graduated from the Military Academy in 1918 and served with the Army of Occupation in Germany after the end of World War I.

Served In Normandy Invasion

He served as an artillery commander in the 4th Armored Division during the Normandy invasion of World War II. He was an artillery commander with the 90th Infantry Division later.

Colonel Bixby holds the Legion of Merit, the Croix de Guerre with palm, the Silver Star with two oak leaf clusters and the Bronze Star.

He came to Camp Atterbury as post commander in June, 1945.

His wife is the former Martha Robertson, of Louisville. The Bixbys have a 15-year-old son, Robert.

WILL SCRAP 5 CRUISERS

Navy Says the Ships, All of the Omaha Class, Are Outmoded

PHILADELPHIA, June 7 (AP)—The Navy said today that five more light cruisers of the Omaha class would be scrapped at the naval base here.

They are the Detroit, Richmond, Trenton, Concord and Memphis, all of which are twenty or more years old and are outmoded.

The Concord is credited with firing the last shot of the war against Japan on the night of Aug. 12, 1945, in a shore bombardment of the Kurile Islands.

The Detroit was one of the first to fire at the Japanese, going into action when Pearl Harbor was attacked.

Pardon Given Man Held For Navy-Secrets Sale

Los Angeles, June 7 (AP)—Hafis Salich, convicted here in 1939 of selling naval intelligence to a Russian agent, was pardoned today under a general amnesty order for World War II veterans issued last Christmas Eve by President Truman, Assistant United States Attorney Ronald Walker announced.

Walker filed with the clerk of the District Court of Salich's honorable discharge showing three years and two months' army service, and a $10,000 fine was remitted.

Salich was granted military leave after serving two years and nine months of a four-year prison sentence at McNeil Island. He was convicted of selling Navy secrets, while attached to the naval intelligence, to Mikhail Nicholas Gorin, Soviet tourist agent here.

RUSSIAN RELIEF GROUP TO CONCLUDE APPEALS

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP) The American Society for Russian Relief, Inc., said tonight it would discontinue its appeals to the American people at the end of this year.

Since 1941, eighty-three million dollars in supplies have been sent from the United States, the society said.

Edward C. Carter, president of the society, said the need for emergency war relief in the Soviet Union would have passed the crucial stage by 1947 and the Soviet's own rehabilitation program should be in full operation.

U.N. SEPARATE (&50)

BY LARRY HAUCK

NEW YORK, JUNE 7-(AP)-THE UNITED NATIONS HAS LAUNCHED A FAR-REACHING PROGRAM TO "SELL" THE U.N. TO THE WORLD.

PRELIMINARY STEPS LOOKING TOWARD A NETWORK OF BRANCH INFORMATION OFFICES IN PRINCIPAL CITIES AROUND THE GLOBE HAVE BEEN TAKEN AND BENJAMIN COHEN OF CHILE, ASSISTANT SECRETARY GENERAL, IS NOW IN EUROPE SURVEYING GROUND FOR ESTABLISHING A WIDE SERIES OF OUTLETS.

CITIES ON HIS CALLING LIST INCLUDE COPENHAGEN, THE HAGUE, BRUSSELS, PARIS AND GENEVA. A LONDON OFFICE ALREADY IS FUNCTIONING.

SETTING UP THE OFFICES FALLS IN LINE WITH A RECOMMENDATION OF THE U.N. PREPARATORY COMMISSION, WHICH SAID:

"IN ORDER TO INSURE THAT PEOPLES IN ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD RECEIVE AS FULL INFORMATION AS POSSIBLE ABOUT THE UNITED NATIONS, THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC INFORMATION SHOULD CONSIDER ESTABLISHMENT OF BRANCH OFFICES AT THE EARLIEST PRACTICABLE DATE."

THE COMMISSION RECOMMENDED, HOWEVER, THAT THE DEPARTMENT SHOULD NOT ENGAGE IN "PROPAGANDA" BUT RATHER PROMOTE AN INFORMED UNDERSTANDING OF THE WORK AND PURPOSES OF THE U.N.

IN ADDITION TO SERVING AS AN OUTLET FOR U.N. PUBLICATIONS, FILMS, EXHIBITS AND POSTERS, THE BRANCHES WOULD BE CHARGED WITH THE RESPONSIBILITY OF REPORTING TRENDS OF WORLD OPINION ABOUT THE U.N.

THE COMMISSION HAD THIS TO SAY OF THE REPORTING SERVICE:

"BRANCH OFFICES SHOULD BE EQUIPPED TO ANALYZE TRENDS OF OPINION THROUGHOUT THE WORLD ABOUT ACTIVITIES OF THE UNITED NATIONS AND THE EXTENT TO WHICH AN INFORMED UNDERSTANDING OF THE WORK OF THE U.N. IS BEING SECURED."

A UNITED NATIONS SPOKESMAN SAID THIS SERVICE PROBABLY WOULD INCLUDE CHECKING NEWS STORIES, EDITORIALS AND THE GENERAL PROMINENCE GIVEN U.N. HAPPENINGS IN ALL MEDIA OF THE VARIOUS COUNTRIES. IN CASES WHERE THE INFORMATION WAS FOUND NOT TO BE REACHING NEWSPAPERS AND OTHER MEDIA STEPS WOULD BE TAKEN TO INSURE THE SUPPLY OF THE MATERIAL.

IN SIPHONING OUT U.N. INFORMATION, THE BRANCHES WOULD BE INSTRUCTED TO ENCOURAGE AND ASSIST NATIONAL INFORMATION SERVICES, EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS AND GOVERNMENT AND NON-GOVERNMENT ORGANS OF ALL KINDS INTERESTED IN SPREADING INFORMATION ABOUT THE U.N.

ANOTHER SUGGESTION UNDER CONSIDERATION WOULD PROVIDE FOR A UNITED NATIONS BROADCASTING STATION AT HEADQUARTERS TO BEAM INFORMATION TO ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

THE

THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL, WHICH STILL HAS BEFORE IT A PROPOSAL TO SET UP A SUB-COMMISSION TO STUDY FREEDOM OF THE PRESS, HAS TOUCHED ON THE DISSEMINATION OF INFORMATION IN SOME OF ITS DELIBERATIONS.

THE MOST DRASTIC PROPOSAL CAME FROM FERNAND DEHOUSSE, BELGIAN DELEGATE, WHO SAID:

"THE COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS SHOULD PREPARE FOR THE INCLUSION BY MEMBER STATES OF AN INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION CONCERNING INFORMATION DERIVING FROM THE UNITED NATIONS. INFORMATION SUPPLIED BY THE UNITED NATIONS SHOULD BE INSERTED COMPULSORILY IN THE PRESS OF ALL CONTRACTING STATES. ALL PARTIES, NAMELY, TO THIS CONVENTION SHOULD AGREE TO PUBLIC INFORMATION SUPPLIED TO THEM BY THE UNITED NATIONS.

"WE SHOULD, OF COURSE, PRESERVE THE FREEDOM OF COMMENT. ANY PRESS ORGAN WOULD BE PERFECTLY FREE, HAVING PUBLISHED THE FACTS AS SUPPLIED BY THE UNITED NATIONS, TO COMMENT UPON THESE FACTS IN ITS OWN WAY."

SECOND LEAD UNESC (120)

BY FRANCIS H.CARPENTER

NEW YORK, JUNE 7-(AP)-THE UNITED STATES AND GREAT BRITAIN DISAGREED SHARPLY TODAY WITH FRANCE AND RUSSIA OVER PARTICIPATION BY THE WORLD FEDERATION OF TRADE UNIONS IN THE WORK OF THE UNITED NATIONS ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL.

THE FRENCH DELEGATE, HENRI HAUCK BROUGHT UP THE ISSUE WITH A DEMAND THAT THE WFTU BE GIVEN THE RIGHT TO SIT IN OPEN AND SECRET MEETINGS OF THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL SESSIONS. HE WAS QUICKLY SUPPORTED IN THIS DEMAND BY THE SOVIET DELEGATE, NIKOLAI J.FEONOV.

PHILIP J.NOEL-BAKER, BRITISH MINISTER OF STATE, AND UNITED KINGDOM DELEGATE, HEATEDLY TOLD THE COUNCIL IT COULD NOT ACCEPT ONE ORGANIZATION OVER OTHER MASS MOVEMENTS WHICH MUST BE RECOGNIZED.

"IF WE ACCEPT AN ARRANGEMENT FOR ONE ORGANIZATION WE MAY HAVE TO DO IT FOR MANY OTHERS," NOEL-BAKER SAID.

AFTER HEARING THE WIDELY DIVERGENT VIEWS THE COUNCIL DECIDED TO ASK THE COMMITTEE TO RE-WORK ITS DRAFT REPORT AND CONSIDER AMENDMENTS AND COMMENTS BROUGHT UP AT THIS SESSION.

30.24-3187

JOHN C. WINANT, U. S. DELEGATE EXPRESSED HIS GOVERNMENT'S GENERAL APPROVAL OF A REPORT BY A COUNCIL COMMITTEE ON PROCEDURE BY WHICH THE WFTU AND OTHER NON-GOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES WOULD DEAL WITH THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL.

WINANT SPOKE AFTER HENRI HAUCK, FRENCH DELEGATE, ATTACKED THE COMMITTEE REPORT BECAUSE IT DID NOT GIVE GREATER VOICE TO THE WFTU IN DELIBERATIONS OF THE COUNCIL.

HAUCK CHARGED THE COMMITTEES WOULD HAVE THE WFTU AND SUCH AGENCIES APPROACH THE COUNCIL BY A SORT OF "KITCHEN APPRENTICESHIP."

HAUCK WAS SUPPORTED BY CZECHOSLOVAKIA, PERU, BELGIUM, THE UKRAINIAN S. S. R., AND SOVIET RUSSIA.

WINANT SAID THE COMMITTEE REPORT COULD BE CHANGED TO REQUIRE THAT COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE NON-GOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES WOULD BE DISTRIBUTED TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL. THE COMMITTEE HAD SUGGESTED SUCH COMMUNICATIONS BE DISTRIBUTED ON THE REQUEST OF A COUNCIL MEMBER.

THE FRENCH DELEGATE SAID A REPORT SUBMITTED BY THE COUNCIL COMMITTEE ON ARRANGEMENTS FOR CONSULTATION WITH NON-GOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS SHOULD BE REJECTED AND REFERRED BACK TO THE COMMITTEE.

HAUCK SAID THE REPORT RAISED OBSTACLES OF EVERY KIND BETWEEN THE UNITED NATIONS AND THE REPRESENTATIVES OF WORKERS THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

HE SAID THE REPRESENTATIVES, SUCH AS THE WORLD FEDERATION OF TRADE UNIONS WOULD HAVE TO APPROACH THE COUNCIL THROUGH COMMITTEES OR SUB-COMMISSIONS, A PROCEDURE HE CHARACTERIZED AS A SORT OF "KITCHEN APPRENTICESHIP."

"IF THE UNITED NATIONS IS TO WORK PROPERLY IT MUST OBTAIN THE HELP OF THE WORKERS ORGANIZED THROUGH THEIR UNIONS," HE SAID. "WE CANNOT ESTABLISH PEACE IN THIS TROUBLED WORLD PURELY BY A POLICY OF CHANCELLERIES. WE NEED ALSO THE HELP OF THE PEOPLES OF THE WORLD."

HE CITED A LETTER TO THE COUNCIL FROM SIDNEY HILLMAN, U.S.REPRESENTATIVE ON THE WFTU ASKING THE RIGHT OF THE WFTU TO SIT IN PUBLIC AND PRIVATE MEETINGS OF THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL.

PHILIP J.NOEL-BAKER, UNITED KINGDOM DELEGATE, ASKED HAUCK IF HE PROPOSED TO GIVE WFTU EXCLUSIVELY THE RIGHT TO SIT WITH THE COUNCIL.

HAUCK REPLIED THAT HE HAD LIMITED HIS REMARKS TO WFTU BECAUSE HE DID NOT WANT TO OPEN UP THE FIELD TO A DISCUSSION OF A WIDE VARIETY OF OTHER AGENCIES.

THE DEBATE RECALLED THE CONTROVERSY IN LONDON OVER THIS ISSUE AT THE FIRST MEETING OF THE COUNCIL AND THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY EARLY THIS YEAR. AT THAT TIME SENATOR CONNALLY (D-TEX), A DELEGATE TO THE ASSEMBLY, INSISTED THAT THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR BE GIVEN THE SAME PRIVILEGES AS THE WFTU, SINCE THE LATTER REPRESENTS THE CIO.

U.S. DELEGATE JOHN G.WINANT DID NOT MENTION THE AFL IN OPPOSING THE FRENCH PROPOSAL TODAY, BUT BOTH HE AND PHILIP J.NOEL-BAKER, REPRESENTATIVE OF THE UNITED KINGDOM, ARGUED THAT IF SPECIAL ARRANGEMENTS WERE MADE FOR ONE ORGANIZATION THE COUNCIL WOULD BE DELUGED WITH DEMANDS FROM OTHER GROUPS FOR SIMILAR PRIVILEGES.

NOEL-BAKER MENTIONED PARTICULARLY THE AFL AND THE INTERNATIONAL COOPERATIVE ALLIANCE. HE SAID THE WHOLE QUESTION HAD BEEN DISCUSSED THOROUGHLY BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

THE FRENCH DELEGATE, IN OPENING THE DEBATE, SAID THAT UNDER THE RECOMMENDATIONS THE WFTU WOULD HAVE TO APPROACH THE COUNCIL BY A "BACK DOOR" ROUTE. HE DESCRIBED THE PROPOSED ROLE OF THE ORGANIZATION AS A SORT OF "KITCHEN APPRENTICESHIP."

FEONOV DECLARED THAT THE WFTU REPRESENTED 66,000,000 WORKERS IN 56 COUNTRIES AND THAT IT "HAS A SIGNIFICANT AND SPECIAL IMPORTANCE BECAUSE OF ITS OWN SIZE AND BECAUSE OF THE PROBLEMS THAT IT COVERS."

HILLMAN'S LETTER, HE SAID, WAS "PERFECTLY IN ACCORD WITH THE CHARTER AND WITH THE RESOLUTION IN LONDON" DIRECTING THE COUNCIL TO MAKE PROVISIONS FOR CONSULTATION WITH NON-GOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS.

WINANT SAID HE APPROVED THE COMMITTEE'S RECOMMENDATIONS GENERALLY, BUT OFFERED TWO SUGGESTED AMENDMENTS TO THE REPORT:

1. THAT A LIMITED NUMBER OF ORGANIZATIONS BE GIVEN ASSURANCES THAT ANY COMMUNICATION THEY ADDRESS TO THE SECRETARIAT WILL BE DISTRIBUTED TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL.
2. THAT THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE TO BE APPOINTED TO CONSULT WITH SUCH ORGANIZATIONS SHOULD BE A STANDING COMMITTEE AVAILABLE TO THESE ORGANIZATIONS AT ANY TIME THE COUNCIL IS IN SESSION.

THESE PROPOSALS WILL BE CONSIDERED ALONG WITH THOSE OFFERED BY THE FRENCH DELEGATE.

POLISH DELEGATE OSCAR LANGE, RESPONDING BRIEFLY TO PARODI, SAID HE STILL FAVORED AN IMMEDIATE BREAK WITH SPAIN BUT SUPPORTED THE REPORT OF THE SUBCOMMITTEE, OF WHICH HE IS A MEMBER, WITH THE HOPE OF OBTAINING UNANIMITY OF COUNCIL ACTION.

LANGE ALSO ARGUED FOR A SECTION OF THE REPORT SUGGESTING THAT THE ASSEMBLY GIVE FAVORABLE CONSIDERATION TO ANY BID BY "A FREELY ELECTED SPANISH GOVERNMENT" FOR MEMBERSHIP IN THE U.N. AFTER THE REMOVAL OF FRANCO AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF ACCEPTABLE POLITICAL REFORMS.

LONDON, JUNE 7-(AP)-THE SOVIET COMMENTATOR PHILIP BARATOV DECLARED IN A MOSCOW BROADCAST TODAY THAT INDEPENDENCE WAS A WORD USED BY GREAT BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES TO SERVE "IMPERIALIST DIPLOMACY" AND TO "CAMOUFLAGE EXPANSIONIST AIMS."

"ONE GETS A PRETTY GOOD PICTURE OF WHAT THE WEST MEANS BY INDEPENDENCE IF ONE CONSIDERS THE TREATY FOR THE SO-CALLED INDEPENDENCE OF TRANS-JORDAN, THE ANGLO-EGYPTIAN TALKS IN CAIRO AND THE TALKS BETWEEN THE ANGLO-DUTCH AUTHORITIES AND THE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE INDONESIAN REPUBLIC," HE SAID.

ASSERTING THAT THE BRITISH SECURED THE DIAMOND DEPOSITS OF KIMBERLEY AND THE GOLDFIELDS OF THE TRANSVAAL "DRAPED IN AN ELABORATE MANTLE OF STRUGGLE AGAINST SLAVEHOLDERS," BARATOV SAID "THE SAME METHODS WERE USED BY THE AMERICANS IN DEVELOPING THEIR SYSTEM OF NAVAL BASES IN THE PACIFIC AND IN THE CARIBBEAN."

LONDON, JUNE 7-(AP)-FRANCIS WILLIAMS, PRESS ADVISOR TO PRIME MINISTER ATTLEE, SUGGESTED TODAY THAT GUARANTEES OF FREE FLOW OF NEWS IN AND FROM ANY COUNTRY OUGHT TO BE A CONDITION "OBDOVTIAL FOR MEMBERSHIP IN THE UNITED NATIONS."

HE TOLD THE IMPERIAL PRESS CONFERENCE THAT ALL NATIONS, WHO EITHER ARE MEMBERS OR SEEK MEMBERSHIP TO THE U.N., SHOULD BE REQUIRED TO GIVE SUCH GUARANTEES.

WILLIAMS SAID FREEDOM OF INFORMATION WOULD CONTRIBUTE TO THE COMMON SECURITY OF THE WORLD BY DEVELOPING "A COMMON UNDERSTANDING OF THE PROBLEMS OF THE WORLD."

HE EXPRESSED BELIEF THAT NEWSPAPERS' INFLUENCE HAS DECLINED "IN IMPORTANT MEASURES AND IN THE POLITICAL FIELD, LARGELY FROM "EXCESSIVE CONCENTRATION BY NEWSPAPERS ON ENTERTAINMENT VALUES."

BRENDAN BRACKEN, WARTIME MINISTER OF INFORMATION, SAID "NEWS IS UNIVERSAL--IT MUST FLOW FREELY BETWEEN COUNTRY AND COUNTRY." HE WARNED OF "POTENTIAL DANGERS IN THE INCREASINGLY CLOSE CONTACT BETWEEN THE GOVERNMENT AND PRESS" AND SAID:

"THE GOVERNMENT RETAINS COMMAND OVER MANY IMPORTANT SOURCES OF NEWS."

BRACKEN SAID NEWSPAPERMEN MUST SEE THAT THE GOVERNMENT PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICERS "REMAIN GIVERS OF INFORMATION AND DO NOT TRY TO INFLUENCE" THE NEWS.

"MORE AND MORE OFFICIAL PAP IS BEING FED TO THE PRESS," BRACKEN SAID. "FORTUNATELY NO GOOD JOURNALIST NEEDS ADVICE THAT HE SHOULD KEEP THE WORLD'S LARGEST WASTEPAPER BASKET."

WILLIAMS SAID THE BIGGEST CHECK ON PROPAGANDA WERE THE CORRESPONDENTS OF "GREAT EXPERIENCE AND HIGH STATUS, POSSESSING INDEPENDENT SOURCES OF INFORMATION." HE SAID THE PRESS NEEDED "TO RECEIVE QUICKLY AND CORRECTLY THE NEWS FROM ALL THE REST OF THE WORLD AND TO BE ABLE TO SEND NEWS TO THE REST OF THE WORLD QUICKLY." HE CONTINUED:

"IT SEEMS TO ME THAT IN THIS MATTER, THE GREAT INTERNATIONAL NEWS AGENCIES HAVE A PART TO PLAY OF THE PROFOUNDEST IMPORTANCE. IT SEEMS TO ME MOST ESSENTIAL THAT THESE INTERNATIONAL AGENCIES SHOULD BE DEVELOPED BY MEN OF THE GREATEST INTELLECT AND OF THE HIGHEST STATUS, AND THERE SHOULD AT NO TIME BE ANY POSSIBILITY OR DANGER OF THESE AGENCIES BECOMING, WHETHER BY COMMUNICATIONS OR OTHER SUBSIDIES, UNDER THE CONTROL OF ANY GOVERNMENT OR ANY GROUP WHICH IS NOT DIRECTLY A NEWSPAPER GROUP CONCERNED WITH THE INTERESTS OF THE NEWSPAPERS AND THE PUBLIC."

WILLIAMS DECLARED THAT ANY TENDENCY WHICH SEEMED LIKELY TO MAKE A MONOPOLY OF ONE NEWS AGENCY IN ANY ONE PARTICULAR MARKET "SHOULD BE RESISTED." HE SAID "IT IS A BAD THING" FOR ANY COUNTRY TO GET ALL ITS WORLD NEWS "FROM ONE SOURCE ALONE."

SIR KEITH MURDOCK, HEAD OF THE AUSTRALIAN DELEGATION, SUGGESTED A CONFERENCE OF ENGLISH-SPEAKING NEWSPAPERMEN TO MARK "THE BEGINNING OF AN ERA OF PEACE, DEPENDENT UPON THE WORK OF A FREE PRESS OF THE WORLD."

"IT MIGHT BE POSSIBLE," HE SAID, "TO CREATE A WORLD SECRETARIAT WHICH WOULD BE FOREVER ACTIVE IN SECURING A WIDER FREEDOM VITAL TO THE PROFESSION IF IT IS TO SAVE CIVILIZATION."

Night Lead Trial

30-24-3189

Dachau, Germany, June 7-(AP)-German Sgt. Otto Wichmann testified today that sneering Col. Joachim Peiper, commander of an SS panzer regiment, ordered him to "shoot frozen, exhausted American prisoners" during the battle of the Ardennes bulge.

JUN 8 1946

Both are among the 74 SS troops on trial for their lives before a U.S. military court for murdering American prisoners during Germany's last offensive of the war.

Wichmann accused Peiper of entertaining ambitions of becoming a Fuehrer of the future fourth reich. He said SS troops, upon hearing a report of Adolf Hitler's death, were alerted to look upon the regimental commander as "one of the greatest personalities of the future fourth reich

The sergeant's blistering statement said Peiper ordered helpless American prisoners of war shot without a semblance of a trial. He asserte he was afraid he would "get a dagger in my back" because he had talked to American investigators about the colonel.

NUERNBERG, JUNE 7-(AP)-A GERMAN DOCUMENT PRESENTED TO THE INTERNATIONAL MILITARY TRIBUNAL TODAY SAID THE FORCES OF GEN. DRAJA MIHAILOVIC LOST 15 TO 30 MEN DAILY IN GUERILLA WARFARE AGAINST THE NAZIS IN YUGOSLAVIA IN THE WINTER OF 1942-43.

THE BEARDED CHETNIK LEADER IS NOW FACING TRIAL BY THE GOVERNMENT OF PREMIER MARSHAL TITO ON CHARGES OF COLLABORATION WITH THE GERMANS UNDER THE GUISE OF CONDUCTING A PATRIOTIC DEFENSE.

THE DOCUMENT WAS OFFERED AS COL.GEN. ALFRED JODL, FORMER CHIEF OF STAFF OF THE GERMAN ARMY, WOUND UP HIS DEFENSE AGAINST WAR CRIMES CHARGES, AND WAS SAID TO HAVE COME FROM THE FILES OF THE GERMAN ARMY CHIEF OF STAFF, DATED DEC. 12, 1942.

THE DOCUMENT, IN THE NATURE OF A REPORT TO A JUNIOR OFFICER, SAID:

"DOWN THERE IN THE BALKANS A CLEANUP CAMPAIGN IS UNDERWAY IN THE AREA OF JAJCE. AT (BLANK) ACROSS THE DEMARCATION LINE WE HAVE THROWN BACK THE ENEMY. HERE HE HAS ATTACKED VERY HARD AND LEFT 37 DEAD. PEOPLE ARE CONTINUOUSLY BEING ARRESTED IN BELGRADE. ONE CAN SAY THAT EVERY DAY BETWEEN 15 AND 30 MIHAILOVIC FOLLOWERS ARE BEING SHOT."

KRONBERG, GERMANY, JUNE 7-(AP)-THE COUNTESS VON HESSEN, 74-YEAR-OLD GRANDDAUGHTER OF QUEEN VICTORIA, SAID TODAY THE HOUSE OF HESSE WAS ASSURED BY U.S. ARMY PERSONNEL LAST YEAR THAT STOLEN CROWN JEWELS WORTH $1,500,000 WERE IN SAFE AMERICAN HANDS.

THE STRAIGHT-BACKED COUNTESS SAID IN AN INTERVIEW THAT HER FAMILY HAD KNOWN WHEN THE TREASURE WAS DUG UP FROM A BASEMENT FLOOR IN KRONBERG CASTLE, REQUISITIONED AS AN ARMY OFFICERS' CLUB, SEVEN MONTHS AGO.

"WE WERE TOLD THE JEWELS HAD BEEN TAKEN TO THE ROOM OF AN AMERICAN OFFICER AND WERE IN SAFE HANDS," SHE ADDED.

"DID AMERICANS TAKE THEM? AMERICANS WERE IN CHARGE OF THE CASTLE. WHO ELSE?"

A LATER INQUIRY BY THE HESSE FAMILY BROUGHT THE ASSURANCE THAT THE JEWELS HAD BEEN TURNED OVER TO MILITARY AUTHORITIES IN FRANKFURT, THE COUNTESS SAID. BUT WHEN HER DAUGHTER-IN-LAW, PRINCESS SOPHIE OF HESSE, ASKED FOR THEIR RETURN TWO MONTHS AGO THEY COULD NOT BE FOUND.

A TARDY ARMY ANNOUNCEMENT YESTERDAY SAID MERELY THAT INVESTIGATION HAD DISCLOSED THE JEWELS WERE REMOVED LAST NOV. 6 FROM THE CASTLE BASEMENT, BUT ALL PERSONNEL WHO MIGHT HAVE HAD KNOWLEDGE OF THE INCIDENT HAD RETURNED TO THE U.S.

THE COUNTESS INTERVIEWED AT HER COTTAGE NEAR THE CASTLE SAID SHE DID NOT KNOW WHETHER THE JEWELS -- CONSIDERED THE LARGEST ITEM IN THE FAMILY FORTUNE -- WERE INSURED.

"MY MANAGER WOULD HANDLE THAT," SHE SAID.

ALTHOUGH THE HOUSE OF HESSE STILL OWNS FOUR LARGE CASTLES "THEY ARE ALL TAKEN BY THE AMERICANS AND I HAVE ONLY THIS ONE ROOM," THE COUNTESS COMPLAINED.

"I HAVE NOT SET FOOT IN THE CASTLE SINCE THE AMERICANS CAME. WHY? THEY DON'T WANT ME."

JUN 8 1946

THE COUNTESS SAID ALL HER FAMILY, INCLUDING THREE SONS NOW PRISONERS OF WAR, HAD BEEN MEMBERS OF THE NATIONAL SOCIALIST PARTY AND SHE HAD ENTERTAINED HITLER AT HER HOME EVEN BEFORE HE SEIZED POWER.

"I DIDN'T MIX IN POLITICS," SHE INSISTED BUT SHE STILL HAD PRAISE FOR "THE FUEHRER."

"HITLER DID SO MUCH GOOD FOR THE PEOPLE IN THE BEGINNING," SHE SAID. "AFTER THAT, I DON'T KNOW WHAT HAPPENED. PERHAPS HE HAD BAD ADVICE."

THE COUNTESS, A FIRST COUSIN OF THE LATE KING GEORGE V OF ENGLAND, SAID SHE HAD RECEIVED "KIND MESSAGES" FROM DOWAGER QUEEN MARY SINCE THE WAR THROUGH PRINCESS SOPHIE, WHO RECENTLY VISITED ENGLAND, BUT SAID SHE HAD NOT CORRESPONDED DIRECTLY WITH ANY OF HER ROYAL RELATIVES IN BRITAIN.

vienna, june 7-(ap)- the austrian government tonight denied a re published abroad and in the vienna communist newspaper volkesstimme t russia had offered to discuss with austria --in a favorable light-- soviet confiscation of factories and other properties in austria under the russian interpretation of the potsdam agreement.

the volkesstimme said the story, published originally in the reynolds news of london, stated that the russians had proposed to take only the installations erected by the germans during their occupation of austria and to offer the austrians a fifty-fifty part in operating these concerns.

the government's statement tonight said that "the austrian government up till now has received neither orally nor in written form proposals in this precise form."

added

the austrian statement said that as the government saw "one important austrian factory after another taken over under the potsdam agreement to cover reparations claims against germany, effort had been made to enter into direct negotiations with the russians.

"it is hoped that a solution of this problem, so important to austria will be found which will fairly meet the claims of both sides," the statement said.

the dispute served to highlight the long-standing differences between the russians and the austrian government, and the russians and their allies, over interpretation of the potsdam agreements.

the russians have proceeded on the principle that properties in german hands at the time of their arrrival were subject to seizure for reparations. the other three allies have held that any properties seized by the germans after anschluss were not to be recognized as german property.

NANKING, JUNE 7 (AP)-GUNS OF CHINA'S WARRING FACTIONS WERE ORDERED SILENCED AT NOON TODAY FOR 15 DAYS OF LAST-CHANCE PEACE NEGOTIATIONS, DELAYING THE PROSPECTS FOR AN ALL-OUT BATTLE IN MANCHURIA WHICH HAD THREATENED TO BREAK OUT AT ANY MOMENT.

AS THE CEASE-FIRE DEADLINE PASSED, THERE WAS NO WORD HERE AS TO EFFECTIVENESS OF THE TRUCE.

IT WAS PROBABLE THAT SOME FIGHTING BETWEEN COMMUNIST AND GOVERNMENT FORCES WOULD CONTINUE, PARTICULARLY IN SUCH AREAS AS THE ANSHAN STEEL DISTRICT WHERE THE RIVALS ARE WILDLY INTERMIXED, BUT THE THREAT OF FULL-SCALE CIVIL WAR WAS GONE AT LEAST FOR A FORTNIGHT.

NEGOTIATORS RACED TO ACCOMPLISH A PERMANENT PEACE DURING THIS BRIEF PERIOD OF GRACE. TOP COMMUNIST LEADERS FLEW TO THEIR PARTY HEADQUARTERS AT YENAN, SEEKING QUICK GUIDANCE FOR THE VITAL CONFERENCES.

ONLY THREE HOURS BEFORE THE TRUCE WAS TO BECOME EFFECTIVE, THE GOVERNMENT'S CENTRAL NEWS AGENCY BELATEDLY REPORTED TWO FURTHER NATIONAL ADVANCES IN THE NORTH: THE GOVERNMENT'S 91ST DIVISION, IT SAID CAPTURED SHUANGSHAN, 75 MILES WEST OF CHANGCHUN, JUNE 4; AND OTHER UNITS OF THE 71ST ARMY CROSSED THE SUNGARI RIVER, BELOW HARBIN, JUNE 5.

MOST OBSERVERS IN NANKING AGREE THAT THE NEW TRUCE REPRESENTS CHINA'S LAST CHANCE TO END HER 18 YEARS OF FIGHTING. IF THE TWO FACTIONS CANNOT SUBMERGE THEIR DIFFERENCES NOW, WITH MARSHALL AS MEDIATOR, THEY ARE UNLIKELY TO HAVE ANOTHER SUCH OPPORTUNITY.

THE GOALS WHICH CHIANG'S CEASE-FIRE ORDER SAID MUST BE ACHIEVED WITHIN THE 15-DAY PERIOD ARE DIFFICULT:

DETAILED ARRANGEMENTS FOR COMPLETE CESSATION OF HOSTILITIES; RESTORATION OF COMMUNICATIONS--ON A FIXED SCHEDULE; AND A DETAILED PROGRAM FOR COMBINING GOVERNMENT AND COMMUNIST FORCES INTO ONE NATIONALIZED ARMY.

ANOTHER SHADOW HAS FALLEN ACROSS THE CONFERENCE TABLE, TOO: THE PROSPECT OF RENEWAL OF THE PROPAGANDA WARFARE WHICH ALREADY HAS CREATED MUCH DISTRUST, HATRED AND SUSPICIONS IN BOTH CAMPS. IF DIATRIBES AGAIN PREVAIL, DIFFICULTIES OF THE NEGOTIATORS WILL BE DANGEROUSLY INCREASED.

FIRST LEAD INDIAN (280)
BY PAUL MASON

NEW DELHI, JUNE 7-(AP)-THE BELIEF GREW THROUGHOUT INDIA TODAY THAT THE MOSLEM LEAGUE, BY ITS ACCEPTANCE OF THE BRITISH CABINET MISSION'S PLAN FOR A FEDERATED UNION OF INDIA, HAD REMOVED THE MOST FORMIDABLE BARRIER TO SOLVING INDIA'S 150-YEAR-LONG QUEST FOR INDEPENDENCE.

TYPICAL OF THE PRESS COMMENTS ON LAST NIGHT'S MOSLEM LEAGUE COUNCIL ACTION IN APPROVING THE CABINET PROPOSALS -- WHILE REITERATING THE LEAGUE'S "UNALTERABLE" INSISTENCE FOR EVENTUAL ESTABLISHMENT OF A SEPARATE MOSLEM STATE OF PAKISTAN -- APPEARED TO BE THAT IN THE BRITISH-OWNED NEW DELHI STATESMAN THIS MORNING.

CAPTIONED "MOVING FORWARD," THE PAPER'S LEADING EDITORIAL ENUMERATED SEVERAL RECENT EVENTS WHICH IT TERMED FRESH ADVANCES TOWARD A COMPROMISE SETTLEMENT, AND THEN SAID:

"NOW THE GREATEST AND MOST POSITIVE ENCOURAGEMENT OF ALL, THE COUNCIL OF THE MOSLEM LEAGUE, THE PARLIAMENT OF THE MOSLEM LEAGUE AS MR. (MAHOMED ALI) JINNAH PROUDLY CALLS IT, HAS IN A DECISIVE MANNER AGREED TO ACCEPT THE PROPOSALS."

JINNAH, THE LEAGUE'S PRESIDENT, WAS DIRECTED BY THE COUNCIL LAST NIGHT TO NEGOTIATE AT ONCE WITH VICEROY LORD WAVELL FOR MOSLEM PARTICIPATION IN THE INTERIM CENTRAL GOVERNMENT SUGGESTED IN THE BRITISH PLAN.

JINNAH, SILVER-HAIRED, MILITANT FOUNDER OF THE LEAGUE, PROVIDED A TIPOFF TEN DAYS AGO TO LAST NIGHT'S VOTE WHEN HE TOLD A GROUP IN SIMLA: "WE MUST STOP QUARRELING."

HE RE-EMPHASIZED THAT POINT AGAIN WEDNESDAY IN HIS OPENING DAY ADDRESS BEFORE THE COUNCIL AND IN THE SAME SPEECH HE REMINDED THE 400-PLUS DELEGATES THAT "DELAY IS NOT GOING TO BENEFIT EITHER THE BRITISH OR THE HINDUS."

JINNAH'S GENERALLY CONCILIATORY ATTITUDE SURPRISED MANY OLDER HEADS BOTH IN AND OUT OF THE LEAGUE. THESE QUICKLY RECALLED THAT ONLY RECENTLY JINNAH WAS PROMISING CIVIL WAR AND BLOODSHED IN THE EVENT HIS CHERISHED GOAL OF PAKISTAN WAS NOT ACHIEVED.

THE COUNCIL FOR THE LEAGUE, WHICH CLAIMS TO SPEAK FOR 90,000,000 MOSLEMS IN INDIA, SAID ITS APPROVAL LAST NIGHT OF THE CABINET PLAN WAS "PROMPTED BY ITS EARNEST DESIRE FOR A PEACEFUL SOLUTION, IF POSSIBLE, OF THE INDIAN PROBLEM," BUT RESERVED THE RIGHT TO ADVISE SECESSION OF MOSLEM GROUPS FROM ANY FEDERATION RESULTING FROM THE PLAN.

MOHANDAS K. GANDHI, A LEADER OF THE ALL-INDIA CONGRESS PARTY, INDIA'S OTHER MAJOR POLITICAL PARTY, PREVIOUSLY HAD SPOKEN APPROVINGLY OF THE BRITISH PROPOSALS, AND A SPOKESMAN FOR REPRESENTATIVES OF THE FOREMOST PRINCES OF INDIA SAID THE PRINCES ALSO WERE "QUITE WILLING TO COME INTO THE FRAMEWORK OF AN INDEPENDENT INDIA."

THE MOSLEM LEAGUE COUNCIL, BY ALMOST UNANIMOUS VOTE, SAID THE LEAGUE "IS WILLING TO COOPERATE WITH THE CONSTITUTION-MAKING MACHINERY PROPOSED X X X IN THE HOPE THAT IT WOULD ULTIMATELY RESULT IN ESTABLISHMENT OF COMPLETE SOVEREIGN PAKISTAN AND IN THE CONSUMMATION OF THE GOAL OF INDEPENDENCE FOR THE MAJOR NATIONS, MOSLEMS AND HINDUS AND ALL THE OTHER PEOPLE INHABITING THIS VAST SUBCONTINENT."

THE COUNCIL FOUND THAT "THE BASIS AND FOUNDATION OF PAKISTAN ARE INHERENT" IN THE BRITISH PLAN, BY VIRTUE OF ITS REFERENCE TO "COMPULSORY REGROUPING" OF SIX PROVINCES IN WHICH THE MOSLEMS CLAIM A DOMINANT MAJORITY, AND REJECTED OTHER PORTIONS OF THE PLAN INVOLVING THE LEAGUE'S PAKISTAN DEMANDS.

industrialist, comparing president juan d. peron's social justice program with that of president roosevelt's new deal in the united states, said today that both presidents were interested in aiding "the forgotten man."

a special guest of peron during the new argentine president's inauguration last tuesday, higgins said in an interview he was convinced peron "not only wants, but solicits the friendship of the united states."

scoffing at charges that peron is a dictator, higgins declared that peron was elected by a majority of argentines in a free election and is "being acclaimed every day in the streets by a majority of argentines."

higgins criticized the united states' foreign policy toward argentina, saying that "washington does business every day with real dictators elsewhere than south america, while failing to admit that argentina's president is a real democrat chosen by the free will of MOST argentines."

asserting that argentina, next to the united states and canada, is the strongest country in the western hemisphere, higgins said that "it is unthinkable that the united states should talk about western hemisphere solidarity without the friendship of argentina."

higgins leaves tomorrow for the united states.

WASHINGTON JUNE 7-(AP)-THE NAVY HAS CONSTRUCTED A TINY ROBOT LABORATORY IN THE NOSE OF A GIANT ROCKET AND PLANS TO DRIVE IT 100 MILES HIGH TO SEND BACK SCIENTIFIC INFORMATION.

THE BUREAU OF RESEARCH AND INVENTIONS ANNOUNCED TODAY THAT THE FIRST FLIGHT WILL BE JUNE 27 AT THE WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, LAS CRUCES,N.M., WHERE OTHER ROCKET TESTS HAVE BEEN MADE.

HE FLYING LABORATORY WILL SEEK ANSWERS TO "SOME OF THE MOST BAFFLING PROBLEMS ABOUT THE UNIVERSE," THE ANNOUNCEMENT SAID. IT IS EXPECTED TO REACH THE LOWER AREAS OF THE IONOSPHERE WHICH LIES FROM 50 TO 300 MILES ABOVE THE EARTH'S SURFACE.

SOME OF THE THINGS TO BE STUDIED ARE THE COSMIC RAY, ELECTRONS, AND HIGH ALTITUDE RADIO AND RADAR TRANSMISSION.

SCIENTISTS WILL BE STATIONED AT MANY OBSERVATION POINTS WITH EQUIPMENT TO TRACK THE ROCKET IN ITS SIX-MINUTE FLIGHT. THEY WILL RECORD THE DATA IT RADIOS BACK TO EARTH.

LATER THE ROCKET FLIGHTS MAY BE EXTENDED INTO SPACE ALMOST DOUBLE THE 100 MILES PLANNED FOR THE FIRST ONE.

"THE JUNE 27 TEST WILL BE BUT THE FIRST STEP IN A LONG RANGE RESEARCH PROGRAM TO BRING BACK FROM THE UNKNOWN REGIONS OF THE UPPER ATMOSPHERE SCIENTIFIC KNOWLEDGE THAT MAY OPEN UP NEW FRONTIERS TO MANKIND," REAR ADMIRAL H.J.BOWEN, CHIEF OF RESEARCH AND INVENTIONS, SAID.

ARMY ORDNANCE ENGINEERS WILL COLLABORATE WITH THE NAVY, AND ARMY MEN WILL LAUNCH THE MISSILE.

AFTER JUNE 27 A ROCKET WILL CARRY A ROBOT LABORATORY INTO SPACE ABOUT ONCE EACH WEEK, UNDER PRESENT PLANS. THE ROCKETS ARE PATTERNED AFTER V2 PARTS CAPTURED IN GERMANY BUT THE NAVY HINTED THAT IT NOW HAS A MEANS OF SENDING ROCKETS MUCH HIGHER THAN THE GERMANS.

SCIENTIFIC INSTRUMENTS BUILT INTO THE "WAR-HEAD" IN THE NOSE OF THE ROCKET WILL INCLUDE DEVICES FOR RECORDING TEMPERATURE AND THE PRESSURE OF RAREFIED GASES.

THERE WILL BE A TINY SPECTROGRAPH, WHICH ANALYZES THE SUN'S RAYS AND RECORDS THEM ON FILM. BECAUSE OF THE HEIGHT WHICH THE ROBOT WILL REACH, THE SCIENTISTS BELIEVE THIS SPECTROGRAPH WILL RECORD RADIATION THAT HUMAN BEINGS NEVER HAVE BEEN ABLE TO OBSERVE.

THERE ALSO WILL BE A SMALL COSMIC RAY TELESCOPE EQUIPPED TO DETECT AND COUNT COSMIC PARTICLES.

BECAUSE BIOLOGISTS AT HARVARD UNIVERSITY ARE STUDYING THE EFFECT OF RADIATIONS FROM OUTER SPACE ON ORGANIC LIFE, THE ROCKET ALSO WILL CARRY CONTAINERS FILLED WITH CAREFULLY SELECTED SEEDS. THESE WILL BE TOSSED OUT AT GREAT HEIGHTS AND RECOVERED LATER AND STUDIED TO DETERMINE THE EFFECT OF RADIATION IN THE HIGHER SPACES.

Royalists Charge Fraud In Italian Election

ALLIED STUDY OF BALLOTS IS DEMANDED

Demonstrations Subside After Two Are Killed In Naples Area

J. McKNIGHT

Rome, June 8 (AP)—A monarchist leader charged today there had been fraud in the plebiscite in which Italy chose to be a republic and demanded Allied review of [illegible] voting that doomed the reign of King Umberto II.

Monarchist demonstrations meanwhile, subsided today in Rome, Naples and Palermo after two deaths and a score of injuries had been reported in Naples. Giuseppe Romita, Minister of the Interior, declared the entire country was quiet.

Chief Justice Giuseppe Pagano disclosed this afternoon that late arrival of some returns would delay over Sunday the Supreme Court certification of the election, and it appeared that the Italians would have to wait two or three days for formal proclamation of the republic. Interior officials put the republic 2,011,000 votes ahead of the monarchy.

"Infinite Number Of Protests"

Tullio Benedetti, head of the National Monarchial Union, in letters to Rear Admiral Ellery W. Stone, chief Allied commissioner, and to Allied diplomatic missions in Rome, declared "an infinite number of protests" were being received "about the gravest electoral frauds designed to make the outcome in favor of the republic."

He asked Allied review of "all the electoral material" reaching the Supreme Court prior to formal declaration of the republic, saying he based his demand on the "Allies' guarantee of the regularity of the elections."

There was a slender possibility that the high court might call for another plebiscite, but this was regarded by political and judicial circles as highly unlikely.

Umberto Cautions Followers

A strong message from King Umberto to his followers in Naples urging them to refrain from public displays was credited with having helped pacify that southern stronghold of the Savoys. Umberto dispatched the message through Royal Household Minister Falcone Lucifero.

In an apparent move to discourage Rome demonstrators, the King left the uptown Quirinale Palace, goal of yesterday's marchers here, for a villa outside Rome to await the end of his brief reign.

The delay of the provincial prefects in getting their returns to Rome served also to delay Umberto's departure for Portugal to join Queen Marie José and their four children in exile.

Will Stay With Duchess

[A Lisbon dispatch said the Queen would arrive tomorrow afternoon and would stay at the house of the Italian-born Duchess Cadaval on the outskirts of Lisbon.]

The King was awaiting the installation of the republic, so that there would be no break in the executive power he exercised for 23 months as lieutenant general of the realm and for one month as King.

A plane was waiting at Ciampino airport, outside Rome, to take off for Lisbon within an hour after the ceremonies proclaiming the republic, sources close to the royal household said.

Ceremony In "Wolf" Hall

Next week's ceremony, to which the general public will be admitted on a "first come, first served" basis, will take place in the ornate "Hall of the Wolf" of Monte Cittorio Palace, where Italy's Chamber of Deputies sat until Benito Mussolini dissolved it.

At the moment that the Chief Justice announces a republican victory, the monarchy's legal existence ceases.

Thereafter Premier Alcide de Gasperi is expected to call at the Quirinale Palace and, as interim provisional President pending meeting of the new Constituent Assembly June 24, receive the executive powers from the King.

An Interior Ministry spokesman said there was "a good probability" that official returns of the plebiscite that ousted the House of Savoy would reach the Supreme Court in time for a proclamation tonight.

A spokesman for the royal house said Umberto, "extremely tired by yesterday's audiences and demonstrations," was resting at a villa near Rome but would return to the capital if the ceremony of the "transfer of powers" is held today.

King Will Not Attend

The spokesman said Umberto would not attend the ceremony but would receive official notification of the end of his brief reign probably from Premier Alcide de Gasperi. Umberto would then leave for Portugal by plane either tonight or early tomorrow.

The King had a half-hour audience with Pope Pius last night.

There were no reports of new rioting this morning. In yesterday's monarchist demonstrations in Rome and Naples, federal police said, two persons were killed and about 20 injured. The royalists were dissatisfied with the results of the plebiscite.

HUMBERT READY TO LEAVE ITALY

Rome, June 8 (AP)—Ceremonies formally proclaiming the Italian Republic may be held in Rome late today, after which King Umberto II will leave Italy for voluntary exile in Portugal.

Britons By Millions Mark Victory Day In London Fete

R. LANDSTROM

London, June 8 (AP)—Britons, overflowing by the millions into London, celebrated the Empire's formal Victory Day today with the biggest jubilee since the accession to the throne by King George VI.

The foremost spectacle—a 9-mile-long procession of military might and civilian defense typifying Allied unity in the war—drew ovations from the great throngs for the Royal Family, members of the Labor Government, Winston Churchill, combat commanders and plain fighting men and women.

Nations Not Represented

The unity of the occasion was marred, however, by the absence of official Soviet, Yugoslav and Polish participation. Those governments had said earlier that they would not send contingents.

But a small group of Polish airmen marched on its own with the RAF and the flags of Russia, Yugoslavia and Poland flew with those of other allied nations along the mail.

Small detachments of United States airborne troops, bluejackets and Marines marched in the procession and a handful of American flyers led the air forces of other nations. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, Admiral H. Kent Hewitt, and Brig. Gen. F. A. Hart, representing the United States Army, Navy and Marines, led the motorcade of Allied commanders.

A huge gathering of people from every part of the kingdom held fast for hours of tedious waiting from a cool, cloudy dawn through two hours of the parade itself, and broke up shortly after 1 P.M. in a steady rain.

The celebration continued tonight with a program of fireworks, a water spectacle and illumination of historic buildings.

The night fireworks display gave the city great brilliance. Crowds assembled in the rain-drenched mall, and the King, Queen and two pincesses appeared on a balcony of Buckingham Palace to acknowledge their cheers. A great "V" formed by searchlights lighted the sky over the palace.

Casualties Over 4,000

More than 4,000 casualties were reported by hospitals and police between 6 A.M. and 2 P.M., most of them fainting cases but 65 were described as more serious.

This, along with the absence of generally sustained enthusiasm, was taken as indicating the strain and depletion caused by the war. A British army officer remarked that "a lot of them apparently think it is not quite proper to let themselves go."

But there was spontaneity in the cheers of the crowd. Some of the loudest cheers were for Field Marshal Lord Montgomery, the dominion and colonial troops, the Women's Land Army, air-raid personnel, farmers and miners.

MILLIONS HAIL LONDON'S BIG VICTORY FETE

JUN 9

Normal Life at Virtual Standstill as Nation Honors Heroes.

PARADE NINE MILES LONG

R. LANDSTROM

300 R. A. F. Planes Stage Air Show—Celebration to Go On Far Into Night.

London, June 8 (A. P.).—The normal life of London came to a virtual standstill for nearly five hours today while millions of persons cheered a nine-mile-long parade of war victors representing the British Empire and most of its Allies.

The Victory Day observance was organized primarily to pay tribute to the contributions of every dominion and colony and to honor the battle brotherhood of the United Nations. The parade reached the peak of its form along the famous Mall before Buckingham Palace. There the Royal Family, Cabinet and parliamentary statesmen and other dignitaries took the salute.

Men and women of some thirty lands marched or rode past in war vehicles. At the conclusion, 300 R. A. F. planes swept low while the crowds yelled and waved.

Not Represented.

Among all the wartime Allies, only three nations were not represented: the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia and Poland. These had notified the British Government earlier that they would not send contingents. A small group of Polish airmen who had flown with the R. A. F. appeared with Britain's flyers, however.

Although the flags of those countries were not borne in the procession, they were flown conspicuously from poles along the Mall and displayed prominently on public buildings and in the streets.

The parade, leading off a victory celebration which will continue until long past midnight, presented impressively the story of man power and weapons that defeated the Axis.

Prime Minister Attlee and former Prime Minister Winston Churchill, both wearing medals, rode together in an open carriage. In the following carriage were Prime Ministers W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada, and Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts of South Africa.

Throngs gathered along the route early and remained packed in the streets through the afternoon. They lunched on sandwiches, cakes and bottled tea.

First aid was given in field stations set up in the parks to hundreds of men, women and children unable to stand the strain of hours of waiting in the jam. At least fifty persons were carried away in the Mall alone between 8 A. M. and midday.

Great Crowds Orderly.

The police reported the biggest crowds in Whitehall, around Buckingham Palace and on the edge of Hyde Park. All were "quiet and very orderly."

Long before the parade started, the Mall was thick with people who had passed the night patiently waiting. There were old women in chairs, women with infants in arms and street vendors, who did a land office business.

Many of the more exuberant spirits danced to the music of mouth organs and accordians. In the midst of the confusion two sailors casually rigged up hammocks on trees.

During the night camp fires glowed in the darkness; some brewed tea on portable stoves; tents were pitched. As in blackout days strangers slept huddled close together—and were stepped on occasionally by careless walkers. Those who did not try to sleep played cards—or listened to impromptu music.

More Than a Homeland Affair.

As darkness faded women proceeded to tidy themselves up with powder puff and lipstick. One woman with three small children, broke out a folding washstand and with soap and water scrubbed her brood.

All along the line — among hordes of [illegible] on the sidelines and [illegible] pomp and purple of the reviewing stand—it was apparent that one major purpose was to make the celebration more than a homeland affair.

The appearance in the parade of generals, admirals, soldiers and sailors representing Great Britain and twenty-seven dominions, colonies and allies indicated that the Government's wish to honor not only the empire's contribution to the war effort but that of brothers in arms of other lands.

U. S. Force Marches.

Among those who wheeled into formation were about 130 Americans—Army, Navy and Marine Corps, led by Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, Admiral H. Kent Hewitt and Brig.-Gen. Franklin A. Hart, who were assigned to the foremost Allied vehicles.

It was a day of tribute also to those who fought the battles of London, Coventry, Plymouth, Hull, Southampton and Liverpool. The marchers included air raid wardens and factory workers—and even two bemedaled Alsatian dogs who had found buried persons in the blitz wreckage.

U.S. Mid-East View Puzzles Britain

R. WHEELER

London, June 8 (AP)—Britain is perplexed by accusations of dalliance in implementing the Anglo-American report on Palestine and by American failure to consider the Middle East as a whole, a Whitehall spokesman said today.

Officially there has been distressed, regretful silence on American congressional criticism of procedure on Palestine. But in diplomatic quarters the British viewpoint is that the Jewish problem is one panel of a much larger picture.

While handling the Palestine issue gingerly, British leaders simultaneously are seeking a satisfactory agreement on future protection of the Empire lifeline through Suez.

Compromise With Egypt

This involves a compromise with Egypt on the use of British armed forces in event war became imminent. Britain hopes that other Arab states may influence Cairo.

London lists these efforts in support of Arab goodwill, the spokesman said:

The proposed British withdrawal from India; the imminent withdrawal from Egypt; the agreement with the French to quit the Levant; independence for Trans-Jordan and adherence to pledges to the Senussi tribesmen of Libya against any return to Italian rule.

May Aid Settlement

These gestures, he said, may help smooth a settlement on Palestine as well, if advocates of immediate immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine will refrain from rocking the boat.

In any event, Whitehall takes the position that Washington's support is essential in approaching a settlement on Palestine, with joint pressure on the Jews to disarm necessary as a preliminary to British negotiations for similar disarming of the Arabs.

British Call Yugoslavia Tension Not Dangerous

Doubt Plan of Military Action to Enforce Trieste Demands

LONDON, June 8 (AP).—A Foreign Office spokesman said today Great Britain regards the situation in Yugoslavia as tense but not dangerous.

Commenting on reports from Belgrade that public notices had been posted for registration of all officer groups, the spokesman said that tension undoubtedly existed and was expected to continue at least until Premier Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) returned from Moscow and until the four-power conference of Foreign Ministers reconvened in Paris June 15.

The Foreign Office, however, does not believe that Yugoslavia contemplates any military action to enforce its demand for Trieste, the spokesman said.

Mufti Escapes From France; Inquiry Starts

A. I. GOLDBERG

Arab Chief Slips Away as Extraordinary League Session Gets Under Way

PARIS, June 8 (AP).—An information officer of the French Foreign Ministry said tonight that the Haj Amin El-Husseini, fifty-three-year-old exiled Mufti of Jerusalem, had left France, but the time of his departure and his destination were not disclosed.

The Mufti's reported departure coincided with the opening today in Bludan, Syria, of an extraordinary session of the Arab league. It was expected the meeting will declare the opposition of 40,000,000 Arabs to the British-American inquiry committee's report on Palestine, which recommends the immediate admission of 100,000 European Jews to the Holy Land.

The Mufti has been living in France as a free citizen under the protection of the French government, although he was accused of pro-Axis sentiments during the war.

Departure Investigated

The Surete Generale, highest police authority in France, was reticent concerning the Mufti's departure, profesing ignorance of his movements. The Foreign Ministry informant said, however, that the police were making an inquiry into the circumstances of the Mufti's departure. Many in the Arab world have been looking forward to his return to the Eastern Mediterranean to lead in its dispute over the Palestine issue.

The French government denied two months ago that the Mufti was being held a prisoner in France, although repeated attempts to reach him for a statement were rebuffed. Another attempt was made to reach him today at Rambouillet, about thirty miles southwest of Paris, where he has been living in seclusion. But a government official said that "in the present situation, it would be impossible to allow an interview." This official gave no hint that the Mufti had left France.

Leader of Arabs' Fight

On June 3, the Mufti appealed in a message from Paris to the people of the Arab world "to stand firm" in opposition to Zionism. Jamal El-Husseini, the Mufti's nephew, said at Jerusalem, however, that the message gave no indication of the Mufti's possible intention to return soon to the eastern Mediterranean.

For years the Mufti has led the Arab struggle for independence for Palestine and against a national home there for the Jews. He was banished from Palestine for anti-British activity in 1937 and since then has found havens in Syria, Italy and France.

Delay Likely in Choice Of New French President

R. C. WILSON

Socialists Cool to Mediating Between Reds and M. R. P.

PARIS, June 8 (AP).—Reluctance of the Socialist party to mediate differences between the Communists and the Popular Republican Movement (M. R. P.) parties was seen as a factor which may delay choice of a new provisional French President for at least the next ten days.

The moderate M. R. P. won the most seats in the recent election of a new Constituent Assembly, which will choose the new president, but the Socialists hold the balance of power between the M. R. P. and the Communists, the second largest group.

Still another factor tending to delay choice of a president was the difficulty in finding a limited program for the new Assembly on which all three parties can agree. The most ticklish point is the wage increase demand by the 6,000,000 members of France's two largest trade unions.

The atmosphere may be clarified after a Socialist congress tomorrow, an M. R. P. meeting Monday and a Communist council session next Saturday. The new Assembly will hold its initial session on Tuesday.

SECRETARY TELLS ABOUT HITLER FATE

Woman Gives Details About Fuehrer's Marriage To Eva Braun

R. O'REGAN

Nuernberg, Germany, June 8 (AP).—A dark-haired German beauty who consoled Adolf Hitler in his last days is being escorted here from Berchtesgaden by Allied agents to appear before the international military tribunal, it was learned authoritatively today.

Intelligence officers said 31-year-old Mrs. Gerda Christian, Hitler's personal secretary from 1939 until the collapse of the Third Reich, would be held as a possible witness in the war crimes trial of Hitler's henchmen.

Was in Bomb Shelter

The officers said Mrs. Christian, wife of Air General Eckhart Christian, himself an Allied prisoner, was arrested secretly last year and questioned for possible clues to Hitler's fate. She was released in the spring and went to the village near Hitler's mountain retreat.

During questioning she insisted Hitler was dead and that he had ordered the cremation of his body. As his secretary she stayed in the Reichschancellery bomb shelter with him until the last moment and thus was able to fill in gaps in the story of the Führer's marriage to Eva Braun and their deaths. She said she believed Eva Braun proposed the macabre marriage ceremony.

"Hitler did not think of personal things at that time and Eva Braun seemed to be very happy about the marriage, despite the circumstances," Mrs. Christian was quoted. The intelligence officers continued:

Ceremony Strictly Secret

The ceremony was strictly secret. Suddenly, in midafternoon April 28, 1945, Mrs. Christian and another secretary were called to see Hitler.

"We had to wait a little while and then Hitler and Eva Braun appeared together with Martin Bormann and Dr. (Paul Joseph) Goebbels," she said.

Hitler's now-missing deputy and his Propaganda Minister were the only witnesses.

"Eva pointed to the wedding ring she wore," Mrs. Christian said, and her gesture was understood. The secretary said she congratulated Hitler and shook hands with him and his bride.

Party Lasts Through Night

Despite the battle for Berlin raging above them, the six sat down for a wedding breakfast. The party went on through the night. Hitler never mentioned any of his failures or mistakes, but chatted about the "good old times" and his earlier success.

However, he vowed never to become a Russian prisoner and said "I will shoot myself first."

The morning after the party, Mrs. Christian saw the first omen of the suicide pact with Eva. The Fuhrer's dog, Blondie, was poisoned The secretary said she saw the dog being carried out.

Two days after the marriage, Mrs. Christian had lunch with Hitler. His bride was not present.

"He appeared quiet and did not speak about his intentions," she said.

Hitler Ordered Slaying of All Allied Flyers

THREEDY

Keitel Says He Refused to Comply; Tells of Fuehrer's Rage as End Drew Near

Nuernberg, June 8 (AP)—Adolf Hitler, in the last days of the crumbling Reich, ordered the summary slaying of every Allied flyer who bailed out, but Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel asserted he "would be damned" if he'd issue such an order, the International Military Tribunal was told today.

A picture of Hitler's frenzied rage over the heavy bombing attacks on Berlin was given in statements of German officers who spent the final month with the Führer in his Berlin shelter.

Luftwaffe's "Cowardice"

The statements were introduced by counsel for Keitel and Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl and corroborated by Major Herbert Buechs, Luftwaffe adjutant assigned to Hitler's headquarters.

Hitler accused the Luftwaffe of cowardice in its refusal to kill Allied flyers and accused it of having an agreement with the British and American air forces for mutual protection, the documents stated. He ordered all bomber crews then in prison camps slain, but never signed such a decree, so the order was never carried out.

When advised of Hitler's attitude, Keitel was reported as saying to a group in the bunker:

"I'll be damned if I'll issue such an order. . . . Has he finally gone completely mad?"

Buechs's testimony wound up the week's deliberations of the tribunal, which prepared to take up the defense of the seventeenth defendant, Arthur Seyss-Inquart, on Monday.

Textbook By Schirach?

Meanwhile, American officials said that Youth Leader Baldur von Schirach's belated condemnation of his one-time ideal, Adolf Hitler, might become a textbook for the new generation of German youth.

They said the builder of the Hitler Jugend had asked that his courtrom repudiation of Hitler be circulated among young Germans in an effort to right some of the wrongs he said he committed in teaching them to follow Nazi ideals.

American officials said the idea was under consideration and might become another aid toward re-educating German youth.

G. I.s Agree to Talk On Lichfield Cruelty

P. DOANE

12 Who Refused Before to Testify Against Officer

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany, June 8 (AP).—Twelve American soldiers who had refused on two previous occasions to testify in the Lichfield trials today volunteered to return to the witness stand and tell their stories of cruelties allegedly suffered while prisoners in the guardhouse at Lichfield, England.

The announcement that they were willing to testify was made during the trial of Lieutenant W. Ennis, of Peekskill, N Y., who was charged by the prosecution with "trying to influence prosecution witnesses."

No explanation was given in court of why the witnesses changed their minds, but one, Sergeant Saul L. Russ, 61 East Fifty-seventh Street, Brooklyn, said outside the courtroom he had decided that he wanted to do what he could to see that Ennis get what he deserves."

Private First Class Arthur B. Duncan, of Elizabethtown, N. C., testified the guards were instructed by Ennis to beat prisoners.

Duncan, a former Lichfield jailer awaiting trial on cruelty charges, was asked whether "you are under the impression that if you can lay the blame on the officers that you might be exonerated for what you have done."

"No," Duncan replied, "but I want people to know that we were carrying out orders. I thought we would be court-martialled if we didn't carry out those orders."

12 Lichfield GI's Change Minds, Will Testify

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 8 (AP)—An eleven-day-old "strike" of prosecution witnesses in the Lichfield trials ended suddenly today, when twelve soldiers who previously refused to testify before courts-martial volunteered to take the stand.

They said they would tell their stories of alleged cruelties suffered at the hands of guards while imprisoned in the United States Army stockade at Lichfield, England.

No explanation was given in court for their change of mind.

One witness, Sgt. Saul L. Russ, of Brooklyn, told reporters outside the court, "I wanted to do what I could to see that Ennis gets what he deserves." He referred to Lieut. Leonard W. Ennis, of Peekskill, N.Y., currently on trial.

Ennis's "Fraternizing"

Shortly before the strike ended the prosecution had accused Ennis of "trying to influence prosecution witnesses."

"I ask the court that Ennis be instructed to remain away from the barracks and mess halls of witnesses," said the prosecutor, Capt. Charles Sheppard, of Deland, Fla. "I object to the accused going down and fraternizing with them and trying to influence prosecution witnesses."

The military court announced it would "disregard these intimations of improper conduct" until proof was offered. None was given.

Lone Witness Recalled

Only one of the nineteen witnesses who previously defied a court order to testify for the prosecution was recalled to the stand in today's brief court session, but the prosecution announced twelve of them had "voluntarily" offered to talk if recalled.

The strike, which yesterday cut short the prosecution's case against Lieut. Granville Cubage, of Oklahoma City, for lack of witnesses, was based on complaints by the witnesses against "army injustices." All the strikers are confined in the guardhouse on what some called "tumped-up charges," while defendants "run around here free," some complained.

One witness said yesterday he would not talk until the trials were transferred to the United States "which beyond doubt is the only place justice will be done."

But that witness, Aubrey L. Richey, of Birmingham, Ala., was named among those now willing to testify.

Offered "No Inducement"

Russ testified he saw Ennis's method of punishing prisoners.

"No," he declared firmly when asked by defense attorneys if he was offered any inducement or had any conditions imposed for his agreement to testify. He was halted by the court when he attempted to explain why he changed his mind.

The only other witness heard today was Pfc. Arthur B. Duncan, of Elizabethtown, N.C., a former Lichfield jailer who is awaiting trial on cruelty charges. Duncan testified guards were instructed by Ennis to beat prisoners.

Court-Martial Either Way

"Are you under the impression that if you can lay the blame on the officer you might be exonerated for what you have done?" a defense attorney asked him.

"No," Duncan insisted. "But I want people to know that we were carrying out orders. I thought we would be court-martialed if we did not carry out those orders."

G. I. WITNESSES AGREE TO TALK

End Strike Against Telling of Lichfield Brutality.

P. DOANE

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 8 (A. P.).—A strike of prosecution witnesses in the Lichfield brutality trials ended suddenly today, when twelve soldiers who refused previously to testify before courts-martial volunteered to take the stand. They said that they would tell their stories of alleged cruelties suffered at the hands of guards while imprisoned in the United States Army stockade of Lichfield, England.

No explanation was given in court for their change of mind.

The eleven-day-old strike ended during the trial of Lieut. Leonard W. Ennis of Peekskill, N. Y., on charges of mistreating prisoners.

Disregards Intimations.

Shortly before the strike ended the prosecution had accused Ennis of "trying to influence prosecution witnesses."

"I ask the court that Ennis be instructed to remain away from the barracks and mess halls of witnesses," said the prosecutor, Capt. Charles Sheppard of Deland, Fla. "I object to the accused going down and fraternizing with them and trying to influence prosecution witnesses."

5th German Girl Killed In Army Men's Rooms

Frankfurt, June 8 (AP)—A 17-year-old German girl was found shot through the head Thursday in an American enlisted man's billet near Bad Kissingen, the Army announced tonight. She was the fifth German girl to die in soldiers' quarters within a month.

The theater provost marshal said the girl—an employé of the American Red Cross—was alone at the time of the shooting and "is alleged to have shot herself."

The girl, Doris Krath, was found on the second floor of billets used by enlisted men of the 3d Battalion of the 15th Infantry Regiment at Mellrichstadt, near Bad Kissingen.

Corporal Absent

According to the official report, the girl went to the billets looking for Corporal Woodrow M. Kemp, whose home address was not given. Kemp was away at the time, the report said.

She then entered the room of Private Richard E. Chappell, where she apparently shot herself through the head with a .45-caliber pistol, the report said. She died instantly from one shot. The pistol was found beneath her body.

Did Not Know Girl

The Army said Chappell, whose home address also was said to be not available, did not know the girl personally.

The army's criminal investigation department agents were reported still investigating the girl's death.

Three of the German girls who have died in American soldiers' quarters in Germany—one of whom was pregnant—were said officially to have committed suicide in despondency over the scheduled return of American officers to the United States. One was killed accidentally.

GERMANS TOLD OF U. S. AID

Our Food Supply to Zone in May Exceeded 60,000 Tons

BERLIN, June 8 (AP)—The American Military Government announced tonight that more than 60,000 tons of food had been provided during May by the United States for the civilian population of the American occupied zone of Germany, making a grand total of 563,000 tons provided by the United States to support the German civilian ration since last July.

This recapitulation featured a recently undertaken campaign through the American press and radio facilities here to show the German people what efforts the United States is making to feed Germany and the world—a fact of which the German masses, by and large, are ignorant.

Because the Russians control the majority of the Berlin press, for instance, more publicity is given to food shipped into Berlin from the Russian zone than to the greater food imports from the United States.

The May supplies provided by America included 45,000 tons of wheat, died peas and beans imported directly from the United States and 15,000 tons of Army and civil affairs food stocks released here.

In addition, ten shiploads of wheat flour and corn totaled 65,000 tons, are being unloaded or are en route.

Asks U. N. to Take Over

BERLIN, June 8 (AP).—The Berlin chapter of the American Veterans Committee today adopted a resolution for submission to the A. V. C. national convention at Des Moines later this month urging that responsibility for Germany's occupation "be ultimately assumed by the United Nations."

D. P., German Policeman Slain

HEIDELBERG, Germany, June 8 (AP).—A displaced Pole and a German policeman were killed Thursday in a shooting near Regensburg which started when three Poles were halted for a routine road-check, the United States 3d Army announced today.

Two German policemen were wounded. One Pole was arrested and the third escaped.

KIN OF GOEBBELS FOUND IN U. S. ZONE

Wolfratshausen, Germany, June 8 (A. P.).—The mother, sister and brother-in-law of Paul Joseph Goebbels have been found, living near here in the village of Icking, American Military Government officers announced today. They said the family fled Berlin shortly before its fall in the spring of 1945 and had been living in the village under the name of Biebichs.

The officers declared that Katharine Goebbels, 79-year-old mother of the former Nazi Propaganda Minister; his sister, Mrs. Maria Kimmich, 39, and her husband, Max, 50, fled Berlin in violation of Goebbels's orders to stay and commit suicide. All are under investigation.

FRESH RIOTING FOLLOWS NEW GREEK DECREE

L. CHARLES

Death Ruled For Action Against The State; 198 Slain Since April 1

Athens, June 8 (AP)—New disorders were reported in Greece today in the wake of the pro-monarchy Government's drastic decree providing death sentences for action against the state, and the Communists charged in a formal statement that the step could lead "only to civil war."

The Ministry of Public Order, asserting that 198 persons, including seventeen gendarmes and three soldiers, had been slain in armed attacks since April 1, said roaming bands of Communists had created a "desperate situation in the Edessa district of western Macedonia in new outbreaks."

Twelve Communists, alleged to have been planning to re-establish the outlawed EAM-KKE police force, were arrested in Athens last night, the ministry added.

Premier Backs Decree

Premier Constantin Tsaldaris, in support of the decree which establishes summary courts empowered to pass death sentences on anyone using arms against soldiers or the police, declared the Government "could no longer tolerate such a state of terrorism on the part of the enemies of the state. It has been clearly shown that these actions constitute high reason against the fatherland and cannot go without punishment."

The Leftist-dominated General Confederation of Labor asserted that the new decree was "a revival of fascism and the Government is unloosing an open Fascist attack against the workers."

The Communists' formal statement said that execution of the new emergency measures could lead "only to civil war" and also charged the action was "fascism."

Eight Mayors Resign

In addition to the 198 persons slain since April 1, said the Ministry of Public Order, fourteen gendarmerie stations underwent armed attack and three were set on fire by the Communists.

The military said all traffic among eight villages in the Edessa district of western Macedonia and southern Yugoslavia had been halted by marauding bands of Communists and autonomists. All eight mayors have resigned, and local authorities have sent telegrams to Athens describing the situation as "desperate," the Ministry added.

The Phlorina-Edessa-Kastoria triangle near the southern Yugoslav border, where most of the orders were reported, was scribed recently by an Allied observer as "Greece's trouble spot."

Greek Reds Sound Civil War Threat

L. CHARLES

Athens, June 8 (AP)—The Communist party declared in a formal statement today that implementation of the royalist Government's decree imposing death penalties for actions against the state could lead "only to civil war."

In a similar statement, the Leftist-dominated General Confederation of Labor called the decree "a revival of fascism" and added that "the Government is unloosing an open Fascist attack against the workers."

The Ministry of Public Order, meanwhile, said roaming bands of Communists had created a desperate situation in western Macedonia. The statement said twelve Communists were arrested last night in Athens and charged with planning to re-establish the outlawed police force of the Communist KKE and the Leftist EAM (National Liberation Front).

The Ministry issued figures showing that 198 persons, including 17 gendarmes and three soldiers, had been killed in armed attacks since April 1. In the same period, the statement charged, fourteen gendarmerie stations were attacked and three were set afire by Communists.

Romanian Liberal Assails Reply to Anglo-U.S. Notes

Says Cabinet Didn't Consider Answer About Elections

BUCHAREST, Romania, June 8 (AP).—Mihai Romniceanu, Liberal member of the Romanian Cabinet, said last night that his party was unable to recognize the validity of the government's replies to American and British protest notes in connection with the holding of free elections in the country.

Mr. Romniceanu said the Romanian government's replies had not been considered beforehand by a full Cabinet meeting, and the first knowledge he had of them was when they appeared in the press yesterday together with the Anglo-American notes.

The American-British notes protested that Romania had failed to give satisfactory assurances of its intention to hold free elections. Publication of the notes came twelve days after their delivery.

[At Washington, Friday, the State Department said Romania had informed the United States it was anxious to hold national elections and had already published a draft law providing for balloting. The department said the Romanian reply was unsatisfactory.]

BELGRADE DENIES MOBILIZATION CALL

Belgrade, June 8 (A. P.).—Foreign press reports of a general mobilization of Yugoslav troops have been denied by the Government.

An official statement yesterday in the Government bulletin Tanjug said that the reports were "published in close connection with the coming conference of the Big Four to impede the formation of agreement and avert a just decision on claims of Yugoslavia (to Trieste)."

["Reliable sources" in Rome were quoted June 4 by the London Daily Mail's Rome correspondent as saying that Belgrade newspapers had carried an announcement of general mobilization.]

The Belgrade press published notices recently calling for registration of all officer groups but qualified observers said this registration does not constitute mobilization.

Rain Ends Peril Of Drought for Russian Wheat

R. JAMES

Soviet Regime Prepares to Halt Bread Rationing, Open New Food Stores

MOSCOW, June 8 (AP).—Heavy rains during the last five days have broken the drought that threatened harvests throughout the great wheat producing areas of the southern Ukraine and northern Caucasus, and in the vicinity of Moldavia, Romania, the Soviet news agency, Tass, said today.

Ukranian officials, and members of a United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration mission to the Ukraine had said that continuation of the drought would have brought disaster to the wheat, on which millions of Russians depend for their daily bread.

Meantime, an article in the Soviet government organ, "Izvestia," said that "in preparation for the liquidation of the rationing system in bread, flour, meal and macaroni" thousands of new food stores had been ordered made ready for opening by September. A total of 1,500 such shops must be ready for opening in the Ukraine and 400 in Byelo-Russia, the article declared.

The new five-year plan provides for an end to rationing of all types before 1950, and at the last session of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) it was announced that the government hoped the end of bread rationing would be attained this autumn.

Foreign correspondents who visited Kiev last week were told there that rain would change the situation entirely in regard to spring wheat, probably resulting in a near bumper crop.

The winter wheat crop, which is now nearing the harvest stage, probably also will be affected favorably, but not enough to increase the yield to any great extent. During ordinary years the winter wheat crop is more important than the spring crop.

Soviet Agronomist T. D. Lysenko forecast an exceptionally big potato crop this autumn if farmers in southern regions of Russia cultivate their fields properly. He said he based his belief on predictions of unusually heavy rains in the south during July and August.

Tass Hears Chinese Use Jap Troops

Moscow, June 8 (AP)—A Tass dispatch from Shanghai, dated June 5, said today it had been learned from reliable sources that the Chinese Government was using armed Japanese units to fight Communist troops.

The dispatch also said former Japanese scouts were working for the Chinese secret police and the Chinese intelligence service.

The Soviet news agency added the report that "some officials of the Japanese secret police serve various American agencies in China."

Troops In Field

Tass said more than 4,000 armed Japanese troops were reported operating under their own officers but under Chinese over-all command near Tsincheng and 10,000 others around Taiyuan.

"A considerable portion of Japanese troops, who, prior to the Japanese surrender, were in Shantung province and the Tsitntsien area, were included in the Chinese Army," the dispatch continued.

"The same thing took place in Hupeh province. A large number of Japanese are among the troops of Gen. Yen Hsishan and some of his regiments consist of two battalions of Chinese and one battalion of Japanese, while there are Japanese instructors in battalions consisting of Chinese.

"Several Japanese are injected into each element of Yen Hsishan's 1st Mounted Army and a number of Japanese officers are occupied in commanding posts."

New Food Shops Ordered

MOSCOW, June 8 (AP)—An article in Izvestia said today that "In preparation for the liquidation of the rationing system in bread, flour, meal and macaroni," thousands of new food stores had been ordered made ready for opening by September.

Fifteen hundred such shops must be ready for opening in the Ukraine and 400 in White Russia, the article declared.

The new five-year plan provides for an end of rationing of all types before 1950. At the last session of the Supreme Soviet it was announced that the Government hoped the end of bread rationing would be attained this fall.

Moslem Rioters Hurl Grenades In Alexandria

9 Wounded in Anti-British Demonstration; Premier Forbids General Strike

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, June 8 (AP).—Nine persons were wounded by hand grenades as anti-British rioting flared in Alexandria tonight for the second time in twenty-four hours, bringing the day's casualty toll to one dead and nineteen wounded.

A demonstration here, coinciding with London's Victory Day celebration, was arranged by the Moslem Brotherhood to dramatize Egypt's protest over the delay in the evacuation of British troops from the country.

Egyptian soldiers and police attempted to disperse the demonstrators. Grenades were thrown from the crowd, injuring eight Egyptian soldiers and a civilian.

Two grenade explosions last night injured four British soldiers and seven Egyptians, but the government suppressed a general strike called for today to protest the evacuation delay.

The four British soldiers were hurt when a hand grenade was tossed at them outside the Mustapha Kemal barracks about midnight. An explosion of grenades found in a basket behind the British barracks at Ramleh wounded the Egyptians. Two other British soldiers were beaten, the Army said.

Two small demonstrations broke out in Alexandria during the morning, but Premier Ismail Sidky Pasha invoked firm measures against the strike called by labor unions, the Moslem Brotherhood and the Wafdist (Nationalist) Youth Organization.

The Premier, who has banned demonstrations during negotiations with Britain for revision of the 1936 treaty of alliance, acted yesterday to prevent the strike called to coincide with Britain's celebration of Victory Day.

One union leader said labor leaders were taken by police to the Alexandria governorate late last night and threatened with jail unless they agreed to work and to urge workers to stay on their jobs. He said Sidky Pasha told foremen of factories, streetcars and buses to discharge any employee failing to report for work this morning.

Blasts Injure 11 On Strike Eve In Egypt

Alexandria, Egypt, June 8 (AP)—Eleven persons, including four British soldiers and seven Egyptians, were injured in two explosions here last night on the eve of the date set for an anti-British general strike.

The soldiers were injured when a missile believed to have been a grenade was thrown at them just outside Mustapha Kamel Barracks about midnight.

The Egyptians were hurt in the explosion of grenades found in a basket behind the British barracks at Ramleh.

British headquarters said two British soldiers were beaten in the disturbances, which developed after the Government had banned the strike.

Reserves Patrol Streets

Despite the strike call, which was issued by the Alexandria labor unions, the Moslem Brotherhood and the Wafdist (Nationalist) Youth in protest against the presence of British troops in Egypt, shops remained open and there was no immediate interruption of communications and transport services.

Police reserves and Egyptian Army squads patrolled the streets of Alexandria and Cairo, and other unusual precautions were taken to maintain order.

Many Egyptians Detained

The strike date coincided with a celebration in London commemorating the end of World War II.

Premier Ismail Sidky Pasha banned demonstrations, in a communiqué issued yesterday.

In both Alexandria and Cairo large numbers of Egyptians were detained at police stations. Those taken into custody in Cairo included members of the Wafdist Youth.

A Government spokesman in Alexandria said the situation there this afternoon was "under control."

Labor Leaders Threatened

One union leader in Alexandria said labor leaders were taken by police to the governorate late last night and threatened with jail unless they signed documents agreeing to work and to urge workers to stick to their jobs.

The same source said Sidky Pasha told foremen of factories, streetcars and busses to discharge any employé failing to appear for work.

There were two small demonstrations in the morning. Two civilian cars and a truck were burned in Mohamed Ali Square in the center of Alexandria, and there was a similar disturbance in the Anfoushy district.

Police and Egyptian army and navy units guarded foreign establishments.

Arab Unity Could Clear Palestine, Leader Says

Bludan, Syria, June 8 (AP)—Abdul Rahman Azzam Pasha, Arab League secretary general, said tonight that unity of the Arab world could clear Palestine of "the criminals of humanity—colonizers—wherever and whoever they may be."

Azzam Pasha, opening an extraordinary session of the league to consider the Palestine problem, spoke briefly to 30 top-flight diplomats from eight Arab countries, and then called for an immediate secret meeting.

The session, scheduled to last a week, was expected to declare formally that 40,000,000 Arabs are united in their opposition to application of the British-American report on Palestine which calls for the immediate admission to the Holy Land of 100,000 Jews.

8-Nation Arab Parley Studies Palestine Issue

Bludan, Syria, June 8 (AP)—Top-flight diplomats from eight Arab countries gathered at this mountain resort today to launch a week-long Arab League session which was expected to declare formally that 40,000,000 Arabs are united in their opposition to application of the British-American report on Palestine.

Shukeri Kuwatli, Trans-Jordan Foreign Minister, called the first session to order.

Abdul Rahman Azzam Pasha, of Cairo, League secretary-general, said Palestine was the only subject definitely on the agenda. He added, however, that Arab rulers had asked for a report on other matters now facing the Arab world.

Palestine's delegation here is headed by Jamal Effendi Husseini, chairman of the Arab Higher Committee, and Ahamed Shukairy, director of the Arab office.

IMMIGRANTS ARE DETAINED

Jewish Group Of 470 Taken At Sea Termed Illegal

Haifa, Palestine, June 8 (AP)—After fifteen days at sea in a storm-tossed, single-masted sailing vessel, 470 illegal Jewish immigrants arrived at Haifa Port today under escort of a British destroyer. They were intercepted south of Ascalon and transferred to the motor vessel Haviva Reik.

Badly sunburnt and many in a weakened condition from the rough voyage, the European refugees were herded by armed British soldiers onto a convoy of waiting busses and taken to Athlit Detention Camp, where they may be released later and charged against future Palestine immigration quotas.

Ten Expectant Mothers

There were ten expectant mothers among the passengers, most of whom were Greek. Some were from Hungary, Romania and Poland.

Bernadut Alberto, spokesman for the refugees, said he could not divulge where the ship started from or where the group was organized because "there will be plenty more coming the same way." He added that "until something is done about getting refugees from Europe there will be illegal immigrants."

Alberto said the vessel first was sighted by an airplane and then soon after by a British warship "tried to stop us."

"We went on and did not pay any attention," he continued. "They were shooting at us with rifles from the deck."

Picked to Form Siam Cabinet

BANGKOK, Siam, June 7 (Delayed) (AP).—The Siamese Parliament today chose former Premier Nai Pridi Phanomyong to form a cabinet again and submitted his nomination to King Ananda Mahidol for a formal appointment. The new government is expected to be much the same as the one which resigned a week ago, along with Pridi, in compliance with the constitution, following the convening of Parliament.

Jewish Immigrant Ship Intercepted

Jerusalem, June 8 (AP)—The 100-ton motor vessel Haviva Reik, with more than 400 illegal Jewish immigrants on board, is en route to Haifa under escort of a British warship after being intercepted southeast of Ascalon.

A British communiqué said the passengers were to be transferred to Athlit staging camp, where they may be later released and charged against future Palestine immigration quotas. A similar policy was adopted when another ship with nearly 1,800 illegal immigrants was intercepted last month. Passengers were held two weeks and then turned over to the Jewish agency for distribution to settlements and cities.

The Haviva Reik was reported to have been flying the Egyptian flag but to have sailed from either an Italian or a Balkan port.

3 China Parties Ask Red Truce Be Prolonged

Minorities Urge Political as Well as Military Peace; Communst Talks Continue

NANKING, June 8 (AP).—Chinese minority parties sought today to prolong the Manchurian truce with the Communists, but the government army commander in Manchuria said he expected to resume his advance when the armistice ends at noon June 22.

The Democratic League, the Youth party and the Non-partisans, three minority political groups, prepared to meet with the special American envoy, General George C. Marshall, and urge that any peace settlement include political as well as military issues.

The fifteen-day truce which Marshall arranged to take effect yesterday was designed to give time for a permanent agreement to end the civil warfare between the Communists and the government in Manchuria.

"To separate political from military questions is a risky business," declared Dr. Lo Lung-chi, spokesman of the Democratic League. "We want to make these fifteen days a success and, if necessary, prolong the period (of the truce) to make peace solid and permanent."

Negotiations between the government and Communist factions were at a standstill while Communist leaders talked things over among themselves at Yenan, their isolated headquarters city. There was speculation that Marshall himself might fly there if need be.

Dispatches from Mukden quoted General Tu Li-ming, government commander for Manchuria, as declaring that his armies had obeyed orders and halted their advance at noon yesterday at a point thirty miles southwest of Harbin, Communist-held North Manchurian city. Tu asserted, however, that he expected to complete the occupation of Manchuria for the government after the truce.

General Chou En-lai, chief Communist negotiator and member of the three-member truce commission, flew to Yenan to present Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's stipulations to Mao Tze-tung, the leading Communist, and the Communist party's all-powerful political bureau.

Chou and his staff went in Marshall's personal plane, and there was some speculation that Chou might have taken with him a general plan for permanent cessation of hostilities throughout China.

Manchurian Drive Halted By Truce

Nanking, June 8 (AP)—Government armies in Manchuria were reported to have halted today under an uneasy armistice, but in Mukden the Government commander said he expected to complete the occupation of that civil-war battleground after conclusion of the present fifteen-day truce.

Upon the truce, which went into effect yesterday noon, distressed China pinned her hopes for an ultimate end of the internal conflict between the Government and the Communists.

At party headquarters in Yenan, Communist hierarchy discussed the problems which Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek stipulated would have to be settled before the end of the truce period at noon, June 22.

Gen. Tu's Report

The assertion that he expected completion of the Manchurian occupation after the truce, was made by Gen Tu Li-ming, commander of Government forces in Manchuria.

He said his troops had halted 30 miles south of Harbin, under order to remain at their stations. [A dispatch from Peiping placed the Nationalists at a point 85 miles south of Harbin.]

Tu said the most northerly point reached was Hsuangshan (Shwangchen) on the Changchun railroad.

Minor-Party Views

Minor-party leaders who late today will meet with General Marshall, United States envoy, said they would tell him that political as well as military questions should be settled durng the truce. They represent the Democratic League, the Youth party and nonpartisans.

Lo Lung-chi, spokesman for the Democratic League, said: "To separate the political from the military question is a risky business. We want to make these fifteen days a success and if necessary prolong the (truce) period to make peace solid and permanent."

The Chinese Central News Agency reported Government troops on Tuesday captured Tahsihchiao, 20 miles east of the south Manchurian port of Yingkow.

Chou In Yenan

Gen. Chou En-lai, chief Communist negotiator and member of the three-member truce commission, flew to Yenan to present Chiang's stipulations to Mao Tze-tung, No. 1 Communist, and the Communist party's all-powerful Political Bureau.

Chou and his staff went in the personal plane of Marshall, who is also a member of the truce committee.

There was some speculation that Chou might have taken with him a general plan for permanent cessation of hostilities throughout China.

Guesses At Future

When he returns from Yenan he is expected to present a detailed plan for study by Marshall and the Government's member of the truce committee.

In the event of a deadlock using up several of the truce days, it was held possible that Marshall himself, in the role of arbiter, might fly to Yenan.

General Tu's announcement of the halt in the Government's advance was the first disclosure as to the effect of Chiang's cease-fire order.

Sees His Torturers Sentenced

SHANGHAI, June 8 (AP).—An American pilot who was tortured by his Japanese captors after his B-25 crashed in Formosa in May, 1945, was in court here today when four of them were to be sentenced. Captain Yoshio Nakano was given life, two lance corporals thirty years each and a superior private twenty-five years, all at hard labor. The American, Lieutenant Ted U. Mukden, June 8 (AP)—Members of the United States Reparations Commission arrived here yesterday after completing extensive investigations of industrial plants in northern Korea.

The mission's chief, Edwin W. Pauley, remained at Seoul, where he is recovering from an illness. He is expected to arrive next week in Mukden, where his staff is investigating industrial plants.

JAPS IN CENTER, M'ARTHUR SAYS

Want Neither Revolution Nor Reaction, General Reports

Tokyo, Sunday, June 9 (AP)—Japan wants neither revolution nor reaction, General MacArthur said today, and Korea, although expecting eventual independence, is interested at the moment only in food.

The supreme commander in his monthly summary of the Allied occupation of Japan and the American Military Government of Korea reported:

"The present temper of the Japanese electorate does not favor extremes either of the right or of the left."

Koreans, "pessimistic" toward the outcome of now deadlocked United States-Soviet negotiations to set up a Korean government, nevertheless remained quiet because their primary interest is "in their own immediate food problems."

AMG In Korea Altered

MacArthur noted that several major changes have been made in the American Military Government in southern Korea "to extend greater responsibility to Koreans." Russia controls the north half of the country.

Reviewing progress in Japan, the Allied commander emphasized that neither the Government nor the Allied forces interfered with the April election. For the first time in decades the people [illegible] vote as they pleased, and [illegible]ose "a wide central course."

He noted a cont[illegible]'good" attitude toward occ[illegible]roops and said Japan has t[illegible] first step on the road tow[illegible]utual [illegible]

[illegible]creation of a responsible government.

"Japanese politics is still in a state of flux. The multiplicity of parties and candidates reflects confusion of a transitional period. During the war all political activity was strictly regimented by the Government.

'Political Pot Boiling'

"Now the lid is off and the political pot is boiling furiously. Issues which will dominate the Japanese political life in coming years have not yet been clearly defined, nor have party lines been finally drawn."

Of this, however, MacArthur was certain:

Checks on Japan's political evolution by the repressive military-economic clique have been largely removed. Japan no longer is a "police state."

"The military has disappeared as a political force. As a result of the purge directive of January 4, persons with militaristic or ultra-nationalistic records have been eliminated largely from public office and political life and are ineligible for Diet membership."

MacArtuhr said that in view of the magnitude and speed of the Japanese demobilization there were not many groups which would "seek to perpetuate their (military) profession."

Incidence Of Crime Low

The report found little or no indication of any "substantial" Japanese efforts to oppose occupation.

"Rare instances of minor subversive planning have been rooted out—more probably will be found—but they are infinitesimal. There have been only minor incidents of definite assault on occupational personnel.

"Crime incidence in general on the part of the Japanese is probably lower than in any country in the world."

The report cited some civil unrest in Japan, as in Korea, stemming from the food scarcity and commodity shortages.

The picture was brighter on the Japanese economic front.

Wages and the cost of living remained relatively stable in Japan, but MacArthur said studies indicated that despite continual adjustments "the current earnings of the average worker are less than half of his monthly expenditures."

Employment clung to its high level.

Famed British Regimen Assigned To Tokyo Duty

Tokyo, June 8 (AP)—The Second Battalion of the British Dorset Regiment—which in the past occupied New York city and Paris—arrives tomorrow for guard duty in the Toyko area.

The battalion will relieve Australian troops in sentry posts around the Imperial Palace. It has been stationed at the Japanese naval base at Camen on Shikoku.

In the American Revolutionary War the regiment occupied New York city. It took over Paris upon Napoleon's fall and fought in France and Burma in the last war.

Maj. Gen. Almond Appointed

TOKYO, June 8 (AP).—Major General Edward M. Almond today was made assistant chief of staff in General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters. He succeeds Brigadier General M. J. Gunner who returned to the United States for retirement.

Peron Reported Asked For New Wheat Gift

Buenos Aires, June 8 (AP)—Reports circulated in Buenos Aires today that Herbert Hoover had asked President Juan D. Perón during an hour-long talk yesterday to duplicate Argentina's original 150,000-ton wheat contribution to the UNRRA.

There was no official announcement, but the conversation between the new Argentine President and the former American President, now on a special food mission for President Truman, was described as cordial and co-operative.

Atom Jet Missile Planned For Use as Depth Charge

Blandy Sees Need for Speed in Getting Charge Far Down

BIKINI, June 8 (AP).—Atomic depth charges may take the form of underwater jet-propelled missiles or traveling mines.

Vice Admiral W. P. Blandy, in charge of the Bikini atomic tests, suggested this today in discussing problems involved in setting off atom blasts at super depths under swift-moving ships.

The first atom bomb test, an aerial drop, is scheduled in July and the second, an explosion just below the surface, a few weeks later.

Admiral Blandy said there would be ample time to get a bomb down thousansd of feet in the water for the third test, early next year, but that under combat conditions a means must be found of submerging the charge quickly instead of allowing for natural slow sinking through the sea. He was confident a way would be found.

"I have seen so many difficulties overcome in the war," he explained.

Army Ousts 22 In Censorship Fight on Paper

'Daily Pacifican' Editor Says Action Means End of 'Honest Journalism'

Manila, June 8 (A. P.).—Twenty-two staff members of the Daily Pacifican, Army newspaper, were ousted today and assigned to line duty after a dispute in which they charged that they were censored in handling news. The development drew these contrasting viewpoints:

Major-Gen. J. G. Christiansen, deputy commander of Army forces, Western Pacific, said that the ousted staff members, by their statements, made it evident they could not accomplish their mission prescribed by the War Department.

Lieut. George Cornell of Oklahoma City, officer who was in charge of the newspaper, said that "this is the beginning of the end of honest Army journalism." Cornell said the twenty-two were assigned to the Eighty-sixth Division.

The ousted men appealed for a congressional investigation. When they reported for duty this morning, they were told to return to barracks and await orders.

Cornell quoted Brig.-Gen. E. J. McGaw as saying, "They'll make soldiers of all of you at the Eighty-sixth, and that's what you all need."

Lieut. Cornell commented: "No honest newspaper man wants any part of spoon-feeding soldiers with only those ideas the command thinks they should think."

Jap Stragglers Captured

Manila, June 8 (AP)—A United States Army patrol, guided by Moros, captured 112 Japanese stragglers and 50 Japanese civilians on Mindanao Island, army headquarters announced today. Army officers estimated that less than 50 Japanese stragglers remain on Mindanao.

SERVICE MARK SET BY MACKENZIE KING

Ottawa, June 8 (A. P.).—William Lyon Mackenzie King today marked his 6,938th day as Canada's Prime Minister, thus achieving the distinction of having served longer in that post than any other man in Dominion history.

He has held the office one day longer than the previous record holder, Sir John A. MacDonald, whose term ended in 1891. Should he serve until April 29, 1948, he would surpass the empire record for Prime Ministerial service of Sir Robert Walpole of Britain, who served 7,619 days, early in the eighteenth century.

The Prime Minister, now in London for conferences and to attend the empire's victory celebration, suffered only one defeat in his years in public life. He was first elected in December 29, 1921, but was out of office for five and a half years.

U. S. Promises $265,600 for World Aviation

Will Be Largest Contributor to Global Organization; Total Cost Is $1,764,000

MONTREAL, June 8 (AP).—The United States will pay $265,600 toward the cost of operating the Provisional International Civil Aviation Organizattion during the fiscal year beginning July 1, a summary of the budget showed today. The total budget was fixed at $1,764,000.

The United States will be the largest contributor. Great Britain will pay $88,200 less. China, Canada and France are assessed one-third the American total. Others of the forty-six member nations received smaller assessments.

Sir William Hildred, director general of the International Air Transport Association, said regional route and traffic conferences had been scheduled in four parts of the world—a European-South American route conference at Paris July 30; a western traffic conference at Rio de Janeiro Sept. 17; an African conference at Johannesburg Nov. 12, and an Australian conference at Sydney Jan. 14.

ADMITS GIVING SECRET DATA

H. MONTGOMERY

Boyer Says He Let Rose Have Information On Explosive

Montreal, June 8 (AP)—Dr. Raymond Boyer, war scientist accused of conspiring in behalf of Russia with Fred Rose, Communist member of the Canadian Parliament, testified today he had given Rose the names of four out of five materials making up the superexplosive RDX.

A prosecution witness at Rose's trial, Dr. Boyer said he gave "rough proportions" of the materials to Rose at the latter's home. Rose took notes on the back of an envelope "for five or ten minutes," the scientist said.

Gives Reason For Action

He said under cross-examination that it would have been impossible in that time to tell a layman how to make RDX. He said his purpose in giving the information was to "try to influence a Russian technical mission which was in Canada to repeat its request for the RDX process officially."

The scientist said this meeting was in the Spring or Summer of 1944, at a time when both the United States and Britain had been given Canada's RDX secrets, but not Russia.

The Soviets were denied the information officially at the request of the United States, Dr. Boyer said yesterday.

References Denied

Dr. Boyer denied two references to him in documents stolen from the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa which form the backbone of the prosecution case.

One of these was a notation suggestion that Dr. Boyer, under the code name of "professor," had delivered to Soviet agents material on poison gas. The other was a reference indicating that the Soviet agents had obtained information on a secret session of Parliament through Rose and Boyer.

Castle Loot Found in Chicago; Virtually All Now Recovered

Army Colonel and His Wac Captain Bride Held in $1,500,000 Haul—Major and G. I. Sought.

Washington, June 8 (A. P.).—Army investigators announced today that "practically all" the jewels, valued at up to $1,500,000, taken from Kronberg Castle in Germany have now been recovered.

The jewels not previously accounted for were found shortly after 8:30 o'clock last night in a box at the Illinois Central Railway station in Chicago. They had been removed from their settings.

They were found, investigators reported, after interrogation of Jack W. Durant, who is in custody today—along with his bride, Wac Capt. Kathleen B. Nash Durant—held in connection with removal of the jewels from the castle.

Col. Ralph W. Pierce, chief of the Provost Marshal's criminal investigation branch, said that Durant supplied the key. The other jewels and valuables had been found earlier at the Hudson (Wis.) home of Capt. Durant, Army officials said. Pierce said that the jewels recovered in Chicago had presumably been brought back by Durant. They were in a cardboard package wrapped up in white paper.

Pierce, who directed the investigation, said he thought that some of the other valuables had been shipped from Germany in a wooden package by parcel post by Capt. Durant.

Disclosing additional details of the case to reporters at the War Department today, Pierce said that a major and a technical sergeant, whom officials had earlier implicated in the case, have not yet been taken into custody; and that a polygraph, or lie detector, "very definitely" played a part in obtaining confessions from the Durants, who were flown here from Chicago this morning.

Married on May 28.

The Durants were married on May 28 by a Justice of Peace at Chicago. They had obtained a new Hudson automobile. From their marriage until they were apprehended early on Monday morning at the La Salle Hotel in Chicago, they were traced by Army investigators to Hudson, Wis., Minneapolis and St. Paul, and probably visited other places, Pierce stated.

Whether all the jewels and valuables have been recovered will not be deteermined pending a detailed inventory. Pierce said that whether others than the unidentified major and technical sergeant are involved in the case will be "up to the courts to decide."

Pierce and an assistant, Major John D. Salb, came here by plane early today from Chicago to report on the latest developments.

Aside from the jewels, Pierce said, items recovered at Hudson, Wis., included such relics as bound volumes of correspondence of Queen Victoria of England and an autographed book with paintings dating from the year 1611. All had been removed last year from Kronberg Castle, near Frankfurt, the seat of the Royal House of Hesse-Darmstadt, when the 100-room castle was used as a rest house for American Army personnel stationed at Army headquarters at Frankfurt, he said. The valuables recovered at Hudson, Wis., Pierce reported, were "just hidden in the house, a little here and a little there."

Real Life Thriller.

The real-life military thriller had its sardonic note, for it was the same province of Hesse which provided the Hessian mercenaries who fought the American colonists in the revolutionary war—for a fee which brought the rulers of the province some $15,000,000.

The story the department sketched for reporters had all the trappings of exciting fiction. It opens back in 1944 when Allied air raids became so heavy that members of the Royal House of Hesse decided to bury their jewels and treasures in the old family castle at Kronberg, near Frankfurt-on-Main.

The fabulous trove was placed in a lead-lined casket and sealed, then encased in a wooden box. This they buried in a remote subcellar and had a local mason fix the floor afterward. They also took time to hide away about 1,600 bottles of rare vintage wine in the same part of the sub-cellar.

Came April, 1945, and the royal family fled the castle, for the rampaging Third Army of Gen. George S. Patton was sweeping down on Frankfurt. Col. A. C. Miller, representing the Provost Marshal, said that when American troops took over the castle they quickly "liberated" all the wine and then looked for more.

This search led to the discovery of the hidden cache of rare vintage bottles. It was so well hidden, he said, the soldiers suspected other valuables were secreted there, so a systematic search followed and discovery of the jewel casket resulted.

Gives Subjects' Biographies.

Meanwhile today the War Department made public a brief biography of Capt. Durant. This said:

Born at Prescott, Ariz., October 12, 1912, she attended the Immaculate Heart Academy and St. Catherine's College at Pasadena. Later she was assistant secretary - manager of the Phoenix (Ariz.) Country Club.

She joined the Army July 18, 1942, and attended the second class of student officers assigned to the Wac school for personnel administration at Purdue University. Later she was stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., as a lieutenant, in February-March, 1944, and also was stationed at the Holabird Signal Depot, Baltimore.

Records did not show when she went overseas. Two nephews are serving in the army in Germany. She designated as her next of kin a sister, Mrs. Gladys B. Madison of Hollywood, Cal.

Her husband, Col. Durant, was serving as a lawyer in the Department of the Interior in Washington when he was called to active duty in August, 1942, as a captain in the Army Air Forces. He gave as his address 120 Cameron Road, Falls Church, Va., the home of a brother.

Suspect in Crown Jewel Case Fled in Police Chief's Brother's Taxi.

Hudson, Wis., June 8 (A. P.).—Police Chief Donald O'Connell said today that Wac Capt. Kathleen B. Nash Durant fled from her sister's home here through a rear door last Saturday while military police guarded the front of the house, and had been driven unwittingly to temporary freedom by the chief's brother, a Hudson taxicab driver.

The captain, with her husband, Col. J. W. Durant, have been arrested by Army authorities for the alleged theft of $1,500,000 in crown jewels from a German castle where both were stationed after the war.

O'Connell, a former Marine appointed to his post three months ago, declared that Capt. Durant had visited her sister, Mrs. J. C. Lonergan, several times recently. He reported a contingent of Army intelligence personnel arrived in Hudson ten days ago, composed of a WAC lieutenant, an Army sergeant and a private. The group did not come to his office until last Friday, when they told him they were seeking the captain because she was absent without leave, the chief recounted.

More M. P.s Arrive.

Also on Friday, he said, the original trio was reinforced by seven military police who immediately established a watch over the Lonergan dwelling. O'Connell said that this vigilance was maintained until Saturday noon when two officers again came to his office and enlisted the chief's aid.

With them, O'Connell said he entered the residence. Mrs. Lonergan insisted her sister was not there. While they were conferring, the telephone rang and O'Connell was called for by Wendell Peterson, Hudson City attorney, who suggested he would issue a search warrant.

Led by the chief, the party proceeded to Peterson's office for the papers, leaving military policemen to watch the house. It was during this interval that Thomas O'Connell, 21, the chief's cab-driving brother, received a call from the Lonergan home, O'Connell said he learned later.

Wac Captain Gets Away.

The cab driver, unaware of the official proceedings or the hunt for the suspect, picked up a woman he identified as Capt. Durant when she came to the rear door of the Lonergan home, the chief said. The passenger instructed him to drive her twenty miles west to the St. Paul Union Railroad station, a not unusual trip from this city, O'Connell added.

Also living here is Mrs. Durant's 21-year-old daughter, married to Donald Wilcox, a recently returned veteran. They have two children, neighbors said.

Seized WAC's Age 43, Not 34, In-Law Claims

Phoenix, Ariz, June 8 (AP)—Five years ago—before a World War led her to Europe and a centuries-old German castle where the United States Army alleges she took part in theft of $1,500,000 in crown jewels—Mrs. Veronica Kathleen B. Nash Durant, a wife and mother, was living quietly in Phoenix as a resident of nineteen years' standing.

Then, she was married to Kenneth Nash, her childhood sweetheart, of Hudson, Wis. Their son, Burke, now 23, lives at Tuscon, Ariz., and an adopted daughter, now Mrs. Donald Wilcox, is the wife of an automobile mechanic in Hudson.

Ex-Mother-In-Law Says 43

The Nashes were divorced in 1941, said Mrs. Genevieve O'Day, former mother-in-law of the WAC captain.

The Army said Captain Durant —who only recently married the man who is also held in the theft, Col. J. W. Durant, 36—gave her age as 34, but Mrs. O'Day differed on the subject of age.

Her ex-daughter-in-law is 43, Mrs. O'Day said, and she cited her grandson's age to prove it.

A sister of the WAC captain in Los Angeles declined to commit herself on the subject. Said Mrs. Gladys Madison:

"Her age is her own business and nobody else's. She is a woman."

Sister "Terribly Upset"

She added that "I cannot discuss the case. I am terribly upset. I have nothing to say. She is my sister, after all."

Mrs. O'Day said Kenneth Nash helped put his future wife through school in Hudson.

She was a secretary to the transportation officer at Fort Huachuca, Ariz., for a short time before entering the service. She served at Aberdeen and Holabird, Md., before going overseas.

In addition to the Victoria Bible, there were bound volumes of letters by the British Queen dating from 1891 to 1893, a red plush autograph book dating back to 1603 with inscriptions in several languages and small hand paintings, three gold table services and several miniatures.

The diamonds, removed from their original settings and heaped in open paper containers, ranged up to 12 carats in size. Two diamond and ruby bracelets were valued officially at $25,000 or more each.

Granddaughter Of Queen

Princess Margerita of Hesse, from whose Kronberg Castle near Frankfurt the valuables were removed, is a 74-year-old granddaughter of Queen Victoria and a sister of the late Kaiser Wilhelm II.

The first inscription was by an unidentified aunt of Queen Victoria who wrote:

"Presented to my dear niece Victoria as a token of true affection by her affectionate aunt. May you often seek for information in this book of books and holy scriptures and may you always find consolation and peace of mind in them, is the anxious wish and prayer of your aunt who loves you dearly and has your happiness at heart."

Following this was an 1858 inscription from Queen Victoria to her daughter of the same name, who was Britain's Princess Royal when she married the Crown Prince of Prussia in that year.

Bible Once Owned By Victoria Displayed With Hessian Gems

Washington, June 8 (AP)—A Bible once owned and inscribed by Britain's late Queen Victoria was included, along with whole handfuls of diamonds, rubies and other jewels, in the recovered loot of Kronberg Castle displayed today by the War Department.

Guarded by military police, the treasures of the German Hohenzollern House of Hesse were laid out on three tables in the office of Maj. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, bureau of public relations director, for inspection of reporters. The display was opened just after officers had told how the treasure was recovered after question of a colonel and his WAC captain bride.

She was the German Empress in the 100-day reign of her husband, Frederick III, in 1888 and was the mother of Kaiser Wilhelm II of the first World War days. The inscription said:

"This Bible given me by our dear late aunt when I was a child I give to you, my beloved child Victoria, in recollection of the last Sunday we went to church together before you leave your paternal roof and your beloved native land.

"May He who gives us such words of comfort and hope help and protect you and your dear excellent husband for (two words undecipherable) and may you both ever be a blessing to one another and to your country and to your parents and relations. This is the fervent prayer of your devoted mother Victoria January 31, 1858."

Other inscriptions were dated as late as 1894.

Britain, Canada, U.S. Confer Prior To U.N. Atomic Meeting

Washington, June 8 (AP)—Lord Inverchapel, British Ambassador, and Ambassador Lester B. Pearson, of Canada, spent 45 minutes with Secretary Byrnes today discussing plans for the meeting of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission in New York next Friday.

The two men came to the State Department at Byrnes's request. The United States Government is believed to be in the final stages of developing atomic control proposals for submission to the commission at, or soon after, its first meeting.

Pearson said today's talk was concerned with questions of commission organization and procedure. The United States, Britain and Canada jointly developed the atomic bomb. They have been working together on control problems, with the United States taking the lead.

Speed Is Urged

Ordered by the United Nations General Assembly to "proceed with the utmost dispatch," the commission seeks means to channel atomic energy to peaceful ends and eliminate all weapons adaptable to mass destruction.

Bernard M. Baruch, United States representative, will outline the atomic policy of his Government.

Baruch's talk, described by an adviser as one of the most important ever delivered before a United Nations group, was still incomplete today, and the adviser indicated that last-minute consultations would be held with President Truman early next week.

The initial meeting, scheduled for 11 A.M., will be opened by Secretary General Trygve Lie, who will propose Baruch as provisional chairman.

Will Draft Proposals

The commission will draft specific proposals for:

Extending between all nations the exchange of basic scientific information for peaceful ends.

Control of atomic energy to the extent necessary to ensure its use only for peaceful purposes.

The elimination from national armaments of atomic weapons and of all major weapons adaptable to mass destruction.

Effective safeguards by way of inspection and other means to protect complying states against the hazards of violation and evasions.

Twelve nations sit on the commission—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, Egypt, the Netherlands, France, China, Mexico, Poland, Australia, Brazil and Canada. The first eleven are members of the Security Council and Canada was seated because of her hand in the development of atomic energy.

Open To Public

The commission will meet in the chamber used by the Security Council, with sessions open to the public.

Each delegation is allowed four advisers, and Baruch will be supported by John M. Hancock, Ferdinand Eberstadt, Fred Searls, Jr., and Herbert Bayard Swope.

Andrei A. Gromyko, delegate to the Council, will sit for Russia. Other Council delegates on the commission include Sir Alexander Cadogan, of Great Britain; Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, of Australia; Dr. Quo Tai-chi, of China; Alexandre Parodi, of France; Dr. Hafez Afifi Pasha, of Egypt, and Dr. E. N. van Kleffens, of the Netherlands.

Other Delegates

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, of Canada, Navy Captain Alvaro Alberto da Motta Silva, of Brazil; Manual Sandoval Vallarta, of Mexico, and Prof. Stfean Pienhowski, of Poland, complete the list.

The commission will submit its reports and recommendations to the Security Council.

The commission itself will have no power to order controls; any matters having to do with implementation are up to the Council.

Italian Armistice Changes Loom

Washington, June 8 (AP)—Government officials said today they expected the revised Italian armistice, worked out by the Foreign Ministers' Conference at Paris last month, to be signed next week and announced shortly thereafter.

The armistice revision was designed to give a greater degree of authority to the Italian Government. It does away with the Allied commission running Italian affairs and instead substitutes a military agency to look after the affairs of Allied forces remaining in Italy.

Maintain Supply Lines

The continuing purpose of these forces, in the controversial Trieste area, is stated here to be the maintenance of Allied supply lines in to British and American forces in Austria. The armistice revision is understood to do away with the use of Allied forces for occupation of Italy.

The troops which remain in the country will be covered, according to authoritative information, by special agreement between the Italian and the Allied governments.

BACKS MEXICO FOOD PLEA

Marketing Chief Says Country Must Get Minimum Grain Need

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—It is "essential" that the United States recognize the minimum requirements of Mexico for food grains, Le Roy K. Smith, director of the Production and Marketing Administration, told Senator Capper, Republican, of Kansas, today.

In a letter replying to one from the Robinson Milling Company of Salina, Kan., forwarded by Mr. Capper to Secretary Anderson, Mr. Smith said the Mexican wheat harvest had not been completed. Mexico was a "claimant" country, he said, and received an allocation from the combined board, with this nation furnishing a small part of "seriously needed" grains.

"Mexico is in a position to furnish the United States with certain commodities, such as oilseed products, and also with labor, which is particularly important to our sugar beet industry," he stated. "It is therefore essential that this country at least recognize the minimum requirements of Mexico with respect of food grains."

British Loan Called 'An Economic Munich'

Washington, June 8 (AP)—Representative Vursell (R., Ill.), opposing the proposed $3,750,000,000 British loan, describes it as "an economic Munich."

He said advocates declare "we must appease Great Britain if we are not to have economic warfare," but he told the House that the agreement contains no guarantee that empire trade preferences will be abolished.

The wartime lend-lease agreement and the Atlantic Charter, he said, did provide for the elimination of "these trade barriers" but the loan proposal only requires Great Britain to "discuss" their removal.

"I, for one," said Vursell, "do not want to see the American people put in the position of buying fulfillment of Britain's pledges again, especially when we have no assurance that they will be fulfilled."

U.S. Reds Declared Under Russian Control

Washington, June 8 (AP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities claims the Soviet Union supports a Communist movement in this country whose leaders "have openly proclaimed that it advocates revolution and the overthrow of the present government of the United States."

A 73-page report made public last night declared "the United States must fear communism because it is a foreign-controlled movement" publicly committed to "renew class warfare, agitation between the races and in other ways promote revolution in this country."

The committee is keeping an eye on Communist groups, it said. It added that it is also engaged in research "which may disclose" a system of Fascist clubs in the United States.

The committee said some radio commentators are spreading Communist propaganda.

The group criticized the War Department for publishing a pamphlet in 1945—identified only as "Orientation Fact Sheet No. 64"—which the group contended supported communism. It said some organizations are still circulating this document.

Super Atom-Bomb Report Is Denied

Washington, June 8 (AP)—The reason for using in the Bikini atoll tests about the same size atomic bomb as that which devastated Nagasaki is that there is no more powerful one, Rear Admiral F. L. Lowry has informed the Senate Appropriations Committee.

This was revealed today when testimony he gave a subcommittee was made public.

"If we had a better bomb than we dropped in Nagasaki we would use it," Lowry said when asked by Senator Overton (D., La.) if there was any truth to reports this nation possessed an atomic bomb "thousands of times more destructive than the ones we dropped over Japan."

Lowry said he believed it "quite possible" that a much more powerful bomb would be produced in the future.

"There is no doubt," he added, "we will get bigger and better ones, but that is a long way ahead.

"It took $2,000,000,000 to produce a standard bomb of one size. It may take many more billions to set up the machinery and the know-how to make one slightly bigger. That is speculation."

See Price Control Killed

Wagner Joins Three of Senate Committee in Report Against Amended Measure.

Washington, June 8 (A.P.).—Four members of the Senate Banking Committee asserted today that the amended price control extension bill now ready for Senate action "writes the death sentence for effective price, wage and rent stabilization."

Senator Wagner (D.-N. Y.), the committee chairman, was joined by Senators Downey (D.-Cal.), Taylor (D.-Idaho) and Mitchell (D.-Wash.) in a minority report. They declared that the measure "would be as dangerous to the economic safety of this country as the immediate expiration of the existing laws."

Price control expires the end of this month unless Congress renews it. The Banking Committee has completely revised the bill approved by the House. Both versions have been condemned by stabilization officials as dooming effective price control.

The minority report declared:

"The issue before the Congress is clear: Should the Government make a fight to the finish against inflation in the next twelve months or should it surrender unconditionally and intrust the nation now to the operation of untrammeled economic forces?"

The four signers represented less than one-fourth of the nineteen members of the committee. Their report said that some persons sincerely believe that economic controls should be junked, adding:

"In our judgment they heed neither the lessons of experience nor the dictates of economic law; but, however unwise, their position is at least forthright.

SENATE BROADENS EXECUTIVE POWERS OVER BUDGET CUTS

Change in Reorganization Bill Gives President Free Hand in Reducing Funds.

MEASURE ATTACKED

Many Senators Oppose Plan Hiring Aides for Legislative Committees.

WASHINGTON, June 8—(AP) The Senate agreed today to give the President a free hand in cutting appropriations to stay within an annual congressional budget.

Majority Leader Barkley (Ky) got the provision put into the congressional reorganization bill on a voice vote. He protested as "too restrictive" a section in the original bill requiring the President to make a horizontal cut in all appropriations if he finds the gap between government revenues and spending is greater than Congress has approved.

Senators Attack Bill

This was the only major decision reached during a six-hour session in which the whole measure came under attack. Senator Overton (D-La) called it a "nefarious bill" which should never have been considered.

Senator Connally (D-Tex) shouted that "we ourselves are discrediting ourselves by telling the country we are running the Senate in a slipshod way—that we need somebody to come in and tell us what to do."

Connally referred to a provision that each legislative committee should employ four "experts" or professional assistants at $6,000 to $8,000 a year.

Some senators said privately that they thought the bill "as good as dead." It will be the Senate's order of business when work is resumed Monday, but Barkley is anxious to get on to consideration of OPA extension legislation.

Will Seek Delay

The Democratic leader passed the word that after two hours or so of additional debate on the reorganization bill he will move to take up OPA if no vote is in prospect. Laying the reorganization measure aside likely would mean that the Senate never would get back to it in the rush of winding up a session which leaders hope to end in mid-July.

Sponsored by Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis), the bill calls for a general shake-up of the congressional machinery. It would reduce the number of senate committees from 33 to 15 and limit each senator to membership on two committees. Some now are members of eight or 10 and LaFollette argues they cannot possibly find time to attend all meetings.

Would Increase Pay

The measure also would increase congressional pay from $10,000 to $15,000 a year and give each member an $8,000 assistant.

The plan for fiscal control calls for the revenue-raising and appropriations committees to decide early in each session how much revenue is in prospect and how much Congress believes should be spent. If revenues six months later were falling short of estimates, the President would have to trim appropriations accordingly.

Under another section, congressional employes would be placed under a director of personnel. Senator McClellan (D-Ark) hit at that proposal as one which would mean senators were "repudiating our responsibility."

He said that under the existing patronage system senators had been able to find jobs as Capitol elevator operators, for instance, for young men who wished to attend college night classes.

Senator Johnson (D-Colo) got in an amendment which would remove the proposed four committee "experts" from control by the director of personnel. Instead, their hiring and firing would be left to a majority vote by each committee.

PEPPER URGES PARTY COUNCIL

Would "Concentrate In Truly Liberalizing" Democrats

Washington, June 8 (AP)—Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) proposed today the formation of a "national liberal Democratic council to truly liberalize" the Democratic party's policy which he said "even under President Truman is still better than the Republicans."

Joining Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Commerce, in opposing any third-party move at this time, the Florida Senator said he thinks liberals should organize within the Democratic fold and seek to swing that group's program firmly to the left.

While Wallace asserted the record is clear that "the Democratic party is the progressive party; the Republican party is the party of reaction," Pepper indicated he is far from satisfied with recent trends.

"Although Not As Much Better"

"When you take the whole record of both parties, we are the liberal group," he said. "Even under President Truman, the record of the Democratic party is still better than that of the Republican party, although not as much better as it was under President Roosevelt."

Pepper recently led the fight against President Truman's emergency labor-disputes legislation. He split with the White House earlier over Mr. Truman's appointment of Edwin W. Pauley as Under Secretary of the Navy, a nomination later withdrawn.

Third-Party Ideas Opposed

In recent speculation both he and Wallace have been mentioned as possible standard bearers if a New Deal group should break away from the parent party organization.

But, like Wallace, who opposed a third-party move in an article written for the June issue of The Democrat, official organ of the party's national committee, Pepper said he believes it would be "a waste of energy" to start an independent movement outside organization ranks.

"What the liberals should do for the time being," he said, "is to take the best man and the best party presently available to choose from, even if there is only a degree of difference.

"Truly Liberalizing"

"Then we should all concentrate in truly liberalizing the Democratic party. That fight should be carried on for all we are worth, especially in the South. I think we can make the Democratic party the progressive and liberal party."

Pepper said he had in mind the establishment of a council which would pull all of what he called liberal organizations together so they can fight as a unit. He said a step had been taken in that direction when the CIO Political Action Committee, the National Citizens Political Action Committee and the Independent Citizens Committee of the Arts, Sciences and Professions agreed last month to co-operate.

"Concentrated Front" Asked

But he insisted that co-ordination of activities must be obtained on a wider front.

"We had 40 liberal organizations in here working for the minimum wage bill," he observed. "They all had the same objective in mind, but they represented no concentrated front.

"If we can get all of the liberal groups to unite in a council we can make our weight felt on legislation and national policy. Let this be the way of building up the Democratic party into a truly liberal party."

BREAD PRICE RISE DUE

Washington, June 8 (A. P.).—The OPA is planning to make effective next week a price increase of one cent a loaf for bread, an official of the agency said today. This official, who withheld the use of his name, reiterated a statement made a month ago that the forthcoming increase would apply to all kinds of bread except rye, which recently was raised a cent. He said that the price of bread-type rolls would be advanced proportionately.

Few Low-Cost Houses Left, U.S. Says

Washington, June 8 (AP) — The Home Loan Bank Administration declared today that inflation since 1940 "has all but eliminated low-cost homes from the present market."

It made public the results of a check of newspaper advertisements of houses for sale in six metropolitan areas, which showed that offerings for $6,000 or less had declined as much as 81 per cent.

The six areas, the percentage of low-cost offerings in 1940 and the percentage in 1946 were given as: Detroit, 84 and 30; Los Angeles 83 and 2; Kansas City, 89 and 46; San Francisco, 82 and 9; Seattle, 98 and 27; Washington, 47 and 9.

Warning Sounded

William H. Husband, general manager of the Federal Savings and Loan Corporation, commented:

"Granted that costs of building have advanced and that materials bottlenecks have greatly affected the efficiency of construction, nevertheless, in the interest of preserving a strong national economy, it is not safe to overlook the continued needs for the small-home buyer who must be provided a home within his means.

"Lengthened periods of repayment do provide a compromise by lowering the monthly payment but rising prices will inevitably lift the monthly cost above the reach of most wage and salary earners—only to be followed by a collapse of the valuation structure and the familiar day of reckoning."

"Let Buyer Beware"

Under the circumstances, he added, "the expression 'Let the buyer beware' is not at all funny."

In another report the Veterans Administration reported that 60 per cent of a sample 3,000 married ex-soldiers were still looking vainly for homes or apartments three and four months after they were discharged.

In the meanwhile, they either were living doubled up with relatives or friends, in rooming and boarding houses or in other overcrowded quarters, the survey showed.

The Veterans Administration went after the information at the request of the National Housing Agency. The ex-soldiers all were enlisted men discharged last September at eight army and navy separation centers in northeast and north central states.

Price Held Too High

The Administration's report said many of those who were lucky enough to find suitable separate living quarters had to pay more than they thought they could afford. When questioned at the separation centers, only eight per cent were prepared to pay more than $50 a month, but the survey disclosed sixteen per cent were forced to go above that figure.

At the other end of the scale, 42 per cent said they needed housing at $30 a month or less. Only 25 per cent were able to get it.

As a result of these findings the Census Bureau will make a national survey during the next two months.

60 P. C. OF VETS CAN'T FIND HOMES

Washington, June 8 (A. P.).—The Veterans Administration reported today that 60 per cent of a sample 3,000 married ex-soldiers were still looking vainly for homes or apartments three and four months after they were discharged. In the meanwhile, they either were living doubled up with relatives or friends, in rooming and boarding houses, or in other overcrowded and poorly repaired quarters, the survey showed.

The Veterans Administration sought the information at the request of the national housing agency. The report said that many of those who were lucky enough to find suitable, separate living quarters had to pay more than they thought they could afford. When questioned at the separation centers, only 8 per cent were prepared to pay more than $50 a month, but the survey disclosed 16 per cent were forced to go above that figure. As a result of these findings the Census Bureau will make a national survey for the housing agency during the next two months.

G. I. TERMINAL PAY FACES HOUSE DELAY

Washington, June 8 (A. P.).—The House kept millions of ex-G. I.'s on tenterhooks today by postponing final action on the furlough pay bill until next week. The lawmakers hastened to assure veterans, however, that this did not reflect on the bill's chances for passage. On the contrary, they expect it to whip through perhaps unanimously when a vote comes next Tuesday.

The reason for delay is that a lot of members are out of town and when the roll is called up yonder on Capitol Hill they want to be present and recorded in favor of the bill.

No voices were raised against the measure in several hours of one-sided debate yesterday, but it developed that only half of the members were present, so the legislation was put over until next week. The bill provides for cash payments to enlisted personnel for furlough time they did not receive while in service.

Ex-Officer Defended

Reinstatement Sought for Navy Man Accused in Slapping Case

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Reinstatement of Malcolm K. Burke to Navy rank from which he was dismissed for allegedly slapping a woman, would be authorized under a bill now before President Truman. The Navy Department gave Burke's home address as Stamford, Conn.

Burke, then a lieutenant (j. g.), was dismissed by the Navy on Aug. 16, 1944, after a court-martial conviction on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer, conduct to the prejudice of good order and discipline, and drunkenness. He was accused of wearing an enlisted man's uniform in a cocktail lounge of San Francisco's Mark Hopkins Hotel, and with having slapped a girl, Betty Rose, when she refused to attend a party with him.

Two Navy officers testified Burke had been a good and useful officer. Other officers testified that he showed no signs of drunkenness at the time of the incident. A recommendation for clemency was made by all members of the court, in view of his good record.

NAVY FOOD TO AID EUROPE

Half of Surplus Supplies in Hawaii Will Be Transferred

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—More than half of 15,500 tons of Navy surplus food in Hawaii will be transferred to Europe for relief, Oscar L. Chapman, Acting Secretary of the Interior, said today.

The food was purchased by UNRRA for about 65 per cent of the $4,300,000 it cost the Government. It includes milk, mackerel, corned beef hash and prepared Navy rations.

The Government reserved for Territory needs a stock of food which cost about $2,100,000 and includes types "preferred by Americans."

Food and clothing valued at $1,500,000 also is being transferred from Alaska to relief organizations in Korea, Indo-China, India and Europe.

More Army Surplus Urged

Washington, June 8 (AP)—Senator Butler (R., Neb.) suggests that nearly 300,000 army vehicles could be declared surplus and sold if Congress established a ratio of four vehicles per 100 men in the army. He added that the army now has five times as many vehicles per man as in the prewar period.

3 ARMY TASK FORCES TO TEST ARCTIC ROUTE

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—The Army underscored its interest in the Arctic short route between Europe and America today with an announcement that special task forces will make new tests in Alaska and the Aleutians this winter of tactics, weapons and equipment for sub-zero weather.

Some 4,500 ground troops, who will begin assembling next month, will test tanks, self-propelled guns, radar, clothing and other items of military gear "under all possible winter combat conditions."

The Air Forces disclosed earlier that a squadron of converted B-29 long range bombers had been assigned to Alaska to make frequent weather flights over the Arctic, termed by ranking military men the world's most strategic stretch of geography in an age of atom bombs and 10,000-mile planes.

Task Force "Frigid," one of the ground force units, will operate seven months from Oct. 1 until next April 30 from Fairbanks, Alaska, where temperatures as low as 66 below zero have been recorded. "Williwaw" force will base at Adak in the Aleutians where fogs are frequent and freakish storms blow.

A third task force, "Frost," will test equipment under more temperate climate conditions at Camp McCoy, Wis., where it will assemble in July.

Task Force "Frigid," along with men of "Williwaw" will assemble soon at Fort Ord, Calif., for special training.

BRITISH BOMBERS WILL COME TO U. S.

WASHINGTON, June 8—(AP) Eighteen planes of a British Royal Air Force bomber squadron arriving next month will cross the continent on a good-will flight, the War department announced today.

The squadron, Number 35 of the R. A. F. Bomber command, will take part in the celebration of Army Air Forces day at Los Angeles August 1, by invitation of the War department.

The itinerary calls for arrival of an advance party July 3 at Mitchel field, N. Y., and for the remainder to arrive July 17 in 16 Lancasters and one York bomber.

Group Capt. R. C. M. Collard, station commander at Graveley, Huntingdon, England, is in charge of "Project Good-Will," with wing Commander A. J. L. Craig, commanding the squadron. Crews number 40 officers and 176 enlisted men.

WON'T BRING BABIES UNDER SIX MONTHS

Washington, June 8 (A. P.).—The War Department has decided not to carry any more babies less than 6 months old on its ships bringing war brides and children from the European and Mediterranean areas.

It also bans wives more than six months pregnant and will not permit more than 25 per cent loading of any ship with children less than 6 years years old. The decision, announced last night, resulted from a board of inquiry's report on an epidemic among children on the Army transport Zebulon Vance.

Nineteen infants suffering from a form of diarrhea were removed from the ship and six died at Fort Hamilton, N. Y. Three other deaths among infant passengers from the Zebulon Vance were reported elsewhere in the United States.

Delegate To U.N. In D.C. For Parley

Paris, June 8 (AP)—The four-power Deputy Foreign Ministers today agreed on the restitution of all property and rights seized by the Italian Government from United Nations nationals, an authorized French source said. The deputies are preparing for the second Paris meeting of their chiefs, opening next Saturday.

New York, June 8 (AP)—Herschel V. Johnson, United States interim delegate to the United Nations Security Council, has gone to Washington for week-end conferences arranged to define American policy on the controversial issue of Franco Spain.

He was expected to confer with the highest Administration leaders and foreign-policy makers and return here ready for debate, possibly Tuesday, on the Council subcommittee's recommendation for a collective United Nations break with Madrid next September.

Johnson and Sir Alexander Cadogan, the British delegate, won a postponement when debate opened Thursday on the plea that their Governments had not yet assimilated the subcommittee report and wanted more time to draft their policies.

U.S., British Attitude

Both Britain and the United States, on the basis of previous pronouncements, are opposed to the present form of the subcommittee recommendation on the ground that it might backfire.

"It is not a question of objectives but of tactics," the spokesman for one delegation said. "We do want to get rid of Franco but we want to be sure that our action does not have the reverse of the intended effect."

Although Britain was still in the process of shaping a policy on the text of the subcommittee's report of a month's inquiry into Spanish affairs, the British delegation here hoped for some word from London today.

McNeil Arriving

This might come with Hector McNeil, Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, who is arriving by plane to take the place of Philip J. Noel-Baker, Minister of State, in the Economic and Social Council.

British sources were certain that instructions would be received in time for the meeting tentatively scheduled for Tuesday. Council President Alexandre Parodi said it would be postponed again if all the delegations were not ready by then.

Admiral King Urges Energy In Peace Fight

Cleveland, June 8 (AP)—Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, in Cleveland for initiation into the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, said today it is necessary to "wage" peace with "all the energy and efficiency that we used to wage war."

Interviewed before he took his place in the 70th anniversary parade of Al Koran Shrine, of which he will be a member, Admiral King said unification of the Army and Navy should not be regarded as a "merger," but as the integration of all arms of the nation's defense with continuation of the war-created War Production Board, shipping Administration and Selective Service.

Admiral King, a native of Lorain, Ohio, and chief of naval operations, now on duty in the office of the Navy Secretary, obtained permission to be "out of uniform" so he can lay aside his "brass hat" for a Shriner's fez following his initiation tonight into the Shrine, fun loving organization of 32nd degree Masons and Knights Templar.

THE PARTY WILL CONVENE ITS WEEK-LONG 45TH ANNUAL CONFERENCE AT BOURNEMOUTH MONDAY, AND PARTY SEKRETARY MORGAN PHILLIPS HINTED STRONGLY AT A NEWS CONFERENCE THAT AN ANTI-COMMUNIST AMENDMENT TO THE PARTY CONSTITUTION MAY SLIDE THROUGH WITH LITTLE DISSENT.

DEBATE ON THE MOVE WILL BE LED BY HERBERT MORRISON, LABOR FLOOR LEADER IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

THE AMENDMENT WRITTEN BY THE NATIONAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, WOULD BAN LABOR'S ADOPTION OF ANY PARTY "HAVING THEIR OWN PROGRAM, PRINCIPLES AND POLICY FOR DISTINCTIVE AND SEPARATE PROPAGANDA X X X OR OWING ALLEGIANCE TO ANY POLITICAL ORGANIZATION SITUATED ABROAD."

AN APPARENT GRASSROOTS APPROVAL OF THE BRITISH COMMUNIST PARTY'S APPLICATION TO JOIN LABOR'S POLITICAL FEDERATION EXPRESSED ITSELF IN EIGHT CONFERENCE RESOLUTIONS BUT PHILLIPS SAID THAT TWO OF THE STRONGEST ONES HAD BEEN WITHDRAWN AND THAT "OTHERS MAY BE WITHDRAWN BEFORE MONDAY."

THE CHANGE OF HEART FOLLOWED SWIFTLY UPON EXECUTIVE CHAIRMAN HAROLD LASKI'S RECENT CASTIGATION OF BRITISH COMMUNISTS. HE ASSERTED THEY WERE SEEKING TO TURN THE LABOR PARTY "INTO ONE MORE INSTRUMENT OF WORKING-CLASS POWER IN GREAT BRITAIN, NOT OF SUBSERVIENT DEVOTION TO THE DICTATORSHIP OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY IN MOSCOW."

LONDON, JUNE 8-(AP)-THE PURPORTED TERMS OF A THIRD ITALIAN ARMISTICE PUBLISHED IN ROME BY THE NEWSPAPER ITALIA SERA, WERE REGARDED IN LONDON TODAY AS PROBABLY ACCURATE, BUT THE BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE WITHHELD COMMENT.

A SPOKESMAN SAID THAT WHILE A NEW ARMISTICE AGREEMENT HAD BEEN INITIATED AT THE FOUR-POWER CONFERENCE OF FOREIGN MINISTERS IN PARIS LAST MAY AND HAD BEEN SEEN BY THE ITALIAN GOVERNMENT, THE ARMISTICE WAS NOT COMPLETE AND THUS NOT YET IN FORCE.

UNOFFICIAL BUT WELL INFORMED FOREIGN OFFICE SOURCES SAID THE THIRD ARMISTICE PROBABLY WOULD HAVE BEEN SIGNED BEFORE NOW, EXCEPT FOR THE FACT THAT ONE SECTION STILL HAD TO BE AGREED ON. ITALIA SERA SAID THIS INVOLVED NEW FINANCIAL AND ECONOMIC REGULATIONS, WHICH WERE STILL BEING STUDIED IN LONDON AND WASHINGTON.

BAD NAUHEIM, GERMANY, JUNE 7-(AP)-SEVENTEEN AMERICAN SOLDIERS, STAGING A MASS PROTEST AGAINST WHAT THEY CALLED "ARMY INJUSTICES," REFUSED TO TESTIFY TODAY AT THE TRIAL OF A LIEUTENANT CHARGED WITH BRUTALITY TO U.S. SOLDIERS, AND THEREBY FORCED THE PROSECUTION TO WIND UP ITS CASE AGAINST ANOTHER OFFICER.

ONE WITNESS, PFC. PETER CLAIM, 21, OF UNIONTOWN, PA., DECLARED THE LICHFIELD DETENTION CAMP CASE TRIALS "ARE THE BIGGEST FRAME JOB I'VE SEEN IN THE ARMY, AND I WANT JUSTICE."

ANOTHER, AUBREY L.RICHEY, 22, OF BIRMINGHAM, ALA., ASSERTED HE WOULD TESTIFY "ONLY IF THIS CASE GOES TO THE UNITED STATES, WHICH BEYOND DOUBT IS THE ONLY PLACE WHERE JUSTICE WILL BE DONE."

THE SEVENTEEN REFUSED TO TESTIFY AT THE TRIAL OF LT.LEONARD W. ENNIS OF PEEKSKILL, N.Y., CHARGED WITH MISTREATING INMATES OF THE 10TH REPLACEMENT DEPOT GUARDHOUSE AT LICHFIELD, ENG.

ALL 17 HAD REFUSED TO TESTIFY LAST WEEK AT THE COURT MARTIAL OF LT.GRANVILLE CUBAGE OF OKLAHOMA CITY. WHEN IT BECAME EVIDENT THAT NONE OF THEM WOULD TALK AT THE TRIAL OF ENNIS EITHER, THE PROSECUTION WOUND UP ITS CASE AGAINST CUBAGE.

JUN 9 1946

"NO USEFUL PURPOSE CAN BE SERVED IN PROLONGING OUR CASE," SAID CAPT.DAVID M.PROCTOR, JR., OF KANSAS CITY., MO., PROSECUTOR AT CUBAGE'S TRIAL.

THE 17 WITNESSES TODAY REFUSED TO TALK EVEN THOUGH THREATENED WITH MILITARY PUNISHMENT.

SEVERAL OF THE MEN -- EACH OF WHOM DECLARED HE HAD NOT TALKED WITH THE OTHER WITNESSES--CRITICIZED THE $60 FINE IMPOSED ON PFC. WILLIAM B.NORRIS, OF MULGA, OKLA., WHO WAS CONVICTED WEDNESDAY.

PVT.OTTO C.HOLT OF GILMAN, ILL., DECLARED "I'M NOT GOING TO BE BETTER OFF IF I TESTIFY IN THIS TRIAL, AND I'M CERTAINLY NOT GOING TO BE WORSE OFF."

"FROM WHAT I'VE SEEN OF THE ARMY, I'VE NOT SEEN MUCH JUSTICE," HE SAID. "SOMEBODY BEATS ME ON THE HEAD AND GETS A $60 FINE. I GO AWOL (ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE) AND GET 20 YEARS. I DON'T THINK ANOTHER SIX MONTHS WILL HURT ME."

THE TRIALS WERE TRANSFERRED TO BAD NAUHEIM AFTER OPENING IN ENGLAND.

A TOTAL OF 19 SOLDIERS, WHO ARE ARMY PRISONERS, HAVE REFUSED TO SPEAK AGAINST EITHER CUBAGE OR ENNIS. SOME ARE SERVING COURT MARTIAL SENTENCES, OTHERS ARE IN THE BAD NAUHEIM GUARDHOUSE ON CHARGES BROUGHT FOR ALLEGED OFFENSES COMMITTED IN BAD NAUHEIM.

ONE COMPLAINED THAT HE WAS LOCKED UP FOR 10 DAYS WITHOUT BEING TOLD WHAT THE CHARGES WERE AGAINST HIM; ANOTHER THAT HE WAS JAILED WHILE DEFENDANTS IN THE LICHFIELD TRIALS WERE ALLOWED TO "RUN AROUND FREE;" STILL ANOTHER THAT HE WAS TREATED AS "A DANGEROUS CHARACTER."

THE EIGHT-MAN COURT TRIED IN VAIN TO PERSUADE THE MEN TO TESTIFY. THEY WERE ORDERED TO TESTIFY AND, WHEN THEY REFUSED, WERE EXCUSED.

LATER CUBAGE'S DEFENSE COUNSEL, LT.COL.WILLIAM E.PARKER OF EAST HAMPTON, MASS., ASKED FOR A CONTINUANCE IN THAT CASE. HE SAID EIGHT OF CUBAGE'S "MOST VITAL" DEFENSE WITNESSES WERE BELIEVED TO BE IN THE UNITED STATES AND HE HAD BEEN UNABLE TO DETERMINE THEIR WHEREABOUTS.

THE ACTING COURT PRESIDENT, COL.MASTIN G.WHITE OF TYLER, TEX., GRANTED AN ADJOURNMENT UNTIL MONDAY MORNING ON THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT CUBAGE'S ASSISTANT DEFENSE COUNSEL HAD SUDDENLY BEEN ASSIGNED TO A NEW CASE, SCHEDULED TO BEGIN TUESDAY, AND WOULD BE FORCED TO LEAVE CUBAGE'S TRIAL.

PARKER SAID HE NO LONGER WANTED LT.GEN.JOHN C.H.LEE, FORMER COMMANDER OF THE "COMMUNICATION ZONE" WHICH HAD THE LICHFIELD GUARDHOUSE IN ITS COMMAND, AS A WITNESS FOR CUBAGE, BUT DECLARED THAT REPEATED REQUESTS FOR DOCUMENTS NEEDED BY THE DEFENSE HAD NOT YET BEEN MET. LEE NOW IS DEPUTY SUPREME COMMANDER IN THE MEDITERRANEAN THEATER.

KING OF SIAM DIES, CROWN TO BROTHER

A. MACDONALD

Ananda's Death Laid To Accident; Legislature Names Successor

Bangkok, Monday, June 10 (AP)—King Ananda Mahidol, 20-year-old ruler of Siam, was found dead of a bullet wound yesterday in the royal palace, and twelve hours later the Siamese Legislature named his Boston-born brother, Prince Phumiphon Aduldet, 18, as the new King.

The Siamese police director general told an emergency session of the National Legislature last night that the King's death was accidental, and that the bullet went through the center of his forehead.

The young King, whose death occurred on the eve of a projected trip to the United States, had been indisposed for the last two days. He rose at 6 A.M. yetserday and took some medicine. Nothing was known of his actions from that time until his body was found by a servant in the bedroom of the Barompinan Palace about 9 A.M.

Choice Of New King Unanimous

The historic night session of the Legislature unanimously selected Phumiphon Aduldet as the new King, rising together to signalize his election with a chanted "Chu yo, cha yo, cha yo"—the Siamese hurrah.

Phumiphon Aduldet was born in Boston while his father, the late Prince Mahidol, of Songkhla, was studying at Harvard. He was the constant companion of his older brother and attended school with him in Switzerland.

The Legislature also appointed a three-man council of regency to guide the new King in matters of state. Pridi Phanomyong, who was reappointed Premier only three days ago, told the Legislature he would recommend a Premier to the new regency, but legislative sources said there was little doubt that Pridi Phanomyong himself would receive the post.

Nation Stunned By News

The entire nation was stunned by the news of Ananda Mahidol's death. The young King had gained great popularity since his return from Switzerland last December.

[In Bern, Paul Rey, director of the new Swiss school where the King Ananda studied, said the monarch's retinue had been worried before Ananda's departure from Switzerland over the possibility of assassination. The director said he knew no particulars about the matter.

[Asked about reports that the King was depressed because he was unable to marry a girl fellow student, Rey said Ananda had gone with one or two girls but had not had a serious romance. The director said he could not remember the girls' names.]

Ananda, a great fancier of firearms, always kept a weapon near him and often practiced firing in the palace grounds. Several weeks ago a thief stole his favorite Luger automatic and the King was greatly disturbed.

Queen Mother Prostrated

The King's young, attractive mother, Queen Mother Phraratanani Sri Sangwan, was prostrate with grief.

Around the palace great crowds gathered in silent sorrow as the news spread.

Most of Bangkok was unaware of the death of the quiet, studious young ruler until the Government broadcast the news at 7 P.M. Immediately a mournful wail went up from the crowd gathered in the square before the publicity building, near the royal palace.

The youthful King, who ascended the throne eleven years ago, as a boy, had been making plans to leave Bangkok this week for the United States and Europe. He had expected to fly to the United States and remain there about a week before flying to Switzerland, where he planned to resume the studies he interrupted when he returned to his native land last December 5.

Preferred Saxophone To Crown

The Queen Mother and a royal suite of twenty had been expected to accompany him on the trip.

Diffident, bespectacled and boyish, Ananda was often described as a reluctant monarch who found his greatest pleasure in playing his saxophone and driving his American jeep about the palace grounds.

Only a month ago King Ananda signed a new constitution for his country, which provided for a senate and a house of representatives, both elected by the people. On June 1 he opened the first wholly elected Siamese Parliament.

At that time, in accordance with a constitutional requirement, his able, 46-year-old Premier, Nai Pridi Phanomyong, and members of the Cabinet tendered their resignations, continuing to serve in the interim, however, while the Parliament considered selection of the new Premier.

Prajadhipok's Successor

Ananda was proclaimed King March 2, 1935, under a regency, upon the abdication of his uncle, King Prajadhipok, but he spent little time in his own land. Born in Germany September 20, 1925, he had been taken to Siam at the age of 2. He studied there as a child and went to Switzerland in 1933. He was educated in Lausanne and most of his last twelve years were spent in Switzerland, except for a brief visit home in 1938. Prajadhipok died in 1941.

During his minority, a council of the regency ruled Siam, made up of Prince Aditya, a nephew of Prajadhipok; Chao Phya Bijayendra Yodhin, former army general, and Chao Phya Yomaraj, former Minister of the Interior, who died in 1938.

Had No Informal Social Life

Ananda's personal life in Siam was confined largely within the palace walls. He was permitted none of the informal social expeditions which popularized monarchs in the western world.

Ananda's mother, an attractive, youthful-looking woman in her forties, was said to have exerted a strong influence upon the young ruler of 18,000,000 subjects.

The ancient absolute monarchy of Siam, which endured from 1350 to 1932, was overthrown in a bloodless revolution three years before Ananda ascended the throne, but the Siamese revered him with the same extreme veneration they always had accorded their rulers.

Recently Ananda expressed a strong desire to return to Switzerland to resume his education. At the time the elder members of the royal family and the powerful politicians opposed him in this. They wished to import tutors for him, arguing that his presence in the country heightened the morale of the Siamese.

Flying Trip To U.S. Planned

Ananda won out, however. Last Friday the Government announced the King and his royal party would leave on Thursday, June 13, by plane for the United States in an Air Transport Command C-54 plane. They had planned to stop overnight in Honolulu on Friday and to arrive in San Francisco next Saturday. The schedule called for arrival in Washington June 19.

30.24-3217

The King had planned to spend twelve days in Washington and New York, and then to proceed to London and Switzerland. United States diplomatic attachés in Bangkok were to have accompanied him.

Since his return to Siam from Switzerland last December, the young King obediently followed the dictates of pomp and ceremony, and it appeared to have heightened his popularity. The King attended many functions, and always conducted himself strictly as a monarch.

JUN 10 1946

Always Remained Aloof

He would bow formally to his audiences on these occasions, as he made his entrance to the strains of the Siamese national anthem. Where speeches were necessary he delivered them from prepared texts, in a subdued voice.

Generally attended at these functions by his mother and his younger brothers, he remained aloof, watching the proceedings with little show of interest, and would leave the place at the head of a stately procession when the national anthem announced the close of the function.

Siam, which had an absolute ruler for six centuries, became a constitutional monarchy June 24, 1932, in a bloodless revolution led by army officers and Government officials. Three day later Prajadhipok signed a temporary constitution, which was replaced the following December by a permanent constitution.

Infiltration Of Western Ideas

Under that system, the King appointed a state council of ministers composed of a president and from fourteen to 24 other ministers. It provided for a one-house assembly of people's representatives. Under the new constitution approved by Ananda last month, there is a two-house elected legislature.

The change from absolute to constitutional monarchy was attributed generally to the infiltration of western ideas because of the custom of sending royal princes and sons of prominent families to Europe and the United States for their education.

Modern trends were evident in Bangkok even before the war. Hollywood movies, airliners linking the country with Europe, heavy motor-car traffic, well-constructed buildings and flourishing commercial life in the cities were signs of the times for the Siamese.

Siam Faces Critical Period

The King died at a time which may be critical in his country's history. The country has applied for membership in the United Nations, and recently has charged French incursions from Indo-China into Laos and Cambodia in the areas ceded by the Vichy French Government to Siam during the war. The Siamese hoped to present this case to the United Nations Security Council.

Siam was invaded by the Japanese on December 7, 1941, while the young King was in Switzerland. A puppet government in January, 1942, declared war on Britain and the United States, but the Americans considered the declaration to have been made under duress and did not recognize a state of war with Siam.

Last January, both Britain and the United States announced formal recognition of the new Siamese Government.

Siam, ancient name for the country, was resumed officially in September, 1945. From 1939 until 1945 the name of Thailand had been used.

Swedish Envoy Leaves Britain

LONDON, June 9 (AP).—The Swedish Ambassador to Great Britain, Bjorn G. Prytz, and his principal attaches left for Stockholm by plane today. Their departure for a firm alliance, peace in Europe is assured. If not, the worst might happen and the dark horses in Germany might yet achieve their evil dream of world domination.

"The first step is to make clear to Moscow that we can have no truck with the British Communist party. This great British and Socialist movement will not be mucked about."

Irresponsibles "In Dilemma"

Morrison declared his party had gone "as far to the Left as was consistent with sound sense and broad national interest."

"The fact that the Government has been victorious, sensible and well to the Left has put the irresponsibles outside our ranks—who claim to be on the Left but who in truth know not their left from their right—in a dilemma.

"They could only criticize by making themselves foolish or alternatively acquiesce in our policy and appear to be tame."

12 SOLDIERS WILL TESTIFY ON LICHFIELD

Dalton, Morrison And Russia

Bournemouth, England, June 9 (AP)—Hugh Dalton, Chancellor of the Exchequer, pleaded today for a firm British-Russian alliance to assure European peace, but emphasized that the "first step" was to make clear that the Labor party would hold "no truck" with British Communists.

At the same time, Herbert Morrison, lord president of the Council and Labor party leader in Commons, said the Labor party had gone "as far to the Left as was consistent with sound sense and broad national interest."

For "True Understanding"

Both spoke at a preconvention session of a week-long Labor party conference opening here tomorrow.

Dalton asserted "the greatest of our immediate tasks is to achieve a true Anglo-Russian understanding," then added:

"If the British and Russian peoples can march forward side by side

Witnesses Decide To Abandon Strike At Brutality Trial

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 9 (AP)—Twelve of the nineteen soldiers who refused to testify in the Lichfield cruelty trials have abandoned their witness-stand strike because, "We don't want those guys who beat us up to get away with it," Albert Beach, of Fall River, Mass., one of the former holdouts, said today.

The witnesses' refusal to talk stymied for eleven days the prosecution of two officers accused of brutality to United States Army prisoners at the Lichfield (England) detention camp guardhouse.

Most of the others who now have consented to testify when the trials are resumed tomorrow gave explanations similar to Beach's for their sudden switch. They volunteered to go back to court and tell about their experiences at Lichfield after having twice defied threats of military punishment for not testifying.

Confined In Stockade

The striking witnesses, confined in a stockade on various charges, said that they previously had refused to testify in protest against "Army injustices."

The witnesses clustered clamorously around the reporters to voice some of these complaints:

That they were imprisoned—some said "on trumped-up charges"—while the defendants against whom they were asked to testify walked free, "laughing at us."

That the guards convicted of beating them drew short jail terms or $60 fines, while "I go A.W.O.L. and get twenty years."

That "no justice will be done until the trials are moved to the United States."

That they were ill-treated, deprived of cigarettes, radios, newspapers and rations.

Worse Waiting, He Says

"I've been given worse treatment while waiting to testify than I ever got at Lichfield," declared John Ayers, of Rock Hill, S.C.

"But it was not doing us any good to strike," said Robert Cox, of Omaha, Neb. "We decided there was no sense of us getting time in the guardhouse for refusing to testify when nobody gives a damn what we do now anyhow."

Lester Chaves, Vallejocal, one of the witnesses still holding out, shouted: "We will never testify. We will suffer the consequences."

Of the witnesses confined here, nine were being held for trial on charges placed against them since they came to Bad Nauheim. The other witnesses being held were general prisoners serving court martial sentences when they arrived.

AGED MOTHER OF GOEBBELS NEGLECTED

Her Son Never Contributed To Her Support, His Sister Asserts

JUN 10 1946

Moerlach, Germany, June 9 (AP), Hitler's Propaganda Minister, Paul Joseph Goebbels, who painted himself as a devoted family man, rarely saw his aged, widowed mother and never contributed to her support, his sister said today.

Goebbels's mother, Frau Katherine Goebbels, 79; her daughter, Frau Kimmich, and son-in-law, Max Kimmich, and their 18-month-old daughter are living like impoverished peasants in two rooms of a dingy farmhouse 15 miles outside Munich.

Goebbels's Order Ignored

Their whereabouts was disclosed yesterday by Allied Military Government authorities, who said the trio had ignored a final order from Goebbels for all of his relatives to perish in the fall of Berlin.

The aged mother lived under an assumed name until her son-in-law voluntarily revealed their true identities Friday. Trembling and almost incoherent with the weakness of age, Frau Goebbels was stirring a pot of thin potato soup on an open wood fire as she was interviewed.

She was unable to talk about her son or his suicide. The daughter, however, reluctantly revealed a little about their infrequent associations with Joseph, her elder by sixteen years.

Never Helped Support Her

"We did not see Joseph often, although we lived in Berlin, and I know he never gave mother any money or helped support her," she said.

Kimmich said their unwillingness to commit suicide at Goebbels's behest was a "family matter." He implied that they fled Berlin just before its fall so that the Propaganda Minister's order could be evaded.

Military government officials said there was no evidence that any of the trio had been members of the Nazi party.

Sergt. Ichiro Takeuchi, 30, Rivers Arizona.

Private Alfred Nakato, 25, Ontario, Oregon.

Takeuchi and Nakato were in the jeep.

Injured and hospitalized included:

Pfc. Salvator Tardino, Belmont, Mass., driver of the truck, internal injuries.

Pfc. William E. Denny, Cottontown, Tenn., fractured collarbone.

P-80 Jet Fighter Shows Its Speed Over Germany

By The Associated Press.

WIESBADEN, Germany, June 9—The United States Army's jet-propelled P-80 flashed its speed for occupation troops in Germany today with a 219-mile demonstration flight from Bremen to Wiesbaden in 26.8 minutes for an average speed of 502.55 miles an hour.

A Lockheed test pilot, Robert Harlow of Burbank, Calif., and Capt. Jerry S. Stidham of Miles City, Mont., then put the Shooting Star through its paces for several thousand soldiers attending a display of Army Air Forces planes.

Thirty-two of the jet fighters are now in Germany, being tested at Breemen for early assignment to the Fifty-fifth Fighter Group at Giebelstadt, a former German jet-plane base.

Italy Awaits Start Of Republic; Royalists Press Vote Protest

JUN 10 1946

Rome, June 9 (AP)—Italy today awaited imminent official proclamation of the new republic, as monarchists pressed vigorously their charges of irregularities in the plebiscite which ended the rule of the House of Savoy.

The Supreme Court still had not completed its registration of the plebiscite vote, and it was believed the proclamation of the republic could not be made before tomorrow.

The monarchists demanded that the Court examine all claims of irregularities before issuing any proclamation.

Irregularities Charged

They charged that some voters cast more than one ballot and that there were many instances of persons having been deprived of their right to vote because of failure to receive their voting certificates.

A highly placed monarchist, who declined to be quoted by name, told a news conference that King Umberto II was anxious that no doubts should remain in Italy concerning the regularity of the vote, and therefore the Court should weigh all claims of fraud.

He asserted that the Court was under Left-Wing pressure to render a hasty announcement.

The monarchist said, however that regardless of the Court's decision on examination of the claims, King Umberto would abide by the proclamation and leave Italy as soon as it is issued.

Queen Arrives In Portugal

Lisbon, June 9 (AP)—Queen Marie Jose of Italy and her four children debarked in Lisbon today from the cruiser Duke of Abruzzi and were met by representatives of the Portuguese Foreign Office and the Italian Minister to Lisbon.

The exiled royal family will stay at the home of the Duchess of Cadaval in Sintra village.

The dethroned Queen apparently was deeply touched by the cheering of peasants in the historical village of Sintra when she arrived at the home of the Duchess. She immediately went into a private chapel for prayers.

At luncheon she was accompanied by her hostess, the Italian and Belgian ministers — Marquis Rossi Longhi and André Motte — and their wives and Dr. Henrique Viana, head of the Portuguese foreign affairs protocol.

Spain Yields 354 Germans

Group Is Put on U. S. Transport Bound for Bremerhaven

BILBAO, Spain, June 9 (AP).—British and American repatriation officials, aided by United States soldier guards brought from France, loaded 354 Germans rounded up by Spanish authorities on the United States transport Marine Perch which was scheduled to sail tonight for Bremerhaven.

There were no important Nazis in the group. It was reported that probably no more than 125 of the passengers were on the list of 2,200 Germans in Spain whom the Allies have been pressing Generalissimo Francisco Franco's government to repatriate.

MIHAILOVIC GOES ON TRIAL TODAY

JUN 10 1946

23 Others To Face Court With Erstwhile Yugoslav Hero

W. B. KING

Belgrade, June 9 (AP)—Gen. Draja Mihailovic, once hailed as a hero of Yugoslavia for leading his Chetniks in resistance to the Nazi invaders, will go on trial here tomorrow with 23 other defendants charged with collaboration and treason.

The prosecution will attempt to show that rather than being a hero, the Chetnik leader and former War Minister maintained relations with the German occupation commanders and leaders of the Nazi's puppet Government.

American Notes Unanswered

As preparations for the trial went forward, two notes from the United States State Department, asking that American soldiers be permitted to testify for the defense, were unanswered. Foreign Minister Stanoji Simic said that "any further correspondence on this subject would indeed permit interference with our internal affairs." However, testimony of British officers has been forwarded for use at the trial.

[In New York, the committee for a Fair Trial for Mihailovic called on the United States Government to submit the case to the United Nations, and in a letter to the State Department said execution of Mihailovic might "seriously aggravate relations between the western democracies and Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union, which would constitute a danger to the peace of the world."]

The trial, originally set for mid-May, was postponed by the Yugoslav Government. No reason for the postponement was given.

The prosecution will attempt to show a close tieup among the forces under Mihilovic, former Minister of War in King Peter II's government-in-exile; other leaders in Peter's government, and the Yugoslav Government during the Nazi occupation, headed by Premier Field Marshal Milan Nedic.

Few Details Announced

Nedic himself was originally held for trial but committed suicide last January in a seven-story leap at a prison here.

Few details of the trial arrangements have been announced. The local press carried only the initial announcement of the date and a list of the defendants. Foreign correspondents gathering from all over Europe did not receive advance information on the scene of the trial. It was explained that this was a security precaution against a possible demonstration by friends of the defendants.

Later the Tanjug agency announced that the trial would be held in the summer hall of an infantry school in Topcider, a Belgrade suburb. During the trial, the announcement said, streetcar service with Topcider will be increased and bus service will be instituted.

Thorough Coverage Assured

News men were assured, however, of all possible facilities for thorough coverage. It was estimated that approximately 70 correspondents of various nationalities would attend.

Names of defense counsel were not announced, but it was understood they had studied the indictments and prepared their case. It was believed here that the trial would last from three weeks to a month.

The 24 defendants fall almost equally into three categories—Chetniks, members of the former Yugoslav government-in-exile in London, and collaborationists. However, those actually present tomorrow all will be followers of Nedic and Mihailovic. The others will be tried in absentia.

Among Notables Facing Trial

Among those in the dock will be two members of Mihailovic's national committee—Dr. Stevan Mojsic and Djuro Vilovic—and three of his Chetnik unit commanders, Radoslav-Rade Radic, Slavoljub Cranjesic and Milos Glisix.

Two other members of his national committee had been listed as defendants, but escaped from the country. They were Jladen Zulavic, now in Paris, and Dr. Zivko Topalovic, now in Rome.

Members of the former London government listed as defendants include two former premiers, Slobodan Jovanovic and Dr. Bozidar Puric, and a former foreign minister, Dr. Idnciio Mincic.

Fetitch Still In U.S.

Among those to be tried in absentia will be Constantin Fotitch, former Yugoslavia Ambassador to the United States, who resigned his post in July, 1944, and refused to recognize the government of Premier Marshal Tito. Fotitch is still in the United States, where he reportedly has been active in efforts to bring about international intervention at Mihailovic's trial.

Among these defendants, the brothers Radoje Knezevic and Zivan Knezevic, were said to have been the closest advisers of King Peter. Others to be tried in absentia from the London government are Peter Zivkovic and Dr. Milan Gavrilovic.

Nedic's Former Associates

Former associates of Marshal Nedic will be Belgrade City Director Dragomir-Dragi Jovanovic, Interior Minister Tanasije-Tasa Dinic, Education Minister Velibor Jonic, Labor Minister Breuro Dokic, accused of conscripting labor for Germany; Kosta Musicji, commander of the collaborationist "volunteers" and Belgrade Police Inspector Bosko Pavlovic. Several of this group fled the country but were returned to Yugoslavia by Allied authorities as war criminals.

The two other defendants were ministers in the old prewar Yugoslav Government: Dr. Lazare Markovic and Dr. Kista Kumandi.

RUSSIAN TRANSFERS END

Movement of Troops From South Danube Completed

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 9 (AP)—The transfer of Russian troops from the south Danube across Czechoslovakia has been completed, it was announced here today.

The troops, bound for Germany, began moving across the country in May in connection with "the reorganization of Russian occupation forces in Germany."

The main body of Russian troops was withdrawn from Czechoslovakia early this year.

Pravda Answers Bevin

JUN 10 1946

B. JAMES

Moscow, June 9 (AP)—Pravda said today British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's foreign policy speech last week in the House of Commons "in great degree bore the character of psychological preparations for the complete abandonment of the principle of collaboration among the Allied powers."

In the first Russian comment on Bevin's speech, the Communist party newspaper said the British Foreign Secretary gave the appearance of "making a forecast on future early events in Paris."

"Pressure And Threats" Seen

"In reality," said the article by Pravda's foreign observer, "it was a regular attempt to prepare for a breaking away from the established order of the agreed work of the Allies; an attempt to use methods of pressure and threats in relations with the Soviet Union. It seems hardly necessary to point out the untenability and futility of these vicious methods."

Bevin asserted Tuesday in the House of Commons debate on foreign policy that the Soviet attitude with regard to her security during the Foreign Ministers Conference in Paris represented a great obstacle to peace.

[On Wednesday, Prime Minister Attlee declared Russia was ignoring the spirit of the Potsdam agreements, and Conservative Opposition Leader Winston Churchill asserted that "the seeds of a new world war are being sown" in Soviet-influenced areas of eastern Europe.]

"High Sounding Phrases"

Pravda said that although Bevin hotly upheld the British position at Paris, "this did not interfere with his expressing a desire that the Soviet delegation return to Paris ready to accept British-American proposals on concluding the peace treaty with Austria; on the Italo-Yugoslav border; on the former Italian colonies; on Italian reparations; on Danube shipping and so forth."

The article said British diplomats loved to use "high-sounding phrases" and added: "Let us take only the question of shipping and trade on the Danube, with which Bevin in reality began his speech on the Paris negotiations."

The Danube Shipping Question

"It would seem," the article continued, "that this simple, uncomplicated question is crystal clear. The Danube River artery has the greatest meaning for countries situated in the basin of the river. The economic development of these countries, their history and their future are tightly bound up with it.

"Here is why shipping on the Danube is a prime matter to these Danube states themselves. It is quite natural that a non-Danube state cannot and must not dictate the rule of shipping on the Danube according to its own considerations.

"Mr. Bevin affirmed that England is interested only in feeding the people living in the basin of the Danube and in filling their bellies. But really, are not the people of the Danube interested in this no less than Mr. Bevin?"

As To Italian Colonies

Touching on the matter of former Italian colonies, Pravda repeated what Molotov said in his recent statement on the Paris conference, asserting that the real colonial aims of Britain "simply speaking, are for widening British possessions, interests and privileges in northern and northeastern Africa."

The article said it should be noted that "the English Foreign Minister made anti-Soviet attacks in his speech, which were contained in the well-known Fulton (Missouri) speech of Winston Churchill. Bevin did not forego the chance to grab at the infamous formula of a 'curtain' in Europe, and that gave Churchill reason in his speech to pay compliments to the Labor Government on his position regarding 'curtains.'"

Radio Takes Up Issue

The Moscow radio, taking issue with Prime Minister Attlee and Winston Churchill, declared tonight that "no forest of slander and ill will can conceal from millions of people the triumphant Soviet democracy, a true democracy of the people."

The commentator, Mikhail Mikhailov, as heard in London, denounced as "malicious whispers" Churchill's remarks during Commons debate on foreign policy that the Soviet Union was hampered in foreign relations by a "Communist fifth column" in other countries, and Attlee's characterization of the Russians as to some extent being like "people who have been born in a forest."

Declaring that all British and American attempts at "intimidation" of the Soviet Union must fail, the commentator said:

"Even less chance of success have such stories as the one that the Russians live in the backwoods and have never known what liberty is."

Declared "Not Mere Chance"

The commentator declared it was "not mere chance" that the American and British leaders had agreed on "unreal projects for the convocation of international forums without agreed viewpoints on the part of the chief powers."

Presumably referring to the British-American proposals for a 21-nation peace conference in the event the four-power Foreign Ministers Conference remains deadlocked, the commentator said:

"It is not hard to guess that such stillborn projects are prompted by the desire on the one hand to bring pressure to bear upon the Soviet Union so as to force it to bow to the will of other powers, and, on the other hand, to calm the alarmed population of their own countries, which naturally will wonder what will follow if the principle of agreed decisions on international matters is rejected."

Tass Charges U. S. Aid

MOSCOW, June 9 (AP)—A Tass dispatch from Shanghai said today that "information deserving trust" showed that Adm. Charles M. Cooke, commanding the United States Seventh Fleet, last May authorized Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey, commander of the Third Amphibious Force, United States Marines, to render all possible aid to Chinese Government forces in Manchuria.

The dispatch, published in the Government newspapers Izvestia, said that Admiral Cooke gave such authorization at a meeting of American naval and Marine Corps officers toward the end of May.

"In particular," said the dispatch, "Admiral Cooke gave General Rockey the right to place at the disposal of the Chinese Government forces all necessary supplies, such as ammunition, foodstuffs and equipment, and through air and naval means to cooperate in the transport of material and human forces of the Chinese Army into Manchuria, under the protection of American Marines."

The dispatch said the meeting decided to transfer to the Chinese Navy four American destroyers and forty other ships, and to continue in the future transportation northward of Chinese Government forces by sea.

GRAND MUFTI SAID TO BE BACK IN SYRIA

JUN 10 1946

Arab Spiritual Leader May Attend League Meeting

Jerusalem, June 9 (AP)—Dr. Hussein El Khalidi, a leader of one of the five parties comprising the Arab Higher Front, said tonight he had learned from his "own sources" that Haj Amin Al Husseini, the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, had arrived at Bludan, Syria, and would attend the Arab League's extraordinary session there.

[A French Foreign Office spokesman said yesterday in Paris that the Mufti had left France. The date of his departure and his destination were not disclosed.]

Dr. Izzat Tannous, secretary-general of Palestine's Arab Higher Committee, said he had received no word of the Mufti's arrival in Bludan, but expected to hear shortly.

Banished From Palestine In 1937

For years Husseini led the Arab struggle for independence for Palestine and against a national home there for the Jews. The spiritual leader of Palestine's 800,000 Moslems, the 53-year-old Mufti also represents the Christian Arabs in the Holy Land.

He was banished from Palestine for anti-British activity in 1937 and since then has found havens in Syria, Italy and France.

During the Mufti's stay in Italy, where he fled from Syria in 1942, he reportedly engaged in pro-Axis activities with the encouragement of Benito Mussolini. He made at least one trip to Berlin, where he was received by Adolf Hitler and Nazi Foreign Minister Jochim von Ribbentrop.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Palestine's Jewish agency said tonight the agency's views on the British-American committee's report on Palestine recommending that 100,000 European Jews be allowed into Palestine now would be sent to Washington and London within a few days. The American and British governments had asked that such a statement be submitted by June 20.

GRANTSON

Arab League Plans Protest

Bludan, Syria, June 9 (AP)—Officials of the Arab League Council today discussed methods of protesting to the United Nations a British-American Committee's report recommending that 100,000 European Jews be allowed immediate admission to Palestine.

It was learned that a four-member subcommittee of the Foreign Affairs Committee will report Tuesday on the subject to the full Arab League Council, now meeting here in an extraordinary session.

An informant said that among other topics, the subcommittee discussed the possibility of winning support from delegates of member Arab nations if the league does bring its protest before the United Nations in New York.

Sanctions Not Discussed

Meanwhile, a source within the council had declined to discuss during the extraordinary session the possibility of Arab nations applying economic sanctions as part of the protest of the Palestine report.

There has been considerable and widespread press conjecture in Arab countries concerning the possibility of economic sanctions being applied against the United States and Great Britain, but sources close to the delegates said the league was considering no such action.

It was believed that the question of economic sanctions, including possible bans on oil concessions, air routes and the importation of British and American goods had been discarded before the meeting began. Instead, Arab leaders were understood to have decided to fight the Palestine report on purely diplomatic lines.

Drafting Arab Reply

The Foreign Affairs Committee also is drafting the Arab League's answer to British and American requests for Arab views on the Palestine report.

The internal affairs committee studied a minor political rift among Arab factions in Palestine, methods of tightening the boycott of Jewish goods and the financing of Arab propaganda.

The Arab League, which was convened yesterday, was in adjournment today for committee meetings.

Round-Table Congress Blamed

Cairo, June 9 (AP)—A usually reliable source said tonight that the British Government has informed King Farouk of Egypt in a memorandum that it "will not approve" recommendations of the British-American Committee on Palestine.

The informant, who declined to be quoted by name, said the British Government would call a round-table congress at which Arabs and Jews would be invited to study the Palestine quest.

[Government officials in London could not be reached for comment.]

Anti-British Rioting In Alexandria Probed

Cairo, June 9 (AP)—Premier Ismail Sidky Pasha said today the Government was investigating anti-British rioting in Alexandria last night, which caused one death and injuries to nineteen, according to dispatches from that Egyptian harbor city.

The public prosecution office banned publication here of stories on the outbursts in Alexandria, where the Moslem Brotherhood demonstrated against delay in evacuation of British troops from the country.

CHOU BRINGS PEACE TERMS

H. MILKS

Chinese Communist Leader Is Ready To See Marshall

Nanking, June 9 (AP)—Gen. Chou En-lai, chief Communist negotiator, returned from his Yenan headquarters today and arranged to deliver to General Marshall on Monday his party's latest terms for peace in China.

Chou came back as he had gone two days ago in General Marshal's personal plane. He quickly scheduled a meeting with the special American envoy who had arranged the current short-term truce.

Chou told correspondents that the party leaders in Yenan still were discussing the three items which Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek has insisted must be settled before the truce expires June 22.

Peace Formula Wanted

These are a formula for permanent cessation of hostilities, notably in Manchuria, reorganization of the armed forces, and restoration of communications.

"We are prepared to negotiate all these points," Chou said.

As Chou arrived with these optimistic tidings, Communist publicity organs were continuing a campaign against the United States. This campaign began almost at the moment the truce was arranged two days ago.

Today's installment, an editorial in the Communist Northeast Daily which was quoted by the Communist official New China News Agency, said "the imperialistic United States" was helping "reactionary Chinese carry out civil war policies."

Wants Effective Action

It warned that "if the United States Government fails to take effective action to halt immediately its assistance to the Chinese reactionaries, the Manchurian people will hate the imperialistic elements in the United States as they hated the Japanese imperialists before."

Observers here were unable to determine whether the program was part of Communist high command strategy or was the work of individual Communist editors. Even if only the latter, surprise was expressed that the party leaders evidently had done nothing to halt or soften the barrage during this critical period.

Japanese Agents Blamed

The Government's Central News Agency, meanwhile, blamed Japanese agents for the murder of undetermined numbers of Soviet citizens residing in Changchun during the disordered period in April and May when that Manchurian capital was taken by the Communists and retaken by Government forces. Communists had blamed Government adherents.

The news agency, in a Mukden dispatch, said that Vladimir Drozdou, correspondent for the Russian Tass agency and for the Shanghai Russian paper Epoch, charged that more than 2,000 Japanese secret operatives came out of hiding, plundered and wrecked the Soviet consulate in Changchun, and killed and abused Soviet citizens.

Neither Chinese troops nor civilians were involved in the atrocities, Drozdou said in making a report to the Chinese commander, Gen. Tu Li-ming, the Central News Agency reported.

CHINESE TO PROTEST ON KILLINGS IN JAVA

JUN 10 1946

NANKING, June 9 (AP)—The Chinese Foreign Office today directed protests to the Netherlands Government and the Indonesian "Republic" over the slaying of Chinese nationals at Tangerang, in Java.

The Chinese consulate general at Batavia was instructed to protest strongly to Indonesian authorities against the slayings, to demand punishment of the guilty, compensations for the loss of Chinese lives and property and guarantees for the future.

The Chinese Ambassador to the Netherlands was told to make representations to that Government on the basis that the Netherland Government was responsible for the protection of Chinese nationals in the East Indies.

Tsiang Chia-tung, Chinese Consul General for the Netherlands East Indies, had been called to Nanking to report on the slayings of hChinese in Java, which he estimated at possibly more than 2,000.

While Mr. Tsiang blamed Indonesian extremists for the actual slayings, Foreign Minister Wang Shih-chieh said "both the Netherlands and the Indonesian leaders must be held responsible."

Dr. Chang Poling Honored Here

Dr. Chang Poling, founder and president of Nankai University, Tientsin, China, was honored yesterday by the Nankai Alumni Association in America at a luncheon at China House, 125 East Sixty-fifth Street. More than 100 former students and professors attended. He said he considered the present moment as offering China her greatest opportunity to regenerate herself.

UNRRA Delays Action On China Relief Request

Nanking, June 9 (AP)—The UNRRA Council for the Far East today postponed until June 17 a decision on China's request that relief shipments be continued after the scheduled stopping date of March 31, 1947.

The Chinese said the extension was necessary because shipping and distribution delays had put the delivery schedule far behind.

T. F. Tsiang, chairman of the Chinese National Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, said that up to May 25 China had received only one third of the 1,800,000 long tons of supplies allocated by the UNRRA for the six months ending June 30.

Sino-French Treaties Ratified

NANKING, June 9 (AP).—The Chinese Foreign Minister and the French Ambassador to China today exchanged ratifications of the Sino-French treaties which were signed last Feb. 26

Chinese Scholar Tried In Shanghai

Shanghai, June 9 (AP)—The Chinese Government's drive against former collaborators with the Japanese is developing some odd twists.

In a single day the Shanghai high court opened prosecution against the former Finnish consul here, the former head of the Shanghai Rotary Club, who also was president of the largest American university in the area, and a Chinese who speaks not a word of his native tongue.

Prosecutors are demanding penalties up to and including death for Chinese nationals as well as foreigners who gambled their futures on Japanese victory in the war against China.

Sung Best Known

Best known of the alleged collaborators recently brought before the high court was William Z. L. Sung, educator and scholar who became acting president of St. John's University in Shanghai during the occupation and for a time presided over the Shanghai Rotary Club.

Many educators both here and in the United States believe Sung's plea that his actions during the Japanese occupation were based upon the highest patriotic motives. Nevertheless, Chinese prosecutors have arraigned Sung and plan to press charges of giving aid and support to the enemy.

Other Defendants

Here are a few of the other defendants in the Government's continuing presentation of cases involving collaboration:

K. G. Wahamak, former Finnish consul in Shanghai, suspected of having been a member of the espionage agency headed by Abbot Chow Kung, whose British soldier son was executed as an enemy spy. Kung himself died mysteriously after a Shanghai feast, apparently the victim of poison.

Tong Leung-li, Java-born publicity minister of the Japanese puppet government in China, who required an interpreter at his arraignment because he neither speaks nor understands the language of his fathers. Educated in England, Tong Leung-li wrote several books including one called "Japan—Natural Ally of China."

Former Chief Justice

Li Tsu-yu, onetime Chief Justice of the Peiping Supreme Court, who became Vice Minister of Industry in the puppet regime.

L. T. Yuan, former Chinese member of the Shanghai Municipal Council, who continued to serve after the Japanese occupied Shanghai and ousted international representatives from the Council.

Zia Pao-sen, prominent member of Shanghai's underworld, whose excuse to the court for serving on a puppet provincial government was that he took the job merely to keep enemy gendarmes from molesting his home and business.

Changchun Atrocities Laid To Jap Agents

Shanghai, June 9 (AP)—The Chinese Government's Central News Agency, in a dispatch from Mukden, today charged Japanese secret agents with responsibility for murders and atrocities against Soviet citizens in Changchun at the time of the Russian evacuation.

The Central News dispatch quoted a Russian correspondent for the Tass agency, Vladmir Drozdou, as having told Gen. Tu Li-ming, nationalist commander in Manchuria, that the secret agents, not Chinese troops or citizens, were responsible for the evacuation troubles.

A Shanghai Russian language paper, the Enoch, said in a story today that Japanese agents were well organized in Changchun and that more than 2,000 were involved in the wrecking and plundering of the Soviet consulate there.

Japan's Report Will Be Evidence

Tokyo, Monday, June 10 (AP)—A radio transcription of Japan's first broadcast announcing her attack on Pearl Harbor has been found and will be used as evidence in the trial of wartime Premier Hideki Tojo and other accused war criminals.

The international prosecution section of Allied headquarters reported that Investigator Ray P. Normile located both the transcription and announcer, Morio Tatera, who excitedly gave news of the attack to the nation. Tatera still is working for Radio Tokyo.

Tatera told Normile that 22 seconds before he went on the air on the morning of December 8, 1941 (December 7, U.S. Time), he received this copy, which he read to his listeners:

The army and navy sections of Imperial Headquarters jointly announced at 6 o'clock this morning, December 8, that the Imperial army and navy forces have entered into a state of hostilities with the American and British forces in the Western Pacific at dawn today."

There followed details of the attack of Pearl Harbor. The news was repeated five times in the ensuing two hours, Tatera said.

"I was so excited that my speech was impaired," he told Normile.

Tojo Is Busily Preparing His Defense Arguments

By The Associated Press.

TOKYO, June 9—Former Premier Hideki Tojo is preparing his own defense in the forthcoming international war crimes trial.

Ichiro Kiyose, General Tojo's Japanese defense attorney, said today that not only was the former Premier preparing his own arguments in answer to the indictments against him but that he likewise would personally handle the reply to the opening statement of the prosecution.

Mr. Kiyose, in an interview with the Kyodo News Agency, reported that the former Premier was in the best of health and "busily engaged in writing his own defense arguments."

The trial is scheduled to resume here next Thursday, with Carlisle W. Higgins of Winston-Salem, N. C., as acting chief of the prosecution. The chief prosecutor, Joseph B. Keenan, left today by plane for the United States for a thirty-day rest.

Lend-Lease Pact Called Bargain For Australia

Sydney, Australia, June 9 (AP)—Australian newspapers hailed in big headlines today settlement of lend-lease agreements with the United States as a bargain for Australia and a harbinger of greatly increased trade across the Pacific.

The Sydney Sun declared the agreement saved the commonwealth $325,000,000. The Sunday Telegraph said that as a result of the agreement automobiles, gasoline, and cotton goods from the United States will flow into the country.

persons, including one civilian and six crewmen, were aboard.

The plane crashed about "125 feet from the summit of Taboga Island's highest promontory—about 1,100 feet—during a frontal thunderstorm . . . when visibility and general flying conditions became limited," the official statement added. There had been a steady downpour of rain since early yesterday morning in the vicinity of the island.

An Army rescue party, headed by Lieutenant General Willis D. Crittenberger, commander of the Panama Canal Department, rushed to the scene and began the task of identifying the badly mangled victims. The Army said not all the bodies had been recovered.

At West Palm Beach, Lieutenant Colonel John S. Owens, deputy commander of Morrison Field, said the plane left at 4:45 a. m. Eastern Standard Time and crashed at 11:13 a. m. He said the plane exploded as it struck the mountain.

The Panama Canal Department said further details would be made public as they became available from the rescue party.

He reported that the plane left Morrison Field at 4:45 A. M., Eastern standard time, and crashed at 11:13 A. M. He said that the plane exploded as it struck the mountain.

PANAMA, June 9 (AP)—The Panama Canal Department stated tonight that the Army plane crashed off the entrance to the Panama Canal "about 125 feet from the summit of Taboga Island's highest promontory, about 1,100 feet high, during a frontal thunderstorm when visibility and general flying conditions became limited."

An Army rescue party, headed by Lieut. Gen. Willis D. Crittenberger, commander of the department, rushed to the scene.

Giral on Way Here

MEXICO CITY, June 9 (AP).—Jose Giral, Premier of the exiled Spanish republican government, left here by plane this afternoon for New York en route to Paris. In New York Giral will talk with members of the United Nations' Security Council, but he said he planned no formal appearance at the meeting which will take up the Spanish question Tuesday.

the moment to be prepared to go ahead without Russian collaboration if necessary. The Paris conference probably will show whether it is necessary.

Same Advisers Going Along

Byrnes is scheduled to leave Thursday with the same advisers, including Senators Connally (D., Texas) and Vandenberg (R., Mich.), whom he had with him at the previous Paris session which ended three weeks ago.

In the interim, deputies of Byrnes, Molotov, Britain's Foreign Minister Bevin and French Foreign Minister Bidault have been meeting in Paris, but the evidence from diplomats here is that they have made no progress toward solving any important issues.

On the contrary, Byrnes and Molotov each has made speeches defending his position and placing the blame on the other for previous failures at peacemaking. Bevin has made a public appeal to the Russians to fall in with Anglo-American plans at least to the extent to being willing to reach some compromise.

On World Opinion And Moscow

Such hope as there is for success in Paris, therefore, does not rest on any known negotiations among the great powers in the last three weeks but rather on the feeling of diplomats here that the power of world opinion, plus the presumed desire of Premier Stalin and Molotov to prevent a real breakdown in Soviet-American unity, will bring some agreement at the eleventh hour.

Reasoning on this line, some diplomatic authorities here hope that Washington and Moscow may accept compromise proposals for internationalization of Trieste which Byrnes has demanded for Italy and Molotov for Yugoslavia.

Similarly there has been some hope on the part of Byrnes himself that Stalin and Molotov finally would decide to accept his proposal for a long-term treaty to keep Germany disarmed. The British are expected to put forward a proposal for the federation of Germany in order to unify that now divided country and speed both German and European recovery.

U.S. Strong For Federation

The United States is strong for federation and the British hope the Russians and French will go along.

Settlement of these issues would go far toward breaking the deadlocks which are paralyzing progress on peace. Other agreements would be necessary, however, covering such things as the strong American opposition to Russia's determination to have economic priorities in the Balkan countries.

Diplomatic authorities emphasize that the essential choice at Paris is whether the great powers will work together or whether only the United States and Britain will be able to co-operate, with Russia tightening its hold on its own sphere and with France in a tough spot because of powerful Communist influences in that country. In other words, a failure at Paris would considerably harden the already sharp division between the Russian world and that of the Western powers.

TOP POSTS LINK WITH OPA BILL

JUN 10 1946

Porter And Bowles Might Go To New Economic Council

Washington, June 9 (AP)—President Truman's circulating official family may lose some of its members and acquire some new ones soon.

Senators in touch with the situation say that action this week on a bill to extend the OPA may decide whether Chester Bowles, stabilization director, and Paul Porter, price administrator, bow out of their present jobs.

Bowles and Porter have let it be known that they consider thoroughly unsatisfactory a much-amended OPA bill approved by the Senate Banking Committee. Indications now are that the Senate may go even further than the committee in snipping OPA powers.

Have Forecast Resignations

Bowles and Porter have told friends that rather than administer a highly restricted stabilization program, they will resign. President Truman could be expected to ask them to remain in Government service, possibly with other appointments.

Friends say that he might want them to fill two of the three posts of economic advisers who may take over much of the work John W. Snyder performed as reconversion director.

But Mr. Truman is represented as hoping that he will get some workable kind of OPA bill out of Congress, keep Bowles and Porter in their present positions, and pick new men for the economic council.

Economic Council Prospects

The President is said by those who have been consulted about the matter to have on his desk a list of a dozen names as possible appointees to $15,000-a-year jobs on the three-member council. Congress provided for creation of the group when it passed an employment bill calling for a year-ahead economic planning.

Meanwhile, Mr. Truman's checkerboard moves of top-rank officials appear headed for overwhelming Senate approval within ten days.

Senator George (D., Ga.), chairman called a closed-door session of the Senate Finance Committee tomorow for what he said he assumes will be routine questioning of Snyder about the policies he intends to pursue in his new post as Secretary of the Treasury.

Hearing On Vinson Nomination

Senator McCarran (D., Nev.) has announced that the Judiciary Committee, of which he is chairman, will provide an opportunity Friday for anybody who wants to protest the appointment of Fred M. Vinson, former Secretary of the Treasury, as Chief Justice of the United States.

Some New Dealers have been grumbling about Snyder's elevation to the Government's chief financial post, principally because they blame him in part for the President's attitude toward labor. Some Republicans have been grumbling that Vinson's nomination unbalances the Supreme Court, which now has Justice Harold H. Burton as its lone Republican member.

Senator Wherry, of Nebraska, the minority whip, says he believes both appointments will go through without an organized fight against them.

Sullivan Choice Seems Popular

The President's choice of John L. Sullivan as Under Secretary of the Navy apparently struck a popular chord in Congress, with early confirmation regarded as a certainty.

His selection of Senator Warren R. Austin, Vermont Republican, to succeed Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., as American delegate on the United Nations Security Council was universally approved by Austin's colleagues.

Because of a technicality that will bar him from officially holding the job until January, Austin's nomination will not be submitted or passed on until that time. In the interim he will serve as a personal Ambassador for the President, a post that requires no confirmation.

Third Officer Arrested In Great Jewel Case

JUN 10 1946

Washington, June 9 (AP)—The Army announced the arrest of a third officer tonight in the case of the looted Hessian crown jewels and busily weighed royal gems by the boxful to see how near final solution it was in the "greatest jewel robbery of modern times."

Announcement of the new arrest came from Frankfurt, Germany, where officers said Major David F. Watson, of Burlingame, Cal., was taken into custody.

Detailed Inventory Made

Here the principal activity was preparation of a detailed inventory of the treasure, most of which was recovered from a dime-in-the-slot checking locker in Chicago, to see if any of the $1,500,000 worth of jewels from ancient Kronberg Castle are still missing.

That task is made doubly difficult by the job of determining whether the piles of loose gems include those from certain bracelets or brooches or whatnot. Most have been torn from their heavy ancient gold settings.

Nearly All Recovered

War Department officials said tonight they were advised of the detention of Major Watson in Germany. Officials said yesterday a major and technician, fifth grade, were under surveillance.

Detained in Washington were newly wedded Lieut. Col. Jack W. Durant and WAC Captain Kathleen B. Nash Durant, along whose honeymoon course officers trailed. They recovered "practically all" of the stolen crown jewels and other heirlooms handed down in a family

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., June 9—A C-54 Army transport from Morrison Field here crashed on a mountainside on Taboga Island today, killing all twenty-three persons aboard.

An Army rescue party recovered nineteen bodies before darkness halted operations, and search for the four remaining will be resumed tomorrow.

In the plane, which was en route to Albrook Field, Canal Zone, were seventeen passengers and a crew of six.

Lieut. Col. John S. Owens, deputy commander of Morrison Field, said that the plane, on a routine flight, was carrying, besides a select crew, an Army colonel, two West Point cadets, one civilian and thirteen enlisted men.

Byrnes Off Thursday

JUN 10 1946

Washington, June 9 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes leaves for another session of the Big Four Foreign Ministers at Paris this week facing a possible showdown with Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia on whether the postwar world is to be one world or two.

Byrnes has set himself a deadline on European peacemaking. He is determined some sort of treaties with Italy and the Eastern European States must be worked out by the end of this year.

To attain that objective, which he contends is essential to world recovery from war, he appears at closely connected with that of Kaiser Wilhelm II, during whose reign World War I was started.

30.24-3221

Officers said they still had not determined what precise charges to file against 36-year-old Colonel Durant and his bride, mother of a 23-year-old son by a former marriage. They predicted a court-martial in Germany, however.

Brig. Gen. George S. Eyster, public relations officer for United States Army headquarters in Europe, said in Frankfurt that Major Watson was "placed in confinement." A spokesman for the provost marshall there, however, added: "We aren't prepared at this time to reveal Watson's connection with the theft."

GI's "On The Hunt"

The case had its beginning last November when curious GI's, searching for buried wines in the subcellars of the 100-room castle of the House of Hesse near Frankfurt, came upon the lead-lined casket in which the jewels had been secreted as American armies approached.

WAC Captain Durant, then Captain Nash, was mess officer at Kronberg, which had been turned into an American Army rest home. The Army said Colonel Durant was paying her court at about the time the fabulous find was turned over to her by the soldiers who unearthed it.

From there, in a manner the Army has not yet fully explained, the treasure was smuggled to the United States. Officers said they believed some of it was in Colonel Durant's baggage when he came home by air, and some was mailed by Captain Nash to herself.

Must Await Check

The Army won't know positively whether it has all the gems until it can compare the inventory being made today with a full list yet to be supplied by Princess Margerita of Hesse, 74-year-old granddaughter of Queen Victoria of England and sister of Kaiser Wilhelm. She is the present owner.

Right now the diamonds, rubies and other precious stones are piled in boxes like so many jelly beans, except that the boxes are in a Pentagon vault.

Loss of the jewels was discovered, army officers said today, when a castle servant told Princess Sophia of the royal family, that the Americans had found them. She went to Captain Nash in March and asked that they be returned for use at her wedding. The WAC officer, army officers said, told her she could have them at any time.

Subsequent Events

As related by Col. Ralph W. Pierce, chief of the criminal investigation department of the provost marshal's office in Washington, and his assistant, Major John D. Salb, the story continued:

The Princess returned for the jewels in April but Captain Nash, meanwhile, had been redeployed and was in the United States on terminal leave. The new commandant knew nothing of the gems, but started an investigation.

About a dozen persons, who might have had access to the treasure, were sought for questioning.

Officers found the captain and the colonel were married by a justice of the peace in Chicago May 28. It was easy to trace them from there and after long questioning Pierce said Durant finally revealed the hiding place of the gems.

Closing Difficult Term, Supreme Bench Plans Recess Until Fall

Washington, June 9 (AP)—The Supreme Court hopes to close tomorrow a term made difficult by a manpower shortage as well as continued conflict in the justices' views.

Sixteen cases remain on the docket for final decision before the seven judges begin the summer recess. Each of the jurists hopes that a full bench of nine justices will be on hand for a fresh start at the opening of the new term next October.

Handicaps Cited

The death of Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone on April 22 and the absence of Justice Jackson during the entire term handicapped the tribunal in deciding the legal issues which were presented to it.

The court already has held over eighteen cases for reargument next term before a full bench. Several of the cases left for decision likely will get the same treatment tomorrow.

If the nomination of Fred M. Vinson as Chief Justice is confirmed by the Senate, he will take his seat at the start of the new term. Justice Jackson is expected back from the Nazi trial by that time or earlier, giving the tribunal its full complement of nine judges for the first time since last June.

Equal Division Suggested

The court's action in holding over the eighteen cases for the next term presumably was taken because it was divided equally on them. In the 121 cases decided so far by written opinions in the present term, the court split five to three in sixteen instances, six to two in fifteen cases, and seven to one in 21 cases. A total of 120 dissenting votes was recorded in the 121 opinions. The court reached unanimous agreement in 58 decisions.

HIGH COURT HOPES TO END SESSION TODAY

Compromise Plan To Be Offered To Draft Conferees

Washington, June 9 (AP)—A plan to permit the induction of 18-year-olds but to prohibit their use overseas was offered today by Representative Sparkman (D., Ala.) as a compromise to break the Senate-House deadlock over extension of the draft law.

Sparkman, Democratic whip of the House, said he will submit the proposal to Senate-House conferees tomorrow. The conference committee is hunting a solution for differences between the two branches which are holding up legislation to extend the draft law which expires June 30.

The Alabaman's plan, if accepted by the fourteen senators and representatives on the conference committee, would represent a yielding by both the Senate and the House from positions in which they previously have been adamant.

Both Houses Adamant

The House, by overwhelming votes, has refused twice to permit the induction of 18 and 19 year olds under any conditions, limiting the age of future draft liability to the 20-through-29 group. The Senate, by as decisive a vote, has favored continuance of the present draft ages, 18 through 44.

Sparkman's proposal would permit draft boards to continue to induct 18-year-olds but would prohibit the Army and the Navy from using them as overseas replacements, unless they volunteer, before they are 19.

"I believe the House will go along on this compromise," Sparkman said. "I don't believe the House will accept the Senate plan as it now stands."

May Accept Compromise

At least four of the seven House conferees indicated they would refuse to go along with the Senate proposal to use 18-year-olds for overseas service if necessary, but several of them said they might accept the Sparkman plan as a compromise.

Little difficulty is expected by the conferees in agreeing on a compromise over how long the law should be extended. The House voted to continue it until next February 15, the Senate until May 15.

House conferees indicated a willingness to abandon the House's stand for an induction moratorium until October 15, provided the Senate agrees to leave pay raises out of the draft legislation. The Senate wrote pay boosts for enlisted personnel into the extension law after the House had passed a separate pay-raise bill.

The two branches are in full agreement on limiting the service of inductees to eighteen months and on prohibiting the drafting of fathers, regardless of age.

Alaska Bill Altered in Senate

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP).—The Senate Appropriations Committee opposes a restriction adopted by the House that Alaska put up $1 for every $3 of Federal highway funds it receives. The committee voted yesterday to strike this clause out of the interior appropriation bill while at the same time suggesting an increase of $1,537,500 in funds provided by the House for construction of roads, bridges and trails in the territory. As reported in the Senate, the bill carries an appropriation of $3,790,400 for these purposes rather than the $2,252,900 figure approved by the other chamber.

Veterans' Priority Keeps U. S. From Getting Autos

Federal Agencies Find Supply of Surplus Pre-empted

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP).—Federal agencies, formerly the largest buyers or surplus automobiles, can't get them any more. They're all set aside for veterans.

The Senate Appropriations Committee yesterday voted to delete from appropriations bills a requirement that agencies needing cars must buy surplus rather than new automobiles.

It acted after Major General Glen E. Edgerton, Assistant War Assets Administrator, notified the committee that since veterans now have top priority on passenger cars, jeeps, station wagons and trucks under 2½-ton capacity and their demands are greatly in excess of "foreseeable supply," none will be available for the government.

Sergt. A. R. Ruiz Destroyed Pillbox, Killing 12 Japs

Washington, June 9 (AP)—Sergt. Alejandro R. Ruiz, of Carlsbad, N.M., will receive the Congressional Medal of Honor for singlehandedly destroying under heavy fire a Japanese pillbox on Okinawa, saving many in his platoon who were wounded and trapped, the War Department anounced today.

The former 27th Division combat infantryman was discharged on Okinawa on January 14 so he could re-enlist in the regular army for duty in the European theater. Now on re-enlistment furlough, Ruiz is attached to the reception station at Fort Bliss, Texas.

Platoon Became Trapped

Ruiz was with Company A, 165th Infantry Regiment, which was assigned in April, 1945, to clean up remnants of a battalion of Japanese firmly entrenched in underground fortifications commanding a series of ridges, a War Department account related. Camouflaged concrete pillboxes frowned from the main ridge.

The platoon which Ruiz, then a private, served as a rifleman was given the job of capturing the ridge. Progress was slowed by jagged rocks and rifle fire. The Americans got by one pinnacle and started toward a second when they learned it was pillboxed The platoon found itself trapped.

In a few minutes, every man in two assault squads except Ruiz and his squad leader was wounded by a shower of potato-masher grenades. Ruiz was seen to grab an automatic rifle and rush through the heavy fire toward the pillbox.

Killed 12 Japanese

Ruiz's citation relates that "when an enemy soldier charged him, his rifle jammed. Undaunted, Ruiz whirled on his assailant and clubbed him down. Then he ran back through bullets and grenades, seized more ammunition and another automatic rifle, and again made for the pillbox.

"Enemy fire now was concentrated on him, but he charged on, miraculously reaching the position, and in plain view he climbed to the top. Leaping from one opening to another, he sent burst after burst into the pillbox, killing twelve of the enemy and completely destroying the position."

Ruiz was born at Loving, N.M. Prior to his induction September 9, 1943, he drove a truck. He was sent to the Pacific, where on December 20, 1944, he joined the 27th Division. In addition to the combat infantryman's badge, he wears the purple heart for wounds received on May 4, 1945.

ReynoldsHeadsSpecialServices

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP).—Major General Russel B. Reynolds, a veteran of war service in the Pacific, has been named chief of the War Department's Special Services Division which provides recreation and entertainment for soldiers and operates the Army's post exchange. Announcing this today, the War Department said he succeeds Major General Joseph W. Byron, of Hagerstown, Md., who returned to civilian status after holding the post during the war. General Reynolds was president of the commission which tried Lieutenant General Tomoyuki Yamashita for war crimes in the Pacific.

Sees Living Standards Drop

JUN 10 1946

Capper Warns of Spending and Commitments Abroad

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP).—Increased governmental spending coupled with foreign commitments of goods and raw materials will mean a lowered American standard of living "perhaps for always," Senator Arthur Capper, Republican, of Kansas, said today.

He declared in a statement that commitments abroad can not be met out of surpluses.

"This lowered standard of living is being concealed from most of us at the present time," he said, "because money is so plentiful and threatens to become more plentiful, in fact, too plentiful in relation to the goods and services available in exchange for all of it.

"The combination of greatly increased government spendings, largely on a deficit spending basis, and the drain of supplies from what we otherwise would use for ourselves cannot help but result in a lowered standard of living for our own people."

Sees Atom Defenses In the Outline Stage

R. C. EIGER

Adm. Read Says Measures Won't Be Passive

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP).—Rear Admiral Albert S. Read sr., commander of the first Navy plane to fly the Atlantic, said today that potential defenses against the atomic bomb already are in the outline stage.

Preparing to retire after forty years of service, the fifty-nine-year-old poineer flyer and war-time commander of the fleet air command forces said atomic bomb defense "won't be a passive one."

He hinted to a reporter of things that until recently appeared to be fantasies but which some navy men have discussed. In this realm are the possibilities of changing ocean currents to alter the climate of an enemy nation, and bacterial warfare. But he preferred to stick to a discussion of atomic age actualities.

"The Bikini atom bomb test has been called, significantly, 'Operation Crossroads,'" Admiral Read said.

"That's what it is, the Navy's crossroads of the future. As soon as we determine what damage the bomb does to ships, the Navy will lose no time in applying this knowledge to defense tactics.

"Leaving all fantastic stuff out of it, the atom bomb isn't an undefeatble weapon.

"Many people have the idea you can toss a bath of them together in a bushel basket and take them out and throw them on your enemies. As simple as that. But it is much more complex. An aggressor must have a base from which to launch the attack and it is a terrifically expensive task to build just one atom bomb.

"Contrast the old NC-4, which we flew the Atlantic in May, 1919, with a jet plane. Look at the NC-4's struts and other clumsy designing. But it was the grandfather of the jet plane. All this improvement came within a few years."

It was twenty-seven years ago May 31 that the NC-4 reached Plymouth, England, after a north Atlantic crossing near Newfoundland.

U.N. Social Council Still Split

JUN 10 1946

M. HARRELSON

New York, June 9 (AP)—The United Nations Economic and Social Council goes into its third week of deliberations tomorrow, split on more than half a dozen important issues but still hoping to conclude the present session by June 18 or 20.

On almost all issues, the Big Three nations are divided along the same lines as in the Security Council—Russia on one side and the United States and Great Britain on the other.

Whether the Council will finish on schedule depends largely upon the accomplishments of committees which have been given the difficult task of reconciling the divergent views expressed during the Council's ten lengthy meetings.

Four Committees At Work

At least four committees are now at work redrafting recommendations submitted by temporary commissions and dealing with a wide variety of economic and social problems, methods of approach and appropriate organizations to handle them.

The Council so far has limited its activities to debate of the original commission proposals and has passed on to the committees the comments of the members and their suggested amendments.

The Council hopes to be able by the end of this session to approve redrafted recommendations creating permanent commissions on human rights, economics and employment, statistics, social problems and transport and communications.

It also expects to approve plans for dealing with refugees, assisting devastated war areas, promoting freedom of information and establishing a world health organization.

The Major Controversies

The major controverises, which the committees will have to resolve, include the following:

1. Whether the United Nations should admit nonmember nations to such organizations as the world health agency and such other nonpolitical organizations as the statistical organization and world transportation agencies.

2. Whether the United Nations should aid war devastated countries which are not United Nations members.

3. Whether the World Federation of Trade Unions, which includes the CIO but not the American Federation of Labor, should receive the right to have a representative sit in meetings of the Council and express the views of labor.

4. Whether the Council should take steps immediately to promote freedom of information or whether it should, as the Russians suggest, take up first the questions of discrimination and the rights of minorities.

Economic Differences

These, although by no means all the important issues under dispute, will serve as examples of the problems facing the committees. There also are disagreements over economic aid to backward countries, transportation agencies and even over the question of whether the proposed commissions should be made up of government or non-government representatives.

The Council will get another controversial question this week when Hector McNeil, British Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, presents the recommendations of the committee on refugees which recently concluded its meeting in London. The main issue is whether refugees may be sent back to their own country without their consent.

Meanwhile, a compromise proposal on the issue of Franco Spain was in prospect tonight for the United Nations Security Council, which renews debate on the controversial question this week.

Session Planned Tuesday

The next session has been set tentatively for 3 P.M. Tuesday.

A subcommittee investigating the Falangist regime recommended that if Generalissimo Franco remained in power in September the General Assembly should call upon the entire membership to break relations with the Spanish Government. The compromise plan, as outlined by a source close to one of the delegations, would provide the following:

1. Adoption of the report by the Council with modifications.

2. Removal of a time limit on the break in relations with any such decision on a date left up to the Assembly.

3. Minor revision which would tend to make the recommendations going to the Assembly more flexible.

New Conditions Foreseen

In support of the compromise, it was further learned from this source that some nations felt they did not want to commit themselves now as to what should be done in September, feeling that new conditions might arise to make some other course more advisable.

Such a compromise would be virtually certain to draw strong opposition from the Russian delegation, where an authorized spokesman earlier expressed dissatisfaction with the subcommittee's report because it did not go far enough.

Russia specifically objected to the findings that Franco Spain was not "an existing threat to peace" but rather a "potential threat," and that the Assembly instead of the Council should call for a break in relations.

Russian Viewpoint

The Soviet view was said to be that Franco is a threat to peace and that the Council was created for the definite purpose of taking action, and it should do so instead of the Assembly, which meets here September 3.

Final decision on the time of the next meeting hinges on whether all delegations have received full instructions from their governments by Tuesday.

Herschel Johnson, United States representative, concluded conferences in Washington this week end, and presumably the United States will be ready. A spokesman for the British delegation said Sir Alexander Cadogan expected final word from London tomorrow.

Lie Likens Start of U. N. To Pioneer Days of Auto

JUN 10 1946

Addresses Rally at Detroit Automotive Jubilee

DETROIT, June 8 (AP).—Trygve Lie, Secretary General of the United Nations, drew a parallel between the automobile and a world peace organization here today.

Speaking at a rally which concluded the automotive golden jubilee, Mr. Lie said that, like the pioneers of the "horseless" carriage the founders of the United Nations are combating criticism to make an idea work.

"The pioneers of this industry had to fight prejudice and inexperience in making their idea a reality," he declared before the crowd of 32,000 at Briggs Stadium.

"We, too, have had our disappointments, and we w'l have many more of them. And in the end . . . we (too) will succeed."

Mr. Lie's address climaxed a program which also included appearances by Walter E. Reuther, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations United Auto Workers; eGorge W. Mason, president of the Automobile Manufacturers Association; Lauritz Melchior, operatic tenor, and Dorothy Maynor, soprano.

Eisenhower Says Organization Must Be Made To Work

Northfield, Vt., June 9 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told graduates of Norwich University today that the United Nations "must be made to work."

Senator Austin (R., Vt.), the new United States representative on the Security Council, Eisenhower said, "must have the earnest, dynamic and unceasing support of every one of us."

He said President Truman's appointment of Austin last week gave "encouragement to every thinking American."

Reason For Draft

Coupling his plea with the advice that extension of the draft is needed to maintain American military might until the development of effective international co-operation, the War Department chief of staff asserted that "weakness and nakedness cannot serve us now."

"I firmly assert that there is an obvious limit to our unilateral disarmament," he said, and added:

"I stand for present continuation of selective service, not as a peacetime policy of the United States, but as an assurance to ourselves and others that we will have the strength to carry to complete fulfillment the purposes for which we went to war."

In urging support of the United Nations, Eisenhower advised that "defeatism cannot be tolerated" in the effort to reach international accord.

"No matter how acute may become our differences with any nation—nor what the degree of readiness we must achieve, under any threat, to assure our safety—we must constantly, unceasingly, strive in the spirit of the United Nations Charter to adjust our differences legally.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 9 (AP)—Through its "operation reverse," the Army brought back from its Pacific bases about $308,000,000 worth of surplus supplies in May, Port of Embarkation officials reported today. The Army said the shipments included almost everything — from salvageable scrap metal to fine surgical instruments.

London, June 9--(AP)--The Sunday Observer, independent Conservative paper, said today that the resumption of Soviet-Argentine commercial and diplomatic relations would be "economically and politically" helpful for both countries.

JUN 10 1946

"Argentina," a special correspondent for The Observer said, "which greatly enriched herself during the war, needs new markets for her goods, and new clients to help her maintain her economic and political independence of the United States. Russia can meet both needs."

The new Russian agreement should favor renewal of the British-Argentine trade agreement, the paper said. It continued:

"Gen. Peron is obviously seeking not isolation but the possibility of dealing on an equal footing with the United States, Great Britain and Russia."

The Observer added, however, that "Gen. Peron will need all his tact and ability to overcome America's suspicions" while "for the first time a South American country is rising as a fully independent power."

In Moscow, Izvestia, government organ, said editorially that establishment of diplomatic relations between the U.S.S.R. and Argentina was looked upon in reactionary circles almost as "nipping the interests of Argentina." The paper added that "to them (reactionaries) such a step by the Argentine government witnesses to the independence of Argentine foreign policy."

Izvestia remarked that the establishment of relations between the two countries would make international relations more normal.

"The Argentine people are interested in the peace and security of their country," the editorial continued, "and this cannot be realized without international collaboration in the first place with such a power as the Soviet Union."

Opposition papers were not published yesterday. A government spokesman said their failure to appear was due to a dispute with the Pressman's Syndicate and not to any attempt at government suppression.

"Not less deplorable is the provocative tone of the opposition papers inciting the incidents," the spokesman continued. "The trade unions are demanding that the opposition press be suppressed x x x.

REITERATING THAT IN BOTH EUROPE AND JAPAN HE HAS SEEN NOTHING TO INDICATE THE ACCUSED WERE NOT GETTING FAIR, IMPARTIAL TRIALS, HE PREDICTED THAT BY THE END OF THE YEAR 1,000 DEATH PENALTIES WOULD HAVE BEEN OBTAINED IN EUROPE AND ASIA.

JUN 10 1946

NEW YORK, JUNE 9-(AP)-A COMPROMISE PROPOSAL ON THE ISSUE OF FRANCO SPAIN WAS IN PROSPECT TONIGHT FOR THE UNITED NATIONS SECURITY COUNCIL, WHICH RENEWS DEBATE ON THE CONTROVERSIAL QUESTION THIS WEEK.

THE NEXT SESSION HAS BEEN SET TENTATIVELY FOR 3 P.M. (EDT) TUESDAY.

A SUB-COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING THE FALANGIST REGIME RECOMMENDED THAT IF GENERALISSIMO FRANCO REMAINED IN POWER IN SEPTEMBER THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY SHOULD CALL UPON THE ENTIRE MEMBERSHIP TO BREAK RELATIONS

WITH THE SPANISH GOVERNMENT.

1. ADOPTION OF THE REPORT BY THE COUNCIL WITH MODIFICATIONS.

2. REMOVAL OF A TIME LIMIT ON THE BREAK IN RELATIONS WITH ANY SUCH DECISION ON A DATE BEING LEFT UP TO THE ASSEMBLY.

3. MINOR REVISIONS WHICH WOULD TEND TO MAKE THE RECOMMENDATIONS GOING TO THE ASSEMBLY MORE FLEXIBLE.

IN SUPPORT OF THE COMPROMISE, IT WAS FURTHER LEARNED FROM THIS SOURCE THAT SOME NATIONS FELT THEY DID NOT WANT TO COMMIT THEMSELVES NOW AS TO WHAT SHOULD BE DONE IN SEPTEMBER, FEELING THAT NEW CONDITIONS MIGHT ARISE TO MAKE SOME OTHER COURSE MORE ADVISABLE.

SUCH A COMPROMISE WOULD BE VIRTUALLY CERTAIN TO DRAW STRONG OPPOSITION FROM THE RUSSIAN DELEGATION, WHERE AN AUTHORIZED SPOKESMAN EARLIER EXPRESSED DISSATISFACTION WITH THE SUB-COMMITTEE'S REPORT BECAUSE IT DID NOT GO FAR ENOUGH.

RUSSIA SPECIFICALLY OBJECTED TO THE FINDINGS THAT FRANCO SPAIN WAS NOT "AN EXISTING THREAT TO PEACE" BUT RATHER A "POTENTIAL THREAT" AND THAT THE ASSEMBLY INSTEAD OF THE COUNCIL SHOULD CALL FOR A BREAK IN RELATIONS.

THE SOVIET VIEW WAS SAID TO BE THAT FRANCO IS A THREAT TO PEACE AND THAT THE COUNCIL WAS CREATED FOR THE DEFINITE PURPOSE OF TAKING ACTION AND IT SHOULD DO SO INSTEAD OF THE ASSEMBLY, WHICH MEETS HERE SEPT. 3.

FINAL DECISION ON THE TIME OF THE NEXT MEETING HINGES ON WHETHER ALL DELEGATIONS HAVE RECEIVED FULL INSTRUCTIONS FROM THEIR GOVERNMENTS BY TUESDAY.

Justice Jackson Attacks Justice Black, Charges 'War' Threat Over Court Decision

JUN 11 1946

SAYS COLLEAGUE WANTED HIM 'TO COVER UP FACTS' INVOLVING LAW PARTNER

JUN 11 1946

Nuernberg Prosecutor Cables Congress Groups To Answer 'Unjustified' Charges, Intimating Fellow Court Member Caused Them

T. Reedy JUN 11 1946

Nuernberg, Germany, June 10 (AP)—In an unprecedented attack on a colleague of the United States Supreme Court, Justice Robert H. Jackson charged tonight that Justice Hugo L. Black had participated in decisions affecting a former law partner, and that the practice, if continued, would bring America's highest court into "disrepute."

NIGHT

Jackson, now on leave from the Supreme Court to serve as chief American prosecutor at the war crimes trial here, said in a written statement issued at a news conference that a "feud" of long standing existed between Black and him.

The feud, he said in the statement, which was cabled to the House and Senate judicial committees, "has been so long publicized that Congress has a right to know the facts and issues involved."

Declaring that Black had threatened him with "war" unless he "covered up facts" in a case in which Black's law partner was involved, Jackson said:

"There may be those who think it quite harmless to encourage employment of justices' ex-law partners to argue close cases by smothering objections which the bar makes to this practice.

"They Called Us Rubber Stamps"

"But in my view such an attitude soon would bring the court into disrepute. However innocent a coincidence these two victories at successive terms by Justice Black's former law partner, I wanted that practice stopped. If it is ever repeated while I am on the bench, I will make my Jewell Ridge opinion look like a letter of recommendation by comparison."

The Supreme Court decision in the Jewell Ridge coal case held that soft-coal miners were entitled to portal-to-portal pay. In the 5-to-4 decision handed down on May 7, 1945, Justice Murphy wrote the majority opinion and Jackson a dissenting opinion.

Jackson declined to elaborate on his "feud" with Black except to tell reporters that the feuding existed among justices appointed by President Roosevelt.

"And they called us rubber stamps," he added bitterly.

Sees Black Behind Attacks

His cable to the two congressional committees, Jackson asserted, was in answer to what he termed unjustified attacks in the press, and intimated Black was behind those attacks.

He referred to a Washington Star column by Doris Fleeson, on May 16, 1946, which, he said, quoted Black as complaining against a decision by Jackson in the Jewell Ridge coal case as an "open and gratuitous insult" and a "slur upon his (Black's) personal and judicial honor."

The column purportedly related to the "inside story" of the case as laid before President Truman.

A Boost For Vinson

"I want it understood," Jackson declared, "that nothing in this statement is to be construed as the slightest reflection upon Fred Vinson." Vinson was nominated by President Truman for the post of Chief Justice of the United States. Vinson's appointment has not yet been confirmed by the Senate.

"It is desirable to get the controversy all back of us now so that he (Vinson) can take up his task without the cloud hanging over the Court."

Lauds Vinson

Describing Vinson as "an upright, fearless and well-qualified man" for the chief justice post, Jackson said that "further suppression of facts" of the internal dispute "will not help Mr. Vinson and will afford a continuing basis for irresponsible rumor and innuendo."

"Many have assumed, and the impression has been cultivated, that he (Vinson) faces a mere personal vendetta among justices which can be soothed by a tactful presiding officer," Jackson said.

"This is utterly false. The controversy goes to the reputation of the court for non-partisan and unbiased decision."

Referring to the Jewell Ridge coal case, Jacfison asserted:

"Mr. Justice Black controlled the assignment of the case because the chief justice (Stone) was in dissent. Mr. Justcie Black chose Mr. Justice Murphy to write a majority opinion. While Mr. Justice Murphy was preparing the opinion the strike of mine workers and negotiations with operators were proceeding.

"It was proposed to hand down the decision in favor of the miners without waiting for opinion and dissent. The only apparent reason behind this proposal was to announce the decisoin in time to influence contract negotiations during the coal strike."

Jackson said Chief Justice Stone protested the "irregular treatment" and that course was abandoned.

Former Partner in Case

However, he said, he was "uneasy" about the situation because Black's former partner, Crampton Harris of Alabama, was concerned in the case and also was a figure in previous litigation involving the Tennessee Coal company and a mine union dispute. In that case, Jackson declared, Black's vote was decisive in favor of Harris' client—while Jackson and two other justices dissented.

After these two decisions, Jackson, the Jewel Ridge company appealed for a rehearing asking that Black be excluded from consideration of the case, but all the justices agreed there was no rule disqualifying a member. Therefore, Jackson said, they decided to deny the rehearing.

Jackson called a late evening press conference on short notice and issued the bitter blast. He declined to elaborate on the written statement except to comment in reply to a question that the feuding existed among justices appointed by the late President Roosevelt. He added:

"And they called us rubber stamps."

"Justice Black insisted on a mere denial," Jackson said. "Neither I nor any of the other justices wanted to lend our names to blind and unqualified approval."

Compromise by Stone

Jackson wrote the opinion and Stone watered it down in a compromise, he added.

"I did not say it was wrong of Mr. Justice Black to sit," Jackson declared. "But I did say the question was for him to decide. I pointed out that to imply approval of his sitting would put the court in a most inconsistent position.

"Mr. Justice Black became very angry and said that any opinion which discussed the subject at all would mean 'a declaration of war.' I told Justice Black in language that was sharp, but no different than I would use again, that I would not stand for any more of his bullying."

Stone said he did not want to engage in "war" and withdrew his opinion, Jackson, continued.

Filed Concurrent Opinion

Jackson said he then filed his opinion with the concurrent opinion of Justice Frankfurter.

"Mr. Justice Black put his associates in the position where they must speak or by silence approve, with no knowledge of all the facts, his course in the case," Jackson said. "His position came to this: I must join in covering up facts or have war. Such pressure made me doubly cautious about approval and I refused to buy my peace at that price."

Jackson emphasized his support of Fred M. Vinson as new chief justice but said his task in bringing dissident elements of the court together would be "most difficult."

"Many have assumed that he faces a mere personal vendetta among the justices," Jackson wrote.

"This is utterly false. The controversy goes to the reputation of the court for non-partisan and unbiased decision. This 'feud' has been so long publicized that Congress has a right to know the facts and issues involved."

Time for Action

Jackson said he thought this was the time to bring the situation into the open especially since he was accused in his absence from the Supreme court of contributing to the feud. While the appointment of the chief justice was pending, he said, he felt he could not answer such accusations but now feels free to do so. Jackson said that Vinson should be able to sit without such a "cloud" hanging over the high court.

Jackson said he was not reflecting on Black's "honor" but on the whole judicial policy involved, adding:

"There may be those who think it quite harmless to encourage employment of justices' ex-law partners to argue close cases by smothering objections which the bar makes to this practice. But in my view such an attitude soon would bring the court into disrepute. However innocent a coincidence these two victories at successive terms by Justice Black's former lawpartner, I wanted that practice stopped. If is ever repeated while I am on the bench I will make my Jewell Ridge opinion look like a letter of recommendation by comparison."

Text of Jackson Statement

JUN 11 1946

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, June 10.—The complete text of a statement by Associated Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief American war crimes prosecutor, cabled tonight to the chairman of the Senate and House Judiciary Committee:

The President has nominated an upright, fearless and well qualified man for Chief Justice of the United States. Mr. Vin-son's task is most difficult and long personal friendship with him as well as concern for the court make me desire that he will succeed in his task.

It is important that the magnitude and nature of the task which faces him shall not be minimized. Many have assumed, and the impression has been cultivated, that he faces a mere personal vendetta among justices which can be soothed by a tactful presiding officer. This is utterly false. The controversy goes to the reputation of the court for non-partisan and unbiased decision.

Further suppression of facts will not help Mr. Vinson and will afford a continuing basis for irresponsible rumor and innuendo.

This "feud" has been so much and so long publicized that Congress has a rght to know the facts and issues involved. This is an appropriate opportunity so far as they involve myself and my participation in court decisions. I also have personal reasons for wanting the situation made clear.

Such news as reaches me here indicates that in my absence one of my colleagues made publicized threats to the President, and that they have been exploited through certain inspired commentators and columnists to imply that "offensive" behavior on my part is responsible for the feud in the court.

I could not defend myself, even to the President, while appointment of a Chief Justice was pending, without being in a position of pleading for the post. That I would not do. Now that the appointment is made, I am free to answer and choose to do so, not by innuendos, but over my signature.

The most specific attack on me is that in "The Washington Star" of May 16, 1946. This purports to bespeak Justice Blacks grievance that my opinion on denial of a rehearing in the Jewell Ridge case was an "open and gratuitous insult" and a "slur upon his personal and judicial honor" to which he "reacted with fiery scorn." It purports to delate the "inside story" of this case as laid before the President. The omissions from this column are more significant than its "inside facts."

Since the confidence in which internal matters in the court ought usually to be held is already broken by partial disclosures, I shall reveal the undisclosed part of the story.

The Jewel Ridge coal decision (326 US 161) in itself was a somewhat startling one. The Unted Mine Workers reversed the position it had previously taken about the fair labor standards act superseding the coal miners collectively bargained contracts. It employed as counsel Mr. Justice Black's former law partner to argue its new contention to the Supreme Court, and he, too, took a position a sto coal miners not consistent with his argument used the previous term to win a case for the iron miners. Mr. Justice Black reversed the position he had taken in managing the bill as a Senator. The court by a bare majority of 5 to 4, supported the change of front by the United Mine Workers. The facts are set forth in the dissenting opinion which I wrote at the request of Chief Justice Stone and in which he and Justices Roberts and Frankfurter joined. Professor Dodd, a leading scholar of labor law and a critic not unfriendly to labor, writes of the majority decision as follows in the February, 1946 issue of "The Harvard Law Review":

"It is difficult to believe that a majority of the members of the court would have held the agreements invalid if th ecase had come before them prior to the date of the union's change of front. So wanton an interference with collective bargaining would scarcely have commended itself to justices for whom the right of workers to bargain collectively is one of the essential freedoms of an industrial society."

Parties winning this case which arose in Virginia were represented before the court by Crampton Harris, of Alabama, who is Mr. Justice Black's former law partner. Mr. Harris had also been employed by Justice Black, when he was a Senator, to defend him and his committee against litigation resulting from the seizure of certain telegrams in the course of a Senate investigation on the court.

Mr. Justice Black controlled assignment of the case because the Chief Justice was in dissent. Mr. Justice Black chose Mr. Justice Murphy to write the majority opinion. While Mr. Justice Murphy was preparing his opinion a strike of the mine workers and negotiations with the operators were proceeding. It was proposed to hand down the decision in favor of the miners without waiting for the opinion and dissent. The only apparent reason behind this proposal was to announce the decision in time to influence the contract negotiations.

During the coal strike Chief Justice Stone protested such proposed irregular treatment vigorously. I do not believe Mr. Justice Murphy favored it. In all events it was abandoned, but the conduct of this case following the Tennessee case created uneasiness in my mind in Tennessee Coal vs. Muscoda Local (321 US 590).

A term earlier Mr. Justice Black's former partner was also the successful attorney there, too. It was Mr. Justice Black who chose Mr. Justice Murphy to write the opinion and there the opinion became that of the court solely by Mr. Justice Black's vote. Two justices, including myself, who agreed that the miners should win on the merits could not accept the reasoning of that opinion.

The defeated parties in the Jewell Ridge case applied to the court for a rehearing and asked that Justice Black be excluded from participation because of his past relations to the attorney for the successful parties.

As there is no power in the court to disqualify a duly commissioned justice, all members were agreed that the petition for a rehearing must be denied. The only question was whether we would deny it upon legal grounds that the court was without power to pass on the question of qualification, or whether it would be announced merely as "denied," which would leave grounds of denial undisclosed and, of course, capable of interpretation as an indorsement by the whole court of Justice Black's participation.

It was at this point that the controversy referred to by the "Star" columnist occurred. Justice Black insisted on mere denial. This would not draw attention to his participation or to other circumstances. If his action were later questioned, the denial would be construed as vindication by the court on the facts.

None of us knew then, and I do not know now, anything of the relations between the justice and his former law partner except that they had continued to be cordial.

But in view of the course of the case, neither I nor any of the other justices who had dissented wanted to lend our names to a blind and unqualified approval.

I prepared an opinion, in substance the one that finally was published under my name. The Chief Justice attempted to compromise the matter and prepared a shorter opinion which read as follows:

"Per curiam: This court is without authority and does not undertake to pass upon the propriety of the participation of members in the decision of cases brought here for review. The petition for a rehearing is denied."

I was willing to accept the Chief Justice's compromise, but Justice Roberts was out of the city and did not attend the final sessions.

At the conference I said in substance that the petition should be denied on the ground that each member is responsible for his own decision on whether to sit or decline to sit on any particular case. I did not say it was wrong of Mr. Justice Black to sit. But I did say that the question was for him to decide and the responsibility for approving a decision should not by inference be put on the court which lacked knowledge of all the facts but of which it could not be unaware of the appearances.

I pointed out that to imply approval of his sitting would put the court, and especially the Chief Justice, in a most inconsistent position. That very moment the court was disabled from hearing an important case because Mr. Stone declined to sit, for the reason that a case was being presented by his former law partners, although he had not associated with them for many years (the North American Company vs. the Security Exchange Commission and the Security Exchange Commission vs. the Engineers Public Service Company.)

I said in view of this dissimilarity of practice I thought the court should make clear that disqualification for such reasons was a matter on which the court could not act and which each justice must determine for himself.

Mr. Black became very angry and said any opinion which discussed the subject at all would mean "a declaration of war." I told Justice Black in language that was sharp but no different than I would use again; that I ould not stand any more of his bullying and whatever I would otherwise do I would now have to write my opinion to keep my self respect in the face of his threats.

The chief justice told me that at his age he did not want to be in the "war" which threatened and withdrew his proposed opinion and kept silent. Mr. Justice Roberts was absent and was not consulted. I filed my opinion with Mr. Frankfurter's concurrence.

As the record shows, that opinion can hardly be called a "gratuitous insult" for the fact is that Mr. Justice Black put his associates in a position where they must speak or by silence approve with no knowledge of all the facts his course in the case.

His position came to this: I must join in covering up facts or have war. Such pressure made me doubly cautious about approval and I refused to buy my peace at that price.

Another serious misrepresentation put into "The Washington Star" column by the devise of an anonymous Senator is that I also threatened the President with resignation. This is utterly false.

I do not want litigants to think of me as a justice who has threatened the President, whose administration is party to some forty per cent of Supreme Court litigation.

In fact, I shall not be surprised if soon it will be denied that Justice Black made such threats since they now leave everybody, including the court, in an unfavorable light.

If not actually made, it is equally sinister that a fabrication about a justice should be so assiduously advertised without denial from any source. It is high time these stories of "feuds" cease to be mysteriously and irresponsibly set out and that Congress had the facts.

If war is declared on me, I propose to wage it with the weapons of the open warrior, not those of the sealthy assassin.

I want it understood that nothing in this statement is to be construed as the slightest reflection upon Mr. Fred Vinson. My knowledge of him leads me to the conviction that attempts to deal with him in the manner I have recited would be no more successful than they were with me.

It is desirable to get this controversy all back of us now, so that he can take up his task without the cloud hanging over the court.

Further, I do not want it inferred that I charge that Justice Black's sitting in the Jewell Ridge case involved lack of "honor." It is rather a question of judgment as to sound judicial policy.

There may be those who think it quite harmless to encourage the employment of a justice's ex-law partners to argue close cases by smothering the objections which the bar makes to this practice. But in my view such an attitude would soon bring the court into disrepute.

We do not sit like local judges, where lawyers and litigants know our relationships and characters. Our lawyers and litigants are usually, except when appearing for the government, strangers who know us only by publicity, by our work and by appearances.

However, innocent the coincidence of these two victories at successive terms by Justice Black's former law partner, I wanted that practice stopped. If it is ever repeated while I am on the bench I will make my Jewel Ridge opinion look like a letter of recommendation by comparison. I have considered that the attacks upon me during my adsence cannot in fairness to my future work on the Court be left unanswered and that the responsible committees of Congress are entitled to the facts.

Congress Expected To Make Investigation Of Charges

Washington, June 10 (AP)—The explosion within the United States Supreme Court rocked the capital tonight, and it was expected that Congress would conduct an investigation of the angry charges leveled by Justice Jackson against Justice Black.

Most congressmen were loath to comment pending a study of the documents in the case, but it was predicted privately that the House Judiciary Committee would look into the case.

Obviously taken aback by the nature of Jackson's comments, Senator Hatch (D., N.M.), a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, told a reporter that "the charges are so grave that I cannot comment on them."

1948

It was Hatch's attitude that if any investigation of the charges is made, it should be done by the House, which would conduct any impeachment proceedings.

Black's Office Silent

There was no immediate comment from Chairman Hataton W. Sumners (D., Texas), of the House Judiciary Committee.

Justice Black, through his office, declined comment on Jackson's assertions, made at Nuernberg, Germany, where he was presiding at the war crimes trials.

Justices Murphy and Frankfurter, also mentioned in Jackson's statement, were not available for comment.

Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, said that there would be no comment there on the situation.

Fred M. Vinson, now Secretary of the Treasury, who had been nominated by President Truman to be Chief Justice, also had no comment to make.

Law Partner Is Silent

Doris Fleeson, author of the newspaper column mentioned by Jackson as referring to a "feud" in the Court, said she had no comment.

Crampton Harris, of Birmingham, Justice Black's former law partner, mentioned by Justice Jackson in his statement, also had no comment to make at his home in Alabama.

Former Justice Owen J. Roberts said in Philadelphia that he had "no comment," that "I couldn't possibly discuss it."

Would Avoid Controversy

Chairman McCarran (D., Nev.), of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said that a cablegram which Jackson said he had sent to the Senate and House judiciary committees had not been received. However, McCarran said that if it were received, it might be laid before the committee Wednesday at a regular meeting. On Friday the committee will consider President Truman's nomination of Vinson to be Chief Justice of the United States.

Senator Kilgore (D., W.Va.) said he saw no reason why the Senate should take any recognition of the Jackson-Black controversy unless Vinson's nomination should become involved in some manner

"I have always felt that the Senate should steer clear of investigating judges because it acts as the judge if impeachment proceedings are brought," he told reporters.

Eastland Promises Statement

"Senators should not act as investigators and then as judges in the same case."

Under the Constitution, the House initiates impeachment. In that event the Senate becomes the bar of justice.

Kilgore said he did not think the Senate should delay action on Vinson's nomination just because "two other fellows" were having a fight.

Senator Eastland (D., Miss.) said it was "apparent" that there was a "situation there which Congress should investigate," adding: "I'll have something more to say in the Senate."

Stanfill Withholds Comment

Senator McKellar (D., Tenn.) said he hadn't heard about it, so could not comment.

Senator Stanfill (R., Ky.), a member of the Judiciary Committee, said that the committee had scheduled a meeting for tomorrow and declared that it was possible that Jackson's charges might "be taken up then."

He said he preferred to withhold comment until he had had an opportunity to see Jackson's full statement, but added, "if true, it is a mess when we have members of the Court fighting each other."

RUSSIA AND YUGOSLAVIA SIGN ECONOMIC ACCORD

LONDON, June 10 — (AP) The Moscow radio said tonight that Russia and Yugoslavia had reached complete agreement on a program of economic collaboration, supplies for the Yugoslav army and close cultural and political cooperation.

Prime Minister Stalin, Premier Marshal Tito and other leaders of both countries agreed that the Yugoslav army would be supplied with ammunition and armaments by Russia and that the Yugoslav armament industry would be furnished materials, the broadcast added.

In Belgrade, it was announced that Tito had returned to the Yugoslav capital after two weeks of conferences in Moscow.

Toledano in Moscow For Labor Talks

BRITAIN WILL EXPAND NATIONALIZATION WORK

BOURNEMOUTH, England, June 10. — (AP) Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison told the annual British Labor party conference today that nationalization of the vast chemical industry, and of fishing, petroleum and agriculture, "is actively before the national executive committee."

Morrison, floor leader of the Labor majority in the House of Commons, spoke after Prof. Harold Laski, chairman of the Labor party executive committee, asserted that the surest hope for world peace lay in a combination of the strength of governments "like the Russian and our own." He urged Russia to "let the capitalist governments mistrust one another," and join Britain in an "experiment in friendship."

U.N. Council Puts Off Session

L. HAUCK

New York, June 10 (AP)—Delegates to the United Nations Security Council held a series of individual conferences today, seeking common ground on a compromise plan for handling the report on Franco Spain, and then postponed the next Council session until Thursday morning.

The Council originally was scheduled to convene tomorrow, but the meeting was delayed at the request of the British delegation, which still awaits instructions from its home Government.

Debate Expected

With additional time to reconcile viewpoints, delegates hoped to be closer together for the full-scale debate on a subcommittee's report which recommended that if Generalissimo Franco remains in power in September the 51-nation General Assembly should call upon the entire membership to break relations with the Spanish Government. The compromise was reported to call for adoption of the report with modifications, including minor revisions making recommendations to the Assembly more flexible and removal of a time limit on the suggested break, with any date setting being left up to the Assembly.

New Clash Possible

Herbert V. Evatt, Australian delegate and chairman of the subcommittee, was said by an adviser to be reluctant to abandon the report but was reported keeping an open mind on any suggested compromise.

Another clash ranging Russia against the United States and Great Britain was in prospect should the compromise reach the floor. A Soviet spokesman already has criticized the report for not going far enough, and any additional toning down would be certain to draw opposition, and possibly a veto, from the Russian delegate, Andrei A. Gromyko.

United States and British spokesmen both have indicated they felt the report needed some modifications. The British were represented as being against any hasty moves by the Council on the theory that the report calls for no action before September and delegates should have plenty of time to formulate and exchange views.

A Heavy Week Is Ahead For U.N. Units

L. HAUCK

New York, June 10 (AP) — The United Nations today plunged into a week of heavy work with discussions of atomic energy and Franco Spain highlighting the crowded calendar.

Aside from these complicated political questions, the Economic and Social Council speeded efforts to reconcile differences between Russia, the United States and Britain on several important issues. The Council hopes to meet a June 20 adjournment deadline.

The Security Council has been tentatively called to meet at 3 P.M. tomorrow to debate on a subcommittee's report on the Franco regime. A compromise plan was reported in sight.

Report In Spain

The subcommittee report recommended that if Generalissimo Franco remains in power in September the 51-nation General Assembly should call upon the entire membership to break relations with the Spanish Government.

Indications today were that the Security Council meeting might be postponed until later in the week in view of a request from the British Government for more time to consult its home Government. A spokesman for the delegation said Britain's week-end victory celebration and the observation of Whit Monday in London had delayed the final instructions.

Herschel Johnson, United States representative, completed conferences in Washington over the week end and was reported ready to proceed.

The compromise plan was reported to call for:

Adoption of the report with modifications; removal of a time limit on the suggested break, with any decision as to date being left up to the Assembly; and minor revisions tending to make recommendations to the Assembly more flexible.

New Conditions

In explaining such a compromise, a source close to one of the delegations said some nations felt they did not want to commit themselves now as to what should be done in September, feeling that new conditions might arise to make some other course more desirable.

The atom bomb goes before the United Nations Friday with convening of the twelve-nation Commission for Control of Atomic Energy. The eleven countries represented on the Security Council and Canada have seats.

BIDAULT ADVANCED AS CANDIDATE FOR TOP FRENCH OFFICE

R. WILSON

PARIS, June 10. — (AP) The moderate Popular Republican Movement party (MRP) today filed a cautious claim to the presidency of the new interim French government without naming a candidate, but Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, the MRP's most prominent leader, appeared the most likely choice.

It was NIGHT that a majority of the MRP leaders favor Bidault's candidacy and they plan to sound out the party's legislative group on this point tomorrow.

Bidault told a meeting of his party chiefs that the MRP had decided to take the responsibilities conferred upon it by the people when they made it the nation's largest party in last week's constituent assembly election.

His statement followed the action of the Socialists yesterday in voting for limited participation in the government, specifically excluding the presidency and any important, controversial ministry.

The tight-lipped Communist party appeared to hold the key to the success or failure of attempts to form a new three-party government. Their strategy council is not scheduled to meet until Saturday.

The new constitutent assembly will meet for the first time tomorrow and by Saturday is expected to have elected an assembly president.

Some observers felt that the Socialist rejection of the presidency raised the possibility of a complete breakdown of all attempts to form a three-party cabinet and a return to new elections. Others foresaw an MRP government that would only last a short time, or a Communist-Socialist "popular front" government with the MRP in the opposition role.

In yesterday's Socialist Congress a fourth of the 4,000 delegates were opposed to any Socialist participation in the government, and strong sentiment appeared for a healing of relations with the Communists.

The Socialists, who ran third in the last elections, explained their loss of strength by the fact they held most of the responsible posts in the old government and thus were chief victim of the nation's dissatisfaction with bad economic conditions. Felix Gouin, the last provisional president, was a Socialist.

M. R. P. IS WILLING TO TAKE POWER

Paris, June 10 (A. P.). — France's Popular Republican Movement, one of whose leaders is Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, indicated today its willingness to take the presidency of the new interim government.

Bidault told a meeting of party chiefs that the M. R. P. had decided to take the responsibilities conferred upon it by the people, who in the elections, a week ago made it the nation's strongest party, and by consequence it would "claim the power."

The MRP decision, which will be calborated on at another meeting tonight, followed the Socialist party's decision yesterday to refuse to head the Government. President Felix Gouin is a Socialist. The MRP action raised Bidault into the front ranks of the candidates for the presidency depening upon Communist willingness to participate in an MRP-headed Cabinet.

Should Bidault become president, he might relinquish the Foreign Affairs post to Pierre Scheneiter, companion of Bidault in the wartime resistance movement and liaison officer for the city of Reims and United States Army Headqaurters there. He is on Bidault's staff at the Guai d'Orsay.

New Referendum in September

PARIS, June 10 (AP)—It was announced tonight that the referendum on the Constitution to be drafted by the new Assembly would be held in September and parliamentary elections would be held in October.

DEFENDANT DENIES CRUELTY CHARGES IN LICHFIELD CASE

D. DORÉ

JUN 11 1946

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany, June 10. — (AP) Lt. Granville Cubage of Oklahoma City denied today charges he authorized brutality by guards at the U. S. Army guardhouse at Lichfield, England, but one soldier prisoner witness asserted, "They've got concentration camps right in the United States Army."

The defendant is one of 16 soldiers on trial for cruelty to prisoners. Three have been convicted.

Defends Lieutenant

Opening the defense for Cubage, his attorney, Lt. Col. William Parker, East Hampton, Mass., said "nothing was authorized by Cubage outside the scope of Army regulations."

"Severe treatment, yes, but always within the Army regulations," he added. "Our evidence will show that these alleged incidents of mistreatment have apparently been exaggerated."

Parker then presented evidence of a sanitary engineer and a doctor who said they frequently inspected the Lichfield prisoners and found no signs or complaints that they had been mistreated as numerous prosecution witnesses have described.

The military court denied by secret vote a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquital at the conclusion of the two-weeks long prosecution case.

Breaks Long Silence

The soldier witness, Mike Koblinsky of Saginaw, Mich., was one of 12 prosecution witnesses who on Saturday ended an 11-day silence striking by agreeing to talk. Twice before they had refused, protesting what they called alleged injustices from the Army.

Koblinsky, elaborating his "concentration camp" assertion, said he had been beaten unconscious and kicked by soldier guards while confined at Lichfield in 1944 and 1945. He told the military court that Cubage called him into his office on his third visit to the guardhouse and told him:

"I guess the only way to keep you away from here is to beat you all over the place. I guarantee you won't be back here after tonight."

Five other of the once-silent witnesses were recalled in the trials of Cubage and of Lt. Leonard W. Ennis of Peekskill, N. Y. Two testified they were struck in the presence of Cubage.

"Then a blanket was thrown over my head and I was beaten until I passed out," said Pvt. Theodore Taylor, New York.

Pvt. Louis L. Kardon, Philadelphia, said he was hit with a club while Cubage stood five feet feet away. Neither accused Cubage of personally landing blows.

Aubrey L. Richey, of Birmingham, Ala., another witness, testifying in the trial of Ennis, showed the court head scars which he said were relics of a beating at Lichfield. He testified in the trial of Ennis and said after he had been clubbed on the head, "Ennis came over and saw me bleeding and asked, 'How did you fall down the stairs.'

"But he knew I had been beaten," Richey said. "He grabbed my collar, twisted it and pulled me up. He put me in solitary confinement for eleven days without any medical treatment."

Trial Told Army Runs 'Concentration Camps'

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 10 (AP)—A soldier prisoner, breaking a witness-stand strike in the Lichfield trials, asserted today that "they've got concentration camps right in the United States Army."

The witness, Mike Koblinsky, of Saginaw, Mich., was one of twelve prosecution witnesses who on Saturday ended an 11-day silence strike by agreeing to talk. Twice before they had refused, protesting alleged injustices from the Army.

Tells Court Of Beatings

Koblinsky is serving a court-martial sentence and he testified in the trial of Lieut. Granville Cubage, Oklahoma City, one of the sixteen soldiers accusing of brutality to prisoners at the United States army guardhouse at Lichfield, England. Three have been convicted.

Koblinsky asserted that he had been beaten unconscious and kicked by soldier guards while confined at Lichfield in 1944 and 1945.

He told the military court that Cubage called him into his office on his third visit to the guardhouse and told him:

"I guess the only way to keep you away from here is to beat you all over the place. I guarantee you won't be back here after tonight."

Five Others Break Silence

Five others of the once-silent witnesses were recalled in the trials of Cubage and of Lieut. Leonard W. Ennis, of Peekskill, N.Y. Two testified they were struck in the presence of Cubage.

"Then a blanket was thrown over my head and I was beaten until I passed out," said Private Theodore Taylor, of New York.

Private Louis L. Kardon, Philadelphia, said he was hit with a club while Cubage stood five feet away. Neither accused Cubage of personally landing blows.

Alabamian Shows Scars

Aubrey L. Richey, Birmingham, Ala., another witness, showed the court head scars which he said were relics of a beating at Lichfield. He testified in the trial of Ennis and said after he had been clubbed on the head, "Ennis came over and saw me bleeding and asked, 'How did you fall down the stairs.'

"But he knew I had been beaten," Richey said. "He grabbed my collar, twisted it and pulled me up. He put me in solitary confinement for eleven days without any medical treatment."

Army Hunts Rest Of Hesse Gems In Germany

Frankfurt, Germany, June 10 (AP). United States Army investigators, working closely with Washington, explored today the possibility that a small number of the gems still unrecovered in the theft of $1,500,000 worth of the Hesse jewels from Kronberg Castle might still be hiden in Germany.

Criminal investigation agents refused to reveal whether there were any developments arising out of the arrest of Major David F. Watson, 36, of Burlingame, Cal., who was taken into custody here Friday, declaring they were operating under War Department instructions.

Watson Talks Freely

But United States Army headquarters officers said that Watson had made a long statement to criminal investigation agents and that the possibility that some gems might "be hidden in Germany is not being overlooked."

Watson had worked in close conjunction at United States headquarters with Col. J. W. Durant, arrested in Chicago with his WAC captain-wife in connection with the removal of the previous heirlooms of Countess von Hessen, 74, granddaughter of Queen Victoria of England, from stately Kronberg Castle near here.

Until a couple of months ago, Watson was Durant's assistant in the personnel division of army headquarters. They worked in adjoining offices of the huge I. G. Farben building in Frankfurt.

Mum On Developments

Washington, June 10 (AP)—The Army adopted a hush-hush attitude today about new developments in the "greatest jewel robbery of modern times"—the looting of $1,500,000 worth of Hessian Crown jewels from an ancestral Rhineland castle.

War Department officials declined to talk about the latest figure to be brought into the case—Major David F. Watson, of Burlingame, Cal., who was placed under arrest in Germany.

Officials likewise kept mum on the progress of their hunt for a discharged corporal who figures in the fictional thriller which brought woe to Lieut. Col. Jack W. Durant and WAC Capt. Kathleen B. Nash Durant, his bride of two weeks.

Shipment Unexplained

Another angle of the case yet to be explained fully is how the fabulous jewel trove reached the United States after it was "liberated" from a secret cache beneath the flagstones in a subcellar of Kronberg Castle last November, when the WAC captain was operating the castle as an officers' rest home.

Officers said they believed the WAC had mailed some of the treasure to herself at an address in the United States, and that Colonel Durant brought the remainder with him in his baggage when he was redeployed. Colonel Durant courted the WAC when she was at Kronberg.

'Fence' Had the Crown Gems

Phone Message From Col. Durant Resulted in Quick Recovery in Chicago Locker.

Chicago, June 10 (A. P.).—The Hessian crown jewels, prize of the "greatest jewel robbery of modern times," were in the hands of a "fence" when Col. Jack W. Durant and Wac Capt. Kathleen B. Durant were seized, the Army said today.

Major John D. Evans of Lincoln, Neb., Sixth Service Command Provist Marshal, related at a news conference that Col. Durant had no idea of where the jewels were when he was seized by Military Police in the LaSalle Hotel last week.

On Friday the Colonel asked for permission to make a telephone call. Evans said the Colonel talked to the "fence," an underworld name for a dealer in stolen goods, and was told to wait for another telephone call.

One hour later, Evans continued, Durant received a call at a restaurant and was informed the jewels had been hidden in a locker in the Illinois Central Railroad station. The caller gave Durant instructions on where to find the key.

Durant and the military escort picked up the key and went to the station where the precious loot was recovered. Major Evans did not make known where the key was obtained.

Evans said Col. Durant made his call to the "fence" at 7:30 P. M. and that the call back came at 8:30 P. M. The announcement of the jewel theft had appeared in the afternoon newspapers Friday and the "fence" knew the stuff was exceptionally "hot," Evans said.

What Penalty May Be—.

The Durants, Evans said, will be charged with violation of the 80th Article of War which covers the taking of loot by members of the military and failing to turn in valuable to proper authorities.

The penalty for violation of the eightieth article of war is fine or imprisonment, or both, as directed by a court-martial or other military tribunal. No limits are specified for the punishment.

Evans said the jewels recovered in the depot locker were almost all precious stones, which had been removed from their settings, apparently before being shipped to the United States.

Many of the other items, including some bracelets, necklaces, a Bible once owned by Britain's Queen Victoria and volumes of correspondence from Victoria to her children had been recovered previously, at Hudson, Wis., where they had been left by Capt. Durant, who was arrested with Col. Durant.

Evans said that Major David F. Watson, of Burlingame, Cal., who was arrested in Germany, had shipped many of the items from Germany to Capt. Durant, at her sister's home. One of the boxes in which the valuables were shipped has been recovered, the major said.

Evans quoted Col. Durant as saying that all of the unset stones might not have been returned by the "fence" but no one was able to say definitely. Evans refused to disclose whether or not the "fence" was known to authorities, or whether any suspects had been arrested in that connection.

ARMY OPENS PROBE ON FRATERNIZATION

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 10—(AP) Gen. Joseph T. McNarney has ordered an exhaustive probe of Army units in Europe in an attempt to solve the problems of fraternization and venereal disease.

U. S. headquarters said today that all military units as large as companies will be inspected by a group of specially-designated officers.

The enlisted men in every unit will also be asked to voice complaints and give McNarney an idea how they feel about their occupation mission.

FRANCE GETS SHIP

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 10—(AP) The captured German liner Europa, which once served as an American troop ship, has been turned over to the French government as war reparations, a U. S. Navy announcement from Bremerhaven said tonight.

GERMAN G. I. BRIDES SEEK SHIP TO U. S.

Frankfurt, June 10 (A. P.).—The Army was bewildered today to find that five German war brides, married somehow to American soldiers despite rules, had applied for passage to the United States on a G. I. bride ship.

Army authorities have been pondering for months what to do with several soldiers and War Department civilians who found legal ways to evade the prohibition on American-German marriages. Now the problem has sent officers at headquarters to their typewriters pounding out cables seeking clarification from Washington.

It seems no mention of nationality of brides was made in the federal legislation which already has allowed more than 41,000 wives and children of troops to travel to the United States. A headquarters officer commented:

"I don't know what we are going to do about their bids except hold them up untill the thing is straightened out."

Names of the husbands were withheld.

GERMAN ACTIONS IN HOLLAND FAIR, SAYS NAZI LEADER

NUERNBERG, June 10—(AP) Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Hitler's Reichs-commissioner in the Netherlands, testified today that he constantly was at odds with the Gestapo over the shooting of Dutchmen without trial, but that he was powerless to intervene.

30.24-3233

Seyss-Inquart, 17th of the Nazi leaders to present his defense on war crimes charges before the International Military Tribunal, also testified that when he was reich-commissioner of Austria, Hitler double-crossed him by failing to keep the promises he made before the anschluss that Austrian ideals would be maintained as a requisite to a peaceful union with Germany.

NIGHT

In Holland, Seyss-Inquart said, he tried to ameliorate conditions in concentration camps wherever he could, and added:

"A represeitative of the Dutch Red Cross was allowed to visit these camps and never directed any complaints to me. I considered that remarkable, because the Dutch complained about everything."

The defendant said he was aware of "excesses" committed against the Dutch, but that "in wartime, that is almost unavoidable, because subordinates have too much power and are too little controlled."

"We have heard here of terrible things," Seyss-Inquart said, "and judging from them, conditions in the Netherlands were not so bad. The reports charge principally beatings, are only one was on the level of the usual atrocity reports."

Resistance Leaders Shot

"Leaders of the resistance were arrested and examined by the S.S. and police and were subject to be shot under the Fuehrer's orders. For example, there was the case of a plot to blow a bridge, and instead of taking hostages, these men were shot. That is the opposite of shooting hostages—at least, it was supposed to be."

Testifying concerning the anschluss, the tall former commissioner offered in evidence a transcript of notes he made at a conference with Hitler in Berchtesgaden in February, 1938, before the anschluss. His lawyer introduced records showing that Seyss-Inquart was superseded in authority by Hitler's appointment of Joseph Buerckel as reichscommissioner, reporting directly to the Fuehrer.

"I told Hitler I would not offer myself as a Trojan horse leader," Seyss-Inquart testified.

crossed him after annexing Austria to the Reich.

DAY

Opening his defense against accusations that he sold out his native Austria and then participated in outrages against the Netherlands, Seyss-Inquart said that Hitler failed to keep promises he made in a conference at Berchtesgaden in February, 1938.

Demoted, He Says

The defendant said he told Hitler at that time that Austrian ideals must be maintained, as a requisite to a peaceful union with Germany.

The Führer agreed to this, Seyss-Inquart testified.

But after the German armies once were solidly entrenched within Austria, the defendant continued, Hitler took an opposite tack and relegated Seyss-Inquart to a subordinate position.

"I told Hitler I would not offer myself as a Trojan-horse leader," he said.

Seyss-Inquart offered a transcript of notes he made at the Berchtesgaden conference to substantiate his claims, and his lawyer also introduced records showing that Seyss-Inquart was promptly superseded in the highest position of authority by Hitler's appointment of Joseph Buerckel as Reichcommissar, reporting directly to the Führer.

A. M. G. TURNS BACK GERMAN PROPERTY

JUN 11 1946

Berlin, June 10 (A. P.).—The American Military Government authorities announced today that they were turning over to German administrative agencies for safeguarding and administering some 7,000,000,000 marks ($700,000,000 at the military rate of exchange) worth of property which had been taken over in the American zone.

The bulk of the property was in real estate, the greatest value being represented by confiscated factories including some I. G. Farben plants. Also included were properties of the fromer German Government, the Nazi party and its affiliates, Allied neutral nationals and persecuted persons. A. M. G. officials said the action was taken in accordance with the policy of giving the German authorities greater responsibilities in the handling of internal affairs.

CIVIL WAR FEAR RISES OVER ITALY

JUN 11 1946

King Clinging To Throne Pending Court Ruling; Disorders Mount

Rome, Tuesday, June 11 (AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi's Cabinet proclaimed today a national holiday marking the birth of the Italian republic, but King Umberto II still clung stubbornly to his throne as the country tottered on the brink of a crisis as grave as the Fascist march on Rome a generation ago.

Disorders had developed in Naples. Throughout the country, which seemed to be lingering uneasily in a twilight zone between a republic and a monarchy, heavy police and military forces were deployed to guard against outbreaks.

NIGHT

Government sources said that if a solution is not found—and quickly—anything could happen, even civil war.

More Disorders In Italy

De Gasperi's ministers promised the country's Republicans that their victory in last week's plebiscite would not be snatched from them.

Meanwhile, Monarchist spokesmen, who have charged election irregularities, emphasized that Umberto would not leave Italy until his defeat was officially established by the Supreme Court.

In the disorders at Naples, a Monarchist stronghold, one man was killed and thirteen injured in a clash between Monarchist demonstrators and police. The Cabinet ordered the national holiday, unconfirmed reports said, in the face of threats by the Chamber of Labor to call general strikes in Milan, Turin and Genoa, all Republican centers.

Umberto, Cabinet Deadlocked

Umberto and de Gasperi's Cabinet were deadlocked over whether the Italian republic actually was in being.

The Cabinet suspended its session this morning without having reached a decision, but a communiqué promised the Republicans that "no one will be able to deprive them of the victory achieved in the legality of popular consultation."

While the bulletin made no reference to Umberto's status, it said that "concrete measures" would be adopted at a forthcoming Cabinet meeting.

Says Umberto Will Not Move

In declaring that Umberto would not move, the spokesman for the royal house, Gen. Adolfo Infante, said that the justices of the Supreme Court "still will have many things to consider in their next session." The Monarchists have charged irregularities in the plebiscite and have asked the Allies to review the results of the balloting.

The King spent three hours last night conferring with de Gasperi, who had said earlier: "Of course the republic is in effect."

Umberto was reported in both Government and Royalist circles to have proposed the designation of a "civil regency" to discharge the duties of chief of state until the situation was clarified.

From Monarchist circles came the suggestion that members of the Order of Annunziata, who are honorary cousins of the King, might be designated to fill this role. Specifically mentioned were Vittorio Emanuele Orlando, Premier during World War I, and Ivanoe Bonomi.

Giuseppe Spataro, a Christian Democrat and Under Secretary of the Interior, said the King had been willing to accept the high court's announcement and go into exile, but had been told by people surrounding him that it "was his historic duty" to remain.

The Government was puzzled, Spartaro said, by the King's insistence on the appointment of a civil regent.

"We would like to know what is behind this because it would not solve anything," the under secretary said.

Statement Contradicted

Italy's highest court announced last night a victory for the republic in last week's plebiscite, but General Infante said the King would postpone his departure into exile because the wording of the decision left the outcome of the vote "indefinite."

Almost immediately his statement was contradicted by Vice Premier Pietro Nenni. Emerging from a Cabinet meeting called to consider the difficult and potentially dangerous situation engendered by the decision, Nenni told a news conference the King would leave tomorrow "for Portugal."

Guard Against Outbreaks

The heaviest police and military forces employed since the war were thrown into the streets to guard against outbreaks, and heavy forces guarded the Royal Palace.

About 1,000 police and soldiers in full war equipment, including helmets and automatic weapons, and using armored cars with mounted machine guns, were deployed about historic Monte Cittorio Palace, where the court's decision was announced. Barbed-wire entanglements were erected to keep back crowds which began gathering early in the evening.

Two tanks backed up the strong guards thrown about the Viminale Palace, where the Cabinet was in session.

The crux of the difficulty was that Chief Justice Giuseppe Pagano's announcement that the republic's margin was 1,483,871 votes was qualified by a statement that the Supreme Court of Cassation still had to pass upon the validity of monarchist protests of electoral irregularities.

Some Returns Missing

Pagano told a tense crowd in Monte Cittorio Palace that the court had made up its totals when returns still were missing from some precincts. It was learned later these totaled about 50 and involved about 50,000 votes.

Infante said that while Umberto would remain in Italy while the result still was "indefinite," he might leave Rome to relieve the tension in the Italian capital. (ADD)

The stalemate developed when justices of the high court announced a victory for the republic in last week's plebiscite but said they still had to pass on monarchist charges of irregularity in the voting.

Italy Changing To Republic In Ceremony

JUN 11 1946

J. McKnight

Rome, June 10 (AP)—Italy will be proclaimed a republic late today, thus writing via the ballot box a virtually bloodless finale to the reign of the historic House of Savoy.

DAY

The Ministry of the Interior announced this morning that the formal ceremony marking the end of the one month reign of King Umberto II would be held at 6 P.M. in the "Hall of the Wolf" in Montecittorio Palace, where the Chamber of Deputies sat.

It was believed that Umberto would leave immediately after the ceremony for Portugal, where he will join his wife and children in exile.

Court Balks At Ruling

It was expected that the Supreme Court would finish tabulating the ballots cast in last week's plebiscite on the monarchy versus the republic earlier in the day.

Meanwhile, with royalists pressing last-minute demands that the court examine their claims of fraud in the plebiscite before making any announcement, the newspaper Espresso quoted an associate justice as saying the court, "after careful consideration," has decided it was not competent to pass upon the Monarchist contention that an absolute majority of all ballots cast—both valid and invalid—was required for a Republican victory.

Margin Seen Ample

In any case, court functionaries expressed the belief that the number of ballots invalidated for irregularities would be far below the Republican majority of 2,011,000 that the Ministry of the Interior announced last week.

Royalists maintained that some voters had cast more than one ballot and that there were many instances of persons having been deprived of their right to vote because of failure to receive their voting certificates. (ADD)

Polish Troops In Italy Take Ship For Home

Rome, June 10 (AP)—A dispatch from Naples today said 1,300 Polish soldiers, last of the members of Lieut. Gen. Wladislaw Anders's Polish Corps who chose to return home, has sailed from that port for Poland.

The group once before refused to take ship because of an argument over back pay and perquisites due them.

Others of the corps which, numbering slightly more than 100,000 men, fought with the British 8th Army during the Italian campaign, will go to Great Britain for demobilization. The first detachments are expected to leave this month.

U. S. Aide, Briton Accused As Mikhailovitch Case Opens

Prosecution Says Chetnik Met Nazi Officer While American Colonel Looked On— Order to Kill Reds Laid to Briton

D. King JUN 11 1946

By The Associated Press.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, June 10 — The Yugoslav Government's indictment of Gen. Draja Mikhailovitch charged today that the Chetnik leader had been told by a British officer in 1944 to "liquidate the Communists" in Yugoslavia, and that in 1944 an American officer had taken part in conferences between General Mikhailovitch and a German commander.

Referring to another British message, purportedly sent from the British Command in Cairo in 1941 and relayed by a British liaison officer, the indictment said Mikhailovitch had been told "that Yugoslavs are to fight for Yugoslavia and not transform the fight into a rebellion of Communists on behalf of Soviet Russia."

Over 1,000 Spectators

The indictment was read at the opening of Mihailovic's trial on charges of treason and collaboration, in a floodlighted courtroom packed with more than 1,000 spectators.

Observers noted that the prosecutor did not mention the death penalty but said he "will expect the court to pass severe and just sentence over these traitors and criminals." The prosecution asked the court to "pronounce such verdict as each accused deserves, according to the gravity of his criminal acts; severe and just punishment—cruel and merciless punishment—for those who committed cruel crimes."

American Colonel Identified

Drawn up by Marshal Tito's Government, the indictment said that in August, 1944, an American colonel named McDowell, identified in the document as chief of an American mission to Mihailovic's headquarters, met the Chetnik chief and a German named Neubacher, identified as chief of the administration staff of the Nazi military commander in Serbia. It said a month later McDowell also attended a meeting with Mihailovic and Neubacher's deputy.

[In Washington the War Department identified the United States officer as Col. Robert H. McDowell and said he was a teacher of Balkan history at the University of Michigan.

[At Ann Arbor (site of the University of Michigan) it was reported he had left his university position in February to work for the Government in Washington.]

Mihailovic's Quiet Dignity

The grizzled Chetnik leader entered the courtroom unaided, despite recent reports that his near-sightedness had grown almost to blindness. With him in the dock were thirteen codefendants accused of treasonable relations with the Germans. Ten others are being tried in absentia.

Mihailovic, maintaining a quiet dignity, replied to preliminary questions in a firm voice. When asked his occupation, he said "general of the Army." He gave his birth date as April 17, 1893.

About 100 foreign and Yugoslav journalists were in the courtroom, an auditorium of an infantry school in a Belgrade suburb, to report the trial of the man King Peter left behind in Yugoslavia for the announced purpose of waging underground war against the Nazi invaders. Mihailovic was Peter's War Minister.

Quotation Laid To McDowell

The incident, relating what purported to be an account of McDowell's visit to Chetnik headquarters, said the American told Mihailovic on his arrival:

"We Americans are not interested in your fight with Germany. They must go out of Yugoslavia by action of the Allies. It is up to you to remain among the people. . . . America is helping exclusively you and your movement in Yugoslavia."

The indictment said that in 1943, in what was called the fourth offensive of the Axis against Marshal Tito's Partisan National Army of Liberation, Mihailovic personally or through an aide "commanded all Chetnik units which were armed with Italian or German munitions, and took part with the Germans and Italians in operations aimed at the destruction of the forces of the National Liberation Army."

British Colonel Enters Picture

"At that time," the charge continued, "British Colonel Bailey, who was attached to Mihailovic's supreme command, and who was fully acquainted with the plan and development of operations carried out by Mihailovic, said that the Allies were preparing an invasion for the Spring of 1943 on the Adriatic coast, and that 'it is necessary to liquidate the Communists' in order to have a clear hinterland which would enable his forces to take up a position unhindered on the Dalmatian coast."

In the course of these operations, the indictment continued, Mihailovic "received full collaboration" from King Peter's exiled government in London.

The indictment said the exiled government was informed "that Mihailovic collaborated with the occupier in the struggle against the National Liberation Army," but that it "denied all news that Mihailovic was collaborating with the occupier, and spread invented news about the struggle of Mihailovic against the occupiers, giving him their agreement for such collaboration in ciphers through the BBC."

Mihailovic And Cairo Command

Referring back to 1941, the indictment said Mihailovic launched an offensive against the Partisans which had been planned in accordance with a message to him from the British Cairo command, conveyed by a Captain Hudson, who was identified as a liaison officer. The message said, the indictment continued, "that Yugoslavs are to fight for Yugoslavia and not transform the fight into a rebellion of Communists on behalf of Soviet Russia."

This attack failed, the indictment said, adding that Mihailovic continued to fight the Partisans with the encouragement of "radio broadcasts of the Yugoslav emigré government."

The document said Mihailovic held his first meeting with German commanders about that time, "in the greatest secrecy, under the protection of German armored cars."

Linked With Germans, Italians

"Mihailovic informed the emigré government by radiogram through the British intelligence service of this meeting, both before and after the meeting was held," the indictment said.

The Government charged that Mihailovic's detachments fought under Italian command in 1942, "mixed with Italian forces," and that the Chetniks received special rewards in money or flour for every slain Partisan, and in addition to this, the Italians supplied them with arms, ammunition and food, helped in operations with their artillery, and treated wounded Chetniks in Italian hospitals.

The charge said further that the fourth offensive in 1943 was planned personally by Hitler in order to annihilate the Partisans and free German divisions for service against the Red Army in the East.

Open Collaboration Charged

"Simultaneously with preparations made by the Germans and Italians, Mihailovic was concentrating his units to attack forces of the National Liberation Army in West Bosnia," the indictment continued.

It said that after Italian capitulation to the Allies in 1943, all Mihailovic's forces in the former Italian occupation zone, "carrying out his instructions and orders, entered into open collaboration with the Germans."

The indictment said Mihailovic reached an agreement with the premier of the puppet Yugoslav Government, Milan Nedic, in August, 1944, under which Nedic gave him financial aid and Mihailovic promised that the arms furnished "would under no conditions be used against the Germans."

Chetnik Atrocities Alleged

Nedic, who was facing trial, committed suicide in a leap from his prison cell last January.

The indictment also listed specific acts which it charged as atrocities to Mihailovic's Chetniks.

Constantin Fotitch, former Yugoslav Ambassador to the United States, who is being tried in absentia, was charged with organizing abroad "large-scale propaganda, fully aware that Mihailovic and his Chetniks, with their organization, were collaborating with the occupiers."

U.S. And Britain Hit In Trial Of Mihailovic

D. King JUN 11 1946

Belgrade, June 10 (AP) — Marshal Tito's Yugoslav Government charged at the opening of Gen. Draja Milhailovic's treason trial today that American officers sat in on a conference between the former Chetnik leader and the German commander in Yugoslavia.

The Government indictment was read at the opening of the trial of the man who was left behind by former King Peter's Government for the announced purpose of waging underground war against the Germans. The indictment also charged that Mihailovic was sent word by British officers in Cairo to "liquidate" Communists as soon as possible.

The voluminous bill of particulars, with detailed charges of collaboration and war crimes against Mihailovic, said the British sent the instructions to King Peter's supposed resistance leader in the Spring of 1944 by two officers who attended the King's marriage to Princess Alexandria of Greece.

The U.S. Accusations

In the Summer of 1944, the indictment continued, "the American Colonel McDowell, chief of the American military mission to Mihailovic's headquarters, arrived at the airfield at Pranjina. As soon as he met Mihailovic he told him, 'We Americans are not interested in your fight with the Germans. They must be put out of Yugoslavia by action of the Allies. It is up to you to remain among the people. . . . America is helping you and your movement exclusively in Yugoslavia.'"

In August, 1944, the indictment said, McDowell "took part" in a meeting at the village of Focsi between Mihailovic and the chief of the administrative staff of the German military commander in Serbia, Neubacher. McDowell also participated in a meeting in September between Mihailovic and Neubacher's deputy, Sterker, near the village of Pranjina, it was charged.

[Hans Neubacher has previously been listed as German delegate general and economic export expert to Yugoslavia and the Balkans. He has not been listed as a military commander.]

Chetniks Vs. Tito

The indictment declared that in 1943 when the Axis launched its fourth major offensive against Tito's partisans, Mihailovic personally and through Major Ostojic ordered all his Chetnik units to take part in the operations "aimed at destruction of the forces of national liberation (Tito's partisans)." It continued:

"At that time the British Colonel, Bailey, who was attached to Mihailovic's supreme command and who was fully acquainted with the plan and development of operations carried out by Mihailovic, said that the Allies were preparing an invasion for the spring of 1943 on the Adriatic coast and that it was 'necessary to liquidate the Communists in order to have a clear hinterland that would enable his forces to take up a position unhindered on the Dalmatian coast.'" Imprecations Silenced

The floodlighted courtroom, an auditorium in an infantry school in a Belgrade suburb, was packed with 1,100 spectators, including about 100 foreign and Yugoslav news writers and photographers.

Several of the spectators in the closely guarded room started to shout imprecations as Mihailovic and the other defendants in civilian garb entered with their military guards. The court president, Mihailo Djordjevic, squelched the demonstration. (ADD)

Pole Peasant Party Holds 'Green Holiday'

Warsaw, June 9 [(AP) Delayed]—A so-called independent Peasant party, boycotted by Vice Premier Stanislav Mikolajczyk's party and backed by Government authorities, holds its first postwar "green holiday," or peasant's festival, throughout Poland today.

Mikolajczyk instructed his party members to refrain from party celebration because of what he termed severe restrictions imposed by secret police, and the Security Ministry's refusal to grant a permit for separate observance.

Aided by the Communist-backed Workers party, the Socialists, Democrats and Independent Peasants planned to hold one of the biggest celebrations in Wroclaw (Breslau).

The Government ran special trains to carry the diplomatic corps and other high Polish officials from Warsaw to the festivities.

Reds Complete Move In Czecho-Slovakia

Prague, June 10 (A. P.).—The government has announced completion of a Russian troop movement across Czecho-Slovakia in connection with the reorganization of Soviet occupation forces in Germany.

The announcement said the movement had been accomplished smoothly. The transfer, carried out with the co-operation of Czecho Slovak authorities, originally was scheduled to take place during the recent national elections, but was postponed to avoid conflict with that date.

Light and Smoke Emitted by Weapon, Witnesses Say

HELSINKI, June 10 (AP).—Witnesses said today they had seen a light-emitting "ghost rocket" pass over the Finnish capital in a southwesterly direction last night.

The rocket, the observers said, was flying at an altitude of 900 to 1,200 feet and was followed by a smoke trail. It was the first one observed in Finland, although several have been reported lately crossing southern Sweden and Denmark in approximately the same direction.

(This dispatch did not state where the rocket came from or whom had fired it).

southern France.

There were no important Nazis in the group, which was rounded up by Spanish authorities and loaded aboard the ship by British and American repatriation authorities aided by United States soldier guards. The vessel sailed last night.

It was reported that probably no more than 125 of the passengers were on the list of 2,200 Germans in Spain whom the Allies have been pressing Generalissimo Franco's Government to repatriate.

Jerusalem Arabs in Gay Mood

JUN 11 1946

Display of Flags and Flowers Greets Report of Grand Mufti's Arrival in Syria.

Jerusalem, June 10 (A. P.).—Arabs decorated most of the narrow streets of the old city of Jerusalem today with flags, flowers and olive branches on hearing that the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem had arrived at Damascus to help Arab resistance against Jewish immigration.

DAY

The Grand Mufti, spiritual leader of Palestine's 800,000 Moslems, was exiled in 1937 for anti-British activities.

Today his pictures appeared everywhere in Jerusalem, surrounded by wreaths of olive leaves. Many streets in the Arab quarter of the new city also were decorated. Guides and beggars all were saying with conviction that "we know the Mufti is in Damascus and he will be coming to Jerusalem in a few days."

The council of the Arab League is at present meeting in extraordinary session in Damascus, the capital of Syria.

Despite the belief of the Arabs in the street, Jamal el Husseini, a nephew o fthe Grand Mufti, reported by telephone to the secretary-general of the Arab higher committee that he was unable to confirm the news of his uncle's arrival.

Due at Meeting.

Dr. Hussein el Khalidi, a leader of one of the five parties composing the Arab Higher Front, said that he had been advised that the Grand Mufti had arrived at Bludan, Syria, and would attend the council meeting in Damascus which has been discussing the report of the Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry on Palestine, recommending that 100,000 European Jews be admitted to Palestine at once.

[A Foreign Office spokesman revealed in Paris yesterday that the Grand Mufti had left France. Today in London a spokesman for the British Foreign Office said that there is no doubt the Grand Mufti is in Damascus and that his Government is inquiring into the matter, since the French Government was aware of Britain's desire that the Grand Mufti should not return to the Middle East. This spokesman also discounted a report from Cairo that the British Government has notified King Farouk of Egypt that it will not approve the recommendations of the Anglo-American Palestine Inquiry committee. It is extremely doubtful, he added, that Britain would commit herself on this proposal before receiving the official views within the next ten days or so of both Jews and Arabs.]

Visited Duce and Fuehrer.

After his banishment by the British during bitter Arab-Jewish disorders the Grand Mufti sought refuge in Syria until 1942, when he fled to Italy, where he was farmly welcomed by Benito Mussolini. He also made at least one trip to Berlin, where he was received by Adolf Hitler and Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop.

After the defeat of Germany he fell into the hands of the French and had been reported under close surveillance in Paris. He recently issued a statement from there appealing to the Arab world to stand firm in opposition to Zionism. Arabs have been clamoring for his return to Palestine.

Dispatches from Bludan said that officials of the Arab League Council spent yesterday discussing methods of protesting to the United Nations concerning the report of the Arab-American Committee. The advices indicated, however, that the council had ruled out the possibility at this time of seeking the application of economic sanctions by the Arab nations as a means of lending weight to the protests against the Palestine report.

A spokesman for the Jewish Agency, meanwhile, said that a statement giving the agency's views with respect to the Anglo-American report would be sent to Washington and London within a few days. The American and British Governments had requested such a statement by June 20. (AOT)

TRAINS RAIDED IN PALESTINE

JUN 11 1946

Jewish Bands Blow Up Engines And Set Fire To Coaches

Jerusalem, June 10 (AP) — The Palestine Government said tonight that armed Jewish bands had stopped three passenger trains, blowing up the engines and firing the coaches after allowing the passengers and crews to alight.

NIGHT

During the incidents, two Arabs were wounded by gunfire and a third was beaten severely. The holdups occurred as Arab leaders met in Bludan, Syria, to organize Arab opposition to further Jewish immigration to Palestine.

An official Government statement said that "concerted attacks were carried out by armed Jews on three passenger trains on the main lines of the Lydda-Tel Aviv, Lydda-Haifa and Lydda-Jerusalem roads."

Passengers Ordered Off

The Lydda-Tel Aviv train, the statement said, "was halted by pulling the communication cord, and a party of 25 to 30 Jewish men and women, armed with automatic weapons, approached the train and ordered the passengers and crew to dismount."

"The engine was blown up and five carriages were set afire. One Arab temporary auxiliary corpsman was severely beaten."

"The Haifa line," the statement continued, "appeared to have been struck by a similar attack and the engine was blown up. An Arab temporary auxiliary corpsman was shot and wounded in the side and hand."

Police Seek Attackers

"On the Jerusalem line," the statement concluded, "the train was held up by some fifteen armed Jews as in the other two cases. The passengers and the crew were ordered to alight. The engine was blown up and the carriages set afire. One Arab was shot and seriously wounded. Combined police and military operations to apprehend the attackers are now in progress."

It was reported unofficially that five Jews had been arrested.

Meanwhile, considerable tension was evident in Tel Aviv, where police patrols scouted for members of the Jewish organization Irgun Zvai Leumi.

The organization was accused of disturbing and posting hundreds of leaflets demanding civil disobedience, boycott of Government services and establishment of a provisional Jewish Government in Palestine.

MUFTI'S FLIGHT REMAINS MYSTERY

October 9

PARIS, June 10.—(AP) The mystery of the grand mufti of Jerusalem and his disappearance from France was hidden tonight in official silence.

A minor functionary at the Surete Nationale (police) professed ignorance of one report that a high police official had been dismissed because the Arab leader had left France without giving the advance notice he promised when France accepted him as a political refugee. Higher officials either could not be reached or would not talk.

DAY

The press room at police headquarters was notified that the Foreign office would give no information about the mufti's departure from France, a move announced Saturday night.

Some French newspapers speculated on the story, in view of the indignation expressed in London at the British Foreign office. The mufti was exiled from Palestine by the British in 1937 for anti-British activities.

How close to fact the Paris newspaper stories were remained doubtful, but they added spice and color to one of the most controversial characters in the world.

Le Monde, a newspaper often credited with reflecting Foreign office sentiment, reported an almost fantastic story that Haj Amin El Husseini, the mufti, boarded the train which took Feisal II, King of Iraq, to Calais on June 5. The story said he went aboard a British destroyer with his entourage, went to England and took a plane for the Middle East. The newspaper reported another rumor that a plane left Paris Friday night carrying several persons to the Middle East.

Without attempting to confirm either of the stories, Le Monde said that in any case it appeared no one in Paris or London wanted to oppose the mufti's departure.

CHOU TALKS TO MARSHALL

JUN 11 1946

Chinese Communist May Have Outlined Price For Peace

H. Mikes

Nanking, June 10 (AP) — The Chinese Communists' price for permanent peace may have been outlined to General Marshall behind closed doors today while Government sources already were accusing the Communists of breaking the three-day-old truce by attacking towns in Manchuria and north central China.

NIGHT

General Chou En-lai, chief Communist negotiator, conferred with Marshall after returning from Yenan. Chou spent the week end at Yenan presenting to Communist party leaders Generalissimo Chiang Kai-sheks's three-point formula for maintaining peace.

Chiang, in accepting the truce proposed by Marshall, said its continuance depends upon an agreement between the Government and the Communists on an exact plan for a permanent end to hostilities. The truce went into effect Friday for a period of fifteen days.

Expected To Continue

Marshall was expected to continue separate meetings with the negotiators until the points of difference were ironed out. He then was expected to call both sides together to draw up and sign the documents necessary for implementing peace. All recent meetings have been held in secret.

Yu Ta-wei, Minister of Communications, visited Marshall's headquarters to discuss restoration of communications, one of the points in Chiang's truce formula.

Meanwhile, the Government's Central News Agency reported Communist attacks on four small towns in Manchuria, and dispatches from Tsingtao told of Communist raids on four small towns in Shantung Province of north central China.

The agency said 200 national officers and men were killed or wounded in an assault on Government positions at Lafachan (Lafa) and Kioho (Kiu) railroad stations est of Yunki by twelve Communist brigades.

Marines Reported Alerted

A Tsingtao dispatch said fighting took place Saturda yat Hsia Chuang, 12 miles north of Tsingtao and 6 miles from the United States Marine air base. It reported that Marines on liberty were sent back to their base and all units alerted.

A "battle to the death" over Tehsien, important rail center 70 miles north of Shtntung's provincial capital, Tsinan, was reported by a Government spokesman in Peiping. He said casualties were "heavy."

The spokesman charged that 20,000 Communists attacked the city Friday after the truce went into effect and that a truce team attempting to halt the fighting could not get outside the city because of heavy firing.

Central News, in a dispatch from Tsinan, said a Communist bomber had dropped incendiaries on the Shantung railway town of Tshsien 70 miles northwest of Tsinan, causing several fires.

Marshall, Chou Confer; Red Attacks Charged

1946

JUN 11 1946

Nanking, June 10 (AP)—United States General Marshall and Communist Gen. Chou En-lai today discussed conditions for permanent peace in China while the Government made new charges that Red troops had violated the current truce by attacking several cities.

Chou reported on week-end discussions he held with party leaders at Yenan headquarters. Yenan decisions and Chou's conversation with Marshall were secret, as have been all recent negotiations.

The Government-controlled Central News Agency charged that 200 national officers and men were killed or wounded as twelve Communist brigades assaulted Government positions at Lafa and Klu railway stations, east of Yungki.

Communications Issue

Yu Fei-peng, Minister of Communications, also visited Marshall's headquarters to discuss restoration of communications, one of the Government's three prerequisites to a peace treaty.

There was no indication when Marshall would confer again with Chiang Kai-shek, who is personally negotiating for the Government.

[Associated Press Correspondent Tom Masterson radioed from Peiping that the Government's Central News Agency charged the Communists attacked four Manchurian cities four hours after Chiang's cease-fire order to Government troops became effective Friday.

[Masterson said it was likely the Red troops were without radios and were not informed of the truce, news of which was broadcast a day in advance.

"Large-Scale" Offensive

[The Government agency's report, from Changchun, the Manchurian capital, said the Communists attacked Taolaichao, 70 miles to the north; Lafa, Hushuhsien and Halahai. It described the Lafa offensove as "large-scale."

[Masterson, in another dispatch, said a Government spokesman told of "heavy casualties" in battling to retain the important Shantung province rail city of Tehsien, 70 miles north of Isinan, provincial capital. The spokesman said 20,000 Chinese Communists attacked the city at nightfall Friday, hours after the truce went into effect.

[Fall of the city was imminent, the spokesman added. He reported that a truce team attempting to halt the fighting could not get outside the city limits because of heavy firing.

Strategic Port

[Chinese newspaper dispatches in Peiping, Masterson reported, said that both Chinese Communist and Government forces claimed to have possessed the strategic port of Yingkow, Manchuria, 100 miles southwest of Mukden, and the steel city of Anshan, 55 miles below Mukden, at the moment the truce was to have "frozen" them into their positions.]

The Chinese Central News Agency reported today that several Shantung towns in the vicinity of Tehsien were under Chinese Communist attack late Friday after the truce deadline, and added that the Reds had destroyed "sections" of the railroad — presumably the Tientsin-Pukow line, which runs through Tehsien.

General Chou told newsmen that he came to the conference with General Marshall "prepared to negotiate" all three demands of the Government:

1. An exact formula for permanent cessation of hostilities.
2. A detailed schedule for restoration of communications.
3. A specific plan for agreed-upon reorganization of Communist and Government troops into one nationalized army.

In Marshall's Plane

Chou made his quick trip to Yenan in General Marshall's personal plane. There was no immediate indication what additional points his party might lay before the United States special envoy at the conference table.

Two Government representatives cleared away some of the negotiation preliminaries in meetings with Marshall yesterday.

The Communist New China News Agency meanwhile keynoted an unexpected new propaganda theme by quoting the Communist Northeast Daily accusations that "the imperialistic United States" was helping "reactionary Chinese carry out civil war policies." Such comment began springing up the moment the truce was signed, but whether it has been the work of individual editors or is a new party line was uncertain.

Anti-Soong Outcry Flares In China

JUN 11 1946

Shanghai, June 10 (AP)—A campaign against Premier T. V. Soong that conceivably could lead to his resignation flared in a section of the Chinese press in both Shanghai and Nanking again today.

His recommendation, adopted by the Supreme National Defense Council on Wednesday, to permit foreign ships to unload cargoes for one year at four Yangtze River ports angered the press. The action cuts fabulous transshipment costs from Shanghai and expedites cargoes for China's rehabilitation.

Naming Of Briton Rumored

The agitation abated after a leading Chinese shipping magnate lauded the action as wise and in China's best interests, but a new uproar arose over an unconfirmed report of the appointment of a Briton, E. A. Pritchard, to succeed a resigned Chinese as customs commissioner of Shanghai.

The Chinese press is also bitter because Soong ignored a request by the Legislative Council to report personally on the financial and economic relief situation.

Critical newspapers charged that Soong instead sent three officials who kept silent when one Council member demanded to know why three specified companies should handle the bulk of China's imports and corner the exchange market. The questioner named as one of the three companies the Yangtze Trading Company, which he said is owned and operated by former Finance Minister H. H. Kung, who, like Soong, is a brother-in-law of Chiang Kai-shek.

AMERICAN MARINES FIRED ON IN CHINA

JUN 11 1946

Tientsin, June 10 (AP)—Chinese Government dispatches from Tsingtao today said that several United States Marine vehicles were fired on by unknown persons as they returned to Tsingtao Airport last night. There were no reports of Marine casualties.

The reports said that Chinese Communists, violating the current fifteen-day truce, attacked a village twelve miles north of Tsingtao on Saturday. They said the village is only six miles from a Marine base and that all American military personnel in the area were recalled from liberty, all units were alerted, and heavy guards were patrolling the air field and city.

The Third Amphibious Corps, United States Marines, which battled the Japanese from Guadalcanal to North China, dissolved last midnight and today became the United States Marine Forces, China. Major-Gen. Keller E. Rockey, who took over the corps at Okinawa, will continue in command. He also heads the First Marine Division in North China.

The Third Marine Brigade, at Tsingato, formerly the Sixth Division, has been redesignated United States Marine Forces, Tsingtao, with Brig.-Gen. William T. Clement in command. The Fourth Marine Regiment also is under Clement.

AUSTRALIAN UNION REFUSES TO LOAD DUTCH CARGO SHIPS

JUN 11 1946

SYDNEY, June 10 (AP)—Six Dutch ships held up since last September in Australian ports still are idle—and it appears unlikely that they will be able to put to sea until the political situation in Java is settled.

The ships were among those declared "black" by the Australian Waterside Workers' federation at the beginning of the Nationalist uprising in Java. Wharf laborers refused to load Dutch vessels on the grounds that they were carrying munitions of war and materials likely to be used in suppressing the Indonesian Republican government.

Observers say the hold-up in Australia is inconvenient, but not crippling to the Dutch. They point out that big Dutch ships that might have been coming to Australia are making voyages elsewhere, including South African ports.

Recently the import-export organization of the Netherlands Indies government in Australia cancelled orders placed with about 250 Australian firms for goods totaling £6,000,000 ($19,200,000).

A Dutch spokesman in Melbourne, J. Van Der Noorda, said then that the ban against loading Dutch ships made Dutch-Australian commerce "impossible." He intimated that his government would look elsewhere for manufactured goods and shipping to take them to the Netherlands Indies.

Meanwhile, N.E.I. importers are looking more and more to the United States. Cargoes of American flour are reported to be arriving in the Indies each week, and canned foodstuffs and manufactures that went from Australia before the war now are being imported from the United States.

Indonesian crews of the six Dutch ships have been repatriated to Java and replaced by Lascar seamen.

Dutch officers and Lascar crews still remain on the vessels which are in Sydney and Brisbane. They are empty, but ready to sail if they could be stored and loaded.

Princes Approve British Plan

JUN 11 1946

New Delhi, June 10 (AP)—The standing committee of the Chamber of Princes approved in Bombay today the British Cabinet mission plan for Indian independence, while Congress party leaders here conferred again with Viceroy Lord Wavell and members of the mission but announced no decision on acceptance [illegible]

The chamber set up its own machinery for participation in the interim government, which will serve until a constitution is drawn for an independent federated union of India envisaged under the plan.

The Nawab of Bhopal, chancellor of the Chamber of Princes, said a negotiating committee would be set up to handle the settlement of the status of nearly 600 princely states, the thrones of which would no longer have British support once the constitution becomes effective.

Azad Confers With Viceroy

A second committee consisting of representatives of the states and the Central Government of India would handle matters of common concern during the existence of the interim government.

Meanwhile, Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, president of the Congress party, and Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, president-elect, conferred for an hour and fifteen minutes with the Viceroy as the party's working committee met for a second day to consider the mission plan.

It was believed the discussions centered on the composition of the proposed interim government, with emphasis on parity or corepresentation with the Moslem League. The committee will meet again tomorrow.

Equality Believed Opposed

It was understood that Azad voiced the committee's strong opposition to equality for the Congress party and the league in the interim government. The Congress controls nine of the eleven provincial governments in British India.

In Bombay the Nawab of Bhopal said that in the view of the Princes' committee the Cabinet mission plan "provides the necessary machinery for attainment by India of independence, as well as a fair basis for further negotiations. They (the committee) welcome the declaration of the Cabinet mission in regard to paramountcy, but certain adjustments for the interim period will be necessary."

The mission specified that paramountcy—the British power to countermand any princely decision or impose their own will—would continue until the new constitution becomes effective.

India Independence Discussions On

New Delhi, June 10 (AP)—The British Cabinet mission and Viceroy Lord Wavell met with Congress party leaders today for discussions which may resolve the Indian constitutional issue in the next two or three days.

Informed sources reported that Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, Congress president, and Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, the party's president-elect, sought among other things clarification of a number of points in the independence-for-India plan.

It was understood that Azad conveyed the Congress Party working committee's strong opposition to equality for the Congress Party and the Moslem League in the projected interim government. Congress controls nine of the eleven provincial governments in British India.

PRINCES APPROVE BRITISH INDIA PLAN

JUN 11 1946

Bombay, June 10 (A. P.).—The standing committee of the Chamber of Princes gave approval today to the British Cabinet's Mission's plan for Indian independence and set up machinery for the Princely States to participate in the future Government.

The committee called upon the nearly 600 Princely States to institute the necessary internal reforms to enable them to participate, if they have not already done so.

A negotiating committee was set up to handle settlements on the status of the States when Britain's special treaty provisions with them are withdrawn at the time of the institution of the new Constitution. A second committee consisting of representatives of the States and the central government would handle matters of common concern during the period that an interim government rules.

KOREAN FACTORIES UNTOUCHED BY REDS

JUN 11 1946

SEOUL, Korea, June 10. — (AP) Edwin W. Pauley, American reparations commissioner, said today his mission into Russian-occupied northern Korea had found only a few indications of removal of industrial machinery.

"Only on two or three occasions," said the commissioner in a written statement, "did we view anything that would indicate such removals had taken place and those only to a minor extent."

Pauley expressed the belief that in its six-day investigation of the Russian zone the mission had "fairly complete coverage" of 60 per cent of the heavy industry.

He expressed disappointment, however, that he was "not allowed to cover two areas"—the Chongjin and Hungnam areas on the northeast coast. He added, "again I register my protest to this denial of access to those areas."

Pauley said that most of northern Korea's industry, aside from mining and power, is in the three areas visited. Within those districts, he added, his party was denied access only to the Chosen oil refinery and parts of the Wonsan dock area. Both could be seen in the distance, however, Pauley said, and the "refinery appeared intact."

"I do not believe the refinery is operating," he continued, "and it is an inefficient and obsolete one."

Pauley issued his statement in reply to questions from newsmen. He is still hospitalized with an intestinal disorder but reported in good condition.

Inspection of Russian-occupied North Korea.

His written statement, replying to written questions submitted Friday by newsmen, did not specify whether he was protesting to Russia, or through the press.

He said he was still disappointed that we were denied entrance" to the Chongjin and Hungnam areas on the northeast coast.

Three Of Five Areas Covered

"Any satisfaction I displayed (in a May 31 press release) was due to the fact I believe we had fairly complete coverage in three of the five areas we asked for."

Correspondents asked how he reconciled his May 31 report, which said his mission was "operating under heavy restrictions imposed by local Soviet authorities," with his subsequent statement here that "only on two or three occasions did we view anything that would indicate removals had taken place, and those only to a minor extent."

Refinery, Dock Area Barred

Pauley replied:

"There was no discrepancy in my statement. We had fairly completed coverage" of heavy industry in three areas in which his mission was permitted to check reports that the Soviets had removed some equipment.

Asked how much of the industry he saw is operative, Pauley replied that "most of the industry aside from mining and power lines within three areas we covered. Within the areas we covered we were denied access only to the Chosen oil refinery and portions of the dock area in Wonsan."

Little Aid To Koreans

Replying to another question he said:

"To the extent that the Soviets are using Japanese skilled help and have raw materials available they are rejuvenating Korean industry. However, such rejuvenation does not necessarily benefit the Koreans, as most industry within the northern areas does not produce consumer goods."

Siam Mourns King's Death

A McDONALD

Bangkok, June 10 (AP)—The body of 20-year-old King Ananda Mahidol lay in state tonight in the magnificent Hall of Kings, as the Government decreed a full year of mourning for the young monarch who was found dead in the Royal Palace yesterday with a bullet wound between the eyes.

Prince Phumiphon Aduldet, 18-year-old brother of the dead ruler, bore up bravely under the shock, and replied in halting, sorrowful phrases when a council of regents informed him o his succession to the throne.

In Golden Urn For 100 Days

In the Hall of Kings, where the bodies of many of his royal ancestors had been taken for the final rites of death, the body of Ananda was bathed in a traditional Buddhist ceremony. For at least 100 days his remains will be kept in a golden urn, before the final rite of cremation.

All Siam mourned the death of the ruler. Theaters and all places of amusement were closed. Flags were at half-mast and will remain so for 30 days.

Early in the day the leaders of the National Parliament re-elected Pridi Phanomyong as Premier, and his formal reappointment was expected to be confirmed Tuesday. A new Government was expected to be formed within a few days.

Change In Regency Expected

Pridi accompanied the council of three regents who notified boyish Phumiphon that he had become the ruler of Siam's 18,000,000 people. His succession was accepted unanimously by the Legislature in extraordinary session last night, twelve hours after the death of his brother.

The present regency is made up of the three eldest members of Parliament, and is temporary. It probably will be replaced by three members of the new King's own choosing, with the likelihood that two of the members will represent the nobility and one the commoners.

It was learned on high authority that the gun which killed Ananda in what was described officially as an accident was a .45-caliber Colt automatic.

Romance "Not Serious Affair"

[Siamese in Lausanne, Switzerland, where Ananda went to school, described as utterly baseless any suggestion that Ananda had taken his own life deliberately. Questioned about the King's friendship for 21-year-old Marilene Ferrari, pretty daughter of a Lausanne clergyman, a close friend of the girl said "it was not a serious affair. She knew it could not last."

[Ananda's former tutor and secretary, Cleon Seraidaris, said he talked to the girl and that she told him she, too, excluded the possibility of suicide. Seraidaris, to whom the King wrote regularly each week, said he last heard from Ananda five days ago, and that the recent letters both to him and to other friends showed the King to have been in good health and spirits, eagerly anticipating his projected trip to the United States and his return to school in Switzerland.]

Brother Named King of Siam

Phumiophon Aduldet Becomes Ruler After Ananda Is Found Dead by Bullet in Palace.

A McDONALD

Bangkok, June 10 (A. P.).—Prince Phumiophon Aduldet, 18 years old, was named King of Siam today while this shocked nation mourned the death of his brother, 20-year-old King Ananda Mahidol, who was found in the Royal Palace yesterday with a bullet wound between the eyes.

The new king, who will become the ruler of more than 200,000 square miles and 18,000,000 subjects, was unanimously selected by an extraordinary session of the Legislature, meeting twelve hours after his brother's death.

The Siamese Police Director-General told the Legislature that Ananda's death was accidental.

Phumiphon Aduldet, the almost constant companion of his older brother, was born in Boston, Mass., while his father, the late Prince Mahidol of Songkhla, was studying at Harvard. Phumiphon Aduldet and Ananda attended school together in Switzerland.

Three Advisers Named.

A three-member Council of Regency was named by the Legislature to advise the new monarch. Pridi Phanomyong, reappointed Premier only three days ago, was expected to be retained in that post.

Only sketchy details were disclosed on the shooting of Ananda, a bespectacled, diffident youth often described as a reluctant monarch, who had become extremely popular since his return from Switzerland last December.

People Are Saddened.

News of the death, which occurred on the eve of a projected trip to the United States, was broadcast at 7 P. M. yesterday, and was greeted by wails of grief from a crowd gathered in front of the Publicity Building in Bangkok.

Great crowds quickly gathered around the palace. The queen mother, Phraratananihsri Sangwan, an attractive woman in her forties who exerted a strong influence on the young king, was prostrate with grief.

Ananda was a fancier of firearms and often practiced firing in the palace grounds.

The queen mother and a royal suite of twenty had expected to accompany the youthful king on his trip to the United States. He planned to leave here by plane next Thursday and to spend about a week in Washington and New York before flying to Switzerland to resume studies interrupted last December.

Ananda was born in Germany September 20, 1925, and first came to Siam at the age of 2. He went to Switzerland in 1933, receiving most of his education in Bern and Lausanne. He was pro-

The [illegible] ruler had been ill for two [illegible]s and arose at 6 A. M. yesterday to take some medicine. Nothing was known of his actions after that time, official informants said, and his body was discovered by a servant several hours later in the bedroom of the Barompinan Palace.

[illegible] claimed King March 2, 1935, upon the abdication of his uncle, King Prajadpipok, who died in 1941. Ananda spent little time in his own land, residing in Switzerland for the most of the last twelve years, except for a brief visit here in 1938.

Ananda, more Western than Eastern in his tastes, enjoyed playing a saxophone and driving a United States jeep about the palace grounds.

The absolute monarchy of Siam, dating from 1350, was overthrown in a bloodless revolution three years before Ananda ascended the throne. Only a month ago, he approved a new constitution providing for a Senate and a House of Representatives, and on June 1 he opened the first Siamese Parliament entirely elected by the people.

Japanese troops invaded Siam December 7, 1941, while Ananda was in Switzerland, and established a puppet government which declared war on the United States. The new Siamese Government, again ruled by Ananda, was recognized by Britain and the United States last January.

JUN 11 1946

Worried About King.

Ananda's retinue had been worried about the possibility of his assassination while he was studying in Switzerland, Paul Rey, director of the New Swiss School, where the young king studied, said in Berne. Asked about reports that the King was depressed because he was unable to marry a girl fellow student, Rey said Ananda has gone with one or two girls but had not had a serious romance.

Cleon Seraidaris, Ananda's former Greek teacher and secretary in Switzerland, said the King had a flirtation in Lausanne, but it was not a serious affair. Seraidaris said although the monarch told him he was aware of the impossibility of marrying the girl, he did not believe Ananda had committed suicide. Before leaving, the monarch made a testament leaving his present and future fortune to his mother, the teacher said.

Tokyo Times 'Winds' Code After Pearl Harbor Blow

T Harbert

By The Associated Press.

TOKYO, Tuesday, June 11—A Tokyo radio broadcaster said today the famed Japanese "Winds" message, a coded warning, was broadcast by shortwave on foreign beams five minutes after the start of the Pearl Harbor attack.

The message was to have notified Japanese diplomatic personnel abroad that war was imminent. Whether such a message was intercepted by the United States before the attack was debated inconclusively at hearings of the Congressional committee investigating Pearl Harbor.

Morio Tateno, the broadcaster who first told the Japanese they were at war with America, said the message—"Winds of the west, clear"—was first broadcast by Haruki Unno, a fellow-announcer, just after 4 A. M., Dec. 8, 1941, Tokyo time. The Pearl Harbor attack began at 3:55 A. M., Tokyo time.

The message, Tateno said, had been scheduled for transmission for the first time at 2 A. M. He said Shinjo Sawada, chief in the Japanese foreign broadcast division, told the announcers not to broadcast it until after notification, which came at 4 A. M.

PLANES REHEARSE FOR BIKINI 'A' DAY

Aboard the Mount McKinley, near Bikini, June 9 (via Navy radio—delayed) (A. P.).—This atomic bomb test force put into the air for the first time today its intricate pattern of Army and Navy aviation to rehearse for A-day.

Major-Gen. William E. Kepner, commander of the Army's atomic test operations, sent aloft about seventy-five aircraft of various types from Kwajalein, Eniwetok and two carriers. He directed the rehearsal from this flagship of Vice-Admiral William P. Blandy, commander of the atomic task force.

Kepner said he was "very gratified" but improvements must be made in the radio communications system before A-Day, early in July.

The dummy drop was scheduled for 9 A. M. The bombardier reported "bomb away" 8:58;45 A. M.—just one minute, fifteen seconds ahead of schedule. Immediately, B-29S released parachutes with simulated blast recording instruments. (This dispatch did not report where the dummy bomb fell).

Navy and Army officers "saw" the whole operation by radar in the combat intelligence center of the Mount McKinley.

new and perhaps historic phase this week.

President Truman, Secretary of State Byrnes and Bernard M. Baruch are expected to put the finishing touches on the American formula for international atomic control machinery in preparation for the opening sessions of the United National Atomic Commission Friday.

Baruch is American representative on the commission, and while the Friday meeting probably will be organizational in nature, indications here were that the United States intends to have its proposals clear-cut before that time.

Slated To Leave Thursday

On Thursday, Byrnes, accompanied by Senators Connally (D., Texas) and Vandenberg (R., Mich.) as advisers, is slated to leave for a return engagement of the Big Four Foreign Ministers Conference at Paris which opens Saturday.

Officials here said that the success of Byrnes in reaching agreements on critical issues of European peacemaking may have considerable bearing on what the United Nations will eventually be able to accomplish in the way of agreement on effective international atomic controls.

The essential element in both situations, diplomats say, is that the powers should find some basis for working together in a manner to minimize the suspicion, distrust and uncertainty which now seem to hamper all their efforts.

Definite Proposals Shaped

On the atomic question, the best information here is that plans are well advanced for definite American proposals along the line of the Acheson-Lilienthal plan, published in late March, which suggested an international atomic development authority that ultimately would have a complete monopoly over the atomic-energy field.

Under this plan, as international safeguards were established, all nations, including the United States, would gradually pool their information and their secrets on atomic energy.

Sponsors of the Acheson-Lilienthal plan contended that only in that way would there by any possibility of avoiding atomic armaments race. The American program is expected in some respects to be a more specific set of proposals than those put forward in the Acheson-Lilienthal plan.

Showdown Expected

The task of Byrnes at the foreign ministers meeting, according to diplomats here, should be finished one way or the other in three or four weeks.

Brynes has said that if he is not able to get some agreement on peace treaties with Italy and the old Axis satellite countries in eastern Europe, he will resort to the United Nations.

This would be recognition of the failure of great powers to agree on fundamental issues of peacemaking, and most authorities here believe that such a failure would go a long way toward hardening the split between Russia and the western powers.

Washington, June 10 (AP)—The closely linked problems of great-power co-operation and world-wide atomic energy control entered a

Row Over Sharp Words Blocks Report On Russia

Washington, June 10 (AP)—A row in the House Foreign Affairs Committee is holding up publication of a report that criticizes Russia's policies in dealing with her neighbor nations behind "the iron curtain."

The report, by a four-member subcommittee that toured Europe last fall, should have been made public last week. But because of sections that condemn Soviet activity in Poland, the Balkans and Iran, Administration supporters in the committee are urging a change in language before its release.

Some of these members even said that "undiplomatic references" to Russia made them favor indefinite suppression of the report.

Squelch Attempt Alleged

One of the subcommittee members, Representative Mundt (R., S.D.), said that "apparently an attempt is being made to squelch our report."

He declined to discuss its details, but added that if the committee blocks publication "we will take it upon ourselves to see that the public gets the facts."

Mundt would say only that the material in the report is "a factual statement of what we found on our trip," but he hinted that some sections "are pretty hot."

Tito Regime Criticized

One section, said an official connected with the committee, reported privately, is highly critical of the Moscow-blessed regime of Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia.

In this connection, Mundt told the House recently that the subcommittee intended to recommend trial by an international tribunal for Gen. Draja Mihailovic, Yugoslav guerrilla leader and Tito's opposite number as a resistance leader during the war. But Mihailovic went on trial in Belgrade today on charges of wartime collaboration with the Nazis, and it was the Tito regime that ordered this trial.

A group of American airmen who were forced down in Yugoslavia during the war and aided by Mihailovic have asked permission to testify in his behalf, but their request has not been granted.

Members of the subcommittee who made the trip with Mundt were Representatives Bolton (R., Ohio), Gordon (D., Ill.) and Ryter (D., Conn.).

ENVOY FROM BRITAIN SEES ACCORD WITH REDS

WASHINGTON, June 10 — (AP) Britain's new ambassador to the United States predicted today that the Allies will resolve their differences and move toward world peace and prosperity "with the full and complete cooperation of Russia."

Lord Inverchapel, the former Sir Archibald Clark-Kerr, made that reply to a question during a talk to the National Press club — his first speaking appearance since he presented his credentials to President Truman last week.

Inverchapel, who was British ambassador to Moscow during most of the war, said he was not among those who believe that differences between the U. S. and Britain on one side and Russia on the other are irreconcilable.

Understanding and agreement can be reached in time with patient effort and good faith, he added.

Ross Calls Report of Trip 'Purely Speculative'

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP).—The White House termed "purely speculative" today a published report that Reparations Ambassador Edwin W. Pauley will visit Moscow in July, possibly to contact Premier Stalin on President Truman's behalf.

Charles G. Ross, press secretary, gave that reply to reporters who asked, adding that he had heard nothing of such a move.

(In Seoul Mr. Pauley told newsmen: "I don't know a thing about it. There has been no discussion or communication along that line. However, I'll do anything the President wants.")

Holland, Poland Accept Claims Of U.S. Citizens

Washington, June 10 (AP)—The State Department announced today that Holland and Poland now are accepting compensation claims from United States citizens whose property suffered war damage in those countries.

At present no provision exists for payment of private American claims against Holland, but the department recommended in its announcement that United States citizens file their claims so that they be placed on record.

The department said the Polish Government will give its own citizens first priority on compensation after which "American and other Allied nationals may expect to receive like treatment." No deadline has been set for filing of private foreign claims against Poland.

Truman Gives Up Trip to Manila

Washington, June 10 (A. P.).—President Truman abandoned today hopes of visiting Manila on July 4 for the inauguration of Philippine independence.

Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, said Mr. Truman had been forced to cancel plans to visit the islands because, with Congress likely to be in session through the middle of July, it will be impossible for him to get away.

The President, Ross said, has designated Secretary of Interior Krug to represent him at the inauguration as his personal representative.

COURT TO RULE ON U.S. CLAIM TO OIL LANDS

Government Asks Decision On Who Owns Rich Submerged Areas

Washington, June 10 (AP)—The Supreme Court today granted a Government request that it rule on Federal claims to rich submerged coastal oil lands.

The court made its decision known in a simple announcement that the case had been set for argument, since the tribunal is adjourning today for the summer. The arguments will be heard in the new term beginning next October.

Justice Department Complaint

The Government last October asked the court to decide who owns the lands.

Specifically the action was a complaint by the Justice Department against the State of California but the effect of the final outcome would be nationwide. The department contended the State had no proprietary interest in the tidal lands, beginning at low-water mark and extending seaward three miles.

The department contended California had no authority to grant rights to remove oil from such submerged lands. California asked the Supreme Court to appoint a special master to gather evidence and make a report and recommendations to the high tribunal.

On Veterans' Seniority

Washington, June 10 (AP)—The Supreme Court today agreed to review next term a decision that the Selective Service Act guarantees a veteran's seniority on his old job as long as he remains with it.

The United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Workers of America, UAW-CIO local No. 392, and the Trailmobile Company asked the review. They contended the decision by the Sixth Federal Circuit Court at Cincinnati affected rights of hundreds of thousands of veterans and non-veterans.

Seniority Reduced, Sues

The union and the company said there "could not be a continuing guarantee of seniority for a period longer than a year."

The case involved Lawrence Whirls, who went back to his prewar job with the Highland Body Manufacturing Company at his old status and pay. Later the Highland company was acquired by Trailmobile and Whirls remained with Trailmobile. More than a year after he had returned to work a new union contract was signed and his seniority was reduced. He sued.

The Supreme Court ruled last May 27 that veterans are entitled to return at the seniority status they would have attained if they had not gone to war.

Chair-Case Ruling Denied

Willie Francis, 18-year-old Louisiana Negro, failed to get the Court to decide whether he should go to the electric chair a second time.

The Court declined to review the Negro's contention that the State had no right to attempt another electrocution. He survived the first attempt last May because of mechanical failure of the portable death chair.

Justice Black had ordered a stay of execution pending the Court's decision.

Francis's attorney based his 1946

fight against the second trip to the chair on the grounds that the Negro was being placed in jeopardy of his life a second time for the same offense. He contends this was cruel and unusual punishment.

The Court's decision to refrain from deciding the issue was made known in a simple order which gave no explanation. Its action canceled the stay issued by Black. However, another had been issued previously by the Governor to allow the appeal.

Francis was convicted of killing Andrew Thomas, a St. Martinsville, (La.) druggist, during a robbery.

Under Supreme Court rules, a rehearing of the refusal to review the case can be asked.

JUN 11 1946

Florida OPA Plea Denied

The court also refused a request by Attorney General J. Tom Watson, of Florida, that it halt enforcement of OPA regulations and other wartime orders and rules.

Watson filed a complaint that the regulations are now unconstitutional. He said they were based on war powers of the Government which he contended went out of existence after Japan surrendered.

To Review Army Case

The court agreed to review American military commission proceedings in Manila in which a Filipino, Mariano Uyeki, was convicted and sentenced to death on the gallows as a war criminal.

Uyeki was born of Japanese parents at Iloilo, in the Philippines. He was conscripted into the Japanese Army in 1944 and taken prisoner by the United States Army about a year later.

JUN 11 1946

Medley Appeal Refused

The court refused to consider an appeal by Joseph D. Medley, former Michigan convict, from his first-degree murder conviction for the shooting of Mrs. Nancy Boyer at her apartment here.

Mrs. Boyer was found slain on March 8, 1945, after a card party. Medley was arrested in St. Louis ten days later. He was scheduled to die in the electric chair last April 30, but the execution was postponed pending outcome of his appeal.

Santa Fe Plea O.K.'d

The court agreed to review a decision upholding claims by the Santa Fe Pacific Railroad Company to certain public lands.

The railroad claimed the lands under acts passed by Congress in 1874 and 1904. The United States Court of Appeals here ruled in favor of the Santa Fe. The Justice and Interior departments appealed to the Supreme Court, contending the railroad had signed a release of the claims.

Virginian's Appeal Fails

The court denied Henry L. Saunders a review of his efforts to run for Congress as a representative at large from Virginia.

Saunders sued Ralph E. Wilkins for $20,000 damages, stating that Wilkins, as secretary of the Commonwealth of Virginia, had refused to certify his candidacy.

Saunders contended the refusal denied his political rights under the Federal Constitution.

Policeman's Plea Ignored

The court declined to hear argument in the case of a policeman who said he was fired because he wished to join a labor union.

J. R. McLeod, a member of the police force of Jackson, Miss., since July, 1936, protested to the Supreme Court that his rights under the Federal Constitution had been violated by his dismissal.

Redistricting Plea Rejected

The court told citizens complaining of unfair representation in Congress to resort to the ballot box, for the bench cannot help them.

The court, by a 4-3 decision, refused to enter the "political thicket" of Illinois' congressional district setup which has gone unchanged for 45 years despite major population shifts. It served plain notice that this would go for other states, too, and for other matters which are "of a peculiarly political nature."

In the Illinois redistricting case, three Illinois residents sought to force remapping of that State's congressional districts. They asked the court to invalidate the Illinois Apportionment Act of 1901, saying the present setup gives down-state residents greater voting power than those in Chicago and Cook county.

The majority opinion, delivered by Justice Frankfurter, said the action asked of the court "is beyond its competence to grant." It held that "the effective working of our Government revealed this issue to be of a peculiarly political nature and, therefore, not meet for judicial determination."

If the court should rule out the 1901 Apportionment Act of Illinois, it said, the State's 26 congressmen then would all be elected from the State at large and this would "defeat the vital political principle which led Congress more than 100 years ago to require districting."

Pay Claims Upheld

The court upheld pay claims by a group of workers who said they were not paid for all working time recorded on their time-clock cards.

The decision was given on an appeal by a local of the CIO-United Pottery Workers of America and a group of employés of the Mount Clemens (Mich.) Pottery Company.

Selective Service Ruling

The court ruled a selective service registrant who refused to submit to induction may be prosecuted in the Federal judicial district where the refusal occurred.

The United States Court for the Western District of Washington State had held that Sheldon Maurice Anderson, charged with refusal to be inducted at Fort Lewis, which is in the western district, could be prosecuted only in the eastern district, in which his Spokane draft board is located.

Citizenship Decision

The court approved the cancellation of a citizenship certificate granted to a German who later was accused of working in this country in behalf of the Nazi party.

The decision was given on an appeal by Paul Knauer, who was granted citizenship by a state court in Milwaukee in 1937. His certificate was canceled in 1944 by the United States District Court Milwaukee on the ground he had taken a false oath of allegiance.

JUN 11 1946

Liquor Term Upheld

The court affirmed 30-month prison sentences imposed by a Federal district court on two brothers accused of illicit liquor activities in Fayette county, Alabama.

The brothers, W. Daniel and Walter G. Pinkerton, were convicted on several counts listing various acts as violations of the Internal Revenue Code.

Seaman's Plea Upheld

The court ruled a seaman injured on a Government-owned ship operated by Moore-McCormack Lines, Inc., was right in turning to the company to seek damages rather than to the Government.

Cecil I. Hust, injured in a fall on the Liberty ship Mark Hanna, won an Oregon State Court jury verdict against Moore-McCormack. The Oregon Supreme Court reversed it. Hust appealed to the high court.

Coast Tax Law Held Valid

The court upheld the validity of a California tax of four per cent on the net income of corporations which was derived from sources within that State.

Deficiency-Case Rule Put Off

The court ordered reargument next term on a question whether a Federal court in North Carolina might grant a deficiency judgment when the State's courts did not have authority to do so.

The court heard argument recently, but apparently was unable to reach a majority decision.

The case arose over a sale of property in Roanoke, Va., by W. H. Bullington to Dr. Furman Angel. As part payment Bullington took notes secured by a mortgage.

Later, the court was told, Bullington foreclosed and the property was sold but did not total the amount due, so Bullington asked a North Carolina State court for a deficiency judgment.

The State court ruled that North Carolina law barred such a judgment after foreclosure of a mortgage. The North Carolina Supreme Court agreed. Bullington then sued the United States District Court in Shelby, N.C., and won. The Fourth Federal Circuit Court affirmed the district court.

Dr. Angel then appealed to the Supreme Court.

Rehearing On Trust Case

The court ordered reargument next term on an appeal by groups of local unions and employers convicted of violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act through agreements to raise and fix wages and prices of products.

The new term will begin in Ostober. The court did not indicate why it had decided the case should be argued again.

The union members and employers were engaged in the lumber and millwork industry in the San Francisco area.

The Justice Department said the employers granted union wage demands in exchange for a union agreement to prevent sale and shipment into the area of lumber products made under wage and working conditions below those listed in the agreement.

SEEKS DRAFT COMPROMISE

Sparkman Offers Plan to Limit Teen-Agers' Overseas Service

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—Induction of 18-year-olds for service in this country only was proposed today as the basis for compromising the Senate-House stalemate over draft extension.

The plan was offered by Representative Sparkman, Democrat, of Alabama, in an effort to break the deadlock over the House's repeated refusal to vote for a teen-age draft and the Senate's insistence that the teen-agers be inducted to relieve men with long service records.

Mr. Sparkman's plan would prohibit the armed forces from sending 18-year-olds overseas unless they volunteered. It would not affect the status of 19-year-olds, who now may be sent overseas if they were inducted prior to last May 15.

Prior to last May 15, the services were permitted to draft teen-agers for service anywhere, but Congress, in passing a resolution extending the draft law until June 30, prohibited induction of any teen-agers.

Mr. Sparkman, one of the seven House members of the conference committee, told reporters he believed the House would accept the compromise.

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson announced today he had turned down a Federal Public Housing Authority request for Gardiner General Hospital in Chicago. WHEAT CROP HELD TOO LITTLE FOR '46

JUN 11 1946

Government's New Estimate Indicates a Bumper Yield, but Less Than In '45

CONSERVATION IS PLANNED

Oats, Rye Harvest Also Under Last Year's Seen—Figures for Corn Not Included

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—Hopes for plenty of bread and flour suffered a new blow today when the Government released figures indicating that the 1946 wheat crop, although of bumper proportions, will fall 225,000,000 bushels short of domestic demand and foreign commitments.

Plans were made to proceed with conservation measures during the next twelve months, including the "dark bread" program and curbs on flour distribution.

The Agriculture Department, in its monthly report on crop conditions, showed that the wheat crop prospects improved slightly during May to promise the third consecutive billion-bushel harvest, but not sufficiently to meet the demands.

The crop was indicated at 1,025,509,000 bushels, an increase of about 25,000,000 over prospects a month earlier, but nearly 100,000,000 bushels below last year's record of 1,123,143,000.

Officials said a crop of at least 1,250,000,000 bushels would be needed to supply unrestricted domestic demands and foreign relief requirements for the period July, 1946, to July, 1947.

Little Improvement Expected

While the winter wheat crop is beginning to move to harvest and consequently can be expected to improve relatively little, it is possible for the spring wheat crop, which will not be ready for harvest until late in the summer, to increase over present indications.

The Government left unchanged its plan to ship 250,000,000 bushels of wheat abroad from the 1946 crop. Exports from last year's supply were expected to be about 380,000,000 bushels.

The winter wheat crop was forecast at 774,588,000 bushels, an increase of about 32,000,000 over last month's official estimate. The department said this increase reflected some improvement in soil moisture supplies in the Southwestern Plains. Last year's winter wheat crop totaled 832,177,000 bushels and the ten-year (1935-44) average was 618,019,000.

Spring Wheat at 6-Year Low

Spring wheat was forecast at 250,921,000 bushels, which would be the smallest since 1940. Prospects were darkened somewhat by a strange mixture of hot winds and severe freezes during May. Last year's spring wheat totaled 299,966,000 bushels and the ten-year average was 225,673,000.

While May weather was more favorable than that of April for winter wheat, it was not conducive to the best development of other crops. The department said progress of other crops has been relatively slow, but that as of June 1, prospects continued "mostly satisfactory."

Overall prospects at this early stage, the department said, indicated the total volume of production this year will rank "well up with that of the last four years." It was said that moisture supplies are adequate with few exceptions and that crops should respond generously to the usual warmth and sunshine of June.

Planting of the important corn crop—production estimates of which were not given—was delayed in many areas by rain during the latter part of May.

The oats crop—like corn, vital to livestock production—was indicated at 1,492,783,000 bushels, or second to last year's record of 1,547,663,000. The ten-year average was 1,129,441,000.

Small Rye Crop Forecast

A very small rye crop of 20,759,000 bushels was forecast. Last year's production was 26,354,000 and the ten-year average 42,356,000.

The department said freezing weather in West Central States in the early part of May caused some crop damage. Fruit production in the Midwest was severely reduced, but the total national crop is expected to be of near-record proportions.

Total fruit production other than citrus is expected to be slightly above average and about 10 per cent above last year's relatively poor crop.

The department said the largest commercial potato crop of record is indicated. Truck crops—particularly onions, tomatoes, melons and others in the South—were severely damaged by successive rains, but the total tonnage of spring truck crops is still one-eighth larger than the record of 1945 and 40 per cent above average.

Milk production continued at near-record volume. The heavier production per cow for May offset a decline in milch cow numbers from the high level of the war years.

Wheat Crop Big, Growers' Price Stand Is Issue

Chicago, June 10 (AP)—A big wheat crop maturing in the Southwest prompted speculation today on the amount of grain that will be held back on farms.

Although yields were greater than expected, causing increases in crop estimates, grain dealers were disturbed by reports that growers were reluctant to send the wheat to market.

The success of the Government's famine relief program, as well as easing of the flour shortage at home, depend not only on the amount of wheat raised but also on the amount marketed.

The Crop Forecasts

Splendid weather in recent weeks caused higher crop forecasts. C. M. Galvin, statistician for James E. Bennett & Co., placed the winter wheat crop at 751,089,000 bushels; Walter Scott, of the Kansas City Board of Trade, estimated 760,000,000 bushels.

Both predictions reflected improved weather conditions since the Agriculture Department's May 1 estimate of 742,887,000 bushels.

Increasing reports were heard that farmers, angered over the Government's handling of its wheat program, might store much of this grain in old barns and bins on their farms.

48-Cent Difference

Farmers who marketed their 1945 crop early did not do as well as those who held on until later, the Kansas State College Extension Service noted.

There were two increases in ceilings after most of the 1945 crop was harvested, plus a 30-cent-a-bushel bonus. Farmers who held their wheat got 48 cents a bushel more than those who sold during the first eight months of the season, the college service said.

Sale Order Resented

Resentment was reported growing among producers at the Government order compelling the sale of one half of all wheat delivered to elevators for storage. Some farmers regarded this as close to confiscation of private property.

Other reasons for holding grain, dealers said, included the possibility that the OPA would be killed in Congress or that ceilings would be removed from livestock and poultry, thereby making feeding operations more profitable than selling the grain.

Bor Calls Dewey Mouthpiece of U.S. Conscience

Polish General Welcomed by Governor at Formal Reception in Capitol

ALBANY, June 10 (AP).—The Polish underground's General Bor referred today to Governor Thomas E. Dewey as the "mouthpiece of American conscience," and denounced what he called the surrender of "Allied Poland to Eastern Communism" at the Yalta and Potsdam conferences.

General Tadeusz Komorowski (Bor), who led the unsuccessful Warsaw uprising against the Germans in 1944, said Governor Dewey's May 29 speech on Polish freedom came "when we were bitterly disappointed by so many from whom we had a right to expect every support."

Mr. Dewey welcomed General Komorowski at a formal reception in the Capitol, attended by 200 state officials and guests. Later the Polish visitor was luncheon guest of the Governor and Mrs. Dewey.

The Governor reiterated earlier statements that a free Poland was the key "which we must use if we are to secure world peace." He said that "no one had yet found a wall strong enough to hide and isolate freedom, prosperity and happiness around or within one nation alone."

"I am certain," General Komorowski said, "that Poles will remember for many years to come that at a time when we were bitterly disappointed by so many from whom we had a right to expect every support, at a time when —over a year after the disasters of Yalta and Potsdam surrendering Allied Poland to Eastern Communism—powerful and influential forces were at work to harm the Polish cause openly or, at best, to pass over it in deadly silence, your excellency (Dewey) became the mouthpiece of American conscience.

"In ringing words, you declared with all the authority of your great state that 'although the sun of freedom does not yet shine over Poland, decent thinking people all over the world believe that until that cloud is removed and justice, liberty and a freely elected government exist in Poland world peace will not be secured.'"

Eisenhower Addresses Norwich Graduates

Northfield, Vt., June 10 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, United States Army chief of staff, told graduates of Norwich University "there is an obvious limit to our unilateral disarmament" in an address at the one hundred and twenty-seventh commencement exercises yesterday.

Eisenhower, who appeared with Senator Austin (R., Vt.), newly appointed United States representative on the United Nations Security Council, said:

"To support the United Nations effectively, it is clear that America can contribute her full share only if she is strong, strong in the right and in the power to defend the right. The strength of the leader is in the will and the spirit of his followers."

Russia Criticized By Bishop Manning

New York, June 10 (AP).—The Rt. Rev. William T. Manning, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of New York, declared yesterday that Russia "should cease its present obstructive and enigmatic course in the United Nations."

"The Russian Government needs to be told that if it sincerely desires world peace it should allow the same freedom of news and information that the democratic nations allow," Bishop Manning said at a special service for the "fellowship" of the English-speaking peoples.

Russia, Bishop Manning said, "should consent to the abolition of the inequitable veto power which Russia alone demands and which so definitely weakens the United Nations" and should "permit the smaller nations to have their share in the peace settlements."

New York June 10 (AP)—Two-month-old John A. Innes, son of a Thomaston (Conn.) war veteran, died today, the twelfth fatality among children recently brought to the United States from Europe.

The baby arrived here May 26 on the George Goethals. One other infant from the same ship died last Tuesday.

THE PROSECUTION WILL ATTEMPT TO SHOW THAT A CLOSE LINK EXISTED AMONG THE FORCES UNDER MIHAILOVIC, XORMER WAR MINISTER IN KING PETER II'S GOVERNMENT-IN-EXILE; OTHER LEADERS IN PETER'S GOVERNMENT, AND THE YUGOSLAV GOVERNMENT HEADED BY PREMIER FIELD MARSHAL MILAN NEDIC DURING THE NAZI OCCUPATION.

NEDIC, WHO ALSO WAS TO HAVE BEEN TRIED, COMMITTED SUICIDE LAST JANUARY BY JUMPING FROM THE SEVENTH STORY OF A PRISON HERE.

ALTHOUGHLOESTIMONY OF BRITISH OFFICERS HAS BEEN FORWARDED FOR USE AT THE TRIAL, TWO NOTES FROM THE U.S. STATE DEPARTMENT ASKING THAT AMERICAN SOLDIERS BE PERMITTED TO TESTIFY FOR THE DEFENSE ARE STILL UNANSWERED. FOREIGN MINISTER STANOJI SIMIC SAID THAT "ANY FURTHER CORRESPONDENCE ON THIS SUBJECT WOULD INDEED PERMIT INTERFERENCE WITH OUR INTERNAL AFFAIRS."

FEW DETAILS HAVE BEEN RELEASED ON ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE TRIAL, ORIGINALLY SCHEDULED FOR MID-MAY BUT POSTPONED BY THE GOVERNMENT WITHOUT EXPLANATION. NAMES OF THE DEFENSE ATTORNEYS HAVE NOT BEEN ANNOUNCED, BUT IT IS UNDERSTOOD THEY HAVE PREPARED THEIR CASE.

APPROXIMATELY 70 FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS HAVE GATHERED FROM ALL OVER EUROPE TO ATTEND THE TRIAL WHICH, ACCORDING TO THE TANJUG AGENCY, WILL BE HELD IN TOPCIDER, A BELGRADE SUBURB.

THE 24 DEFENDANTS INCLUDE CHETNIKS, MEMBERS OF THE FORMER YUGOSLAV GOVERNMENZ-IN-EXILE IN LONDON AND ALLEGED COLLABORATIONISTS. THOSE APPEARING IN THE DOCK, HOWEVER, WILL ALL BE FOLLOWERS OF NEDIC AND MIHAILOVIC. THE OTHERS WILL BE TRIED IN ABSENTIA.

TWO MEMBERS OF MIHAILOVIC'S NATIONAL COMMITTEE, DR.SSVEVAN MOJEVUC AND DJURO VILOVIC, WILL BE AMONG THE DEFENDANTS APPEARING TODAY AT THE TRIAL.

CONSTANTIN FOTITCH, FORMER YUGOSLAV AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED STATES, WILL BE AMONG THOSE TO BE TRIED IN ABSENTIA. FOTITCH, WHO RESIGNED HIS POST IN JULY, 1944, AND REFUSED TO RECOGNIZE THE GOVERNMENT OF PREMIER MARSHAL TITO, IS STILL IN THE UNITED STATES, WHERE HE REPORTEDLY HAS BEEN MAKING EFFORTS TO BRING ABOUT INTERNATIONAL INTERVENTION AT MIHAILOVIC'S TRIAL.

A THREE-MAN TRIBUNAL WILL PASS JUDGMENT ON MIHAILOVIC AND HIS FELLOW DEFENDANTS. THE PRESIDENT OF THE COURT IS COL. MIHAILO DJORDJEVIC, PRESIDENT OF THE SUPREME COURT OF SERBIA AND A FORMER FIGHTER IN THE PARTISAN ARMY. THE OTHER JUDGES ARE LT.COL.MILIA LAKOVIC AND LT.COL.MIHAIL JANKOVIC.

THE CASE FOR THE PROSECUTION WILL BE PRESENTED BY PUBLIC PROSECUTOR COL.MILOS MINIC, ALSO A SERBIAN AND A FORMER MEMBER OF THE PARTISAN ARMY.

the place where the town of 100 stone buildings once stood now is marked only by the mass grave and a 25-foot-high cross barbed with wire "thorns," erected by the russians when they occupied the village shortly before the end of the european war.

speaker, headed by joseph david, president of the [illegible] national assembly, promised that with the aid of american and british contributions, a new lidice would arise.

from the temporary speakers' stand the flags of czechoslovakia, the united states, great britain and russia fluttered under a clear sky and the national anthems of those countries were played at the conclusion of the ceremony.

bludan, syria, june 10 - (ap) - the arab league received tonight a proposal for the establishment of an arab government in palestine and for british withdrawal from the holy land.

the proposal was submitted to the league's extraordinary session here at a time when spokesmen for the delegates said they did not know the whereabouts of the former grand mufti of jerusalem, one of the top figures in the arab world.

haj amin al husseini, former grand mufti and spiritual leader of palestine's arabs, left france, his home of exile, last saturday. observers presumed he would come to bludan immediately for the arab the extraordinary session, which opened saturday, was convened primarily to organize arab opposition to the report of the british-american committee on palestine which recommended that 100,000 european jews be admitted ~~immediately~~ to palestine.

the informant said the actual form of the government would not be discussed until the delegates approved the principle of the proposal. however, it is believed that an outline of the proposed governmental form as well as actual nominations for its high offices, already drafted in palestine for submission to the league.

such an arab government would parallel palestine's jewish agency which is headed by a political department with departments for every governmental function.

one informant said the delegates were discussing all phases of support by the entire arab world for the palestine arabs, including the possible use of military force.

"the tendency within the league is still to resort to diplomatic channels," the informant said, "but faith in such channels is growing less and less. it is safe to say the council is discussing the possibility of resorting to the sword to come to the aid of palestine."

makram obeid pasha, leader of the egyptian delegation, said tonight the league would conclude its deliberations in the palestine case tomorrow. he added that the egyptian delegation definitely would leave for cairo on wednesday.

makram said the other delegations probably would continue the session for two more days to discuss trusteeships for cyrenaica and tripolitania in libia proposed at the recent four-power foreign ministers' conference in paris, and also arab support of the egyptian government in its views concerning revision of the existing british-egyptian treaty

(ADVANCE)...MURRAY BAY, CANADA, JUNE 10-(AP)-LT. GEN. DANIEL I. SULTAN, INSPECTOR GENERAL OF THE U.S. ARMY, SAID TODAY UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING WOULD DO MUCH TO ELIMINATE COMPLAINTS OVER THE SO-CALLED OFFICER "CASTE SYSTEM" BY PERMITTING A CAREFUL SELECTION OF THE GROUP OF MEN "FROM WHICH EVENTUALLY ALL OUR OFFICERS WOULD COME."

"THE SO-CALLED 'CASTE SYSTEM' IS NOT REALLY ONE OF OFFICERS VERSUS ENLISTED MEN--IT IS ONE OF THE CAREFUL SELECTION OF THE RIGHT KIND OF MEN TO BE OFFICERS," SULTAN SAID IN AN ADDRESS PREPARED FOR DELIVERY BEFORE THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF CHINA DRUG STORES HERE.

SULTAN, WARTIME COMMANDER IN THE INDIA-BURMA THEATER, SAID THAT SO FAR AS OBTAINING THE MANPOWER NEEDED TO FULFILL WAR DEPARTMENT COMMITMENTS ABROAD WAS CONCERNED, "SELECTIVE SERVICE IS BOTH THE PRACTICAL AND TRULY DEMOCRATIC METHOD." BUT HE ADDED THAT UNIVERSAL TRAINING, AS DISTINGUISHED FROM UNIVERSAL SERVICE, "WOULD IMPRESS UPON EVERY YOUNG MAN THE FACT THAT THE PRIVILEGE OF CITIZENSHIP IN A FREE COUNTRY CARRIES SOME FUNDAMENTAL RESPONSIBILITIES AND OBLIGATIONS."

THE INSPECTOR GENERAL RECALLED THAT THE WAR DEPARTMENT "HAS GIVEN ITS OFFICIAL SUPPORT TO PROPOSALS FOR UNIVERSAL COMPULSORY MILITARY TRAINING" OF YOUNG MEN WHO WOULD NOT BE [illegible] OF THE ARMY OR NAVY AND WOULD NOT BE USED IN PEACETIME TO [illegible] MILITARY FORCES OR TO BE SENT OVERSEAS.

JUN 11 1946

"IT HAS SEEMED TO ME," SULTAN SAID, "THAT UPON ANALYSIS THOSE CRITICISMS WERE DIRECTED NOT AGAINST THE AUTHORITY AND THE PRIVILEGES ACCORDED OFFICERS OF THE ARMY AND NAVY, BUT UPON THE ABUSE OF AUTHORITY AND PRIVILEGE BY MEN WHO LACKED THE QUALITIES OF A GOOD OFFICER, AND USED THEIR RANK TO GRATIFY THEIR SELFISH AMBITIONS AND MINISTER TO THEIR CREATURE COMFORTS AT THE EXPENSE OR TO THE DISADVANTAGE OF THE MEN SERVING UNDER THEM."

"WITH EVERY ABLE-BODIED YOUNG MAN SERVING A YEAR IN A MILITARY TRAINING PROGRAM," HE SAID, "WE COULD SELECT OUR OFFICER MATERIAL, BOTH PROFESSIONAL REGULARS AND RESERVES, ON A QUALITY OF LEADERSHIP TEST THAT IS NOW IMPOSSIBLE. JUN 11 1946

BY HOWARD W.BLAKESLEE
ASSOCIATED PRESS SCIENCE REPORTER

(ADVANCE)..SAN FRANCISCO, JUNE 11-(AP)-THE LAST SHIPS FOR THE NAVY'S ATOM BOMB TESTS AT BIKINI ATOLL SAIL FROM HERE THIS WEEK WITH A WARNING FROM ANATOL J.SHNEIDEROV, JOHNS HOPKINS SEISMOLOGIST, THAT HE FEARS THERE MAY BE NO SURVIVORS TO REPORT THE EXPLOSION, AND THAT THE WORLD'S CLIMATE MAY BE CHANGED FOR DECADES.

THE SHIPS ARE THE PANAMINT, CARRYING CONGRESSIONAL, UNITED NATIONS AND SCIENTIFIC REPRESENTATIVES; THE BLUE RIDGE WITH MILITARY OBSERVERS; AND THE APPALACHIAN, WITH PRESS, RADIO AND MAGAZINE WRITERS. THEY ARE DUE IN BIKINI A DAY OR TWO BEFORE JULY 1, DATE SET FOR EXPLODING THE FIRST BOMB HIGH ABOVE THE TARGET SHIPS. THE SECOND BOMB IS SET FOR JULY 20, AND UNDER WATER, IN THE LAGOON.

THIS SECOND UNDERWATER BOMB IS THE CAUSE OF SHNEIDEROV'S WARNING. HE WRITES HIS PREDICTIONS IN SCIENCE, OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF AMERICAN SCIENTISTS. HE CONCENTRATES ON THE WORST THAT MIGHT HAPPEN, BUT DOES NOT TELL ALL OF BOTH SIDES.

SHNEIDEROV COMPUTES THE FORCE NECESSARY TO CRACK THE EARTH'S OUTER SHELL, ABOUT 40 MILES DEEP, INTO TWO HALVES, THREE METERS APART. THE FORCE IS A FANTASTIC FIGURE, IN WORK UNITS (ERGS) WHERE ONE IS FOLLOWED BY 26 ZEROS. BUT HE SAYS THE FORCE OF THE ATOMIC BOMB IS AN ALMOST EQUALLY FANTASTIC FIGURE, ONLY TWO ZEROS SHORTER. AND THE BOMB ON WHICH HE MAKES THIS ESTIMATE IS THE HIROSHIMA TYPE, WHICH IS, OFFICIALLY, SUPPOSED TO BE ONLY ABOUT HALF AS ENERGETIC AS THOSE TO BE USED AT BIKINI ATOLL.

HE DECLARES THAT THE NUCLEAR FISSION, OR ATOM BOMB, ENERGIES ARE APPROACHING THE CRITICAL FIGURE THAT WOULD CRACK THE EARTH'S OUTER SHELL IN TWO AND SAYS:

"FURTHER EXPERIMENTING WITH LARGE NUCLEAR FISSION BOMBS MUST BE CARRIED OUT WITH GREAT PRECAUTIONS. THE AUTHOR IS AFRAID THAT THERE MAY BE NO SURVIVORS TO REPORT ON THE EXPERIMENT IF THE BOMB OF HIROHIMA-SIZE IS EXPLODED ON OR UNDER THE OCEAN SURFACE. AND IF

THE PRECEDING MONTHS ARE BELOW THEIR NORMAL SEISMIC ACTIVITY.

"IF A RUPTURE IN THE OCEAN BED CAUSED BY THE TEST IS SUFFICIENTLY DEEP AND THEREFORE HOT, THE FLOW OF WATER INTO THE CRACK AND THE STEAM FORMED THEREIN WILL DEEPEN AND BROADEN THE RUPTURE. THE BULGE OF STEAM MAY PRODUCE A SEISMIC TIDAL WAVE WHICH MAY SWEEP AWAY ALL SHIPS — THE TARGETS AND NON-TARGETS.

"FURTHERMORE, IF THE NUCLEAR FISSION BOMB IN THE PLANNED EXPERIMENT IS LARGER THAN THAT RELEASED OVER HIROSHIMA, THE MUSHROOMS OF STEAM AND DUST FROM THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA MAY SURPASS THAT OF KRAKATOA IN THE YEAR 1883, BY MANY TIMES, BOTH IN VOLUME OF ERUPTED MATTER AND IN THE HEIGHT TO WHICH IT IS ERUPTED.

A151FX JUN 11 1946

"THE CLIMATE OF THE EARTH MAY BE AFFECTED UNFAVORABLY FOR MANY DECADES IF THE QUANTITY OF DUST ERUPTED AS A RESULT OF THE EXPERIMENT IS SEVERAL TIMES THAT RESULTING FROM THE EXPLOSION OF KRAKATOA."

THE LATTER THREW UP BETWEEN TEN AND TWENTY CUBIC MILES OF POWDERED ROCK AND THE SUNLIGHT WAS COOLER, DUE TO DUST, FOR SEVERAL YEARS THEREAFTER.

OMITTED FROM DR.SHNEIDEROV'S CALCULATIONS IS A SIGNIFICANT FIGURE GIVEN BY DR.R.A.SAWYER, DIRECTOR OF THE TECHNICAL SCIENTIFIC WORK OF THE BIKINI TESTS. HIS ASSOCIATES HAVE BEEN COMPUTING WHAT FRACTION OF THE ENERGY OF THE UNDERWATER ATOMIC BOMB WILL ACTUALLY BE TRANSMITTED INTO THE WATER. THE ESTIMATES RANGE FROM TEN TO FIFTY PER CENT. ONLY THAT FRACTION CAN TRANSMIT A BLOW TO THE SEA BOTTOM FOR PURPOSES OF STARTING EARTHQUAKES OR VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS.

USING THESE FIGURES, DR.SHNEIDEROV'S PREDICTIONS WOULD NEED FROM MORE THAN TWICE AS MUCH ATOMIC BOMB ENERGY UP TO TEN TIMES AS MUCH TO CRACK THE EARTH'S CRUST.

SHNEIDEROV FIGURES THAT THE HIROSHIMA BOMB WAS ACTUALLY MORE ENERGETIC THAN THE SAN FRANCISCO EARTHQUAKE. BUT ATOMIC SCIENTISTS HAVE FIGURED THAT THE BOMBS ARE ONLY FROM ONE THOUSANDTH TO ONE TEN-THOUSANDTH AS ENERGETIC AS THE CALIFORNIA TREMOR.

THE JOHNS HOPKINS SCIENTIST, HOWEVER, TOUCHES VERY CLOSELY ONE OF THE REAL WORRIES. EVEN IF A BOMB DOES NOT CAUSE A QUAKE, IT STILL MAY BE SUFFICIENTLY POWERFUL TO ACT AS A TRIGGER TO SET OFF A QUAKE. AS SHNEIDEROV EXPLAINS, IF ONE OF THESE BOMBS HAPPENS TO BE ALMOST DIRECTLY ABOVE A FAULT WHERE THE BURIED ROCKS ALREADY ARE UNDER STRAIN, THE ENERGY MIGHT VERY WELL BE ENOUGH TO SHAKE THE CRACK OPEN DIRECTLY UNDERNEATH, AND THEN, PRESUNABLY, THE CRACK WOULD EXTEND BY NATURAL FORCES INTO A FULL-FLEDGED EARTHQUAKE.

THAT IS ONE REASON WHY SHNEIDEROV IN HIS DISASTER PREDICTION SAYS TROUBLE MAY BREAK LOOSE IF THE PRECEDING MONTHS AROUND BIKINI HAVE BEEN LOW IN QUAKE ACTIVITY. LOW MEANS A CHANCE FOR THE EARTH TO HAVE BUILT UP SOME STRONG STRAINS.

EARTHQUAKE TRIGGERS ARE HOWEVER VERY SKETCHY AND THEORETICAL. NOBODY REALLY KNOWS MUCH ABOUT THEM. IT IS A FACT THAT TYPHOONS AND HURRICANES AT SEA ACT AS HUGE TRIGGERS. THEY CAUSE THE BOTTOM OF THE OCEAN TO VIBRATE SO STRONGLY THAT AT ST.LOUIS, FATHER JAMES MACELWANE RECORDS THE DISTANT FORCE ON HIS SEISMOGRAPHS. YET THESE GREAT DISTURBANCES, THAT PROBABLY CONTAIN FAR MORE ENERGY THAN AN ATOMIC BOMB, DO NOT SEEM TO TRIGGER OFF EARTHQUAKES.

THE FIRST BOMB, IN NEW MEXICO, PUSHED THE SOLID EARTH DOWN SIX FEET IN A SHALLOW SAUCER NEARLY HALF A MILE IN DIAMETER. IT ACTUALLY SET UP ITS OWN EARTHQUAKE. BUT THIS QUAKE WAS MILD, DID NOT EXTEND FAR, AND FAILED TO ACT AS A TRIGGER.

100,000 March On Viminale Palace In Capital; Cabinet Unable To Find Solution

J. McKnight

Rome, Wednesday, June 12 (AP)—The blazing gun and bomb battle in Naples died to an occasional exchange of gunfire today as the casuauty toll rose to at least seven persons dead and 50 wounded in yesterday's clash among monarchist demonstrators, troops and opposing police factions.

A similar demonstration of violence was averted in Rome when almost 100,000 angry pro-republicans who marched on Viminale Palace demanding Cabinet action to force King Umberto II into exile, dispersed NIGHT.

Giuseppe Romita, Socialist Minister of the Interior, who inspired the march on Viminale Palace, cautioned the republican sympathizers against bloodshed and warned them not to attack a smaller group of monarchist sympathizers who cheered Umberto before the near-by Quirinale Palace.

Fifth Session Held

Meanwhile, Premier Alcide de Gasperi's Cabinet held its fifth session in 24 hours today, but ended the meeting without agreement on whether Italy now is actually a republic and without finding a solution to Umberto's refusal to leave the country.

With Naples municipal officials still clearing away the traces of yesterday's heavy rioting, a new worry beset them—a pro-republic demonstration scheduled for 4 P.M. today.

Some of yesterday's casualties in Naples were victims of a clash between the monarchy-supporting Carabinieri and a group of mobile police who sympathized with the republicans.

Automatic Weapons Used

A pitched battle raged for hours in Naples' Via Medina, with both police and monarchists using automatic weapons and motor transport.

The surging crowd of from 10,000 to 20,000 laid siege to Communist headquarters, adjacent to the police building, and hurled Molotov cocktails — bottled gasoline with flaming wicks — at the six-story building in a determined effort to destroy it.

Smaller battles broke out in several other sections of the city.

Two bombs were thrown into the crowd from the Communist building an eyewitness account said, "and all hell broke loose." The Communists, barricaded in their building, were returning fire from other buildings in blockaded Via Medina, and late tonight the fighting still was in progress.

Umberto Confers

The demonstration in Rome was called to express impatience with the Government for failing to proclaim the republic on this day set aside as a holiday to celebrate it.

King Umberto, meanwhile, sat tight in the royal palace, conferring with his counselors and insisting that the result of the plebiscite was "indefinite."

The Naples riot—second major outburst and mose serious since the plebiscite which rejected the House of Savoy—began when monarchist demonstrators stoned the Communist building and hurled missiles at police and troops.

The fighting mushroomed into full-scale battle two hours later when the mob began its attempts to burn the building. Firing became almost continuous.

Crowd Captures Cars

An Associated Press photographer in Naples said that when the crowd was cleared to some extent from the streets, they took to the buildings and continued "firing all around us." The photographer was in the basement of the police building, used for headquarters by United States military police, and said the building was "under heavy fire."

When the fighting began, the crowd temporarily captured four armored cars from the police and troops, who recovered them only when reinforcements were brought up. Several police were injured in the battle. Streetcars and trucks hailed by the crowd effectively blocked off Via Madina during the fighting.

The cheers of the huge Roman crewd brought Premier de Gasperi and his ministers out for several appearances on the balcony.

Two Decrees Suggested

The Cabinet was reported reliably to have presented two possible solutions to the adamant monarch:

A decree naming de Gasperi—on the authority of the Cabinet and without reference to royal powers—as provisional president of the republic.

A decree which, if signed by the King, would make de Gasperi interim chief of state for a six-day period until June 18, the date set for the Supreme Court of Cassation's ruling on alleged election frauds—the missing factor which induced Umberto's attitude.

The crowd, bearing belligerent banners and shouting imprecations against the monarchy, had surged to the Viminale Palace from a mass meeting in Piazza del Popolo, where they were exhorted to action by Romita.

Umberto's Position

Late last night royalist spokesmen quoted Umberto as having told de Gasperi, with whom he conferred twice today, that he would "do anything fo rthe pacification of the people" but that he must "make his own decisions about yielding the throne."

Because the Supreme Court of Cassation, which yesterday announced a 2,000,000-vote margin for the republic in last week's plebiscite, has yet to rule on claims or irregularities and to count returns from 50-odd scattered precincts, royalists insist the decision is not final.

Romita Cautions Crowd

As the huge crowd arrived before Vimale Palace, the flag of the new republic—red, white and green bars without the shield of the House of Savoy—was raised above the building for the first time, and a tremendous cheer burst from the demonstrators. Today had been designated as a holiday to celebrate the birth of the still unproclaimed republic.

Romita admonished the crowd not to march on the royal palace, where Umberto was conferring with his councillors. He shouted that "we will march there together to the tune of La Marseillaise another time."

"If we of the Government should feel weak, we should have recourse to you," Romita told the crowd.

Heavy concentrations of helmeted soldiers and police, armed with submachine guns and supported by tanks, guarded the royal palace. A throng of monarchists, estimated at about 2,000, was gathered there and in a truculent mood. They shouted for the King and booed passing truckloads of police.

Romita asserted the results announced by the Supreme Court yesterday were "decisive and definite."

Power Seizure Urged

Meanwhile, other Left-Wing leaders demanded that de Gasperi seize the power of provisional president and force Umberto to carry out his announced plan to go into exile. Moderates and rightists held out for a compromise to which the King might agree.

The Left Wing was further incensed by a proposal of the King's counselors for a "civil regency" which would rule until the final verdict on the plebiscite, expected June 18.

Romita's arrival at Piazza del Popolo touched off noisy cheers, and the crowd applauded when he appealed for the "collaboration of the monarchists to aid in saving Italy."

"I had hoped to speak to you in the name of the Italian republican Government," Romita said, "but I can speak to you only in the name of the Italian republicans. In a few hours or a few days I will be able to address you in the name of the Government."

"March To Viminale"

"March to the Viminale," Romita shouted into the microphone. "The Cabinet is merely discussing instead of acting."

As he spoke, the eight streets leading to the square were guarded by police armed with submachine guns, rifles and clubs. Three times an Italian bomber flew over the square.

Romita's words had immediate effect on the 100,000 Socialists, Communists and other prorepublicans. Among them were a sprinkling of anarchists, a few sailors and a few members of the clergy. In the crowd were signs bearing such legends as "Honest Monarchists: Unite With Us," and "Monarchists, Bow Down Before the Sovereign—the People, Who are Passing Before You."

RIOTING IS WORST OF WEEK

Soldiers Fail to Rout Monarchist Throng—100,000 Republicans March Quietly in Rome.

By J. WALTER GREEN.

Naples, June 11 (A. P.).—A raging mob of Monarchists using Molotov cocktails began attempts tonight to burn down the six-story Communist headquarters building after two hours of large-scale fighting with police.

JUN 13 1946 DAY

Two or more persons were known to have been killed in the fighting by the time the mob began throwing bottles of gasoline fitted with flaming wicks. Some reports placed the dead at four.

I am watching the fight—the most serious Naples has yet seen in this week of monarchist-Republican tension—from the second-story window of Police Headquarters, which adjoins the Communist party headquarters.

In the intermittent fire from police and troops, most of which is directed over the heads of the stubborn crowd, I have seen fifteen or twenty persons hit and carried off, leaving bloody marks in the street.

There were probably 10,000 people in the crowd when the fighting started. It is smaller now (9:15 P. M. Naples time). The women and children have gone home, but the men refuse to quit. They appear determined to burn that building regardless of the police and the troops.

To get out of the possible line of fire I had to lie on the floor, along with the American Military Police in the room with me. The M. P.'s are heavily armed, but have orders not to fire unless this building is attacked.

The American soldiers have not fired a shot yet, although on one occasion they had to go out into the street to break up a crowd that was trying to burn a United States Army jeep.

The streets have emptied rapidly in the past few minutes, but firing is going on in all the buildings around this one.

Turn Guns on Crowd.

Rome, June 11 (A. P.).—A huge monarchist demonstration in Naples flared tonight into large-scale rioting in which policemen and troops turned rifles and automatic weapons on the crowd.

The firing in Naples began when the monarchist crowd attempted to storm Communist headquarters next door to police headquarters.

Naples policemen and troops in full war kit and nearly all armed with automatic weapons used four armored cars against the crowd, but the stubborn demonstrators blocked the wheels of the armored vehicles and stopped them. It was with difficulty that re-inforcements of troops, arriving in vehicles with sirens wailing, recaptured the armored cars.

The firing began when the crowd, after stoning Communist headquarters, turned to a pile of empty artillery shells placed as a decoration and started throwing them at police. Associated Press photographer J. Walter Green was slightly injured when one of the shells grazed his head.

There were several smaller riots elsewhere in Naples, a monarchist stronghold. At one end of Via Medina the crowd stopped two street cars and immobilized them by jerking out their electrical wiring.

In Rome a crowd of 100,000 bearing Communist, Anarchist and Socialist banners among the Republican tricolors marched on the Viminale Palace where the government was sitting and voiced their discontent at the Cabinet's delay in proclaiming an end to the monarchy.

Although the eight streets leading to the Piazza del Popolo were guarded by policemen armed with submachine guns, rifles and short black clubs, the Republican demonstration was marred by no incidents.

A great cheer arose when the Republican flag—red, white and green perpendicular bars without the shield of the House of Savoy—was raised over the Viminale Palace for the first time.

They began their march at the command of Giuseppe Romita, Minister of the Interior, who, during a Republican rally in Piazza del Popolo, cried:

"The cabinet is merely discussing instead of acting . . . march to to the Viminale . . . and incite the government."

Romita enjoined the crowd, however, not to march on the Royal Palace where King Humbert II was conferring with his counselors, still refusing to give up the throne and leave the country.

"We will march there together to the tune of the Marseillaise another time," he shoutet.

Troops Guard Palace.

Heavy cordons of helmeted soldiers, tanks and police armed with sub-machine guns were thrown about the Royal Palace.

Twice the harassed Premier, Alcide de Gasperi, chased back and forth between the Quirinale Palace, where the King sat, and the Viminale Palace, where his Cabinet sat, in an effort to cut the knot.

Delegates of the six political parties which backed the republic in last week's plebiscite urged him to meet the King's refusal by declaring himself provisional president.

Randolfo Pacciardi, head of the Republican party and spokesman for the group, simultaneously called upon the Allies to clarify their position in the political impasse created by Humbert's view that the Supreme Court's announcement yesterday of the republic's victory in the plebiscite was "indefinite."

Pacciardi said in an interview that the attitude of United States Rear Admiral Ellery W. Stone, chief Allied commissioner, who spent forty minutes with the King last night, was not clear.

However, there was little indication that Stone would abandon the Allies' position that the question was one for the Italians to settle by themselves.

Pacciardi said that, should Humbert refuse to leave the country in the event of de Gasperi's assumption of power, "he should be arrested."

The six parties represented in the delegation were—from left to right—the Communists, Socialists, Actionists, Pacciardi's own Republicans, the Republican Concentration and de Gasperi's Christian Democrats.

De Gasperi's Cabinet, at a meeting which lasted far into the night, proclaimed today a national holiday marking the birth of the republic and promised the country's republicans that their announced victory would not be snatched away from them. But Monarchist spokesmen, alleging election irregularities, declared that Humbert would not leave Italy for Portugal until his defeat was officially and finally established by the Supreme Court.

Observers pointed out that the explosive characteristics of the situation were heightened by the geographic division of political opinion, with the industrial north almost solidly republican and the agricultural south overwhelmingly monarchist.

ATTLEE EXPLAINS FOREIGN POLICY

JUN 12 1946

BOURNEMOUTH, England, June 11. — (AP) Prime Minister Attlee told the annual Labor party conference today that Britain's foreign policy was founded on the Socialist concept that "we must base peace on economic prosperity and social justice."

NIGHT

"We seek to promote world peace by collective security," he declared. "We support democracy and freedom everywhere x x x.

"I reaffirm my faith in democratic socialism—social democracy—which can set us free from the tyranny of economic power and preserve us, too, from the dangers of the absolute power of the state."

The prime minister spoke emotionally as he described the Labor party's first 10 months in office.

Attlee's promise that "we are resolved to carry out the distinctive side of Socialist policy—the policy of nationalization," was followed by Food and Power Minister Emanuel Shinwell's warning that government ownership of basic industries must come after "careful and well thought out preparation."

He said the nationalization of coal mines, first industry on the government ownership program, was the crucial test of the government's socialization plans.

"If it should fail," Shinwell continued, "we cannot hope to promote schemes of nationalization. This experiment must succeed, and I believe it will."

British Customs Say Gang Is Smuggling From U. S.

2 Queen Mary Seamen Convicted, Believed Underlings

SOUTHAMPTON, England, June 11 (AP).—A British customs official said today that an international gang of smugglers is using seamen as carriers to bring goods into England from New York without payment of customs duties.

E. S. Allen, an official of the Customs nad Excise Department, testifying [illegible] two seamen of the Queen Mary, said an investigation convinced his office that an organization with operatives in both New York and Great Britain is behind the present wave of smuggling.

NIGHT

One seaman was convicted of attempting to smuggle in 234 pairs of hose, 707 lipsticks and 292 fountain pens, and the other was convicted of attempting to evade customs duties on 540 ear rings.

Allen did not elaborate on his reference to the smuggling gang except to say that these articles "would be unobtainable in America in such quantities except through the payment of exorbitant prices in the black market."

SPAIN IS SNUBBED ON HEALTH PARLEY

JUN 12 1946

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP) The United Nations Economic and Social council today expressed its disapproval of Franco Spain by leaving the Spanish government off a list of nations invited to attend the World Health conference here June 19.

NIGHT

The [illegible] was made more pointed by the fact that seven countries, which formerly were enemies to members of the United Nations, were invited to attend. The former enemy countries were Italy, Austria, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria, Finland and Siam.

The council itself did not vote directly on the question of omitting Spain but it approved the countries recommended by a committee, which had voted to exclude Germany, Japan and Spain from the conference.

Other non-members of the United Nations invited included Afghanistan, Albania, Eire, Iceland, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland, Transjordan and Yemen.

The Security council will meet Thursday morning to act on recommendations of a special sub-committee that the council ask the General Assembly to call for a worldwide break of diplomatic relations with Spain unless the Franco regime is "withdrawn" by September.

Gouin Resigns, Bidault Backed To Head France

M.R.P. Proposes Its Foreign Minister as Communists Fail to Reveal Strategy

JUN 12 1946

By The Associated Press

PARIS, June 11.—Provisional President of France Felix Gouin and his Cabinet tendered their resignations today, as the new Constituent Assembly met for the first time, in a constitutional step to pave the way for formation of a new government.

Gouin, a Socialist, said in a letter to Communist Deputy Marcel Cachin, seventy-six, who because he was the oldest legislator presided over the Assembly's first session: "The resigning government will assure, according to custom, the handling of current affairs."

DAY

Gouin had succeeded General Charles de Gaulle in the Presidency several months ago after the general resigned.

Deputies of the centrist Popular Republican Movement (M. R. P.) proposed to offer Foreign Minister Georges Bidault for the Presidency. The M. R. P. became the most numerous party in the Constituent Assembly in the recent election.

The French news agency said the decision of the M. R. P. to offer Bidault for the Presidency was reached at a special executive meeting last night. The committee's decision followed the action of the Socialist party in announcing it would not put forward a candidate to succeed Gouin, and would participate to only a limited degree in formation of a new government.

The Communists have not yet announced their strategy, on which the success or failure of attempts to form a three-party coalition government appeared to hinge.

It is expected that the Assembly will vote Saturday on the Presidency. Meanwhile it was announced that the referendum on the new constitution to be drafted by the Assembly will be held in September, with Parliamentary elections in October.

Meanwhile, De Gaulle turned down officially today a government invitation to participate in ceremonies commemorating his June 18, 1940, resistance appeal from London.

De Gaulle replied, in an exchange of letters with Gouin, that he would go next Tuesday to Mont Valerian, in a Paris suburb, to illuminate a flame in honor of France's World War II dead. His reply explained: "It seems to me preferable that I do not take part personally in the public manifestations of the state."

Gouin's invitation had said: "The manifestation will not have full meaning unless you take part personally with the incomparable prestige that is attached to your name."

FRENCH ASSEMBLY HAS BRIEF SESSION

B. WILSON

PARIS, June 11—(AP) The new French constituent assembly met in a brief inaugural session today and received the resignation of Socialist Felix Gouin's government with no clear indication when or how the new government would be formed.

NIGHT

The tactful Communists—whose oldest member, Deputy Marcel Cachin, 71, addressed the new legislature—held the key to the new government.

So far, only one candidate for the presidency has emerged—Foreign Minister Georges Bidault of the Popular Republican Movement party (MRP).

While the Socialists have insisted they do not wish to direct the government again, the Communists have not yet committed themselves.

Provisional President Gouin's letter of resignation to the assembly said that "the resigning government will assure, according to custom, the handling of current affairs."

Earlier in the day, the MRP announced a program calling for limited wage increases, measures to lower consumer goods prices, stern prosecution of black market operators and the quick drafting of a new constitution. The program provided a basis for inter-party negotiations.

SEVEN GI'S TELL OF CRUELTIES AT LICHFIELD CAMP

JUN 12 1946

D. DOANE

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany, June 11. — (AP) Seven soldier witnesses broke their silence strike today and testified against Lt. Leonard W. Ennis, whom several accused of kicking and striking prisoners in the U. S. Army guardhouse at Lichfield, England.

"I've seen Ennis take a prisoner inside and come out after a while rolling [illegible] with what appeared [illegible] stains on his arms and jackets," said Robert E. Cox, Omaha, Neb., one of 19 witnesses who for 11 days refused to testify in protest against their treatment by the Army.

NIGHT

Boasted of Toughness

Cox said Ennis, a resident of Peekskill, N. Y., told prisoners "he was running the prison and he was a tough man and if anyone thought he could whip him, he should step up."

"Ennis told us, 'I'm prison officer here, and it's rough, but it's going to be rougher,'" testified A. D. Baker of Harlan, Ky. He asserted that Ennis "kicked me in the seat of my pants" when he could not double time fast enough because of a shrapnel wound.

Albert Beach, Fall River, Mass., identified Ennis as a "bull-necked lieutenant" who tried to knee him in the groin for averting his eyes while standing in a formation.

Pvt. Joseph J. DeFelice, Brooklyn, said he complained because he wasn't allowed enough time to eat and was forced to eat three meals at one sitting. Then he was dosed with castor oil, he asserted.

Defense Trips Witnesses

Defense lawyers tripped several of the witnesses—all of them now prisoners in the guardhouse on various charges—on conflicting statements in their testimony today or with their testimony in previous trials in the Lichfield case.

DeFelice twice admitted "I was lying" when confronted with conflicting testimony. Baker admitted a prosecution attorney had given him a record of his previous testimony to study before taking the stand.

Another witness, Mike Koblinsky, Saginaw, Mich., said Ennis asked prisoners where they had been wounded and then poked their wounds with a billy club.

Six former officers at Lichfield testified in the defense of Lt. Granville Cubage, Oklahoma City, that they saw no evidence that prisoners were physically abused.

Both Cubage and Ennis are accused of authorizing cruel punishment.

Lichfield Witness Accuses Peekskill Man of Poking Americans With Club.

D. DOANE

Bad Nauheim, June 11 (A. P.).—A former Lichfield guardhouse prisoner testified today that he saw Lieut. Leonard W. Ennis of Peekskill, N. Y., repeatedly ask prisoners where they had been wounded and then "poke" their wounds with his billy club.

DAY

This happened "ten or twelve times that I saw," said the witness, Mike Koblinsky of Saginaw, Mich., who still is serving a court martial sentence. Ennis is one of two officers now on trial on charges of cruelty to inmates of the United States Army guardhouse in Lichfield, England, during the last year of the war.

In the trial of Lieut. Granville Cubage of Oklahoma City, the attempts of counsel to ascertain Cubage's official responsibility over discipline of prisoners ran into frequent refusals of a witness to answer questions which he said "might tend to incriminate" him.

The witness was Capt. Joseph A. Robertson of Akron, Ohio, who, although he is awaiting trial on the same charges, told the court-martial he had not yet been provided with defense counsel.

Robertson said Cubage "was performing some of the duties of a prison officer" but he did not know if that was his official title during the time the prosecution charges he was responsible for mistreating prisoners.

The prosecution cited Robertson's testimony in a previous trial at which he identified Cubage as prison officer and said "when he needed help in training and discipline of prisoners, Lieut. Ennis was called in."

Cubage's counsel earlier said that he intended to show that the stories about brutality at Lichfield "have apparently been exaggerated."

Lieut.-Col. William Parker of Easthampton, Mass., told the court that his client had authorized nothing "outside the scope of Army regulations."

"Severe treatment, yes," Parker said in opening the defense for Cubage yesterday, "but always within the Army regulations. Our evidence will show that these alleged incidents of mistreatment have apparently been exaggerated."

Seyss-Inquart Defends Self

Nuernberg, Germany, June 11 (AP)—Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Hitler's Reichscommissioner for the Netherlands, admitted today he participated in a decision to shoot Dutch hostages in reprisal for sabotage, but said the hostages were chosen from the ranks of men already sentenced to death.

NIGHT

A French prosecutor, Delphin Debenest, introduced an affidavit from German Gen. Friedrich Christiansen—obtained during the war-crimes trial at Arnhem—which said:

"Seyss-Inquart said five hostages would be shot (in reprisal for sabotage). I did not select them. I had to carry out the measure as a Wehrmacht commander."

The prosecution also produced before the international military tribunal a statement by the head of the Nazi police in Holland that "Seyss-Inquart ordered me to take measures of reprisals by executing 200 prisoners to intimidate the population."

"So what?" Seyss - Inquart snapped. "We were concerned here with shooting Dutchmen who already were condemned to death for acts of sabotage. I did state we must act harshly. These men would have been executed anyway."

NAZI RULER SAYS HE SAVED HOLLAND

DAY

Nuernberg, June 11 (A. P.).—Arthur Seyss-Inquart, former Nazi High Commissioner for the Netherlands, told the International Tribunal today that Holland "would have disappeared under the water in a few weeks" if he personally had not refused to obey orders calling for a big scale demolition of dikes. Adolf Hitler's deputy, Martin Bormann, ordered demolition of such magnitude that Holland would not have survived as a nation, Seyss-Inquart testified, but "I did not do it."

Referring to the many Nazi-destroyed dikes, the defendant testified that on April 30, 1945, "Gen. Eisenhower's deputy (Lieut.-Gen. Walter Bedell Smith) sent word that what had been flooded to that date could be rectified, but that any further flooding could not be tolerated."

TWO U.S. WAR MOVIES ARE BANNED IN BERLIN

BERLIN, June 11.—(AP) Two American war-time movies—"Destination Tokyo" and "Thirty Seconds over Tokyo"—have been withdrawn from Berlin cinemas by U. S. film control officers because of press criticism which called the pictures dangerous because they "glorified militarism."

Officers, while yielding to this criticism, nevertheless contended that the Germans missed the point of both pictures, which they said was to show that "soldiers are not heroes, but human beings who experience both fear and suffering."

One Berlin critic had complained: "Another war picture!! It becomes increasingly difficult to find new explanations why Allied war pictures are different from ours."

Another critic in the American-licensed tagesepiegel called the pictures dangerous to German youth because they showed "such a frightful, gay war which only inspires youthful Germans to juvenile dreams of becoming pilots and submarine captains."

Zone Goods-Trading Conference Scheduled

Berlin, June 11 (AP)—German economic officials of the American and Russian occupation zones will meet here Thursday and Friday to discuss what raw materials and other products can be traded between the areas, it was announced today.

The German food ministers of the American and British zones will meet in Hamburg at the same time to discuss common food problems.

Mihailovic Vows Innocence, Says He Lured Quislings

JUN 12 1946

DAY

BELGRADE, June 11—(AP) Gen. Draja Mihailovic admitted today that he had contact with the Germans and with the Yugoslav puppet government in 1941, but insisted he was trying to lure Quislings to join his forces.

The Chetnik leader said "I do not feel guilty" when asked how he would plead to charges of treason and collaboration, and later complained that the court had deprived him of much of his defense material.

NIGHT

The stern, bushy-bearded guerilla leader testified that in 1941 he led an attack on a unit of Marshal Tito's partisans, but he declared he attacked because "here was a group unknown to me and it began to plunder."

Mihailovic said he defended Quisling gendarmes in clashes with Tito's partisans because "I was preparing them to come over to me." He testified his relations with Milan Nedic, puppet premier who committed suicide while awaiting trial, were maintained in an effort to lure Quisling troops into the forest to fight the Germans, "as you did later."

Mihailovic, obviously tiring under the continued hammering of the prosecution, was denied a continuance of his case for further study of his defense, following a long day of intensive questioning by the public prosecutor and the president of the three-man court.

Three civilian attorneys made up his defense staff, but during the proceeding rarely were permitted to put in a word. At one point one of the attorneys, Dragich Joksimovic, asked for a delay, after Mihailovic said he had received the charges against him only a week ago. The president brought the attorney up sharply.

"The indictment was given you June 4," the president snapped. "The accused received it June 2. Accordingly you had sufficient time. The trial will last long enough so you will have time to prepare your final speech."

At another point, Mihailovic turned to the court and said:

"There is very much material for my defense which is not available to me."

"Where is it?" the court asked.

"You took it," the defendant replied.

Throughout the questioning the defendant maintained calm, although frequently he complained of failing memory and his weakened physical condition. Once the presiding judge ordered a chair for the defendant, who had been standing before a microphone. Later the court president interrupted the proceedings and asked:

"Are you tired? If you are tired, just say so."

Mihailovic said he was fatigued. The president promptly recessed the session a half hour.

Later the prosecution asked Mihailovic if he knew his commanders in Dalmatia collaborated with the enemy. He replied:

"I realized it and wanted to change the situation. I knew it was terrible for our government and the Allies. I did not inform the emigre government (King Peter's exiled London government) but the British liaison officer had a special code and did so. I got no answer."

The prosecution produced a document showing Mihailovic permitted one of his units to legalize itself with the Germans in 1941, a move which would permit it to perform police duties. Mihailovic identified the document as "my handwriting and my order." He denied, however, any general order for legalization.

Mihailovic testified that after the Soviet Union entered the war he discussed mutual problems with Tito's partisans and they agreed not to attack one another.

He said a British liaison captain named Hudson later brought a message from Cairo which said the Middle East command considered that Mihailovic's men should "fight for Yugoslavia and not for the Communist cause or Soviet Russia."

Chetnik Leader Admits He Met With Nazis

W. KING

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, June 11 (AP)—Gen. Draja Mihailovic admitted at the trial for his life today that he met the Germans in "the second half of November" of 1941 and declared that the meeting followed a German attack against him "with five divisions."

The Chetnik leader, on trial by Marshal Tito's Yugoslav regime for alleged treason and collaboration with the enemy, said that at one time he could not do anything with "many of the troops who recognized my command."

DAY

He opened his defense with the statement that "I don't feel guilty."

30.24-3255

"Started With 26 Men"

Mihailovic, obviously tiring during a long series of questions about government charges of collaboration against individual Chetnik leaders, told the court:

"I started with 26 men. There were masses of armed men—officers who had troops. I couldn't do anything with them. But I was glad they recognized me. When I went to Montenegro [where the court charges Chetnik commanders were collaborating with the Italian occupation forces] I didn't like the situation, but I couldn't change it."

Sticks To Those Words

The court president tried to get the underground warrior to answer yes or no to a question of guilt, but he merely repeated: "I don't feel guilty."

Opening the case yesterday, the Yugoslav Government of Marshal Tito charged that an American officer took part in conferences between Mihailovic and a German commander in 1944 and that a British officer told Mihailovic a year earlier to "liquidate the Communists" in Yugoslavia.

Tito's regime has refused to allow Americans or Britons to testify for Mihailovic.

JUN 12 1946

"The First Insurgent"

There was a tone of rebuke in the defendant's voice when he said, in answer to a question:

"The charge was handed to me only a week ago and has many points in it"——

"You must answer briefly," the court president broke in.

Mihailovic himself interrupted a moment later in the midst of a long question to say irrelevantly:

"I was the first insurgent in Europe."

On The Chetniks

When the court tried to confine him to the question of whether he organized the Chenicks—underground guerrillas—Mihailovic insisted that he organized an army to fight the German occupiers.

"The name came from the people and not from me," he said. "The army grew out of nothing."

With a quiet "yes," he admitted reaching an agreement with Marshall Tito's Partisans early in 1941 not to attack each other.

"After Soviet Russia entered the war (June, 1941) we discussed problems for a few days," Mihailovic said.

Had Pact With Partisans

Question—What kind of conversations?

Answer—Concerning helping each other, but I thought the Partisans wanted to go too fast.

Q.—Did you come to an early agreement with the Partisans that you would not attack each other?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you have a pact with the Partisans?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Was it October 26, 1941?

A.—I am not sure, but it was along there. It was a known fact.

Visitors After The Pact

Q.—Did you have any visitors after the pact?

Mihailovic answered that liaison officers from the Middle East arrived.

Q.—Did they bring a message?

A.—Yes, from Ilic (former Minister of War in the prewar Yugoslav Government).

Q.—What was the message?

A.—It was very brief.

Mihailovic then said a British liaison captain named Hudson also brought a message from Cairo, British Middle East headquarters.

"Fight For Yugoslavia"

"The message from the Middle East Command considered they [the Chetniks] should fight for Yugoslavia and not for the Communist cause or Soviet Russia," Mihailovic testified.

Continuing questions about the pact with the Partisans, the court president asked:

"Did you plan to fight the occupier?"

A.—Of course I did. That was why I was preparing. . . . At the moment, I did not think it was possible to fight.

Denies Ill Treatment

When the president faced Mihailovic with a record of his interrogation since his arrest, the General said:

"I can't remember giving my evidence."

Q.—Were you ill treated?

A.—Not at all, but my physical condition is so bad. . . . I refused the help of an American lawyer. I did not want defense from abroad. . . . I was very well treated. That is on the record.

The court ordered a chair for Mihailovic, who until then had been standing before a microphone at a small lectern facing the three-man court.

Some Uncertainties

The defendant sprinkled his testimony with the phrases "I can't remember," and "I'm not sure" and "It is very hard for me to remember."

He spoke strongly and clearly, however, and insisted on his own phrasing of answers. Asked whether he led an attack against a Partisan unit in 1941, he answered:

"Yes, I did."

Q.—Why did you attack?

A.—I could not consider them my allies. I tried to save villages from plunder. Here was a group unknown to me and it began to plunder. I attacked one other company earlier before it joined me, because it plundered.

Relations With Nedic

Mihailovic admitted sending officers to Gen. Milan Nedic, the quisling Premier of Serbia who committed suicide in jail after the German collapse, but he denied any agreement was reached.

"You can't call it a delegation," Mihailovic testified; "it was just two people who were sent to see what Nedic wanted."

Mihailovic denied he had received liaison officers from Nedic and added cryptically:

"I know that's in the record."

Attorneys And Judge Clash

Two civil attorneys defending the General had one sharp encounter after another with the court president, who tried to make Mihailovic say whether his force or the partisans was the first to fight the Germans.

"I was the first to begin fighting the Germans," Mihailovic said, then later added that the partisans were the first to begin attacking cities.

When a defense attorney shouted: "I don't put in the record something the accused did not say," the court, the prosecution and the defense all started talking at once.

Other Defendants Absent

The court president shouted: "You are not conducting the trial. I am."

None of the other defendants appeared in the court during Mihailovic's hearing.

It took the court nine hours to read the 50,000-word indictment against Mihailovic and 23 codefendants yesterday.

The indictment asserted the Mihailovic said in pretrial questioning that "I met the Germans in the second half of November, 1941."

Mihailovic Quoted

The indictment further quoted him as saying that in 1941 "the Germans launched an offensive against Uzico and Cacak. Marshal Tito telephoned me and that was our last talk. The Marshal asked me what I was going to do in this offensive and then he explained that he was going to accept battle against the Germans. I answered him that I could not take frontal battle and that I had to return with my detachments to their terrain."

By this it apparently was meant that Mihailovic decided to withdraw to his hiding place in the mountains. (ADD)

Mihailovic Called Bitter Nazi Foe

JUN 12 1946

New York, June 11 (AP)—Col. Robert H. McDowell, chief of a United States mission to Gen. Draja Mihailovic in 1944 and named in the Yugoslav Government's indictment of Mihailovic as meeting with the Chetnik chief and a German officer, said today Mihailovic was "a bitter anti-Nazi."

In a statement issued through the Committee for a Fair Trial for Draja Mihailovic, Colonel McDowell said he had "seen and heard of absolutely no evidence serving to connect General Mihailovic personally, or officers under his direct command, with any form of collaboration with the Germans."

"Many Such Contacts"

McDowell said that in 1944 German officials contacted him "for the purpose of discussing the surrender of German forces," adding:

"As is now well known, there were many such German contacts during the last months of German resistance, and they had little significance due to the Nazi unwillingness to realize that the Allies were serious in their demands for unconditional surrender."

McDowell said that as a result of the German request he and Mihailovic had two meetings with a certain Herr Starker, a German Foreign Office employé.

No Private Dealings

"There could have been no opportunity for the General (Mihailovic) to have had private meetings with Starker," McDowell said. "During the period covered by these meetings the Yugoslav Communist efforts to capture Mihailovic were so constant and severe that it must have been evident to the Germans that the General was in no position to aid them or to accept aid from them."

That incident, McDowell said, "is simply an example of the effort made today to destroy the reputation of General Mihailovic by the distortion of facts."

Attended Staff Parleys

The statement, which the committee said had been approved by the War and State departments, explained that McDowell, formerly a professor of modern Balkan history at the University of Michigan, was sent on a mission to Mihailovic from August to November 1, 1944.

Tito Gets Soviet Aid Pledge For His Army

JUN 12 1946

Belgrade, June 11 (AP)—Premier Marshal Tito's return from Moscow today pushed the trial of Gen. Draja Mihailovic off the front pages of Belgrade newspapers, which announced that Tito had negotiated an agreement under which Russia will furnish military equipment to the Yugoslav Army.

DAY

The press made no reference, however, to the topic which some observers here believed might have played an important part in Tito's talks with Prime Minister Stalin—namely, the disposition of Trieste.

[The question of Trieste was a major stumbling block at the recent Big Four Foreign Ministers' conference in Paris; Russia supported Yugoslavia's claim to the port, and Britain, France and the United States held that it should go to Italy.

Tito's Statement

[A dispatch from Moscow said that before starting home Tito had issued a statement declaring he was "very happy that the Soviet Government and especially the great Stalin understood fully the hardships of restoring our country and is willing to help us in many questions."]

The announcement of the agreement signed in Moscow said Russia had agreed to supply Yugoslavia with armament and ammunition on a long-time credit basis, and to assist in restoring Yugoslavia's armament industry. The agreement also embodied plans for close economic, cultural and political co-operation between the two countries.

Belgrade Impounds U. S. Newsreel Film

Belgrade, June 11 (A. P.).—Luke Kass, Paramount newsreel camera man, said today that his cameras and film exposed at the trial of Gen. Draja Mikhailovich had been impounded by customs officials at the Belgrade airport pending payment of $10,000 to the state film monopoly for permission to use the pictures.

Kass said he was told by a Yugoslav official that the monopoly was planning a documentary film on the trial and did not want competing pictures shown.

INCREASE ORDERED IN AUSTRIAN FOOD, U. S. COST IS CUT

JUN 12 1946

L. Heinzerling

VIENNA, June 11 — (AP) Gen. Mark W. Clark announced today an increase in the Austrian food ration and reduction in occupation costs, and said the Russians had granted new straight air lanes over Soviet-controlled territory which would "greatly facilitate air communications."

Russian fighter pilots recently have buzzed three American transport planes. Clark, commander of the U. S. forces in Austria, said the new straight lanes between Vienna, Linz, Budapest and Prague would eliminate some of the flying difficulties.

NIGHT

The Russians still have not agreed to freedom of the air as asked by the Americans, Clark said in his monthly report, and the new lanes still are narrow and in some cases uneconomical.

Food rations for the average Austrian are being raised from 950 calories in May to about 1,200 in June, Clark said. U. S. forces contributed 17,100 tons of food stocks from military supplies to UNRRA, and the Russians gave 7,500 tons to achieve the increase.

Through the aid of the supplementary school feeding program, the general health of school children remained good, his report added.

Clark said one of the significant accomplishments was reduction of occupation costs by the Allied council to 35 per cent of the Austrian budget. These costs had run as high as 50 per cent, with Soviet cost claims usually the highest. The Austrian schilling has improved as one result.

Among other accomplishments, Clark listed the return of Austrian railroad administration to the government, further relaxation of barriers between the occupation zones and partial restoration of Danube river traffic in the American zone.

Straight Balkan Air Lines Get

JUN 12 1946

L. Heinzerling

Vienna, June 11 (AP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark, commander of United States occupation forces in Austria, reported to the joint chiefs of staff in Washington today that Russian authorities had agreed to the establishment of straight air lanes over Soviet-controlled territory between Vienna, Linz, Budapest and Prague.

DAY

The agreement eliminates some of the flying difficulties which resulted in the buzzing of American planes by Russian fighter pilots recently, but the Russians still have not granted freedom of the air as requested by American authorities, and flights over Soviet-controlled territory must still be made within narrow, prescribed lanes.

Still Not As Desired

In flying from Vienna to Berlin it is still necessary to fly via Frankfurt, and the flight to Belgrade is equally uneconomical, but Clark said the new straightline routes granted would "greatly facilitate air communications."

Clark, in his monthly report, also cited the reduction in occupation costs for the Austrian Government as a significant accomplishment. Occupation costs, which up to February were running as high as 50 per cent of the Austrian budget, have now been limited to 35 per cent by action of the Allied Council, Clark said. The Russian claims for occupation costs usually have been highest.

Clark said the food ration for the normal consumer in Austria was being raised from 950 calories in May to approximately 1,200 calories in June.

School Children Fed

American forces contributed to UNRRA 17,100 tons of food stocks from military supplies for June, Clark said, while the Russians contributed 7,500 tons, to permit the increased ration.

"The general health of school children remained god with the aid of the supplementary school feeding program," the report said. "United States military food contribution, together with contributions from the American Friends Service Committee, American Joint Distribution Committee, Swedish Committee for International Relief and National Catholic Welfare Conference, fed from 93,000 to 98,000 Viennese children during May."

TWO SPANIARDS ADMIT FORMATION OF JUNTA

MADRID, June 11 (AP)—A colonel and a major of the Spanish republican army in the civil war admitted today to an army court that they had sought to organize a military group to "keep order" in case the present Government were overthrown.

Nine former officers, three civilians and an attractive 24-year-old brunette are being tried here in a barracks. Teh testimony at the morning session indicated that Col. Eduardo Saenz Aranaz and Maj. Salvador Pomata Orsi were the most important officers in the military group.

Col. Saenz Aranaz was a member of the Republican General Staff and was condemned to death after the Nationalist victory. He was later reprieved.

Maj. Fernandez Victorio, prosecuting officer, charged that the officers being tried former a "patriotic military junta" seeking to re-establish a republic under instructions of Hernandez Sarabia, War Minister in the Republican Government-in-Exile in Paris. Maj. José Arcenegui, brother of Isidro Arcenegui, present Under-Secretary of Justice, was also accused of participating in the alleged plot.

Greek Reds Protest to Allies

ATHENS, June 11 (AP).—The Greek Communist party central committee called on Allied Ambassadors today and protested against emergency measures taken by the government to restore order, arguing the measures will lead to civil war, complications in the Balkans and threats to peace. Meantime, an armed band raided a village near Larissa, slaying the President and Vice-President of the community. Another band fired at a bus near Sparta, killing two civilians and wounding one gendarme.

Temperance Move In Poland Is Fought

Warsaw, June 11 (AP)—Proposals from Polish dry organizations that the sale of vodka be restricted, with "vodkaless days," have drawn the fire of the state alcohol monopoly.

A statement said such action would cause an increase in production of "moonshine vodka"—in Polish, bimber, made principally of rye flour and sugar. Monopoly alcohol is produced from molasses and potatoes regarded unfit for public sale.

ARABS TO REQUEST U.S. TO WITHDRAW IN PALESTINE CASE

BLUDAN, Syria, June 11. — (AP) The Arab league was reported authoritatively tonight to be drafting a demand for "immediate American withdrawal from the Palestine case," and to have given opposing Arab political factions in Palestine 24 hours to compose their difference into a unified front.

A relief [illegible] said the league would step in and dissolve the Palestine parties if they did not unite. Approval of an Arab government for the Holy Land is on the league's agenda, he said.

A high Arab spokesman said "we declare that America has no right to be consulted in the Palestine case because America is strictly a third party and not involved."

The United States had asked Arab reaction to the British-American inquiry commission's recommendations, including one for immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine.

(In Washington, Secretary of State James F. Byrnes said the United States was preparing to discuss with Britain what military forces the United States might make available to keep order in Palestine during the increased Jewish immigration.)

Another letter to Britain, the Arab spokesman said, will ask for further consultations between the British and Arabs, but will refuse the holding of a round-table conference with the Jews.

A provisional Arab government for Palestine, including a constitution and election of boards and officers, also was expected to be approved by the Arab league, composed of Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Trans-Jordan, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, and Yemen.

This, the spokesman said, "will result in there being a representative body of Palestine Arabs who will be approved by the Arab league. If the political factions of Palestine are unable to form such a body, then the Arab league will take a hand in nominating members."

Grand Mufti In Syria, Jerusalem Source Says

Jerusalem, June 11 (AP)—A usually reliable informant said today that the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin El Husseini, was in Syria and that he was awaiting a decision of the Syrian Government regarding his next move.

The informant said he had learned that a plane was waiting at Damascus airfield which might carry the Mufti to Saudi Arabia.

This informant, who refused to permit identification, reiterated the report made current by an Arab leader here Sunday that the Mufti, following his "escape" from France, reached Damascus by plane Sunday morning.

[There still was no confirmation of this report. After its circulation Sunday, Arab quarters in Syria denied all knowledge of the Mufti's reported arrival.

Mufti Report Mystery

London, June 11 (AP)—The whereabouts of the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, reported to have gone from France to the Middle East last week end, still was a mystery today to both the British and French governments, a Foreign Office spokesman said.

The manner of his departure was under inquiry, after British representations to France.

Explosion Wrecks Tel Aviv Shop

Jerusalem, June 11, (AP)—A Tel Aviv workshop which police said was used by Jewish extremists for manufacturing land mines was wrecked today by an accidental explosion.

The police, who immediately ordered the area surrounded, said no casualties were reported. Several unexploded mines were found at the scene and were confiscated by military authorities, the police added.

Meanwhile, police and military authorities were searching today for members of armed Jewish bands who, the Government said, made concerted attacks yesterday on three passenger trains.

The attacks came as representatives of the Arab League debated in Bludan, Syria, a proposal for establishment of an Arab government in Palestine.

Tension Is Heightened

The developments, coupled with still unconfirmed reports that the exiled Grand Mufti of Jerusalem had arrived in the Middle East from France to take a hand in the Arab fight against Jewish immigration to Palestine, heightened tension in this already keyed-up land.

Unrest in Tel Aviv was evident as police hunted for members of a Jewish organization accused of distributing leaflets urging civil disobedience, a boycott of Government services and establishment of a provisional Jewish government in Palestine.

A Government communiqué said the attacks on the passenger trains were carried out on the main lines of the Lydda-Tel Aviv, Lydda-Haifa and Lydda-Jerusalem roads by bands ranging in size from 15 to 40 members.

May Pledge Armed Aid

Arab sources said the delegates at Bludan were discussing all modes of giving the Palestine Arabs the support of the entire Arab world, including the possible use of military force.

The conference, called primarily to organize Arab opposition to the report of the British-American committee recommending immediate admission of 100,000 European Jews to Palestine, is expected to close tomorrow.

Informants at Bludan were quoted as saying they had no knowledge of the whereabouts of the Grand Mufti, Haj Amin al Husseini, who reportedly left France last Saturday. Arab quarters here also said they did not know his whereabouts.

U.S. Troops May Be Sent Into Palestine

Washington, June 11 (AP)—A possibility of the United States backing up its policy for increased Jewish immigration into Palestine with troops [illegible] today as James F. Byrnes, Secretary of State, announced that and other problems will be discussed with the British.

They have asked the American Government what contributions it would be willing to make to quell disorders in Palestine as a result of increased Jewish immigration. President Truman has urged that 100,000 Jews from Europe be admitted.

London did not specify any particular number of troops or quantity of air power that might be useful in Palestine, Byrnes said. Those are things which they have in mind, he assumed, and the United States will discuss with the British all the points they raise, whether or not Byrnes agrees with them on those points.

Byrnes Heads Committee

Byrnes refrained from indicating any American willingness to send troops to Palestine, where the Arabs oppose additional Jewish immigration.

But he recognized for the first time officially and publicly the British contention that the United States should help carry out as well as advise on Palestine policy.

Byrnes is chairman of a newly designated Cabinet committee named by the President to help him in "formulating and implementing" Palestine decisions. Other members are the Secretaries of War and the Treasury.

Harriman To Act

A short time after this committee was announced at the White House, Byrnes met reporters at the State Department and declared he had designated Henry F. Grady, former Assistant Secretary of State, as his alternate on the committee.

Grady is becoming an Administration trouble-shooter on its toughest international problems. His previous job was to help the Greek Government hold elections.

Byrnes also announced that Ambassador W. Averell Harriman is taking up with the British Government a plan for creating an Anglo-American committee of experts—men who talk about solutions for problems but do not make policy decisions—to discuss several questions the British have raised.

The question of what the United States would do to help put down disorders resulting from an influx of Jews is among these. Others are how the Jews would be selected and transported and what would be done about the displaced people who could not go to Palestine.

Byrnes said there are 500,000 displaced persons in American camps in Germany.

U. S. TO DISCUSS SENDING TROOPS TO PALESTINE

Byrnes Declares Question of American Force Is Raised by Britain.

Washington, June 11 (A. P.).—Secretary of State Byrnes said today that the United States is preparing to discuss with Britain what military forces this nation may make available to maintain order in Palestine during the increased Jewish immigration. At a news conference Byrnes refrained from giving any impression that he favors having the United States make troops available. He said that the British had raised various questions and that the United States would discuss them.

The Secretary, who will leave on Thursday for the reopening of the Foreign Ministers Conference at Paris, also said that he would like the prayers of the American people to help him in his work with the other Foreign Ministers—Molotov of Russia, Bevin of Britain and Bidault of France.

He cautioned against regarding the conference as a game in which one country or another might score a diplomatic victory. "All of us must have but one hope," he said, "and that is making some progress toward a just and enduring peace."

Byrnes said that Ambassador W. Averell Harriman is taking up with the British Government a plan for an Anglo-American committee of experts to study what Byrnes called the practical and physical factors involved in increasing Jewish immigration into Palestine.

Byrnes was asked whether the United States has given any assurances to Britain that it intends to go through with the placing of 100,000 Jews in Palestine as President Truman has proposed. The Secretary said he knew of no assurances, but declared that Mr. Truman and Prime Minister Attlee have handled the correspondence on the Palestine situation directly.

Byrnes also noted that the White House had announced the appointment of a Cabinet committee of the Secretaries of State, of War and of the Treasury to advise the President on Palestine policy and future moves. Byrnes said he is designating former Assistant Secretary of State Henry F. Grady as his alternate on the committee.

AZERBAIJAN WILL RETURN TO IRAN FOLD

Dispute Of Six Months Is Reported Ended On Qavam's Terms

Tehran, June 11 (AP)—Azerbaijan province will return to the jurisdiction of the Iranian national Government under Premier Ahmed Qavam's terms, ending a bitter six-month dispute over the northwestern province's claims to autonomy, a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

A [illegible] commission, headed by Qavam's Under Secretary, Prince Mozaffar Firouz, arrived today in Tabriz, capital of the province, on what the Foreign Office spokesman said was a mission to "work out final details for accepting the province back into the Government."

Formal announcement of the settlement, along with details, will be made Friday or Saturday, the spokesman said.

Reported Well Received

A cablegram from Firouz to the Foreign Ministry said the central Government's commission was received at the Tabriz airport by an honor guard of partisan warriors and conducted "through cheering crowds" to headquarters of the autonomous government on Hangman's Square.

The settlement was based solely upon the seven-point program announced by Qavam last April, and "nothing was granted beyond what was stated in the Prime Minister's seven points," the informant said.

Under the terms of the settlement, Premier Javar Pishevari, who headed the separatist Government at Tabriz, will become Governor General of the province by appointment from Tehran.

Army Will Be Absorbed

The Azerbaijan Army and the Fedailar (volunteer Azerbaijan Democrat) warriors will be taken into the Iranian Army and gendarmerie.

A ranking foreign diplomat here said he was convinced during recent talks with Qavam that Azerbaijan would return under the seven-point plan.

"That program," the diplomat said, "was either drawn up by the Russian Embassy or approved by the Russian Ambassador after drafting."

In view of that, the diplomat said, Qavam insisted on a settlement on that basis, and Soviet representatives "found themselves in the position of backing down on their own proposal or putting pressure on Pishevari. Pishevari was brought around."

Started In November

Azerbaijan proclaimed its autonomy last November, when Soviet troops occupied the province, and was an explosive international question until the final evacuation of Russian troops from Iran in May.

Qavam's proposals previously had been rejected by the Azerbaijanis during a long series of conferences just outside this capital. These proposals pledged the central Government to consider internal improvements in Azerbaijan; to grant freedom to the democratic and other parties; to take no action against the separatists, and to adjust Azerbaijan representation in the Majlis (Parliament).

He said a Government commission headed by Prince Mozaffar Firouz, Propaganda Minister, left by Soviet plane today for Tabriz to "work out final details for accepting the province back into the national government."

The spokesman, who asked not to be identified, added that the settlement had been reached by a series of secret conversations and communications between commissions representing the Azerbaijan and the Tehran governments.

The Azerbaijan Army and Fedai (people's warriors), he said, will be taken into the Iranian Army and gendarmerie, and Jafar Pishevari, "Premier" of Azerbaijan, will become Governor-General of the province.

Announcement No Surprise.

Reports of the impending settlement of the issue, which at one time threatened to plunge the nation into civil war, had been circulating here for some time. Consequently, the formal announcement was received somewhat apathetically.

The seven-point program which was announced April 22 by Qavam provided for appointment of the Azerbaijan provincial governor by the Tehran Government, but said that the so-called Democratic party and "other political parties" in Azerbaijan would be free, as they already are free in other parts of the country.

Azerbaijan province "Democrats" proclaimed an autonomous State last November while the province was occupied by Soviet troops. Qavam announced May 24 that the Red Army had evacuated the province.

Hostilities Renewed in China Despite Terms of New Truce

JUN 12 1946

DAY

NANKING, June 11. — (AP) An ominous upsurge of hostilities in mountainous Shantung province jolted into the background tonight the renewal here of Government-Communist peace talks aimed at broadening the Manchurian truce.

An Associated Press dispatch from Tsingtao reported weak government forces falling back to shortened defense lines outside the city in expectation of an attack by out-numbering Communist forces recently [illegible] other Shantung province [illegible] garrisons.

Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey, commander of U. S. Marine forces in China, flew down from Tientsin to confer with the local Marine commander, the dispatch said, and found the Tsingtao Marine garrison on a 24-hour alert.

Informed sources said the Nationalists had four battalions in line, a fifth in reserve, and the sixth in the city itself. Against this force of not more than 9,000 men, the Communists were believed to be capable of hurling at least 30,000.

Nationalist sources said every railroad bridge north of the city limits had been destroyed.

The renewal in Nanking of Government-Communist talks for permanent peace took the form of a parley between Chou En-lai, chief Communist negotiator, and Minister of Communications Yui Ta-wei.

Their meeting—a sequel to Monday's conference between Chou and U. S. General Marshall—was regarded as a constructive step, but no results were announced.

Battle reports, on the other hand, were numerous as each faction accused the other of truce violations. In Manchuria a mysterious anti-aircraft attack wounded an American aboard a U. S. plane attempting to land at Changchun.

The Communists accused the government of launching heavy attacks against Communist-held areas north and west of Nanking "at the very moment the truce in Manchuria became effective" last Friday.

(From Peiping, Associated Press correspondent Tom Masterson reported that some 20,000 Communists captured Tehsien, 60 miles north of Tsinan, Monday night, and according to Government dispatches immediately opened a full-scale attack on the Tsinan-Tsingtao railroad. The fall of Taian, 40 miles south of Tsinan, was expected immediately.)

Chinese Break Truce; Peace Talks Open

JUN 12 1946

NIGHT

Nanking, June 11 (AP)—Chinese Communist and Government leaders held their first direct peace meeting in many weeks today, as truce-violating battles flamed anew in east-central China and an American was wounded in a mysterious anti-aircraft attack on a United States plane.

Chou En-lai, Communist negotiator, conferred with Minister of Communications Yui Ta-wei following his talk yesterday with United States General Marshall. There was no announcement of results today. Restoration of communications is one of the Government's conditions for permanent peace.

Clashes Near Nanking

A Communist spokesman said the Government launched heavy attacks against Communist-held areas north and west of Nanking, "at the very moment the truce in Manchuria became effective." He asserted the 77th Division of the 73d Army and the 172d Division, 7th Army, attacked Shukou and Chuhsien, the latter only 35 miles northwest of Nanking, and were moving on northeastward.

Corporal P. Solva, engineer of a plainly marked American transport plane, suffered a minor leg wound when bullets from the ground pierced the plane as it prepared to land June 8 at Changchun, Manchurian capital. The capital is Government-held, but there was no indication who had opened fire, or why, in view of the truce. The transport, slightly damaged, returned to Mukden to land.

The Nanking newspaper Ta Kang Pao reported that Chou had brought from Communist headquarters at Yenan a demand for revision of the original army merger bill to permit greater Red representation in Manchuria. The same dispatch said the Communists had raised their demands for seats in the Council of State from eight to ten, and were asking the ministries of education, social affairs and interior.

Reported Red Activity

A Communist spokesman denied any knowledge that Red forces had attacked Government positions since the truce became effective Friday noon.

Central News Agency, however, said the Communists, following a five-month siege of Tsaochunag, exploded a mine tunnel under the walls of the city on Sunday, then breaking in while the defenders were dazed. The agency also said the Communists blasted a bridge across the Grand Canal near Hanchuang on the Tientsin-Pukow railway Sunday and were increasingly active about Tsingtao.

From Peiping, Associated Press Correspondent Tom Masterson reported the Communists captured Tehsien, 60 miles north of Tsinan in Shantung province, last night. He said the Reds, according to Government dispatches, immediately attacked the Tsinan-Tsingtao railroad. The fall of Taian, 40 miles south of Tsinan, was expected momentarily. The Shantung capital, Tsinan, was said to be in a critical position.

"We are exploring every avenue to avoid a breakdown." He referred to the negotiations for Indian independence [illegible] deadlocked by the unyielding stand of his Congress party against parity for Moslems on the Viceroy's Council in an interim Government.

NIGHT

Mr. Gandhi was summoned to an hour-long conference with Viscount Wavel, the Viceroy.

He took with him a letter from the Congress party's Working Committee that reiterated its demands. The party insisted upon:

(1) Majority representation in the interim Cabinet;

(2) An assurance that European representatives, as spokesmen for the smallest minority groups in India, would not have votes in the Constituent Assembly;

(3) Elimination of compulsory grouping of the provinces;

(4) A pledge of sovereignty for the constitution-making body.

Later he told his regular prayer meeting:

"If a breakdown were contemplated, it would have happened long ago. We are thrashing out things and exploring every avenue to avoid a breakdown. If the negotiations break down, it is God's will. We did all we could."

The possibility of a collapse after the eleven weeks of dealing by a British Cabinet mission with Indian leaders was freely conceded.

There has been no violence since the employees quietly seized the plant 103 days ago. Management and union representatives had bargained briefly on the workers' demands, including a 300 per cent rise in average pay and a voice in running the Tokyo factory. Management said "No," so the union said it would just take over the plant until management came around to its terms.

Japanese labor's increasing use of this form of strike, known as production control, has precipitated a strong movement to outlaw it. Premier Shigeru Yoshida has declared his opposition, and the Government is expected to announce an official policy frowning on the practice. Legislation may be necessary however, to curb it.

They Consulted a Lawyer.

Tadatoshi Otaki, chairman of the fourteen-member workers' committee now directing the chemical plant, explained today how the employees maintained production—with some increases, some decreases—and banked the plant's profits, out of which the committee voted emergency pay increases for everybody.

"We consulted a lawyer and he said it was all right," Otaki explained. The increases voted, he added, did not equal the union's original demands but were merely an emergency stopgap.

Net profit for March, he reported, was 1,700,000 yen ($113,333); for April, 240,000 yen ($16,000). Company funds are deposited in the name of the union chairman.

Otaki claimed no credit for increases in the plant's production

Keep Tokyo Factory Running and Bank Profits—Premier Seeks to Ban Move.

W. L. Standard

Tokyo, June 11 (A. P.).—Japan's new and unorthodox labor weapon—locking out the boss—has kept production and profits flowing as usual at the Mitsubishis' big chemical plant, where the 530 workers haven't seen a company official since March 1. The workers bank the company profits—after first raising their own pay—and run the big plant as usual.

since the seizure. For instance, he said, the output of methanol rose from 2,700 kilograms in February to 61,230 in April—but the union workers were merely utilizing raw materials previously purchased by the management.

Committeemen believe the company will propose some form of compromise soon. As matters stand, they acknowledged, they will lose out eventually unless Mitsubishi begins to show interest in the plant once more; the men cannot operate forever without management's aid.

"They know they have us in a corner," said one committeeman.

Otaki said the new type of strike "corresponds to Japanese character, more so than regular strikes or lockouts, especially in times like this when it is necessary to maintain production." He said the union hopes Gen. MacArthur would tell the Government it was all right for workers to seize plants—but he wasn't optimistic. It was just a hope, he sighed.

Tojo To Assume Full War Blame

JUN 12 1946

D. HENNESSY

Tokyo, June 11 (AP)—Hideki Tojo will assume full responsibility for starting the Pacific war, his attorney said today.

Tojo, Japan's Pearl Harbor Premier, also will argue that international custom grants Emperor Hirohito and Tojo's war Cabinets full immunity, added Dr. Ichori Kiyose, who will defend him at the major war-crimes trial beginning Thursday.

DAY

Kaiser Not Cited

The Allies can neither indict the Emperor nor call him as a witness, Kiyose said Tojo believes, citing:

"No sovereign in history ever has been indicted. As for moves against the Kaiser after the first World War, remember that he had fled and no longer was a sovereign. Emperor Hirohito still is a sovereign."

He asserted that such immunity comes from custom; it is not granted by written law.

Held War Of Defense

Kiyose said Tojo and the 25 others who will be tried with him will contend that they are exempt from that portion of the Potsdam Declaration against those who misled their people into embarking "on world conquest."

"Tojo always has said that the war was one of defense and not one of conquest," the attorney explained. "Of course, the Japanese Government has acknowledged that it was an aggressive war. The opinion of the defense is different from that of the Government."

Robertson Taking British Helm In Japan

Tokyo, June 11 (AP)—A broad public-relations policy—because "I realize that the wives and families of our men are intensely interested"—was promised today by Lieut. Gen. H. C. H. Robertson at his first press conference after his arrival to take command of British occupation forces.

The Victoria-born 52-year-old veteran of 34 years of professional soldiering will succeed Lieut. Gen. John Northcott in a formal ceremony at Kure on June 15.

Robertson said he plans no changes in present occupation policies and will endeavor "to cooperate to the fullest" with American forces.

Tokyo, June 11 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger today presented the Air Medal to Lieut.-Col. John K. Wilkin Jr., of 155 East 73d st., New York city, and the Bronze Star to Col. Harold A. Buck of Fairhaven, N. J. Both are Eighth Army officers.

Air-Recordholder Awarded Medal

Yokohama, June 11 (AP)—Col. C. S. Irvine, B-29 specialist and holder of air records, was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal today.

Irvine, of St. Paul, Minn., is assistant to the chief of staff of the Pacific Air Command, and it was for this service he was decorated. He was credited with forming "policies of supply maintenance control that greatly increased efficiency . . . and had the result of reducing aircraft losses due to mechanical failures . . . and made possible operation of a minimum number of combat aircraft against the enemy."

Irvine holds records for nonstop flights from Guam to Washington, D.C., and from Honolulu to Manila. He directed the recent Air Force project at Guam, in which B-29's set six new "load to altitude" world records.

Trade-Bill Fight On At Manila

JUN 12 1946

Manila, June 11 (AP)—Resident Secretary Modesto Farolan said today that President Roxas is preparing a message to the Philippine Congress urging approval of the Bell trade bill, but the Senate minority planned a last-ditch fight against that particular form of United States aid.

The minority also called for a battle against the pending budget. Ex-guerrillas Tomas Confesor and Tomas Cabili, now senators, opened the budget fight with sharp attacks on an 85,000,000-pesos ($42,500,000) item for a military establishment. Confesor said it was "the beginning of fascism."

Calls Filipino Force Silly

"Roxas seeks to subsidize the Junker class and create a gestapo to ferret out their enemies. Let's have more rehabilitation and fewer brass hats," he challenged.

Cabili asserted that plans to continue United States Army and Navy bases in the islands make budgeted expenditures for Filipino forces unnecessary, adding that any army beyond a bare minimum would be silly in the face of atomic bombs.

A three-fourths Senate majority is needed to ratify treaties implementing the Bell measure. The minority insists the bill is unacceptable, pointing to provisions which it says unduly favor United States business interests in the islands.

Senator Lucas Asks Two Justices to Quit

JUN 12 1946

House Members Reluctant to Discuss Proposals for Probe.

WASHINGTON, June 11 — (AP) Talk of resignations and investigations in the dissension-ridden Supreme court flew about the Capitol today in the wake of Justice Jackson's angry blast at Justice Black.

NIGHT

Senator ... (D.-Ill.), a lawyer himself, demanded that both justices resign, "for the good of themselves and for the good of the country." He told a reporter that "there can't be any confidence in the court from here on as a result of this feud."

Jackson to Stay

Jackson said he was issuing his statement at Nuernberg "in fairness of my future work on the court," however, and thus it appeared he had no intention of leaving. Black spent the day at his office in the Supreme court building, despite the close of the term yesterday, but maintained his silence, as did the other justices.

Senators Eastland (D.-Miss.) and Wherry (R.-Neb.) of the Judiciary committee told newsmen they believe the situation calls for a congressional investigation and Eastland announced he will discuss the matter in the Senate tomorrow.

Wherry was uncertain just how the Senate committee might proceed.

"The House could investigate since it is the body which considers questions of impeachment," he remarked. "We would have to have a resolution or something—I don't know just what."

To Act on Vinson

The Senate committee on Friday will consider the nomination of Fred L. Vinson as chief justice but Chairman McCarran (D.-Nev.) and Senator Hatch (D.-N. M.) of the committee said they do not think the Jackson-Black feud had any place in that consideration. McCarran reported the committee so far has received no requests from any persons wishing to be heard on the nomination.

Jackson's cable to the Senate and House Judiciary committees was received at the end of the day but members of the House group were reluctant to discuss it.

Rep. Celler (D.-N. Y.) was the only House committee member willing to comment. He told reporters that it appeared to be "a clash of personalities" and a matter for the new chief justice to settle.

Celler also took the view that the propriety of Black's sitting in a case in which his former law partner, Crampton Harris, was interested was a matter for the justice individually to determine, rather than the court as a whole or Congress.

It was this action, and developments arising from it during the ensuing year, which led to Jackson's denunciation. The case had involved portal-to-portal pay for soft coal miners and was decided against the Jewell Ridge coal corp, by a 5 to 4 vote. The corporation unsuccessfully sought a rehearing, contending that Black should have disqualified himself.

plete overhaul of court procedure in an effort to minimize "bickering" on and behind the bench.

At the moment, however, the Capital buzzed with more immediate speculation over whether Jackson and Black intended to continue on the high bench, despite a virtual state of war between them. The situation was without parallel in modern court history.

Jackson lashed out last night at Nuernberg, where he is American chief prosecutor in the war-crime trials, at what he called Black's "bullying" tactics. He declared his colleague had threatened him with "war" unless Jackson "covered up facts" in the portal-to-portal mine-pay case in which Black's former law partner represented the victorious United Mine Workers.

Charles G. Ross, presidential press secretary, declined at his daily news conference to comment on the Jackson letter. In response to a question, Ross said Mr. Truman had not discussed the matter with Chief Justice-Designate Fred M. Vinson.

Addressed To Committees

Jackson addressed his complaint to the Senate and House Judiciary committees, but members said they would defer on-the-record comment until the cablegram had been received officially.

Restoring Of Court's Lost Dignity Seen As Result Of Jackson's Blast

JUN 12 1946

Washington, June 11 (AP)—The unprecedented situation of one Supreme Court justice publicly assailing another stunned official Washington today, but several lawmakers held that it might lead to restoring what they term the "lost dignity" of the tribunal.

The bombshell which Justice Robert H. Jackson exploded in his blunt attack on Justice Hugo Black projected a long-smoldering judicial feud into the open, and these influential ... thought this could be ... thing in the long run.

DAY

Revamped Procedure Possible

Specifically, they said privately that Congress may order a complete overhaul of court procedure.

(D., Texas) of the House group said only that he would submit the document to his committee "immediately" upon its receipt.

Most members expressed doubt that the committee would even consider impeachment proceedings, which under the Constitution must originate in the House and be tried by the Senate.

But they said a recommendation for a full-dress review of court procedure is a distinct possibility. This, they added, could lead to new rules for the tribunal to follow, particularly with regard to disqualifying justices from participating in decisions under certain circumstances.

Jackson Declaration

In his statement at Nuernberg, Jackson declared:

"It is high time . . . that Congress have the facts. If war is declared on me I propose to wage it with the weapons of the open warrior, not those of the stealthy assassin."

Purported To Be "Inside Story"

Jackson referred to a column by Doris Fleeson published in the Washington Evening Star last month in which the writer quoted Black as having criticized a decision by Jackson in the Jewell Ridge case as an "open and gratuitous insult."

The column purported to relate the "inside story" of the case, in which the Supreme Court held that soft-coal miners were entitled to portal-to-portal pay. Jackson was one of the four justices who dissented in the 5-to-4 decision.

At a hurriedly-called press conference, Jackson said he was "uneasy" about the situation in the court at the time of the decision because Black's former law partner, Crampton Harris, of Alabama, was involved in the case as chief counsel for the United Mine Workers and also was a figure in previous litigation involving the Tennessee Coal Company and a mine union.

Explains His Position

Following the two decisions, Jackson asserted, the Jewell Ridge company appealed for a rehearing and asked that Black be excluded from consideration of the case. The rehearing was denied, Jackson explaining that the justices were agreed that there was no rule disqualifying a member.

"Justice Black insisted on a mere denial," Jackson said. "Neither I nor any of the other justices wanted to lend our names to blind and unqualified approval," so an opinion was written explaining the refusal.

"I did not say it was wrong of Mr. Justice Black to sit," Jackson declared. "But I did say the question was for him to decide. I pointed out that to imply approval of his sitting would put the court in a most inconsistent position.

Would Use Sharp Language Again

Mr. Justice Black became very angry and said that any opinion which discussed the subject at all would mean 'a declaration of war.' I told Justice Black in language that was sharp, but no different than I would use again, that I would not stand for any more of his bullying.

Mr. Justice Black put his associates in the position where they must speak or by silence approve, with no knowledge of all the facts, his course in the case. His position came to this: I must join in covering up facts, or have war. Such pressure made me doubly cautions about approval and I refused to buy my peace at that price."

Praises Vinson

Jackson, while terming Vinson "upright, fearless and well-qualified," said his task of bringing dissident elements of the court together will be "most difficult."

"The controversy goes to the reputation of the court for nonpartisan and unbiased decision," he said.

He was not, he asserted, reflecting on Black's "honor," but on the judicial policy involved.

Jackson's attack seemed likely to speed Vinson's confirmation by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

"This is all the more reason for confirming Vinson quickly and putting a stop to the bickering on the court," an influential committee member said.

Vinson's nomination is due to come before the Senate Judiciary Committee for action on Friday.

Neither Vinson, Black, Harris nor Miss Fleeson had any comment on Jackson's statement.

ARMY TO RETURN HESSIAN GEMS TO GERMAN OWNERS

WASHINGTON, June 11 — (AP) The crown jewels of the House of Hesse, "liberated" from their wartime hiding place in the depths of Kronberg castle, eventually will go back to their German owners.

Maj. Gen. Floyd Parks, War department public relations chief, disclosed this Army decision today. He added that meanwhile they will be used [illegible] against three Army officers held in connection with the spiriting of the $1,500,000 treasure trove to this country.

Parks told a news conference it has not been decided whether the court martial trials of Col J. W. Durant, his WAC captain bride, Kathleen Nash Durant, and Maj. David S. Watson, will be held here or in Germany.

Unset Diamonds Recovered

An Army report that 106 unset diamonds were recovered by customs agents after Durant's return from Germany evidently accounted for the fate of the missing gems. Col. A. C. Miller of the provost marshal's office said he disclosed the customs seizure because it had been reported that 105 diamonds were missing.

Shirley Stephens, chief of customs enforcement, told a reporter that Durant turned in 102 diamonds to customs officers in Chicago last April 22 after an attempted sale of 70 of the gems to a jewelry firm fell through. Stephens said the other four diamonds were turned in by a Chicago man who had undertaken to sell them for Durant.

Stephens said the jewelers notified customs after they became suspicious of the legality of entry of the 70 diamonds. They weigh 49.7 karats and are worth more than $6,000 at American prices.

Miller said the Army had not checked with customs until after it finished its investigation and that it was not known earlier that those diamonds were a part of the loot from the castle.

Tells of Discovery

The WAC's account of the discovery of the treasure cache in the basement of Kronberg castle was made public today by Miller.

Miller said she related:

She wished to make it clear that she was "not snooping around" in the castle, where she served as mess officer for an officer's rest camp.

German plumbers had been brought in to repair installations in the basement. They dragged out their work and "appeared to be plastered every day."

The admissions of one plumber, who was discharged after about two months, led to discovery of a store of rare wine in the basement.

A short time later, Ludwig Weiss, a German electrician described as an employe at the castle, reported that there was a hiding place for valuables in the basement and led an American mess sergeant to the place from which the jewels and other family relics later were removed.

Customs Holds 106 'Missing' Hesse Gems

JUN 12 1946

NIGHT

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Lloyd Parks said today that $1,500,000 in jewels recovered from a United States colonel and his WAC wife would be returned to the German House of Hesse.

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Col. A. C. Miller, of the provost marshal's office, reported today that customs had taken 106 unset diamonds from Col. J. W. Durant when Durant returned to the United States from Germany.

Colonel Durant, his WAC bride, Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant, of Hudson, Wis., and Major David S. Watson, of Burlingame, Cal., are in custody in connection with the theft of $1,500,000 in jewels from the Kronberg Castle near Frankfurt, Germany.

106 Were Reported Missing

Colonel Miller said he made his disclosure of today because of published stories that there were 106 diamonds missing.

He said it had been known there were 106 diamonds missing from the amount recovered "but we did not know if they were part of that taken from the castle."

He said that the Army investigators did not check with Customs until after they had finished their case.

Colonel Miller said he would like to deny categorically reports a general might be involved in the case.

None Higher Than Colonel

"There is no one higher up than Colonel Durant that was ever implicated," he told reporters. "I have seen no evidence that would indicate that a general officer was involved."

He has reasons to believe, Miller added, that all suspects have been found. Three are in custody, and a fourth, a corporal now discharged, can be taken into custody any time it is desired, he said.

However, the corporal is not yet under arrest and whether the Army has authority to arrest him is a question.

Meanwhile, the War Department wondered what should be done and priceless heirlooms.

Personal Or Public Property

Disposition of the jewels constitutes a knotty problem, War Department officials reported, with no decision yet reached.

It is for American military legal experts in the European theater, they said, to determine whether the Hesse family treasures represent "public property" or are the personal property of the individual members of the family.

Colonel Miller said should it be established the trove is personal property, the "presumption" was it would be restored to the family.

However, if the treasure is ruled "state property" or "public property" under the Army's articles of war it would become the property of the United States, for the looted Kronberg Castle lies in the American zone of Germany.

Confiscated Baton Cited

To illustrate the difference, a War Department officer pointed out the diamond-studded baton of Reichsmarshal Goering was considered "state property," having been bought with Nazi state funds, therefore it was confiscated.

With the looted jewels, the issue is much more complicated. The House of Hesse-Darmstadt was once one of Germany's ruling families, and its present head, Princess Margerita, is a sister of the late Kaiser Wilhelm II. The Hohenzollern family passed from the ruling picture after World War I, but since most of the gems predate that time a delicate legal question arises.

Colonel Miller said formal charges were being drafted there against the trio now in custody: Col. Jack W. Durant, former Washington attorney; WAC Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant, of Hudson, Wis., his bride of two weeks, and Major David S. Watson, of Burlingame, California.

ITALY LOSSES TO BE PROBED

JUN 12 1946

Charge That Clark Wasted Lives To Be Investigated

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Senator Elbert Thomas (D., Utah), chairman of the Senate Military Committee, today promised a thorough sifting of assertions that Gen. Mark W. Clark needlessly wasted the lives of American soldiers in Italy.

Thomas assured four former army colonels who led Texas National Guardsmen in disastrous attacks at the Rapido River crossing and other parts of the Italian campaign that their testimony would be examined before Clark's permanent promotion to major general is acted upon.

Senator Connally (D., Texas) described as "one-sided" the War Department report that cleared General Clark of previous criticism and demanded the senators call "eyeball witnesses" and other top-ranking generals present during the Italian campaign.

Will Study Testimony

Chairman Thomas said the Senate group would study testimony given at a previous hearing by the House Military Affairs Committee, the official War Department report, and the evidence today before acting on the promotion.

General Clark headed the 5th Army during the Italian drive which eventually overran Rome and now holds a four-star temporary rank while head of occupational forces in Europe.

All four former colonels told substantially the same story of what they termed the "Rapido River fiasco." They were Miller Ainsworth, of Luling, president of the 36th Division Association; Carl Phinney, of Dallas; Andrew F. Price, of Fort Worth, and David M. Frazier, of Houston.

They said that General Clark refused the advice of junior commanders, including Maj. Gen. Fred L. Walker, 36th Divsion commander, and three times ordered a frontal attack upon strongly defended German positions across the river.

Losses Called Tremendous

Twice these attacks were repulsed by the Germans with tremendous losses and the third attack finally was called off after appeals from General Walker and subordinate commanders involved.

Price, retired colonel who was wounded and, against doctor's orders, left a hospital to testify, said his regiment—the 141st—was reduced from 99 officers and 2,056 men to 47 officers and 914 men through the two Rapido-crossing failures.

He questioned an official War Department report which placed entire casualties fo rthe division at only 1,850 with 319 of these killed.

"I know what my casualties were," the former regimental commander said. "After I got back I tried to visit the widows and mothers of the men."

"There were more than 400 of them," Price declared. His voice choked.

U. N. TO RECEIVE AMERICAN PLAN FOR A-BOMB CURB

WASHINGTON, June 11. — (AP) The government has decided upon the proposals for international control of atomic energy which it will make to the United Nations, Secretary of State Byrnes announced today.

He declined to disclose them now, but persons familiar with the weeks of work which have gone into them understand that they follow the Acheson-Lilienthal program announced March 28. This calls for an international atomic development authority which would rule the field and to which the United States and all other nations would turn over their knowledge in years to come as its development proceeds.

Byrnes said that Bernard M. Baruch, President Truman's special representative on the U. N. Atomic commission, will present the American proposal, either in one piece or in a series of steps.

The commission meets Friday and Baruch will come here from New York for a conference tomorrow with the President and Byrnes.

Meanwhile Secretary of War Patterson told the House Military committee that the bill for domestic control of atomic energy which the Senate has passed has "adequate safeguards for national defense." He said its prompt passage by the House "is of urgent importance."

The bill would establish a five-man civilian control commission, with a liaison board for the military services.

ARMY FOR CIVILIAN CONTROL OF ATOM

JUN 12 1946

Washington, June 11 (A. P.).—The Army today came out in favor of legislation vesting the domestic control of atomic energy in the hands of civilians.

Urging speedy House adoption of a Senate-approved bill creating a five-member control commission, Secretary of War Patterson told the House Military Committee that the measure carries adequate safeguards for national defense.

"Promptness of passage is of urgent importance," Patterson added.

The Senate bill provides a permanent, full-time commission of civilians. Previously, the War Department has been on record as favoring a bill by the House military group which would set up a nine-member part time control board without requiring members to be civilians.

Critics of the committee bill had contended it would give the military an undue influence in directing control of the new energy.

CLARK PROMOTION MEETS OPPOSITION OF TEXAS OFFICERS

JUN 12 1946

WASHINGTON, June 11 — (AP) Declaring that General Mark Clark had needlessly thrown "away gallant lives," Senator Connally (D-Tex), demanded today that eye-witnesses and top-ranking generals be questioned before action on Clark's promotion to the permanent rank of major general.

His comments came after five former colonels of the 36th division, composed chiefly of Texas National Guardsmen, told the Senate Military committee that Clark is unfitted for promotion. They based their criticism on heavy casualties in two frontal attacks across the Rapido river early in 1944.

An official War department investigation that cleared Clark drew caustic criticism from Connally as "one-sided."

"I'd like to have some eyeball witness on the facts instead of this cooked-up material the war department has ready to pass out to the press," Connally said, adding that the officers who prepared it "didn't smell any smoke except from their pipes."

Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah), of the committee reminded Connally that the promotion of Clark to permanent rank of major general already had been held up for several months.

Thomas added that the committee would study today's testimony and the War department report before making any decision either on the pending promotion or an additional investigation of the Rapido river crossing.

Accusations that the Army is governed by "seniority and classmates control" were made by division veterans protesting Clark's promotion.

Allies Say Nazis Shipped 'Looted Gold' to Sweden

Asked That It Be Returned to Rightful Owners

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP).—Allied officials have told Swedish government negotiators that their information indicates that the Nazis transferred some "loot gold" to Sweden during the war, United States government officials said today.

As the discussions on German assets in Sweden neared the close of their second week, United States, French and British officials were reported contending that this gold had been transferred illegally and should be returned to its rightful owners.

Swedish government negotiators were reported to be willing to return it, provided it could be located in Sweden. Allied officials working with captured German documents are attempting to trace the gold, most of which is reported to have been remelted.

The Swedish-Allied negotiators began discussing the gold program after each side had outlined its position on the estimated $100,000,000 in German assets reported in Sweden.

The Allies insist the four-power council in Berlin has legal title to these properties, but the Swedes refuse to acknowledge this view as conforming with international law.

Despite the present deadlock on this point, there are indications that some agreement can be reached whereby the Allies and the Swedish government will share in the assets. Sweden's claims against Germany total two and one-half times as much as the assets involved.

Big War-Ver Work Agency Proposed

JUN 12 1946

Washington, June 11 (AP)—A $500,000,000 Federal corporation to make loans and otherwise facilitate the employment of veterans is proposed by six senators.

It would be called the Veterans Employment and National Economic Development Corporation, and would be devoted to fostering the interests of veterans who are unemployed, who had no employment before their war service, who have no particular occupation, or who are disabled.

Sponsoring the bill are Senators Tunnell (D., Del.), Walsh (D., Mass.), Radcliffe (D., Md.), Guffey (D., Pa.), Morse (R., Ore.) and Briggs (D., Mo.).

What Agency Would Do

The proposed agency would be authorized to make loans to veterans engaged in agriculture, business or professions; veterans or others for projects promising substantial employment opportunities; municipalities for needed self-liquidating public works, and educational institutions and trade schools for facilities needed in training veterans and for veterans' housing.

The corporation would also offer a technical advisory service to veterans and co-operate with the war assets administrator in meeting veterans' requirements. It could purchase surplus supplies for resale to veterans.

It would be managed by a bi-partisan board of directors, each to receive $10,000 a year.

Bill Would Aid Civilian Workers Held By Japs

Washington, June 11 (AP)—An aide to Senator Taylor (D., Idaho) said the Senate Education-Labor Committee has agreed to act Friday on a bill to aid civilian construction worker: who were captured on Pacific Islands.

The bill, he said, has been approved by a subcommittee.

It would provide full pay to the workers during the time they were interned in Japan and give them disability rights and other benefits.

Several hundred men, mostly from western states are affected.

CHARGES ARMY SANK SUPPLIES

JUN 12 1946

Washington, June 11 (A. P.).—Representative Kearney (R.-N. Y.) demanded today that the House "completely investigate" what he termed a "sickening example of wanton destruction of Army surplus property."

He read to his colleagues a letter from a former G. I. now residing in Schenectady, in which the details of the disposal were related.

Kearney quoted the ex-soldier as asserting that three days before a troopship on which he was a passenger reached San Pedro, Cal., on November 21, 1945, orders were given to throw overboard all excess clothing and equipment. Such items as shirts, trousers, boots, shoes, fatigue clothes, coveralls, leggings, woolen blankets, socks, underwear, towels, mess equipment, sleeping bags and mattress covers "disappeared into the Pacific," Kearney said.

He further quoted his informant, whom he did not identify by name, as declaring he would be "glad to supply additional information if he (Kearney) cared to investigate the matter further."

Asserting that he intended to do exactly that, Kearney said he had called on the veteran for the names "of officers or any other men who know about the circumstances."

Votes on British Loan Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Chairman Spence of Kentucky said today that the House Banking Committee would vote Thursday on the proposed $3,750,000,000 British loan. Only six of the twenty-seven committeemen have indicated opposition to the proposal, which the Senate has approved, 46 to 34.

Moreell Gets Rank of Admiral

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP).—The Senate approved today the nomination of Vice-Admiral Ben Moreell to the temporary rank of full admiral. As chief of the Navy's Bureau of Yards and Docks during the war, Admiral Moreell organized the Seabees and directed vast Navy base construction.

CANADA, U. S. JOIN IN CELEBRATION OF PEACE ON BORDER

SEATTLE, June 11—(AP) One hundred years of unbroken friendship along an unfortified border will be celebrated Saturday by British Americans and United States citizens at two British Columbia-Washington state fetes.

That is the centennial date of the signing of a treaty extending the International Boundary line from the Rockies westward along the 49th parallel and the middle of the strait of Juan de Fuca. It compromised Britain's claims to everything north of the Columbia river and the 40th parallel, and the United States' aggressive "54-40-or-fight" claims to everything below the southern limits of what had been Russian America.

Delegates to the International Labor Organization's maritime conference here will be special guests at the ceremonies under the Peace Arch at Blaine, near Bellingham, Wash. Th arch was built by the late Sam Hill, roadbuilder, friend of European royalty and son-in-law of the railroad king, Jim Hill.

Simultaneously, the residents of interior British Columbia and Washington will be joining hands and voices at the Oroville-Osoyoos border in the Okanogan valley.

Boundary markers will be unveiled and dedicated at both places. Canadian and U. S. Indians will stage a colorful ceremony at the Oroville-Osoyoos celebration, while a salmon barbecue and a procession of massed colors to the music of at least four brass bands will provide the western atmosphere for the Blaine fete.

The President of the United States and the governor-general of Canada have been invited to broadcast from their capitals in honor of the day.

NEW CUT IS VOTED IN POWERS OF OPA

JUN 12 1946

Senate Requires End of Ceilings When Supply of an Item Meets Demand.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP) The Senate sliced OPA's powers still further today in its first action on a price control bill which Stabilization Director Chester Bowles had protested already left the agency powerless to combat inflation.

It adopted without dissent a proposal by Senator Moore (R-Okla.) to require "prompt removal" of ceilings on manufactured products and other non-farm items whenever the supply exceeded or was in "approximate balance with" demand.

This wiped out discretionary powers OPA was left with in the measure as reported by the Senate Banking committee. Under the committee bill, OPA could have retained ceilings if it believed prices would rise, as a result of lifting them, to a point exceeding "a true reflection of current costs plus reasonable profits."

One effect of Moore's amendment may be to require removal of ceilings from gasoline and petroleum products. The petroleum industry has contended that supplies are ample to meet demand.

It was the only change made during a day of debate.

Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.) told the Senate that the OPA extension bill offered by the Banking committee would "write the death sentence for effective price, wage and rent stabilization in the United States."

Wagner, chairman of the committee, took the floor to oppose specific provisions of its bill after Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) had opened debate on the measure with the pledge that an additional year's life will be all that will be asked for the OPA.

May Meet at Night

Barkley, pressing to get the bill through as quickly as possible, said night sessions will be held later this week if necessary. Once the Senate acts, an agreement must be reached with the House before a bill is sent to President Truman. The present law expires June 30.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) suggested that Congress find out "who is right and who is wrong" about the effect of price controls by removing them from some key industry. One of the arguments against OPA is that its regulations have retarded production.

Senator Downey (D-Calif.) protested that the meat industry should not be the one for such an experiment. If prices skyrocket for other items people could get along without them, he said, but they could not get along without meat.

Barkley commented that "the cost to the American people might be more than the evidence of the experiment was worth."

Downey declared Congress would be "gambling" with lives if it lifts meat price ceilings at the end of this month as proposed in the bill. He predicted meat prices would rise to prohibitive levels.

Senators Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) and Wherry (R-Neb.) warmly disputed with Downey, Hickenlooper said the Bureau of Agricultural Economics estimated prices would rise about 15 percent.

"Where is the meat now?" Wherry asked, and gave his own answer: "In the black market." He estimated 80 percent of meat now is being sold without regard for OPA ceilings.

Along with ending meat control, the bill would trim other OPA powers but extend price control in modified form for 12 months after June 30. The house voted only a nine-month extension.

Wagner argued that price controls could not be maintained on other products if basic foods are uncontrolled, adding:

"We cannot have inflation on one side of a supermarket and stabilized prices on the other. Nor can we allow inflation in the grocery store and butcher shop and still hope for stabilized prices in the drygoods store, the hardware store and the laundry in the same block."

G.I. TERMINAL PAY IS VOTED IN HOUSE

Unanimous Approval Given to Payment for Unused Furlough Time.

JUN 12 1946

WASHINGTON, June 11 — (AP) The House membership clambered en masse today on the GI bandwagon, voting 379 to 0 to pay enlisted service personnel cash for unused furlough time.

The action, if sustained by the Senate, will put all service men and women on the same basis with respect to furlough pay. Officers already receive it under an old law.

Estimated variously to cost from $2,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 and to affect approximately 15,000,000 men and women who have served in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard since Sept. 8, 1939, the legislation grew out of congressional clamor against what members called discrimination against GI's.

It entitles enlisted personnel to two and one-half days of furlough monthly while in service and requires that they be paid in cash if they don't get the time off. A limit of 120 days—the same that applies to officers—is set on time that may be accrued and paid for.

Payment rates are fixed according to rank at the time of discharge, plus subsistence allowances at a minimum of 70 cents a day.

Men now in service would receive their payment immediately upon their own certification that they are entitled to it.

House Military committee members who re-wrote the bill originally introduced by Rep. Dwight L. Rogers (D.-Fla.) estimated that each man and woman eligible for payments will receive an average of $280 if the legislation becomes law.

BREAD DEARTH FORECAST FOR ANOTHER YEAR

JUN 12 1946

Reaping of Bumper Wheat Crop Fails to Ease Flour Outlook.

Washington, June 11 (A. P.).—

30. 24-3261

Bread and flour shortages for at least another year was the forecast handed American housewives today despite the start on harvesting another of the nation's bumper wheat crops.

The Agriculture Department reported improvement in bread and flour supplies are expected in another month, but hardly to the extent needed to meet all domestic and famine relief demands before the 1947 harvest.

The bread scarcity in a number of major cities meanwhile verged on the acute stage, and an Associated Press spot survey also disclosed the same held true for meat. Soap, butter and cooking fats ranked next on the list of increasingly hard-to-get items.

The outlook in the cities covered seemed to be that these shortages would grow worse before the situation improved. Harvesting of the new wheat crop promised to ease the bread-flour picture, but complex uncertainties made the prospects dubious for any big improvement in the supply of meats, butter or fats.

Big Crop Indicated.

In its June crop report issued yesterday, the Agriculture Department said the third consecutive bilion-bushel wheat crop and the third largest crop of record was indicated by conditions prevailing on June 1.

The crop estimate was put at 1,025,509,000 bushels, or about 25,000,000 bushels more than was indicated a month earlier. While about 100,000,000 bushels below last year's record harvest, this year's crop stands out as a large one in comparison to the 10-year (1935-44) average of 844,000,000 bushels.

The Agriculture Department accordingly went ahead with a wheat conservation program calling for continuation of the present 80 per cent flour extraction rate, limitation of flour for domestic consumption to 85 per cent of last year's level beginning July 1, compared with 75 per cent for June, and discouraging the feeding of wheat to livestock.

Sticks to Export Goal.

The department also stuck to a previously announced famine export goal of 250,000,000 bushels from the new crop.

Food officials counted on a warm June to give spring-planted crops—particularly the corn crop needed for livestock feed—a boost that a generally cool, wet May failed to provide.

Production of truck crops is expected to be one-eight larger than last year and 40 per cent above average despite damage caused by excessive rains in important Southern growing areas in May.

U.S. To Make Loans On 1946 Wheat Crops

Washington, June 11 (AP)—The Agriculture Department announced today it will offer to make loans to farmers on 1946 crop wheat stored on farms at rates averaging $1.46 a bushel nationally. Rates under a similar program last year averaged $1.38.

The department previously had announced it would buy wheat to fill export requirements at ceiling prices, which average about $1.75 at the farm level. The Government now plans to export 250,000,000 bushels from the 1946 crop.

The 1946 crop, now starting to move to market, is bringing ceiling prices and is expected by officials to continue to do so.

U.S. Aid To Medical Specialists Urged

Washington, June 11 (AP)—A Public Health Service official declared today that the "mass production" of doctors required by the war has seriously limited the numbers qualified for urgently needed research.

The warning was sounded by Maurice Collins, acting Public Health Service administrator, in a letter inserted in the Congressional Record by Senator George (D., Ga.) along with an explanation of a bill to permit the agency to aid in training specialists.

Under the bill, the Health Service would be given authority to assign a small number of its officers to schools for training to keep abreast of advances in medical science. It could make direct grants to post-graduate schools which train public health personnel.

Argentina Likened to U. S.

Buenos Aires Professor Finds Many Points of Similarity

LOUISVILLE, June 11 (AP).—The points of similarity between the social, cultural and even the political ideals of Argentina and the United States are more numerous than their points of difference, in the opinion of Dr. Enrique Gil, professor of international law at the University of La Plata in Buenos Aires, now on a good-will tour.

What is needed to bring about better understandings between the two nations, he said in an interview, is a more frequent interchange of visits by people of the two countries, especially by persons of prominence — "men who have some say in the political and cultural phases of each country's life, men who help to shape their policies."

Dr. Gil believes that the popular theory that members of a family often do not get along well together because "they are too much alike" also prevails among nations and peoples, and he holds that the Western Hemisphere is fortunate in being populated by two different races—the Anglo-Saxon and the Latin.

Acheson Criticizes American Indifference

Bryn Mawr, Pa., June 11 (AP)—Under Secretary of State Dean Acheson today called on Americans for greater self-discipline, competence and effort to meet the responsibilities of an atomic age.

In a commencement address at Bryn Mawr College, Acheson hit at what he called the "luxury of indifference," and warned that the United States, because of "severe external pressure and danger," no longer has unlimited time in which to solve its problems.

He criticized Government, industry, labor, the press, radio and the general public for apathy, incompetence and lack of discipline.

Congress, he said, does not confine itself to laying down general principles of government, but instead becomes involved "in the very administrative detail which it knows it cannot handle."

Doolittle Predicts 400,000 Private Planes

Los Angeles, June 11 (AP)—James H. Doolittle, former lieutenant general, who is now vice president of an oil company, predicts that by 1955 there will be 400,000 registered aircraft flying in the United States, exclusive of military and scheduled airline planes.

"When this goal is attained, our country will have an aviation industry with a dollar volume in excess of $2,200,000,000, providing better than average jobs for over 900,000 persons," Doolittle declared today in an address at Town Hall.

"That is a conservative estimate, I believe, when you consider that research agencies state that more than 300,000 people have named a personal plane as either their No. 1 or No. 2 postwar purchase and that, by 1955, there will certainly be over a million persons in this country willing and able to purchase personal planes," Doolittle added.

Newspaperman Hails Reds, Criticizes U. S. in Germany

NEW YORK, June 11 — (AP) Farwell W. Perry, American newspaperman who toured Europe for four months at the invitation of the French government, today praised the Russian administration of occupied Germany and criticized administration in the United States zone as "too lenient."

Perry, son of the president of the Western Newspaper Union, and of the John H. Perry newspapers of Florida and Kentucky, arrived by airliner at La Guardia field. He had studied the operation of French provincial newspapers.

Just before returning to the United States Perry had been one of a group of correspondents who made a 10-day tour of the Russian zone of occupation.

U. S. Too Lenient

In contrast to the Russians, Perry said, United States troops "are much too lenient with the Germans and much of the propaganda we hear regarding Russian treatment of the Germans is false." He said he was "far more favorably impressed" with Russian administration.

"Contrary to many thoughts there are a number of things being done in the Russian zone which the Americans might well emulate," Perry said. As an example, he said that "the black market is running wild" in the American zone but was practically non-existent in the Russian area.

Perry added that "we are much too easy on the Germans and the Russians use an iron fist." Consequently, the Germans have more respect for the Russians because they are fair but strict, Perry said.

In the Russian zone of occupation, Perry said, "the streets were cleaned, the factories were smoking and the economy had not collapsed as it had in the American zone."

He added that the Russians obviously had a better understanding of the German mind than the Americans and said he had been told by an American colonel that the de-nazification program was slackening because they were attempting to do the impossible.

John H. Perry, father of Farwell and a witness to the airport interview, commented that "it must be like trying to change Democrats."

Russian food administration is "strict," Perry said, but was distributed on the basis of the amount and kind of work done by the people, with heavy workers, including intellectuals, given the largest quantity.

Perry returned to this country to be best man at the wedding of his brother, John M. Perry, to Miss Jeanne See, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. See, of Greenwich, Conn., at Christ church, Greenwich, on Saturday.

JUN 12 1946

FOUR ARMORED CARS MOUNTING 75-CALIBER GUNS WERE USED AGAINST THE CROWD BY POLICE AND TROOPS IN FULL WAR KIT, VIRTUALLY ALL OF THEM ARMED WITH AUTOMATIC WEAPONS. BUT THE STUBBORN DEMONSTRATORS, REFUSING TO BE AWED, OVERPOWERED THE CARS AND HALTED THEM.

WITH DIFFICULTY THE TROOPS BROUGHT UP REINFORCEMENTS, WHICH ARRIVED TO AN OBLIGATO OF WAILING SIRENS. THE ARMORED CARS WERE RECAPTURED.

THE FIRST SHOTS WERE FIRED WHEN THE CROWD, AFTER STONING COMMUNIST HEADQUARTERS AND BREAKING MOST OF THE WINDOWS, TURNED TO A PILE OF EMPTY ARTILLERY SHELLS PLACED ON THE SQUARE AS A DECORATION, AND BEGAN THROWING THEM AT THE POLICE. SEVERAL POLICE WERE HIT AND SLIGHTLY WOUNDED. I MYSELF WAS SLIGHTLY HURT WHEN ONE GRAZED MY HEAD.

AGAINST THE FIRE, AND IN AN EFFORT TO BLOCK THE ARMORED TRUCKS, THE MILLING CROWD DRAFTED UP EVERYTHING MOVABLE IT COULD FIND--TRAFFIC SIGNS, PARKED TRUCKS AND THE LIKE.

AS FAST AS POLICE CLEARED ONE ALLEY OF DEMONSTRATORS AND TURNED UPON ANOTHER, IT FILLED AGAIN. I SAW NO FIRING FROM THE CROWD--ONLY THE STONES AND THE SHELL CASINGS.

WORD REACHED POLICE HEADQUARTERS THAT SEVERAL SMALLER RIOTS WERE GOING ON ELSEWHERE IN NAPLES.

AT ONE END OF THE VIA MEDINA, ON WHICH COMMUNIST HEADQUARTERS IS SITUATED, THE CROWD STOPPED TWO STREET CARS AND IMMOBILIZED THEM BY STRIPPING THEM OF ELECTRICAL WIRING.

THIS EFFECTIVELY BLOCKED THE STREET. THE OTHER END WAS BARRICADED WITH TRUCKS THE THRONG HAD STOPPED.

AT 8:55 P.M. GMT (4:55 P.M. EDT) FIRING WAS CONTINUING IN THE STREETS, WITH SEVERAL MORE POLICEMEN WOUNDED OR KILLED BY HAND GRENADES THROWN FROM BUILDINGS.

I TRIED TO GET TO THE HOSPITAL TO CHECK THE DEAD AND THE WOUNDED, BUT I COULD NOT. THERE WAS SHOOTING ALL OVER TOWN.

A SMALL BOMB OR HAND GRENADE WAS THROWN FROM THE NAAFI CLUB BUILDING NEAR POLICE HEADQUARTERS AS SIX POLICEMEN WERE RETURNING TO THE HEADQUARTERS. TWO POLICEMEN WERE KNOCKED TO THE GROUND BY THE EXPLOSION.

A FEW MINUTES LATER THE OTHER POLICEMEN, AFTER FIRING AT THE CROWD, RETURNED AND DRAGGED THEIR COMRADES OUT AND TOOK THEM TO A HOSPITAL.

AN AMERICAN SPOKESMAN SAID THE UNITED STATES' POSITION IS "NOT FINALIZED". IT WILL BE REVIEWED IN THE ROUND OF DAILY PARLEYS AMONG VARIOUS DELEGATIONS IN AN OFF-THE-FLOOR EFFORT TO FIND A FORMULA FOR MUTUAL AGREEMENT.

A REPORTED COMPROMISE PROPOSAL TO PLACE THE SPANISH ISSUE BEFORE THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY WITHOUT RECOMMENDATION OF A DATE FOR SEVERING RELATIONS MAY BE AFFECTED BY THE BRITISH POSITION WHEN IT IS MADE KNOWN.

THEGE WAS INCREASING EVIDENCE THE OTHER COUNCIL MEMBERS BELIEVED THAT IN THE FINAL SHOWDOWN SOVIET DELEGATE ANDREI A.GROMYKO WOULD NOT USE HIS VETO POWER.

A RELIABLE SOURCE REPORTED THAT RUSSIA, ALTHOUGH STAUNCHLY OPPOSED TO ANY DELAY IN DEALING SEVERELY WITH SPAIN, WAS ANXIOUS TO AVOID AN IMPASSE IN THE COUNCIL WHICH, HE SAID, "WOULD HELP NO ONE BUT FRANCO."

THIS QUARTER SAID THERE WAS A FAIR CHANCE THAT THE COUNCIL WOULD REACH A FORMULA OF AGREEMENT BUT ADDED THAT UNTIL BRITAIN ANNOUNCES HER VERDICT THE "SITUATION IS FLUID."

POLISH DELEGATE OSCAR LANGE, WHO IS DELAYING A SUMMER VISIT TO WARSAW IN ORDER TO WIND UP THE SPANISH CASE, IS A LEADER IN THE EFFORTS TO COMPROMISE ON HIS ORIGINAL PROPOSAL FOR AN IMMEDIATE U.N. BREAK WITH SPAIN. LANGE BELIEVES UNANIMITY OF COUNCIL ACTION IS ESSENTIAL ON THE SPANISH ISSUE.

A SPOKESMAN OF A DELEGATION FAVORING A BREAK WITH SPAIN SAID RESULTS OF WEEKEND HUDDLES WERE ENCOURAGING AND THAT THE SUB-COMMITTEE REPORT NOW "IS NOT AS DANGEROUSLY CLOSE TO A VETO" BY A BIG POWER AS IT WAS LAST WEEK.

NEW YORK, JUNE 11-(AP)-DR.OSCAR LANGE, POLISH DELEGATE TO THE UNITED NATIONS SECURITY COUNCIL, SHORTLY WILL BE RELIEVED OF HIS DUTIES AS AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED STATES TO GIVE HIS ENTIRE TIME TO HIS DUTIES ON THE SECURITY COUNCIL, IT WAS RSPORTED AUTHORITATIVELY TONIGHT.

THE NEW POLISH AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED STATES MIGHT BE MICHAL KACZOROWSKI, MINISTER OF RECONSTRUCTION, THESE REPORTS ADDED.

DR.LANGE EXPECTS TO GO TO WARSAW AS SOON AS THE PRESSURE OF SECURITY COUNCIL DUTIES PERMITS, PERHAPS IN TWO OR THREE WEEKS, FOR CONSULTATIONS WITH HISGOVERNMENT.

IN COMMENTING ON THAT PROJECTED TRIP, A POLISH SPOKESMAN WHO WOULD NOT PERMIT IDENTIFICATION SAID THAT THE WARSAW GOVERNMENT WAS COMPLETELY SATISFIED WITH DR.LANGE'S WORK IN THE SECURITY COUNCIL AND THAT A HIGH HONOR AWAITED THE AMBASSADOR WHEN HE RETURNED TO POLAND.

IT WAS INDICATED LANGE'S APPOINTMENT AS POLAND'S PERMANENT DELEGATE TO THE COUNCIL WOULD BE THIS HONOR.

THE SPOKESMAN SAID THE PRESSURE OF DR.LANGE'S DUTIES IN THE SECURITY COUNCIL, WHERE HE HAS LED THE FIGHT FOR AN IMMEDIATE AND COMPLETE UNITED NATIONS BREAK WITH FRANCO SPAIN, HAD MADE IT APPARENT THAT THE POSITIONS OF DELEGATE AND AMBASSADOR WOULD HAVE TO BE DIVIDED BETWEEN TWO MEN.

DR.LANGE, 41-YEAR-OLD FORMER AMERICAN CITIZEN WHO GAVE UP HIS CITIZENSHIP TO BECOME A POLISH CITIZEN AGAIN IN 1944, HAS BEEN AMBASSADOR TO THE UNITED STATES SINCE LAST DECEMBER. HE SETTLED IN THE UNITED STATES IN 1937 AND TAUGHT ECONOMICS AT THE UNIVERSITIES OF CHICAGO AND CALIFORNIA.

MEANWHILE, JAN STANCZYK, POLISH MINISTER OF LABOR AND PUBLIC WELFARE, SAID IN WARSAW THAT HE WOULD LEAVE BY PLANE FOR THE UNITED STATES ON JUNE 28 TO BECOME CHAIRMAN OF THE UNITED NATIONS' SOCIAL WELFARE COMMITTEE AND AN AID TO TRYGVE LIE, UNITED NATIONS SECRETARY GENERAL.

JACKSON (950)
BY THOMAS A.REEDY

NUERNBERG, JUNE 11-(AP)-A SMOULDERING FEUD INVOLVING MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES' HIGHEST COURT BURST INTO THE OPEN TODAY FOLLOWING AN UNPRECEDENTED CHARGE BY JUSTICE ROBERT H.JACKSON THAT JUSTICE HUGO BLACK HAD PARTICIPATED IN DECISIONS FAVORING BLACK'S FORMER LAW PARTNER.

"THERE MAY BE THOSE WHO THINK IT QUITE HARMLESS TO ENCOURAGE THE EMPLOYMENT OF JUSTICES' EX-LAW PARTNERS TO ARGUE CLOSE CASES BY SMOTHERING THE OBJECTIONS WHICH THE BAR MAKES TO THIS PRACTICE," JACKSON DECLARED IN A LENGTHY STATEMENT ISSUED AT A HASTILY-SUMMONED PRESS CONFERENCE LAST NIGHT. "BUT IN MY VIEW SUCH AN ATTITUDE WOULD SOON BRING THE COURT INTO DISREPUTE."

JACKSON, WHO IS NOW ON LEAVE FROM THE U.S. SUPREME COURT TO ACT AS CHIEF U.S. PROSECUTOR IN THE WAR CRIMES TRIALS BEFORE THE INTERNATIONAL MILITARY TRIBUNAL HERE, SAID THE STATEMENT HAD BEEN CABLED TO HOUSE AND SENATE JUDICIARY COMMITTEES BECAUSE "CONGRESS HAS A RIGHT TO KNOW THE FACTS AND ISSUES INVOLVED."

JACKSON WENT TO CONSIDERABLE LENGTH TO DECLARE THAT NOTHING IN HIS STATEMENT WAS INTENDED TO REFLECT UPON FRED VINSON, WHOSE NOMINATION BY PRESIDENT TRUMAN TO BE THE NEW CHIEF JUSTICE NOW IS PENDING BEFORE THE SENATE.

HE DESCRIBED VINSON AS "AN UPRIGHT, FEARLESS AND WELL-QUALIFIED MAN," AND SAID HE FELT IT WAS IMPERATIVE TO AIR THE FACTS ABOUT THE COURT "FEUD" SINCE "FURTHER SUPPRESSION OF THE FACTS WILL NOT HELP MR.VINSON AND WILL AFFORD A CONTINUING BASIS FOR IRRESPONSIBLE RUMOR AND INNUENDO."

JUN 12 1946

JACKSON SAID BLACK THREATENED HIM WITH "WAR" UNLESS HE JOINED "IN COVERING UP THE FACTS," AND THEN ADDED: "IF WAR IS DECLARED ON ME I PROPOSE TO WAGE IT WITH THE WEAPONS OF THE OPEN WARRIOR, NOT THOSE OF THE STEALTHY ASSASSIN."

(IN WASHINGTON, THERE WAS NO COMMENT FROM JUSTICE BLACK, THE WHITE HOUSE, VINSON, NOG FROM ANY MEMBERS OF THE COURT. THE CHAIRMEN OF THE JUDICIARY COMMITTEES ALSO WITHHELD COMMENT.)

JACKSON REFERRED SPECIFICALLY TO THE JEWELL RIDGE COAL CASE IN WHICH THE COURT HELD BY A 5-4 DECISION ON MAY 7, 1945, THAT SOFT COAL MINERS WERE ENTITLED TO PORTAL-TO-PORTAL PAY; AND THE SUBSEQUENT REFUSAL OF THE COURT TO GRANT A REHEARING REQUESTED BY THE COAL COMPANY. JACKSON SAID CRAMPTON HARRIS OF ALABAMA, BLACK'S FORMER LAW PARTNER, WAS COUNSEL FOR THE WINNER IN THE CASE--A LOCAL OF THE UNITED MINE WORKERS. HARRIS LIKEWISE DECLINED TO COMMENT.

HE SAID THAT "PUBLICIZED THREATS" AGAINST HIM HAD BEEN "EXPLOITED BY CERTAIN INSPIRED COMMENTATORS AND COLUMNISTS. X X X THE MOST SPECIFIC ATTACK ON ME IS THAT IN THE WASHINGTON STAR OF MAY 16, 1946," IN A COLUMN BY DORIS FLEESON.

THIS, HE CONTINUED, QUOTED BLACK AS COMPLAINING THAT JACKSON'S OPINION IN THE COURT'S RULING AGAINST REHEARING THE JEWELL RIDGE CASE WAS AN "OPEN AND GRATUITOUS INSULT" AND A "SLUR UPON HIS (BLACK'S PERSONAL AND JUDICIAL HONOR."

"I DO NOT WANT IT INFERRED THAT I CHARGE THAT JUSTICE BLACK'S SITTING IN THE JEWELL RIDGE CASE INVOLVED LACK OF 'HONOR'," JACKSON'S STATEMENT SAID. "IT IS RATHER A QUESTION OF JUDGMENT AS TO SOUND JUDICIAL POLICY."

JACKSON'S VERSION OF THE FACTS LEADING UP TO THE "FEUD" FOLLOWS:

"THE JEWELL RIDGE COAL DECISION IN ITSELF WAS A SOMEWHAT STARTLING ONE. THE UNITED MINE WORKERS REVERSED THE POSITION IT HAD PREVIOUSLY TAKEN ABOUT THE FAIR LABOR STANDARDS ACT SUPERSEDING THE COAL MINERS' COLLECTIVELY BARGAINED CONTRACTS. IT EMPLOYED AS COUNSEL MR.BLACK'S FORMER LAW PARTNER TO ARGUE ITS NEW VONTENTION TO THE SUPREME COURT AND HE, TOO, TOOK A POSITION AS TO COAL MINERS NOT CONSISTENT WITH HIS ARGUMENT USED THE PREVIOUS TERM TO WIN A CASE FOR THE IRON MINERS. MR.BLACK REVERSED THE POSITION HE HAD TAKEN IN MANAGING THE BILL AS A SENATOR.

"THE COURT, BY A BARE MAJORITY OF FIVE TO FOUR, SUPPORTED THE CHANGE OF FRONT BY THE UNITED MINE WORKERS. X X X MR.JUSTICE BLACK CONTROLLED ASSIGNMENT OF THE CASE BECAUSE THE CHIEF JUSTICE WAS IN DISSENT. MR.JUSTICE BLACK CHOSE MR.JUSTICE MURPHY TO WRITE THE MAJORITY OPINION. WHILE MR.JUSTICE MURPHY WAS PREPARING HIS OPINION A STRIKE OF THE MINE WORKERS AND NEGOTIATIONS WITH THE OPEGATORS WERE PROCEEDING.

"IT WAS PROPOSED TO HAND DOWN THE DECISION IN FAVOR OF THE MINERS WITHOUT WAITING FOR OPINION AND DISSENT. THE ONLY APPARENT REASON BEHIND THIS PROPOSAL WAS TO ANNOUNCE THE DECISION IN TIME TO INFLUENCE CONTRACT NEGOTIATIONS DURING THE COAL STRIKE.

"DURING THE COAL STRIKE CHIEF JUSTICE STONE PROTESTED SUCH PROPOSED IRREGULAR TREATMENT VIGOROUSLY. I DO NOT BELIEVE MR.JUSTICE MURPHY FAVORED IT. IN ALL EVENTS IT WAS ABANDONED, X X X."

JACKSON SAID HE WAS UNEASY ABOUT THE CASE AND ALSO ABOUT A PREVIOUS CASE INVOLVING THE TENNESSEE COAL COMPANY AND A MINE UNION, IN WHICH HARRIS ALSO WAS COUNSEL AND WHICH ALSO WAS DECIDED IN FAVOR OF HARRIS' CLIENT, BLACK'S VOTE BEING DECISIVE.

LATER, JACKSON CONTINUED, THE JEWELL RIDGE COMPANY APPLIED FOG REHEARING, REQUESTING THAT BLACK BE EXCUSED BECAUSE OF HIS PAST RELATIONS TO THE ATTORNEY FOR THE VICTORIOUS PARTY IN THE CASE.

"AS THERE IS NO POWER IN THE COURT TO DISQUALIFY A DULY COMISSIONED JUSTICE," HE SAID, "ALL MEMBERS WERE AGREED THAT THE PETITION FOR REHEARING MUST BE DENIED."

AT THIS POINT, HE SAID, THE DISPUTE REFERRED TO BY THE WASHINGTON STAR'S COLUMN DEVELOPED. BLACK, JACKSON DECLARED, WANTED A MEGE DENIAL.

"IF HIS ACTION WERE LATER QUESTIONED," JACKSON SAID, "THE DENIAL WOULD BE CONSTRUED AS A VINDICATION BY THE COURT ON THE FACTS.

"NONE OF US KNEW, THEN, AND I DO NOT KNOW NOW, ANYTHING OF THE RELATIONS BETWEEN THE JUSTICE AND HIS FORMER LAW PARTNER, EXCEPT THAT THEY HAD CONTINUED TO BE CORDIAL."

JUN 12 1946

IN ANY EVENT, HE ADDED, NONE OF THE JUSTICES WANTED TO LEND THEIR NAMES TO "BLIND AND UNQUALIFIED APPROVAL." JACKSON SAID HE WROTE AN OPINION WHICH STONE TRANSFORMED INTO A COMPROMISE, BUT BLACK "BECAME VERY ANGRY AND SAID THAT ANY OPINION WHICH DISCUSSED THE SUBJECT AT ALL WOULD MEAN A DECLARATION OF WAR."

JACKSON SAID HE TOLD BLACK "IN LANGUAGE THAT WAS SHARP, BUT NO DIFFERENT THAN I WOULD USE AGAIN, THAT I WOULD NOT STAND FOR ANY MORE OF HIS BULLYING."

JACKSON THEN FILED HIS OPINION WITH THE CONCURRENCE OF JUSTICE FRANKFURTER.

"HOWEVER INNOCENT THE COINCIDENCE OF THESE TWO VICTORIES AT SUCCESSIVE TERMS OF JUSTICE BLACK'S FORMER LAW PARTNER, I WANTED THAT PRACTICE STOPPED," JACKSON SAID IN EXPLAINING HIS REASONS FOR ISSUING HIS STATEMENT. "IF IT IS EVER REPEATED WHILE I AM ON THE BENCH I WILL MAKE MY JEWELL RIDGE OPINION LOOK LIKE A LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION BY COMPARISON." #

MC DOWELL STRESSED THE OBJECTIVITY OF HIS STATEMENT BY SAYING HE HAD LATER VOLUNTEERED FOR A MISSION TO TITO'S HEADQUARTERS AND, FURTHER, THAT HE HAD BEEN "A LIFELONG LIBERAL, AT TIMES LABELLED AS A 'PINK' OR COMMUUNIST."

EVIDENCE CONCERNING MIHAILOVIC, MC DOWELL SAID, "INCLUDES NOT O PERSONAL OBSERVATION BUT THE TOTALITY OF DOCUMENTS SEEN AND CONVERSA IONS HELD WITH U.S., ALLIED, AND EVEN ENEMY, PERSONNEL.

"A VERY SUBSTANTIAL BODY OF EVIDENCE SUPPORTS THE CONCLUSION THAT GENERAL MIHAILOVIC, A KNOWN BITTER ANTI-NAZI BEFORE THE WAR, DEVOTED HIMSELF WHOLEHEARTEDLY TO THE TASK OF DRIVING THE GERMANS AND THEIR SATELLITES OUT OF YUGOSLAVIA. "THE EVIDENCE ON WHICH GENERAL MIHAILOVIC IS ACCUSED IN PART IS FALSE, IN PART IS A DISTORTION OF TRUTH. HE SAID THE CHETNIK LEADER "MADE A VERY REAL, CONFIRMED CONTRIBU TO THE ANGLO-AMERICAN CAMPAIGNS IN AFRICA THROUGH HARASSING OF GERM LINES OF COMMUNICATION" IN 1941 AND 1942.

IT WAS BELIEVED THAT THIS PASSPORT, WHICH BORE A SYRIAN VISA, HAD BEEN GIVEN THE MUFTI BY MUSA EL ALAMI, HIS FORMER LEGAL ADVISER, WHO LEFT PALESTINE SOME WEEKS AGO FOR EUROPE AND WHO WAS EXPECTED TO VISIT THE MUFTI IN HIS RETREAT NEAR PARIS.

WHEN THE MUFTI PASSED THROUGH CAIRO HIS IDENTITY WAS NOT CHECKED.

buenos aires, june 11 - (ap) - foreign minister juan atilio bramuglia said today that argentina's establishment of diplomatic relations with russia was a "completely logical step" which would not impair the friendship of president juan d. peron's government for the united states and great britain.

JUN 12 1946

in his first interview since assuming the foreign office portfolio, bramuglia said dispatches from abroad indicating that argentina was participating in "international intrigues which might be harmful to the interests of the united states and great britain," seemed to him "completely exagerated."

a majority of american and european nations maintain diplomatic relations with russia, bramuglia declared, adding that "our criterion is the same as theirs, in that it is not possible to ignore the fact that the soviet is one of the great nations of the world."

asked whether he believed that peron faced the loss of support of many roman catholics who supported him in the election campaign, bramuglia replied:

JUN 12 1946

"this is a catholic country. we are catholics and the maintenance of relations with the soviet does not mean the acceptance of their internal doctrines of that country."

the benefits of the russian-argentine accord, the minister said, would be largely of a commercial nature.

argentina's traditional friendship with spain, bramuglia added, would not be affected by the accord. the russians, he said, made no demand that argentina support the polish motion before the united nations new york that all member nations sever diplomatic relations with spain.

he said that argentina's new ambassador to washington probably would be appointed next week.

Montreal, June 11--(AP)--A Scotland Yard inspector, testifying at the espionate trial of Fred Rose, Communist member of the Canadian Parliament, today introduced parts of a typewriter in attempt to substantiate testimony by Igor Gouzenko, former Soviet Embassy code clerk at Ottawa and star prosecution witness.

Gouzenko identified certain documents offered in evidence as having been removed by him from the Soviet Embassy in the Canadian capital.

The prosecution charged that letters removed by Gouzenko from embassy files were signed by Capt. Gordon Lunan, former Canadian Information Board employee who is charged with being a key figure in the Canadian espionage ring.

Inspector William Whitehead of Scotland Yard said he went to Lunan's father's home in London last April 6 and found there a portable typewriter completely disassembled but bearing a serial number identical with a machine sold to Lunan in Montreal.

Another witness, Dr. Rosario Fontaine, medico-legal expert employed by the Province of Quebec, testified that letters which Gouzenko said had been removed by him from the Soviet Embassy had been written on the same typewriter and by the same person as letters seized in Lunan's Montreal apartment.

JUN 12 1946

A Montreal dealer produced an invoice evidencing the sale of a certain portable typewriter to Lunan. The serial number which the dealer gave for this typewriter was the same as that found by Whitehead on the typewriter parts in London.

WASHINGTON, JUNE 11-(AP)-THE THREAT OF BITTER DEBATE REPORTEDLY FORCED THE ADMINISTRATION TODAY TO ABANDON A PRE-PARIS CONFERENCE DRIVE FOR SENATE ENDORSEMENT OF SECRETARY OF STATE BYRNES' HANDLING OF FOREIGN POLICY.

JUN 12 1946

THE TENTATIVE DRAFT OF A RESOLUTION WHICH LEADERS CIRCULATED AMONG SOME SENATORS WAS INTERPRETED BY SEVERAL MEMBERS AS OFFERING STRONG SUPPORT FOR THE FIRM ATTITUDE BYRNES TOOK AGAINST SEVERAL RUSSIAN DEMANDS AT THE FIRST PARIS MEETING OF FOREIGN MINISTERS.

WITH BYRNES LEAVING FOR THE FRENCH CAPITAL AGAIN THURSDAY, ACCOMPANIED BY CHAIRMAN CONNALLY (D-TEXAS) OF THE FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE AND SENATOR VANDENBERG (R-MICH), THE PLAN HAD BEEN TO SEEK TO STRENGTHEN THE SECRETARY'S HAND IN ADVANCE OF HIS NEW CONFERENCE WITH THE RUSSIAN, BRITISH AND FRENCH FOREIGN MINISTERS.

IN THIS CONNECTION, THE PROPOSED RESOLUTION WOULD HAVE HAD THE SENATE EXPRESS "ITS ACCORD WITH THE EFFORTS OF SECRETARY BYRNES TO OBTAIN THE ACCEPTANCE OF A FOUR POWER PACT AND HIS PURPOSE TO SEEK AN EARLY CONCLUSION OF PEACE TREATIES BASED ON FREEDOM OF SPEECH, BALLOT AND WORSHIP TOGETHER WITH ALL OTHER PRINCIPLES FOR WHICH THIS COUNTRY HAS FOUGHT THE WAR."

SENATORS WHO LOOKED OVER THE DRAFT WERE QUICK TO NOTE THAT SOME OF RUSSIA'S IDEAS ABOUT "FREEDOM OF SPEECH, BALLOT AND WORSHIP" HAVE NOT BEEN GEARED WITH THOSE BYRNES AND OTHER AMERICAN LEADERS HAVE EXPRESSED.

IN ITS PREAMBLE THE PROPOSED RESOLUTION CITED "A DURABLE PEACE" AS THE PRIME OBJECTIVE OF AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY, ADDING THAT "WE HAVE NO DISPOSITION TO IMPOSE OUR ARBITRARY WILL ON ANY OF OUR RECENT ALLIES AND WE ASSUME THAT NO ONE OF THEM HAS ANY DISPOSITION TO IMPOSE ITS ARBITRARY WILL UPON US."

WHILE BYRNES, CONNALLY AND VANDENBERG ALL WERE SAID TO HAVE FAVORED THE IDEA OF SENATE ACTION ON SUCH A RESOLUTION, THE PLAN REPORTEDLY WAS DROPPED FOR FEAR THAT ITS PASSAGE COULD NOT BE OBTAINED WITHOUT AN OPPOSITION EXPLOSION THAT WOULD AT LEAST DULL THE EFFECT.

THAT THIS OPPOSITION WOULD BE FORTHCOMING SEEMED ASSURED.

WITHOUT HAVING SEEN THE RESOLUTION, SENATOR PEPPER (D-FLA) TOLD A REPORTER HE WOULD FIGHT ANY ATTEMPT TO ENDORSE BYRNES' POLICIES AS THEY NOW STAND.

"WHAT MR.BYRNES IS FOLLOWING NOW IS STRICTLY AN ANTI-RUSSIAN POLICY," PEPPER ASSERTED. "I DON'T SAY THAT IT IS A POLICY ADOPTED IN MALICE, BUT THE EFFECT OF IT IS ANTI-RUSSIAN AND PRO-BRITISH. OUR LEADERS ARE SUPPORTING AGE-OLD BRITISH POLICIES AND OPPOSING THE AGE-OLD ASPIRATIONS OF RUSSIA."

PEPPER SAID HE HAD SENSED AN EFFORT TO PREVENT ANY CRITICAL DISCUSSION OF THE ADMINISTRATION'S FOREIGN POLICIES, ADDING THAT IF ANY ATTEMPT IS MADE TO WIN AN ENDORSEMENT OF BYRNES' PROGRAM AT THIS TIME, "THOSE WHO MAKE IT CAN BE ASSURED THAT THEY WILL BE OPENING A PANDORA'S BOX."

(280) WASHINGTON JUNE 11 (AP) LORD INVERCHAPEL, BRITAIN'S NEW, RUDDY FACED, LARGE-NOSED AMBASSADOR, IS DEVELOPING A REPUTATION AS A HUMORIST BUT HE IS NOT MUCH OF A COOK EVIDENTLY.

THE ENVOY TOLD A NEWS CONFERENCE TODAY THAT ONE TROUBLE WITH THE FOOD SITUATION IN BRITAIN WAS THAT THE HOUSEWIVES COULD NOT GET ENOUGH GREASE TO FRY THEIR BACON. SOME OF THE REPORTERS WHO WERE ALSO HOUSEWIVES FOUND THIS ONE A BIT DIFFICULT.

BUT INVERCHAPEL, WHO IS HIS OWN AUTHORITY FOR SAYING THAT HIS NOSE IS ALWAYS DESCRIBED AS LARGE AND HIS FACE AS RED, HAD THEM POUNDING THEIR KNEES AND HOLDING THEIR SIDES SEVERAL TIMES DURING THE CONFERENCE.

THINGS GOT TANGLED UP RIGHT AT THE START. INVERCHAPEL STARTED TALKING IN SUCH A LOW VOICE THAT NOT EVEN THE PEOPLE IN THE FRONT ROW COULD HEAR HIM.

WHEN HE REALIZED THIS HE MOTIONED EVERYONE TO COME UP CLOSE UNTIL THE REPORTERS WERE PRACTICALLY SITTING ON THE ARMS OF HIS CHAIR.

"I FIND IT REPUGNANT TO TALK LOUD," HE SAID.

SOMEBODY ASKED ABOUT THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT'S POLICY ON ATOMIC ENERGY.

"AWFULLY SORRY I CAN'T TALK ABOUT THAT," THE AMBASSADOR SAID. "THEY SAY IT'S ONE OF THE MOST CONFUSING SUBJECTS THAT EVER BAFFLED A MAN."

SOMEONE WANTED TO KNOW WHY THE RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT WAS "SO PUT OUT" WITH THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT FOR ARRESTING PEOPLE WHO WERE ALLEGEDLY DISCLOSING WAR SECRETS TO THE RUSSIANS.

"MY GOD," SAID INVERCHAPEL WITH HIS MOST ENGAGING SCOTCH GRIN, "THAT'S A QUESTION."

BEVIN REJECTS PALESTINE PLAN; THREATENS INDEPENDENT PEACE

JUN 13 1946

Calls Entry of 100,000 Inadvisable; Cites N. Y. as Not Wanting Them

May Ignore Russia On Peace Treaties

Rejects Sanctions Against Franco; Policies Win Labor Party's Ovation

By The Associated Press

BOURNEMOUTH, England, June 12.—British rejection of the recommendation of the Anglo-American inquiry commission for immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine this year was indicated strongly tonight by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, who pictured the immigration as inadvisable for the British from military and financial standpoints.

He made his statements during an outspoken address to the annual Labor party conference in which he outlined a foreign policy bluntly threatening that Britain would act independently of the Soviet Union, if necessary, to speed the writing of European peace treaties. He won thunderous approval from the party delegates.

Receives Great Ovation

A tremendous, foot - stamping, cheering ovation followed Bevin's speech, in which he declared:

1. Britain will not be a party to "any design or strategy" to attack Russia, but "no nation is going to keep me in a state of war forever with other countries" through lack of agreement on peace treaties.

2. Britain regards the immediate immigration of 100,000 Jews in Palestine, as recommended by the British-American committee report, as inadvisable, but favors an ultimate Palestinian state to give Jews a voice in world affairs.

3. Britain rejects sanctions against the Franco regime. The Labor party, by a show of hands, rejected resolutions calling for a diplomatic break with Spain and for sanctions against the Franco regime.

Would Need More Troops

Bevin said Britain would have to put another division of British troops in Palestine if 100,000 Jews were permitted immediate immigration, adding that "I am not prepared to do it."

"Regarding the agitation in the United States, and particularly in New York, for 100,000 Jews to be put into Palestine, I hope it will not be misunderstood in America if I say with the purest of motives, that that was because they do not want too many of them in New York," Bevin declared.

When the husky foreign secretary finished his speech, the party conference, by an overwhelming vote, adopted a resolution endorsing his conduct of foreign affairs. Five other resolutions, all critical, were defeated or withdrawn.

The Labor party's 1,200 delegates then decisively defeated a Communist party application for affiliation with the Labor party. The vote, representing the entire membership of the Labor party was 2,678,000 to 468,000.

Appeals to Stalin

Bevin's address which also reported Soviet rebuffs to overtures for a trade pact, appealed by name to Prime Minister Stalin and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov for cooperation. Speaking of the forthcoming resumption of the Paris four-power foreign ministers conference Saturday, he said:

"I am not going to be a party, as long as I hold this office, to any design or strategy or allotment of force to attack Russia. I will not be a party to it and I do not believe there is a single soul in the cabinet who would allow one atom of thought to such a thing.

"Neither will we give one moment's consideration to expansion. But this division of Europe—this awful business of drawing a line from Stettin to Albania and behind that this solidified position—if this happens, which God forbid—you will have two camps in Europe, and that will be the road to another struggle.

"I say to Stalin and Molotov: We will not divide you.

"Let the four-power commission go everywhere. Let us pool our knowledge."

Talks of Separate Treaty

Bevin continued:

"I was asked would I sign a separate peace treaty, contrary to the decisions arrived at during the war. I don't know what steps we may take to get these treaties. But I say no one nation is going to keep me forever in a state of war with other countries. While I do not commit myself to any method, the way will have to be found. We cannot go on in this way. It is indefensible.

"When the United States offered a 25-year treaty to keep Germany disarmed, I thought it was a reasonable time to grapple with Nazism and I welcomed it. So did my colleagues in the government. By God! Wouldn't I have liked such a treaty to have been in force at the time of Dunkerque!"

Bevin urged a settlement in middle Europe which "will give us, France and Russia security dependent on the confidence of the great Allies who won the war."

He recalled Britain's proposal of a treaty with Austria which would clear the Danube basin of troops, and cried:

"Let Europe live again, and living will be the quickest way to obliterate the memory of Hitler."

Defends Policy on Spain

Defending his policy with regard to Spain, Bevin said he believed "the problem of Spain has been muddled," and that "if other countries had not interfered in the affairs of Spain, Franco would have gone."

He cautioned against invoking sanctions, because "if you start on that game you will get resentment from the Spanish people instead of support."

"I have said before," he recalled, "that directly you start sanctions, you must prepare for war."

Bevin said he was in closest touch with Spaniards, and "they dread civil war—and so would you."

Speaking of Palestine, Bevin said he was extremely grateful to the United States for its participation in the inquiry commission, but "Palestine is a terrific problem."

"Really, it is a colonial office problem, but I recognize that you cannot any longer leave it as a colonial problem," he said. "It is international.

"I must say to the Jews and Arabs, please put your guns away. Don't blow up the British Tommy who is quite innocent in this business. You are creating another phase of anti-Semitic feeling in the British army. I believe that if both sides did disarm, peace and development would be much earlier."

The foreign secretary said financial issues involved in the problem "are tremendous, and the British chancellor of the exchequer cannot carry it."

"We have suggested to the United States that we have experts right away to consider the ramification of the report together with finances, military commitments, transport and housing, and probably the most vexed problem, the land problem," Bevin said.

British Foreign Secretary Says Sole Issue Now Is Splitup of Europe—Rejects Sanctions Against Spain.

Bournemouth, England, June 12 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin declared in an address today that he would reject the immediate immigration of 100,000 Jews to Palestine and would sign separate peace treaties with defeated European nations if pending peace negotiations continued bogged down among the four principal powers.

He declared, moreover, that he would refuse to apply economic sanctions to Spain.

Bevin's stand was taken in an appearance before the dominant Labor party's annual conference. He won an overwhelming conference indorsement of his policies.

In another action, the Labor party rejected an application of the British Communist party for affiliation. The vote was 2,678,000 to 468,000.

DAY

Critic Is Withdrawn

In a fighting mood and speaking extemporaneously, the Foreign Secretary won adoption of a party conference resolution indorsing his administration of foreign affairs. Five other resolutions, all critical, were withdrawn or defeated.

A resolution for a British break of diplomatic relations with Spain and economic sanctions against that country was defeated by a show of hands.

The issue of the Council of Foreign Ministers in Paris next week, he said, will be whether Europe is to be split into eastern and western blocs.

"Next week that is the issue which is to be settled, if it ever is," Bevin said.

JUN 13 1946

Bars Expansion

"I am not going to be a party to any design in strategy . . . against Russia," Bevin went on.

"Neither will we give one moment's consideration to expansion. But this division of Europe, this awful business of drawing a line from Stettin (Germany) to Albania and behind that this solidified position—if that happens, which God forbid, you will have two camps in Europe and that will be the road to another struggle."

He called for conclusion of a peace treaty with Austria and urged the clearance of occupation troops from the Danube basin.

Method Undisclosed

Declaring he had been asked whether he would sign a separate peace treaty, Bevin said:

"I don't know what steps we may take to get these treaties, but I say no one nation is going to keep me in a state of war forever with other countries."

On Palestine, he said:

"If we put 100,000 Jews in Palestine tomorrow, I would have to put another division of British troops there. I am not prepared to do it."

Asks Work, Patience

"The Jews asked, as I understand it, that in Palestine they should have not merely a home but a Palestinian state so that their voices could be heard in the chancellories of the world.

"That is what I will strive to do, but it is going to take patience and work in order to accomplish it," Bevin declared.

"I must say to the Jews and Arabs: Please put your guns away. Don't blow up the British Tommy, who is quite innocent in this business. You are creating another phase of the anti-Semitic feeling in the British Army.

"I believe that if both sides did disarm, peace and development would be much easier."

Bevin said Palestine "is a terrific problem, really it is a Colonial Office problem, but I recognize that you cannot any longer leave it as a colonial problem. It is international."

Agitation Cited

"The agitation in the United States and particularly in New York for 100,000 Jews to be put into Palestine—and I do not want the Americans to misunderstand me—is because they do not want too many of them in New York," Bevin continued.

The Foreign Secretary said he was "extremely grateful to the United States for taking part in the Palestine commission."

Bevin said the financial issues involved in Palestine "are tremendous and the British Chancellor of the Exchequer cannot carry it. We cannot take on another £200,000,000 ($800,000,000) expenditure on Palestine, and that is really what is involved."

Study Is Proposed

"We have suggested to the United States that we have experts considering the implications of the report together with finances, military commitments, transport and housing, and probably the most vexed problem—the land problem," Bevin said.

He "ventured a thought only" that:

"The more I study the development of Palestine with the Trans-Jordan scheme and the possibility of fertilizing, and the real developments in order to achieve its purpose, I think we shall have to come to the conclusion jointly that the land will have to be publicly owned and leased out and allocated."

Difficulties Seen

Bevin continued:

"If you have to raise the Arab life equal to the Jews, you cannot do it if you take all their land away."

Bevin said he had been working with Arabs and Jews and saw "the possibility of approaching this problem on a really thorough scientific basis."

He voiced belief that, "handled with determination and patience this can be settled as part of the Middle Eastern problem."

"You cannot deal with the Palestine Arabs alone," he said "bound up with this is the great problem of Egypt.

"The policy in Egypt is not quite Churchillian. I don't believe in absolutely exclusive racial states. You cannot sort the world out that way. It is as bad as trying to make Glasgow completely Scotch—impossible."

Says He Got Nowhere

"I said to him, 'Let me know what will suit you,'" Bevin said "I discussed the points where the Russian and British interests meet. I said, 'We cannot help meeting in places and the thing for me and you to do is to keep the ball bearings so greased that there will be no friction when we do meet.'"

With a shrug, he asked:

"What more can I do?"

"I have had discussions with the Russian Ambassador, but you see I don't get anywhere," he continued. "I don't get anything definite, but I am not going to say anything today which will cause ill feelings or trouble, having regard to the further efforts I am going to make next week."

Bevin will meet in Paris June 15 with Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov, Secretary of State James F. Brynes and the French Foreign Minister, perhaps Georges Bidault, at another conference of the leading Foreign Ministers.

Nothing To Do, He Says

Bevin said he had proposed reciprocal air services between London and Moscow.

"I was told that would never be done and that we should only on special occasions and by special arrangements be allowed to fly British aircraft in," he said.

"If we cannot get reciprocity, what can I do? I cannot go to war and force them. I cannot do things like that. I can only ask them."

Discusses U.S. Offer

Speaking of the United States' offer of a 25-year-treaty to keep Germany disarmed, Bevin declared:

"Wouldn't I have liked such a treaty to have been in force at the time of Dunkerque!" Then he continued: "There are minds in America which represent the very flower of liberal and progressive thought. Am I going to say to America, 'You have General Motors or something I don't like and I don't like you'?

"No, I grasp the hand of every progressing soul in the world in order to get peace."

Opening the debate, Minister of State Philip Noel-Baker scored the "intellectuals who sneered at this United Nations business and at the same time deprecated the "easy optimism of those who thought they could make it a success."

"The only way in which we can remain united with the Soviet Union and the United States," he declared, "is to found our policy on Article 2 of the Charter—to accept the Socialist principles that the interests of the nations are not in conflict but are common interests which can only be promoted by common action."

Held Great Opportunity

"There never was a greater chance in the history of mankind to solve this problem," he said. "I say to the Arabs and Jews, theirs is a great territory. I beg of them not to push their particular points of view. . . . I cannot accept the position that the Jews in Europe or elsewhere should be excluded. We must strive to see that Jews in the country of their adoption should observe the laws of that country."

Bevin said he could not bring himself to accept the theory that because a man is a Jew, "he must be hounded out of a country."

"I would strive to bring him back on terms of equality with other citizens," Bevin said. "Never was there a greater chance for statesmanship than the Arabs and the Jews now have to solve their problems."

Favors Conference

With hardly a pause for breath, Bevin turned to the Spanish problem, saying:

"I think the problem of Spain has been muddled. I believe if other countries had not interfered in the affairs of Spain, Franco would have gone."

He said he was ready "to consult with the United States and France at any moment in connection with the Spanish problem."

He disclosed he had been "in the closest possible touch with the Spanish people, and added:

"They dread civil war, and so would you."

Rebuffed, He Says

Of the resolution before the party conference calling for economic sanctions against Spain, Bevin declared:

"I urge that the resolution advocating economic sanctions is not a wise thing to adopt. I have said before that directly you start on sanctions, you must prepare for war. If you start on that game you will get resentment from the Spanish people instead of support."

Bevin said the great enemies to British-Russian friendship "are the Russian supporters in this country."

He recalled that he had offered to extend the twenty-year British-Russian treaty of friendship for 50 years but had met with rebuff from Premier Stalin, who insisted that the pact would need an amendment. (ADD)

Partial Text of Bevin Talk

JUN 13 1946

BOURNEMOUTH, England, June 12 (AP)—A partial text of Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's address to the Labor party conference today:

Regarding the agitation in the United States, and particularly New York, for 100,000 Jews to be put into Palestine, I hope it will not be misunderstood in America if I say, with the purest of motives, that that was because they did not want too many of them in New York.

Those 100,000 did not touch the fringe of the problem of the refugees in Europe. I invited the United States to join with us in grappling with this problem. I am extremely grateful to them for taking part in the Commission (of Inquiry on Palestine).

Do you want a settlement of this problem? If you do, I would suggest to you that you leave the thing where it is, after I have explained what is happening.

In Palestine there are illegal armed forces. If we put 100,000 Jews in Palestine tomorrow, I would have to put another division of British troops there. I am not prepared to do it. This business grew, I know, out of 1937 and the White Paper and all the agitation, but I must say to the Jews and Arabs:

"Please put your guns away. Do not blow up the British Tommy, who is quite innocent in this business. You are creating another phase of anti-Semitic feeling in the British army."

The commission quite rightly said that these illegal armies on both sides ought to be disarmed. I believe that if both sides do disarm, then peace and development can be much easier.

Financial Issues

Secondly, the financial issues involved in this business are tremendous, and the British Chancellor of the Exchequer cannot carry them. Taxation in this country is at such a point that we cannot take on expenditure of another £200,000,000 ($800,000,000) on Palestine, for that is really what is involved. It is not merely the taking of people and putting them there.

Therefore, the Prime Minister and I have suggested to the United States that we have experts right away and consider the implications of this report (of the Inquiry Commission) together — financial, military, transport, housing, and what is probably the most vexed problem of all, the land problem.

I am not committing myself, but I think I may venture a thought:

The more I study the development of Palestine with the Trans-Jordan scheme, and the possibility of fertilizing—I do not know whether it is scientifically possible—and the real development, in order to achieve this purpose, I think we shall have to come to a conclusion quickly that the land will have to be publicity owned, and that it will have to be leased out, perhaps by an arbitration tribunal, and allocated, because if you have to raise the Arab to the standard of the Jews, you cannot do it if you take away their land.

You have to balance these things very carefully, and I see a possibility of approaching this problem on a really thorough and scientific basis. President Roosevelt and the British government both gave a pledge that we would consult the Arabs and the Jews. This famous mandate moves me with the feeling that it is so drawn that it can be argued both ways.

It is a promise to two people, and I do hope in the future none of us will give ambiguous promises to people capable of two interpretations.

I came into this Jewish problem in the 1929 government. I have been working with the Arabs and the Jews. I believe, handled properly and with patience, this can be settled, as somebody said, as a part of a Middle Eastern problem. You cannot deal with the Palestine Arabs alone. The Arab League has become a fact, and you cannot ignore it.

In Touch With League

While we have no alliance with it, it is a governmental thing and we are in touch with it.

Bound up with this is the problem of Egypt, and the policy of Egypt is not quite Churchillian. But all these things are acting and inter-acting together, and I welcome the statement I saw in the press yesterday in which the Arab League approached this problem. It is not too recalcitrant, and not so hostile as they have been.

I would ask the Jews this: "While I agree with a Palestinian state of some kind, I don't believe in the absolutely exclusively racial states, because you cannot sort the world out that way."

You might just as well try to do it in England with Welshmen and Scotsmen.

It is a different thing to have a state in which you have equality and from which you can appoint ambassadors to represent the people of that state, whether Jew or Arab.

What I am striving for is: In Palestine there should be not merely a home but a Palestinian state so that from there there is a voice in the chancelleries of the world whenever the Jews or Arabs in that territory are attacked.

I say to the Arabs and Jews: "There is a great territory. There are millions of people. I beg of you not to push your particular points of view to a point perpetuating disagreement, but to strive with us to put agreement in its place, constitutionally, diplomatically and territorially, in the belief that this anguish you have suffered might be put to an end."

I cannot accept the position that the Jews in Europe or anywhere else should be excluded (from their home country). I know they have had these terrible gas chambers. I know the horrors. But when you have done all you can in Palestine, then there will still be many left. I must try for the equality of the Jews in the country of their adoption, for Jews to observe the laws of the country of their adoption, while the Jews themselves must enjoy all the rights of that country as they do in Great Britain — as everybody does in this country.

Speaks on Spain

(Bevin spoke then of Spain.)

I believe if other countries had not intervened in the internal affairs of Spain, Franco would have been gone.

I have been in the closest possible touch with the Spanish people and my experience is that they dread civil war—and so would you. They lost more people in that civil war than Great Britain lost in the great war.

I believe that the policy we are following is the right one. Now the question has gone to the Security Council. I must confess I have not read in detail the whole Council's report, owing to pressure of work, but I propose to do that tomorrow.

But I do urge that the resolution at this conference which advocates economic sanctions which will result in penalizing the ordinary man in Spain is not the wise thing to adopt.

(He recalled that on previous occasions, he had said that directly a country supported sanctions it must be prepared for war.)

I do not believe in this business of going into strikes and troubles, as if nothing is going to happen.

You will get the resentment of the Spanish people instead of their support. They are anxious not to be drawn into turmoil again, but if left alone there are wide classes in Spain anxious to get rid of Franco.

I have never been enamored by talk of withdrawal of ambassadors. I do not think an ambassador is so important as that. We withdrew our Ambassador from Russia years ago, but we never changed Russia's policy. I am told that we should withdraw the Ambassador from Spain. A gesture without a positive policy behind it is really valueless.

While I cannot say exactly the steps we are taking, I am ready to consult with the United States and France, which are more directly concerned at any moment, in connection with this Spanish problem.

Turns to Russia

The next resolution deals with the U. S. S. R.

This resolution looks very innocent, but what does it imply?

It implies, in the first instance, that I have not been sympathetic to Russia. I think that was what it was intended to imply. . . .

The resolution says I have not discussed nor attempted to discuss the treaty with Russia (the Anglo-Russian twenty-year treaty of alliance). The proposer knows better than that, because I have reported it to the House (of Commons). Why do they say these things?

I discussed the treaty in Moscow. I offered to extend it for fifty years. Generalissimo Stalin said I should need to amend it, and I said: "Let me know what would suit you."

I discussed the point where the British and Russian interests met.

I said: "We cannot help meeting in places, and the thing for you and me to do is to get the ball-bearings greased so there shall be no friction where we do meet. I am willing to do it."

What more can we do?

But, you see, I don't get anything definite. But I am not going to say anything today which will cause ill-feeling or further trouble, having regard to the steps I am to take in Paris next week.

Sir Stafford Cripps (president of the Board of Trade) offered to fly to Moscow to discuss trade. No one has been more anxious than I to try and get timber for our houses. Cripps has done all he can, but if you get no response, why blame us?

Regarding cultural relations, every newspaper in this country prints every speech Generalissimo Stalin or Mr. Molotov utters. The speech I made in the House of Commons has not yet appeared in a single issue in the Russian press.

What is the reason? Why are the people of Russia not allowed to know what is happening elsewhere? We are not holding it up.

We have introduced the B. B. C. broadcast to Russia, and we are thankful to Russia for allowing us to do so.

I proposed in Moscow that we should open up a direct reciprocal air service between Moscow and London. I was told that would never be done, and that only on special occasions would we be allowed to fly aircraft in.

"A Closed Situation"

If I cannot get reciprocity, what can I do? I cannot go to war and force them. I cannot do that. Have you realized what a block it is? What a closed situation it is? It may be their policy. I deny the right of members of this conference to come to me and criticize me for not trying.

In Persia (Iran), where we have had difficulty, I proposed a commission should go there, and the only thing we broke down on was that I stipulated that you had to get the concurrence of the Persian government. We cannot force it on them. I have put forward ideas that might have avoided all the trouble we have had in Persia, and solved the problems in Persia.

I stipulated our troops should be withdrawn, no matter what happened anywhere else. If I know the old imperialist mind, if Russia had not withdrawn, it would have been an excuse to leave ours there. I move by example. And it may be on the habis of examples that in the end it will win out.

The problem of Germany is a ital one. France wants to separate the Ruhr. I don't blame her. I can understanad the French approach. I say to M. Blum: "I have never once criticized France. I always took the view that with the losses you sustained in the last yar there was no time for you to recover in this war. The great bloodletting of 1914-'18 told its story and did its terrible work."

When a country has been invaded three times by Germany, you have to put yourselves in their place and understand the feeling of insecurity, and it is very hard not to meet what they suggest. I have tried to study Germany, and one proposal I have put forward to the French, Belgians and Dutch in a preliminary way is that we should try to make the Ruhr an European industrial center—not a German one—under international control.

If you rely purely on reparations, and the mere attempt to suppress 66,000,000 in dire povertf, they will find a way out sooner or later, and therefore, I say, use those great resourves, not for Germany, but to raise the standard of life in Europe. Let the great products of the Ruhr be semi-manufactured, and let the finishing ends flow into France, Yugoslavia and Hungary.

The quick conversion to war comes from the control of the finishing end of the industry, and it is there that the key to security really lies.

Fights Division of Europe

I have asked that the French shall study my plan. I am studying the French plan. We have not come to a dogmatic decision. In the meantime, I confess I have been responsible for costing the Chancellor of the Exchequer £80,000,000 a year. Why? Because I fought against the division of Europe. I dread it. I shall continue to fight against it.

I was asked would I sign a separate peace treaty contrary to the decisions arrived at during the war? I don't know what steps we will take to get peace treaties, but I say no one nation is going to keep me in a state of war forever with other countries. While I don't commit myself to any method, a way will have to be found. We cannot go on in this way. It is indefensible.

With regard to the quotation from my speech about America, which has been read, America may be a capitalist country, but that does not mean that she will always be. There are great forces moving in the United States, and when they move they move very quickly. They did in the war.

They are a mighty force, and when the United States offered a twenty-five-year treaty to keep Germany disarmed—which I thought a reasonable time to really grapple with Nazism, and uproot it—I welcomed it, and so did my colleagues in the government.

And, by God, would not I have loved such a treaty in 1940 at the time of Dunkerque, instead of having to wait all those months before lease-lend and American troops and resources came to the aid of civilization.

It is not for me or any foreign minister to question the economic system of any other country. Russia is socialized. We are partly socialized. America can believe in private enterprise. The great task of Great Britain is to weld these forces together to keep the peace, and if that paragraph is read as a whole it will be seen that not only did I welcome the treaty, but I said that the proposal came from that part of America which has a vision.

Dispute Western Bloc Claim

There are minds in America which represent the very flower of liberal and progressive thought, and when it finds its way through the State Department in proposals of this kind, have I to say: "I don't like you?" No, I grasp the hand of every progressive soul in the world in order to try and get peace.

It is said we are setting up a western bloc. It ill become those who do—when you see an eastern bloc in existence—to accuse those who have done nothing.

I have deliberately not pressed for an alliance with France or the western powers, because I have been actuated all the time in this approach not to divide Europe.

Next week that is the issue that has got to be settled, if it ever is. That is the issue.

I hope this conference will believe that I do my best in these debates here, and in the House, to tell the truth. I am not going to play for cheers. I cannot help it if sometimes the Tories cheer me. They didn't cheer me on the trades disputes act, or on Egypt.

But it has become a fetish. Many of the most unpleasant things in life are done at a time when you are a little bit unpopular. At least you have to think where you are going.

I am not going to be a party, so long as I hold this office, to any design in strategy, in allotment of forces in arranging our defenses, which we must still have, to attack Russia. I will be no party to it. I don't believe there is a single soul in the Cabinet who would lend one atom of thought to it or allow it to occur.

Neither will we give one moment's consideration to expansion. This division of Europe, this awful business of drawing a line from Stettin to Albania, and behind that this solidified position—if that happens, God forbid, you will have two camps in Europe by force of events, and that will be the road to another struggle.

I say to Generalissimo Stalin and Mr. Molotov, 'We will not divide you.'

I have offered, with Mr. Byrnes, and said: "Come into our zone, examine what is happening, and see what is done there. Don't accuse us of not carrying out the treaty without a single fact. But let me come

Great Britain would be the main link in the regional systems, he explained, with the dominions controlling their spheres of influence.

The United Kingdom, he suggested, should assume responsibility for western Europe and the Middle East, Australia and New Zealand for southeast Asia and the Southern Pacific, and a South African union including foreign colonial powers for Africa.

The North American regional plan, he said, would be "by far the simplest to frame."

REDS TALK OF PARIS

London, June 12 (A. P.).—The Moscow radio said today that there was "no substitute for team work among the principal Powers" at the impending Paris Foreign Ministers' Conference.

The broadcast said that certain American and British publications tended "to harp more and more on a single note" in an attempt to apply "high pressure" to the Soviet Union.

"Common agreement on the part of all participants at the Paris conference is the great hope of the world, its hope for real peace," the broadcast added.

U.N. Still Deadlocked On Franco Spain Plan

By Harrison

New York, June 12 (AP)—The United Nations Security Council remained deadlocked on Franco Spain tonight despite efforts of Herschel V. Johnson, acting United States delegate, to work out an acceptable modification of recommendations of the Council's subcommittee on Spain.

NIGHT

Hopes that an agreement might be reached before the Council meets at 10.30 A.M. tomorrow faded when a Russian spokesman indicated that Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, still felt the subcommittee's recommendations did not go far enough.

The subcommittee report proposes that the Council transfer to the General Assembly Poland's charges that the Franco regime threatens world peace, and asks the Assembly to call for a world-wide diplomatic rupture with Spain unless Generalissimo Francisco Franco steps down by September.

on the wisdom of isolating Spain as a potential menace to peace.

Hope To Close Gap

Spain is barred from the United Nations, but the subcommittee has expressed a hope that the step it recommends would result in the riddance of Generalissimo Franco, make Spain an acceptable member and thus close the last gap in the world-security system envisioned by the United Nations.

Otherwise, it is argued, the Franco regime would remain in an outlaw role with respect to any development of atomic energy which might be undertaken in secrecy with the potential of Spain's uranium deposits.

Spain would thus be a stumbling block for a United States plan for international control of the natural sources of atomic energy.

Canada Included

This plan will be presented to the commission on atomic energy which meets in open session Friday with all the Council nations represented—plus Canada because of her part in developing the atom bombs used to end the war with Japan.

The American proposals were expected to embrace elements of the recently announced Acheson-Lilienthal program calling for control of the sources of uranium.

This program looks to the formation of an international "Atomic Development Authority." Mining or possessing the raw materials for atomic developments except under the ADA would be illegal, but Spain has these and has asserted her right to undertake atomic development in the interests of "national defense."

GRAND MUFTI USED FALSE PASSPORT TO LEAVE FRANCE

A. Golobey

PARIS, June 12—(AP) A source close to the Foreign office said tonight it had been determined officially that the Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin Effendi Al Husseini, left here for Cairo May 29 on a Trans-World Airlines plane, using a false p[illegible]

NIGHT

(A Reuters dispatch from Jerusalem quoted Dr. Izzat Tannous, secretary of the Arab Higher committee, as saying the Mufti "is safe" and "probably is in Syria." This was the first time any Arab official has lent his name to speculation on the whereabouts of the Mufti.)

The new report from the Foreign office source was the latest in a series of conflicting rumors on the escape from exile of the man whose appearance in the tense Middle East at the present critical time would have an electrifying effect.

Just a short time before, other usually reliable sources here said the Mufti, exiled by the British before the war for anti-British activity, left Paris June 4 on an Air France plane, which was supposed to have taken him directly to Damascus, Syria.

But in Damascus, British authorities expressed certainty that the Mufti had not arrived by plane.

The Mufti's flight from exile came at a time when the Arab league was discussing means to combat the British-American committee recommendation for immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine. The Mufti, spiritual leader of Palestine's Arabs, has been one of the most implacable foes of Jewish immigration. (ADD)

Earlier today the Grand Mufti's disappearance was discussed by the Cabinet, and Information Minister Gaston de Ferre said that the Cabinet confirmed the dismissal of Rene des Vaux, Director of Judiciary Police, as a result of the disappearance. (ADD)

OFFICERS REFUSE TO GIVE TESTIMONY IN LICHFIELD CASE

JUN 13 1946

D. DOANE

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany, June 12.—(AP) Lt. Granville Cubage of Oklahoma City asked today for an indefinite recess in his court martial on charges of mistreating guardhouse prisoners until he can obtain testimony from five officers who refused to answer his attorney's questions.

The officers, all facing charges in connection with operation of the U. S. Army's Lichfield, England, guardhouse, invoked an Army law which permits witnesses to remain silent if their testimony might tend to incriminate them.

The military court adjourned until tomorrow without ruling on the request for postponement.

Cubage's attorney, Lt. Col. William E. Parker of East Hampton, Mass., said he was attempting to establish through the officer witnesses that Cubage was not officially responsible for discipline at Lichfield, where many soldier witnesses said prisoners were beaten and kicked.

Their refusal to answer questions "has placed an unreasonable burden on the accused," Parker said.

He asked the court to delay further hearings until the officers have been "freed from the operation of the plan announced by Gen. Joseph T. McNarney" and they "no longer can take advantage" of claims that their testimony might be self-incriminating.

Parker explained to reporters outside the court that he referred to McNarney's statement last month that enlisted men were tried first in the Lichfield cases to obtain evidence against any officers who might be responsible.

The officers who have refused to testify are Col. James A. Killian, of Highland Park, Ill., former commander of the 10th Reinforcement depot at Lichfield, Maj. Richard E. Lobuono, of East Pittsburgh, Pa., former Lichfield provost marshal; Maj. Herbert H. Blum, Chicago, former Lichfield inspector; Lt. Leonard W. Ennis, of Peekskill, N. Y., a former Lichfield executive officer, and Capt. Joseph A. Robertson of Akron, Ohio. (ADD)

Officials Report He Left France on Tuesday of Last Week by Air for Damascus.

Paris, June 12 (A. P.).—Officials reported today that Haf Amin el Husseini, the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, left France on Tuesday of last week aboard an Air France plane which took him directly to Damascus, Syria. He was traveling on a Syrian passport, under Syrian nationality, they added.

Apparently he made no secret of his intentions to depart. He was said to have told a friend at least two weeks earlier that he was leaving France.

As spiritual head of Palestine's 800,000 Moslems, the Grand Mufti was furnished with an automobile by the French Government for the duration of his stay in France, and he had complete freedom of movement, on the stipulation that he notify the Government of his journeys. It was reported today that he had used this automobile to leave his home. He was driven to the house of a friend, where he got out. He sent the automobile on to the home of another friend in Paris, presumably to throw any

FOUR OFFICERS REFUSE TO TALK

JUN 13 1946

Lichfield Commander One of Silent Witnesses.

D. DOANE

Bad Nauheim, June 12 (A. P.).—Four officers accused of cruelty to soldier prisoners in a United States guardhouse at Lichfield, England, refused today to answer questions which they said might tend to incriminate them.

Among them was Col. James A. Kilian of Highland Park, Ill., former commander of the Tenth Replacement Depot at Lichfield. The others were Major Richard E. Lobuono of East Pittsburgh, Pa., former Provost Marshal at the depot; Major Herbert W. Bluhm of Chicago, former depot inspecting officer; and Lieut. Leonard W. Ennis of Peekskill, N. Y., a former Lichfield executive officer.

Ennis has been on trial two weeks. Kilian's trial is due to begin June 17. No date has been set for the trials of Bluhm and Lobuono. All were summoned as defense witnesses in the trial of Lieut. Granville Cubage of Oklahoma City.

Orders One to Answer.

The court, giving the witnesses "the benefit of the doubt as to the propriety" of some questions, upheld all their refusals except one. When Ennis refused to say from whom he received his orders at Lichfield, the court ruled it a proper question and threatened him with military punishment if he did not answer—just as it had previously threatened nineteen enlisted men who refused to testify.

Ennis at first stood pat and the court instructed the prosecutor to report him to the commanding general for discipline. But after conferring with his attorney Ennis decided to answer. He said he received orders from Kilian, Lobuono and from his company commander, Capt. Joseph A. Robertson of Akron, Ohio, who also awaits trial on cruelty charges and similarly refused to answer some questions yesterday.

"I was told about running the guardhouse by Lieut. Cubage," Ennis added.

The defense has contended that Cubage was not "prison officer" as alleged and that he was not responsible for the discipline of prisoners. (ADD)

INSISTS GERMAN LOOTING WAS LEGAL

JUN 13 1946

J. Reedy

Nuernberg, June 12 (A. P.).—Arthur Seyss-Inquart, former Reichs-Commissioner for the Netherlands, testified before the International Tribunal today that though the Dutch people "considered our conduct pillaging," the looting of Holland was legal, because German decrees had made legitimate the confiscation of Dutch treasures.

The prosecution presented records showing that the Germans had been advised by their commanders that they could take from the Dutch "all they could carry."

Seyss-Inquart said that he personally both instigated and carried out orders to confiscate the fortune and property of the Royal House because Queen Wilhelmina in exile had made inflammatory speeches against Germany. He said he protested against the evacuation of Jews from Holland to Mauthausen and Buchenwald, but acknowledged that he never complained of shipments to Oswiecim.

"I thought Auschwitz (Oswiecim) was a collection camp where Jews were to remain until the end of the war or until some other decision was made," he testified. Almost 3,000,000 died at that infamous death camp in Poland.

Seyss-Inquart said he was unaware that the ashes of Jews were sent back to Holland from concentration camps on payment of seventy-five florins (about $30) by their families.

GASPERI ACCORDED POWERS OF STATE

Italian Council Acts As King's Stand Is Unchanged

J. McKnight

Rome, Thursday, June 13 (AP)—The Italian Council of Ministers in an order of the day authorized Premier Alcide de Gasperi today to assume the powers of provisional chief of state.

The order was the Government's reply to a letter from King Umberto [illegible] the King reaffirmed his intention to remain chief of state until the Supreme Court renders a definite verdict on the results of last week's plebiscite.

It made no reference to Umberto's position, although Ricardo Lombardi, Minister of Transport, had said earlier that a compromise solution of the country's constitutional crisis was in prospect which would leave Umberto as nominal chief of state while delegating acting powers to de Gasperi.

King Expected To Leave Rome

Lombardi said Umberto had consented verbally to leave Rome but not Italy, pending the Supreme Court's final ruling on the vote June 18.

Royalist sources said the King still was here tonight but indicated he might leave the capital tomorrow.

The Cabinet position as stated in the order was that de Gasperi automatically becomes chief of state upon the Supreme Court's announcement of a Republican majority in the referendum. The court still has to pass, however, on Monarchist charges of irregularity in the voting.

The order stated that the election law Umberto signed when he was lieutenant general of the realm provided for the automatic elevation of the Premier, and that the King's letter today "cannot be considered to have modified the situation."

Many Injured In Rome Clash

Before the order was issued strong police forces with cavalry and tanks broke up a Monarchist demonstration threatening a full-scale riot in the heart of Rome last night. Bands of Monarchists and Republicans clashed elsewhere in the capital. Many were injured.

Heavily reinforced police broke up the clash in Rome's Piazza del Popolo with clubs and swords. The crowd, which had been in an ugly mood, thinned and dispersed under the weight of the police forces thrown against them.

Approximately 40 persons were injured, and them Ciro Verdiani, Rome's chief of police, who was clubbed over the head. Bombs were thrown but failed to explode. Many of the demonstrators were arrested.

King For Pacification

The King's letter, dated today and addressed to de Gasperi, stated that he was "reaffirming once again my decided will to respect the word of the majority of the Italian people expressed by the voting electors and confirmed by definite judgment of the Supreme Court."

Umberto expressed a desire to bring "a maximum contribution" to the pacification of the people. The King's letter was signed "affectionately yours."

In major cities of Italy heavily armed troops and police mounted guard to prevent Monarchist hotheads from turning a series of riots into civil war.

Police held the Piazza del Popolo in the center of Rome in a virtual state of siege. They charged in to disperse Monarchists who battled in the big square with Republicans.

Ragged bands of men carrying long clubs and iron bars roamed the streets in other quarters of Rome, obviously ready for trouble. Sporadic incidents were reported.

Dead Rises To 11 In Naples

Heavy police and carabinieri forces were rushed early in the day to Naples, but that city remained quiet as a scheduled mass demonstration by pro-Republicans was called off at the insistence of Giuseppe Romita, Minister of the Interior.

The number of dead in Naples from yesterday's violent Monarchist rioting rose to eleven as four of more than 50 wounded succumbed. Late tonight the city was described as "very quiet," although troops and police guarded each street corner. Six armored cars mounting .37 mm. cannon waited in the center of the city directly in front of American Red Cross headquarters.

Tense quiet, too, was reported in Taranto, where scores were injured in last night's demonstrations, during which Monarchists and Republicans battled with knives, pistols, rifles and hand grenades.

Allied Policy Unchanged

The flag of the kingdom of Italy still flew over the Quirinal, the Royal Palace. A block away the Government Palace, the Viminale, flew the flag of the republic, minus the shield of the House of Savoy.

Allied diplomatic sources expressed the view that the Italian authorities had the situation throughout the country well in hand for the time being, and insisted the Allied policy should remain one of hands off. One American diplomat said the Allies would not intervene unless disorder threatened the military situation in Italy.

Allied sources said it had been confirmed in British and American quarters that United States Rear Admiral Ellery W. Stone, chief Allied commissioner, and British Ambassador Sir Noel Charles had expressed to the Government the view that the King was on "legally firm ground" in awaiting the court's second ruling before vacating his throne.

Republicans Dispute View

The Republicans violently disputed such a view. They said the decree providing for the plebiscite was clear in specifying that the republic came into being automatically at the moment the court pronounced its victory in the referendum, regardless of legalistic "quibbles" over missing precincts and charges of fraud.

The newspaper La Voce Repubblicana, organ of Randolfo Pacciardi's Republican party, demanded the King's arrest on the ground that he was "outside the law."

Riot Calls Send Tanks To Plaza In Mid-Rome

Rome, June 12 (AP)—Strong police forces held the Piazza del Popolo in the heart of Rome in a virtual state of siege tonight to prevent Monarchist-Republican clashes as King Umberto II still balked at making way for the republic.

Equipped with heavy tanks, cavalry and police rushed to the big square, where a budding monarchist demonstration threatened to break out into a large scale riot.

Rioters Wield Iron Bars

Clashes between monarchists and republicans, armed with sticks and iron bars, had resulted in broken heads in Rome and a tense situation continued in Naples as Italy remained for another day in the strange situation of being a republic with a king.

Late in the day, however, the situation at Naples was considerably eased when the Naples trade unions consented to call off their pro-republican demonstration at the instance of Giuseppe Romita, Minister of the Interior.

Police Rush To Scene

Truckloads of police were rushed to the Piazza del Popolo in Rome where the headbreaking started. Many of the police wore civilian clothes with armbands, indicating the government was recruiting new forces to deal with the disorders.

Earlier troops armed with cannon and machine guns took up positions on the streets of Naples to deal with expected trouble from the scheduled republican demonstration demanding that reluctant King Umberto surrender his vestige of royalty.

The monarchists had their day yesterday in Naples and Taranto.

For hours, a surging throng of 10,000 to 20,000 monarchists besieged Communist headquarters in Naples with gasoline bombs and gunfire in battles which raged over most of the city and left seven dead and more than 50 wounded.

28 Wounded In Taranto

Giornale d'Italia reported from Taranto that monarchists and republicans clashed yesterday in that southern port city and that 28 were wounded and fifteen arrested.

The Cabinet was unable to persuade Umberto to leave his throne. His queen and children are in Portugal and his bags were packed when the supreme court on Monday ruled that while the republic had been voted, judgment must still be given on petitions charging electorial fraud.

Soldiers in groups of four or five were stationed on every street in Naples. Truck loads of troops with machine guns were placed in every fourth or fifth street.

Armored Cars At Palace

The republican-supported trade unionists scheduled demonstrations before the royal palace in Naples. Six armored cars with 37 millimeter cannon were drawn up before the palace, and a like number were placed before the American Red Cross club.

Ten of the wounded at Taranto, were reported in grave condition. Some were policemen.

Meanwhile, the Italian Cabinet worked on a proposal to convoke immediately the newly elected Constituent Assembly. (ADD)

Mihailovic Denies Cooperating With Axis Against Tito Forces

By WILLIAM B. KING

BELGRADE, June 12. — (AP) Gen. Draja Mihailovic testified today that a British mission to Yugoslavia instructed him to destroy Marshal Tito's partisans, and described his relations with the Germans in 1943 as "no cooperation, but haphazard mutual battle" against [illegible].

The Chetnik leader denied that he knowingly cooperated with the enemy, however, and described such action on the part of one of his Chetnik commanders as treason, which "did great damage to the movement." He could do nothing about this, he said, because "I did not know about it at the time."

The prosecution in the third day of Mihailovic's trial on charges of treason and collaboration centered largely on the fourth Axis offensive against Tito's partisans in 1943. Col. William Bailey, identified as a member now of the British mission to Sofia, Bulgaria, was mentioned by Mihailovic as the liaison officer who was with him at the time.

Mihailovic said the British mission to his headquarters, of which Bailey was a member, knew of the offensive against the partisans, because the officer had free movement in the area.

"Col. Bailey said to liquidate the Communists," Mihailovic said in response to a question. However, the British officer did not suggest that Mihailovic take part in the Axis offensive against the partisans, the defendant testified.

Mihailovic had asked a secret session to bring out the testimony on directions received through the British liaison mission, but the court refused and said he could "speak out here."

The grizzled guerrilla leader pinned the blame for cooperation of Chetniks with the Germans on certain of his commanders, and denounced one of these in a sudden burst of emotion.

"It was my greatest mistake that I did not set aside Jevdjevic," Mihailovic declared. "Of all the men in the organization, he did the worst to me."

He referred to D. Jevdjevic, now reported interned in British territory and sought by Yugoslavia as a war criminal. Another unnamed Chetnik commander, Mihailovic said, "was using the enemy in his fight against the partisans," but added that "I don't defend him, because he was doing what he wanted."

"Do you think it was treason?" the court asked.

"Yes," he replied, "and it did great damage to the movement."

"Did not your men have instructions from you which made them feel they were doing well by cooperating with the enemy?"

"No," Mihailovic replied.

"We have such documents," the court said, and a shout of "traitor" rang through the courtroom. The president ordered the shouter ejected.

Mihailovic said he was convinced the German aim in 1943 was to destroy both the Chetniks and Partisans. He said that during the summer he had been pursued by 20,000 Germans.

The president questioned Mihailovic closely on alleged specific incidents of collaboration in that critical year, when, the court charges, clashes involved Partisans on one side and Germans and Chetniks on the other.

Mihailovic said he did not know of any of the alleged instances of actual co-operation at the time, but was "informed later when I could do nothing about it."

Questioned Further

Questioned about co-operation between Chetnik commanders and the Germans and Ustachi (puppet Croat troopers) in Bosnia after the capitulation of Italy, the defendant replied:

"I had forbidden it and I said that if the enemy was near, defend your own territory and take part only that far. I did not know where to group when the Partisans advanced. Each commander had to defend his own territory.

"When the Partisans attacked in Serbia, we defended Serbia. If the Germans came up to our side, we could not prevent it. I know my units were not very far from the Germans, because the Germans frequently pursued us."

When Mihailovic brought Colonel Bailey into the testimony, the Court asked whether Bailey suggested that the Chetniks take part in the Axis offensive against the Partisans. Mihailovic is accused of sharing in the over-all campaign.

King Peter Informed

"No, he did not," the Chetnik leader replied.

In response to another question, he said the exiled London Government of King Peter was informed at all times of his actions.

"Did the Government help and approve your actions during the fourth (Axis) offensive?" the Court asked.

"It was approved—everything I did," Mihailovic said.

"In this period, did the emigré Government send aid?"

"I know material, through the British mission, included arms, money and clothing." (ADD)

MIKHAILOVICH BARES ORDER TO FIGHT TITO

JUN 13 1946

Says British Mission Told Him to Destroy the Partisan Forces.

ADMITS ARMY AIDED NAZIS

Chetnik Leader, on Trial for His Life, Denies He Knew of Assistance at Time.

Belgrade, June 12 (A. P.).—Gen. Draja Mikhailovich testified today in the trial for his life that a British mission to Yugoslavia instructed him to destroy the Partisan forces of Marshal Tito.

The Chetnik leader, accused of treason and collaboration with the Germans, is on trial before a three-man court established by the regime which Tito now heads as Premier. Tito returned on the opening day of the trial from two weeks of conferences in Moscow.

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, June 12 (AP)—Gen. Draja Mihailovic testified today in his trail for his life that a British mission to Yugoslavia instructed him to destroy the partisan forces of Marshal Tito.

The Chetnik leader, accused of treason and collaboration with the Germans, is on trial before a three-man court established by the regime that Tito now heads as premier. Tito returned on the opening day of the trial from two weeks of conferences in Moscow.

Mihailovic, on the stand for the second day, described the relations of his underground troops with the Germans during the occupation of Yugoslavia in 1943 as "not co-operation but haphazard mutual battle."

Secret Session Refused

Mihailovic asked for a secret session of the court to bring out testimony on directives he said he received from a British liaison mission attached to his headquarters. The court refused and told him to "speak out here."

The defendant said British Colonel William Bailey, now attached to the British mission in Bulgaria, was at his headquarters. The prosecutor asked one question as to what Bailey said.

"Colonel Bailey said to liquidate the Communists," Mihailovic declared.

Questioned about his relations with another British liaison officer, Lieut. Col. William Hudson, Mihailovic answered:

"We had conflicts about small things. Only very small things caused conflicts between us."

Question—Was their conflict on the main question of your military operations?

Answer—No, there was not.

"Fighting Each Other"

Mihailovic admitted under questioning that some of his Chetnik forces received ammunition from the Italians.

He said that Chetnik morale was sometimes bad "because we were fighting each other."

Q.—Against whom?

A.—Against the Partisans.

May Try To Call Officers

[Counsel for Mihailovic will ask permission to call British and American officers as witnesses, said a Reuter dispatch from Belgrade.

[A Colonel Bailey and Captain Hudson, both British liaison officers, and Col. Robert McDowell, chief of the United States mission to the Chetnik leader, were the officers expected to be called, it said.]

Taking the witness stand for the second successive day, Mihailovic blamed certain of his commanders for the alleged co-operation of his troops with Axis forces.

One of those whom he mentioned by name was D. Jevdjevic, who is at present reported interned in British territory and whom the Yugoslav Government is seeking to bring to trial as a war criminal.

In a burst of feeling, Mihailovic declared: "It was my greatest mistake that I did not set aside Jevdjevic. Of all the men in the organization, he did the worst things to me."

A 1943 Battle

The court focused attention on a particular battle in 1943, apparently involving Yugoslav partisans on one side and Germans and Chetniks on the other. Mihailovic testified that he had "a clear picture of the operations."

"Did you know of co-operation between the Chetniks and Germans?" he was asked.

"No," Mihailovic replied, asserting that one of his officers "did it all on his own. I was informed later when I could do nothing about it."

Commander, But In Dark

The prosecution asked about other instances of collaboration by Chetnik units, and Mihailovic denied he knew about any of them at the time they occurred.

Question—And who was in command?

Answer—I was supreme commander.

Q.—Did you know your troops in Serbia were co-operating with the Germans in 1943?

A.—No.

"I Forbade Co-Operation"

The prosecutor asked Mihailovic: "After the capitulation of Italy, do you know your commanders co-operated with the Germans and Ustachi [Croatian puppet Storm Troops] in Bosnia?"

"I was forbidding it and I said if the enemy was near, defend your territory and take part only that far," the defendant answered. "I did not know where to group when the Partisans advanced. Each commander had to defend his territory. When the Partisans attacked in Serbia, we defended Serbia. If the Germans came up to our side, we could not prevent it."

Colonel Bailey Mentioned

The testimony turned to the fourth Axis offensive in 1943 against the Partisan army; Mihailovic is accused of sharing in that overall campaign against Tito. The General mentioned that a British liaison officer, Col. William Bailey, now a member of the British mission in Bulgaria, was with him.

"The British mission knew about the action," he testified. "They knew because Colonel Bailey had a free movement in the area.

Question—Was the émigré Government informed of your actions?

Answer—At all times.

Q.—Did the Government help and approve your actions during the fourth offensive?

A.—It was approved—everything I did.

Q.—In this period did the émigré Government send aid?

A.—I know material, through the British mission, included arms, money and clothing.

Accuses Lukacevic

The questioning turned to the work of a Chetnik commander named Lukacevic.

Q.—Was there co-operation between the troops of Lukacevic and the Germans?

A.—Yes, there was. (ADD)

PHOTOGRAPH TRIAL

Belgrade, June 12 (A. P.).—American news photographers were granted equal rights today with all Yugoslav photographers to take pictures at the trial of Gen. Draja Mikhailovich.

Photographers were permitted to operate for 15 minutes at the opening of today's court session. Then all cameras were forbidden for the remainder of the day.

Authorities were working hard to assist foreign correspondents covering the trial. English, Russian and French earphone translations were provided, mimeographed translations of testimony were handed out, and mimeographs of the principal documents introduced were promised.

ATC FORCED TO CUT YUGOSLAVIA TRIPS

JUN 13 1946

Belgrade, June 12 (A. P.).—Announcing the abolition of six weekly flight schedules by the Air Transport Command, Col. Joseph B. Stanley declared today that future A. T. C. flights over Yugo slavia would depend on clearance by the Yugoslav Govern for each individual trip.

Stanley, commander of the 1484th A. A. F. base in Vienna, said the action was based on a Yugoslav note to the United States Embassy saying that henceforth all foreign aircraft would be required to obtain special permission forty-eight hours in advance befor flying over or landing in Yugoslavia.

The embassy has asked for conferences between the two governments looking toward a bilateral air agreement but thus far has received no reply.

SOVIETS GIVEN CLARK PROTEST

JUN 13 1946

Russ Planes Hold Target Practice Over U.S. Airfield

L. Heneghan

Vienna, June 12 (AP)—Russian fighter planes staged target practice over the American airfield at Tulln today, with one plane swooping down on the burst at a red flag over a radio tower, and Gen. Mark W. Clark protested immediately each time to the Soviet command.

DAY

NIGHT

The Soviet fighters fired at a target sleeve towed by another Russian plane directly over the field, but no damage was reported either time.

Probe Promised

In the first incident, at 8.15 A.M., one fighter dived down over the American radio tower and fired a burst at the red flag on top of the antennae. United States soldiers in a near-by shack watched the plane.

Col. Gen. Josef Kurisov, Russian commanding officer in Vienna in the absence of Marshal Ivan Konev, said he had no knowledge of either incident, but promised an immediate investigation.

Tulln airfield is on the outskirts of Vienna.

In the first incident, a Russian fighter towed a target sleeve across the field, and four fighters fired two to three bursts each. Witnesses said the firing was directly over the field at an elevation of 1,500 to 2,000 feet and lasted about two minutes.

Then three hours later eight fighter planes appeared, with a ninth pulling the sleeve. Two bursts were heard in firing lasting about one minute, American officers said.

No U.S. Planes In Air

There were no United States planes in the air at either time.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the Russians had refused, despite a direct request from Clark, to reopen a road to the American airport at Tulln from Vienna, on grounds that it was crowded with Red Army and Austrian transport.

The road had been used for months for communication between Vienna and the airport, but was closed to United States traffic nearly a month ago. American traffic has been using a secondary, less direct route.

Clark Protests To Russians

JUN 13 1946

Vienna, June 12 (AP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark, United States member of the Allied Control Council for Austria, protested twice today to the Russian command against target practice which Russian fighter planes held over the American airfield at Tulln during which a burst was fired at a red flag atop the American radio tower.

Col. Gen. Josef Kurusov, commanding Russian officer in Vienna, during the absence of Marshal Ivan S. Konev, said he had no knowledge of the incident. Kurusov promised an immediate investigation.

The first target practice over the field was held at 8.15 A.M. One Russian fighter towed a target sleeve across the airfield, which is on the outskirts of Vienna, and four fighters fired two or three bursts each.

One of the four fighters dived down over the radio tower, American officers said, and fired a burst at the red flag atop the antennae. United States soldiers in a nearby shack watched this. The firing lasted about two minutes.

Three hours later eight more fighters appeared, with a ninth plane towing a sleeve. Two bursts were heard, the firing lasting about one minute. This also occurred directly over the field. No damage was reported from either incident.

No American planes were in the air at the time.

China Sends Holland Protest Over Deaths

No Prison for Greek Strikers

ATHENS, June 12 (AP).—The Greek government, yielding to vigorous reaction, announced today that a clause providing minimum prison sentences of five years for public-utilities strikers would be deleted from the emergency-measures decree issued four days ago. In addition to allowing freedom to strike, the government said the clause permitting authorities to search homes without warrants would not be applied.

Moscow Reduces Milk Prices

MOSCOW, June 12 (AP)—The prices of milk, cream and cottage cheese were reduced 25 to 30 per cent today at Russian commercial food stores where supplies are sold in unrationed quantities but at high prices. Sour cream was reduced 45 per cent. The Soviet public interpreted the reductions as preliminary to an ending of all food rationing as embodied in the Five-Year Plan.

TWO REFUSE COUNSEL

Jerusalem, June 12 (A. P.).—Two young Jews charged with raiding a British Army camp declined counsel when they went on trial today, saying they did not believe in the justice of the British military court hearing the case.

The men, Michael Aabel, 24, and Yousef Simkhon, 19 years old, are accused of being among a group who, disguised in uniforms of the British Sixth Airborne Division, raided Sarafand Camp on March 6. A British woman welfare worker and a constable were wounded in an exchange of gunfire during the raid.

In another trial a military court sentenced Ygal Frucht, a member of the Jewish Haganah Organization, to fourteen years' imprisonment, and Oved Rabinovitz to four years on charges of carrying firearms and attacking British police. Ahiezer Goldin, a third defendant, was acquitted.

U.S.-Egypt Pact Approved

Cairo, June 12 (AP)—The Egyptian Council of Ministers approved today an agreement between the United States and Egypt over Egypt's purchase of all military installations, including Payne Field, all surplus equipment.

Arabs Ask World Parley To Assist Displaced Jews

JUN 13 1946

C. DAVIDSON

BLUDAN, Syria, June 12—(AP) Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the Arab league, said today the league would suggest an international conference to plan steps for the relief of displaced Jews and all other peoples victimized by the war."

NIGHT

Another source within the league council, now in extraordinary session here to consider the British-American committee report on Palestine, said the league would adopt a resolution suggesting Arab-British talks "without Americans or Jews participating," as a preliminary to placing the Palestine case before the United Nations.

This source said the league might set a Sept. 1 deadline for such talks, "to result in a new British policy of providing for Palestine's eventual independence as an Arab nation." If the talks broke down, Egypt probably would submit the case to the U. N. Security council while another Arab state presented it to the General Assembly, he added.

Azzam Pasha said letters were being drafted by the league in reply to the British and American request for Arab reaction to the inquiry committee's recommendations, which included a suggestion that 100,000 Jews be admitted into Palestine this year and another that Palestine be neither an Arab nor a Jewish national state.

The Arab league secretary said that the reply would embody the suggestion for the international conference, and a rejection of all 10 recommendations in the committee report.

"The peoples of the Arab world," he said, "are just as concerned over humanitarian problems of the world as any other peoples. We wish to share responsibilities in caring for unfortunates, but we also insist that responsibilities be shared by other nations."

Commenting on the possibility of participation by American troops in maintaining order in Palestine, Azzam Pasha said it was causing no concern within the Arab league council, because "the Arabs never have been and never will be strong enough to beat Britain alone, so it makes no difference whether we have to fight one or both of them."

He reiterated that "America has no business interfering in the Palestine case."

"America, we believe, is acting in good faith so far as the humanitarian problem of displaced Jews is concerned, but has no right to try to displace another people to alleviate the suffering of the Jews."

'No Concern' Over Yanks

JUN 13 1946

Bludan, Syria, June 12 (AP)—Possible participation by American troops in maintaining order in Palestine is causing no concern to the Arab League Council, league officials indicated today.

DAY

"The Arabs never have been and never will be strong enough to beat Britain alone," Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, league secretary general said today, "so it makes no difference whether we have to fight one or both."

Asked to comment on the statement by United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes in Washington that talks were planned with Britain on the number of American troops that might be made available in Palestine during increased immigration under the British-American Palestine Committee recommendations, Azzam Pasha declared:

"We have already said America has no business interfering in the Palestine case."

'Wrong Tense' Blamed For New China Flareup

JUN 13 1946

F. Masterson

Peiping, June 12 (AP)—A Communist spokesman today charged that Government Gen. Tu Li-ming had abrogated Chiang Kai-shek's orders for a fifteen-day truce, but United States and Chinese Government officials said he was mistaken.

DAY

The spokesman had asserted that Tu, Government commander in Manchuria, informed executive (Sino-American truce) headquarters here that his troops had assumed the offensive.

Official Explanation

Learning of the Communist's assertion, both United States and Chinese Government representatives at truce headquarters gave this explanation of the misunderstanding:

The Red version apparently originated at an operational officers' conference when a Government officer said that if Communist forces in Manchuria did not stop attacking Government positions, Tu would have to take action.

Merely The Wrong Verb Tense

The spokesman had reported that a Government representative read a cable from Tu reporting that National forces had resumed their advance in Manchuria.

It seemed to be a case of misunderstanding verb tenses.

Government military authorities previously charged that Communists were violating the truce by attacking Lafachan, east of Yungki, and other Government positions. Their charges were first made shortly after the cease fire order was to have become effective, and had been repeated and expanded since. Yesterday Communists also charged that Government forces had violated the truce.

Americans "Pessmistic"

The Communist spokesman here said that both Walter Robertson, United States commissioner, and United States Brig. Gen. Henry A. Byroade, director of operations at executive headquarters, expressed pessimism over the present outlook in Manchuria.

In Nanking, meanwhile, the Government's Central News Agency said Government Major Lei Fengchiang, member of a communications team, was killed Monday by a Communist ambush while on an inspection tour with a Communist representative. The agency said the Communist had excused himself just before the shooting. It did not give the locale.

These observers suggested the Communists hoped to force the Marines to withdraw either by involving them in a clash or by causing them to evacuate their bases to avoid a fight.

Cut Off, Except By Sea

Marine Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey flew to Tsingtao yesterday to confer with Brig. Gen. William T. Clement, garrison commander.

The Chinese Government's defense line cuts through the airfield.

Admiral Charles Cooke, commander of the United States 7th Fleet, is in Nanking, where he presumably will discuss the situation with United States General Marshall, who is trying to negotiate peace between the Communists and the Government.

Tsingtao effectively is land-blockaded by the Communists. The Government could send reinforcements—it garrison is reported outnumbered 30,000 to 9,000—only by sea with United States aid. Because of the tense situation, observers doubt that Marshall would authorize such intervention.

4 Officials Accused In Chinese Rice Fraud

Shanghai, June 12 (AP)—Four sectional chiefs of the Ministry of Food were accused today of being involved in a billion-dollar ($400,000 United States money) Ghinese Government rice scandal.

The charges were included in an official report to Nanking after investigation here.

Among those named was Thomas S. T. Yang, American-trained food expert and head of the Shanghai office of the Ministry of Food. He now is visiting in the United States.

China Reds Seen Trying To Embroil U.S. Marines

JUN 13 1946

S. Ross

Shanghai, June 12 (AP)—Reports of Chinese Communist attacks within six miles of United States Marines garrisoned at Tsingtao airfield caused concern in Shanghai today, but United States authorities withheld comment.

Chinese Government and most foreign quarters said that if the Communists actually tried to capture Tsingtao they would do so with the deliberate intention of embroiling the Marines, and hoping to create a howl in the United States for the withdrawal of all American forces from China.

Would Affect Other Bases

They said that if the Communists forced withdrawal of the Marines from Tsingtao—strategic rail center in the eastern province of Shantung—they likely would try the same thing at other Marine bases, Peiping, Tientsin and Chinwangtao.

Chinese Reds Accused Of Truce Offensive

Nanking, June 12 (AP)—Peng Hsuen-Pei, Minister of Information, tonight accused the Chinese Communists of "trying to cut China in two."

He declared the Communists were utilizing a period of peace negotiations—during the current fifteen-day truce—to launch military surprise attacks, and asserted they were intensifying their offensive in east China with the aim of gaining full control of strategic Shantung province.

In line with this aggressive aim, he said, Communist forces were now massing in Shantung for attacks on Tsinan and Tsingtao.

Full-Scale Fighting In Vietnam Reported

Hanoi, Indo-China, June 12 (AP)—Reports from the mountainous regions north of Hanoi today said full-scale fighting has broken out between regular troops of the Vietnam Republic and extremist groups.

Dissension between Viet Minh, the Government party of Vietnam, and VNQDD, the opposition league, has intensified since Ho Chi-minh, President of Vietnam, left to negotiate with the French in Paris. The VNQDD, which reportedly now controls six of the eleven Vietnam provinces, contends President Ho is selling out the republic to the French. France has recognized Vietnam as a free state within Indo-China.

Formosans Face Starvation

Nanking, June 12 (AP)—Five hundred thousand of Formosa's 6,000,000 people face starvation, but the import of fertilizer from the United States, Canada and China is expected to boost food production, Gen. Ken Chih-gen, secretary-general of the Formosan Government, said today.

18,000 JAPS SLIP INTO SOUTH KOREA

R. Roberts

Seoul, June 12 (A. P.).—Eighteen thousand Japanese—most of them civilians who slipped into South Korea illegally from Manchuria and Russian-occupied North Korea—will be shipped to Japan within a week.

Footsore, weary and hungry, carrying small children and meager bundles of possessions, the Japanese are held in refugee camps in Seoul and several seaport towns, awaiting transportation in Japanese-manned Liberty ships and landing craft. The American Military Government and the Seventh Division established the camps and are feeding the refugees.

The movement into South Korea began early in March, and by the end of May was estimated to have reached a rate of 2,000 a day. Col. J. B. Coolidge of Helena, Ark., Chief of Plans and Training, Twenty-fourth Corps, said that the United States Army has protested to the Russians, and that the "indications are that the Russians are taking action to stop it."

Deputy Chief Named in Korea

SEOUL, Korea, June 12 (AP)—Col. Arthur S. Champeny of Wellington, Kan., today was appointed Deputy Military Governor of South Korea, succeeding Brig. Gen. Josef R. Sheetz, who returned to the United States to instruct in the Army Military Government School at Carlisle, Pa. Lieut. Col. Seth Wiard of Norwalk, Conn., succeeded Colonel Champeny as civil administrator.

NEW CABINET IN SIAM

BANGKOK, June 12.—(AP) Premier Pridi Phanomyong announced tonight formation of a new cabinet which is the same as he previously led with the exception of two places. The newcomers are Thongin Purinhat, minister of industry, and Admiral Thawan Thamrong, minister of justice. The old cabinet was dissolved with the death Sunday of Siam's King Ananda Mahidel.

Siam Insists Death Was Accident

BANGKOK, June 12 (AP).—Siamese police, taking cognizance of rumors that King Ananda Mahidol committed suicide or was murdered, have issued a detailed report reiterating that the youthful monarch's death last Sunday was accidental. The report said that all appearances, including the position of the wound and the weapon—a .45 caliber automatic pistol—indicated an accident, and that the arrangement of the guards made it impossible for any intruder to enter the king's apartment.

tion of repatriates into Japanese national NIGHT

Atcheson said figures for the number of Japanese brought home from Manchuria may be incorrect, "because we do not know where all the Japanese troops and other nationals captured by the Soviet Army are situated at present."

Russian Remains Silent

Then, looking across the huge Council table at Lieut. Gen. Kuzma Derevyanko, he continued:

"Perhaps the Soviet member will be in a position to furnish that information. According to the Potsdam Declaration, Japanese soldiers shall be permitted to return to their homes and lead peaceful lives."

Derevyanko listened to his interpreter repeat the remarks, but remained silent.

The council then postponed discussion of MacArthur's request.

It was a smiling Derevyanko who heard his thrice-repeated request for information on a leftist Japanese May Day statement disposed of again.

Chairman Replies

The chairman replied with the comment that additional investigation had brought forth no evidence to support Leftist allegations that some MacArthur directives had been violated.

The council sidestepped discussion of a plan to reorganize the Japanese merchant marine. Both the Russian and British delegates opposed the proposal.

The Council set a special session next week for discussion of rural land reform.

Soviet At Allied Council Silent On Data On Manchuria Japs

J. Lambert

Tokyo, June 12 (AP) — Blank silence met an attempt by the Allied Council chairman at today's session to draw from the Russian delegate information on the disposition of Japanese troops and nationals captured by the Russians in Manchuria.

The chairman, George Atcheson, Jr., asked the council for a discussion of General MacArthur's request for comment on the integrashied from taking up officially a proposed change in operation of the Japanese Government-controlled merchant marine. Gen. MacArthur had asked for official comment on the proposal, which would transfer certain business aspects of the shipping industry to private companies. The British delegate, W. MacMahon Ball, suggested the plan appeared to give privileges to some ship-owners classified as Zaibatsu—the restricted family monopolies.

Lieut.-Gen. Kuzma Derevyanko, the Russian member, commented, "It is not expedient to release part of the merchant marine to private owners" now. He suggested the question be excluded from the council agenda until an Allied commission, which he said is being formed, inventories the Japanese merchant marine. George Atcheson Jr., council chairman and the American member, expressed surprise, disclaiming knowledge of such a commission.

More seafood for hungry Japan was assured as the council recommended that MacArthur permits fishing fleet to operate farther east, south and west. An extension to the north was not allowed. Atcheson said Russia had refused to permit resumption of Japanese fishing off Kamchatka, but might reconsider.

JAPANESE ACCUSED OF IGNORING PACTS

JUN 13 1946

TOKYO, Thursday, June 13 — (AP) The international trial of former Premier Hideki Tojo and 27 other of Japan's accused warmakers opened today with the prosecution charging they had violated nearly 100 treaties and agreements.

Defense Attorney Floyd J. Mattice, Indianapolis, informed the court NIGHT the right to object to the nature of the exhibited agreements, presented by Alan Mansfield, assistant prosecutor for Australia.

Mansfield said the prosecution would attempt to prove the Japanese completely disregarded the fundamental rules of international law in carrying out a program of Far Eastern aggression and in launching a war without warning.

Japan, he added, approved the Hague Convention of 1907 requiring a formal declaration of war, yet she struck Pearl Harbor without warning.

The court ignored, for the moment at least, a petition by four defendants asking that their cases be submitted to an international panel of religious and intellectual leaders including Pope Pius, Mahatma Gandhi and H. G. Wells.

The four, who showed concern over the possibility of the death penalty in another statement to be submitted, were former Premier Kiichiro Hiranuma, Okinori Kaya, who was Tojo's Finance Minister; Mamoru Shigemitsu, Foreign Minister under Tojo, and Gen. Yoshijiro Umezu, former chief of the Imperial General Staff who signed Japan's surrender.

Tokyo, June 12 (A. P.).—Discovery of wooden swords, mortars and grenades today precipitated an Allied inquiry to determine if a prefectural education department told its schools to retain such training aids.

ighth Army Reaches 2d Anniversary

Yokohama, June 12 (AP)—The 8th Army—the American Occupation Forces in Japan—celebrated its second anniversary today in what its commander, Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger called "tip-top running order."

Activated at Memphis, Tenn., June 12, 1944, the 8th fought its way up through the South Pacific and the Philippines and entered Japan peaceably last August 30.

General MacArthur in a recent citation observed that "no army of this war has achieved greater glory and distinction than the 8th."

One year ago, Eichelberger recalled, "we were fighting in most of the Islands of the Philippines, including Mindanao, where we fought one of the toughest battles of the Pacific. The 8th Army had already made 52 amphibious landings. The road ahead seemed long—and bloody. Certainly none of us dreamed that victory would come so suddenly or so spectacularly."

At that time, the 8th was already planning what was to have been its greatest combat operation—invasion of Japan. It was to have struck Honshu's coastal plain, which includes the Tokyo area, after the 6th Army had moved into Kyushu, southern-most island.

Eichelberger attributed the "most remarkable success" of the Allied occupation largely to firm policies of General MacArthur and an unexpected degree of co-operation by many responsible Japanese leaders.

G.I. IS CONVICTED IN NEWS DISPUTE

JUN 13 1946

MANILA, June 12. — (AP) An Army courtmartial today convicted T-5 Clair Miller (home town unavailable) on charges of publishing false information detrimental to the service in connection with "gripe" letters written to The Daily Pacifician, Army newspaper.

He was reduced to private, but reduction in grade will not be official until the sentence is confirmed by a board of review.

Miller wrote a letter protesting against too frequent guard duty, signing it with his own name and adding "and eight others." He did not sign the names of the eight, but said all others at a gripe session agreed with him. The case hinged on whether he had authorization to speak for his comrades.

The recently ousted Pacifican staff had cited the Miller case as part of the attempt of higher authorities to gag the paper. The staff resigned and then was transferred to a combat outfit

It was learned that a group of soldiers pooled funds and telephoned to Senator Pepper (D-Fla) protesting Miller's conviction.

P. I. Legislators Heave Bottles

JUN 13 1946

Manila, June 12 (AP)—In a tumultuous session in which a pop bottle was thrown and spectators joined in, the Philippine House of Representatives tonight approved President Roxas's recommendation for a 50,000 pesos appropriation for a mausoleum for the late President Manuel Quezon.

DAY

Representative Jose Topacio Nueno, of Manila, demanding an appropriation of 100,000 pesos, heaved a bottle at Representative Justiniano Montano, of Cavite, head of the committee sponsoring the President's proposal.

Both Have Bad Aim

The bottle missed and Montano sprang at Nuenon, but his aim was no better. Other Congressmen intervened.

Gallery onlookers spilled into the floor, but uniformed police and the House sergeant of arms finally restored order.

Speaker Perez then gravely rebuked the House and called for a report on the conduct of Nueno and Montano.

BLACK IS ASSAILED ON POLITICAL TALK

JUN 13 1946

Senator Bridges Recalls Klan Charge Against Alabama Justice.

WASHINGTON, June 12 — (AP) The ferment over the Supreme court took a fresh turn today when Senator Bridges (R-NH) recalled an address by Justice Black to a National Citizens Political Action committee meeting and asserted that justices wanting to make "political speeches" should resign.

Bridges reminded his colleagues, too, that the Constitution provides that judges shall hold office "during good behavior." He said Congress might "very properly inquire" into the need for ouster machinery short of impeachment. The latter can be brought only for "high crimes and misdemeanors."

Recalls Klan Issue

Saying the state of mind of a justice is important and can be judged by his utterances, Bridges brought up also both the controversy between Black and Justice Jackson, and the Ku Klux Klan issue raised when Black, then a senator from Alabama, was appointed to the high tribunal in 1937.

Bridges said that on Aug. 17, 1937, the day Black was confirmed for the Supreme court, the question was raised in the Senate whether Black was a member of the klan.

Bridges quoted the late Senator William E. Borah of Idaho as saying in the debate that Black "has said in private conversation, not since this matter came up but at other times, that he was not a member of the Klan x x x."

Admitted Membership

By Sept. 13, Bridges said, the "newspapers were printing the facts concerning the membership of Senator Black in the Klan" and on Oct. 1 Black went on the radio and "stated he had joined the Klan some 15 years earlier but later resigned."

"The point is," Bridges continued, "that when he was under obligation to speak, when he knew that to have made the admission would bear markedly upon the matter of his confirmation to the Supreme court, he refrained from speaking. He allowed other senators in this body to make representations in his behalf which were false and which were known to him to be false."

From earlier comments by other senators it appeared Bridges' speech might set off a general discussion of the court situation. Senator Eastland (D-Miss), had said he intended to speak.

Advises Against Debate

However, when Bridges sat down, Chairman McCarran (D-Nev) of the Judiciary committee jumped up and admonished his colleagues that the Senate "occupies a most peculiar situation" since it becomes the bar of justice if the House initiates impeachment proceedings.

McCarran said he would make "no utterance whatsoever" concerning the court situation and asked that other senators follow that same course and "reserve judgment in this trying moment."

"The day might come when this body might be called on to sit as a court of impeachment," he said. "If that day comes, may God forbid, the chairman of the Judiciary committee will be free to act."

Bridges told the Senate he considers there is nothing in the statement Jackson made about Black to warrant impeachment. That apparently was an almost universal view among the legislators.

Chairman Sumners (D-Tex) of the House Judiciary committee said he sees nothing to indicate "any such drastic action." He proposes to put the statement Jackson cabled the committee from Nuernberg, Germany, before it tomorrow.

In brief, Jackson's assertion was that Black had elected to sit on cases presented to the court by his former law partner and had threatened Jackson with "war" if Jackson did not agree to "cover up" the facts of Black's action.

Addressed FDR Memorial

The PAC meeting which Bridges said Black addressed was a Roosevelt Memorial dinner at the Hotel Commodore, New York, on April 12.

Bridges, commenting that Senator Guffey (D-Pa) had inserted a copy of Black's speech in the Congressional Record for May 23, read excerpts from it.

He quoted Black as saying the government has become "an instrument of economic control for the benefit of so many people" and of saying the New Deal program was opposed "in part by those who were seeking selfishly to maintain unfair practices under which they had greatly prospered and by those who innocently clung blindly to old ways merely because they were old."

Having read them, Bridges demanded:

"How can we expect dispassionate administration of the law from those who openly and actively espouse public movements designed to fasten upon the American people a particular philosophy?

"How can a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States achieve that nice balance of judicial principle to which litigants are entitled if that same justice lends the prestige of his position and the force of his support to a movement whose legislative program may result in controversies before the court of which he is a member?"

Bridges Assails Black Talking Before PAC

JUN 13 1946

Oslo, June 12 (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief United States prosecutor in the war-crime trials before the International Military Tribunal at Nuernberg, arrived here for a five-day holiday. He declined to make any further comment on his row with his colleague, Justice Hugo Black of the United States Supreme Court, saying he would stand on the written statement he made public Monday night.

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Senator Bridges (R., N.H.), citing a speech by Justice Hugo Black before a gathering of the Political Action Committee, said today a Supreme Court justice should leave the bench if he "desires to make political speeches."

"I mean resign," Bridges told the Senate.

The Black speech to which Bridges referred was delivered April 12 before the National Citizens' Political Action Committee Roosevelt Memorial dinner, at the Hotel Commodore, in New York.

Printed In Record

The speech was printed in the Congressional Record at the request of Senator Guffey (D., Pa.).

"You need no better criterion by which to test the state of mind of a Justice who lends himself to this PAC movement than the words which flow from his own lips," the senator added.

Bridges referred to the "feud" on the high court, which became public Monday with release of a statement by Justice Robert H. Jackson.

McCarren Urges Silence

When Bridges concluded, Chairman McCarran (D., Nev.) of the Judiciary Committee told the Senate he hoped senators would keep silent and "reserve judgment in this trying moment."

Saying this is what he intends to do, McCarran added:

"The Senate of the United States occupies a most peculiar position. The day might come when this body might be called on to sit as a court of impeachment. If that day comes, may God forbid, the chairman of the Judiciary Committee will be free to act."

McCarran said he intended to lay Jackson's statement before the Judiciary Committee at a meeting Monday and would urge that the committee "take no action whatsoever" because of the Senate's peculiar position.

Bridges said that the Jackson-Black dispute "does not present a case for impeachment," but he suggested that Congress could "very properly inquire" into the need for legislation on which to predicate ouster for lack of "good behavior."

Cites Constitutional Clause

He asserted that the Constitution does not say that the judges shall be appointed for life, but shall hold their offices "during good behavior."

"The danger signals of a breakdown in popular confidence in some of the personnel of the Supreme Court are only too obvious," Bridges said.

Bridges said that in the April 12 speech Black found it worthy of mention that government has become—and he quoted the jurist—"an instrument of economic control for the benefit of so many people."

"Yo can imagine what chance a litigant will have for fair consideration of his case pon the merits if he argues for the judicial construction of a statute contrary to the point in view of Mr. Justice Black," the senator added.

Sumner's Plans

Chairman Hatton W. Sumners (D., Texas) said today he will place Jackson's blast before his House Judiciary Committee tomorrow, but that he personally is disinclined toward any immediate action.

Sumners said he prefers to wait until Jackson returns from Nuernberg, where he is serving as chief American prosecutor of Nazi war criminals. The complaining justice, he added, probably would be the chief witness if any investigation were decided upon.

Jurisdiction Doubtful

The chairman said he favors a cautious approach because of the unprecedented nature of the controversy. After all, Sumners said, the House Judiciary Committee has no power of "visitation" on the courts—that is, it has no power to check up to see if everything is going all right.

It does have the power of impeachment, but Sumners asserted that nothing so far indicates that any such drastic action would be justified.

Representative Michener (R., Mich.) indicated concurrence in Sumner's view that Jackson should be present at any investigation, asserting: "Of course, you can't have a wedding without a bride and groom."

Two Favor Eventual Probe

Two other committee members said they thought an eventual inquiry would be justified.

Representative Walter (D., Pa.) commented: "I don't think we should approach it from the standpoint of an ouster investigation, but rather as a basis for determining whether any legislation is necessary to apply to members of the courts."

Representative Kefauver (D., Tenn.) agreed that an "airing" of Jackson's criticism over Black's action in not disqualifying himself from the portal-to-portal mine-wage case in which his former law partner was one of the attorneys might point up the need for remedial legislation.

On the other hand, Representative Celler (D., N.Y.), another member of the committee, said he did not see what Congress could do about the controversy because "it involves only a judge's judgment" of when he should disqualify himself.

Looks To Vinson For Remedy

Celler added that "it appears to be a clash of personalities, and I hope the new Chief Justice will be able to reconcile their differences."

Fred M. Vinson's nomination to be chief justice is slated to come before the Senate Judiciary Committee on Friday, but Chairman McCarran said he thought the Jackson-Black incident should not figure at that session. Senator Hatch (D., N.M.) concurred in that view.

Resignations From Court Called For By Many Papers

JUN 13 19

New York, June 12 (AP)—Full congressional investigation into the Supreme Court, and resignation of Justice Robert Jackson or Justice Hugo Black—or both—was demanded by a number of the nation's newspapers in the wake of Justice Jackson's disclosure of a "feud" within the court.

"The kind of tinkering with the court of which a decade of New Dealism has been guilty" was blamed by the New Orleans States and many other papers which attempted to establish the underlying cause for the outburst from Nuernberg.

"Congressional committees must now go throughly into every aspect of this tragically unseemly fracas," said the New York Herald Tribune. "This newspaper believes that it effectively ends the usefulness of both men upon the Supreme Bench."

"Lighthearted Juggling"

The Herald Tribune hoped "this will prove the last of the misfortunes which we have inherited from President Roosevelt's lighthearted jugglings with the judicial process."

In Los Angeles, the Times said, "Congress owes to the nation a thorough and searching investigation," and the Herald-Examiner said, "apparently we have dirty linen to wash. Let's get on with the cleaning-up business."

The Brooklyn Eagle said, "Congress has a duty to fulfill. It must learn what is at the bottom of the seething antagonism among men whose duty it is to control their passions, to maintain their dignity, to subordinate every influence to the cause of justice."

"Issue Up To Congress"

"Mr. Justice Jackson's statement, addressed to the Senate and House Judiciary committees, whether it be warranted or unwarranted, well or ill-advised, puts the issue squarely up to Congress. One way or another, the Supreme Court must be redeemed from bitter and futile strife," said the Atlanta Journal.

The Boston Globe said, "The matter is so serious to to suggest the process of impeachment, seldom resorted to in our national history."

"Bring out the full truth," demanded the Detroit News, while in the same city the Free Press said, "The discords that are now tearing it (the Supreme Court) apart result from the peculiar tests which Mr. Roosevelt employed in filling vacancies."

"Matter Should Go To Trial"

"The matter should, we think, go to trial," said the Milwaukee Journal. "Unless Justice Black resigns to save himself and the court further embarrassment . . . there would seem to be no other recourse."

The Philadelphia Record urged "Congress to investigate in public hearings the feud now brought into the open by Justice Jackson's attack on Justice Black," and the Inquirer said, "If the two justices have any devotion to justice and veneration for the prestige of the court they will resign quickly and voluntarily."

"It ought to be settled by justices themselves, and among themselves," said the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. "If these are justices who are not big enough to do so, they are not big enough for the Supreme Court and should resign."

Resignation "Best Course"

"The best course," said the Washington Post, "would be for Justice Black to say that in the public interest he will resign if Justice Jackson does likewise."

The Buffalo Courier-Express said, "To be impolitely candid, it began nine years ago when Hugo Black was appointed to the highest court of the land. In 1937 we denounced Black as unfit for the Supreme Court both because of his former Ku Klux Klan affiliations and because he possessed the political, rather than the judicial, temperament."

The Chicago Sun said, "Justice Jackson revealed himself as a bitter, carping feudist, emotionally unhinged, apparently, by his failure to win appointment as Chief Justice."

"Resignation In Body"

"Short of resignation of the justices in a body, there is, unfortunately, no way that the present

Supreme Court can be improved," commented the Chicago Tribune.

The Indianapolis News said, "the crisis calls for hastening the normal process of changing the court's personnel by death or retirement," and the Star said, "Some resignations could be a national blessing. The tribunal is reaping the crop of New Deal wild oats."

"Justice Jackson could have made a better case had his statement been an exhibit attached to his resignation," said the Dallas Morning News. "As to the court, the nation has no reason to believe that it has been improved by the substitution for 'nine old men' of a few little ones."

"Patronage Catchall"

The Troy (N.Y.) Record said, "The court must be free from the Rooseveltian idea that it is a patronage catchall," and the Pittsburgh Post Gazette said, "It is the inevitable result of a Chief Executive trying to twist the course to fit his tranistory dream of political reform. He sowed his packing plan. We reap a brawl."

"Ever since Candidate Roosevelt first declared war on it in his Baltimore speech on October 29, 1932, the court has been mucked with," said the Providence (R.I.) Journal-Bulletin. "It is now a remade court without process of law as Mr. Roosevelt sought."

More Temperate Comments

More temperate were comments from two other leading papers.

"If justices are not now automatically disqualified when cases come up in which they are personally involved, or are argued by persons with whom they have had close relationships, they should be made so," said the New York Times. "Surely this step is not beyond the power of court and Congress."

"This isn't the first time that the justices of a Supreme Court have had their internal wrangles," said the Chicago Times. "It's a good thing to have the 'feud' and the 'war'—Jackson's own words—brought into the open. The controversy shows that our democracy is as lusty as ever."

EX-GI DETAINED IN HESSE CASE

JUN 13 1946

His Participation In Removal Of Jewels 'Believed Minor'

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Lieut. Col. Aubrey Thomas, of the War Department Public Relations Bureau, announced today that a former GI, Roy C. Carlton, had been "detained" in connection with the sensational case of the Hesse crown jewels.

Thomas said that customs agents detained Carlton for investigation at his home in Kilgore, Texas. At Kilgore, Carlton said he was uncertain of his legal status, and his wife declared that "I would say he is not under arrest."

Three Others Involved

Winston Gardner, Kilgore newspaper man, reported that Carlton conferred with a policeman friend there and told him that he helped to dig up the treasure from the cellar of Kronberg Castle in Germany, but that he and others with him did not know what the boxes contained.

Three other persons have been held as a result of the removal of the cache, valued at $1,500,000 or more, from the castle, owned by the House of Hesse. Army investigators said they believed no others are involved.

The War Department announcement did not say what part Carlton might have played in the case.

It added, however, that "the extent of his participation is believed to be minor."

Colonel In Custody

Army investigators reported earlier that the trove was dug up from its hiding place in the castle basement by an enlisted man and turned over to WAC Capt. Kathleen R. Nash, who is in army custody along with her husband, Col. Jack W. Durant, and Major David F. Watson.

Carlton was discharged from the Army several months ago and as a civilian is beyond military jurisdiction. His military rank was technician fifth grade, equivalent in pay to corporal.

The War Department said specifically that he is "the T-5 who has been mentioned previously in connection with the case."

Colonel, WAC Wife May Be Tried In Germany

Frankfurt, Germany, June 12 (AP)—United States Army sources said unofficially today that Col. J. W. Durant and his WAC captain wife, Mrs. Kathleen Durant, arrested in Chicago in the $1,500,000 Kronberg castle jewel theft, "probably" would be brought here for court-martial.

The United States War Department and the Army's European headquarters still were discussing returning the couple to Germany, and "it is likely they may be flown here very shortly," the officers said.

Fate Of Jewels Unknown

Whether the jewels belonging to the House of Hesse—most of which have been recovered in the United States—would be brought back to Kronberg Castle was not known.

Major David F. Watson, of Burlingame, Cal., arrested here in connection with the theft, will be held in jail pending the arrival of Durant, his former army chief.

If the accused are brought before a court-martial here, it was believed that Countess von Hessen, 74, granddaughter of Queen Victoria, of England, might be asked to testify.

Ex-Princess May Testify

Another possible witness, officers said, was the former Princess Sophie of Greece, now honeymooning in the British occupation zone in Germany.

It was the Countess who first officially reported on April 11 the gems were missing when she attempted to locate certain of the pieces to wear at Princess Sofie's wedding.

The army's criminal-investigation agents said some of the loot still missing was possibly hidden in Germany.

Nagy Ridicules Idea Hungary Is Soviet-Ruled

JUN 13 1946

Scoffs at Churchill Charge of a Red 'Iron Curtain'; Tells of Economic Plight

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Hungarian Premier Ferenc Nagy today scoffed at Winston Churchill's declaration that a Soviet "iron curtain" hides Hungary from the western world. "If there were an iron curtain around my country, do you think I would be sitting in this room talking with you now?" he asked.

Nagy, head of Hungary's moderate Small Holders party, was interviewed at Blair House here, where he and three of his Cabinet Ministers are staying for five days as guests of the American government.

Nagy said he "most certainly" would ask the State Department to order the return of $40,000,000 in Hungarian gold which, he said, was stolen by the Nazis from Budapest and is now held by American Army officials in Frankfurt am Main.

Both Nagy and Communist Vice-return of the gold, along with industrial equipment and transportation stocks stolen by the Germans, is absolutely essential before Hungary can stabilize her economy.

To illustrate how the cost of living has soared in Hungary, Nagy showed some of the 100,000,000,000 pengo notes recently issued by his government. These are worth about 50 cents in American money, he said. "My salary equals less than $5 a month in your money, and I know a director of a university who makes $1.50 a month and who must work as a laborer during the summer months so he can get enough to live."

Nagy described Hungary as the only country where the Germans "succeeded in taking everything before they left." Among this loot, he said, were 420 of Hungary's most important industries, 1,700 locomotives, 40,000 railway cars, 17,000 trucks, the complete fire departments of all big towns, 570 ships of the Danube fleet, 600,000 cattle, 250,000 horses.

The Hungarian Premier defended the five-year "treaty of economic collaboration" with Russia, which provides for joint Hungarian-Russian development of key basic industries.

"For months after liberation no country offered any sort of economic co-operation but Soviet Russia."

New Czech Envoy Calls on President

Dr. Slavik Cites Gratitude of His Country for U. S.

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Dr. Juraj Slavik, new Czechoslovakian Ambassador to the United States, told President Truman today that his government and people will "never forget" what they owe to this country.

The envoy called at the White House to present his letters of credence to Mr. Truman, who told him he could count on receiving "the full support and assistance" of the United States government during his mission in Washington.

The President declared that the "traditional and long-standing friendship between our two peoples has been strengthened by the recent joint struggle against the common enemy."

Dr. Slavik referred to three specific things for which he said the Czech and Slovak peoples are especially grateful to Americans.

The first of these was the support of President Wilson for the emergence "after several centuries of oblivion" of a free and independent Czechoslovakia after the first world war, Dr. Slavik said.

He also cited "the sympathies and effective help" extended by the United States to Czechoslovakia during the recent war, and the post-war assistance provided by this country through the U. N. R. R. A. and other relief agencies.

Speaking of the forthcoming Czechoslovakian elections, Dr. Slavik predicted that Edouard Benes would be re-elected President with the support of all parties.

PROPOSAL TO USE TROOPS OF ALLIES MAY EASE DRAFT

JUN 13 1946

WASHINGTON, June 12 — (AP) A proposal that thousands of soldiers of wartime Allies — particularly Poles — be enlisted in the United States Army for occupational duty abroad was offered today to Senate-House conferees trying to adjust differences over draft law extension.

Chairman Elbert Thomas (D.-Utah) of the Senate military committee told reporters he made the suggestion just before the group recessed until Friday in a "parliamentary jam."

Would Serve as Guards

"I suggested that we allow enlistments of Allied forces in our Army to serve as guards where they are," Thomas explained. "The Poles are the ones on the loose in Europe."

Thomas said he proposed that "no officers, only enlisted men," be enlisted and that they receive pay of American soldiers "but none of the other benefits."

A reporter observed that if several hundred thousand Polish soldiers, who fought with the Allies but have avoided return to Poland, were enlisted that Russia might protest.

"I would not take ten as Poles or even one," Thomas said. "I would enlist them as individuals. Even if we only got one extra soldier that would at least save drafting of one 18-year-old and the House voted to not draft any 18 or 19 year olds."

Thomas said his proposal had not been passed upon by either the Senate or House, nor considered by the War, Navy or State departments or Selective Service officials.

Separate Pay Bill

Thomas explained that the "parliamentary jam" resulted from the fact that the House had passed separate bills regarding draft extension and pay increases for officers and men, while the Senate placed a pay boost provisions for enlisted men within its draft extension act. The pay increases are designed to spur volunteering and thus reduce or eliminate need for draftees.

Thomas said the parliamentary difficulty probably could be cured by quick Senate action Thursday. Senator Gurney (R.-S. D.) planned to ask the Senate to take up and pass the House pay bill after substituting the Senate pay provisions.

"This would bring the whole matter into conference at one time," Thomas said.

Compromises Offered

These possible compromises were advanced, Thomas said:

One by Rep. Sparkman (D.-Ala.) to limit service of any 18-year-old inductees to the continental United States.

A proposal by Gurney to limit draft of 18 and 19 year olds to a last resort basis.

The seven Senate and seven House conferees agreed to renew their compromise attempts again Friday.

The House twice voted to exempt 18 and 19 year olds from induction while the Senate included them in its proposed extension of conscription until May 15 of next year. The House also limited draft extension to Feb. 15 and provided a suspension of all inductions to permit trial of a purely voluntary system until Oct. 15 of this year.

Selective Service now is operating under a temporary extension to July 1 with teen agers exempt.

URGES ATOMIC BAN FOR JAPS

Engineer Group Proposes Cut In Nipponese Metal Output

Washington, June 12 (AP)—A proposal that Japan be forbidden to use atomic energy and that her metal production be slashed to prevent a resurgence of militarism was made today by the National Engineers Committee.

The committee's report, prepared at the request of W. L. Clayton, Assistant Secretary of State, warned against "complete elimination of Japanese industry, leaving the nation to eke out a living on agriculture and fishing."

'Social Chaos' Foreseen

This would bring "social chaos and suffering of such magnitude that enforcement would be impossible, and world opinion would repudiate the action," the committee concluded.

But the plans for industrial disarmament "must be so firm and enduring as to check effectively any resurgence of militarism and ambitions for conquest," it added.

The committee originally was set up to make recommendations on industrial disarmament of Germany. Then Clayton asked it to recommend measures to eliminate Japan as a potential aggressor.

The committee was formed by the Engineers Joint Council, composed of officers of leading engineering associations.

Proposals In Report

The report, now in the hands of the secretaries of State, War and Navy and made public by the War Department, proposed to:

1. Prohibit synthetic fixation of nitrogen.

2. Prohibit production of synthetic liquid fuel, aluminum and magnesium.

3. Prohibit use of nuclear energy.

4. Limit production of sulphuric acid, calcium carbide, steel, copper, lead, tin and zinc.

Specific recommendations for the metal and mineral industries were:

1. Iron and Steel—Cut production from 9,000,000 metric tons annually to 1,600,000 metric tons. Average peacetime production from 1926-30 was 1,607,000 metric tons.

On Aluminum Output

2. Aluminum—Eliminate all production facilities, but permit import of 4,000 tons annually. In 1943 Japan produced 312,000,000 pounds of aluminum.

3. Magnesium—Eliminate all production facilities. In 1944 Japan produced 10,600,000 pounds of magnesium.

4. Copper—Limit smelting and refining to 85,000 metric tons. During the war, Japan produced 150,000 metric tons.

5. Lead—Limit production to 20,000 metric tons. During the war, Japan produced annually, 78,000 tons.

6. Tin—Limit annual production to 750 tons, allowing import of 55,000 tons annually.

7. Zinc: Reduce refining capacities from 178,600 metric tons annually, to 40,000 tons.

7. Zinc—Reduce refining capaci- that machine tools in arsenals and aircraft plants be eliminated and the machine-tool industry be reduced 50 per cent.

NAVY BACKS PLAN FOR CURBING USES OF ATOMIC ENERGY

JUN 13 1946

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP) The Navy agreed with the Army today in approving the Senate's plan for civilian control of atomic energy in this country, smoothing the way for its early enactment.

The Senate-passed measure calling for a five-member civilian commission was pronounced "satisfactory in most respects" by Assistant Secretary of the Navy W. John Kenney, in testimony before the House Military committee. It had been endorsed yesterday by Secretary of War Patterson.

First Action Seen

Members of the committee said the services' approval would remove any remaining opposition and that the legislation would be ready for final House action within a few days.

Kenney told the committee the armed services' interests are protected by the Senate provision giving them advisory powers in the civilian commission.

"Although the 'straw man' issue of military control versus civilian control of the atomic energy commission has been raised and argued by others," Kenney said, "the Navy department has consistently been in favor of civilians having the power of decision" if the services "have a voice" in the commission's affairs.

In the field of international control, the Senate's Special Committee on Atomic Energy questioned Bernard M. Baruch, President Truman's special representative on the United Nations Atomic commission.

Baruch Quizzed

Baruch, who will present the United States plan for world control to the U.N. commission Friday, declined to discuss the subject after the closed-door committee meeting. Chairman McMahon (D-Conn.) said committee members "seemed to be in agreement on his plan."

Secretary of State Byrnes, although announcing yesterday that the plans are ready for presentation Friday, likewise has declined to outline them in advance. Other persons familiar with the details said they follow the program worked out by David E. Lilienthal, chairman of the Tennessee Valley authority, and Undersecretary of State Acheson and announced March 28. This plan provides for the eventual pooling by the world's nations of their knowledge of atomic energy under an international atomic development authority.

Navy Joins Army In O.K. Of Civil Atom Agency

JUN 13 1946

Washington, June 12 (AP)—The Navy joined the Army today in indorsing Senate legislation to create a five-member civilian commission for domestic control of atomic energy.

W. John Kenney, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, told the House Military Committee the Senate bill is "satisfactory in most respects."

Earlier, Secretary of War Patterson had approved the legislation, which differs from the committee's proposal for a nine-man commission that could have military membership.

Advisory Powers

The Senate provision giving advisory powers to the military, Kenney said, adequately protects the interests of the armed services and "achieves the same objective as would have been achieved if the Army and the Navy each had one representative on the commission," as proposed in the House bill.

"Although the 'straw-man' issue of military control versus civilian control of the Atomic Energy Commission has been raised and argued by others," he declared, "the Navy Department has consistently been in favor of civilians having the power of decision" provided the armed services "have a voice in the affairs" of the commission.

Secretary of State Byrnes announced yesterday that the Government had decided on the plans it will lay before the United Nations for international control of atomic energy.

Byrnes declined to outline them, but other persons familiar with the plans said they followed the Acheson-Lilienthal program announced March 28. This provides for an international development authority, to which the United States and all other nations would turn over their knowledge of atomic developments in years to come.

The United States proposals will be presented by Bernard M. Baruch, President Truman's special representative on the United Nations Atomic Commission. The commission meets Friday.

Senators Quiz Baruch

Baruch was called before the Senate's Special Committee on Atomic Energy today for a progress report. When he emerged from the closed meeting, Baruch declined to discuss the control proposals.

"I'm not going to say anything until I say it Friday morning," he told reporters.

Chairman McMahon (D., Conn.) said Baruch answered "freely and fully" all questions put to him by the senators and "the committee seemed to be in agreement with his plan."

Meanwhile, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee called another private session to consider a measure for American participation in the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. This subject is somewhat related to that of the future of atomic energy, since it calls for the exchange of scientific developments for the benefit of mankind.

200-Foot Hole Unsafe For Atom-Bomb Raids

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP).—The Army reported today that studies in progress at Aberdeen (Md.) Proving Ground indicate 200-foot-deep caverns or air-raid shelters of equal depth are proving dubious protection.

Colonel Leslie E. Simon, director of the Aberdeen Laboratory, said that after results of the Bikini atomic-bomb experiment are compiled, "we can determine at what height an atom bomb should be exploded to crush solid rock to a depth of 150 to 200 feet."

Before this it had been believed that deep underground installations would be an effective shelter against an atomic explosion.

Russia Is Inciting World Turmoil, Editor States

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Neil MacNeil, assistant managing editor of the New York Times, said today the "worst confusions" in which the world finds itself "are deliberately manufactured by the Soviet Union."

MacNeil asserted in an address prepared for Catholic University commencement exercises that Moscow is seeking to break down existing political order, faith and morals in an effort to spread communism and expand the power of Soviet foreign policy.

Disturbing Deeds In U.S.

In the United States, he said, "their most disturbing activities are in communications. They have placed themselves in the press, the news agencies, the news syndicates, the book-publishing houses, the national magazines, the radio chains and the motion-picture industry."

In this way, MacNeil continued, they "have been successful in substantial measure" in trying to "control or color the flow of information to the American public."

Policy Toward Spain

The editor said Russia's maximum objective in her policies on Franco Spain was "to start war between France and Spain, in which event the Communist would come out on top in both nations." The minimum Soviet objective, he added, was "to divert attention from more critical and more painful situations involving Russia elsewhere, and in this the Soviet Union was largely successful."

"Soviet diplomats," MacNeil said, "are employing the same tactics in dealing with the defeated nations and their satellites and with the liberated nations that domestic Communists employ when trying to take over a union. They are attempting to wear out the patience of American and British diplomats so that finally, in desperation, they will agree to Russian demands or allow the matter to go by default.

History's "Greatest Crime"

"This refusal to make peace is the greatest crime of all history," MacNeil said.

He added that, as a result of the leadership of Pope Pius XII, "the Catholic Church today offers the world the one real solution for its problems. It informs the statesmen that they cannot succeed until they take God into consideration."

House Committee Urges Hemisphere Military Pact

Foreign Affairs Group Backs Truman on Co-operation

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP).—The House Foreign Affairs Committee declared today that the United States would be placed in a stronger position to work toward the regulation of world armaments if Congress approves participation in a program of Inter-American military co-operation.

In a report on a bill embodying President Truman's recent recommendation that this country join in such a program, the committee asserted that the measure would result in increased security and lessen international fears which lead to armament races.

During hearings on the measure two weeks ago Secretary of State James F. Byrnes told the committee the Administration would work toward international regulation of arms.

The bill was approved unanimously by the committee and is now awaiting full House consideration.

Stockton Named For Manila Post

Washington, June 12 (A. P.).—President Truman appointed Rear Admiral Gilchrist B. Stockton today to serve with the United States Ambassador to the Republic of the Philippines when it is set up. Stockton is now serving with Paul V. McNutt, High Commissioner of the Philippines.

Paul's Resignation Accepted

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP).—President Truman today accepted the resignation of Randolph Paul, who served as his special assistant in negotiating an accord with Switzerland for disposing of German assets there. Mr. Paul, former Treasury tax expert, is returning to the practice of law.

Byrnes Flies to Paris Today

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP).—Secretary of State James F. Byrnes plans to leave between 10 a. m. and 12 noon tomorrow by plane for Paris to resume his conferences on Sunday with Foreign Ministers of Britain, Russia and France on European peace settlements.

Navy Postgraduate School Plans Are Announced

Washington, June 12 (AP)—The Navy presented plans today for a huge postgraduate school on the Pacific Coast, along with a statement by Fleet Admiral Nimitz that a man doesn't have to go to Annapolis to be a good naval officer.

Costing $28,700,000, the postgraduate center would be near Monterey, Cal. Fifty-two colleges and universities would take part in training officers.

Nimitz's statement was read by Vice Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, chief of naval personnel, to the Senate Naval Committee. He said the proposed system would allow men training in civilian schools to "come into the navy on an equal footing" with Annapolis graduates.

Already Under Option

"A graduate of the University of California or Princeton can be quite as valuable to the Navy as a graduate of the Naval Academy," Nimitz said.

Capt. H. A. Spanagel said the California location, now under option for $2,107,000, includes a large hotel to be used for bachelor quarters and 300 acres of land for housing and buildings. He said it is planned to construct some $19,000,000 worth of buildings with other costs bringing the total to $28,700,000.

The additional educational plans are necessary, navy spokesmen said, to obtain the 52,000 officers required for the peacetime Navy.

Annapolis Capacity 5,000

They said Annapolis now is training 3,000 cadets under a four-year course and can be expanded to 5,000 capacity. They said the 52 civilian colleges and universities are expected to handle another 4,000.

In addition, the Navy plans a course for aviators consisting first of two years of basic college, then a year of flight training and two years of sea duty, and then two years at Annapolis for those qualifying for Regular Navy commissions.

Flying students who are not selected for regular commission or desire to quit would receive two years of additional college work with the Government paying costs plus $100 a month while they complete schooling.

REVISION IS VOTED IN OPA PRICE RULE

JUN 13 1946

Senate Accepts Plan to Add Increased Costs to Prewar Figure.

WASHINGTON, June 12. — (AP) Senators of both parties, bent upon curbing OPA's authority, pushed through today an amendment requiring the agency to add increased costs to prewar prices in fixing ceilings.

By the overwhelming vote of 44 to 29, the proposal was written into the measure to extend OPA's life until July 1, 1947, despite Democratic Leader Barkley's plea against changing the formula for ceilings now.

Offered by Senator Taft (R-Ohio), the amendment would take the price level of October 1-15, 1941, as a base period and then add the increased average cost of the producer to reach a figure below which OPA could not set a ceiling.

Senator George (D-Ga) joined Taft in support of the new formula. He said he felt sorry for OPA Administrator Paul Porter, declaring that Porter "inherited the OPA, inherited its program, inherited its theories and inherited (Stabilization Director Chester) Bowles."

"I would like to say this for Mr. Bowles," declared George. "He is the most inflated product and commodity that I know."

To Limit Debate

Barkley later obtained an agreement by unanimous consent limiting further debate to a half hour per senator on each amendment and on the bill itself and expressed confidence a final vote will be reached tomorrow. The Senate the adjourned until 11 a.m. out of respect to Senator Bankhead (D-Ala) who had just died.

Before adoption of the Taft amendment, it was changed at the suggestion of Senator Hoey (D-NC) to stipulate that advertising expenditures were part of costs. Producers would be allowed to count as legitimate costs advertising up to the amount they did in 1941.

Both Taft and Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican whip, took the same line—the argument that low prices mean low production, that low production means shortages and black markets; that scarcities and the danger of inflation can only be remedied by high-geared production at a profit.

Wherry saw an alternative plan he offered go down to defeat by standing vote—one which would have forced OPA to permit manufacturers, wholesalers, distributors and retailers their normal pre-war discounts and mark-ups.

But, before its defeat, in a desk-pounding attack on OPA, Wherry cited the agency's hopes for increased supplies soon, and cried out to his colleagues: "The proof of the pudding is in the eating."

"Where's the butter?" He shouted. "Where are the shirts? Where are the automobiles? Where are the textiles? You can't eat statistics. And you can't get a good pot roast out of propaganda."

SENATE KILLS NEW OPA CURB

JUN 13 1946

Taft Says Wherry Plan Would End Control.

Washington, June 12 (A. P.).—The Senate today rejected a sweeping amendment to the OPA bill which Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) said "makes it very difficult to have any price control at all."

The amendment, offered by Senator Wherry (R.-Neb.) would have let producers, processors and distributors, including retailers—set their own prices if the price administrator failed to give them ceilings which allowed pre-war discounts and mark-ups.

Wherry contended that his proposal would stimulate production and help, rather than wreck, the OPA. The Senate turned it down, however, by a standing vote.

The OPA extender bill, as it came from the Banking Committee, contains a clause allowing pre-war discounts and markups for dealers in automobiles and other products scarce during the war years.

Taft told the Senate it would be dangerous to drop price controls altogether until after another year or nine months, but he declared that the rigid control of war years should be relaxed.

The OPA still maintains ceilings on some products below the cost of production, Taft said. He mentioned butter as one, and added: "Butter has disappeared from the market because butter is so priced that nobody can make a profit on butter."

He contended that future price control must allow a reasonable incentive for production of needed goods. He argued for amendment of OPA extension legislation to prohibit any price ceilings below the price during the first two weeks of October, 1941, plus the "weighted average" or subsequent increased costs in the producing industry.

Barkley Sees Quick Vote.

Before the Senate resumed debate, Democratic Leader Barkley told reporters he thought a final vote could be reached early.

"We might get through today," he said.

Senator Capehart (R.-Ind.) suddenly withdrew his amendment to set up a percentage reduction formula for removing OPA controls. His action was taken to obtain a showdown first on the Banking Committee's recommendation for removal of meat, dairy and poultry products from OPA authority by July 1.

Conferees On Draft Plan Compromise

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Draft of teen-agers only as a last resort was proposed today in a compromise move to break the Senate-House deadlock over extending selective service beyond July 1.

Senator Bridges (R., N.H.), one of the conferees working for agreement on the conscription legislation, said such a "compromise offers a fair basis of settlement for both the Senate and House."

Committee Meets

The actual work of hammering out a compromise on conflicting House and Senate versions of a draft extender was scheduled to start today at the first formal meeting of the joint conference committee.

Of the "last resort" compromise, Bridges said he thought "everybody could agree that men 20 years old and above should be drafted first if inductees are required to meet manpower demands. If they do not fill requirements, then 19-year-olds could be taken. If shortages still exist, then 18-year-olds could be called."

Representative Brooks (D., La.), who is thought to hold the deciding vote among the seven House conferees, indicated approval of the compromise.

Conflicting Proposals

The Senate bill calls for extension of wartime conscription until next May 15, along with a pay boost for all enlisted grades in the armed forces.

The House, in addition to voting twice to exempt teen-agers, approved a moratorium on all inductions between May 15 and October 15 to see if volunteers would not provide the needed manpower. Pay increases for both enlisted men and officers were authorized in separate House legislation.

Bridges said that once the teen-age question is decided, there should be no trouble adjusting other House-Senate differences.

Demotions of Officers Suspended by the Army

1,800 Colonels Had Been Scheduled to Drop a Grade

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP).—The War Department suspended today the demotion of Army officers and indicated that some 1,800 colonels may not be reduced as once ordered.

Since the schedule of demotions was announced in April to meet reduced requirements of the peacetime Army, estimates of requirements and numbers of officers have altered, it was explained.

Overseas commanders were directed to suspend further reductions until results of an inventory to be made June 14 are known.

Under the original plan, 2,500 colonels were to have been reduced one grade between May 1 and Sept. 1 and 2,000 lieutenant colonels would have been demoted to major between June 1 and Sept. E. Some 700 colonels and 400 lieutenant colonels have been demoted thus far.

Under a new schedule, the reduction of majors and captains will not begin until Sept. 1 and then probably on a reduced scale.

Army Goods Loan Bill Signed

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP).—President Truman today signed legislation permitting the War Department to lend equipment to recognized national veterans' organizations for use at their national or state conventions.

John J. Rooney Sees Truman

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP).—Representative John J. Rooney, Democrat, of New York, talked with President Truman today. He described his visit as "a personal call." Later Charles G. Ross, White House press secrretary, told reporters Representative Rooney called to discuss surplus property legislation.

PRICE OF BREAD UP CENT A LOAF TODAY

JUN 13 1946

Washington, June 12 (AP).—The price of bread advanced a penny a loaf today with OPA approval. The increase is effective immediately, along with a price boost of one cent a dozen for bread rolls. The higher prices apply to all kinds of bread except rye, which went up two cents a loaf on April 30.

Prices are being raised, OPA said, because bakers' production costs have climbed as a result of a 25 per cent cut in the amount of flour they may use. The reduction was ordered to help meet famine relief requirements.

OPA said that before the flour cut, bakers made a "small profit" by spreading their costs over a large output of bread loaves. It added that the effect of trimming production has been a substantial increase in the cost per loaf. For this reason, OPA said, bakers "no longer are in a position to continue selling at prices 'frozen' at March 1942 levels."

The price increase, the agency continued, "is designed to assure consumers of as adequate a supply of bread and bread-type rolls as is consistent with the President's famine emergency program."

There was some confusion about the price rise here today, a survey of grocery stores and retail bakeries indicated, with some establishments charging the increased price and others continuing to sell at the old level. The supply continued short and all the customers who were interviewed said they would be glad to pay higher prices if they could obtain bread and rolls.

Senator Sees 'Revolt' Over Wheat Situation

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Senator Wherry (R., Neb.) said today that people are "beginning to revolt" over the wheat situation.

Told that a new allocation of 1,200,000 bushels of wheat had been made for shipment to Mexico, the Senator asserted, "It is inconceivable that we can export wheat to Mexico in light of the present wheat situation in this country.

"This is getting serious. The people in this country are beginning to revolt."

Wherry told a hearing of the Senate Small Business Committee that workers in Kansas City had refused to load wheat for Mexico.

P. B. King, chief of the food grain division of the Agriculture Department, testified that Mexico always has been a big wheat buyer in this country and the total being shipped there this year "is very much less than in former years."

Wherry demanded to know who made commitments for this country for allocations abroad by the Combined Food Board. One witness, Kenneth Mainland, of the fats and oils division of the Agriculture Department, said he knew only that "they come from the White House."

Three Jet Planes Set East-West Record, Fly Last Half of Round Trip in 6¾ Hours

JUN 13 1946

MARCH FIELD, Calif., June 12 (AP)—Three Army jet-fighter planes whose pilots had breakfast here and lunch in Washington, landed back at March Field for dinner at 7:21 o'clock (Pacific Standard Time) tonight.

They flew from March Field to Andrews Field, Md., near Washington, in 5 hours, 31 minutes, elapsed time. They started home again less than three hours later and clipped almost two and one-half hours from the unofficial east-to-west flight record in making the return in 6 hours, 45 minutes.

Four pilots started eastward this morning, but one dropped out at Oklahoma City after he dropped his wing tanks.

On the homeward flight the last hop was one of 800 miles from Midland, Tex., where the P-80 jet fighters took only fourteen minutes to refuel.

The planes had flown from Washington to Scott Field, Ill, a distance of 700 miles, and then made the 780-mile hop to Texas.

The eastward flight of the jet fighters, known as Lockheed Shooting Stars, from March Field this morning ended at Andrews Field at 12:58 P. M. (Eastern Standard Time), with the elapsed time for the 2,270-mile route tallied at 5 hours and 31 minutes. The take-off for Scott Field was at 3:36 o'clock.

The planes' elapsed time from March Field to Andrews Field, including one thirty-four-minute refueling stop at Oklahoma City, was fourteen minutes longer than the Los Angeles-to-Washington record established in December by the XB-42 Army bomber.

The pilots of the planes were Col. Leon Gray of Casa Grande, Ariz.; Maj. Robin Olds of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Lieut. Jack Richardson of Oklahoma City.

YALE CHAPLAIN TO GIVE TESTIMONY AT TOKYO

NEW HAVEN, June 12.—(AP) The Rev. John Gillispie Magee, former missionary to China, arrived in Tokyo this week to testify in the Japanese war criminals trials, it was announced today at Yale university where he serves as minister to Episcopal students.

A missionary in Nanking, China, from 1912 to 1940, he was in that city during the Japanese occupation from 1938 on. During this time, he secretly took motion pictures of Japanese atrocities committed against the Chinese, including the machine-gunning of civilians.

Russian Ambassador's Detroit Entry Marred

Detroit, June 12 (AP)—A brief disturbance which brought two police officers to the scene tonight marked the first appearance of a Russian Ambassador in Detroit.

Two men hurled anti-Soviet leaflets from a hotel ballroom balcony as Ambassador Nikolai Novikov was being welcomed to the city by Mayor Edward J. Jeffries, then eluded the officers who attempted to catch them as they ran out through a service entrance.

After order was restored, Novikov, opening a $200,000 drive in behalf of the Philatov Children's Hospital in Moscow, said he was "convinced that some obstacles which stand in the way of friendly co-operation" between nations "can easily be removed."

12 Die In Crash Of Army B-19 In Tennessee

JUN 13 1946

Gatlinburg, Tenn., June 12 (AP)—An Army B-29 Superfortress, on a night navigational training flight from MacDill Field, Fla., to Chicago, crashed today in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, near the Tennessee-North Carolina line, killing all twelve men aboard.

The crash occurred at Collins Gas, about a mile east of Clingman's Dome, a 6,643-foot peak, park headquarters reported. At noon, nine bodies had been removed from the wreckage.

Found By Ranger

Army authorities at MacDill Field, near Tampa, Fla., said the big bomber was last reported over Knoxville at 2.16 A.M. Planes were dispatched from the Greenville (S.C.) Army Air Base to conduct a search.

A ranger sighted the wreckage strewn about the rugged mountainside after daybreak.

The Army closed the road beyond Newfound Gap in the direction of Clingman's Dome, the highest peak in the park and second highest east of the Mississippi River, a park official declared.

Scene Of Crash

Gatlinburg, Tenn., June 12 (AP)—An Army B-29 Superfortress crashed into Clingman's Dome in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park near here and all personnel aboard were killed, a park ranger reported today.

City Manager H. F. Holt said the ranger told him the crash occurred last night when the mountain peak, second highest east of the Mississippi, was shut in by a low ceiling.

Holt said he did not know the condition of the bodies, but earlier reports were that they were scattered about the mountainside and one engine of the four-motored craft was lying in a road.

Army Closes Road In

The Army closed the road beyond Newfound Gap in the direction of Clingman's Dome, Holt said. The dome is located on the Tennessee-North Carolina boundary.

The ranger, who was not identified by Holt, reported bodies had not been removed by midmorning.

DEFENDS TIE WITH VATICAN

Cardinal Spellman Answers Critics Of Truman Policy

New York, June 12 (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman, commenting on a Protestant group's request that President Truman recall Myron C. Taylor as his personal representative at the Vatican, said today the demand might represent "the anti-Catholicism of unhooded klansmen sowing seeds of disunion within our treasured nation."

Speaking at the one hundred and first annual commencement of Fordham University, the Archbishop of New York said:

"I believe in and practice tolerance, for my religion teaches me to oppose even hatred with charity. But when reunions of large groups of religious leaders, with the pretext of representing thirty or forty million Americans, sow seeds of dissension and disunion, I feel it my duty as an American and a Catholic to help defend our nation against such representations."

Quotes Roosevelt

Yesterday the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America reported that President Truman last week had informed a delegation headed by Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, president of the Federal Council, that Taylor's appointment "was a temporary expedient . . . that would certainly terminate with the signing of the peace treaties."

[In commenting on Cardinal Spellman's address, Bishop Oxnam declared: "Cardinal Spellman knows the Roman Catholic Church does not believe in the separation of church and state. Protestants do so believe. . . . The respectful request for the termination of Mr. Taylor's appointment was made because Protestants believe it violates the American principle of separation of church and state."]

Cardinal Spellman said President Roosevelt sought through Taylor's appointment "to overcome the man-made, war-made forces of evil," and hoped "by the co-operation of leaders in religion and leaders in government to alleviate sufferings imposed upon peoples by godless men and nations and to help bring a lasting and just peace to mankind throughout the world."

Church And State Question

With reference to the Protestant group's argument that Taylor's appointment was contrary to the American principle of separation of church and state, Cardinal Spellman said Taylor's designation was the eighth time an American representative had been named to the Vatican and was "no more against the American principle of the separation of church and state than is the representation from this country to the Court of St. James's where the King is the head of both church and state."

He said he did not claim to represent 25,000,000 American Catholics, but said he believed that "in fighting bigotry, untruth and dissension, I am a representative of the spirit of freedom, justice, tolerance and charity in which is grounded the life, the spirit and the hope of the United States of America."

Peace Attainment Difficult

Declaring that one member of the Protestant delegation had conceded in press statements that Taylor's mission had been a "contribution to the peace" but should be ended with the signing of peace treaties, Cardinal Spellman said "surely these ministers of God know that even with the signing of peace treaties, peace will be difficult to attain, yet they wish withdrawn from his mission a man who, by the statements of two presidents, helped bring some measure of peace to this war-ridden world.

"What reason then have these men of religion to make such demands on the President of these United States? Is it the anti-Catholicism of unhooded klansmen sowing seeds of disunion without our treasured nation?"

Asserting that Mr. Roosevelt and Taylor were Episcopalians and President Truman was a Baptist and that Taylor was the President's personal representative rather than a Government representative, Cardinal Spellman said "the separation of church and state in this country does not and never did mean opposition or hostility on the part of the state toward the church and its policies."

Senator Asks That U.S. Get Palestine Mandate

New York, June 12 (AP)—Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Col.) called tonight for Britain to turn over to the United States her mandate over Palestine.

"Britain has proved she is unwilling and unable to carry out her responsibility with respect to the Palestine mandate," he said in an address before the American Zionist Emergency Committee.

"She is pressing us to assume all of the responsibilities. We should assume alsothe decisions."

The Colorado Senator referred to a British query as to what the United States would be willing to contribute to keep order if Palestine were to be opened to increased Jewish immigration.

Disclosing this yesterday, James F. Byrnes, Secretary of State, said he assumed London had military forces in mind.

Johnson declared, "this entire issue of the need for American troops is being trumped up for the sole purpose of scaring off this country so that they (the British) may be left to continue in Palestine their nefarious and shameful policies of playing one group against another for selfish purposes."

CELLER REFERRED TO A SPEECH IN WHICH BEVIN SAID THE CAUSE OF "THE AGITATION IN THE UNITED STATES, AND PARTICULARLY IN NEW YORK, FOR 100,000 JEWS TO BE PUT INTO PALESTINE" WAS THAT "THEY DO NOT WANT TOO MANY OF THEM IN NEW YORK."

"BEVIN IS SHOWING HIS FANGS," CELLER SAID IN A PREPARED STATEMENT. "THE STATE IS AS CRUEL AS IT IS DISHONORABLE."

Lange-U.N.-LANGE

By Francis W. Carpenter

New York, June 12--(ap)--Dr. Oscar Lange, 41, Polish ambassador to the United States and former economics professer, was reported authoritatively today to be Poland's choice as the permanent delegate on the United Nations Security Council.

These reports said that Michal Kaszorowski, Polish Minister of Reconstruction, probably would succeed Lange in the Washington post.

The selection of Dr. Lange to serve as the Polish delegate until Poland's term on the Security Council expires in 1948 would complete the permanent set-up of the Council.

However, the faces will change from time to time as the regularly designated delegates yield their seats to their foreign ministers when the cabinet members desire to sit in on the Council.

Such is the case now with Australia. Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian foreign minister, is the regular delegate and is sitting now, but Paul Hasluck will represent Dr. Evatt when the latter is not in New York.

JUN 13 1946

Another similar instance will come up this week-end when Dr. Francisco Castillo Najera, Mexican foreign minister, will replace the regularly-designated delegate, Luis Padilla Nervo, during the month that Mexico has the Council presidency. Mexico is a member until 1947.

For the United States, Herschel V. Johnson will serve as acting delegate until U.S. Senator Warren R. Austin, (R-Vt.) takes the delegate's seat in January. 3.

The United States, Great Britain, France, China, and Russia are the five permanent members of the council. The permanent representatives of the other four powers are:

Britain--Sir Alexander Cadogan, 61, a veteran of the United Nations since its formative days at Dumbarton Oaks.

France--Alexandre Parodi, 45, former French labor minister and later French ambassador to Italy.

China--Dr. Quo Tai-Chi, 56, former Chinese representative at the League of Nations.

JUN 13 1946

Russia--Andrei A. Gromyko, 38, former Soviet ambassador to the United States and a veteran of the Dumbarton Oaks [redacted]

The remaining [redacted] delegates named to serve until the terms of their countries expire are:

The Netherlands (Until 1947)--Dr. Eelco Van Kleffens, 51, foreign minister of the Dutch government [redacted] in exile during the German occupation.

[redacted] Egypt (until 1947)--Dr. Hafez Afifi Pasha.

Brazil (Until 1948)--Pedro Leao Veloso, 58, foreign minister of Brazil in the Vargas regime.

Dr. Lange plans to go to Warsaw as soon as the Council business permits to consult his government. A Polish spokesman said that the government is well satisfied with the ambassador's work.

Settling in the United States in 1937, Dr. Lange taught economics at the Universities of Chicago and California. He resumed his polish citizenship in 1944 and was made ambassador late last December.

RECENT PLEBISCITE WHICH FAVORED THE REPUBLIC BY A MARGIN OF NEARLY

IN NAPLES, HOWEVER, A PITCHED BATTLE RAGED FOR HOURS, WITH A SURGING CROWD OF 10,000 TO 20,000 MONARCHISTS BESIEGING THE SIX-STORY COMMUNIST HEADQUARTERS AND BOMBARDING IT WITH MOLOTOV COCKTAILS--BOTTLES OF GASOLIINE WITH FLAMING WICKS--IN A DETERMINED EFFORT TO DESTROY IT.

BOTH POLICE AND MONARCHIST FORCES USED AUTOMATIC WEAPONS IN THE FIGHTING AND COMMUNISTS BARRICADED IN THEIR HEADQUARTERS RETURNED THE FIRE OF THE BESIEGERS. WALTER GREEN, AN ASSOCIATED PRESS PHOTOGRAPHER, SAID HE SAW MANY PERSONS HIT BY GUNFIRE.

POLICE USED FOUR ARMORED CARS IN AN EFFORT TO BREAK UP THE CROWD, BUT THE DEMONSTRATORS CAPTURED THE VEHICLES AND THE POLICE GOT THEM BACK ONLY AFTER REINFORCEMENTS ARRIVED.

DISPATCHES FROM OTHER LARGE CITIES OF ITALY SAID PRO-REPUBLIC DEMONSTRATIONS WENT OFF WITHOUT INCIDENT DURING THE DAY--WHICH HAD BEEN PROCLAIMED A HOLIDAY TO CELEBRATE THE REPUBLIC--INCLUDING ONE IN CATANIA, IN MONARCHIST SICILY.

MIHAILOVIC ACKNOWLEDGED THAT THERE WAS COOPERATION BETWEEN A CHETNIK COMMANDER NAMED LUKACEVIC AND THE GERMANS, BUT SAID "THEY INFORMED ME ONLY OF WHAT THEY WANTED ME TO KNOW. I WAS ONLY BEING INFORMED OF THE LOCATION OF TROOP UNITS." HE SAID LUKACEVIC COOPERATED ON HIS OWN VOLITION.

Q. DID THEY FIGHT TOGETHER WITH THE GERMANS FORCES AGAINST US (THE PARTISANS)? ADD Belgrade (NLD Mihailovic) xxx eClothing (King)

A. YES.

Q. HOW WERE THEY ARMED?

A. AS BEFORE.

Q. WHERE THEY DID GET AMMUNITION?

A. FROM THE ITALIANS.

JUN 13 1946

MIHAILOVIC SAID HIS OWN PLAN IN THIS OPERATION SIMPLY WAS TO HOLD HIS TERRITORY IN HERCEGOVINA, AND THAT IT WAS NOT CONCERNED WITH FIGHTING BETWEEN THE AXIS TROOPS AND THE PARTISANS.

"THE CHETNIKS WERE BADLY LED BY THEIR UNIT COMMANDER," HE SAID. "THEY WERE NOT LED ACCORDING TO MY DIRECTIVES."

Q. WERE THE TOOPS MISINFORMED ON WHOM THEY WERE FIGHTING?

A. PERHAPS INDIVIDUAL LEADERS DID SUCH THINGS ON THEIR OWN. AS A SOLDIER I WOULD ALWAYS SAY AGAINST WHOM I WENT, BECAUSE THE TROOPS CAN SEE FOR THEMSELVES. IT IS VERY BAD FOR MORALE.

A TELEGRAM OF APRIL 8, 1943 FROM MIHAILOVIC TO HIS OPERAHIONS CHIEF OSTOJIC, INTRODUCED IN EVIDENCE AND IDENTIFIED BY THE CHETNIK LEADER AS GEUINE, SAID IN PART:

"LET US UNDERTAKE AT EVERY COST THAT NO. 22 (CODE WORD FOR "ITALIANS") SHOULD SEND AS SOON AS POSSIBLE TO RIGHT BANK OF DRAGACHEVO RIVER LEAST ONE COMPANY AND THAT THEY SHOULD OCCUPY POSITIONS ABOVE STRUGARA."

ALSO INTRODUCED WAS A TELEGRAM FROM OSTOJIC TO MIHAILOVIC SAYING THAT "NO. 22 INFORMS THAT ONE BATTALION BEEN DISPATCHED TO DRAGACHEVO RIVER." IN HIS OWN HANDWRITING, MIHAILOVIC HAD ADDED A NOTE TO THIS TELEGRAM: "ACKNOWLEDGE RECEIPT. THANKS. IT MUST BE CHECKED WHETHER BATTALION 22 HAS ACTUALLY GONE TO DRAGACHEVO RIVER."

QUESTIONED BY A DEFENSE ATTORNEY ON HIS LACK OF INFLUENCE OVER UNIT COMMANDERS, MIHAILOVIC SAID:

"WHEN RADIO PROPAGANDA WAS IN MY FAVOR, I COULD HOLD THEM IN MY HANDS. THEN THEY BECAME ALMOST INDEPENDENT DISTRICT LEADERS."

SPEAKING OF THE EVENTUAL DEFEAT, HE SAID THAT "PARTISAN TROOPS TURNED OUT BETTER THAN I EXPECTED."

MIHAILOVIC SAID THAT ONCE WHEN ATTACKING GERMANS AT BISHIGRAD HE WAS HIMSELF ATTACKED FROM THE REAR BY PARTISANS AND HAD TO RETREAT. WHEN ASKED WHY HE ATTACKED THE PARTISANS INSTEAD OF THE OCCUPIERS, HE ANSWERED, "THEY WERE ATTACKING ME."

IT APPEARED THAT FOR SEVERAL MORE DAYS THE COURT AND THE PROSECUTION UNDER YUGOSLAV JUDICIAL PROCEDURE, WOULD CONTINUE TO PRESENT THE CASE AGAINST MIHAILOVIC BEFORE HIS ATTORNEYS ARE PERMITTED TO PRESENT DEFENSE EVIDENCE.

MIHAILOVIC AND HIS 23 CO-DEFENDANTS, 10 OF WHOM ARE BEING TRIED IN ABSENTIA, UNDER YUGOSLAV PROCEDURE ARE CONSIDERED GUILTY UNTIL PROVED INNOCENT. SENTENCES MUST BE PASSED WITHIN SEVEN DAYS AFTER THE CONCLUSION OF THE TRIAL, AND THERE ARE NO APPEALS, EXCEPT FOR PARDON OR COMMUTATION, SINCE THE COURT IS THE MILITARY SECTION OF THE SUPREME COURT, THE HIGHEST IN THE LAND.

NANKING, JUNE 12-(AP)-THE SUDDEN RESURGENCE OF HOSTILITIES IN SHANTUNG PROVINCE HAS COMPLICATED GRIEVOUSLY GENERAL MARSHALL'S TASK OF PROMOTING A SETTLEMENT OF CHINA'S LONG, DRAWN-OUT CIVIL STRIFE.

THE U.S. ENVOY NEVERTHELESS HAS NOT HINTED AT GIVING UP HIS EFFORTS TO FIND A FORMULA FOR LASTING PEACE BETWEEN THE CHINESE COMMUNISTS AND CHIANG KAI-SHEK'S CENTRAL GOVERNMENT.

AS MARSHALL PHRASED IT ON HIS SWING THROUGH THE NORTH CHINA TROUBLE ZONE LAST MARCH: "I AM A MAN WHO HATES FAILURE."

SOME PEOPLE WHO KNOW CHINA AND THE CHINESE WELL SAY MARSHALL CANNOT STAND ANOTHER FAILURE -- THEY CLASS AS SUCH THE COLLAPSE OF THE JANUARY AGREEMENTS HE SPONSORED. THEY PREDICT HE WILL RETURN TO THE UNITED STATES IF HIS EFFORTS FAIL TO PRODUCE A REASONABLE HOPE OF SOME PERMANENT SETTLEMENT BEFORE JUNE 22, THE DATE THE MANCHURIAN TRUCE EXPIRES.

THERE ARE JUST AS MANY PEOPLE WHO SAY MARSHALL LOST NO FACE WITH CHINESE ON EITHER SIDE, ALTHOUGH HIS PRESTIGE MAY HAVE SUFFERED IN THE UNITED STATES AND OTHER FOREIGN COUNTRIES BECAUSE HOPES FOR A QUICK AND LASTING SOLUTION DID NOT MATERIALIZE FROM THE JANUARY AGREEMENTS.

THE COMMON REACTION OF CHINESE -- FROM THE MAN ON THE STREET TO THE HIGHEST OFFICIAL -- IS THAT MARSHALL IS THE BEST POSSIBLE CHOICE FOR MEDIATOR IN THE STRUGGLE FOR POWER BETWEEN THE KUOMINTANG (GOVERNMENT PARTY) AND THE COMMUNISTS.

JUN 13 1946

IF MARSHALL FAILS, THEY SAY, IT WILL NOT BE BECAUSE OF PERSONAL SHORT-COMINGS OR LACK OF SKILL AND EFFORT. IT WILL BE SIMPLY BECAUSE HE ATTACKED AN UNSOLVABLE PUZZLE.

AT THE MOMENT PROBABLY NOT MORE THAN ONE IN FIVE CHINESE WOULD AGREE THAT PERMANENT PEACE BETWEEN KUOMINTANG AND COMMUNISTS IS POSSIBLE. THE EFFORT MARSHALL IS THROWING INTO HIS NEGOTIATIONS INDICATES HE DOES NOT SHARE THIS PESSIMISM.

THOSE INCLINED TO THE OPTIMISTIC VIEW SEE SOME HOPE FOR A PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT IN TUESDAY'S TALK BETWEEN CHOU EN-LAI, COMMUNIST NEGOTIATOR, AND MINISTER OF COMMUNICATIONS YUI TA-WEI. THEY VIEWED THE TALK AS A SERIOUS EFFORT TO COLLABORATE ON THE VITAL ISSUE OF RESTORING CHINA'S SHATTERED COMMUNICATIONS. GENERALISSIMO CHIANG'S MEETING WITH GOVERNMENT MILITARY LEADERS WAS REGARDED AS AN INDICATION THAT THE REORGANIZATION OF COMMUNIST AND KUOMINTANG ARMIES INTO A SINGLE CHINESE FORCE WAS RECEIVING FRESH ATTENTION.

THOSE WERE ONLY INDICATIONS, HOWEVER. THERE WAS NOTHING DEFINITE IN NANKING AS TO WHAT PROGRESS WAS BEING MADE TOWARD MEETING CHIANG'S DEMAND FOR DETAILED AGREEMENTS BEFORE JUNE 22.

SPANISH CASE PUT OFF AGAIN

JUN 14 1946

Gromyko Says He Would Back New Australian Plan

M. HATTERSON

New York, June 13 (AP)—The United Nations Security Council postponed action on the controversial Spanish case again today after Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, declared Russia would not support a new proposal to refer the case to the 51-nation General Assembly.

NIGHT

The plan proposed by the Australian delegate, Herbert V. Evatt, had the support of a majority of the delegates, but Gromyko's vigorous attack raised the possibility that he might invoke the veto when debate is resumed next Monday afternoon.

The Soviet delegate, however, carefully avoided any mention of the veto. It was pointed out that in an earlier instance he had been content to express his opposition to a measure by abstaining from voting.

Action Not Challenged

At that time the other delegates let his action pass without a challenge, although there was some sentiment that under the definition of the Charter an abstention was the same in effect as a negative vote.

Some delegates expressed the belief that Gromyko was awaiting further instructions from Moscow and that he had favored a postponement because he was not yet certain what action he would take.

Gromyko objected to a number of points in the report of the Council's subcommittee on Spain, but his chief opposition was directed at the proposed action recommended by Evatt in a formal resolution.

Evatt, who had served as chairman of the subcommittee, proposed that the Council refer to the General Assembly Poland's charges that Franco Spain threatens world peace and that the Assembly be asked to call for a world-wide diplomatic break with Spain or take whatever alternative action it believed to be appropriate when it meets in September.

Flexibility Wanted

Evatt explained that he had added the latter part of his proposal at the request of Herschel V. Johnson, United States delegate, to make it "more flexible."

Johnson said the United States objected to the proposal in its original form because it would have bound the Assembly to a specific course of action without giving it any alternatives except to approve or reject the recommendations.

Evatt said the amended recommendations had been approved by the five members of the subcommittee—France, China, Brazil, Poland and Australia. During the debate it also was approved by the United States, Egypt and the Netherlands, with reservations.

Called An Evasion

Gromyko, however, called the proposal an "evasion" of responsibilities by the Council and declared that it would set a dangerous precedent which might "undermine" the entire United Nations organization.

He disagreed with the subcommittee's findings that the Franco regime was not an immediate threat to peace and that, as a result, the Council did not have jurisdiction to direct a world-wide break of relations with Spain, as Poland had demanded.

Gromyko said there was "no justification" for the Security Council to decline to take action itself on Poland's proposal and that he considered it "absolutely proper and correct" for the Council to direct a break with Franco.

Seen As Council's Responsibility

"It is the responsibility of the Security Council to see that peace is maintained," he declared. "For this reason it is the Security Council that should take action to solve the Spanish case."

He said the conclusions of the subcommittee "unfortunately cannot constitute a basis for unanimous decision" on the Spanish question.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, took no part in the discussions until near the end, when he suggested that the next meeting be held Monday instead of tomorrow. A British spokesman said later Sir Alexander still had received no instructions from his Government as to what position he should take.

Gromyko Hits Compromise On Spain

JUN 14 1946

F. CARPENTER

New York, June 13 (AP)—Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko today expressed complete disagreement with a compromise plan for the United Nations Security Council to refer the Spanish question to the General Assembly, but he did not at this point invoke his power of veto.

The Council adjourned until Monday afternoon at 2.30 P.M. (E.D.T.) with the Spanish question still undecided.

Gromyko's stand against the compromise plan as well as a bitter attack on the conclusions of the subcommittee which investigated Spain made it certain that the delegates would have to arrive at another solution if the Spanish question is to be acted on in the Council or sent forward to the Assembly.

"Dangerous Precedent"

DAY

Gromyko, who held the floor through most of today's session, condemned the compromise plan as a "dangerous" precedent which would mean that the Council has "evaded its duties."

The United States, Australia, France, Poland, China, Brazil and Egypt—a majority of the Council—backed the plan, which represented a modification of the subcommittee's report.

The Netherlands delegate, Dr. Eelco van Kleffens, sided with Gromyko in calling for action by the Security Council instead of referring the case to the General Assembly.

Reserved Position

However, van Kleffens said that in the "interests of unanimity" he would not oppose the compromise plan. He reserved his position for future discussions.

The next meeting was put over until Monday at the suggestion of Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, who has yet to tip his hand on the modified proposal brought up by Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, of Australia.

A hint as to Britain's course was seen, however, when the Labor party meeting at Bournemouth, England, yesterday refused to approve resolutions calling for a break with Franco Spain.

Second Error

The Russian delegate launched into a long review of the Spanish case. He charged that the subcommittee had arrived at an "erroneous" conclusion when it found that Franco did not at present offer a threat to world peace.

He said the subcommittee had made a second wrong conclusion when it found that the Council had no jurisdiction to direct a break with Franco.

Gromyko said the conclusions of the Council's subcommittee "unfortunately cannot constitute a basis for unanimous decision" on the Spanish question.

The subcommittee had recommended that the General Assembly call upon the United Nations to break relations with Spain if Franco is still in power in September. Under the compromise plan favored by the majority, the General Assembly would be authorized to decide when and if to call for a break in relations or take whatever action it deems appropriate.

"No Justification"

Gromyko said there "is no justification" for the Council declining to take action on Poland's original proposal to break with Franco Spain immediately.

Dr Evatt opened the Security Council session with an announcement that the subcommittee had approved modifications of its recommendations as suggested by Herschel V. Johnson, acting United States delegate. (ADD)

LaGuardia Asks Social Council To Act Quickly

L. HAUCK

New York, June 13 (AP)—F. H. LaGuardia, director general of the UNRRA, appealed today to the United Nations Economic and Social Council to act speedily to handle the world's "stock pile of human misery."

Stepping into the discussion of a report on a special committee on refugees and displaced persons, LaGuardia said:

"The future, the existence, the very lives of 837,000 persons are at stake."

The UNRRA director reiterated that his organization would cease to function December 31 and that it was up to the United Nations to come forth with some plan or organization to handle the problem.

LaGuardia's figure of 837,000 was an estimate of the number of displaced persons receiving UNRRA assistance in Europe and the Middle East.

The report of the committee, which is under study by the Council, sets 1,675,000 as the figure for the number of refugees and displaced persons in Europe, Africa and the Middle East receiving assistance from, or being the concern of the UNRRA, the League of Nations high commissioner for refugees, the intergovernmental committee on refugees and United States Government.

FREEDOM OF PRESS PLAN IS APPROVED

NEW YORK, June 13 — (AP)

A drafting committee consisting of 12 of the 18 members of the United Nations Economic and Social council today approved a proposal for the creation of a subcommission on freedom of information.

The committee left undecided, however, whether the sub-commission should be composed of government representatives or non-governmental experts, pending a general study of personnel in all groups.

Today's action virtually assured approval of the proposal when it goes before the Economic and Social council next week.

SOVIET SIGNS TREATY WITH AFGHANISTAN

LONDON, June 13 — (AP) The Moscow radio said tonight that Russia and Afghanistan have signed an agreement fixing a boundary between the two countries.

"The agreement provides for a demarcation frontier x x x along the middle of the rivers Amu-Darya and Panja, redemarcation of land sectors on the Soviet-Afghan frontier as well as the regulation of certain other questions," the radio said.

BRITAIN TO REFORM SCHOOL SYSTEM ON DEMOCRATIC LINES

JUN 14 1946

G. Williams

BOURNEMOUTH, England, June 13.—(AP) Minister of Education Ellen Wilkinson proclaimed tonight the government's intention to reform Britain's educational system and "remove those class distinctions which are a handicap to democracy."

NIGHT

"My colleagues and I," Britain's only woman minister told the Labor party's annual conference, "are to see that no boy or girl is debarred by lack of means from taking a course of education for which he or she is qualified.

"My aim is to make the schools provided by the state so good and so varied that it will just seem quite absurd not to send the children to them."

Earlier the conference defeated by substantial majorities two resolutions on conscription, one urging its discontinuance and the other recommending that youths of less than 21 be exempted from the draft. The conference approved a resolution criticizing government agricultural policies and demanding improved working conditions for farmers.

Herbert Morrison, lord president of the council, gave a preview of what Britons may expect this year and next and of his plans for full employment.

He said that next year "will still be pretty rough and there will be grim aspects. The famine threat may well dominate."

"If, unhappily, a depression were to take place in the United States—which heaven forbid—or if a world depression were to occur, we are preparing to do what is possible to avoid repercussions on the economic life of our own country," he said.

WARNS LABORITES OF A 'TOUGH' 1947

G. Williams

Bournemouth, England, June 13 (A. P.).—Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council, told the Labor party's conference today that British reconversion would be completed this year, "but 1947 will still be pretty tough."

DAY

"The famine threat may well dominate" next year, Morrison said. He opened a debate on the Labor Government's handling of man power and economics. Morrison said 1947 "will be a year of tight supplies and lack of elbow room, but we can reasonably look forward to an increase of imports."

Morrison said industrial reconversion was progressing smoothly under the Labor Government's planning. He contrasted the change-over to "the muddle, the inflation and then the smash which was characteristic of industrial conversion under Tory and capitalistic handling at the end of the previous war."

"If unhappily a depression were to occur in the United States—which heaven forbid—or if a world depression were to occur, we are preparing to avoid repercussions on the economic life of our own country," he said.

SEES NEED FOR FUSION

BOURNEMOUTH, England, June 13—(AP) Leon Blum told the British Labor party conference today that a Socialist-Communist fusion was the only kind of government that could win popular support in continental Europe. France's one-time Socialist premier spoke as a fraternal delegate.

M. P. IS REWARDED

Southampton, June 13 (A. P.).—The official gold chain of the Mayor of Lymington, stolen yesterday from the Town Hall, was returned today by an American Military Policeman, Sgt. Robert R. Eisenberger of Lancaster, Pa.

DAY

Eisenberger bought the chain for $6 yesterday from a shabbily dressed man—"partly to get rid of him and also as a souvenir. I had no idea it was stolen until I read about it in the papers."

The sergeant said the Mayor "received me in his parlor and thanked me heartily. Then we had a drink and he gave me £2 to replace what I paid for the chain." Presented to the seaside village in 1877, the chain is valued at $800.

No Change Expected In U.S. Big 4 Policy

L. HAUCK

Paris, June 13 (AP)—James F. Byrnes, Secretary of State, will stand pat on American policy on disputed points of Europe's peace treaties during the Foreign Ministers session, scheduled to resume Saturday, a member of the American delegation said today on arrival from Washington.

This source said Byrnes had the backing of Republican and Democratic party leaders to maintain the American position in the face of Soviet opposition and predicted a short and fruitless session unless Russia yielded.

The vanguard of the American delegation arrived by plane today for the session, expected to decide whether Europe is to be united or divided into eastern and western spheres. Thirty-six members of the Soviet delegation arrived by plane from Moscow via Berlin this afternoon.

Byrnes and Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Russian Foreign Minister, are expected about noon tomorrow, and the British Foreign Secretary, Ernest Bevin, about 4.30 P.M. Byrnes and Senators Connally (D., Texas) and Vandenberg (R., Mich.) left Washington by plane shortly after noon today. (ADD)

LOOKS AT INFLATION

Paris, June 13 (A. P.).—The Monetary Relations Committee of the International Chamber of Commerce declared yesterday that "severe danger of a repetition" of the inflationary disasters that followed the first world war existed in most nations.

Committee Chairman W. Randolph Burgess, vice-chairman of the National City Bank of New York, commenting on a report unanimously approved by the committee, said the present state of world instability might last for some years.

The report, which is to be submitted to the sixty-fourth I. C. C. council session on June 20, said the world's inflationary tendency was due to large accumulations of purchasing power, deficits, cheap money policies, shortage of goods, deficient production, "and rising costs are largely to higher wages."

The report continued that "with the world in its present disordered state," any immediate improvement is not possible and "palliative measures and relief are essential in the interim period."

French-Yugoslav Trade Accord

ANSCHLUSS STORY RELATED IN COURT BY AUSTRIAN AIDE

JUN 14 1946

T. REEDY

NUERNBERG, Germany, June 13.—(AP) The International Military Tribunal heard today that Adolf Hitler intimidated Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg into surrendering Austria during an all day session at Berchtesgaden while glaring German generals were used as stage props.

NIGHT

Dr. Guido Schmidt, who resigned as Schuschnigg's foreign minister when Hitler forced the Anschluss in 1938, told the story during the cross examination of Arthur Seyss-Inquart, on trial with 21 other high German figures as war criminals. He said the crisis was planned carefully.

Schmidt said Franz von Papen, also a defendant but then ambassador to Austria, planned the "conference." He met the Austrians at the border and took them to Hitler's mountain roost. There Schuschnigg was taken to a private conference. Although he normally smoked 70 cigarets a day, he was forbidden any because Hitler didn't like smoke.

Schmidt said Hitler railed "violently" at Schuschnigg. Every once in a while Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel or Field Marshal Walter von Reichenau would stroll in and out of the conference in full regalia.

Once, he said, when Keitel, another defendant, was called in, Schuschnigg said he was afraid "this is the end." He said both he and Schuschnigg feared they never would be allowed to leave unless they agreed to Hitler's demands and yielded their country.

When the day ended, Schmidt said Schuschnigg finally capitulated and consented to appoint Seyss-Inquart chief of security and restore the Nazis to legal status and grant economic concessions.

The presiding judge, Lord Justice Goeffrey Lawrence, proposed earlier today that final speeches for the defendants should be limited to a total of 14 days. The defense protested and argued against "infringment" of their rights most of the morning. The court said the prosecution had agreed to limit its summation to three days. The trial started Nov. 20. Five more defense cases remain to be heard.

Defense Limitation At Nuernberg Hit

Nuernberg, June 13 (AP)—The international military tribunal proposed today that final speeches on behalf of twenty Nazi leaders on trial on war-crime charges be limited to a total of fourteen days and defense attorneys immediately protested that their rights were being infringed.

DAY

Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence, president of the tribunal, said the prosecution had voluntarily offered to restrict its final summation to three days. He declared a limitation should be placed "on this already long trial," which started last November 20.

"Almost Impossible"

Dr. Otto Nelte, counsel for Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, objected that this was a "regrettable decision against the elementary right of defense" and it would be almost impossible for defense attorneys to apportion the two weeks equitably.

Assistant American Prosecutor Thomas Dodd and Soviet Prosecutor Gen. R. A. Rudenko upheld the court's view, contending the defense is having adequate time to submit its case during individual presentations for each defendant.

Told To Apportion Time

Justice Lawrence pointed out to the German attorneys that their summaries should only cover the "main points" in argument.

Indicating that the decision would stand, Lawrence told the lawyers to get together and try to figure out an apportionment before they said it was impossible.

The court took up most of the morning session discussing the problem, then turned to continued examination of witnesses for Arthur Seyss-Inquart, whose defense is being concluded.

CRUEL TREATMENT OF U. S. SOLDIERS

DENIED BY OFFICER

D. DOANE

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany, June 13—(AP) Lt. Granville Cubage today denied personal guilt for brutalities to American soldiers in the Lichfield, England, guardhouse and checked to his superior officers all responsibility for disciplinary policies th

NIGHT

The 27-year-old Oklahoma City officer testified that instructions given Lichfield prison guards came from Col. James A. Kilian of Highland Park, Ill., former commander of the 10th reinforcement depot at Lichfield. Kilian will go on trial next Monday.

Cubage said Kilian—"pounding his desk vigorously"— once ordered him to have a soldier prisoner taken "out to the rifle range" for a "working over" and cautioned only "don't break too many bones."

"Everyone knows that on occasions someone's going to get a bump on the head," Cubage quoted Kilian. "There are a lot of things you can get away with. When you take a man out of sight and work him over no one will know it except the man."

Then when the trials of guards accused of cruelty began last December in London, Cubage related, Kilian "had me up to his room and told me what I should and shouldn't say 'for the good of everyone.'"

"His theory was to deny everything," the lieutenant testified. "He said we had to stick together and tell the same story."

Lawyers indicated his case will be concluded tomorrow. He is one of six officers accused in the Lichfield cases. Three enlisted men have been convicted, with seven enlisted men yet to be tried.

Cubage is accused specifically of authorizing, aiding and abetting the imposition of cruel and unusual punishment on guardhouse prisoners.

He admitted instructing guards that they "could use their clubs on prisoners in case of mutiny or disorder" but denied he ever said they could "beat men to the floor" as several witnesses testified.

'Prison Officer' Title Denied By Cubage

JUN 14 1946

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 13 (AP)—Lieut. Granville Cubage, taking the witness stand in his own defense, denied to a military court today that he was "prison officer" of the United States Army's Lichfield (England) guardhouse during the time he is accused of authorizing cruel treatment against imprisoned soldiers.

DAY

The Oklahoma City officer said his duties were those of "supply and shipment officer."

He named Lieut. Col. Norton, whom he did not further identify, as the official prison officer, although he said Norton did not actually perform such duties. They were performed, he said, by Major Richard E. Lobuono, of East Pittsburgh, Pa., Capt. Joseph A. Robertson, of Akron, Ohio, a "Captain Allen" and a "Captain Sullivan."

Request For Recess Denied

Cubage began testifying after the court denied his request for an indefinite recess until he could obtain the testimony of five officers who refused to answer the questions of his attorney. Among the five were Lobuono and Robertson.

Cubage's attorney, Lieut. Col. William E. Parker, of East Hampton, Mass., who said he was attempting to establish through the officer witnesses that Cubage was not officially responsible for mistreatment in the guardhouse, declared their refusal to answer questions "has placed an unreasonable burden on the accused."

Prerogative Involved

The officers, who all face similar charges, invoked an army prerogative which permits witnesses to remain silent if their testimony might incriminate them.

Those refusing are Col. James A. Kilian, of Highland Park, Ill., former commander of the 10th Reinforcement Depot at Lichfield; Lobuono, former Lichfield provost marshal; Major Herbert H. Blum, of Chicago, former depot inspector; Lieut. Leonard W. Ennis, of Peekskill, N.Y., a former Lichfield executive officer, and Robertson.

MORE GEMS FOUND IN GERMAN CACHE BY ARMY PROBERS

R. O'REAGAN

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 13—(AP) Army authorities today announced the finding in a German hideaway of a portion of the Hesse crown jewels valued at $40,000 to $50,000, and said they believed the entire haul of $1,500,000 now had been recovered.

Three officers arrested in connection with the theft of the jewels from Kronberg castle will be tried in Frankfurt.

NIGHT

The last cache of more than 100 pieces of jewelry including bracelets and necklaces, was found where Maj. David F. Watson—arrested here—"had said they would be."

Watson "told us where they would be found. It wasn't a very romantic place," said Col. James F. Shea, executive officer of the European theater provost marshal.

Shea indicated that some innocent person, possibly a German, had been holding the jewels and said "no further arrests are expected here."

"Col. J. W. Durant and his wife, Capt. Kathleen D. Nash, will be brought to Germany from the United States and we expect them to be tried with Watson," he said.

Headquarters command officers said the charges against the trio had not yet been settled.

Shea said details of the finding of the portion of jewels in Germany could not be given out because that "would interfere with the prosecution of the case."

EX-SOLDIER CLEARED IN HESSE GEM THEFT

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP)—Roy C. Carlton, former soldier said by authorities to have participated in the finding of the $1,500,000 Hesse crown jewels in Kronberg Castle, was cleared today of any complicity in their removal to this country.

"Carlton voluntarily submitted to questioning and it has been decided that he should not be further detained," a War Department statement said. At the same time the Customs Bureau announced that he "is not being detained." The statements thus corrected a War Department spokesman who had told reporters yesterday that Mr. Carlton had been arrested.

Today's development left Wac Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant, Col. Jack Wyant Durant, her bridegroom, and Maj. David F. Watson, all now in custody, as the only persons accused.

More Gems Found, Trial In Reich

JUN 14 1946

R. O'REAGAN

Frankfurt, Germany, June 13 (AP). The Army said today that $40,000 to $50,000 worth of the Hesse family jewels had been recovered in Germany and that three officers arrested in the case would be tried in Frankfurt.

"Col. J. W. Durant and his wife, Capt. Kathleen D. Nash, will be brought to Germany from the United States and we expect them to be tried with Major David F. Watson," said Col. James J. Shea, executive officer of the European theater provost marshal's office.

Charges Already Decided

DAY

Headquarters command officers said the charges against the three officers and a former army corporal had not yet been settled.

The missing portion of the $1,500,000 jewel haul was recovered by the Army's criminal investigation agents after a four-day search.

The investigation agents were led by Lieut. Col. Eugene Smith, of Wilmington, Del.

"We believe the Army now has the entire lopt back," Colonel Shea said.

Sees No More Arrests

He said the jewels were found where Major Watson "said they would be—it wasn't in a very romantic place."

He indicated the missing gems had been held by some innocent person—possibly a German—and said "no further arrests are expected here."

The official statement said the jewels would be displayed in the I. G. Farben Building, headquarters of American forces in Europe, and more details of the recovery might be released then.

Trial In Germany Expected

Major Watson was arrested here last Sunday in connection with the theft after his former superior officer, Col. J. W. Durant, had been taken into custody in Chicago by officers investigating the theft of treasure from Kronberg Castle.

Army officials in the United States have indicated that the jewels will be returned to the House of Hesse.

Watson's interrogation, according to the announcement today, produced the clues which led criminal-investigation agents to that part of the treasure still left in Germany. Many other jewels have been found in the United States.

the Army newspaper Stars and Stripes said Military Government officers were perplexed as to whether nudism was contrary to the moral aims of the occupation.

A blonde university student told an investigator that her Munich group of thirteen women and seven male nudists was typical.

"With the present low food ration, the greatest amount of sun rays we absorb all over is very healthful for us," she said, "sex is far removed from our thoughts."

A military government official said he was sure nudist clubs were contrary to the Bavarian and American moral codes, but he wasn't sure whether it was a problem for the education and religious officer, the public safety officer, or the civil administration.

"But if the Germans applied for permission to organize as hiking clubs, a recreation which we encourage, there is no way we could check to see if they are hiking or taking off clothes," he admitted.

ITALIAN KING GOES TO EXILE IN PORTUGAL

JUN 14 1946

Umberto Quits Country After Protest Against Cabinet Action

a revolutionary gesture.

In a proclamation to the 41-year-old Umberto, who was King for little more than a month, declared he was abandoning Italian soil only to avert civil war.

Answering him, the Cabinet issued a statement which described Umberto's proclamation as a "painful document based on falsehoods." The statement added that the King's sudden departure from Italy "had been carefully kept concealed from the Government."

Lands In Barcelona

The four-engined plane carrying Umberto and his party landed in Barcelona at 8.50 P.M., a dispatch from the Spanish city said. This account said Umberto was expected to spend the night in Barcelona and continue on today to Lisbon, where the Queen and four royal children arrived last week, possibly without additional halts.

Rome and the nation reacted calmly. A small group gathered in the square before the royal palace here, but there were no reports of either monarchist or republican demonstrations in the capital or elsewhere. His departure had been preceded by three days of violent clashes between the rival groups in Rome, Naples and other Italian cities.

In his bitterly phrased proclamation, made public five hours after his departure, Umberto charged that the Cabinet had acted illegally in naming Premier Alcide de Gasperi provisional chief of state while he still was on the throne. This action of the Cabinet early yesterday provoked the showdown.

Court Affirmation Expected

With the Supreme Court generally expected to reaffirm definitely the republican victory in the June 2 plebiscite, Umberto's proclamation was interpreted as a last move by monarchists to lay the groundwork for the eventual return of the crown by charging that the republic was installed by a coup d'état.

Gen. Adolfo Infante, the King's aide-de-camp, said that Umberto would in any event consider himself still the legal chief of state until the court gives a ruling on monarchist charges that the plebiscite which ousted the House of Savoy was tainted with fraud. The court is expected to hand down its decision June 18.

Implementing his statement that he was leaving Italy to avoid civil war, Umberto declared he was releasing [illegible] their oath of loyalty to the [illegible]—"but not to the nation"—[illegible]se who had sworn it. These are, [illegible]stly members of the armed for[illegible]

Shakes Hands With Friends

Umberto was dressed in a gray business suit and wore a gray hat as he arrived at Ciampino airfield for his departure. Moving among the small groups of people surrounding the plane, the King shook hands with his friends or kissed individuals on the cheek.

As the King's plane passed over Rome the royal flag which had flown from the topmost turret of the Royal Palace since 1870 was slowly lowered. A witness at the brief ceremony said a functionary kissed the flag as it dropped into his arms and sadly carried it away.

In its statement the Cabinet hinted that the proclamation may not have been written by the King at all. The statement declared that the King personally had recognized "more than once the correct attitude" of the Cabinet during the negotiations, "which is something the writer of the proclamation seems to ignore."

Later Completion Rumored

There are rumors, the statement added, that the proclamation, issued by the Royal House five hours after the King's departure, had been left by Umberto in outline form to be completed in Rome.

Denying Umberto's accusation of a "revolutionary gesture," the Cabinet said its order of the day investing de Gasperi with the powers of the chief of state "did not in any way indicate an actual assumption of the powers" by the Premier "but merely raised the question of principle."

The statement reaffirmed the Cabinet's contention that the Italian republic automatically came into being on June 10 when the Supreme Court proclaimed that backers of a republic had won the plebiscite by a margin of 2,000,000 votes.

Continued To Negotiate

Nevertheless, the statement said, the Cabinet had continued to deal with Umberto in an attempt to find an amicable solution to the King's objections.

Umberto's proclamation said:

"I raise my protest against the violence which has been committed—a protest made in the name of the crown of all the people, both home and abroad, who have the right to see their destiny determined with respect for law and in a way which should dispel every doubt and every suspicion."

Called Arbitrary Act

He described the Cabinet's action as "revlutionary," and accused the Government of "assuming by a unilateral and arbitrary act powers which do not belong to it."

De Gasperi's elevation, he added, confronted him with the alternative "of provoking bloodshed or of yielding to violence."

In this dilemma, the King said, he felt it was his duty to act in such a way that "other sorrows and further tears should be spared the people which already has suffered so much.

"I have confidence that the magistracy, whose tradition of independence and liberty are one of the glories of Italy, will be able to speak freely, but not wishing to meet abuse of authority with force, I leave the soil of my country in the hope of saving Italians from new griefs and new pains."

Warns Against Discord

In the interest of the country's unity Umberto urged his supporters and those "whose souls rebel against injustice" to follow his own example in seeking to avoid dissension. Discord, he warned, not only would jeopardize unity of the country but "might render more onerous the conditions of peace."

General Infante said it was untrue that the monarch had decided to withdraw at the request of Allied authorities, as reported by the monarchist newspaper Giornale della Ser. United States Rear Admiral Ellery W. Stone, chief Allied commissioner for Italy, also said this was "completely false."

Earlier it had been reported that the King would leave for the San Rossoro estate in northern Italy, to await the decision of the court on the electoral frauds. It was understood that the King had given tacit approval to the Cabinet action appointing de Gasperi chief of state.

Socialist Vice Premier Pietro Nenni said that the returns showed 24,877,300 Italians had voted, 1,525,628 of whom cast blank or invalid ballots. The Republicans won by nearly 2,000,000 votes, not counting those invalid or blank.

King Quits Italy, Flies To Exile In Portugal

GB JUN 14 1946

Rome, June [illegible]—The royal palace announced today that King Umberto had left Italy for exile in Portugal.

A spokesman at the Quirinale Palace press office said the King's four-engined Savoia-Marchetti plane, which took off from the Campino Airport [illegible] go "direct to Lisbon."

DAY

Thus the King ended his three-day struggle with the Cabinet over whether a republic triumphed in a plebiscite ten days ago.

Farewell Hints Finality

Earlier in the day, it had been reported that the King would go to his estate near Pisa to await the Supreme Court's ruling on plebiscite irregularities which he contended, made the court's announcement of a Republican victory "indefinite." But the finality of the tearful farewells at the airport indicated even before the official announcement that he was leaving Italian soil.

Gasperi Acting Ruler

The rejected monarch's moves came as Premier Alcide de Gasperi was granted new powers as acting chief of state in a temporary compromise solution of Italy's political crisis.

Military personnel at the airport refused to discuss the King's destination but farewells, marked by cheek-kissing and in several cases tears, looked final.

Queen Maria Jose and her two children went to Portugal aboard an Italian cruiser last week, soon after it became apparent that Italy had voted to overturn the Royal House of Savoy in favor of a republic. Umberto's father, tired old King Vittorio Emanuele III, went into exile in Egypt on May 9, clearing the throne for his son for a month.

Small Crowd Sees Him Off

The King and his party left the palace in five automobiles. A small crowd of about 50 Italians was at the airport. Many were soldiers and some shouted "Long live the King" as the party drove onto the field.

Earlier in the week, bloody riots had erupted in Naples, Taranto and Rome, provoked by Umberto's reluctance to quit the throne until the Supreme Court ruled on petitions charging fraud in the election that deposed him.

The King wore a gray business suit and flannel hat and carried no topcoat. Not all the King's party boarded the plane. Some bade him farewell at the shipside.

Flies In Direction Of Pisa

The plane headed northwest in the direction of Pisa, where the King's San Rossore estate is located. It had been reported last night that he planned to go to Pisa to await developments. No clearance papers, generally required for trips to foreign soil, were filed for the plane at the airport.

Umberto wore a gray business suit and a gray hat. Several small groups gathered about his plane. The King visited them all, shaking hands or kissing individuals on the cheek. AP Photographer Walter Green was the last to shake the retiring King's hand as he entered the plane.

"As the King neared each group of Italian military personnel, they came to a smart salute and the King shook hands," Green said.

King Last To Board Plane

"There was a crowd of people in the background cheering the King, and it kept increasing until it numbered 300 or 400. When it got pretty big, American military policemen came along and dispersed it. There was no disorder.

"Several in the crowd saying good-by—men and women alike—had tears in their eyes. But the King was smiling most of the time. He was the last person aboard the plane."

"He stopped in the doorway and said several words to the little group waiting below.

"Then I went up to him and said, 'Sir, I'm from the Associated Press, and I'd like to get a picture of you waving good-by to the crowd.' I had already made several other pictures.

Waves Hat For Picture

"The King shook hands with me, took off his hat, waved it and smiled broadly. I made the picture. The door closed and the plane wheeled out onto the runway and five minutes later took off."

Members of the Cabinet had no comment at once. Several of them, Minister of the Interior Giuseppe Romita included, denied knowing that the King had gone.

YANK QUOTED BY MIHAILOVIC

JUN 14 1946

Defense May Try To Call U.S. Colonel As Witness

W. King 9

Belgrade, June 13 (AP)—Gen. Draja Mihailovic said today that the chief of the United States mission to his Chetnik headquarters had advised a Nazi major at a conference in September, 1944, that Germany was vanquished and the Nazis in Yugoslavia should turn their arms over to Mihailovic.

Mihailovic testified that he and the American, Col. Robert H. McDowell, had met the Germans twice because it was arranged wrong the first time." He said that the Nazi major had tried to raise the question of "the danger of communism in Europe," but McDowell [illegible]. You need not worry.

NIGHT

A reliable source said that defense attorneys were planning to ask the Yugoslav military court trying Mihailovic on charges of treason for permission to call McDowell as a defense witness.

Americans May Testify

American airmen rescued by Mihailovic's forces may be sought as defense witnesses, but this is not in defense plans for the present.

This informant said that the testimony of British Colonels William Bailey and Hudson, liaison officers at Mihailovic's headquarters, also would be requested. Mihailovic has testified that Bailey advised him to destroy Marshal Tito's Partisan forces so that the way would be cleared for an Allied invasion of the Dalmatian coast, and that Hudson brought with him instructions from British Middle East headquarters in Cairo saying the command there believed Mihailovic's men should "fight for Yugoslavia and not for the Communist cause or Soviet Russia."

In London the British Foreign Office announced that a note had been delivered to the Yugoslav Government challenging it to prove allegations made against Bailey, Hudson and a Colonel Masterson at the opening of the trial.

Testifies With Reluctance

[The Foreign Office also released statements by Bailey denying that he had made any declaration to Mihailovic regarding the necessity of liquidating Communists, and from Hudson asserting that notes were delivered both to the Chetniks and Partisans urging them to fight for Yugoslavia and not for any other power, "either Russia or Great Britain."]

Mihailovic testified that in September, 1944, he and McDowell met Major Hans Sterker, an envoy from Dr. Herman Neubacher, reichsminister of foreign policy for southeast Europe.

Testifying with obvious reluctance, the bearded Chetnik leader said the meeting at Prajani was arranged by Milan Acimovic, a representative of the commissioner's government—the group which acted under the German occupation prior to formation of the quisling government of Premier Milan Nedic.

Tries To Pin Down Mihailovic

Mihailovic said that "Colonel McDowell told Sterker Germany was defeated and would capitulate and told him 'the arms you have must be turned over to General Mihailovic.'"

"Those were the main points of the meeting," said Mihailovic. "It might have lasted three quarters of an hour. . . . I would not have received him (Sterker) unless Colonel McDowell was with me."

A document read by the court said McDowell was accompanied by an American named Lalic, whose first name was not available.

The court president tried to pin down Mihailovic on the definition of the crime committed by his commanders, whom Mihailovic admitted had collaborated with the Germans.

"My Greatest Enemy"

"Is it treason?" the court asked.

"It is bad work," Mihailovic replied.

"Is it treason?" the court pressed.

"It is difficult for me to say that," Mihailovic answered.

Mihailovic described the late wartime puppet Premier Nedic as "a man completely washed out mentally," and said that he was "my greatest enemy."

Mihailovic admitted having a conference with Nedic in August, 1944, but denied that the meeting resulted in a promise of arms for his troops in exchange for an agreement not to use arms against the Germans.

Tells Of Weariness

Mihailovic was asked if he issued an order in January, 1944, for his units to join with Germans and Lejeticites (quisling militia) in an attack upon a proletarian division, one of Marshal Tito's specially honored units.

He said he did not recall issuing the order but admitted his units did take part in the fight because "it was something I was forced to do. In this case I was attacked by the Partisans in an area that belonged to me and I had to defend myself."

When faced with a contradiction between the record of his prison interrogation and his testimony, Mihailovic said:

"There are moments with me when I am so tired I say yes when I mean no . . . even now I can say yes."

Asked if he was tired, Mihailovic replied, "I'd rather finish with this," but the court decreed a recess.

Asked Nazi Surrender, Gen. Mihailovic Says

JUN 14 1946

Belgrade, June 13 (AP)—Gen. Draja Mihailovic told the Yugoslav military court today that he and Col. Robert H. McDowell, chief of a United States mission to Chet-nik headquarters in 1944, in a conference with Germans that year proposed that they turn over their arms to the fleeing chieftain "in view of their coming defeat."

Marshal Tito's Government in its indictment of Mihailovic charged that he and McDowell held parleys with the Germans in 1944.

Quotes The U.S. Man

Mihailovic, testifying with apparent reluctance today, said he and McDowell refused to discuss the "danger of Communism" with a German officer named Sterker, a deputy of the chief of the administrative staff of the German command in Yugoslavia, in September, 1944.

"You need not worry about it," Mihailovic quoted McDowell as saying when Sterker attempted to bring up the question of the "danger of Communism in Europe."

"Colonel McDowell told him Germany was defeated and would capitulate and told him, 'The arms you have must be turned over to General Mihailovic,'" the defendant testified.

Criticizes Indictment

"Those were the main points of the meeting," Mihailovic went on. "It might have lasted three quarters of an hour. . . I would not have received him [Sterker] unless Colonel McDowell had been with me."

Then, pointing to the indictment, he added, "This is not correct in the charge, or somebody is trying to give the wrong impression."

He said he and McDowell met the Germans twice, because "it was arranged wrongly the first time."

Defense Would Call Allies

A document read by the court said McDowell was accompanied by an American captain named Lalic.

A reliable source said defense attorneys were planning to ask court permission to call McDowell, and also Col. William Bailey and a Colonel Hudson, British liaison officers at Mihailovic's headquarters, as witnesses for the defendant.

May Try To Call Flyers

Milhailovic testified yesterday that Bailey advised him to destroy Tito's Partisan forces so that the way would be clear for an Allied landing in Dalmatia. He has also testified that Hudson brought instructions from British Middle East headquarters at Cairo.
